German songs are now the fashion in society, and musical reporters are having a hard time in trying to determine the difference in sound between murdered English and eliminated German.—Boston Globe.

"Our people desire extempore sermons, and yet you persist in using notes." Famishing pastor—"My dear brother, as I never have any notes in my pocket book to use, you should not object to my using them in the pulpit.—Philadelphia Call.

The Wasp.

The wasp is found in most all countries, but seems to have more business on his mind in North America than anywhere else. He keeps both standard and solar time, and is always ready to fill an engagement by either. He doesn't care so much about what he eats, but he is very domestic and must have a home. This is generally located under the eaves of a building insured for its full value, though it sometimes hangs from the limb of a tree or bush. As no wasp expects to live to see the new year come in he doesn't break his back to lay in a store of pork and potatoes, and it makes no difference to him whether coal goes up or down. He spends the time from May to October in sloshing around, attending county fairs, horse races and wrestling matches, and having more or less to do in the harvest field and around cider mills. It is a disputed point whether the wasp can bite harder than the bull dog, but the weight of opinion is in favor of the wasp. He seems mad about something all the time, and it doesn't make any difference whether his victim is the babe in the cradle or the father in the barnyard. Five months is the average life of the wasp, and he is heard from about as often as any other insect on the programme.—Detroit Free Press.

The Montana Turnip.

"That's a good-looking diamond you are wearing," said a Far Westerner to a waiter in the restaurant at the Northwestern Depot.

"It's a two-karat stone," said the waiter, leaning over the counter.

"What did it cost?"

"Two hundred dollars."

"I've got something here myself," said the eater, going down into his pocket and pulling out a big gold nugget.

"What do you call that?" asked the waiter, with a short breath.

"No karat about that stone," said the Western man, weighing the nugget in the palm of his hand. "That, sir, is a Montana turnip."—Chicago Herald.

A Heavy Weight.

Some thousands of people visited Princes End Tipton, to witness the funeral of Mr. Samuel Murfitt, who was recently exhibited as the largest man in the world. The deceased, who died on Friday after a few days' illness, was a native of Wisbington, Cambridgeshire, and was fifty-five years of age. Height, 6 feet 1 inch; weight, 40 stone (560 pounds); girth of waist, 100 inches, and he measured 30 inch round the calf of the leg. A hearse could not be found large enough for the deceased's removal, and the body had to be conveyed on a dray. The sashes had to be removed from the windows, and [illegible] were employed to get the coffin through the window on to the dray.—[illegible] Globe.

In an area of 160 [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 7, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The alliterative head-line fiend of the Montgomery Dispatch's editorial staff ought to apply for a patent or copyright on his wonderful productions.

The Washington Post remarks that the difference between Admiral Farragut and Senator Jones, of Florida, lies in the fact that the former was lashed to the mast and the latter was mashed to the last.

Blaine, in taking the swing around the country, will, after visiting his daughter in the Indian Territory, return by the Southern route and stop at New Orleans, Nashville, Montgomery and other Southern cities.

It is now stated the Inter-state Commerce Commissioners do not propose to do anything until they thoroughly master the mysteries of the several provisions and understand the law and as no one yet has thoroughly understood it there appears to be no reason why railroad officials should be much concerned for the present.

Dr. J. T. B. Foard, the defaulting Superintendent of Education of Escambia county, returned to Evergreen and surrendered himself to the Sheriff on Monday. He has been wandering over the country from New York to Florida, and becoming tired of wandering he surrendered himself and offers to take the consequences.

Paul Tulane, the founder of that great institution, Tulane University, New Orleans, died at Princeton, N. J., on the 27th ult., aged 86 years. Mr. Tulane was a Frenchman, but was born in this country, and was for fifty-four years a successful merchant in New Orleans. His donations to the Tulane fund now amount to $1,100,000, and yield an annual revenue of $70,000.

It is evident that the whiskey sellers are to have a hard time in Blount county. The Blountsville Dispatch says: If Blount could get a jury that could tell where men get their liquor by a whiff of their breath they could give the solicitor many very nice cases and from what we learn the last Grand Jury came near filling the bill. We need that sort of a jury down this way, and then we might "make Rome howl" some more.

The Birmingham Age writes a column editorial on "the nineteen columns of delinquent tax advertising in the agricultural county of Perry." The Age is badly mistaken this time. It is not in Perry but in Marion county just northeast of Jefferson where these tax sales are being made. The Age in attempting to show how one of our best agricultural counties is "going to the devil" gives one of the counties of the "booming" mineral district a very hard blow. Better learn something of the geography of the State.

The president gave Alabama a place on the inter-state commission, but it was the smallest place. One of the commissioners holds six years, another five, another four, another three and the last two years. Northern democrats and republicans are all tarred with the same stick. If there is anything going they give the south the least possible share, and only do that in the hope of deriving some benefit in return; and the southern people are fools enough to go into raptures over the refuse morsels that are thrown to them now and then to keep them in a good humor.—Fort Payne Journal.

If John Sherman does not by this time feel a hearty and genuine contempt for the south and her people, it is not because he has not sufficient reasons for such a sentiment. If there ever has been a remorseless inveterate and implacable abuser of the south, Sherman is the man, and yet at several places on his tour he was received with honors and treated as if he was a decent sort of a man. He would be something more than human if he did not entertain a feeling of hearty contempt for a people who seem to have not a spark of manly resentment for injuries received at his hands and the slanders and falsehoods he has poured out upon them for a quarter of a century.—Fort Payne Journal.

COOSA RIVER.

Committees Appointed to Further the Work.

The president of the Coosa River Convention has announced the exectutive committee for expediting the opening of the Coosa river, as follows:

Jos. Hodgson, Mobile, chairman; D. B. Hamilton, Rome; W. W. Screws, Montgomery; Thos. Williams, Wetumpka; W. M. Meeks, Gadsden; S. W. John, Selma; Jno. J. Seay, Rome; J. W. Dimmick, Montgomery; W. H. Ross, Mobile; P. D. Parker, Mobile; H. C. Tompkins, Montgomery; W. H. Raymond, Selma; Jno. H. Caldwell, Jacksonville; W. C. Little, Mobile.

He has announced as the committee to investigate the cause of delay in opening the locks at Greensport, the following; Jno J. Seay, Rome, chairman; Joel Brenham, Rome; R. B. Kyle, Etowah; W. C. McWilliams, Rome; T. W. Francis, Calhoun.

The "nigger question" has been again started by the entering of three negro military companies at the Washington National competitive drill. The Montgomery companies will in consequence not participate in the drill. This is very proper on the part of the Montgomery military and it is to be hoped that Montgomery or some other other southern city will at once proceed in the matter of getting up a rival drill on a magnificent scale to come off at the time of the Washington drill. This would throw something of a wet blanket on the Washington drill which now deserves to be "squelched."

HOUSE BILL 487.

AN ACT for the preservation of game animals and birds in the counties of Sumter and Chilton.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That it shall be unlawful in the counties of Sumter and Chilton to catch, kill, injure or pursue with such intent, any buck, deer, doe or fawn between the fifteenth day of February and the 15th day of September.

Section 2. It shall be unlawful to catch, kill, injure or pursue with such intent any wild turkey between the first day of May and the fifteenth day of September, and it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, injure or pursue with such intent any turtle dove between the fifteenth day of March and the first day of August. And it shall be unlawful to catch, kill, injure or pursue with such intent any partridge or quail between the first day of April and the first day of October.

Section 3. Be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful in the counties of Sumter and Chilton for any person to destroy, rob or injure the nest of any bird or fowl mentioned in section 2 of this act.

Section 4. Be it further enacted, That any person violating the provisions of section one of this act, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than than thirty nor more than fifty dollars for each offence.

Sec. 5. That any person violating the provisions of sections two or three of this act, upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars for each offence.

Sec. 6. That any person violating the provisions of this act may be prosecuted before any Justice of the Peace or other officer or court having jurisdiction of misdemeanors in said county, and the judgment of such court shall be enforced in like manner as in all other cases of misdemeanors.

Sec. 7. That one-half of all fines imposed and collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid to the informer, and the other half shall be paid to the county Superintendent of Education to be by him applied to the school fund of the county.

Sec. 8. That the Solicitor's fee in each conviction (secured by him) of a violation of the provisions of this act, shall be twenty dollars.

Sec. 9. That all laws in conflict with this act be and the same are hereby repealed as to Sumter and Chilton counties.

Approved Feb'y 23, 1887.

THOS. SEAY, Governor.

A true copy.

C. C. LANGDON, Sec'y of State.

Other Cases.

Last week we published an incomplete list of cases tried at the recent term of the circuit court. The following additional cases were disposed of:

State vs. Thomas Thompson. Obtaining goods under false pretences. Abated by death of defendant.

State vs. Robt. Traywick. Disturbing religious worship. Nol pros.

State vs. B. H. Bryant et al. Fraudulently disposing of property. Nol. pros.

State vs. Dave Killingsworth and Emma Martin. Adultery. Not guilty.

State vs. Dock Davenport. Disturbing religious worship. Not guilty.

State vs. James Collins. Selling mortgaged property. Not guilty.

State vs. Willie Burnett. Disturbing religious worship. Not guilty.

State vs. Willie Burnett. Indecent exposure of person. Not guilty.

State vs. Frank Nettles. Carrying concealed weapons. Not guilty.

State vs. John Garner. Carrying concealed weapon. Not guilty.

A boy is worthless without enemies. Have a way of your own, even though you make an enemy of your girl.—Howard Collegian.

Very good. If he can succeed in making an enemy of his girl he will get through college in better style.

Let the man who is too poor to take his home paper but pays for a city paper ask himself the question: Do the Eastern papers ever give any home news? No! Do they contain notices of your churches, schools, improvements and a hundred other matters of local interest which your home paper furnishes you with out a cent of pay? Not an item! Do they ever say a word calculated to draw attention to your progress and in the enterprises of your community? Not a word! And yet there are men who have such contracted views that they think unless the the home paper gives them as many square inches as the city paper they are not getting the worth of their money. They are like the fellow who took the largest pair of boots in the box because he got more for the same money; not considering the fit or quality of the goods.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

SALESMEN WANTED!

To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS, mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.

I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.

[feb24 3m]

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,

oct7 Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between S. A. Blasingame and J. M. Stanfield under the firm name and style of Blasingame & Stanfield was dissolved by mutual consent on the 5th day of April, 1887. All debts are to be received by either party and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to either partner. Either partner is allowed to use the firm name in liquidation of debts due the late partnership.

S. A. BLASINGAME,
J. M. STANFIELD.

April 5, 1887.

Notice!

Books of subscription to the capital stock of the Atlanta and Alabama Railway Company will be opened at Mountain Creek, Ala., on May 2d, 1887. Subscriptions to said stock can be made in money, property or labor.

L. E. O'KEEFE,
A. D. ADAIR,
O. M. REYNOLDS,
H. B. TOMPKINS,
C. B. AUSTIN,
R. M. NELSON,
H. A. HARALSON,
Incorporators Committee.

NOTICE NO. 6220.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
March 1st, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on April 9th, 1887, viz: John E. Smith, Homestead 12086 for the s ½ of s w ¼, sec 14, township 21, n, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Scroggins, James R. Whatley, John D. Selman and John Bearden, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar 4 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6246.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., Mar. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, on April 23rd, 1887, viz: William H. Wells, Homestead 11507 for the e ½ of sw ¼, section 28, township 22, range 15. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: Andrew J. Duncan, Thomas G. Taylor, Henry C. Johnson and Sidney A. Blasingame, all of Clanton, Ala.

mar17* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6282.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John D. Selman, homestead 12067, for the w ½ of ne ¼ section 22, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6237.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 8, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on April 16th, 1887, viz: Burrel Bailey, Homestead 12318, for the ne ¼ of nw ¼, sec. 22, township 20 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Mitchell, Mike H. Barnes, Daniel C. Gaudy and David A. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala.

mar10* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,

mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

Barclift & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS and GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SEC. AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery Line. [mar 24-1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER.

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds

Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

NOTICE NO. 6220.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
April 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Alabama, on May 14, 1887, viz: Asa J. Robinson, Homestead 18106 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, n e of s e ¼ sec 24 township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Roberts, John Roberts, William Klinner and William W. Green, all of Dixie, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6293.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 14th, 1887, viz: Abraham C. Mims, homestead 10863 for the s w ¼ of sec 24 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, Linsey W. Henly, William P. Headley, James R. Broadhead, all of Kincheen, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6283.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John Bearden, homestead 14409, for the sw ¼ of nw ¼ and nw ¼ of sw ¼, section 14, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John D. Selman, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6284.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: Nathan D. Ellis, Homestead 12091, for n ½ of ne ¼, sec. 26, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, John D. Selman, Claton Hall, Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!

COLLINS

AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood. Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING. PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S

Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY

Sold at 25 cts, 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use Dr. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.

Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. 'PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC' for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store. COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun24-y

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE

SECOND AVENUE BETWEEN 18TH AND 19TH STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Pat Walsh, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand. All Kinds of

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov 11

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton. } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street,

Louisville, Ky.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited.

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 7, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	*9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

* Don't stop.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Ladies' hats for sale over drug store.

Considerable sickness in town considering this is Clanton.

Dr. Mahone, of Opelika, is in Clanton on professional business.

Miss Augusta Evans, of this place, is visiting friends in Randolph and Selma.

Mr. S. A. Eddins, of the VIEW force, is on a visit to relatives in Tuscaloosa.

Read the notice of the Atlanta and Alabama Railroad Company in another column.

Miss Jennie Wilson, of Maplesville, is attending school at Clanton Academy in this place.

County Superintendent Acree was in Clanton Saturday to attend to the business of his office.

Corn, fodder, hay, potatoes, chickens, butter, eggs, &c., will be taken in payment for subscription.

See notice of dissolution of copartnership of the firm of Blasingame & Stanfield in another column.

As many as six deaths from measles occurred in and around Jemison last week. All grown people.

Base balls, cigarette papers, albums, fancy stationery and all kinds of things for sale at the View Stationery Stand.

Mr. Lee R. McKee, representing the Montgomery Advertiser, was in Clanton Monday circulating among the friends of that excellent journal.

Mr. B. H. Chesnutt's residence came near burning last Sunday but the fire was discovered in time to extinguish it before much damage was done.

Some excitement was created in church last Sunday night by the eccentricities displayed by one of the lamps. It was soon extinguished and quiet restored.

Sheriff Smitherman informs us that he has fixed his bond up all right and will continue to discharge the duties of the Sheriff's office to the best of his ability.

Mr. T. G. Holt, of Siluria, Shelby county, has been visiting relatives in Clanton. He is thinking of purchasing a home and moving to our town, and we hope he will do so.

Parties indebted to this office for either subscription, job work or advertising, whose accounts are now past due will please come forward and settle as we are needing the money.

Dr. M. J. Greene, of Opelika, who has been visiting relatives in Clanton returned home Monday. The Dr. made an exhibition of his faith in the future progress of our town by buying a lot.

Remember that books of subscription to the capital stock of the Florence, Tuscaloosa and Montgomery Railroad will be opened in the office of the Probate Judge of this county on the 18th inst.

Sampey's Corner.

Dull trade is worse than swapping dollars, so come along to town and bring your money and Sampey will sell you the goods you want whether he makes a big profit or none at all. He has the goods and did not buy them to keep for show, but for you to use.

Mysterious Death.

We learn of the finding of the body of a man named Tucker in the Coosa river Saturday night. The dead man was almost a stranger in the neighborhood, and there is a mystery surrounding his death. Parties who knew him state that a few days prior to his disappearance he had threatened to kill himself and he mysteriously disappeared two weeks before his body was found. The body was examined and hole a was found in his back resembling a gun shot wound. It is thought by some that he was foully dealt with but others believe he drowned himself and that the vultures had pecked the hole in his back as his clothing had washed up over his head leaving only the small of his back exposed. The latter supposition appears to be the most probable for had he been shot his clothing would doubtless have had a hole through it and bullets might have been found by probing.

A farmer came in to see us the other day who confessed that he was buying corn. Yet he wanted to continue his paper, said his family couldn't get a long without it, and promised to settle as soon as he could. Now we think we will have to give the paper to that farmer as we don't see how a man who has to buy corn at big prices from March until September can ever get ahead enough to have any money. He will be still further in debt at the close of the year. Friends drop cotton and raise your hog and hominy.

The New Church.

The outlook for the building of the new Methodist church is becoming more encouraging. All the lumber is secured and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Briggs, offers to raise $500 outside of Clanton towards paying the workmen. A committee has been appointed to solicit subscriptions, and with the building committee composed of Messrs. Harry Herbert, O. A. Duke and E. F. Gullahorn, the work will be pushed for all it is worth.

Mr. W. M. Burton, the deputy tax-collector, lost over three hundred dollars of the county's money last Friday evening. Nearly half of the amount was in a check however and will be recovered by a duplicate check. The balance, about $165 in cash, will probably never be recovered or even heard from. He says he lost the money while in Clanton.

Mr. C. M. McLean, a young attorney and school teacher of Bladenboro, N. C., spent Friday and Saturday in Clanton taking in the situation with a view of locating here to practice law. He will probably teach school in Jemison until he is admitted to practice law in this state. He comes well recommended and we wish him success.

Old man Seaborn Jones of the river hills settlement east of Clanton, was found dead one day last week near the road side in a sitting position with his back against a log. He was 80 odd years of age and has a large family connection in this county.

On last Saturday morning Mr. J. B. McDaniel, who lives just across the creek east of town, had the misfortune to have a tree fall on him inflicting serious injuries. At this writing he is in a critical condition and his recovery is doubtful. He is very aged.

Mr. Coe, of Gregory, Coe & Co., Stanton and Dr. Little, of the same place, were in Clanton Monday and gave the VIEW an agreeable visit. They reported that they were over to look at the town. Perhaps something more, but nothing less.

Noteheads, billheads, letterheads, envelopes, statements, programmes, posters, dodgers, circular letters, visiting and business cards, commissary checks, &c. &c., printed at the VIEW Job Office, at reasonable prices and on short notice.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. Crit Allen, which occurred at his home in Jemison last Friday. He died of a fever resulting from a case of measles. He leaves a wife and children to whom our sympathy is tendered.

We have on hand at this office quite a quantity of very thick heavy paper suitable for wrapping up meats &c., which we will give to any of our merchants who will send around for it.

Miss Rosa Gullahorn, who attends school at Tuscaloosa was called to her home in this place last week on account of the illness of her mother. Mrs. G. is better and Miss Rosa will return to Tuscaloosa.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

The winter seems to be familiar this Spring, but it is not very sociable or polite to come up on us so hard as to kill all of the nice peaches.

Corn is not coming up well this Spring. The cool nights are supposed to be the cause.

Mrs. Douthit and her sister Miss Rea Oty, of Uniontown, have just ended a most pleasant visit to the land of flowers.

Mrs. M. R. Tidwell, of Mumford, is boarding in Maplesville. We hope she may like our pleasant country.

The young old ladies that have bad teeth cannot get any soft peaches this summer; so they will have to scrape apples, and if they are not skilled in the scraping business, they will have to gum them.

D.

Stanton Puffs.

There have been two deaths from measles among the colored people one of which was aunt Susan Hudson, who was respected by all who knew her.

Died, near Sardis church on the 29th ult., with pneumonia, Mrs. Harriet E. Broadhead. Her dying words were, "All is well with me." We extend sympathy to the bereaved friends and relatives.

The measles are still among our colored people.

Mr. R. Coe and Dr. W. W. Little, of our village, attended the April term of commissioner's court to advocate our new public road across Mulberry Creek.

There will be preaching at Mt. Carmel Church near Clanton Ford, next Saturday and Sabbath.

Miss Susie McGee is the organist of the Baptist church and Sabbath school.

There is some talk of a new locomotive being put on the G. & C. L. R. R.

89.

Dots From Elmore.

Elmore is on a boom, plenty of pretty girls, but boys in demand.

Rev. D. H. Carmicheal preached at the Methodist church Sunday night, to a large and attentive congregation. Have also at the same church a flourishing Sunday school which was very much improved by the arrival of Miss Hattie Gainor, a charming young lady from South Pittsburg, Tenn., who arrived here on the 31st of March with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gates, who came for the purpose of settling in the flourishing little village of Elmore.

Miss Virgie Smith from Verbena is here visiting her sister Miss Belle who is teaching in this place.

The water power in and about Elmore is sufficient to drive fifty thousand spindles and looms in proportion. A Montgomery capitalist has been attracted and recented invested and has an eye to its future developement.

A party of young people, (mostly girls) started out recently for the purpose of taking a boat ride, expecting to find some escorts at the creek, but upon their arrival found only some fishing tackle and a tea kettle in an old boat. One of the girls was very much disappointed as she expected to meet there a dude, whom the evening before she had been dreadfully "flattened" on, or "mashed" as it was formerly called.

Long life to the VIEW.

F. S. G. K.

Verbena.

Mr. Lanier and wife, Miss Watt and Mrs. Cad Beall, all of Montgomery, are visiting Mrs. J. C. Gibson, at this place.

Grandma Holt, we are glad to say, is better than at last writing.

Mrs. Wallace Glover is expected to reach her father's this week from an extended visit to relatives in Evansville, Ind.

We are sorry to say that a son of Mr. William Johnson is lying very ill two miles from Verbena at this writing.

Our young townsman and former operator at Verbena, Mr. Mitchell Williamson, is now in Florida in hopes of regaining his health. We hope to soon see him return fully restored.

We have a millinery shop recently opened here by Misses Bell and Anna Logan and Miss Etta Haralson. We wish them great success in their new enterprise.

Our town is showing some signs of enterprise. Mr. Mullins' house has just received a new coat of paint.

Maj. J. C. Gibson has recently built several three-roomed dwellings on his land in the edge of Verbena. He has also straightened the public road from the first Baptist Church to Pratt Mill Town and has set out elm trees all along which makes it a regular street. We say first-rate for the Major.

The children's missionary society gave a concert Sunday night at the Baptist Church which was enjoyed by a crowded house. Contributions received for missions.

Willie Dennis, a brother of Peyton Dennis has found $50,000 in gold on his father's place two miles from Cooper's Station. It seems to have been buried two or three hundred years.

WATCHMAN.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

The best system invigorator known. It cures dyspepsia, chronic diarrhœa, tetter, all blood and skin troubles and is wonderfully efficacious—one gallon will cure any case that is curable. It sells at $4.00 per gal. Ask your druggist for it.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sep11 3

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.

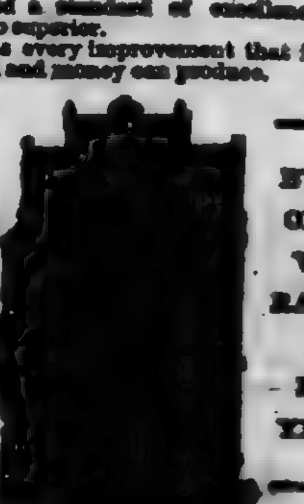
If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.



OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, Free.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

WATCH IT.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. mar4

BUTLER & GATCHELL,

922 BROAD STREET, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. [mar24ly

SHAW & DAVIN,

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 303. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS

MAKE HENS LAY

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop

—BY—

MEREDITH CANN,

Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251;

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen; Photographs on Watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited.

[jan21-tf]

A. W. KEY & CO.,

Manufacturers' State Agents for

Engines, Saw Mills,

BOILERS,

—AND—

General Machinery.

P. O. Box 741,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜

Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.

Telephone 446. jan1y

Clanton Academy.

CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.

The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary Department	$1.50
Junior "	2.50
High School "	3.50

Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.

Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.

Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.

For further information address

E. S. R. HICKS, Principal.

feb10]

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

All About Wrinkles.

Wrinkles are as natural to old age as is a full, smooth face to childhood. They are due mainly to a certain shrinkage of the muscles—a shrinkage which characterizes, more or less, the entire system in the latter period of life. Now, the human face, writes a doctor in the Youth's Companion, was meant to be the "mirror of the mind," the visible expression of every passion, emotion, and inmost feeling. Herein is its chief beauty. Hence its numerous muscles and nerves, whereby it is so wonderfully adjusted to this end. But muscles in constant or frequent exercise increase in volume, strength, and readiness of action. Hence habits of thought and feeling become stamped on the face, and we read so easily the character of the proud, the vain, the deceitful, and the sensual man, or of the kind, the calm, the energetic, the frank, the candid and the honest man. But there is nothing like care and worriment to plow furrows in the forehead, and these are badly marring the faces of our American women. We pass in the streets women of thirty-five whose foreheads are more wrinkled than the brow should be at seventy. Some of these may not have more cares than others, but they unnecessarily yield to the tendency to express them in the face.

Picking Out A Wife.

I always was partial to the ladies, says a writer in the Pittsburgh Dispatch, and did a great deal of gallanting them around and making them have as good a time as myself. But when I came to the age at which most young men fall in love I was very careful to single out a young lady of my own age, and one who had an extra amount of common sense and good breeding; one who was always considerate of other's welfare, and was not ashamed that she kept house for three younger children, left orphans when quite young.

Now, after three years of married life, I have never seen my wife untidy. She makes it her business to keep herself looking as neat as her house, and I have yet to see her out of humor, or in the least ways cross, and, although I do not make anything like big wages, yet she manages to keep the house in all necessaries, and I have more money in my pocket at the end of the month than I ever had, or could manage to save before I was married.

I think if more young men would look on the practical side of matrimony, there would not be so many disappointing unions.

Common sense is the thing. Never mind the pretty face, bright eyes, or small feet. Has she a good supply of common sense? It beats music and drawing far enough.

Paris Fish-Wives.

The fish women are either built upon the general principle of a Dutch vessel, very broad, with an enormous head and no neck, the head being anchored securely between the shoulders and wagging there as though set loosely in a bed of fat, with enormous arms as red as beets, finished off with hard red hands, with clumsy fingers, always between fifty or sixty, or else they are slim girls of sixteen to eighteen with no fat, more than is sufficient to round a figure, and with hands that, while they are red, are by no means stumpy.

Here is a mystery. The girls are the daughters of the fish-wives and are in proper course of training to be fish-wives themselves. It would seem to be the proper thing to see girls of sixteen, eighteen, of twenty, of thirty, forty, and so up growing in fat and stumpy red fingers as they progressed in years. But it is not so. It is either the slender girl or the enormous broad woman.

Do they keep on being slender for a certain number of years and then in a night develop into broad women? Or, when they get to a certain age do they quit the fish market and stay away from it till they have widened and broadened sufficiently to go into the market again of the orthodox shape? As no one in times of peace ever saw a dead mule the question is naturally what becomes of the mules when they get old? So in this case, how is it with the fishwoman? Why is it that you only see the two types? There are many mysteries in nature—too many.

But slender or ponderous, they know all about fish. They can handle them with a celerity, and dwell upon their merits with unction that would make their fortunes in any lucrative business where a glib tongue and ready wit is requisite. And then the fine sarcasm that follows if you are not satisfied with her stock and go elsewhere. Woe be unto you if there is anything peculiar about you—you have been measured beforehand and the sore spot in your make-up is mercilessly touched. Fish wives the world over are noted for sharp tongues. The Billingsgate women in London are abusive, coarsely so, the French are finer, and therefore much worse. It is the difference there is between a broadax and a rapier. You are not stunned with vulgar abuse, but you are made to feel your utter insignificance. —Toledo Blade.

Fashion Notes.

Plaids in artistic colors are in favor.

Ladies now wear finger rings ad libitum.

Mouse color is always more or less worn, but this season it is very much the fashion for street suits.

Daisy pins are quite the rage, Mrs. Cleveland having shown her approval of them by wearing one herself.

The new sateens are in design and color more like foulards and India silks than those of any previous season.

Yellow flowers are the favorites for dress garniture this season, but they must copy nature very perfectly in color.

Velvet ribbons with feathery edges, in primrose yellow, pink, blue and white, are much used for neck ribbons and for the wrists.

Parisian ladies are said to be adopting for evening wear gloves that terminate below the elbow in place of the very long ones.

Gauze ribbons are again seen, and the new importations in stripes with feathery picot edges and striped with plush or silver tinsel.

Some of the new ginghams show alternate stripes of primrose with heliotrope, pink, brown and pale, dark, gray and sapphire blue.

One of the novelties in ribbon is of satin on side and moire on the other, with fringe, tassels or loops forming an edge. This comes in various widths and colors, for sashes, dog collars, entire bonnets, and for the bows and ladders upon tulle or lace dresses.

The oldest institution of the Lutheran Church in America is Hartwick Seminary, near Cooperstown, N. Y.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

A learned fool is more foolish than an ignorant fool.

Self love exaggerates both our faults and our virtues.

We never live; we are always in the expectation of living.

Good manners and good morals are sworn friends and firm allies.

Violent excitement exhausts the mind and leaves it withered and sterile.

The superior man wishes to be slow in his words, and earnest in his conduct.

Hundreds would never have known want if they had not first known waste.

There is nothing that so refines the face and mind as the presence of great thoughts.

Many people are busy in the world gathering together a handful of thorns to sit upon.

A man's action is only a picture book of his creed. He does, after all, what he believes.

Wealth may or may not be within thy reach. What matter it, since virtue is ever at thy command.

Application is the price to be paid for mental acquisition. To have the harvest we must sow the seed.

Count your resources; learn what you are not fit for, and give up wishing for it; learn what you can do, and do it with the energy of a man.

Diamond Smuggling.

Just as the customs authorities were under the impression that they had suppressed the illicit traffic, a new era in gem-smuggling was inaugurated, and more diamonds reached the United States "duty free" than before. Smuggling, it may be said, developed into a fine art; at all events, the incidence of the trade for a brief period became so simple as to seem child's play; indeed, children were made to play an important part in the business. A story which lately became public shows how well the modern diamond smugglers had laid to heart Poe's precepts. "Please to hold my baby whilst my husband helps me to open my trunks; he will be quite good if you will shake his rattle," said a lady passenger to the officer who was waiting to look over her traveling gear. And that officer good-humoredly did as he was requested, shaking the rattle to the great delight of the little one. The rattle in question, which, fastened to a ribbon, was tied to the child's waist, was filled with gems of great value, a mode of smuggling that at the time was too simple for detection. A clever female, attired in the costume of a Sister of Mercy, was passed over by the officers because she had no luggage worth examining. She possessed, however, a fine string of beads which, with downcast eyes, she kept telling. Safe on land, she was welcomed by two persons dressed in costumes similar to her own. Need it be told that she was a smuggler, and her beads were so constructed that each held a diamond weighing seven or eight carats? Another ingenious person hit upon the plan of placing a few precious stones in a toy kaleidoscope, which had been given to a child, who carried it ashore in safety. A number of homing pigeons, kept in cages; and purchased at a village in Belgium, and broght to the United States by way of Paris and Havre, also played a profitable part, each pigeon being freighted with a cargo of exquisite gems, concealed in quills, and carefully fastened to the message-bearing dove. An extensive system of diamond smuggling was at one time carried on from Canadian ground by the aid of homing pigeons. The discovery of this illicit trade was made accidentally by a farmer, who happened to shoot one of the birds, and on examining it found that there was fastened to its leg a quill containing a number of diamonds. A clue being obtained, the local habitation of the pigeon proprietors was discovered, and their mode of business put an end to. The scheme, stated simply, was to fly every week or ten days a flock of a dozen or fifteen pigeons, each carrying about half a dozen gems. As the duty on diamonds amounts to ten per cent., the trouble taken to smuggle these gems into the United States does not seem so very remarkable. The value of the precious stones honestly imported into the States is between eight and nine million dollars per annum, and it has been calculated that gems to half that sum escape payment of duty.—Chambers's Journal.

Congressional Epicures.

"Fetch me my usual dose," said William L. Scott, the millionaire Representative from the Erie (Penn.) district, addressing a sable waiter in the House restaurant the other day. Five minutes elapsed after the waiter disappeared down the hatchway, and he reappeared with a chafing dish well filled with oysters. Under the dish was an alcohol lamp. Mr. Scott, talking to a swarm of members and callers generally, set about to cook his luncheon. On relieving the waiter who was attending him he lighted the lamp, put in his seasoning, and sat watching the dish simmer. The steam poured up, the fumes filled the spacious dining-room, and people's mouths watered as the savory dish reached a point of perfection. Mr. Scott is an epicurean, although a dyspetic-looking man, and it took but a few minutes for him to be able to pour out a dish that would tempt a Frenchman. Afterward he is seen to duplicate his order, and he has the reputation of being the most thorough luncheon fancier at the capital. He owns a large farm down on the Maryland coast, has a steam launch, and several times each year takes a party down the Bay for shell-fish, canvas back ducks, and the other good things found only in that vicinity. He superintends the cooking on the launch or farm, and his guests say he spreads the best table of any man in the country. Most of the famous diners have disappeared from Congress, and nearly all those who go down to the restaurants for luncheon, between 1 and 2 o'clock each afternoon during the session, have soup or raw oysters and go back to work with little ceremony. In the House it is a rare thing to see a member give a luncheon party. For instance, Mr. Randall slips in and pours down a plate of soup or a do en on the half shell, and is out before he is discovered, except by the waiter and cashier. Mr. Holman sips a cup of hot tea and eats bread and butter, while Reagan, of Texas, can down a steak and onions quicker than one can say Jack Robinson. The Western men eat fast; the Eastern men slow. The former eat more soup than the latter, who take oysters raw, generally, and often include a bottle of beer.—New York Sun.

An Electric Rock.

A very peculiar property has recently been discovered in the rock of a mountain seven miles from the town of Santa Cruz. This rock is heavily charged with electricity, and when applied to a battery was found to produce strong electric currents. A small handful of this rock applied to a battery generated sufficient electric force to operate the battery for three weeks.—Gainesville (Fla.) Advocate.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

Handling Colts.

The work of breaking a horse to harness and light work can scarcely be commenced too early. It requires time and patience. For this reason winter is the best time for farmers to exercise colts, leading them by the halter and accustoming them to the bit and harness. When this is learned hitch the colt up with some well-trained horse and drive over level ground. The gliding of a sleigh over the snow makes no noise, and the horse will be trained for driving before it is aware that anything has happened. When handling of the colt is begun something must be done every day, that he may not forget his training, until thoroughly broken.—American Cultivator.

Attention to Farm Horses.

We are all familiar with the care that is given to trotting horses and even coach horses. And what is the object of this care? With the coach horse, perhaps, the purpose is to add to the appearance. That is not the purpose, however, with the trotting horses. What is it then? Why all this rubbing and blanketing and gentle exercise while cooling off? It costs a great deal of money to give such attention, and therefore it must be presumed that the object is an important one. The purpose is the preservation of health and perfect condition. What would be the result if the trotting horse were treated as many of our farm horses are treated? Some of them are strangers even to the curry-comb. They are carrying all the dirt that accumulates on them from day to day, except that they rub or shake some of it off. They come into the stable wet with perspiration and are left in that condition. Frequently they are watered while hot and fed while hot. They are stuffed with hay, and put to hard work while gorged with bulky food. Is it not a profound wonder that horses which are thus neglected do not break down much sooner than they do? Of course the man who thus neglects his horses pleads the hurry of the season, and there is no objection, except upon humane grounds, to treating his horse as he may like. But does it pay? Is it profitable to wear out two dollars worth of horse to do one dollars' worth of work? Does it pay to waste horseflesh in order to save in some other direction? We do not believe that there is any profit in that sort of management. If a team is worn out in one half the time it ought to be there is a very reckless waste of money.

It is not necessary to give the farm horse as much attention as the trotter receives. But it ought to be thought necessary to give the animal good attention and to insure its comfort to the utmost practical limit. There are millions of dollars sacrificed by reckless care of horses. People do not seem to appreciate this vast loss. Horses are injured and killed as if a horse cost nothing. Let us be careful of this very valuable property.

Farm and Garden Notes.

The aid of sheep in keeping up fertility is especially important to Eastern or older States.

The mouths and breasts of horses are especially exposed when driven in frosty weather. Protect them and the animals cannot suffer much.

Warmth to milch cows is as essential as good feeling, and tepid water will greatly aid digestion and invigorate the cows in severe weather.

A Southern planter says: "If farmers are not prepared with shelter and facilities for saving manure, it will be a wholesale leak to remedy."

We would not undertake to raise chickens or to keep poultry through the winter and spring without a plentiful supply of dry earth. The best time to store it is whenever it is dry.

Roots are valuable aids to digestion when given in connection with grain food, but when fed exclusively or given lavishly they have a too laxative effect, which quickly runs down the sheep.

The English winter their sheep mainly on turnips. The flocks, turned into the fields, attack and harvest the turnips, using all of the roots which are eatable, and leaving the peeling in the ground.

An excellent method of utilizing the hay seed and dust is to place it where the hens can scratch it over. They will find quite an amount of valuable material which would be useless for any other purpose.

If a Holstein cow, giving forty quarts of milk per day, and requiring no more room than a common cow, giving ten quarts, can be raised as easily as the inferior one, is it wise in farmers to keep the poor milker.

Some believe that stable manure is not a complete fertilizer for gardens, from its deficiency of phosphoric acid, and also as a potash, on sandy soils. With these ingredients added, barnyard manure is excellent for fertilizing vegetables.

All fowls that feather slowly are usually hardy. For instance, the Brahmas. It is owing to the fact that the drain on the system occasioned by quick feathering does not weaken them. Slow feathering while growing is indicative of hardiness.

A farmer says he secures large crops by telling his men to harrow the ground until they think it is harrowed twice as much as it ought to be, and then he tells them it is not harrowed half enough. Turning well the ground he says is more than half the battle.

The following are among the principal abuses in the care of ewes: 1. Improper dieting. 2. Insufficient food. 3. Want of regular exercise. 4. Too much crowding and knocking about just before lambing. 5. Overfeeding at that time. 6. Startling or dogging them by a careless shepherd.

Some of the best paying farms in the United States consist of almost pure white sand, but they are devoted to fruits and poultry, thus economizing labor and space. The success of a farmer does not depend so much upon the quality of the soil as upon the kind of crops and mode of management.

The new silver geranium introduced to the floral world as "Mme. Salleroi," and catalogued last season, is considered as a great acquisition to the silver-lined class. It is an entirely distinct variety. The leaves are deep olive-green in the centre, with a broad white margin. The plant is of very compact growth, symmetrical in form, with a dense growth of foliage and of dwarf habit. It is a splendid variety to grow in pots as a specimen plant or to use for bedding or borders.

There need never be any scarcity of water in any district fit for farming if what falls on house and barn roofs is saved in cisterns and used. The barns needed to shelter stock and the provender for their winter food will shed water enough to last through the dryest time in winter or summer. For house use rain water is better than most well water, provided it has first been filtered. Nearly all well water contains mineral impurities which make it unhealthful for use.

The Tricky Merchant.

A citizen said the other day concerning a city merchant: "I have no dealings with that man because I do not think he is honest." The friend remonstrated at this expression, remarking that he had always considered the merchant to be upright and honorable. He received the following reply: "I do not know whether I am justified in calling the merchant dishonest, but I base my suspicions on these facts: I have been in the habit of sending my office boy to his place to buy certain small articles that I have needed, and I have noticed that very often he sells to this child imperfect articles, and gives him for change mutilated currency or Canadian money, which he knows perfectly well older persons would not take, as they are not acceptable in current transactions. I think that a merchant who will take advantage of a child in this way would take advantage of an adult if he could, and I prefer not to do business with such persons."—Albany Journal.

Wrong Color.

A few days ago a very handsome woman entered a dry goods house in New York and inquired for a bow.

The polite clerk threw himself back and remarked that he was at her service.

"Yes, but I want a buff, not a green one," was the reply.

The young man went on measuring goods immediately.

November, 1880, Thomas Torney, S oit Depot, Putnam Co., W. Va., wrote: "In bed with sciatica, am using St. Jacobs Oil." Oct. 25th, 1886, he writes: "Three rubbings with it got me out and cured me. No return."

Employer—"You never complained of your wages before. In fact, you never had any cause for complaint. I have always paid you enough to support your fmaily respectably and lay up some beside." Workman—"Very true; but you forgot my lodge expenses."

"We have used Red Star Cough Cure," write the Sisters of the Notre Dame, Govanstown, Md., for the cure of coughs, oppression of the chest and sore throat." Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

"There's a great deal of talk," observes Mr. Jeames Yellowplush, in his unpublished journal, "about the 'old masters.' Now, why, in the name of goodness, and common sense, don't somebody tell us about the old servants.

The Weaker Sex

Are immensely strengthened by the use of Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which cures all female derangements, and gives tone to the system. Sold by druggists.

To none is life so sweet as to those who have lost all fear to die.—George Wilson.

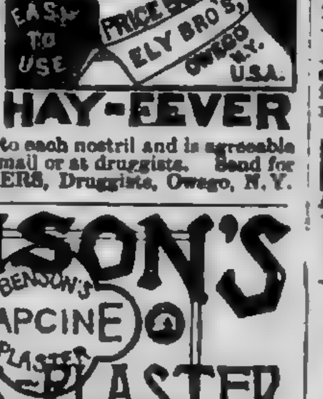
The best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

One good mother is worth a hundred school masters.—George Herbert.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

I have used two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm and consider myself cured. I suffered 20 years from catarrh and catarrhal headache and this is the first remedy that afforded lasting relief.—D. T. Higginson, 145 Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.

CATARRH



HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable to use. Price 50 cts. by mail or at druggists. Send for circular. ELY BROTHERS, Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The neatest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pleurisy, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, cold in the chest and all aches and pains. Endorsed by 5,000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve and cure where other plasters and greasy salves, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under similar sounding names, such as "Capsicum," "Capucin," "Capsicine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. ASK FOR BENSON'S AND TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists.

SEABURY & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

DR. KILMER'S

Price $1.00 6 for $5.00

One of every five we meet has some form of Heart Disease, and is in constant danger of Apoplexy, Shock or Sudden Death! This Remedy regulates, relieves, corrects and cures. Prepared at Dr. Kilmer's Dispensary, Binghamton, N. Y. Letters of inquiry answered. Guide to Health (Sent Free). Sold by Druggists.

Don't Buy Until you find out the new Improvements.

WATCHES

Save the middleman's PROFITS. Send for catalogue.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO

47 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA SAW WORKS.

Manufacturers of and Dealers in Saws and Saw-Mill Supplies.

Repairing a Specialty.

Agents for L. Power & Company's Wood Working Machinery. Large and complete stock. Write for catalogue. ATLANTA, GA.

AGENTS WANTED for the GRANDEST BOOK ever OFFERED to the People "Marvelous Wonders of the Whole World"

Being an Account of Thrilling Adventures, Famous Sights, Celebrated Voyages and Wonderful Discoveries in all parts of the globe. The latest and by far the best and most complete book of wonders ever published. Agents who have sold similar books are doubling their sales with this. No experience or capital needed. Splendid terms and choice of territory to those who will work. Addr's HUDGINS & TALTY, 25 S. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

WHETHER YOU WANT A PIANO OR ORGAN

It will pay you to write to

PHILLIPS & CREW,

ATLANTA, GA.,

For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

PILES! DR. WILLIAMS' Indian Pile Ointment will cure any case of Itching, Bleeding, Ulcerated or Protruding Piles. CURE GUARANTEED. Prepared for Piles only. [Physicians' jars by express, prepaid, $2.50.] Price per box, 50c. and $1. Sold by druggists or mailed on receipt of price by LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR, Agents, Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE [illegible]

Young Men [illegible]

$15.00 [illegible]

Herod Rather than Solomon.

"Do you believe in the use of the rod, my dear Professor?" asked a lady whose children were making life a burden to all the guests in the hotel.

"In some cases, madame; but there are others," glancing at her gamboling darlings, "where I prefer the revolver."

Extra Liability to Malarial Infection.

Persons whose blood is thin, digestion weak, and liver sluggish, are extra-liable to the attacks of malarial disease. The most trifling exposure may, under such conditions, infect a system which, if healthy, would resist the miasmatic taint. The only way to secure immunity from malaria in localities where it is prevalent, is to tone and regulate the system by improving weakened digestion, enriching the blood, and giving a wholesome impetus to biliary secretion. These results are accomplished by nothing so effectively as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which long experience has proven to be the most reliable safeguard against fever and ague and kindred disorders, as well as the best remedy for them. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an active depurent, eliminating from the blood those acrid impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

An interstate telegraph bill is the next thing promised by congress. Lord, how much this world is governed!

"Over and Over Again."

Repetition is sometimes the only way to impress a truth upon the mind. Accordingly take notice that Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," (the original Little Liver Pills) continue to be wonderfully effective in sick and nervous headache, constipation, indigestion, rush of blood to the head, cold extremities, and all ailments arising from obstruction of the bodily functions. Their action is thorough yet gentle, and the ingredients being entirely vegetable, they can be taken with impunity into the most delicate stomach. All druggists.

Nothing will dissipate true love more quickly than the smell of boiling cabbage.

Chronic Coughs and Colds,

And all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, can be cured by the use of SCOTT'S EMULSION, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. Is a beautiful creamy Emulsion, palatable as milk, easily digested, and can be taken by the most delicate. Please read: "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par excellence in Tuberculous and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary colds and throat troubles." —W. R. S. CONNELL, M. D., Manchester, O.

The best weather for haymaking—When it rains pitchforks.

When everything else fails, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

Remember your honor, which raises you above fortune and above kings.

If you have numbness in arms and limbs, heart skips beats, thumps or flutters, or you are nervous and irritable—in danger of shock—Dr. Kilmer's OCEAN-WEED regulates, relieves, corrects and cures.

THOSE in want of paying employment, should read the advertisment headed "Agents wanted" in another column.

After speech, silence is the greatest power in the world.—Lacordaire.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle.

SOLID FACTS!

"Seven Springs" Iron-Alum Mass, will give you an appetite, strengthen you up, cure Dyspepsia, Diarrhœa and all Headaches, purify the blood, act on the Kidneys, relieve Catarrh and ward off malaria. Price, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

Dickey's Painless Eyewater cures inflamed eyes at once. No cure, no pay. Ask for it. Sold by Druggists or sent by mail postpaid. Price 25c. DICKEY & ANDERSON, Manufacturers, Bristol, Tenn.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER PACKAGES, 25c. Makes 5 gallons of a delicious, sparkling temperance beverage, strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy of flavor commend it to all. Sold everywhere. TRY IT.

LADY AGENTS WANTED to sell our Common-sense Bustle and Combination Skirt, Bustle and Supporter. Send $1.00 for samples and agency. Address, with stamp, H. A. French & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

A. N. U. .... Thirteen, '87

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequaled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, the most popular and successful spring medicine and blood purifier before the public to-day is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have had running sores on my limbs for five years, so bad at times that I could not walk about the house. When I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was in pain so severe that I cannot describe it. I could not walk nor sleep nights. I had no appetite and fell away. But Hood's Sarsaparilla did me a wonderful amount of good. I am well now to what I was when I began to use it. I have a good appetite, have gained in flesh, and can sleep well. My sores are almost all healed, and I can do a good day's work, and not break down."—MRS. C. F. LORD, Dover, N. H.

N. B.—Be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

"100 Doses One Dollar," so often told of this peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, is not a catch line only, but is absolutely true of and original with this preparation; and it is as absolutely true that it can honestly be applied only to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is the very best spring medicine and blood purifier. Now, reader, prove it. Take a bottle home and measure its contents. You will find it to hold 100 teaspoonfuls. Now read the directions, and you will find that the average dose for different ages is less than a teaspoonful. Thus economy and strength are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Is the Best

"I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla as an experiment, as I had no appetite or strength, and felt tired all the time. I attributed my condition to scrofulous humor. I had tried several different kinds of medicine, without receiving any benefit. But as soon as I had taken half a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla my appetite was restored, and my stomach felt better. I have taken three bottles, and my stomach never felt better."—MRS. J. F. DOLBEARE, Pascoag, R. I.

"We all like Hood's Sarsaparilla, it is so strengthening."—LIZZIE BALFOUR, Auburn, R. I.

Do not be induced to take any other. Get

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

BEES and HONEY.

Interesting Illustrated Price List of improved HIVES, and everything needed in Profitable Bee Culture, FREE. Nothing Patented.

J. M. JENKINS,

WETUMPKA, ALABAMA.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES.

DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES.

Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet.

TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

$100 TO $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

293 COLUMBUS Combined MANURE SPREADERS & FARM WAGONS sold the first year

The cheapest Spreader out and the only kind that can be attached to old wagons. All are warranted. Prices mailed free. Newark Machine Co. Columbus, Ohio. Eastern Branch House, Hagerstown, Maryland.

ARKANSAS MILD CLIMATE! Good Lands! Variety of PRODUCTS! LOW PRICES! EASY TERMS! MAPS AND CIRCULARS FREE. THOS. ESSEX, Land Com'r, Little Rock, Ark.

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG DISEASES.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE.

MRS. MARY A. MCCLURE, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery,' and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."

LIVER DISEASE.

MRS. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I wish to say a few words in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' For five years previous to taking them I was a great sufferer; I had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am happy to say I am now well and strong, thanks to your medicines."

Chronic Diarrhea Cured.—D. LAZARRE, Esq., 275 and 277 Decatur Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I used three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it has cured me of chronic diarrhea. My bowels are now regular."

GENERAL DEBILITY.

MRS. PARMELIA BRUNDAGE, of 161 Lock Street, Lockport, N. Y. writes: "I was troubled with chills, nervous and general debility, with frequent sore throat, and my mouth was badly cankered. My liver was inactive, and I suffered much from dyspepsia. I am pleased to say that your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' have cured me of all these ailments and I cannot say enough in their praise. I must also say a word in reference to your 'Favorite Prescription,' as it has proven itself a most excellent medicine for weak females. It has been used in my family with excellent results."

Dyspepsia.—JAMES L. COLBY, Esq., of Yucatan, Houston Co., Minn., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion, and would eat heartily and grow poor at the same time. I experienced heartburn, sour stomach, and many other disagreeable symptoms common to that disorder. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'"

INVIGORATES THE SYSTEM.

Dyspepsia.—THERESA A. CASS, of Springfield, Mo., writes: "I was troubled one year with liver complaint, dyspepsia, and sleeplessness, but your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Chills and Fever.—Rev. H. E. MOSLEY, Montmorenci, S. C., writes: "Last August I thought I would die with chills and fever. I took your 'Discovery' and it stopped them in a very short time."

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

INDIGESTION BOILS, BLOTCHES.

Rev. F. ASBURY HOWELL, Pastor of the M. E. Church, of Silverton, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blotches began to arise on the surface of the skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and dullness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him for such complaints, and in one week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now sound and well. The 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are the best remedy for bilious or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. My wife could not walk across the floor when she began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now she can walk quite a little ways, and do some light work."

HIP-JOINT DISEASE.

MRS. IDA M. STRONG, of Ainsworth, Ind., writes: "My little boy had been troubled with hip-joint disease for two years. When he commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' he was confined to his bed, and could not be moved without suffering great pain. But now, thanks to your 'Discovery,' he is able to be up all the time, and can walk with the help of crutches. He does not suffer any pain, and can eat and sleep as well as any one. It has only been about three months since he commenced using your medicine. I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude for the benefit he has received through you."

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION.

Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "MRS. ELIZA ANN POOLE, wife of Leonard Poole, of Williamsburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days."

Mr. T. A. AYRES, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

It rapidly builds up the system, and increases the flesh and weight of those reduced below the usual standard of health by "wasting diseases."

Consumption.—MRS. EDWARD NEWTON, of Harrowsmith, Ont., writes: "You will ever be praised by me for the remarkable cure in my case. I was so reduced that my friends had all given me up, and I had also been given up by two doctors. I then went to the best doctor in these parts. He told me that medicine was only a punishment in my case, and would not undertake to treat me. He said I might try Cod liver oil if I liked, as that was the only thing that could possibly have any curative power over consumption so far advanced. I tried the Cod liver oil as a last treatment, but I was so weak I could not keep it on my stomach. My husband, not feeling satisfied to give me up yet, though he had bought for me everything he saw advertised for my complaint, procured a quantity of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took only four bottles, and, to the surprise of everybody, am to-day doing my own work, and am entirely free from that terrible cough which harrassed me night and day. I have been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years, and now feel so much better that I believe, with a continuation of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I will be restored to perfect health. I would say to those who are falling a prey to that terrible disease consumption, do not do as I did, take everything else first; but take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in the early stages of the disease, and thereby save a great deal of suffering and be restored to health at once. Any person who is still in doubt, need but write me, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply, when the foregoing statement will be fully substantiated by me."

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Ulcer Cured.—ISAAC E. DOWNS, Esq., of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y. (P. O. Box 28), writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh. After trying almost everything without success, we procured three bottles of your 'Discovery,' which healed it up perfectly." Mr. Downs continues:

Consumption and Heart Disease.—"I also wish to thank you for the remarkable cure you have effected in my case. For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Before consulting you I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. I then consulted you, and you told me you had hopes of curing me, but it would take time. I took five months' treatment in all. The first two months I was almost discouraged; could not perceive any favorable symptoms, but the third month I began to pick up in flesh and strength. I cannot now recite how, step by step, the signs and realities of returning health gradually but surely developed themselves. To-day I tip the scales at one hundred and sixty, and am well and strong."

WASTED TO A SKELETON.

Our principal reliance in curing Mr. Downs' terrible disease was the "Golden Medical Discovery."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS.

JOSEPH F. MCFARLAND, Esq., Athens, La., writes: "My wife had frequent bleeding from the lungs before she commenced using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She has not had any since its use. For some six months she has been feeling so well that she has [illegible]."

Golden Medical Discovery is Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors,

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	11 25
[illegible]	7 00	[illegible]	15 00
[illegible]	10 00	15 00	22 00
[illegible]	12 00	18 00	27 00
[illegible]	15 00	20 00	30 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY. APRIL 14, 1887. NUMBER 23.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject of Discourse: "A Broad Gospel." (Preached at Des Moines, Iowa.)

TEXT: "Come thou and all thy house into the ark."—Genesis vii., 1.

We do not need the Bible to prove the Deluge. The geologist's hammer announces it. Sea-shells and marine formations on the top of some of the highest mountains of the earth prove that at some time the waters washed over the top of the Alps and the Andes. In what way the catastrophe came, we know not; whether by the stroke of a comet, or by flashes of lightning, changing the air into water, or by a stroke of the hand of God, like the stroke of the ax between the horns of the ox, the earth staggered. To meet the catastrophe, God ordered a great ship built. It was to be without prow, for it was to sail to no shore. It was to be without helm, for no human hand should guide it. It was a vast structure, probably as large as two or three Cunard steamers. It was the Great Eastern of olden times.

The ship is done. The door is open. The lizards crawl in. The cattle walk in. The grasshoppers hop in. The birds fly in. The invitation goes forth to Noah: "Come thou and all thy house into the ark." Just one human family embarked on the strange voyage, and I hear the door slam shut. A great storm sweeps along the hills, and bends the cedars until all the branches snap in the gale. There is a moan in the wind like unto the moan of a dying world. The blackness of the heavens is shattered by the flare of the lightnings, that look down into the waters, and throw a ghastliness on the face of the mountains. How strange it looks! How suffocating the air seems! The big drops of rain plash upon the upturned faces of those who are watching the tempest. Crash! go the rocks in convulsion! Boom go the bursting heavens. The inhabitants of the earth, instead of fleeing to house-top and mountain-top, as men have fancied, sit down in dumb, white horror to die. For when God grinds mountains to pieces, and lets the ocean slip its cable, there is no place for men to fly to. See the ark pitch and tumble in the surf; while from its windows the passengers look out upon the shipwreck of a race, and the carcasses of a dead world. Woe to the mountains! Woe to the sea!

I am no alarmist. When, on the 20th of September, after the wind has for three days been blowing from the northeast, you prophesy that the equinoctial storm is coming, you simply state a fact not to be disputed. Neither am I an alarmist when I say that a storm is coming, compared with which Noah's deluge was but an April shower; and that it is the wisest and safest for you and for me to get safely housed for eternity. The invitation that went forth to Noah sounds in our ears: "Come thou and all thy house into the ark."

"Well, how did Noah and his family come into the ark? Did they climb in at the window, or come down the roof? No; they went through the door. And just so, if we get into the ark of God's mercy, it will be through Christ the door. The entrance to the ark of old must have been a very large entrance. We know that it was from the fact that there were monster animals in the earlier ages; and, in order to get them into the ark two and two, according to the Bible statement, the door must have been very wide and very high. So the door into the mercy of God is a large door. We go in, not two by two, but by hundreds, and by thousands, and by millions. Yea, all the nations of the earth may go in, ten millions abreast.

The door of the ancient ark was in the side. So now it is through the side of Christ—the pierced side, the wide open side, the heart side—that we enter. Aha! the Roman soldier, thrusting his spear into the Saviour's side, expected only to let the blood out, but he opened the way to let all the world in. O, what a broad Gospel to preach! If a man is about to give an entertainment, he issues one or two hundred invitations, carefully put up and directed to the particular persons whom he wishes to entertain. But God our Father makes a banquet, and goes out to the front door of heaven and stretches out his hands over land and sea, and, with a voice that penetrates the Hindoo jungle and the Greenland ice-castle, and Brazilian grove, and English factory, and American home, cries out: "Come, for all things are now ready." It is a wide door! The old cross has been taken apart, and its two pieces are stood up for the door-posts, so far apart that all the world can come in. Kings scatter treasures on days of great rejoicing. So Christ, our King, comes and scatters the jewels of heaven. Rowland Hill said that he hoped to get into heaven through the crevices of the door. But he was not obliged thus to go in. After having preached the gospel in Surrey Chapel, going up toward heaven, the gate keeper cried: "Lift up your heads, ye everlasting gates, and let this man come in." The dying thief went in. Richard Baxter and Robert Newtown went in. Europe, Asia, Africa, North and South America may yet go through this wide door without crowding. However every one—all conditions, all ranks, all people. Luther said that this truth was worth carrying on one's knees from Rome to Jerusalem; but I think it worth carrying all around the globe, and all around the heavens, that "God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Whosoever will, let him come through the large door. Archimedes wanted a fulcrum on which to place his lever, and then he said that he could move the world. Calvary is the fulcrum, and the cross of Christ is the lever, and by that power all nations shall yet be lifted.

Further: It is a door that swings both ways. I do not know whether the door of the ancient ark was lifted, or rolled on hinges; but this door of Christ opens both ways. It swings out toward all our woes; it swings in toward the raptures of heaven. It swings in to let us in; it swings out to let our ministering ones come out. All are one in Christ—Christians on earth and saints in heaven.

"One army of the living God,
At His command we bow:
Part of the host have crossed the flood,
And part crossing now."

Swing in, Oh blessed door! until all the earth shall go in and live. Swing out until all the heavens come forth to celebrate the victory.

But, further, it is a door with fastenings. The Bible says of Noah: "The Lord shut him in." A vessel without bulwarks or doors would not be a safe vessel to go in. When Noah and his family heard the fastening of the door of the ark, they were very glad. Unless those doors were fastened, the first heavy surge of the sea would have whelmed them; and they might as well have perished outside the ark as inside the ark. "The Lord shut him in." Oh, the perfect safety of the ark! The surf of the sea and the lightnings of the sky may be twisted into a garland of snow and fire—deep to deep, storm to storm, darkness to darkness; but once in the ark, all is well. "God shut him in."

There comes upon the good man a deluge of financial trouble. He had his thousands to lend; now he cannot borrow a dollar. He once owned a store in New York, and had branch houses in Boston, Philadelphia and New Orleans. He owned four horses, and employed a man to keep the dust off his coach, phaeton, carriage and carriole; now he has hard work to get shoes in which to walk. The great deep of commercial disaster was broken up, and fore, and aft, and across the hurricane deck, the waves struck him. But he was safely sheltered from the storm. "The Lord shut him in." A flood of domestic trouble fell on him. Sickness and bereavement came. The rain pelted. The winds blew. The heavens are aflame. All the gardens of earthly delight are washed away. The fountains of joy are buried fifteen cubits deep. But, standing by the empty crib, and in the desolate nursery, and in the doleful hall, once a-ring with merry voices, now silent forever, he cried: "The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." "The Lord shut him in." All the sins of a lifetime clamored for his overthrow. The broken vows, the dishonored Sabbaths, the outrageous profanities, the misdemeanors of twenty years, reached up their hands to the door of the ark to pull him out. The boundless ocean of his sin surrounded his soul, howling like a simoom, raving like an euroclydon. But, looking out of the window, he saw his sins sink like lead into the depths of the sea. The dove of heaven brought an olive-branch to the ark. The wrath of the billow only pushed him toward heaven. "The Lord shut him in."

The same door-fastenings that kept Noah in keep the world out. I am glad to know that when a man reaches heaven all earthly troubles are done with him. Here he may have had it hard to get bread for his family; there he will never hunger any more. Here he may have wept bitterly; there "the Lamb that in the midst of the throne will lead him to living fountains of water, and God will wipe away all tears from his eyes." Here he may have hard work to get a house; but in my Father's house are many mansions, and rent-day never comes. Here there are death-beds, and coffins, and graves; there no sickness, no weary watching, no choking cough, no consuming fever, no chattering chill, no tolling bell, no grave. The sorrows of life shall come up and knock at the door, but no admittance. The perplexities of life shall come up and knock on the door, but no admittance. Safe forever! All the agony of earth in one wave dashing against the bulwarks of the ship of celestial light shall not break them down. Howl on, ye winds, and rage, ye seas! The Lord—"the Lord shut him in."

O, what a grand old door! so wide, so easily swung both ways, and with such sure fastenings. No burglar's key can pick that lock. No swarthy arm of hell can shove back the bolt. I rejoice that I do not ask you to come aboard a crazy craft with leaking hulk, and broken helm, and unfastened door; but an ark fifty cubits wide, and three hundred cubits long, and a door so large that the round earth, without grazing the posts, might be bowled in.

Now, if the ark of Christ is so grand a place in which to live, and die, and triumph, come into the ark. Know well that the door that shut Noah in shut the world out; and though, when the pitiless storm came pelting on their heads, they beat upon the door, saying: "Let me in! let me in!" the door did not open. For 120 years they were invited. They expected to come in; but the Antediluvians said: "We must cultivate these fields; we must be worth more flocks of sheep and herds of cattle; we will wait until we get a little older; we will enjoy our old farm a little longer." But meanwhile the storm was brewing. The fountains of heaven were filling up. The pry was being placed beneath the foundations of the great deep. The last year had come, the last month, the last week, the last day, the last hour, the last moment. In an awful dash, an ocean dropped from the sky, and another rolled up from beneath; and God rolled the earth and sky into one wave of universal destruction.

So men now put off going into the ark. They say they will wait twenty years first. They will have a little longer time with their worldly associates. They will wait until they get older. They say: "You cannot expect a man of my attainments and of my position to surrender myself just now. But before the storm comes, I will go in. Yes, I will. I know what I am about. Trust me." After awhile, one night about twelve o'clock, going home, he passes a scaffolding as a gust of wind strikes it, and a plank falls. Death! and outside the ark! Or, riding in the park, a reckless vehicle crashes into him, and his horse becomes unmanageable, and he shouts, "Whoa! Whoa!" and takes another twist in the reins, and plants his feet against the dash-board, and pulls back. But no use. It is not so much down the avenue that he flies as on the way to eternity. Out of the wreck of the crash his body is drawn, but his soul is not picked up. It fled behind a swifter courser into the great future. Dead! and outside the ark! Or, some night, he wakes up with a distress that momentarily increases, until he shrieks out with pain. The doctors come in, and they give him twenty drops, fifty drops, sixty drops, but no relief. No time for prayer. No time to read one of the promises. No time to get a single sin pardoned. The whole house is aroused in alarm. The children scream. The wife faints. The pulses fail. The heart stops. The soul flies. Oh, my God! dead! and outside the ark!

I have no doubt that derision kept many people out of the ark. The world laughed to see a man go in, and said: "Here is a man starting for the ark. Why, there will be no deluge. If there is one, that miserable ship will not weather it. Aha! going into the ark! Well, that is too good to keep. Here, fellows, have you heard the news? This man is going into the ark." Under this artillery of scorn the man's good resolution perished.

And so there are hundreds kept out by the fear of derision. The young man asks himself: "What would they say at the store to-morrow morning, if I should become a Christian? When I go down to the club-house they would shout: "Here comes that new Christian. Suppose you are praying now. Get down on your knees and let us hear you pray. Come, now, give us a touch. Will not do it, eh? Pretty Christian you are." Is it not the fear of being laughed at that keeps you out of the kingdom of God? Which of these scorners will keep you at the last? When you lie down on a dying pillow, which of them will be there? In the day of eternity, will they bail you out?

My friends and neighbors, come in right away. Come in through Christ, the wide door—the door that swings out toward you. Come in, and be saved. Come and be happy. "The Spirit and the Bride say, Come." Room in the ark! Room in the ark!

But do not come alone. The text invites you to bring your family. "Come thou and all thou house." That means your wife and your children. You cannot drive them in. If Noah had tried to drive the pigeons and the doves into the ark, he would only have scattered them. Some parents are not wise about these things. They make iron rules about Sabbaths, and they force the catechism down the throat, as they would hold the child's nose and force down a dose of rhubarb and calomel. You cannot drive your children into the ark. You can draw your children to Christ, but you cannot coerce them. The cross was lifted, not to drive, but to draw. "If I be lifted up I will draw all men unto me." As the sun draws up the drops of morning dew, so the Sun of Righteousness exhales the tears of repentance.

"Come thou and all thy house into the ark." Be sure that you bring your husband and wife with you. How would Noah have felt if, when he heard the rain pattering on the roof of the ark, he knew that his wife was outside in the storm? No; she went with him. And yet some of you are on the ship "outward bound" for heaven, but your companion is unsheltered. You remember when the marriage-ring was set. Nothing has yet been able to break it. Sickness came, and the finger shrank, but the ring staid on. The twain stood alone above a child's grave, and the dark mouth of the tomb swallowed up a thousand hopes; but the ring dropped not into the open grave. Days of poverty came, and the hand did many a hard day's work; but the rubbing of the work against the ring only made it shine brighter. Shall that ring ever be lost? Will the iron clang of the sepulchre-gate crush it forever? I pray God that you who have been married on earth may be together in heaven. Oh! by the quiet bliss of your earthly home; by the babe's cradle; by all the vows of that day when you started life together, I beg you to see to it that you both get into the ark.

Come in, and bring your wife or your husband with you—not by fretting about religion, or ding-donging them about religion, but by a consistent life, and by a compeling prayer that shall bring the throne of God down into your bedroom. Better live in the smallest house in Brooklyn and get into heaven than live fifty years in the finest house on Madison Square, and wake up at last and find that one of you, for all eternity, is outside the ark. Go home to-night; lock the door of your room; take up the Bible and read it together, and then kneel down and commend your souls to Him who has watched you all these years; and, before you rise, there will be a fluttering of wings over your head, angel crying to angel: "Behold they pray!"

But this does not include all your family. Bring the children too. God takes the dear children! What would our homes be without them? We may have done much for them. They have done more for us. What a salve for a wounded heart there is in the soft palm of a child's hand! Did harp or flute ever have such music as there is in a child's "good-night?" From our coarse, rough life, the angels of God are often driven back; but who comes into the nursery without feeling that angels are hovering around? They who die in infancy go into glory, but you are expecting your children to grow up in this world. Is it not a question, then, that rings through all the corridors, and windings, and heights, and depths of your soul, what is to become of your sons and daughters for time and for eternity. "O!" you say, "I mean to see that they have good manners." Very well. "I mean to dress them well, if I have myself to go shabby." Very good. "I shall give them an education, and I shall leave them a fortune." Very well. But is that all? Don't you mean to take them into the ark? Don't you know that the storm is coming, and that out of Christ there is no safety? no pardon? no hope? no heaven?

How to get them in! Go in yourself. If Noah had staid out, do you not suppose that his sons, Shem, Ham, and Japhet, would have staid out? Your sons and daughters will be apt to do just as you do. Reject Christ yourself, and the probability is that your children will reject Him.

An account was taken of the religious condition of families in a certain district. In the families of pious parents, two-thirds of the children were Christians. In the families where the parents were ungodly, only one-twelfth of the children were Christians. Responsible as you are for their temporal existence, you are also responsible for their eternity. Which way will you take them? Out into the deluge, or into the ark? Have you ever made one earnest prayer for their immortal souls? What will you say in the judgment when God asks: "Where is George, or Henry, or Frank, or Mary, or Anna? Where are those precious souls whose interests I committed into your hands?"

A dying son said to his father: "Father, you gave me an education, and good manners, and everything that the world could do for me; but, father, you never told me how to die, and now my soul is going out in the darkness."

Go home and erect a family altar. You may break down in your prayer. But never mind, God will take what you mean, whether you express it intelligibly or not. Bring all your house into the ark. Is there one son whom you have given up? Is he so dissipated that you have stopped counselling and praying? Give him up? How dare you give him up? Did God ever give thee up? Whilst thou hast a single articulation of speech left, cease not to pray for the return of that prodigal. He may even now be standing on the beach at Hong Kong or Madras, meditating a return to his father's house. Give him up? Never give him up. Has God promised to hear thy prayer only to mock thee? It is not too late.

In St. Paul's, London, there is a whispering-gallery. A voice uttered most feebly at one side of the gallery is heard distinctly at the opposite side, a great distance off. So, every word of earnest prayer goes all around the earth, and makes heaven a whispering-gallery. Go into the ark—not to sit down, but to stand in the door, and call until all the family come in. Aged Noah, where is Japhet? David, where is Absalom? Hannah, where is Samuel? Bring them in through Christ the door. Would it not be pleasant to spend eternity with our families? Gladder than Christmas or Thanksgiving festival will be the reunion, if we get all our family into the ark. Which of them can we spare out of heaven?

On one of the late steamers there were a father and two daughters journeying. They seemed extremely poor. A benevolent gentleman stepped up to the poor man to proffer some form of relief, and said: "You seem to be very poor, sir." "Poor, sir," replied the man, "if there's a poorer man than me a troubling the world, God pity both of us!" "I will take one of your children, and adopt it, if you say so. I think it would be a great relief to you." "A what?" said the poor man. "A relief." "Would it be a relief to have the hands chopped off from the body, or the heart torn from the breast? A relief, indeed! God be good to us! What do you mean, sir?"

However many children we may have, we have none to give up. Which of our families can we afford to spare out of heaven? Come, father! Come, mother! Come, son! Come, daughter! Come, brother! Come, sister! Only one step, and we are in. Christ, the door, swings out to admit us; and it is not the hoarseness of a stormy blast that you hear, but the voice of a loving and patient God that addresses you, saying: "Come thou and all thy house into the ark."

And there may the Lord shut us in.

Beware of the Flat Wheel.

As a train was pulling out of a station in Chicago a passenger sat still a moment, as if listening to something, and then rose from his seat, picked up his luggage and asked his traveling companion to go with him into the first car ahead.

"But we have just got comfortably seated here," replied the other; "why should we make a change? Car too hot for you?"

"No, the temperature is all right."

"Too cold, mebbe?"

"No, it's not too cold."

"Then what is the matter? Why should we go into the front car?"

"Well, I'll tell you. You know I used to be a railroad man, a conductor, and, of course, I picked up some ideas on the road that a man gets only from experience. As soon as the train started my ears told me there was a flat wheel under this car. Don't you hear it rapping on the rails? Wait till the train slows up for the first stop, and then you'll hear it—running too fast now. Yes, sir, car wheels flatten out, and have to be closely watched. Some imperfection or unevenness in the iron, or some extraordinary blow on a rail or obstruction, makes an impression on the surface of the wheel, and then every revolution thereafter adds to the injury. A wheel will flatten out in a remarkably short time, and on long runs of through trains a flat wheel is a source of danger. If this wheel runs from here to New York, and happens to be a pretty soft wheel, the chances are that it will arrive there in very bad condition, after doing as much damage to the track on the journey as the company will get in passenger money from all the occupants of the car. Of course, there's not much danger; but I make it a rule never to ride in a car that has a flat wheel under it, and if you don't mind we'll go up ahead."

SAMUEL PASCO of McConnel's, Ga., is one of the wealthiest farmers of that section and keeps much money in his house. The other morning he announced that burglars had entered the house in the night, chloroformed him, and stolen a lot of his money; that when he awoke he counted his money and found it $6,000 short. Officers were informed, and every effort was made to get some clue to the robbers, but in vain. There were indications that Mr. Pasco was mistaken about being robbed, and he was asked to count the money again. He did so, and found that none of it was missing. He had undoubtedly dreamed of the burglary and in his excitement erred in his first count.

Sympathetic clergyman to widowed parishioner—Was poor Brother [illegible] prepared to go?

Consoled widow—Yes, indeed. He was insured in half a dozen companies.

LIFE'S DAY.

When the day is young and fair,
Birds sing in the dewy air,
Glinting sunlight everywhere.
Hearts are buoyant, free from care,
Souls are strong to do and dare;
When the day is young and fair.

Sunny hours have climbed to noon,
Chiming one by one their tune,
All the ways of life are strewn
With its hopes; alas, so soon,
They have withered, could not bloom
In the sultry heat of noon.

But the evening comes apace,
With its soft illumined face,
Bringing peace to hearts of grace,
Hearts that through the dizzy race
Kept on with a steady pace—
Hearts of truth, God's hearts of grace.

—Sidney McLean in the Current.

MANDA'S PARCEL.

BY LILY CURRY.

Of course it was absurd—really and truly absurd—for Job to have taken the affair so sorely to heart. Even Job's mother, that lively body, herself scarcely past forty, who had felt a jolly interest in the matter all along and encouraged her son's aspirations to the extent of denuding her best window plants in order to provide bouquets for the fair lady of his choice—even Job's mother, after the first shock of disappointment, had settled down from a state of indignant excitement to a good-naturedly philosophical view of the circumstances. The girl that could trifle with her son Job's feelings, was—well, she was bad enough to do 'most anything; and Job was well rid of her, though she was worth forty times as much money as Adeline Humphreys was said to be worth—or at least would inherit before long from her dead mother's property. And it was mean, the way poor Job had been led on to take bouquets of his mother's constructing, and cakes of his mother's compounding, and preserves and pickles of his mother's putting "up," all to that ungrateful Humphreys girl, and then have her turn around and flout him before all the other folks at Elder Gurney's donation party. Mrs. Westcott had considered all this and a good deal besides that was more emphatic, and, indeed, perhaps a good deal that she was ashamed of when she grew cooler and tried to console her son.

"After all, Job, Adeline ain't so very young. And I never did think her much on looks. There's Minnie Hawkins has got just as good a figger, and Lute Ellison's hair and eyes is a great deal prettier. I wouldn't fret about it; wouldn't let her think I cared a straw."

But Job was not to be consoled. All the morning he sat huddled up by the kitchen stove with a look of misery that might well have become his Biblical prototype. He nursed his wounded feelings in utter silence. His mother had been asleep when he returned the night before and, of course, she knew nothing about her son's aggrievance until he had dawned upon her at breakfast, paler and more melancholy of aspect than she had ever seen him before in his twenty-one years of life. Then what he said was brief and to the point: "It's all up. Adeline went back on me. She as good as told me she was going to marry that fellow Kidder, from Rocky Forks. No use in my trying any more. She snubbed me out and out. Every one saw it."

After breakfast he went out and did a few chores, but soon returned and huddled himself up behind the stove again, where there were but two serious objects for contemplation—the fat nine-year-old cat and the well filled coal box.

There he sat, thin, long-limbed, hollow-eyed and even aguish. Adeline had given him the mitten. There wasn't much to live for. He sat in silent retrospection; sat and remembered how much time—for three long months—and how much effort he had devoted to the wooing of Adeline Humphreys. Sadly he reviewed the wasted hours, the fruitless offerings at that shrine. Only two days before he had squandered a considerable sum out of his past summer's earnings wherewith to purchase for this heartless creature's delectation one of the handsomest valentines displayed in the chief store of the village. The valentine was even now resting, wrapped for delivery and marked with her initials, "A. H.," upon the bureau in the spare chamber. Tears came oozing up in his eyes as he thought of this.

His mother was sweeping out the sitting-room.

She suddenly stopped.

"My land, Job! I'd 'most forgot. The school teacher'll be here this afternoon. Ain't it a shame all my plants are—" she paused, with possibly a delicate dislike to recall the subject of his trouble. "She's a real nice little thing, Manda is," she resumed after a moment. "I always did like the kind of face she's got. None of your Ad—"

Job groaned. His mother caught herself up again.

"I wish we had a melodeon while Manda's here. She's—"

Job got up from his seat, took his hat and went out into the back yard.

"Land! I never did see how hard he takes it," soliloquized Mrs. Westcott. "I wish that Adeline Humphreys was under the sea. Perhaps Manda'll help him get over it a little. Manda don't know him so very well, but she's always been pleasant-spoken. And then she don't know anything about his running after that girl. She's been off in the Rocky Forks district since before it began."

In the middle of the afternoon the pretty little school teacher descended from a wagon which had given her a "lift" in her six-mile walk from Rocky Forks to the Westcott place. She came smiling up the long path and looked so charming with wind-reddened cheeks and sparkling eyes that Mrs. Westcott embraced her most cordially.

"How d'ye do, Manda—that is to say, Miss Hardy?"

"Now please don't call me anything but Manda," said the girl with playful reproach. "I'm very well and I hope I see you the same. I've walked nearly all the way. My things won't be over till to-morrow. I suppose you can lend me a brush and comb for to-night?" she laughed as she untied her bonnet and unbuttoned her ulster by the kitchen fire.

"O yes," said Mrs. Westcott, looking more practical than ever for a moment. "And anything else—you might want—something to wear?"

Manda blushed and [illegible]

"How's Mr. Westcott and young Mr. Westcott?" she inquired, cheerily.

"Oh they're both well. Don't know but Job does look a little like ague. Guess he'll feel better now that you're here."

Manda was now conducted to the spare chamber, where, having laid aside her bonnet and ulster, she did not long linger, the temperature of the room being something in the early fifties. The two ladies returned then to the kitchen and indulged in an amiable and comprehensive discussion of persons in particular and things in general until it was time to get supper.

Job came in with his father and the two hired men.

Miss Hardy's seat at the table was exactly opposite his own. He felt strangely uncomfortable and held his head down much of the time. A good deal of bitterness rankled in his heart. He cared very little to talk, but he couldn't avoid listening.

Suddenly Miss Hardy addressed him—some commonplace remark—she had not seen him for over three months. He had to look at her then. And, for some inexplicable reason, as he looked in her face he felt himself blushing terrifically.

He, Job, the bitter, the weary of life, the thin-limbed, the aguish, felt the hot blood rush tumultuously up into his head and stain his sallow cheeks beyond concealing.

He supposed they were all looking at him, though in reality it was not the case. And so he answered in a most embarrassed manner.

Manda Hardy seemed a little startled, then her own color deepened. She did not speak directly to him again.

When supper was over she very soon excused herself and retired to the spare chamber.

Mrs. Westcott called after her.

"Oh, Manda; I guess you'll find everything you want. I went in your room just before supper. There's a—there's something for you lying atop the bureau. Don't you neglect to find it. Something very particular."

"All right, Mrs. Westcott; good-night."

Now the "something very particular" was only Mrs. Westcott's modesty for a night gown, which, not being at all a linguist, she could not name in any other tongue but the one which was understood by the men folks.

Pretty little Manda did not, however, grasp the meaning of her kind hostess.

"Something particular for me—on the bureau," she repeated, turning up the lamp, which had smoked the room to a condition more homely than healthful. And she looked to see what it could be. Mrs. Westcott, had made a mistake. The garment referred to she had laid on the foot of the bed. There was nothing on the bureau but the hair brush and comb. Stop, yes, there was. There was a parcel wrapped carefully and addressed—with Manda's own initials. "A. H." What was it? A surprise? How nice! Mamie looked again. "To—A. H." Yes, she was not mistaken. Amanda Hardy, of course. With trembling fingers she unfastened the wrapping.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!"

Manda was only a woman, and only seventeen.

"A valentine! What a perfectly beautiful valentine! Who could have—" and then as she turned it over she caught sight of: "From your most true and faithful Job Westcott."

Manda took the valentine in one hand, the lamp in the other, and sat down on the side of the bed. It was really an artistic piece of work. A beautiful landscape delightfully painted. Then the elegant nest of swan's down! Then—what was most important of all—the poetry! She had not at first perceived this. Thus it was all the more entrancing:

"Beloved! Aye, truly this thou art;
"Beloved in name—"

Manda nodded her head joyously.

"He knew my name means 'beloved.' Oh, he is very talented! I always thought him intellectual. But who would have dreamed of his sending me such a lovely thing. He blushed at the supper table. Does he really care much for me, I wonder! But, then, I didn't think I'd ever given him much encouragement.

Dear little guileless Manda! Quite pretty enough for any young farmer, or indeed for many a city chap. Sparkling gray eyes; splendid chestnut hair; dimples, red lips and a smooth white brow. Plump, sweet-tempered and true-hearted!

She fell asleep sighing faintly over the innocent problem: "Did Job mean to propose to her some day? And if so what would she answer him?"

She overslept herself the next morning, and consequently the "men folks" were all through and gone out to work when she took her breakfast.

"They're fixing roads and fences," explained Mrs. Westcott. "That's how they're off earlier than usual. You know we don't gener'ly keep two hired men this time of year; but there's extra work."

Mandy blushed and spoke shyly: "The valentine Job gave me was perfectly lovely. I was so surprised and pleased! It was awfully good of him to think of it."

Mrs. Westcott looked puzzled.

"A valentine? Did Job give you one?"

"Why, yes; didn't you know what was in the parcel?"

"In the parcel?" Mrs. Westcott continued, puzzled.

"Yes, in the parcel you told me was 'very particular,' on the bureau—don't you remember, last night?"

"On the bureau! O, yes, of course."

Poor Mrs. Westcott! She knew that there was some mistake. She was not quite certain what it was; but "some one had blundered." Being a woman, she had sufficient tact to wait and see.

"The poetry," said Manda, "was very pretty indeed, and the painting—why, now, honestly, Mrs. Westcott, didn't you know—haven't you looked at it?"

"I'll go up now and take a look at it," said the elder lady. It had suddenly dawned upon her that an unfortunate souvenir of the "Humphreys girl" affair had been left in the spare chamber.

Manda remained to finish her breakfast. Just as his mother slipped up stairs Job entered.

To him Manda, [illegible] Jacqueminot:

"I am so much obliged for the valentine, Mr. Westcott. It was perfectly beautiful. And it was so thoughtful of you. I was just telling your mother. She's gone up to look at it. I supposed, of course, she had seen it, especially as it was she who told me last night about it being on my bureau and [illegible] not to miss finding it. How well you guessed my taste, too! I know there can't have been a prettier one in town."

She was growing very much embarrassed and hardly knew what she was saying. But as for Job—Job had simply collapsed. At first he thought she might be joking. Then the truth occurred to him. The valentine he had bought for Adeline Humphreys. Manda Hardy had accepted it!

He tried to speak, but could find no words. He stammered shockingly. Suddenly, in sheer despair, he dashed from the house and out of sight.

Manda was startled for a moment. Then she said to herself softly—almost tenderly:

"Why, he's real bashful! I didn't know that. But I always knew he was real intellectual."

Mrs. Westcott returned with cheerful countenance.

"They get up such things real elab'rately nowadays," she said, smilingly. "Was that Job that came in and went out again?"

"Yes," said Manda in a low, sweet voice. "I didn't mean to annoy him. They say some folks can't bear to be thanked for presents."

"I guess he's a little that way," said Mrs. Westcott with a slight sigh.

As for Job? Well, he rushed away from the house and down through the apple orchard, completely overcome by his new experience.

Manda Hardy thought he meant that valentine for her! Every hair of his head seemed to stand on end. That valentine with all the love poetry in it. And with the signature, "Her most true and faithful Job Westcott."

He groaned, "What a mess I'm in! What'll I do? What'll she think? Why! I suppose she'll think I'm in love with her! What did I leave it lying around for? What if she thought I meant to propose? It's likely as not. Oh!" and he ended in a groan. "Great Scott!"

But, happily a second chagrin is the most effectual cure for a first one. In this new dilemma he felt his other trouble grow suddenly lighter and less important. [illegible] was no keeping out of her sight; no nursing his mortification unknown to her. No, he must face it boldly; he must—manage somehow.

And well, perhaps it would be a good thing all around if Adeline Humphrey's got the notion that he had not cared so much for her but that he could pay some little attention to some other girl.

The thing for him to do, therefore, was to keep up the joke, and to—please Manda.

He returned to the house with a noble resolution.

Manda was very pretty. Nobody would deny that.

It wasn't so hard a task being agreeable to such a girl, after all.

And so—well, why particularize further? The Westcotts, though a thrifty family, were not wholly mercenary. And Manda somehow managed in a month's stay to grow pretty well into all their hearts—not excepting Job's.

"Do you know, Job," she said, shyly, one evening not long after the eventful question had been propounded and responded to—"do you know that up to the very moment I received that valentine of yours I never dreamed that you really cared for me, except as a friend?"

"Neither did I," says Job, sotto voice, and aloud:

"Never mind. As long as you find a thing out some time or other it don't make so much difference about not knowing at first. I guess we'll make out to be pretty happy after all, Manda, all on account of that valentine."—New York Mercury.

An Army Contractor's Story.

David Nicholson, of St. Louis, tells the following story in the Globe-Democrat: I had a curious experience with an army contract once—a few years after the war closed. I got an order for a lot of fine groceries for officers' stores. Among the rest were twenty-seven sacks of Java coffee—a hundred pound to the sack. It was for a station so far to the West that the freight was five cents a pound. The coffee was billed at twenty-seven cents a pound. After a while I received notification that the coffee had been rejected, probably on account of mildew in ocean transportation. I wrote to have the coffee sent back, and at the proper time my teams were there to receive it. When it came to the store I told one of the clerks to put a "trier" into a few sacks to see if it was the same goods we had shipped. The "trier" came out of the first sack filled with yellow corn. It was put into another sack and pulled out with the same result. And so on all round. Every sack sent back was simply that much shelled corn. The soldiers at the post had taken out the coffee and probably sold it to the country groceries, and put corn in its place. The sacks looked all right on the outside. The same strings had been used in sewing them up, and everything had been done to deceive. I sent for the Quartermaster on duty here, and showed him the fraud. There was a long controversy about it, but in the end the government stood the loss, and I got paid for my coffee, less the value of the twenty-seven sacks of corn sent back in its place.

The Name of the Strawberry.

It is generally taught by horticultural authors that strawberry is so called because of straw being placed between the rows in culture in order to keep the fruit clean. It does not seem to have occurred to these philologists that the strawberry must have had a name when wild, and before it was introduced to culture. The explanation is evidently a mere afterthought, a shrew guess. It appears by a recent English writer that its name in these earlier times was "strewberrie," strew or stray being much the same as our word "walking about." We call a native fern, Camptosorus, the "Walking Fern," because it roots at the tips, and then takes a fresh start with a new frond; which again roots, and in time the plant "walks" or strays a long way from its parent. The strawberry "walks" by its runners precisely in the same way, and if it occur to a modern to call this fern the walking fern, there is no reason why the ancient Saxons or Britons should not call the strawberry plant the walking plant, and the fruit the walking or "straw" berry. If only a guess, it certainly seems the most reasonable of all the guesses that have been given as to why the strawberry is so called.—Independent.

KISMET.

A flower in sequestered corner growing,
Blossomed unseen.
Ne'er were admired its colors' brilliant grace,
Ne'er had been smiled on by a loving face
Its leaflets green.
No one by it, in all its brief existence,
Had been made glad;
Apart from all who would have gladly cherished,
It had lived out its little life and perished.
Ah, fate most sad!

Another flower, not one whit more lovely,
Opened its eyes,
Where happy children gazed upon its splendor,
Watched the unfolding of its petals tender,
With glad surprise.
And when, with all its beauty full developed,
It drew near death,
In rapturous joy, with sweetest fragrance laden,
Upon the bosom of a lovely maiden
It spent its breath.

Ah, destiny, that with such strange diverseness
Doth order life!
Filling some cups quite to the brim with gladness,
And giving but to others what with sadness
And woe is rife.
And yet, the Master walking in his garden,
At eventime,
May say: "Well done; it's only as was bidden,
What each most needs is in his chalice bidden,
O children mine!"

—M. A. J. Kenyon in Current.

PITH AND POINT.

How to make a girl's room attractive—put the girl in it.—Cincinnati Telegram.

No true musician will verbally ask a girl to marry him. He will propose by note.—Merchant Traveler.

It is only after she becomes a centenarian that a woman is willing to own up to her age.—Boston Post.

[illegible] name of Barol is so given to gnashing his teeth when he rants, that they call him a gnash-barrel.—Siftings.

A fashion note says: "Bangles are not out of style, and there is much that is new and interesting in them"—the girls, for instance.—Boston Post.

"Waiter, is this an old or a new herring that you brought me?" "Can't you tell." "No." "Well, then, what difference does it make?"—Fliegende Blatter.

A German inventor has devised a machine for deadening the sound of the piano. Next to a machine for deadening pianists this is a splendid discovery.—San Francisco Examiner.

A fashionable wedding present is a door plate with the bridegroom's name on it. This should be followed up with a door to tack the plate on and a house to hang the door on, and an acre to plant the house on, then the plate would be of some good.—Danville Breeze.

De Forest—"Where did you learn to make such mince pie, Mrs. McDoodle? What tender recollections it revives!" Mrs. McDoodle (tenderly)—"Home and mother, I suppose." De Forest—"No, not exactly that. It reminds me of the dreams I had last night."—New Haven News.

"How do you draw a Chinaman?" asked the office boy, who has an artistic tendency, this morning. "Easiest thing in the world," growled "Pointers" on the other side of the room. "Just go to a laundry and throw a brick through a window. You'll draw all you want."—Pittsburgh Press.

HE HAD READ HISTORY.

A teacher stood before his class
In "History," one day—
Composed of twenty-five young boys—
And thus to them did say:

"Now, who can tell, what is the one Great, fundamental, grand Foundation principle, on which
Is built this glorious land?"

A small boy raised his hand, and then,
In lisping tones, said he:
"Pleath, thir, I dess it must 'a been Georth Wathingtonth cherry tree."

—J. W. Burgess, in Sunshine.

Salmon in Enormous Number.

Lieutenant Schwatka says in the American Field: "The number of salmon in these Alaskan streams, whether they empty into the Arctic or Behring Sea, or the Pacific Ocean, is simply beyond belief to a person who has never seen them with his own eyes. In ascending one of the small streams that empties into the Pacific Ocean, from the Saint Elias Alps, in a canoe, manned by a couple of Indians, the salmon were so plentiful that they formed a solid semi-circle in front of the canoe, with its bow as a centre, and a radius of about twenty feet, and this semi-circle looked like the ripples of a small cascade, the protruding noses, backs and fins, corresponding to the small stones that would project through such a waterfall. We had no salmon spear, but one of the Indians made one from a pole, cut from the bank, on the end of which he whittled a rude barb. This was too fragile, however, until the end was hardened by burning it in the fire, when it became much better, when a few salmon were secured, losing a dozen, nevertheless, where one was captured by the extemporized spear. Whenever we ran the vast swarm against a shallow ripple, where it was hard for so many to get over in a hurry, great numbers of them would go scurrying past us on either side, making as much splashing as a flock of ducks, and giving the Indian a good chance to use his spear. Hundreds of these fish were seen that had great ugly scars on them caused, my Indian guide said, by the spears of the numerous Indian fishermen who, at that season, were putting in their winter supply of salmon, and whose weapons were far from always being effective. We killed a number with a Winchester rifle from the check by a shot on the water, directly over their heads, which never failed to turn them belly upward at once, and before they recovered they were safely landed in the canoe.

The Battle-Scarred Hero.

He's fought in full many a battle,
Been covered with glory and gore;
He loved the artillery's rattle,
Won medals of gold by the score.

[illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 14, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - 75
One copy four " - - - - 50

The new city directory of Birmingham soon to be issued, shows the population of that town to be 35,000 souls. The place hardly has one half as many houses as Mobile yet has a larger population and now takes her place at the head of Alabama towns so far as population goes.

In regard to the Inter-state Railroad Commission Senator Pugh thinks it is only a question of time when the railroads will have it under full control. We firmly believe the Senator has hit it exactly and can see no manner of good in the commission wasting time studying and construing the law.

Suspended.

The Inter-state Railroad Commission has decided to suspend the operation of the long and short haul section of the inter-state commerce law for ninety days, and will proceed to inspect the railroads of the country. The first trip will be made South and the Commission will hold meetings in a number of cities for the consideration of business that may be presented to it.

Journalism in the far west is conducted on a rather vigorous style, as the following extract from the Texas Crosby Clarion shows: "If the editor of the Weekly Bazoo will keep till next week without salt and we can have the law against cruelty to animals repealed we will eat him up. The editor of that paper shows clearly this week that his soul is as small as a mustard seed. His brains could be wrapped up in a gun wad and still leave room for his moral principle and courtesy."

Montgomery has decided not to have a competitive drill this year because it might create the impression that it was held principally to conflict with the Washington drill. For our part we would like to see just such an impression created. We agree with the evening Star that if the Lomax Rifles attend the DeLeon drill in Washington the company ought to change its name to the DeLeon Rifles, and not disgrace the name of Col. Lomax. And then if the captain and company are placed under a negro officer of the day it won't matter much.

Senators Reagan and Maxey favor the prohibition amendment to the constitution of Texas. Two years ago, Senator Reagan was a vigorous anti-prohibitionist, but seeing the practical effects of local option laws he has changed his opinion and will now work for the better cause. Speaking of the political aspect of the question he says:

"I must express my regret that any effort has been made to make a party question of prohibition and especially do I regret that Democrats should seek to identify that great and grand historic party with the fortunes and fate of whisky-shop drunkards and criminals."

"The Spirit of the Age."

The great and good Jacksonville Times-Union is published in the great and glorious city of Jacksonville, Florida. It reaches the VIEW office every day. It is a flourishing journal conducted upon the most approved Yankee plan, though published by Southerners. It thinks that "the Alabama and Mississippi militiamen are behind the spirit of the age in the reason given for their withdrawal from the Washington drill."

The "spirit of the age"—what sort of a monstrosity has it grown to be? We can tell our readers what it may mean in Florida. The same issue of the Times-Union announces that the city election in Fernandina resulted in a Republican victory, five of the councilmen elected were negroes, and four were whites. These councilmen it is understood, have promised to elect negro policemen, in order we presume to be fully abreast with the "spirit of the age" in Jacksonville and Pensacola, which municipalities have for some time been afflicted with a like putrid disease. And perhaps another definition of the "spirit of the age" in Florida is in the way some of its people and presses pander to the vulgar sentiments of the 100,000 freezing Yankees who hug the fires down there every winter.

The Times-Union goes on to hold up as a model the contemptible fellow Anderson who proposes to carry a regiment to Washington along with his nigger companies. It says Anderson is from one of the F. F. Vs. These three large letters, in the language of Toney Squires, is a short way of writing First Fools of Virginia. If Anderson is from that stock, we believe Toney is right.

We hope one of the nigger companies may request old Anderson's daughter to act as sponsor. Perhaps this might satisfy the Lomax Rifles, and we are sure that it would cause the Yankee readers of the Times-Union to grin indeed. Verily, the way of the nincompoop in journalism is food for mirth; and the Alabama and Mississippi and Georgia and Texas and Tennessee militiamen will still have the manliness and pride to hold to a different kind of spirit if the "spirit of the age" would put them on a plane with negro militiamen.

AN ACT

To Exempt Farm Products From Taxation.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That on and after the first day of January 1887, all cotton and other agricultural products which were raised or grown during the preceeding year, and which shall remain in the hands of the producers thereof on the first day of January, of any year immediately succeeding that in which they were raised shall be exempt from taxation.

Approved, Dec. 11th, 1886.

Notice to Delinquents.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
CHILTON COUNTY. } TO

Harrison Foshee, French Nabors, Thos. Peters, John Attaway, D. A. Caine, Unknown Owner or D. Haywood, D. T. Blakey, J. P. Batson, Mrs. Sidney Elsworth, John P. Streety, M. Benjamin, R. A. Warner, W. L. Whitworth, G. W. Gray, J. E. Butler, R. R. Carathers, and Unknown Owners.

The tax collector has filed in my office a list of delinquent tax payers and real estate upon which taxes are due. Each of you are reported as delinquents, and the following lands are reported as assessed to each of you as follows:

BEAT 1.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for State and county taxes and costs, $2.70. Printer's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Total assesment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 2.

To Harrison Foshee for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the s e ¼ sec 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 7 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.98. Pr's fee $1.94.

To French Nabors for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12 and the s e ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 16 t 24 r 13 and the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 16 t 24 r 13 and the n e ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 21 t 24 r 13 and the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 22 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes costs $7.60. Pr's fee $3.29.

To Thomas Peters for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $13.70. Pr's fee $3.44.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 3.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the n w q sec 25 t 22 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 4.

To John Attaway for the year 1886 the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $6.00. Pr's fee $2.27.

To D. A. Caine for the year 1886 the n e q of sec 10 t 22 r 14 and the n w q of sec 15 t 22 r 14 and the s w q of the s w q and a part of the s e q of the s w q in sec 10 t 22 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $14.20. Pr's fee $2.66.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner or D. Haywood for the year 1886 the s w q of the s e q and the s ½ of the s w q in sec 28 t 23 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.90. Pr's fee $1.85.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the w ½ of the s e q in sec 29 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.90. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 Lot No. 10 in block 6, east of S and N Rail Road in Clanton Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $1.00. Pr's fee $1.49.

BEAT 5.

To D. T. Blakey for the year 1886 the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.95. Pr's fee $1.49.

To J. P. Batson for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena, Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $11.50. Pr's fee $1.25.

To Mrs Sydney Ellsworth for the year 1886 the w ½ of the n e q in sec 10 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs 88 cents Pr's fee $1.40.

To John P. Streety for the year 1886 a house and lot at Mountain Creek, Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $6.00. Pr's fee $1.19.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of n e q in sec 19 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s e q sec 19 t 21 r 16 Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.40.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s ½ of the s e ¼ in sec 15 t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1 46.

To Unknown Owner or M. Benjamine for the year 1886 the s half of the s w q in sec 14 t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.55.

To R. A. Warner, Agent, for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $23.49. Pr's fee $1.22.

To W. L. Whitworth for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.05. Pr's fee $1.52.

BEAT 6.

To G. W. Gray for the year 1886 the s half of the n e q and the w half of the s e q and a part of the n e q of the s e q all in sec 16 t 20 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.97. Poll tax $1.50. Pr's fee $2.39.

BEAT 8.

To J. E. Butler for the year 1886 the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33 t 20 r 11. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.20. Pr's fee $1.85.

To R. R. Carathers for the year 1886 the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e q of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.30. Pr's fee $2 69.

This is to notify each of you to appear before me on Monday, the 9th day of May next, and then and there to show cause why a decree for the sale of said lands should not be made for each of the above amounts specified, and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs.

H. J. CALLEN,
Judge of Probate.

April 14th, 1887.

NOTICE NO. 6246.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., Mar. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, on April 23rd, 1887, viz: William H. Wells, Homestead 11507 for the e ½ of sw ¼, section 28, township 22, range 15. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: Andrew J. Duncan, Thomas G. Taylor, Henry C. Johnson and Sidney A. Blassingame, all of Clanton, Ala.

mar17* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6282.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John D. Selman, homestead 12087, for the w ½ of ne ¼ section 22, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6237.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 8, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on April 16th, 1887, viz: Burrel Bailey, Homestead 12818, for the ne ¼ of nw ¼, sec. 22, township 22 n, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John W. Mitchell, Mike H. Barnes, Daniel C. Gandy and David A. Friday, all of Plantersville, Ala.

mar10* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Job printing neatly executed at this office.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

Barclift & Co.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS and GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SEC. AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery Line. [mar 24-1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER.

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

NOTICE NO. 6297.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
April 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Alabama, on May 14, 1887, viz: Asa J. Robinson, Homestead: 18106 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, n e of s e ¼ sec 24 township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Roberts, John Roberts, William Klinner and William W. Green, all of Dixie, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6293.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 14th, 1887, viz: Abraham C. Mims, homestead 10863 for the s w ¼ of sec 24 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, Linsey W. Henly, William P. Headley, James R. Broadhead, all of Kincheen, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6283.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John Bearden, homestead 14400, for the sw ¼ of nw ¼ and nw ¼ of sw ¼, section 34, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John D. Selman, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6284.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: Nathan D. Ellis, Homestead 12091, for n ½ of ne ¼, sec. 23, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, John D. Selman, Claton Hall, Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1010 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!

COLLINS AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you're badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING. PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE. Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. 'PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC' for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store. COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., St. Louis, Mo.

jun24-y

L&N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes, &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Subscribe for the View.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 579. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE

SECOND AVENUE BETWEEN 18TH AND 19TH STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Pat Walsh, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand. All Kinds of

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov 11

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton. } - THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 400 Third Street,

Louisville, Ky.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting made a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. } { References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers, and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 14, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

See notice to delinquent taxpayers.

Some communications crowded out this week.

Read notice of administrator's sale, in another column.

Jemison is now a flag station for mail train No. 3 going south.

Miss Nola Robinson, of Birmingham, is on a visit to friends in Clanton.

See the advertisement, of valuable real estate for sale, in another column.

Mr. Windom, of the Magic City, has been visiting the family of Mr. W. A. Collier.

The season of the year is now at hand when the Spring fever takes the place of all other maladies.

Quarterly conference of the M. E. church will be held at this place next Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday excursion rates and the sale of round trip tickets over the L. & N. railroad have been discontinued.

We regret to learn through a private telegram that Dr. I. D. Lanier, formerly of this place, is lying hopelessly ill at his home in Calera.

Chancery Court was in session on Friday and Saturday last and the business disposed of during the term will be found published elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Givhan, of Birmingham, have been visiting relatives in Clanton during the week. Their many friends here are always glad to welcome them.

The necessary blanks for proving your right to a share of the appropriation for the relief of maimed soldiers and widows can now be found in the Probate Judge's office.

Noteheads, billheads, letterheads, envelopes, statements, programmes, posters, dodgers, circular letters, visiting and business cards, commissary checks, &c. &c., printed at the VIEW Job Office, at reasonable prices and on short notice.

Mr. W. W. Wilkinson, an estimable citizen, of Greenville, was in Clanton Thursday. He has purchased a large amount of real estate here including a business house and sixteen vacant lots. He is thinking of building cottages for rent, also a summer residence for his family.

We have three new organs for sale cheap for cash. They are now in the factory and will be shipped to any point desired by the purchaser. One Estey and two of the Chicago Cottage Organs. Come and see or write us before purchasing elsewhere.

Mr. B. F. Atkinson, formerly of Talladega, is now a citizen of Chilton, and has his family located at Kincheon. Mr. Atkinson is a mill-wright of large experience, and he tells us that he has enough work on hand to keep him busy two years. This is encouraging for Mr. A. and for the county.

Sampey's Corner.

Dull trade is worse than swapping dollars, so come along to town and bring your money and Sampey will sell you the goods you want whether he makes a big profit or none at all. He has the goods and did not buy them to keep for show, but for you to use.

Sensational.

Mr. W. H. Boyle, of Clear Creek, this county, who is engaged in the lumber business, recently had an attachment served on all his available goods and on last Saturday he came to Clanton in company with his attorney, Mr. Tom Johnson, of Birmingham, on business connected with this affair. He returned that night and upon reaching Clear Creek he entered the store containing the goods upon which the attachment had been served and parties discovering him in there attempted to arrest him whereupon he opened a reckless fire upon them, from the inside, and they were afraid to enter. A telegram was sent the sheriff at this place that they had a man in a house up there but could not capture him. The sheriff went up immediately and brought Boyle back with him and placed him in jail where he remained until Monday morning, when he made bond for his appearance before Judge Callen on the 22nd inst., to answer to the charges of burglary and carrying concealed weapons.

Chancery Court.

Hon. S. K. McSpadden, Chancellor of the 7th District, N. E. Chancery Division of Ala. Cases disposed of at the last term held in Clanton, Chilton Co.:

Thomas A. Morris vs. Laura A. Morris. Decree of divorce for the complainant.

Anderson Baker vs. Emma A. Baker. Divorce for complainant.

B. H. Chesnutt vs. John H. Easterling. Order of sale of lands.

W. H. Driver vs. Emma Driver. Cause dismissed at complainant's cost.

Sarah A. Teague vs. Joseph V. Teague, et al. Final decree allow complainant to sell certain lands for the benefit of a minor.

O. R. Bell and J. M. Bell vs. C. N. Headley. Final decree making the injunction against defendant permanent.

All the other cases go over until next term in September.

Admitted to the Bar.

Dr. W. E. Stewart and Mr. W. H. Foshee were admitted to the bar on last Saturday, standing examination before Chancellor McSpadden. Neither will engage in active practice at this time.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Dots From Concord.

A pleasant rainfall on the 7th was greatly appreciated by the farmers.

The measles are prevailing in this community.

Rev. R. A. Thompson pastor of the Methodist church preached a very interesting sermon last Sunday.

Miss Lucy Meredith, formerly school-teacher of this neighborhood, had to give up her school here to take charge of her mother's school on account of her mother's declining health. But she visited this neighborhood last Saturday and we learned that she will take up another school during the summer months.

Mr. Dock Mahan and family, visited friends in this community last Sunday.

Mr. George Johnson, of Shelby Springs, visited friends in this community last Sunday.

Success to the VIEW.

PEACEFUL BOY.

Verbena.

Maj. Bivings and daughter, Dr. Bivings and wife, Harry Herbert and wife, all from Bivings, Duke & Co's Saw Mill, came down Sunday to hear the Rev. Dr. Briggs, pastor of the Methodist Church. The pulpit was beautifully decorated with flowers in commemoration of Easter.

Mrs. Lucien Zimmerman is visiting relatives at Wetumpka, Ala., this week.

Mrs. W. R. Holder has just returned from Atlanta, Ga., where she has been for several weeks for her health. We are glad to say she has improved considerably.

Mr. Northington, of Old Kingston, Ala., is at Verbena prospecting we presume.

Mrs. B. S. Williams, of Birmingham, is visiting Mrs. E. H. Wingate, at Pratt Saw Mills.

Dr. Mahone, dentist, of Loachapoka, Ala., is at Verbena this week.

Judge Cafee, of Lowndes, has recently cast his lot with us. He has just completed a very neat dwelling on his place in West Verbena. We would be glad to welcome several more such men as the Judge and his excellent family.

A rich ore bed has been discovered one and a half miles east of Mountain Creek. A northern company has purchased the property and will soon begin work to develop the same.

Let the booming wave boom. It will strike us by and by.

We have a new operator in the telegraph office. He stands five feet 10 inches high, and weighs 193 pounds. The girls seem to think he is a jolly old fellow.

Stanton Puffs.

The commissioners court granted the petition for the new road across Mulberry and our citizens are happy.

Last Sabbath was the regular communion season at the Presbyterian church. Preparatory services had been held several nights previous. We believe this is the only Presbyterian church in the county.

There was no Sabbath School at the Baptist church last Sabbath. The seats had been painted and had not got dry.

At the last meeting at Clanton Ford the pastor baptized one candidate, and one was received for baptism. Six joined by letter. This church has increased, 100 per cent in eighteen months.

Next Sunday is Elder Geo. W. Mills' appointment at the Baptist church. We hope there will be a good congregation to meet him.

There was a disturbance in Lodge and Bro's coaling last Friday night, caused by some men as yet unknown, running all of the negroes out of the job. It is supposed that the men were angry because some negro laborers had been employed instead of white men who had quit work, as an advance in wages demanded had been refused. Labor is badly demoralized and part of the work has been suspended.

A new boiler and smoke stack is on the mill yard ready to be put in the G. & C. L. Co's Mill. Their business demands an increase of steam power. The company being composed of wide-awake business men, they are not slow in keeping up with these demands. 89.

Stand up for yourselves. Make men respect you for men. Why, look how they nominate a preacher at our conferences. One brother wants to know if he is conservative, and so on. They always want a man who is quiet and meek, and who will not step on anybody's toes. Well, I feel like getting up there and asking if he is a pusillanimous pup.—(Applause and laughter.) We don't want men to be meek and quiet. We want preachers to be aggressive and determined—courageous enough to tell the people what miserable scoundrels they are. Satan won this country by fighting, and we must win it back from him in the same way, and I wish that when you find a man who has raised a row in some church that instead of crushing him, crucifying him, you would give him your best charge. To me there is no better recommendation for a man than that he has raised the devil. That's what we must do. We must raise the devil."—Sam Jones.

We have a scholarship in the Bryant & Stratton Business College, Louisville, Ky., a scholarship in the Louisville Shorthand & Type-writing Institute, Louisville, and a scholarship in the Kentucky University, at Lexington, Ky., which includes both a business and collegiate course. We will sell any and all of them at a considerable discount off the prices to be paid at the colleges.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from blood poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sepl 4

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR. LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT! DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Valuable Real Estate For Sale.

A new five room residence at the hot well.

[illegible] beautiful corner lot in town.

One hundred and twenty-five acres of land with a good 5 room residence, good water. Only four miles from town over good road.

Apply to W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Real Estate Agents, Clanton, Ala.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between S. A. Blasingame and J. M. Stanfield under the firm name and style of Blasingame & Stanfield was dissolved by mutual consent on the 5th day of April, 1887. All debts are to be received by either party and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to either partner. Either partner is allowed to use the firm name in liquidation of debts due the late partnership.

S. A. BLASINGAME,
J. M. STANFIELD.

April 5, 1887.

Administrator's Sale.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the honorable M. T. Porter Judge of Probate for Jefferson county, Alabama, I will sell at public auction in front of the courthouse at Clanton in Chilton county, Alabama, on Monday, the 2d day of May, 1887, at twelve o'clock m., all the following described real estate belonging to the estate of N. H. Thornton deceased, to-wit: The north half of northeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of northwest quarter of section seven township twenty-one and range fifteen.

Also northeast quarter of northeast quarter of section twenty-eight, township twenty-two and range fourteen. Also lot No. 2, block one, and the east half of lot 8 block 2, in the town of Clanton, on the west side of the South and North Alabama Railroad, all in Chilton county, Ala., with all the improvements thereon.

These lots are most desirably located in the thriving town of Clanton, county seat of Chilton county, Ala., noted for its pure atmosphere and water and close proximity to the famous "Hot Well" which is still hot and will some day be to Alabama as Hot Springs is to Arkansas. The lands are also within a mile of the "Hot Well," of light loamy soil and lying well and most desirable for dairy and truck farming.

Terms of sale cash. I will show the property to any one calling on me at this place.

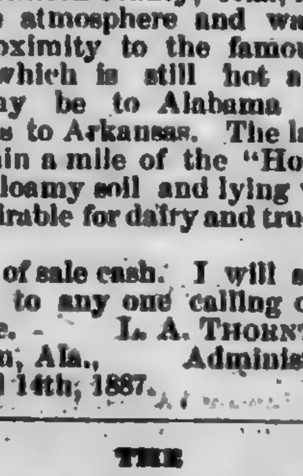
L. A. THORNTON,
Clanton, Ala., Administrator.
April 14th, 1887.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior. It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.



These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

[illegible]

CHICAGO, ILL.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

BUTLER & GATCHELL,

922 BROAD STREET, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. [mar24ly

SHAW & DAVIN,

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES.
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, [illegible]

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS

[illegible]

MAKE HENS LAY

SALESMEN WANTED!

To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS, mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.

I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER. [feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop

—BY—

MEREDITH CANN,

Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY —AND— SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for Hauling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜

Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,

Telephone 446. janly

Clanton Academy.

CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.

The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary Department	$1.50
Junior "	2.00
High School "	2.50

Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.

Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.

Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.

For further information address

[illegible]

feb10]

Catarrh cured, health and [illegible] breath secured by [illegible] Remedy. [illegible]

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

Experiments in Feeding Sheep.

Four pens of eight sheep each were tested during a period of 106 days. The foods were all of good quality; the linseed cake was a pure and superior one. During the first period of thirty-three days, the several pens increased in weight from 5.6 ounces to 7.6 ounces daily apiece—the mixed linseed and cotton cake doing worst and the mixed oat and barley meal the best. In the second period of similar length the sheep increased in weight only from 1.5 ounce to 2.5 ounces daily. The period was one of severe weather and the results prove what a waste of food is inevitably incurred in the winter sheepfold. The combined oats and barley now did the worst and the linseed cake did the best of all the foods; the wheat flower being, however, almost as bad as any of them. Several of the sheep during this period fell ill and some of them died or were slaughtered. In the third period the increase per head varied from 8 ounces to 14.7 ounces daily, and here the wheat stood highest of the whole and the crushed oats and barley lowest.—Dr. John Voelcker.

A Fertilizer Hint.

J. B. S. has a light, gravelly and poor soil which he proposes to seed to wheat with grass, and has salt, lime, plaster and ashes as a fertilizer. As the land has never had salt or lime, their application may be very beneficial. We advise sowing alternate strips with the salt, lime and plaster, to see how they act. That is the only way to tell—experiment for yourself. Nor should we bother to mix these with the bone and ashes, but apply them separately and in varying quantities; but don't get on more than two barrels of salt per acre, and less may be as well. The ashes, if pure and unleached, will contain about six per cent. of potash and two per cent. of phosphoric acid; pure fine ground bone contains about twenty per cent. of phosphoric acid and four per cent. of nitrogen (commonly called ammonia). Mixed together in equal proportions, we have a fertilizer running two per cent. of nitrogen, eleven per cent. of phosphoric acid and three per cent. of potash; apply this at the rate of 500 pounds to 2,000 pounds per acre, according to your purse, and you should get results that will please you. The bone and ashes should be composted and kept moist for two or three months before using, so that the potash will cut and soften the bone. We should drill this in, and broadcast and harrow in the salt and be better.—Farm and Garden.

"The Curious in Dairying."

An Ohio farmer says in the New York Tribune: One comes across "queer wrinkles" in dairying; some of them really have a "scientific" side, but the operators for the life of them can give no reason for their practice. One lady says she always puts a pint of cold water in the centre of each milk pan when she "sets it;" why, she does not know, but she always has good luck getting cream. Now there is more science about this than appears on the surface. Milk contains more or less albuminous matter which makes it slightly "sticky." In some instances this is very marked, and amounts to pronounced viscosity. Water is a solvent of it, and the addition of pure cold water makes the milk get more fluid and enables the butter fats to rise with more resistance, and hence the better cream. The cooling effect of the water at the centre of the milk might aid more than one would think possible. The only effect would be that of making the milk more limpid, and would not be objectionable, but the question comes up, would there not be more certainty about cream rising if the milk were put in can-pails and set in tanks of cold water, and the lower, uniform temperature of the milk secured?

Another curious custom lately came to my knowledge—that of washing out the butter with sweet skim milk, as it did not give the butter a "flat" taste like that imparted when water was used. If old or strong butter be washed out with sweet milk, it dissolves and liberates some of the elements, notably acids, that cause the change in butter. I suspect this lady churned very old or sour cream, and the sweet milk takes out the elements wrought by the chemical action of souring, and leaves the butter with a flavor not influenced by these objectionable features. The thing that all authorities now say makes butter bad (caseine) has not been got out of the butter, and, with the little remaining decomposing caseine and sugar, it must be sooner hastened on its road to questionable flavor, and consequent low price. Had this lady churned oftener, and used cream less acid, she would have found that salt and water is everyway superior to sweet milk as an aid in butter-washing. It is always safe and more profitable to let the consumer judge about the "flat" taste in butter than to try to force upon him a flavor he has learned to avoid. The market is strongly drifting toward fresh-made butter, churned from slightly acid cream, washed free from buttermilk with weak brine, and salted not to exceed a half ounce to the pound.

Fattening Pigs on Pasture.

A notion prevails that pigs cannot be fattened unless closely shut up in a pen. Along in September, as soon as corn is large enough to be fed to them, the pigs must be confined in a stuffy little pen, where they cannot get a sniff of fresh air or green grass. This is an unnatural and unreasonable theory. Animals that have had the freedom of a pasture range all summer, cannot be contented when thus suddenly deprived of it; and when not contented they will not readily take on flesh. I think the idea must have originated in the fact that a few hogs, shut away from the main drive, will do better on the same feed than the others. This separation usually occurs at fattening time. The advantage gained in this way may sometimes exceed the loss occasioned by removal from grass, and thus give rise to the notion that close confinement on a plank floor is just the thing for fattening pigs.

Again there is a breed (I am glad it is now almost extinct) that can never be fattened unless they are ringed, hamstrung and tied down, for they are inevitable land-sharks by nature as well as by name, and will root themselves down to bristles and bones if given space enough in which to do it. In times when this breed (?) was the prevailing one, it was quite likely to cause the farmer to think that a hog could not be fattened while allowed any degree of freedom. But, as I have said before, we have now gotten out of this kind of stock, and as a natural consequence, we want to get out of this way of managing our swine. A modern, respectable, well bred pig will not root his flesh off if he is fed in satisfying quantities, as fattening pigs out West usually are. In fact, it has been clearly demonstrated that he will take on fat much faster if allowed room to exercise and a chance to add something to his diet of dry corn. Hogs of this kind do not root much if given a good clover pasture. Unless given something besides dry corn, they ought to root, for their systems demand something more than the corn contains. They will not root for fun, nor for food if they can find what they need on the surface of the ground.

As to the quality of pork fattened on a clear corn diet, while the pigs so fed are closely confined, little need be said. The diseased pork that is inflicted upon the country is grown in these same putrid, infected holes. Pure, wholesome milk or flesh cannot come from filthy food or filthy surroundings.—Practical Farmer.

The Paris Catacombs.

Most people have heard of the catacombs of Paris, but few have visited them, or are aware of their vast extent. They were originally stone quarries; the material used in building the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the Hotel Cluny, the older portion of the Tuileries and many other of the public edifices of Paris having been derived from this source. So extensive were their ramifications that of Paris within the walls more than a tenth part is said to have been honeycombed in this manner. It was not till within the last 100 years that the quarries have served the purpose or received the name of catacombs.

Many Parisian churches and cemeteries have transferred the remains of their dead to the keeping of the catacombs. These are now under the care of a regular corps of workmen, who attend to the arrangement of the bones, keep the galleries in order, and are constantly on the watch against subsidences of earth, which would otherwise be of frequent occurrence. The galleries have been carefully surveyed and their course compared with that of the subjacent thoroughfares. Indicating tablets are put up at frequent intervals, so that a skilled person can at any moment name the street, and even the number of the house, which is above his head. Without such knowledge, or a competent guide, however, woe betide the ill-fated wretch who should venture to explore these grim recesses. Beneath the Rue de l'Abbe de l'Eppee, just outside the Ossuaire, or catacomb proper, is seen a tomb in the angle of a wall, to which a terrible tradition attaches. Here lies Philibert Aspairt, formerly porter of the military hospital of Val de Grace. The hospital lies above a portion of the catacombs, and from it descends one of the seventy staircases of which we have spoken. In an evil hour the ill-fated porter took it into his head to make a voyage of discovery in the catacombs. On November 3, 1793, he descended the winding stair. Lantern in hand he entered that awful labyrinth, and he never came back. How long he lived, or how he died; how long his feeble lantern kept alight, or for how many hours or days he may have wandered in darkness, ere death put an end to his sufferings, are among the secrets of the catacombs. For eleven years his fate was not even known; but on April 30, 1804, some workmen, exploring in course of their duty some of the less used passages, came upon a human skeleton. Flesh and clothing had alike crumbled into dust, but the buttons of the coat remained, and by these and the bunch of keys that lay beside the corpse, it was identified beyond doubt as that of the unfortunate Philibert Aspairt.—London Society.

Right Treatment of Horses.

Horses are not cowardly. They are simply nervous and easily excited. Once taught that an object will not injure them, they care nothing more about it. They will stand fearlessly the beating of drums, the puffing of the locomotive, the rattling of cars, or any other sound naturally terrifying to animals. If the trainer shouts at them and beats them at first sight of that which causes fear they will ever after be unsafe, except, perhaps, in the hands of the same brutal driver. They may be controlled when young in any place and under all circumstances if in their early training they have been made to rely on the voice, calmly used, of the driver. Once a trick is acquired it is never forgotten, and once a horse has run away he is ever thereafter unsafe, except under the driving of an expert, and then he is always unpleasant.

Many persons suppose horses understand spoken language. The probability is they do not. The language of the horse is more by signs than by voice. They, however, understand tones and signs perfectly or can be made so to do. It is the tone, therefore, that should be cultivated in training horses, and, in fact, all animals, and these tones should always be low. Hence the reins and the whip should be used principally as signals; the voice to indicate action or inaction. The latter should "whoa" or "ho," to stop; "back" to back up; a cluck to indicate going forward; "get on" or "go on," to indicate increased speed, and "steady" to slow up. In this the emphasis is always to be on the last word when more than one is used.

There is, however, no objection to talking to horses. They like to hear the sound of the human voice. The first thing a colt should be taught is to know his name, and to come promptly at the call. Give them something they like—a lump of sugar or a slice of carrot—when they come. They will soon learn what the call means and be eager to obey. Then talk to them while stroking the hair or patting the shoulder. Horses especially like being slightly scratched under the mane.

In training to the saddle the reins are not to be used to pull the horse about, and particularly if it be a sharp curb. The hand is to be raised for galloping and to be lowered in trotting, and the bridle is to be swerved against one or the other side of the neck in turning. With no bit, when the horse is going at ease, is there to be more restraint used than just enough, so the mouth of the horse may be lightly felt. Especially in the saddle must the rider understand the science of equitation. The grip of the saddle must be by the thighs. The legs and heels convey the signs of what the horse is to do, in connection with the bridle, and the spur or whip should never be used except to punish a horse or to excite him to some extraordinary exertion.

A Precocious Musician.

Lillie Stuck, the fourteen-year-old daughter of the State Librarian, composed the words and music of a "Slumber Song." Her music teacher advised her to allow him to rearrange and publish it, as he said it was so intricate, so delicate, and so difficult of rendition, that ordinary singers could not do justice to it. She declared she would not have the score changed, saying she had made it unusually difficult for a purpose. Then she sent it to Adelina Patti, signing an assumed name. A few days ago she heard from Madame Patti's private secretary that the diva was singing the "Slumber Song" in concerts in the West. —Philadelphia Times.

The American Manufacturer thinks iron blocks may yet be used with advantage for city street paving instead of stone or wood.

NOMINATIONS.

THEIR RECEPTION BY THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

Carried in a Carriage From the White House to the Senate Chamber—How They Are Acted Upon.

Nearly every afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock a good-looking pair of clipped bays may be seen going down the Avenue at a lively rate drawing a comfortable-looking carriage containing a single occupant, holding tight one or more mammoth envelopes. The destination is the Capitol, and the starting point was the front portico of the White House. The occupant is Mr. O. L. Pruden, sometimes called "Sergeant" Pruden, because of his antipathy to the title of Major. He is the Assistant Secretary to the President, a position he has held since General Grant became President. He is on his way to the Capitol with a "message from the President in writing." The horses and carriage in question form the office turnout, belonging to the White House. Upon the change of Administration there was a good deal of retrenchment in the matter of Government horses and carriages, but this team was necessarily retained.

The horses are well matched, and while not flyers in the professional meaning of the term, are good enough travelers to make the trip from the White House to the Capitol in a very few minutes. Any one who is on the avenue often at this time of day cannot have failed to notice this turnout and become accustomed to seeing it on account of the regularity of its appearance. The team does not go dashing up the avenue like a fire engine, but as little time as possible is lost in order that the Senate may not adjourn between the time of leaving the White House and reaching the Capitol. The most unfrequented side of the street is chosen in order to make good time. The horses are generally driven down the west side of Fifteenth street and along the south side of the avenue. The object of the errand is generally to convey nominations made by the President to the Senate, although occasionally there is a tersely written veto contained in the big official envelope. The interest of the public centres in learning what the nominations are. They are immediately announced, upon receipt by the Senate, through the newspapers, and then attract no more public attention until it is learned how they have been treated by the Senate in executive session, when they once more become objects of general interest.

Usually, the filling of a vacancy is a matter of frequent and serious conferences between the President and the officer of the Cabinet to whose department the office in question belongs. Qualifications of applicants, the influence back of them, the probable political effect of their selection for the place are all weighed in the balance beforehand. The weighing is generally done at the Cabinet meetings, and it sometimes happens that other Cabinet officers than the one directly concerned take a hand in making the scales balance. After a decision is reached and the man selected for the position, the Cabinet officer directly responsible returns to his department and directs that a nomination be made out for the man selected. This is done upon a regular printed form, which is sent to the White House usually the next day to receive the President's signature.

Sometimes the nomination is simply written at the White House. Every day nearly a number of these forms are received at the White House, and when signed constitute the day's nominations. They are guarded with the most zealous care from the gaze of strangers or of inquisitive newspaper reporters until they shall have been delivered into the hands of the Senate, and then all secresy is removed. Even after the nominations have left the White House not a particle of information of their character can be obtained at the up town end of the line until the telegram "nominations delivered" is received. This care is necessary because of the danger of the Senate's adjourning before the Secretary has had time to reach the Senate Chamber, which would prevent the nominations from being delivered until the next day. A premature announcement might prove an unintentional slight to the Senate, which would be considered a breach of official etiquette. Early in the afternoon the day's nominations are collected and manifold copies of the names and respective offices are made for the convenience of the reporters at the Capitol. These copies are given out as soon as the nominations are delivered, and simultaneously almost the news is sent all over the country.

Mr. Pruden upon reaching the Capitol makes his way to the main entrance of the Senate floor, where Mr. Bassett, who is continually on the lookout for him, takes him in charge. Mr. Bassett's announcement to the President of the Senate of the arrival of a message from the President immediately suspends the business in hand. Mr. Pruden, who has taken a few steps down the main aisle, says: "I am directed by the President of the United States to present a message in writing." The envelope is carried to the President's desk, the ceremony is over, and business is resumed. Nothing is heard of the nominations until the Senate has acted upon them, which may be days or weeks. Notification is then sent to the department to which each belongs, whether it has been rejected or confirmed. If a nominee is confirmed a commission is made out at the department in the regular course of business, and in the same way is sent to the White House. When it has received the President's signature the appointment is complete, and the new official dates his term of office from this date on his commission. The commission is again returned to the department to which it belongs and delivered or mailed to the proper person, who upon its receipt takes the oath of office and is legally entitled to enter upon the discharge of his new duties.—Washington Star.

The Cat.

Every nation has it cats, and, as a natural sequence, its rats and mice. Nature made the cat as a sort of experiment, and then had to manufacture rats and mice to give her something to do. How she does it may be inferred from the statement that the annual damage inflicted on the world by rats and mice is over a hundred millions of dollars. Millions of dollars are also expended for traps and poisons, while the cat dines on fried oysters and sleeps the hours away. No family should shelter a cat under the idea that she will keep the mice down. They will be sure to follow her to the house to secure safety. Boys who kill cats should put them out of pain as soon as possible. An average of ten dead cats to one live boy should be the reward to strive for.—Detroit Free Press.

The easiest vice in the world to get rid of is advice.

RUINED BY GOOD LUCK.

A Man who Could Not Keep Money After He had Won $500,000.

Richard Penistan has just been admitted to the Forrest Home, in Philadelphia. He was a rich man a few years ago, but has become almost a beggar. He and his wife were of English birth. They were members of the stock company of the Arch Street Theatre, and played important parts before Wheatley and Drew became the lessees, about 1852. Mrs Penistan, who died long ago, was also a playwright, and several of her plays were represented on the American stage. Soon after the dissolution of the old Arch street company Mr. Penistan opened a drinking place. He had a large patronage, and in the course of time accumulated a good deal of money. In 1873 the official announcement of the drawing of the Royal Havana Lottery informed him that his $100 ticket had drawn $500,000. At this time he was the owner of sixty-two horses, many of them very valuable. In company with his friend Whitney, the brewer, Mr. Penistan at once went to New York and placed the ticket for collection with August Belmont, receiving in cash, after some delay and litigation with Mr. Whitney, who claimed a share of the prize, which was, however, disallowed by the courts, $420,000.

Upon returning to Philadelphia, Mr. Penistan sold his place on Chestnut street, with a portion of the stock, for $54,000. In all he had undoubtedly at least $500,000. He was a genial man and had many friends, some of them true ones, who advised him to put half, if not more, of his money in a trust fund. Instead of this he began operations on Third street. Inside of two years he had dropped there from $150,000 to $300,000. His dealing in horses, too, went on all the while, and he lost heavily on a stud farm near Lexington Ky. He was, besides this, badly defrauded by the agents who ran or trotted his horses in races, and his blooded colts when sold at auction, although well advertised and of irreproachable pedigree, went for a song, buyers combining not to bid against each other, and dividing up the poorly paid for stock afterward. In fact, he was remorselessly skinned by horsemen, and in less than six years was reduced to a bare living upon the income of some few investments he had made in his wealthy days. This finally was exhausted and for some years past he has been indebted to the kindness of friends for his subsistence.

He, however, bred some noted horses, one of which, Grafton, a trotter, with a record of 2:15, was sold to Robert Bonner for $15,000. Mr. Bonner also bought his Lady Stewart, with a record of 2:28, the fastest time up to then that a three-year old had ever made.

In his prosperous days, too, he occasionally appeared upon the stage in heavy tragedy, hiring the house himself and playing with a good deal of spirit, and not without approval, and he now finds a home in the pleasant retreat endowed by the great actor, of whom he was a most fervent admirer. All his friends believe that if Richard Penistan had not drawn that lottery prize he would to day be a wealthy man.

The Naked Truth Revealed.

The New York World, in speaking of the benefits to be derived from advertising in a home paper, says:

"Many a dealer who places a $100 advertisement in his village paper begrudges his investment, when it is worth to him double what he pays for it. Advertising rates of the city newspaper would astonish such business men. One column in the Chicago Tribune costs the advertiser $26,000 per annum. The New York Herald receives for its lowest price $36,563, and for its highest price $62,980. The New York Tribune for its lowest $20,954, and for the highest $84,648, and these papers, it is stated, never lack for advertisements to fill their columns, and still there are lots of people who wonder why a country newspaper cannot be furnished to subscribers as low as the great dailies are sold for.

DOUBTFUL.—A man in Middleton told his wife he "loved her better than his own soul." The man has not been to church in five years, and his wife does not know how to take the compliment.

The Stomach Distills Acids.

These, if existent in a natural quantity, and unvitiated by bile, play their part in the functions of digestion and assimilation. But the artificial acids resulting from the inability of the stomach to convert food received by it into sustenance, is the producer of flatulence and heartburn, which are the most harrassing symptoms of dyspepsia. The best carminative is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Far more effective is it than carbonate of soda, magnesia or other alkaline salts. These invariably weaken the stomach without producing permanent benefit. No man or woman chronically dyspeptic, and consequently nervous, can be in possession of the full measure of vigor allowed by nature. Therefore, invigorate and regulate the system, and by so doing protect it from malaria, rheumatism and other nervous maladies.

Judge Blodgett decides that calling a man a crank is not libelous.

"Work, Work, Work!"

How many women there are working to day in various branches of industry—to say nothing of the thousands of patient housewives whose lives are an unceasing round of toil—who are martyrs to those complaints to which the weaker sex is liable. Their tasks are rendered doubly hard and irksome and their lives shortened, yet hard necessity compels them to keep on. To such Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" offers a sure means of relief. For all female weaknesses it is a certain cure. All druggists.

"Sitting on ice" is a theatrical phrase for a house that does not applaud.

Gold Mines

Are very uncertain property; for every paying mine a hundred exist that do not pay. But if you write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, you will receive free, full particulars about their new business, and learn how some have made over $50 in a single day at it. You can live at home and earn from $5 to $25 and upwards per day wherever you are located. Both sexes; all ages. Capital not required; you are started free. Send your address, and all will be proved to you.

Farmers,

Send 10 cents to the PRICKLY ASH BITTERS Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER." A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

The Public are Cautioned

Against the many worthless imitations of Benson's Capcine Plasters offered by unscrupulous druggists. The word "Capcine" is our exclusive trade-mark, and any one selling a plaster with a similar name is a fraud. Ask for Benson's, and examine carefully to make sure it is genuine. Seabury & Johnson, Pharmaceutical Chemists, proprietors, New York.

He Thanks His Paper.

Mr. Editor: I was induced by reading your good paper to try Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic for debility, liver disorder and scrofula, and three bottles have cured me. Accept my thanks. Jas. G. Boggs.—Ex.

No lady should live in perpetual fear, and suffer from the more serious troubles that so often appear, when Dr. Kilmer's COMPLETE FEMALE REMEDY is certain to prevent and cure Tumor and Cancer there.

Dangerous, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Bad, coated [illegible] and [illegible] Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists, [illegible]

The Merchant and the Printer.

A printer stood at the desk of a business man the other day, and noticed him using letter and bill heads bought of an eastern house. Said the printer, who was a customer, "what would you think of me if I were to go east and buy your line of goods for myself and family?" The merchant replied: "I would think you a fool when I know you can get the same goods as cheap from me and aid a fellow citizen." When the printer called his attention to the imported letter and bill heads the merchant coughed and went behind the counter to wait on a customer. And the same merchant only a few days before asked the printer to give him a free puff about his big stock of new goods.—Greenville (Tex.) Herald.

July, 1881, wrote Thos. P. Gloster, Holyoke, Mass.: "In three days cured an abscess on my arm with St. Jacobs Oil." October 28, 1886, he says: "Was entirely cured of the terrible suffering by it." Price fifty cents.

Miss Helen Lenoir acts as American business manageress for Mr. Carte, of the Savoy Theater, London. She brought over his "Ruddigore" company, who are giving the first representations in this country of Gilbert & Sullivan's latest creation.

A. C. White, Agent, D. & T. R. R., Zenia, Ohio, writes: Red Star Cough Cure is a most efficient remedy for bronchitis; the first dose relieved me." Price twenty-five cents.

With all Miss Kate Field's experience she is very nervous before appearing in public, and conducts herself for an hour beforehand as whimsically and irrationally as would a school girl on the occasion of her graduating essay.

A Bargain in Corner Lots

Is what most men desire, but to keep from filling a grave in a cemetery lot ere half your days are numbered, always keep a supply of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" by you. When the first symptoms of consumption appear lose no time in putting yourself under the treatment of this invaluable medicine. It cures when nothing else will. Possessing, as it does, ten times the virtue of the best cod liver oil, it is not only the cheapest but far the pleasantest to take. It purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the system, cures blotches, pimples, eruptions and other humors. By druggists.

-There is a machine out for making finger-nails almond shaped.

Young and middle-aged men suffering from nervous debility, premature old age, loss of memory, and kindred symptoms, should send 10 cents in stamps for illustrated treatise suggesting sure means of cure. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Fish and Mr. Pike are members of the California fish commission.

Chronic Coughs and Colds,

And all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, can be cured by the use of SCOTT'S EMULSION, as it contains the healing virtues of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in their fullest form. Is a beautiful creamy Emulsion, palatable as milk, easily digested, and can be taken by the most delicate. Please read: "I consider Scott's Emulsion the remedy par excellence in Tuberculous and Strumous Affections, to say nothing of ordinary colds and throat troubles." —W. R. S. CONNELL, M. D., Manchester, O.

They print the bill of fare at some Florida hotels with the type-writer.

MARK TWAIN AND PROF. LOISETTE

The Famous Humorist Tells How Professor Loisette Taught Him to Improve His Memory.

From the New York World.

The success which Professor Loisette's Memory School, No. 237 Fifth Ave., N. Y., is meeting does not occasion any surprise to those acquainted with its advantages, and the hearty indorsement given by prominent men to the Professor's methods of improving the memory are a guarantee that these advantages will soon become known far and wide. Professor Loisette is doing a noble work for the metropolis. College professors generally and the best known physicians of the country are in hearty accord with Professor Loisette. Writers, lawyers, musicians and representatives of all classes, both professional and business men, are pupils in the school or are learning by correspondence, and are quickly discovering what they have never before understood, how retentive the memory may be made. One reason is that he uses no machinery, localities or other devices of artificial systems. Mark Twain has been a pupil of the Professor, and this is what he says about him: "Professor Loisette did not create a memory for me; no, nothing of the kind. And yet he did for me what amounted to the same thing—he proved to me that I already had a memory, a thing which I was not aware of till then. I had before been able, like most people, to store up and lose things in the dark cellar of my memory, but he showed me how to light up the cellar. It is the difference, to change the figure, between having money where you can't collect it, and having it in your pocket. The information cost me but little, yet I value it at a prodigious figure."

Spring Medicine

Is a necessity with nearly every one. This is the best time of year in which to purify the blood, to restore the lost appetite, and to build up the entire system, as the body is now peculiarly susceptible to benefit from medicine. The peculiar medicinal merit of and the wonderful cures by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Have made it the most popular medicine to take in the spring. It cures scrofula, salt rheum and all humors, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaints, catarrh, and all affections caused or promoted by low state of the system or impure blood. Don't put it off, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good.

Builds Up the System

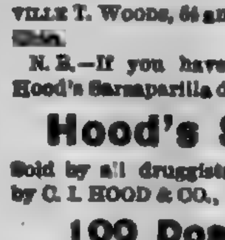
"I gladly attest the peculiar building-up power of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For some time I have been unable to attend to business, but finally at the request of a friend I used part of a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gave tone and strength to my system and made me feel young as when a boy."—GRANVILLE T. WOODS, 84 and 86 Lodge Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

N. B.—If you have made up your mind to get Hood's Sarsaparilla do not take any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar



Ladies! Those dull tired looks and feelings speak volumes! This Remedy corrects all conditions, restores vigor and vitality and brings back youthful bloom and beauty. Druggists. Prepared at Dr. Kilmer's Dispensary, Binghamton, N. Y. Letters of inquiry answered. Guide to Health (Sent Free).

T.F.SEITZINGER

86 W. Mitchell St., near Broad, ATLANTA, GA.

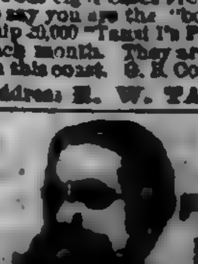
Manufacturer Gutta-Percha Roller Composition.

Rollers cast every day. Printers and Publishers will find it to their advantage to send their orders direct to me. Send for Circulars and Price-List.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢

Your cigar cases are just the thing, and permit me to say you are the "boss" advertiser. Continue to ship 20,000 "Tansill's Punch" on the 1st and 15th of each month. They are the best goods for the money on this coast. G. K. Corwin & Co., San Francisco, Cal. Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.



JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT

[illegible] $60. [illegible] JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER [illegible]

PATENTS [illegible]

$5 to $8 a day. [illegible]

[illegible]

A Plucky Woman.

The Washington Post says: I saw a really heroic and courageous woman at the White House the other day. I mean Mrs. Kidd, of New York, who came here with Mme. Barrios. As she sat upon the sofa in the Green Room, clad in a rich dress of white satin and pearls, at ease, enjoying all of the surroundings, one would hardly imagine that she had a hand-to hand fight with a desperate black villian she found under her bed one night, and that she won.

It was some years ago in New York city, and was the sensation of the day.

Mrs. Kidd was then living in a handsome house just in the rear of the Windsor Hotel. One evening her husband, who is a large manufacturer of and wholesale dealer in liquors, having succeeded to the business of S. N. Pike, of Cincinnati and Grand Opera House fame, was detained at his down town store longer than usual after dinner. Mrs. Kidd finally went up to her chamber, and from some premonition looked under the bed, when lo! and horrible to relate, she found hiding there a black giant. Did she faint, or run, or scream?

Not a bit of it.

She pulled him out, and fought with him desperately, and pushed him down a long flight of stairs, and took away the pistol he held in one hand and threw him down the stone steps of the stoop of the house.

And then she fainted. It was the proper time to faint. The colored brute was arrested before he had gone a block and the police authorities of New York presented the pistol to Mrs. Kidd in token of her bravery. I tell you one cannot always tell what a lady in white satin may do if circumstances require it.

BENSON'S

CAPCINE

POROUS PLASTER

Highest Awards of Medals in Europe and America.

The neatest, quickest, safest and most powerful remedy known for Rheumatism, Pleurisy, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, cold in the chest and all aches and pains. Endorsed by 5,000 Physicians and Druggists of the highest repute. Benson's Plasters promptly relieve and cure where other plasters and greasy salves, liniments and lotions, are absolutely useless. Beware of imitations under similar sounding names, such as "Capsicum," "Capucin," "Capsicine," as they are utterly worthless and intended to deceive. ASK FOR BENSON'S AND TAKE NO OTHERS. All druggists.

SEABURY & JOHNSON, Proprietors, New York.

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares

Of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM,

Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN.

The best $3 Shoe in the world. Best material, stylish, perfect fit; Congress, Button or Lace; all styles toe. Equals any $5 or $6 Shoe. Costs nothing to examine them at your dealer's. I send information free how to obtain these celebrated $3 Shoes if your dealer does not keep them.

$2.50 Shoe equals $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. Boys all wear W. L. Douglas' $2 Shoe. Beware of fraud. None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom of each Shoe.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,

Specialists for Thirteen Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage.

Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds.,

250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

Don't Buy Until you find out the new improvements.

WATCHES

Save the middleman's PROFITS.

SEND FOR CATALOGUES

J. P. STEVENS & BRO

47 Whitehall Street. Atlanta, Ga.

AGENTS WANTED For the GRANDEST BOOK ever OFFERED to the People! "Marvelous Wonders of the Whole World"

Being an Account of Thrilling Adventures, Famous Sights, Celebrated Voyages and Wonderful Discoveries in all parts of the globe. The latest and by far the best and most complete book of wonders ever published. Agents who have sold similar books are doubling their sales with this. No experience or capital needed. Splendid terms and choice of territory to those who will work. Addr's HUDGINS & TALTY, 22 S. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 2½ S. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 498, Atlanta, Ga.

LADY AGENTS WANTED to sell our [illegible] and Combination [illegible] [illegible] A. Pursell & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 [illegible] Cook Stove for $10.00 [illegible] Atlanta, Ga.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

HAINESVILLE, N. J.,
October 15, 1886.

E. T. HAZELTINE,
Warren, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I was taken with a very severe cold last Spring, and tried every cure we had in the store, and could get no help.

I had our village doctor prescribe for me, but kept getting worse. I saw another physician from Port Jervis, N. Y., and he told me he used Piso's Cure for Consumption in his practice.

I bought a bottle, and before I had taken all of it there was a change for the better. Then I got my employer to order a quantity of the medicine and keep it in stock. I took one more bottle, and my Cough was cured.

Respectfully,
FRANK MCKELVY.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY.
St. Louis, Mo.

Ask your retailer for the James Means' $3 Shoe.

Caution! Some dealers recommend inferior goods in order to make a larger profit. This is the original $3 Shoe. Beware of imitations which acknowledge their own inferiority by attempting to build upon the reputation of the original.

None Genuine unless bearing this Stamp.

JAMES MEANS' For Gentlemen. $3 SHOE.

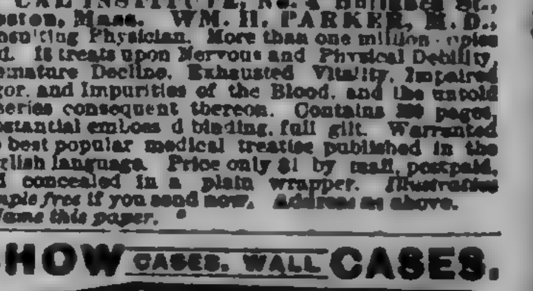
Made in Button, Congress and Lace. Best Calf Skin. Unexcelled in Durability, Comfort & Appearance. A postal card sent to us will bring you information how to get this Shoe in any State or Territory.

J. Means & Co
41 Lincoln St,
Boston, Mass.

Our celebrated factory produces a larger quantity of Shoes of this grade than any other factory in the world. Thousands who wear them will tell you the reason if you ask them. JAMES MEANS' $2 SHOE for Boys is unapproached in Durability.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

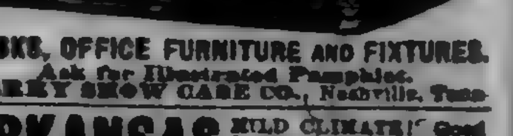
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES.



DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES.

Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet.

TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

ARKANSAS MILD CLIMATE! Good Lands! Variety of PRODUCTS! LOW PRICES! EASY TERMS! MAPS AND CIRCULARS FREE. THOS. ESSEX, Land Com'r, Little Rock, Ark.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Apply to F. REGISTER, Att'y, 203 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa. 11 years experience. Copies of law free.

OPIUM and Morphine Habit cured in 10 to 20 days. Refer to 1000 patients cured in all parts. Dr. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BING-HAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

A. N. U. .... [illegible]

TOWER'S [illegible] SLICKER [illegible] Waterproof Coat [illegible]

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1887. NUMBER 24.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	5 00	7 00	12 00
2 Inches	7 00	11 00	18 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 00
4 Inches	12 00	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 00	30 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "A Live Church."

TEXT: "Unto the angel of the Church in Smyrna write: These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive." —Revelation, ii., 8.

Smyrna was a great city of the ancients, bounded on three sides by mountains. It was the central emporium of the Levantine trade. In that prosperous and brilliant city there was a Christian Church established. After it had existed for a while, it was rocked down by an earthquake. It was rebuilt. Then it was consumed by a conflagration that swept over the entire city. That Church went through fire, and trouble, and disaster, but kept on to great spiritual prosperity. The fact was, that Church had the grace of God, an ever active principle. Had it been otherwise, all the grandeur of architecture and all the pomp of surroundings would only have been the ornament of death—the garlands of a coffin, the plumes of a hearse.

It may be profitable to consider what are the elements of a live Church.

I remark in the first place, that one characteristic of such a Church is punctuality in meeting its engagements. All ecclesiastical institutions have financial relations, and they ought to meet their obligations just as certainly as men meet their obligations at the bank. When a Church of God is not as faithful in its promises as the Bank of England, it ceases to be a Church of God. It ought to be understood that prayers cannot paint a Church, and prayers cannot pay the winter's coal bill, and prayers cannot meet the insurance; and that, while prayers can do a thousand things, there are a thousand things that prayers cannot do. Prayer for any particular Church will never reach heaven high unless it goes down pocket deep. In my Church at the West, there was a man of comfortable means, who used to pray for his pastor in such elongated style that he became a nuisance to the prayer-meeting; asking God, in a prayer that was almost without ceasing, that the pastor might be blessed in his basket and in his store, while the fact was he never paid anything. If we pray for the advancement of the Church, and do not out of our means contribute for its advancement, our prayer is only mockery. Let the Church of God then meet its obligations on the outside, and let the members of every congregation meet the obligations on the inside, and the Church will be financially prosperous.

Let me say, also, that there must be punctuality in the attendance on the house of the Lord. If the service begins at half past ten in the morning, the regular congregation of a live church will not come at a quarter to eleven. If the service is to begin at half past seven in the evening, the regular congregation of a live church will not come at a quarter to eight. In some churches I have noticed the people are always tardy. There are some people who are always late. They were born too late, and the probability is they will die too late. The rustling of dresses up the aisle, and the slamming of doors, and the treading of heavy feet, is poor inspiration for a minister. It requires great abstraction in a pastor's mind to proceed with the preliminary exercises of the Church when one-half of the audience seated are looking around to see the other half come in. Such a difference of attendance upon the house of God may be a difference of time-pieces; but the live Church of which I am speaking ought to go by railroad time, and that is pretty well understood in all our communities. There is one hymn that ought to be sung in a great many Christian families on Sabbath morning:

"Early, my God, without delay,
I haste to seek Thy face."

Another characteristic of a live church is the fact that all the people participate in the exercises. A stranger can tell by the way the first tune starts whether there is any life there. A church that does not sing is a dead church. It is awful to find a cold drizzle of music coming down from the organ loft, while all the people beneath sit in silence. When a tune wanders around, lonely and unbefriended, and is finally lost amid the arches because the people do not join in it, there is not much melody made unto the Lord. In Heaven they all sing, though some there cannot sing half as well as others. The Methodist Church has sung all around the world, and gone from conquest to conquest, among other things because it is a singing church; and any Christian church organization that with enthusiasm performs this part of its duty will go on from triumph to triumph. A church of God that can sing, can do anything that ought to be done. We go forth into this holy war with the Bible in one hand and a hymn-book in the other. Oh! ye who used to sing the praises of the Lord and have got out of the habit, take your harps down from the willows. I am glad to know that, as a church, we are making advancement in this respect. When I came to be your pastor we had an excellent choir in the little chapel, and they sang very sweetly to us Sabbath by Sabbath; but ever and anon there was trouble, for you know that the choirs in the United States are the Waterloos where the great battles go on. One Sunday they will sing like angels, and the next Sunday they will be mad, and will not sing at all. We resolved to settle all the difficulties, and have one skillful man at the organ, and one man to do the work of a precentor; and now, from Sabbath to Sabbath, the song comes up like the voice of mighty thunderings.

"Let those refuse to sing;
Who never knew our God;
But children of the Heavenly King
Should speak their joys abroad."

On the way to triumph that never ends, and pleasures that never die—sing!

Another characteristic of a live church is a flourishing Sabbath-school. It is too late in the history of the Christian Church to argue the benefit of such an institution. The Sabbath-school is not a supplement to the Church; it is its right arm. But you say there are dead churches that have Sabbath-schools. Yes, but the Sabbath-schools are dead, too. It is a dead mother holding in her arms a dead child. But when superintendent, and teachers, and scholars come on Sabbath afternoons together, their faces glowing with interest and enthusiasm, and their songs are heard all through the exercises, and at the close they go away feeling that they have been on the Mount of Transfiguration—that is a live school, and it is characteristic of a live Church. There is only one thing I have against the Sabbath-schools of this country, and that is, they are too respectable. We gather into our schools the children of the refined and the cultured, and the educated; but alas for the great multitude of the children of the abandoned and the lost! A few of them are gathered into our Sabbath-schools; but what about the 70,000 destitute children of New York, and the score of thousands of destitute children of Brooklyn, around whom are thrown no benign, and heavenly, and Christian influences? It is a tremendous question, what is too become of the destitute children of these cities? We must act on them or they will act on us. We will either Christianize them, or they will heathenize us. It is a question not more for the Christian than for the philanthropist and the statesman. Oh! if we could have all these suffering little ones gathered together, what a scene of hunger, and wretchedness, and rags, and sin, and trouble, and darkness! If we could see those little feet on the broad road to death, which through Christian charity ought to be pressing the narrow path of life; if we could hear those voices in blasphemy, which ought to be singing the praises of God; if we could see those little hearts, which at that age ought not to be soiled with one unclean thought, becoming the sewers for every abomination; if we could see those suffering little ones, sacrificed on the altar of every iniquitous passion and baptized with fire from the lava of the pit, we would recoil, crying out: "Avaunt, thou dream of hell!" They are not always going to be children. They are coming up to be the men and women of this country. That spark of iniquity that might now be put out with one drop of the water of life, will become the conflagration of every green thing that God ever planted in the soul. That which ought to have been a temple of the Holy Ghost will become a scarred and blasted ruin—every light quenched and every altar in the dust. That petty thief, who slips into your store and takes a yard of cloth from your counter, will become the highwayman of the forest, or the burglar at midnight, picking the lock of your money safe and blowing up the store to hide the villainy. A great army, with staggering step, and bloodshot eye, and drunken hoot, they are coming on—gathering recruits from every grog shop and den of infamy in the land, to take the ballot-box and hurrah at the elections. The hard-knuckled fist of ruffianism will have more power than the gentle hand of intelligence and sobriety. Men bloated, and with the signature of sin burned in from the top of the forehead to the bottom of the chin, will look honest men out of countenance. Moral corpses, which ought to be buried a hundred feet deep to keep them from poisoning the air, will rot in the face of the sun at noonday. Industry in her plain frock will be unappreciated, while thousands of men will wander in idleness, with their hands on their hips, saying: "The world owes us a living." O, what a tremendous power there is in iniquity when uneducated, and unrestrained, and unblanched it goes on concentrating, and deepening, and widening, and gathering momentum until it swings ahead with a very triumph of desolation, drowning like surges, scorching like flames, crushing like rocks! What are you going to do with this abandoned population of the streets? Will you gather them in your Churches? It is not the will of your Heavenly Father that one of these little ones should perish. If you have ten respectable children in your class, gather in ten that are not respectable. If in your Bible-class there be twenty young men who have come from Christian homes and elegant surroundings, let those twenty young men go out and gather in twenty more of the young men of the city who are lost to God and lost to society. This outside population, unless educated and restrained, will work terror in ages that are to come. Years ago, at New Orleans, when the cholera was raging fearfully, a steamboat put out just before nightfall, crowded with passengers who were trying to escape from the pestilence. After the boat had been out a little while the engineer fell with the cholera. The captain, in consideration, went down among the passengers and asked: "Is there any one here who knows anything about engineering?" A Swarth man replied: "I am an engineer." "Well," said the Captain, "I would be very glad if you would take charge of this boat." The man went to the engine. The steamer moved more rapidly, until, after awhile, the Captain and some passenger were alarmed, and they went to see what was the matter, and they found that this was a maniac engineer, and that he was peeping down the safety-valve; and, as they came to him, he said: "I am commissioned of Satan to drive this steamer to hell!" and he flourished his pistol, and would not come down. But after awhile, through some stratagem, he was brought from his position, and the lives of the passengers were saved. O, my friends! that steamer had no such peril as our institutions are threatened with, if the ignorant and unrestrained children of this land shall come up in their ignorance and their crime to engineer our civil and religious institutions, and drive them on the rocks. Educate this abandoned population, or they will overthrow the institutions of this land. Gather them into your Sabbath-schools. I congratulate you that many have been gathered. Go forth, teachers, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, and on the coming Sabbath may there be found gathered scores and hundreds of these wanderers, and instead of eighteen hundred in the Sabbath-school, we shall see three thousand or four thousand, and the grace of God will come down upon them, and the Holy Spirit will bring them all into the truth.

Another characteristic of a live church is one with appropriate architecture. In the far West and amid destitute population, a log church is very appropriate—the people living in log houses. But in communities where people live in comfortable abodes, a church uncommodious or lacking in beauty is a moral nuisance. Because Christ was born in a manger is no reason why we should worship Him in a barn. Let the churches of Jesus Christ be not only comfortable, but ornate. Years ago we resolved to have a comfortable church. We resolved that it should be amphitheatrical in shape. The prominent architects of the country, after figuring on the matter a good while, said that such a church would not be churchly, and they would have nothing to do with the enterprise. But after awhile we found an architect willing to risk his reputation. He put up for us the first tabernacle, in amphitheatrical style. We liked it. All who came liked it. This building followed in the same style. We believe it is appropriate and adapted. An angular church will have an angular theology. The Church of Jesus Christ ought to be a great family circle, the pulpit only the fire-place, around which they are gathered in sweet and domestic communion. But when our first tabernacle went up, O the caricature and the scoffing! They said: "It's a hippodrome! It's a holy circus! It's Talmage's theatre!" But the Lord came down with power upon that old building, and made it a gate of heaven to a great many. And this building followed. That we were right in persisting in the style of architecture is proved by the fact that now there are sixty or seventy churches in the United States in the same style. Indeed, our tabernacle has revolutionized Church architecture in this country. A live Church must have a commodious, a comfortable, an adapted building. "How amiable are Thy Tabernacles, O Lord of Hosts! I would rather be a door-keeper in the house of my God than to dwell in the tents of wickedness."

Again, the characteristic of a live church must be that it is a soul-saving church. It must be the old Gospel of Christ. "Oh," say some people, the Gospel of Christ allows but a small swing for a man's faculties, and some men have left the ministry with that idea." One such said to Rowland Hill: "I have left the ministry because I don't want to hide my talents any longer." "Well," replied Rowland Hill, "I think the more you hide your talents the better." Why, there is no field on earth so grand as that which is open before the Gospel ministry. Have you powers of analysis? Exhaust them here. Have you unconquerable logic? Let it grapple with Paul's Epistle to the Romans. Have you strong imagination? Let it discourse on the Psalms of David, or John's Apocalyptic Vision. Have you great power of pathos? Exhaust it in telling the story of a Saviour's love. Have you a bold style of thinking? Then follow Ezekiel's wheel, full of eyes, and hear through his chapters the rush of the wings of the seraphim. All ye who want a grand field in which to work for God, come into the Gospel ministry. At any rate, come into Christian circles, and somewhere and somehow declare the grace of God. Pardon for all sin. Comfort for all trouble. Eternal life for all the dead. O, my soul! preach it for ever. It has been my ambition, and I believe it has been yours, my dear people, in these years of my ministry, to have this a soul-saving Church, and we never yet threw out the Gospel net but we drew in a great multitude. They have come, a hundred at a time; and two hundred and fifty at a time; and I expect the day will appear when, in some service, there will be three thousand souls accepting the offers of eternal life. I wish I could tell you the circumstances that have come under my observation proving the fact that God has blessed the prayers of these people in behalf of souls immortal. I could tell you of one night, when I stood at the end of the platform, and a gentleman passed me, his cheek bronzed with the sea, and as he went into the inquiry-room he said to me: "I am an Englishman." I said: "I am very glad to see you; walk in." That night he gave his heart to the Lord. It was a clear case of quick but thorough conversion. Passing out at the close of the inquiry meeting, I said: "How long have you been in this country?" He said: "I arrived by steamer this morning at eleven o'clock." I said: "How long will you be in the city?" He said: "I have to-morrow for Canada, and thence I go to Halifax, and thence to Europe, and I'll never be here again." I said: "I think you must have come to this country to have your soul saved." He said: "That certainly was the reason." In that other room, one night, at the close of the service, there sat among other persons three persons, looking so cheerful that I said to myself: "These are not anxious inquirers." I said to the man: "Are you a Christian?" He said: "I am." I said: "When did you become a Christian?" He said: "To-night." His wife sat next to him. I said to her: "Are you a Christian?" She said: "I am." I said: "When did you become a Christian?" She said: "To-night." I remarked: "Is this young lady your daughter?" They said: "Yes." I said to her: "Are you a Christian?" She said: "Yes." I said: "When did you become a Christian?" She said: "To-night." I said to them: "From whence came you?" They said: "We are from Charleston, South Carolina." I said: "When did you came?" They said: "We came yesterday." "How long are you going to remain?" "We go to-morrow. We have never been here before, and shall never be here again." I have heard from them since. They are members of the Church of Jesus Christ, in good and regular standing, eminent for consistency and piety. And so God has made it a soul-saving Church. But I could tell you of a tragic scene, when once at the close of the service I found a man in one of these front seats, wrought upon most mightily. I said to him: "What is the matter?" He replied: "I am a captive of strong drink; I came from the West; I thought, perhaps, you could do me some good; I find you can't do me any good; I find there is no hope for me." I said: "Come into this side room and we will talk together." "Oh, no!" he said, "there's no need if my going in; I am a lost man; I have a beautiful wife; I have four beautiful children; I had a fine profession; I have had a thorough education; I had every opportunity a man ever had, but I am a captive of strong drink; God only knows what I suffer." I said: "Be encouraged; come in here, and we'll talk together about it." "No," he said, "I can't come; you can't do me me any good. I was on the Hudson River Railroad yesterday, and coming down, I resolved never again to touch a drop of strong drink. While I sat there a man came in—a low creature—and sat by me; he had a whiskey flask, and he said to me: 'Will you take a drink?' I said no; but oh how I wanted it! and as I said no, it seemed that the liquor curled up around the mouth of the flash and begged: 'Take me! take me! take me!' I felt I couldn't resist it, and yet I was determined not to drink, and I rushed out on the platform of the car, and I thought I would jump off; we were going at the rate of forty miles an hour, and I didn't dare to jump; the paroxysm of thirst went off, and I am here to-night." I said: "Come in, I'll pray for you, and commend you to God." He came in trembling. Some of you remember. After the service, we walked out and up the street. I said: "You have an awful struggle; I'll take you into a drug store: perhaps the doctor can give you some medicine that will help you in your struggle, though, after all, you will have to depend upon the grace of God." I said to the doctor: "Can you give this man something to help him in his battle against strong drink?" "I can," replied the doctor, and he prepared a bottle of medicine. I said: "There is no alcohol in this—no strong drink?" "None at all," said the doctor. "How long will this last?" I inquired. "It will last him a week." "O," I said, "give us another bottle." We passed out into the street and stood under the gaslight. It was getting late, and I said to the man: "I must part with you. Put your trust in the Lord, and He will see you through. You will make use of this medicine when the paroxysm of thirst comes on." A few weeks passed away, and I got a letter from Boston saying: "Dear friend, I inclose the money you paid for that medicine. I have never used any of it. The thirst for strong drink has entirely gone away from me. I send you two or three newspapers to show you what I have been doing since I came to Boston.' I opened the newspapers and saw accounts of meetings of two or three thousand people to whom this man had been preaching righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come. I have heard from him again and again since. He is faithful now, and will be, I know, faithful to the last. O, this work of soul saving! Would God that out of this audience to-day 500 men might hear the voice of the Son of God bidding them come to a glorious resurrection!

All the offers of the Gospel are extended to you, "without money and without price," and you are conscious of the fact that these opportunities will soon be gone forever. The conductor of a rail-train was telling me of the fact that he was one night standing by his train on a side track, his train having been switched off so that the express train might dart past unhindered. He said while he stood there in the darkness, beside his train on the side-track, he heard the thunder of the express in the distance. Then he saw the flash of the headlight. The train came with fearful velocity, nearer and nearer, until after awhile, when it came very near, by the flash of the headlight, he saw that the switchman, either through intoxication or indifference, had not attended to his duty, and that the train, unless something were done immediately, would rush on the side track and dash the other train to atoms. He shouted to the switchman: "Set up that switch!" and with one stroke the switch went back, and the express thundered on. O, men and women, going on toward the eternal world, swift as the years, swift as the months, swift as the days, swift as the hours, swift as the minutes, swift as the seconds—on what track are you running? Toward light or darkness? Toward victory or defeat? Toward heaven or hell? Set up that switch. Cry aloud to God. "Now is the day of salvation."

Making Fortunes in Washington.

I was walking up Sixteenth street, says a Washington correspondent, and I came to two stone houses of a bluish color, very well built. Said I: "Who is doing that work?" I was given the name of a man I imperfectly identified. "Who is he," I asked.

"Oh, he is the big pension agent here. He is worth $1,000,000."

This reminded me of a house in this city about seventeen years ago, which was a wonder of its day. I asked what rich man had built it. They told me at that time that it was built by the big claim agent in town—one who had made all his money out of a special class of claims known as prizes. We must not be surprised, however, that men make money by getting their commissions out of appropriations. Here is Mr. Corcoran, the big banker, who has been able to give away money in large sums for years, often to the good of the community and country; he belonged to a banking house which grew rich by dealing in the Government loans at the time of the Mexican war. The Government had to raise the money to carry on the war, and the Secretary of the Treasury at that time went over to this bank and offered a commission. The wealth merely arose from the enormous amount which incurred the shave. For an individual to borrow $100,000 is quite an operation. He goes to a bank and says: "I want this money and will pay 6 per cent. for it; I will give you ½ per cent. more to find me the money."

Now, this ½ per cent. is, I think, $500 upon every $100,000. On every $1,000,000 it is $5,000; on every $10,000,000 it is $50,000; on every $100,000,000 it is $500,000. The Mexican war took place forty years ago, and $500,000 turned over and over since that time is as large a fortune as is good for one man.

MOMENTS.

Oh, there are moments in man's mortal years,
When for an instant that which long has lain
Beyond our reach, is on a sudden found
In things of smallest compass, and we hold
The unbounded shut in one small minute's space,
And worlds within the hollow of our hand;
A world of music in one word of love,
A world of love in one quick wordless look.
A world of thought in one translucent phrase,
A world of memory in one mournful chord,
A world of sorrow in one little song.
Such moments are man's holiest; the divine
And first-sown seeds of love's eternity.

A Grandfather For Sale.

"It's all very well for you, Cabot, to quote that trite remark about rank being only the guinea's stamp. You know as well as I do that the social guinea—here in Boston, of all places—must be stamped before it will go into circulation. Society strongly resembles retail trade in this one particular. Let me offer a lump of the purest gold to any small dealer as payment for the goods I have bought of him, and he would at once say he'd rather have the dirtiest bank-note in town than my unstamped metal: wouldn't he?"

"Well, I suppose he would. If we were in a more primitive state of existence the yellow metal, as it came from mother earth, would satisfy our greed. Now it has to be vouched for as gold before it can take its proper position among the other circulating mediums."

"Exactly so! And as we are not in a primitive state, but a very 'highly cultured' one, I, for example, need to have a stamp before I can pass muster. All the wealth my Midas of a father left to me will not take me more than just so far; yet I dress according to the laws of to-day, I don't eat with my knife, I know how to raise my hat to a lady; in short, I flatter myself that I make a fairly good appearance. But I have no grandfather worth speaking of!" And though there was mock pathos in his tone, Maxwell Jennings meant more of what he said than he would have been willing his companion should suspect.

Edgar Cabot glanced at him a little contemptuously; then he allowed his eyes to wander enviously around the luxurious appointments of Maxwell's rooms. Everything bespoke an abundance of both money and taste on the part of the one who resided there. A casual observer would never have supposed that a man who could appreciate the engravings and books which crowded the walls and tables was a mushroom of an hour, the son of a man who had amassed a large fortune by the manufacture of rum and judicious speculations in stocks and mines. The moment that Tom Jennings's business and all other possessions fell into his son's hands, that young man sold the obnoxious distilleries and went abroad for three years to finish the studies his father had sent him there to begin. Old Tom Jennings had the sense to know that he could never aspire to any higher position in life than the one he was born into; but he was determined to "make Max a gentleman," and so far as cultivation and study could do it, he succeeded.

"By Jupiter, Jennings, if I had a tithe of your money I wouldn't care a picayune if I hadn't a grandfather!" sighed Cabot, whose bank account was as short as his pedigree was long.

"And I, Cabot, would give a hundred thousand dollars this minute if I had one of your dignified ancestors," Jennings answered, earnestly. "Yes, I'd give it gladly if I in any way could claim a great-uncle or grandfather of note!"

"A fellow has a perfect right to sell what is indubitably his own, hasn't he?" asked Cabot, thoughtfully.

"Of course he has."

"I, as everyone knows, am the last of my line of the Cabots. I am badly in want of money; you think yourself—or, to be more exact, Dr. and Mrs. Randall think you—badly in want of ancestors. What will you give me for, say old Colonel Cabot? The one, you know, who was killed in King Philip's war."

"What an absurd idea!" exclaimed Jennings, with a laugh.

"Not at all absurd. The old codger is now my great uncle; if I sell him to you, why, of course, he'll be your's. Or, if you don't like him, there's my grandfather, Judge Cabot—how will he fill your bill? Now, Jennings, don't look so amused. I assure you I am in dead earnest. I am so hard up I'd sell my soul—much more such a trifle as a grandfather—for a hundred thousand dollars."

Jennings knew that Cabot spoke the truth about his financial condition, and, being a good-natured fellow, who was grateful to Cabot for several introductions which he valued very highly, especially the one to the aforementioned Randalls, determined to help Cabot out of his pecuniory quagmire by humoring him in his ridiculous proposition.

"I declare, Cabot, if the thing were feasible I'd accept your offer with immense gratitude. But suppose I should tell anyone that Judge Cabot belonged to me, who would believe me?"

"If you were to buy him of me you'd give me a receipt for him, I suppose! Just as I would give you a receipt for the money you paid me for him."

"Certainly I should," answered Jennings, laughing at the idea of giving a receipt for an ancestor.

"Then you could truthfully say that you had documentary evidence that Judge Cabot was an ancestor of your own, and that would settle it, as I would be careful to say so, too, for people rarely insist upon one's proving that So-and-so is his 'kin'; and if anybody was still dubious you could be justly indignant because your word was doubted."

"I think if I buy one of them I would like to have the other to keep him company; he might feel lonesome so entirely out of his element. What will you take for the two?" asked Jennings, seriously.

Cabot looked fixedly at him for an instant; then, seeing that he was in earnest, answered:

"Oh, I'll not bargain with you in this trade. I'll be grateful if you will give me a hundred thousand for the two of 'em—the old Colonel and the Judge."

"Are you sure that will satisfy you? Suppose I say a hundred and twenty-five for the two?"

"That will suit me still better, of course," said Cabot aloud. To himself he added: "The fellow is a bigger muff than I thought. However, he is a good fellow, and I will help him swear that they are his kinsmen, just to see how many gullible fools there are in the world."

"How will you have the money? In bonds or real estate?" asked Jennings, "or a happy combination of both?"

"If you are really in earnest, I would prefer a little of both."

"Meet me at the Suffolk Bank to-morrow, at ten, and I will turn the 'tin' over to you. It is an hour that will suit you, I suppose, as you are a man of leisure?"

The hour and the whole tenor of the proposition suited Cabot to a nicety; so the next day the transfer was made, Jennings receiving, in lieu of a given sum of money, a receipt for "all right and title to the possession of the late Colonel Henry Cabot and the late Judge Frederic Cabot, formerly the possession of Edgar Cabot, and to all honors, rank, glory, etc., which may accrue from the ownership of the same."

A few days later Cabot proposed the name of Maxwell as a member of the very exclusive West End club to which he belonged. At this proposition there was some demur, and Cabot quietly said to one of the objectors:

"I know what you fellows are thinking of. You fancy that Max has nothing but his money to back him for admittance here, but you are mistaken. I happen to know—know, mind you—that he can claim lawful ownership in his excellency, the late Judge Cabot. He has papers in his possession which prove it."

"Are you sure?" was the amazed inquiry.

"I am. I have seen the documents to which I refer."

"It must have been on his mother's side if there was such relationship."

"Did you never hear of my aunt, Letitia, who disappeared so mysteriously?"

"I thought she committed suicide."

"Some of us Cabots are such lunatics that we think suicide preferable to a mesalliance," replied Cabot, significantly.

So the story went around that Max Jennings had just discovered that he was a decendant of the old Cabot family, and when his name was proposed for election there was not a single black ball against him. He was accordingly notified that he was duly elected a member of the Miles Standish Club.

As soon as Jennings received this notification he hastened to the Reception Committee of said club, and explained the whole matter to them. Whereat, pleased with his frankness, and highly amused at the absurdity of the transaction, the club, at its next meeting, unanimously elected him a member "on his own merits, and not those of his supposititious ancestors;" and also, equally unanimously, dropped from its roll the name of Edgar Cabot, "A man who could sell his grandfather not being worthy of the noble name of a Miles Standish Brother," was the verdict.

Dr. Randall, in common with most of the sons of the first settlers, was a member of this same club, so he naturally told his wife about the transaction between Cabot and Jennings. She answered:

"I am sure it evinces a very proper feeling on Mr. Jennings' part to want a grandfather; but surely he must have known that such a sale was impossible. What better off is he for the nominal ownership of Judge Cabot? Does it give him any of the Cabot virtues?"

"Has the actual ownership of such a grandfather given Edgar Cabot any of those virtues? Do you think the Judge has much to be proud of in such an heir?" asked her husband.

"You know, my dear, I never had any love for Edgar Cabot, and I have still less for him now. Do you suppose that Mr. Jennings had any idea that this purchase would enhance his value in our eyes? He has certainly been very attentive to Olive lately, and I have feared that she liked him too well."

"That will never do!" exclaimed the doctor, emphatically. "I cannot have one of my girls marry the son of that old Tom Jennings, a most disreputable old creature who possessed but one virtue, that of generosity, so far as I can hear. No, no; that must not be! I have nothing against Max Jennings himself, but 'blood will tell,' you know."

"As it has done in the case of Edgar Cabot," said Mrs. Randall, dryly. She liked Max, and she more than suspected that Olive returned the love which Max so evidently felt for her, and she did wish that there could be some way devised by which he could be transformed into a suitable husband for her. And then his wealth, too! Poor Olive had not all the pretty things which girls of her age ought to have, the mother felt.

"There are exceptions to all rules," said the doctor, concisely, "and Edgar Cabot is the exception to this one."

"May not Max Jennings be also an exception?" suggested Mrs. Randall, but her husband made no reply, only became suddenly very much interested in the evening paper.

A little later, in all about two months after the purchase of his ancestor, Jennings called on Dr. Randall's family one evening, and Olive's younger sister, an irrepressible girl of thirteen, named Pauline, said to him, somewhat abruptly:

"Oh, Mr. Jennings, is it true that you have bought Mr. Cabot's grandfather?"

"It is true that Judge Cabot now belongs to me—that he is my grandfather," was Max's answer.

"Since Pauline has broached the subject, Mr. Jennings," said Mrs. Randall, "I must own that I am a little curious to know what gave rise to this remarkable story which is going around about you and Edgar Cabot."

"Oh, it is very simple. Cabot was hard up, and I traded off a few dollars for an ancestor or two," replied Max, lightly.

"Do you really mean to claim those dead Cabots for your own?" asked Dr. Randall, a little testily.

"I do. Why not?" was Max's query. "Is not what you pay for your own?"

Dr. Randall could neither say yes nor no. While he was hesitating for a suitable answer which should cover the whole ground and yet not hurt Max's feelings, Max continued:

"You know, sir, that you value descent above money. Let us suppose a case; if a man had a daughter, and two men were to present themselves as suitors, the one with a good name but a poor purse, the other in exactly the reverse condition, to which would you advise her to give an affirmative answer?"

Dr. Randall appreciated the full meaning of this question, which was even harder than the previous one to be answered. He could not collect his thoughts as quickly as his older daughter did, however. Before her father could frame a reply, Olive said, determinedly:

"I think it would be well to let the girl have some voice in such a matter. I think that the characters of the two men ought to be taken into consideration. I don't believe any girl would want a man who could sell his grandfather. She'd be more apt to see worthy qualities in the one who didn't consider money the only thing worth having."

There was no mistaking the significance of Olive's tones, or of her flushed face. Dr. Randall loved his children, so, saying to himself: "Max is at heart a gentleman, in spite of his extraction; perhaps there was good blood on his mother's side," he pretended to make a jest of the whole matter, and answered:

"Ah, Max, you see what a minority I am in! My wife always agrees with Olive, and even Pauline echoes her, so I dare not dispute a word she says."

Max looked pleased, and Mrs. Randall positively beamed on her husband. But fancy the feelings of all when Max said:

"The most singular part of the whole affair is this: One of my—of old Tom Jennings's friends heard of this bargain between Cabot and me, and put me in the way of proving that Tom Jennings adopted me in my earliest infancy out of an orphan asylum, where I dad been placed by mother just before her death. She was in consumption, and as her last few hours drew near she made a confidant of Tom Jennings's wife, and told her that she had been deceived by a false marriage between herself and the father of this Edgar Cabot. As the years passed, and Tom found that the Cabots were not, as a rule, dissolute men, he thought he would investigate the so-called false marriage. He did so, and found that it was a genuine one; that my father, Edgar Cabot, Sr., had had no intention of deceiving my mother, but having died suddenly before my birth, had kept the marriage secret only for fear of his father's wrath, for my mother was a plain farmer's daughter, poor but honest, as the phrase is. Old Tom had become fond of me, and knowing that the Cabots had nothing to bequeath me except the name, he legally adopted me as his son. So, you see, I purchased my ancestors of my older half-brother, Edgar Cabot. I came here to-night, Dr. Randall, to tell you this story: To-morrow—"

"Max, was your mother's name Rachel?" Dr. Randall asked, abruptly.

"Yes; Rachel Dennison, of Weston Mills."

"I was present at your birth, boy, and your mother told me this story. I investigated it for her sake, and found it true, your father having been a widower before he met your mother. When I next saw her she was dead and the baby had vanished, so the whole thing went out of my mind until this moment." Here the doctor had to pause to rub his spectacles, and Pauline took advantage of the brief silence to say:

"Now that you've got a grandfather of your own, I suppose you and Olive will be getting married, and then you'll be my brother Max, will you not?"—Frances E. Wadleigh, in the Current.

Stanton and the President.

We quote the following anecdote from "Recollections of Secretary Stanton," by a clerk of the War Department, in the Century: "When Mr. Stanley, of North Carolina, was appointed Military Governor of his State, the Secretary of War caused to be filled out one of the blank forms used for notifying military nominees of their appointment to office by the President, and when he had signed it and caused the seal of the Department of War to be attached to it, he concluded that it would be well to have the sign manual of the President affixed to the instrument. He sent the commission to the White House, with the request that the President would sign and return it immediately. Mr. Lincoln took the document and read it carefully, and then began turning and twisting it about, as though in search of something. At last he handed it to the bearer and said, ironically:

"Did Mr. Stanton say where I was to put my signature?"

"'No, sir,' replied the astonished clerk.

"'Can you tell me,' asked the President, 'Whereabouts on this paper I am to put my signature?' The clerk looked at the commission and saw the ample signature of Mr. Stanton immediately at the foot of the body of the instrument, with the counter-signature of the Adjutant-General to the left. He also saw a neat, snug-looking white space beneath the sign-manual of the Secretary of War which Mr. Lincoln might have occupied to advantage had he seen fit, but the clerk was politic and replied: 'I don't see any place provided for your signature, Mr. President,' and was proceeding to explain how the omission obviously came about when the President interrupted him and said in a dignified tone: "Take the paper back to the Secretary of War, with my compliments, and say that the President will promptly sign any proper commission that may be sent to him for Governor Stanley or anybody else.'"

The World's Rain.

Could we but utilize all the water-power lifted from the ocean by the sunbeams and wafted by the zephyrs over the land, what vast factories might we run! What magnified Niagaras might we create! In a recent paper to the Royal Society of Edinburgh, Mr. John Murray sought to give the world's rainfall in figures. The areas of country having an inland drainage—equal to 11,486,350 square miles—receive 2,243 cubic miles of rain yearly. The total areas draining directly to the ocean equal 44,211,000 square miles, of which 38,889,750 square miles have more than ten inches of annual rainfall, and discharge into the sea 6,500 cubic miles of water each year. By this means rather more than 5,000,000,000 tons of solids are carried to the ocean annually.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Weight of a Cubic Foot.

	Lbs. Avo.		Lbs. Avo.
Anthracite coal	54	Soil, common	124
Bituminous coal	50	Sand	95
Brass	504½	Tallow	59
Bricks	125	Water, pure	62½
Copper	555	Water, sea	64¼
Clay	135	Wood, oak	55
Granite	165	Yellow pine	[illegible]
Iron, wrought	[illegible]	White pine	[illegible]
Iron, cast	[illegible]	Charcoal, hard	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]	Charcoal, pine	[illegible]
Marble	171	Cork	[illegible]

SONG OF THE COUNTRY LASS.

I sing the song of the country lass;
In the dew of the morning I saw her pass
The way of the woodland road along,
And the sighing voice of a passing breeze
Among the boughs of the bending trees
Brought to my ears her happy song:

"I would not leave this pathway sweet
For the finest marble paved street
That winds its way 'mid the city's din,
Or leave the forest's graceful shade
For the fairest park man's hands have made
That lies the busy mart within.

"Though briars catch my homespun gown
And the woodland tendrils snare the ground,
While a robin carols in notes so clear,
Methinks 'twere only their wish to say,
Each in their gentle, loving way,
'Linger, O maiden, and rest thee here!'

"I've wondered sometimes if its heartless frown
Hurries the step of the city's throng.
From the break of dawn to the set of sun
No living welcome awaits the eye,
Each looks in coldness and hurries by,
Till the busy strife of the day is done.

"The city maid, clad in silk and sheen,
Sees not what I see in its shimmering gleam;
A woof and a warp of misery,
Whose every thread is an atom life,
That's dyed in hatred, in wrong and strife,
And spun in the looms of poverty.

"My homely garb bears no touch of ill,
Though heavy the thread, it carries still
A charm her richer garb ne'er knew—
Touches of lightness from sunny air,
Touches of brightness from skies so fair,
With love and contentment running through.

"Her lover—they often tell me so—
Waiteth her bidding with courtly bow
And flattering speech in the festive hall.
Yet weighs the charm of her speech and grace
'Gainst her rival's beauty of form and face,
And the glitter of gold outshines them all.

"My own dear John, whose song so gay
Floats up from the meadows far away,
Plies a busy sickle in bending wheat.
He has no studied words to tell,
And yet I doubt not he loves me well,
As he hastens my woodland way to meet.

"The city's churches are high and grand
By fretted arches and columns spanned,
Wherein are gathered both pomp and pride,
Whose choir and organ unite to raise
A song of heaven for the world to praise,
And a golden image is deified.

"The chapel yonder is old and drear,
For a moss and memory of many a year
Around its portals in beauty cling,
But over it all is the Sabbath day
Nature is keeping for aye and aye,
And God has hallowed the worshipping."

—Edith K. Perry.

PITH AND POINT.

A parting injunction—"Right down the middle, barber."—Detroit Free Press.

A blind man in Iowa can tell the color of a red-hot stove simply by touching it.—Puck's Annual.

John and Ida married lived
In Idaho forlorn,
'Cause John Jung round the tavern
And let Idaho the corn.

On the Rolling Deep. First Passenger—"Well, old boy, what's up this afternoon?" Second Passenger—"All but the soup."—London Scraps.

A Georgia woman looked through twenty-six different novels to find a name for her girl baby, and finally settled on Marier.—Burlington Free Press.

"Don't be a fool," she said, with a snap, to her husband. "Why didn't you tell me that when I asked you to marry me?" he replied; and silence fell upon that house.—Washington Critic.

A Chicago detective wrote to a client: "I have found time to drop you a line." The client replied that he was glad he had found something, as he was getting a little discouraged.—Puck's Annual.

"Pa, have you the hydrophobia?" "No, Bertie; what makes you ask that question?" "Well, I heard ma say to-day that you got awfully bitten when you thought she had a fortune in her own name."—Harper's Bazar.

CUPID EUCHRED.

I waited his coming a year,
And I thought: "When he comes, he'll propose."
I practiced his favorite songs,
I brought out my prettiest clothes—
A love of a gown, made by Worth,
Tender blue, with a touch of pale rose;
For hours I polished my nails;
I read up both poems and prose,
But alas! when the fatal day came,
I'd a boil on the end of my nose!

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Thought is invisible nature—nature is invisible thought.

Unless the habit leads to happiness, the best habit is to contract none.

The noontide sun is dark, and music discord, when the heart is low.

Pleasure is the flower that fades; remembrance is the lasting perfume.

There cannot be a more worthy improvement of friendship than in a fervent opposition to the sins of those whom we profess to love.

Every generous illusion adds a wrinkle in vanishing. Experience is the successive disenchantment of the things of life. It is reason enriched by the spoils of the heart.

Homes are like harps, of which one is finely carved and bright with gilding, but ill-tuned, and jarring the air with its discords; while another is old and plain and worn, but from its cords float strains that are a feast of music.

Learn from the earliest days to insure your principles against the perils of ridicule; you can no more exercise your reason if you live in the constant dread of laughter than you can enjoy your life if you are in the constant terror of death.

In ourselves, rather than in material nature, lie the true source and life of the good and beautiful. The human soul is the sun which diffuses light on everything, investing creation with its lovely hues, and calling forth the poetic element that lies hidden in every existing thing.

Our powers are limited. We can never see the whole of anything, however simple it may appear; and the more complex the object, the smaller the fraction that we behold. If we can never [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 21, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The Tuskaloosa Gazette is now publishing a daily.

The general public are still awaiting the publication of a report showing the state of the county treasury. County Treasurer Parish says he is willing to have such a report published, but it is hinted that there are others in prominent places who do not wish it published, for private reasons no doubt, as they don't even seem willing to let the public know their reasons. It is said that some of them get nervous whenever we touch upon the subject.

Death of Prof. Gesner.

New was received in this city yesterday of the death of Prof. Wm. Gesner, which occurred at his residence in Birmingham. Prof. Gesner was one of the best informed men in Alabama, as to the mineral resources of the state, having made the subject a matter of deep study and thorough investigation for many years past.—Dispatch.

Prof. Gesner will be remembered by our citizens as the chemist who gave us such a splendid analysis of our hot well water, claiming for it all the medicinal qualities of the Hot Springs water and the temperature several degrees hotter. He was State geologist at one time.

Vincent's Bond.

A reporter of the Montgomery Advertiser has brought to light the missing record book in which Vincent's bond was recorded. He learned from the ex-Treasurer that the book had been placed by him on the safe in the vault of the Treasurer's office, four years ago. Vincent was positive that it was still there if no one had been able to find it, and the reporter proceeded to look for it finding the long lost book behind the safe instead of on top of it.

Gov. Cobb, who approved the bond could only recall the names of Merrill E. Pratt, Daniel Crawford, J. J. Robinson and J. M. Driver. Mr. Driver is dead and the others have long since compromised the matter and been released. Three other names were found on the bond, and they were: B. L. Dyer, D. G. Allen and G. L. Griffin. Of course they are yet liable, but what the extent of their property is is not yet known.

Mr. Chappell Cory, whose letters to his paper, the Montgomery Advertiser, are always readable and interesting, concludes a letter from the State University with the following sensible and philosophical remarks:

A word about a prejudice that some absurd persons tried to start a few years ago against colleges. I believe the effort has about died away. Colleges preceded the common schools and blazed the way for them. Philosophers were teaching their philosophies to the few before the schoolmaster was abroad. Oxford drew beggars in pursuit of the mysteries before ever the monotonous a-b, ab, was heard in the school house by the roadside. Scholarship in a few was ahead of the art of reading by the many. Intelligence spreads downward. Abolish the common schools and leave the colleges, and enough general intelligence would soon radiate abroad to re-establish the system. Abolish the colleges and the Normal schools and the high schools and leave us to the level of scholarship and intelligence where the common school quits a pupil, and a common school system would speedily die of its own accord. Civilization began with the college and has progressed to the common school. The former is the foundation and bulwark of the latter. So much for truth's sake. The University is not something apart from the humblest and poorest citizen. It is not above him, and useless to him because he nor his boy will ever see it. No home circle can spare it and not be the poorer.

C. C.

AN ACT

To authorize the Probate Judge of Chilton county to order an election for the purpose of electing officers of the town of Clanton in said county.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That the Probate Judge of Chilton county is hereby authorized and empowered to order the Sheriff of Chilton county to give notice of, and to hold an election in the town of Clanton in said county, for the purpose of electing one intendant and five councilors for said town of Clanton, according to the provisions of Chapter 1, Title XIV. Part 1 of the Code of 1876. Provided, That the officers elected under this act, shall not be authorized to levy or collect a per capita tax for the purpose of opening or repairing streets or to enact any ordinance requiring personal services for the same.

Approved February 24, 1887.

THOS. SEAY, Governor.

A true copy:

C. C. LANGDON, Sec'y of State.

The Democrats of the city of Montgomery have re-nominated W. S. Reese for Mayor. Mr. R. W. Sharp is running in opposition as an independent candidate.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sep11 3

Notice to Delinquents.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
CHILTON COUNTY. } TO

Harrison Foshee, French Nabors, Thos. Peters, John Attaway, D. A. Caine, Unknown Owner or D. Haywood, D. T. Blakey, J. P. Batson, Mrs. Sidney Elsworth, John P. Streety, M. Benjamin, R. A. Warner, W. L. Witworth, J. E. Butler, R. R. Carathers, and Unknown Owners:

The tax collector has filed in my office a list of delinquent tax payers and real estate upon which taxes are due. Each of you are reported as delinquents, and the following lands are reported as assessed to each of you as follows:

BEAT 1.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for State and county taxes and costs, $2.70. Printer's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Total assesment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 2.

To Harrison Foshee for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the s e ¼ sec 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 7 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.96. Pr's fee $1.94.

To French Nabors for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12 and the s e ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 16 t 24 r 13 and the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 16 t 24 r 13 and the n e ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 21 t 24 r 13 and the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 22 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes costs $7.60. Pr's fee $3.29.

To Thomas Peters for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $13.70. Pr's fee $3.44.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 3.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the n w q sec 25 t 22 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 4.

To John Attaway for the year 1886 the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $6.00. Pr's fee $2.27.

To D. A. Caine for the year 1886 the n e q of sec 16 t 22 r 14 and the n w q of sec 15 t 22 r 14 and the s w q of the s w q and a part of the s e q of the s w q in sec 10 t 22 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $14.20. Pr's fee $2.66.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner or D. Haywood for the year 1886 the s w q of the s e q and the s ½ of the s w q in sec 28 t 23 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.90. Pr's fee $1.85.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n ½ of the s e q in sec 29 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.90. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 Lot No. 10 in block 6, east of S and N Rail Road in Clanton Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $1.60. Pr's fee $1.49.

BEAT 5.

To D. T. Blakey for the year 1886 the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.95. Pr's fee $1.49.

To J. P. Batson for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena, Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $11.50. Pr's fee $1.25.

To Mrs Sydney Ellsworth for the year 1886 the w ½ of the n e q in sec 10 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs 88 cents Pr's fee $1.40.

To John P. Streety for the year 1886 a house and lot at Mountain Creek, Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $6.00. Pr's fee $1.19.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of n e q in sec 19 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s e q sec 19 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.40.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s ½ of the s e ¼ in sec 15 t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner or M. Benjamine for the year 1886 the s half of the s w q in sec 14 t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.55.

To R. A. Warner, Agent, for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $23.49. Pr's fee $1.22.

To W. L. Whitworth for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.05. Pr's fee $1.52.

BEAT 8.

To J. E. Butler for the year 1886 the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33 t 20 r 11. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.20. Pr's fee $1.85.

To R. R. Carathers for the year 1886 the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e q of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.30. Pr's fee $2.69.

This is to notify each of you to appear before me on Monday, the 9th day of May next, and then and there to show cause why a decree for the sale of said lands should not be made for each of the above amounts specified, and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs.

H. J. CALLEN,
Judge of Probate.

April 14th, 1887.

NOTICE NO. 6246.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., Mar. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, on April 23rd, 1887, viz: William H. Wells, Homestead 11507 for the e ½ of sw ¼, section 28, township 22, range 15. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: Andrew J. Duncan, Thomas G. Taylor, Henry C. Johnson and Sidney A. Blasingame, all of Clanton, Ala.

mar17* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6282.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John D. Selman, homestead 12687, for the w ½ of ne ¼ section 22, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Job printing neatly executed at this office.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

Barclift & Co.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS and GROCERIES
NORTH SIDE OF SEC. AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery Line. [mar 24-1y

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

NOTICE NO. 6297.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
April 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Alabama, on May 14, 1887, viz: Asa J. Robinson, Homestead 18106 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, n e of s e ¼ sec 24 township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Roberts, John Roberts, William Klinner and William W. Green, all of Dixie, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6293.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the clerk of the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 14th, 1887, viz: Abraham C. Mims, homestead 10868 for the s w ¼ of sec 24 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, Linsey W. Henly, William P. Headley, James R. Broadhead, all of Kincheen, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6283.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John Bearden, homestead 14409, for the sw ¼ of nw ¼ and nw ¼ of sw ¼, section 14, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John D. Selman, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6284.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: Nathan D. Ellis, Homestead 12031, for n ½ of ne ¼, sec. 26, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, John D. Selman, Claton Hall, Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.
I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!
During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!
COLLINS'
AGUE CURE
One Dose a day, taken three days in succession each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.
If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S
Syrup LUNGWORT & WILDCHERRY
Sold at 25cts, 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.
If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.
Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.
SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC" for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., St. Louis, Mo.
jun24-y

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all
NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A., Louisville, Ky.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.
NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
NO TEXT BOOKS USED.
BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.
We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.
We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.
No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.
For circulars call at college or address
Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Successors to
MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.
Jobbers and Retailers of
Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,
Painters' and Artists' Supplies.
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.
1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE
SECOND AVENUE BETWEEN 18TH AND 19TH STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Pat Walsh, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand. All Kinds of
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov 11

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton. } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 408 Third Street,
Louisville, Ky.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. } References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 21, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

The Merchant and the Printer.

A printer stood at the desk of a business man the other day, and noticed him using letter and bill heads bought of an eastern house. Said the printer, who was a customer, "what would you think of me if I were to go east and buy your line of goods for myself and family?" The merchant replied: "I would think you a fool when I know you can get the same goods as cheap from me and aid a fellow citizen." When the printer called his attention to the imported letter and bill heads the merchant coughed and went behind the counter to wait on a customer. And the same merchant only a few days before asked the printer to give him a free puff about his big stock of new goods.—Greenville (Texas) Herald.

More rain needed.

Prayer-meeting to-night.

Services at the Baptist church next Sunday.

Mr. B. H. Chesnutt, of this place, is quite sick.

The measles have about spent their force in Clanton.

Work on the new Methodist church progresses slowly.

Ladies' gloves and parasols for sale over the drug store.

Mr. Aldridge, of Calera, visited relatives in Clanton last week.

Picnic season is at hand but we do not know of any to be had soon.

Mr. Gallaspie and family, of Montgomery are visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mrs. B. T. Rasberry, of Benson neighborhood, died on Thursday evening last.

Work on the colored people's new church building has been abandoned for the present.

The Ladies Aid Society will give an ice cream and strawberry supper sometime in May next.

Mrs. O. A. Duke will go to Blount Springs for her health. She is convalescing from a severe spell of fever.

Dr. J. P. Givhan, of Strasburg, attended the recent meeting of the State Medical Association in Tuskaloosa.

Master Bennie Lane, the pet of the Montgomery Advertiser office, is visiting friends in Clanton this week.

The small boy with a fishing pole on his shoulder and his mouth full of bait is no novel sight in these parts now.

For the benefit of all interested in the progress and prosperity of our town we publish the law relating to the election of town officers.

On last Saturday, Mr. H. C. Thornton purchased the four cottage residences recently erected by Mr. R. Ehrman, situated on the block just west of the cemetery. We are glad to see such men as Mr. Thornton investing money in our town, and we feel sure that his investment will be a paying one.

Sampey's Corner.

Dull trade is worse than swapping dollars, so come along to town and bring your money and Sampey will sell you the goods you want whether he makes a big profit or none at all. He has the goods and did not buy them to keep for show, but for you to use.

Death of Dr. I. D. Lanier.

The sad intelligence of the death of Dr. I. D. Lanier at his home in Calera, on the evening of the 13th inst., was received in Clanton with profound sorrow by all of our people who knew him when he resided here. His physicians assigned the immediate cause of his death to acute bronchitis, though he had been in failing health for some time past. His remains were brought to this place on Thursday, the 14th, in charge of a delegation of members of the Calera Lodge of Knights of Honor, and interred in the family burial ground at the Clanton cemetery, where rest all that is mortal of two of his children.

Dr. Lanier was born at Huntsville, Ala., on November 5th, 1831. After reaching mature years he moved to Autauga county, where he studied medicine under an uncle, having previously taken a classical course at the University of Virginia. He graduated at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in the class of 1854-5, and began practicing in Montgomery; removing shortly to Autaugaville. He lived at the latter place until after the war, when for a short time he practiced in Lowndes county, and from there moved to Chilton, settling at Clanton, where he resided until a few years since, when misfortunes turned his attention to other fields.

Under all of his reverses he was uncomplaining and even cheerful, and had ever an encouraging and cheering word for those around him. Though of a quiet demeanor and possessed of innate modesty, yet he was a truly brave man and a just man.

It is difficult for mortals to understand—something that our limited comprehension cannot grasp — why the Almighty should see best to take from his family such a man at a time when his strong heart and willing hand was sorely needed to lighten their burdens through a rugged life. The near ones that remain here yet awhile have a consolation in the knowledge that they have a friend on the other shore to meet and welcome them when they too are called to join the throng in the great beyond. Such a knowledge should take from death any terrors that it may possess for them.

In the death of Dr. Lanier this section has lost a true and brave man, a good and useful citizen; and the friends who mourn his sad and untimely death are many.

Peace to his ashes.

On Monday night a man named Church, unknown here, attempted to get aboard a freight train at the depot in this place and got his feet caught under the car wheels and badly mashed. He had no money to pay for a ride and being refused a ride by the conductor he attempted to get on a coal car as the train started, with the above result. Some of our young men who were at the depot paid his fare to Birmingham and sent him up on the 9:43 express train. He claimed to have a brother in that city.

Quarterly conference of the Methodist church was held at this place last Saturday and Sunday. The services were conducted throughout the meeting by the presiding elder, Rev. H. Urquhart. He preached instructive sermons and gave a vigorous and interesting talk Sunday afternoon to large congregations. Verbena Methodist Church was well represented by the presence of several of its members.

Our energetic depot agent, Mr. L. Holt, seeking exercise, had a spirited wrestle with a horse and buggy the other day. He managed to throw the horse down and turn the buggy over on top of him without any damage to anything or anybody, but says he hasn't taken so much exercise all at once in twenty years, and is willing to postpone further proceedings in that line.

We have a scholarship in the Bryant & Stratton Business College, Louisville, Ky., a scholarship in the Louisville Shorthand & Type-writing Institute, Louisville, and a scholarship in the Kentucky University, at Lexington, Ky., which includes both a business and collegiate course. We will sell any and all of them at a considerable discount off the prices to be paid at the colleges.

Col. R. H. Knox, of this place, came near meeting with a serious accident Tuesday evening. He attempted to get on the south bound mail train after it had started off and was struck by the signal post as the train passed it and knocked off on his back with his legs under the coach. Parties who were standing near pulled him out just in time to prevent the wheels from running over his legs.

Mr. C. W. Stanley showed us a specimen of lead on Monday last, which to our limited knowledge on such matters seemed very fine indeed. Ninety-nine hundredths lead would not be an exaggerated estimate we do not think. Mr. S. did not tell us the exact location of this lead mine but said it was in our county. He sent specimens to Birmingham to be analyzed.

Messrs. J. W. Gullahorn & Bro., of this place, have again gone into the saw mill business. They have a mill a few miles from Cooper's Station, which will be their shipping point.

A new supply of ladies' hats just received over the drug store.

Now is the time to subscribe.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Dots From Concord.

The weather is quite dry at the present.

Farmers have commenced planting cotton in this community.

We hate to chronicle the death of Mrs. Blankingship who died last Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock, from consumption. She had been for a year or more sick with this disease. She leaves a husband and 7 children.

Mrs. Mary Ann West has been quite sick for the last week.

Success to the VIEW.

PEACEFUL BOY.

Chandler's Mill.

The weather remains dry.

Divine services were held here last Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Dykes. His text was taken from Revelation 21st chapter and 1st and 2nd verses. We had a very nice singing school at 4 p. m., the same day, conducted by Rev. Mr. Todd. We also had a splendid prayer meeting at 8 o'clock the same evening.

Congregational Methodists hold their district Conference at this place commencing Friday the 22nd, and continuing through Saturday and Sunday the 23rd and 24th.

Walter Johnson and family are visiting friends at Mountain Creek.

Pay day has passed and left the employees with smiling faces.

HUSTLER.

Verbena.

Mr. C. M. Williamson has returned home from a visit in Florida, and we are glad to know is improved in health.

We had two excellent sermons Sunday in the Baptist Church by Rev. J. C. Wate, of Montgomery, also a magnificent Sunday School lecture from him. He is a Sunday school evangelist for the Baptist Church.

Miss Bell Haralson is visiting her father, Mr. J. L. Haralson, at this place.

A fishing party consisting of Dr. Williamson, Mr. K. Wells and others went from here to the Tensas river last week. They report a jolly time and say they ate so much fish that they did not want any nourishment for three days. Pretty good fishing that, and pretty good eating too.

A difficulty occurred in East Verbena Saturday night between James McDowell and one Wilson, the former drawing his knife and making the latter retreat. Neither hurt.

Mr. K. Wells leaves this week for Texas accompanied by his wife and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Mullins, of Kincheon. They will probably spend the summer.

Several residences are receiving new coats of paint this week. Our town is coming to the front rapidly.

The Atlanta & Alabama Railroad, which will make its way through our county to Selma, Ala., it is thought by some, will pass through Verbena. If so, then our town will boom.

The VIEW seems not properly patronized in our community. Why not every citizen of the county subscribe for the VIEW and keep strictly up with the county news. It is to your interest.

We have plenty of news but we will stop for fear we crowd your space. Always success to the VIEW.

WATCHMAN.

Dots From Elmore.

Elmore still booming, one young lady has left, boys down-cast.

Mr. W. J. Estes with his interesting family has moved in and occupies the residence recently occupied by Mr. Davis.

Quarterly meeting at the M. E. Church was held here last Friday, conducted by the Rev. H. Urquhart, assisted by Rev. J. P. Hamiliton from Wetumpka.

Mrs. Cox, from Macon, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Raney, has returned home.

The southern part of our county is wild on the subject of sand; nearly every second man you meet has an auger 8 feet long, boring with the expectation of finding a gold mine, or its equivalent. Sand is surely valuable.

Mrs. Jones from West Tenn., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Willoughby, has returned home.

Mr. Willoughby our clever and efficient agent, is also a very successful teacher in the Sunday School.

Gov. Watts paid our town a short visit last week.

Another store opened in town.

One of the most terrific dog fights of the season, occurred on our streets one evening last week, lasting about one half hour. The police, as usual, arrived after the fight was over.

Miss Lula Hogan, one of the prettiest young ladies of the county was in our town on Sunday week.

The charming and beautiful Miss Virgie Smith, has returned to her home in Verbena followed by the best wishes of all she met, and many various feelings in the hearts of several of our young men. All anticipate with great pleasure her sunny smiles, modest manners, and genial ways, when she pays her promised visit in May.

May the VIEW ever boom.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. ☞ Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Valuable Real Estate FOR SALE.

:o:

A new five room residence at the hot well.

A seven room residence situated on a beautiful corner lot in town.

One hundred and twenty-five acres of land with a good 5 room residence, good water. Only four miles from town over good road.

Apply to W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Real Estate Agents, Clanton, Ala.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between S. A. Blasingame and J. M. Stanfield under the firm name and style of Blasingame & Stanfield was dissolved by mutual consent on the 5th day of April, 1887. All debts are to be received by either party and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to either partner. Either partner is allowed to use the firm name in liquidation of debts due the late partnership.

S. A. BLASINGAME,
J. M. STANFIELD.

April 5, 1887.

Administrator's Sale.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the honorable M. T. Porter Judge of Probate for Jefferson county, Alabama, I will sell at public auction in front of the courthouse at Clanton in Chilton county, Alabama, on Monday, the 2d day of May, 1887, at twelve o'clock m., all the following described real estate belonging to the estate of N. H. Thornton deceased, to-wit: The north half of northeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of northwest quarter of section seven township twenty-one and range fifteen.

Also northeast quarter of northeast quarter of section twenty-eight, township twenty-two and range fourteen. Also lot No. 2, block one, and the east half of lot 8 block 2, in the town of Clanton, on the west side of the South and North Alabama Railroad, all in Chilton county, Ala., with all the improvements thereon.

These lots are most desirably located in the thriving town of Clanton, county seat of Chilton county, Ala., noted for its pure atmosphere and water and close proximity to the famous "Hot Well" which is still hot and will some day be to Alabama as Hot Springs is to Arkansas. The lands are also within a mile of the "Hot Well," of light loamy soil and lying well and most desirable for dairy and truck farming.

Terms of sale cash. I will show the property to any one calling on me at this place.

L. A. THORNTON,
Clanton, Ala., Administrator.
April 14th, 1887.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL; COMBINED, MAKE THIS THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets, CHICAGO, ILL.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

BUTLER & GATCHELL,

922 BROAD STREET, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. [mar24ly

W. W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS

MAKE HENS LAY

SALESMEN WANTED!

To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS,

mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.

I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.

[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop

—BY—

MEREDITH CANN,

Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt.

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜

Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,

Telephone 446. janly

Clanton Academy.

CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.

The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary Department	$1.50
Junior "	2.50
High School "	3.00

Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.

Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.

Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.

For further information address

E. D. E. HICKS, Principal.

feb18

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 21, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

The Merchant and the Printer.

A printer stood at the desk of a business man the other day, and noticed him using letter and bill heads bought of an eastern house. Said the printer, who was a customer, "what would you think of me if I were to go east and buy your line of goods for myself and family?" The merchant replied: "I would think you a fool when I know you can get the same goods as cheap from me and aid a fellow citizen." When the printer called his attention to the imported letter and bill heads the merchant coughed and went behind the counter to wait on a customer. And the same merchant only a few days before asked the printer to give him a free puff about his big stock of new goods.—Greenville (Texas) Herald.

More rain needed.

Prayer-meeting to-night.

Services at the Baptist church next Sunday.

Mr. B. H. Chesnutt, of this place, is quite sick.

The measles have about spent their force in Clanton.

Work on the new Methodist church progresses slowly.

Ladies' gloves and parasols for sale over the drug store.

Mr. Aldridge, of Calera, visited relatives in Clanton last week.

Picnic season is at hand but we do not know of any to be had soon.

Mr. Gallaspie and family, of Montgomery are visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mrs. B. T. Rasberry, of Benson neighborhood, died on Thursday evening last.

Work on the colored people's new church building has been abandoned for the present.

The Ladies Aid Society will give an ice cream and strawberry supper sometime in May next.

Mrs. O. A. Duke will go to Blount Springs for her health. She is convalescing from a severe spell of fever.

Dr. J. P. Givhan, of Strasburg, attended the recent meeting of the State Medical Association in Tuskaloosa.

Master Bennie Lane, the pet of the Montgomery Advertiser office, is visiting friends in Clanton this week.

The small boy with a fishing pole on his shoulder and his mouth full of bait is no novel sight in these parts now.

For the benefit of all interested in the progress and prosperity of our town we publish the law relating to the election of town officers.

On last Saturday, Mr. H. C. Thornton purchased the four cottage residences recently erected by Mr. R. Ehrman, situated on the block just west of the cemetery. We are glad to see such men as Mr. Thornton investing money in our town, and we feel sure that his investment will be a paying one.

Sampey's Corner.

Dull trade is worse than swapping dollars, so come along to town and bring your money and Sampey will sell you the goods you want whether he makes a big profit or none at all. He has the goods and did not buy them to keep for show, but for you to use.

Death of Dr. I. D. Lanier.

The sad intelligence of the death of Dr. I. D. Lanier at his home in Calera, on the evening of the 13th inst., was received in Clanton with profound sorrow by all of our people who knew him when he resided here. His physicians assigned the immediate cause of his death to acute bronchitis, though he had been in failing health for some time past. His remains were brought to this place on Thursday, the 14th, in charge of a delegation of members of the Calera Lodge of Knights of Honor, and interred in the family burial ground at the Clanton cemetery, where rest all that is mortal of two of his children.

Dr. Lanier was born at Huntsville, Ala., on November 5th, 1831. After reaching mature years he moved to Autauga county, where he studied medicine under an uncle, having previously taken a classical course at the University of Virginia. He graduated at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in the class of 1854-5, and began practicing in Montgomery; removing shortly to Autaugaville. He lived at the latter place until after the war, when for a short time he practiced in Lowndes county, and from there moved to Chilton, settling at Clanton, where he resided until a few years since, when misfortunes turned his attention to other fields.

Under all of his reverses he was uncomplaining and even cheerful, and had ever an encouraging and cheering word for those around him. Though of a quiet demeanor and possessed of innate modesty, yet he was a truly brave man and a just man.

It is difficult for mortals to understand—something that our limited comprehension cannot grasp — why the Almighty should see best to take from his family such a man at a time when his strong heart and willing hand was sorely needed to lighten their burdens through a rugged life. The near ones that remain here yet awhile have a consolation in the knowledge that they have a friend on the other shore to meet and welcome them when they too are called to join the throng in the great beyond. Such a knowledge should take from death any terrors that it may possess for them.

In the death of Dr. Lanier this section has lost a true and brave man, a good and useful citizen; and the friends who mourn his sad and untimely death are many.

Peace to his ashes.

On Monday night a man named Church, unknown here, attempted to get aboard a freight train at the depot in this place and got his feet caught under the car wheels and badly mashed. He had no money to pay for a ride and being refused a ride by the conductor he attempted to get on a coal car as the train started, with the above result. Some of our young men who were at the depot paid his fare to Birmingham and sent him up on the 9:43 express train. He claimed to have a brother in that city.

Quarterly conference of the Methodist church was held at this place last Saturday and Sunday. The services were conducted throughout the meeting by the presiding elder, Rev. H. Urquhart. He preached instructive sermons and gave a vigorous and interesting talk Sunday afternoon to large congregations. Verbena Methodist Church was well represented by the presence of several of its members.

Our energetic depot agent, Mr. L. Holt, seeking exercise, had a spirited wrestle with a horse and buggy the other day. He managed to throw the horse down and turn the buggy over on top of him without any damage to anything or anybody, but says he hasn't taken so much exercise all at once in twenty years, and is willing to postpone further proceedings in that line.

We have a scholarship in the Bryant & Stratton Business College, Louisville, Ky., a scholarship in the Louisville Shorthand & Type-writing Institute, Louisville, and a scholarship in the Kentucky University, at Lexington, Ky., which includes both a business and collegiate course. We will sell any and all of them at a considerable discount off the prices to be paid at the colleges.

Col. R. H. Knox, of this place, came near meeting with a serious accident Tuesday evening. He attempted to get on the south bound mail train after it had started off and was struck by the signal post as the train passed it and knocked off on his back with his legs under the coach. Parties who were standing near pulled him out just in time to prevent the wheels from running over his legs.

Mr. C. W. Stanley showed us a specimen of lead on Monday last, which to our limited knowledge on such matters seemed very fine indeed. Ninety-nine hundredths lead would not be an exaggerated estimate we do not think. Mr. S. did not tell us the exact location of this lead mine but said it was in our county. He sent specimens to Birmingham to be analyzed.

Messrs. J. W. Gullahorn & Bro., of this place, have again gone into the saw mill business. They have a mill a few miles from Cooper's Station, which will be their shipping point.

A new supply of ladies' hats just received over the drug store.

Now is the time to subscribe.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Dots From Concord.

The weather is quite dry at the present.

Farmers have commenced planting cotton in this community.

We hate to chronicle the death of Mrs. Blankingship who died last Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock, from consumption. She had been for a year or more sick with this disease. She leaves a husband and 7 children.

Mrs. Mary Ann West has been quite sick for the last week.

Success to the VIEW.

PEACEFUL BOY.

Chandler's Mill.

The weather remains dry.

Divine services were held here last Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Dykes. His text was taken from Revelation 21st chapter and 1st and 2nd verses. We had a very nice singing school at 4 p. m., the same day, conducted by Rev. Mr. Todd. We also had a splendid prayer meeting at 8 o'clock the same evening.

Congregational Methodists hold their district Conference at this place commencing Friday the 22nd, and continuing through Saturday and Sunday the 23rd and 24th.

Walter Johnson and family are visiting friends at Mountain Creek.

Pay day has passed and left the employees with smiling faces.

HUSTLER.

Verbena.

Mr. C. M. Williamson has returned home from a visit in Florida, and we are glad to know is improved in health.

We had two excellent sermons Sunday in the Baptist Church by Rev. J. C. Wate, of Montgomery, also a magnificent Sunday School lecture from him. He is a Sunday school evangelist for the Baptist Church.

Miss Bell Haralson is visiting her father, Mr. J. L. Haralson, at this place.

A fishing party consisting of Dr. Williamson, Mr. K. Wells and others went from here to the Tensas river last week. They report a jolly time and say they ate so much fish that they did not want any nourishment for three days. Pretty good fishing that, and pretty good eating too.

A difficulty occurred in East Verbena Saturday night between James McDowell and one Wilson, the former drawing his knife and making the latter retreat. Neither hurt.

Mr. K. Wells leaves this week for Texas accompanied by his wife and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Mullins, of Kincheon. They will probably spend the summer.

Several residences are receiving new coats of paint this week. Our town is coming to the front rapidly.

The Atlanta & Alabama Railroad, which will make its way through our county to Selma, Ala., it is thought by some, will pass through Verbena. If so, then our town will boom.

The VIEW seems not properly patronized in our community. Why not every citizen of the county subscribe for the VIEW and keep strictly up with the county news. It is to your interest.

We have plenty of news but we will stop for fear we crowd your space. Always success to the VIEW.

WATCHMAN.

Dots From Elmore.

Elmore still booming, one young lady has left, boys down-cast.

Mr. W. J. Estes with his interesting family has moved in and occupies the residence recently occupied by Mr. Davis.

Quarterly meeting at the M. E. Church was held here last Friday, conducted by the Rev. H. Urquhart, assisted by Rev. J. P. Hamiliton from Wetumpka.

Mrs. Cox, from Macon, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Raney, has returned home.

The southern part of our county is wild on the subject of sand; nearly every second man you meet has an auger 8 feet long, boring with the expectation of finding a gold mine, or its equivalent. Sand is surely valuable.

Mrs. Jones from West Tenn., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Willoughby, has returned home.

Mr. Willoughby our clever and efficient agent, is also a very successful teacher in the Sunday School.

Gov. Watts paid our town a short visit last week.

Another store opened in town.

One of the most terrific dog fights of the season, occurred on our streets one evening last week, lasting about one half hour. The police, as usual, arrived after the fight was over.

Miss Lula Hogan, one of the prettiest young ladies of the county was in our town on Sunday week.

The charming and beautiful Miss Virgie Smith, has returned to her home in Verbena followed by the best wishes of all she met, and many various feelings in the hearts of several of our young men. All anticipate with great pleasure her sunny smiles, modest manners, and genial ways, when she pays her promised visit in May.

May the VIEW ever boom.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

SUCH AS

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Valuable Real Estate For Sale.

A new five room residence at the hot well.

A seven room residence situated on a beautiful corner lot in town.

One hundred and twenty-five acres of land with a good 5 room residence, good water. Only four miles from town over good road.

Apply to W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Real Estate Agents, Clanton, Ala.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership lately subsisting between S. A. Blasingame and J. M. Stanfield under the firm name and style of Blasingame & Stanfield was dissolved by mutual consent on the 5th day of April, 1887. All debts are to be received by either party and all demands on the said partnership are to be presented to either partner. Either partner is allowed to use the firm name in liquidation of debts due the late partnership.

S. A. BLASINGAME,
J. M. STANFIELD.

April 5, 1887.

Administrator's Sale.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the honorable M. T. Porter Judge of Probate for Jefferson county, Alabama, I will sell at public auction in front of the courthouse at Clanton in Chilton county, Alabama, on Monday, the 2d day of May, 1887, at twelve o'clock m., all the following described real estate belonging to the estate of N. H. Thornton deceased, to-wit: The north half of northeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of northwest quarter of section seven township twenty-one and range fifteen.

Also northeast quarter of northeast quarter of section twenty-eight, township twenty-two and range fourteen. Also lot No. 2, block one, and the east half of lot 8 block 2, in the town of Clanton, on the west side of the South and North Alabama Railroad, all in Chilton county, Ala., with all the improvements thereon.

These lots are most desirably located in the thriving town of Clanton, county seat of Chilton county, Ala., noted for its pure atmosphere and water and close proximity to the famous "Hot Well" which is still hot and will some day be to Alabama as Hot Springs is to Arkansas. The lands are also within a mile of the "Hot Well," of light loamy soil and lying well and most desirable for dairy and truck farming.

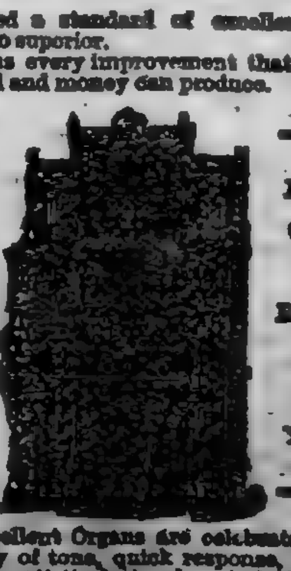
Terms of sale cash. I will show the property to any one calling on me at this place.

L. A. THORNTON,
Clanton, Ala., Administrator.
April 14th, 1887.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior. It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tones, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

BUTLER & GATCHELL,

922 BROAD STREET, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. [mar24ly

W. W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 308. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN. FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

PARSONS' PILLS MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.

MAKE HENS LAY

SALESMEN WANTED!

To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS,
mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.

I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.
[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop

—BY—

MEREDITH CANN,

Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt.

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. junly

Clanton Academy.

CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.

The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.

RATES OF TUITION:

Primary Department	[illegible]
Junior "	[illegible]
High School "	[illegible]

Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.

Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.

Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.

For further information address

[illegible], Principal.

feb16

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by [illegible]

MAUNA LOA.

HAWAII'S GREAT VOLCANO IN A STATE OF ERUPTION.

Graphic Account of a Magnificent Spectacle—The Fiery Stream of Molten Lava Eats Its Way Through the Forests.

Advices from the Hawaiian Islands are that the crater of Mokuaweoweo, on the summit of Mauna Loa, is again active and is pouring a stream of lava down the southern slope of the mountain, toward the sea. This is the largest active volcano in the world, and its eruptions are enormous. The last great flow was from November to July, 1880-'81. The Village of Hilo, on the Island of Hawaii, at that time narrowly escaped being swallowed up by the molten masses which were spewed up from the interior of the mountain.

The Island of Hawaii, the largest of the Hawaiian group, and about 300 miles in circumference, is in the form of two great twin peaks—Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea—rising out of the sea to a height of between 11,000 and 14,000 feet. The spurs and the low plains near the coast are clothed with thick tropical verdure and cultivated fields of sugar cane, but the summits are as bad as the polls of the occupants of the front seats at the ballet, and are covered with eternal snow. The whole island is of volcanic origin, as is is true of all the islands of the group, and there is a crater on the summit of Mauna Kea which occasionally shows signs of activity. But Mauna Loa is the seat of volcanic action in the present age. On the southern slope of the mountain is situate the crater of Kilauea (Lake of Fire), which is perpetually in a state of more or less activity. This crater is a chain of fiery lakes or orifices in the earth's crust, where the molten contents of the earth's interior come to the surface and boil, and fume, and sputter, and occasionally well up and spread over the floor of the great pit in which they are situated. Tourists can go to the very brink of these lakes and gaze at the infernal activity going on there and even dabble in the fiery liquid which is cast up in bubbles on their surface and thrown in troubled waves upon their banks. There is some connection between Kilauea and Mokuaweoweo. Thus, at the periods of greatest activity at the vent in the side of mountain the crater at the summit is almost extinct. On the other hand, when the troubled surface of Kilauea subsides somewhat, and occasionally sinks out of sight, trouble may be expected at the summit. There are rumblings in the bowels of the earth, quiverings of the crust, and finally an attack of infernal nausea, which find relief through the vent at Mokuaweoweo, inundating vast tracts with the molten eruption.

In the summer of 1880 there was such a cessation of activity in the lakes at Kilauea, accompanied by earthquakes and internal rumblings. Finally, one night in November, with a loud explosion that woke every one on the Island of Hawaii and shook the island to its lowest foundations, the eruption burst forth from Mokuaweoweo, throwing melted matter and fire high into the air, and rushing in a torrent down the mountain side, where it appeared like a fiery snake. A yellow cloud of sulphurous smoke overhung it for awhile, reflecting the glow from beneath, and then drifted away over the sea and over the other islands. It floated over Honolulu, 300 miles away, and on to the north, enveloping ships at sea, and finally dispersing itself. There was volcanic action under the sea at the same time, and sailors in those waters came upon floes of porous pumice stone, which had floated to the surface and spread itself around on top of the water.

The eruption rushed down the bare side of the peak till it reached the timber-line, and precipitated itself upon the rank tropical foliage, obliterating the forest in its path, as an acid does a metal. It ate a way more slowly after awhile, the upper portions of the flow cooling and forming a tube through which the lava flowed to the terminus, there to break out and make its way by fits and starts in a constantly widening channel. Not infrequently there would be an apparent contraction of natural law, where the flow would make its way up a steep grade, hardening as it went, and then pushing an extension on upward.

It was many months eating its way through the forests, always in the direction of Hilo. The course of the lava was through the wilderness, practically out of reach of tourists and sightseers, the forest being almost impenetrable. Its course could be traced from a distance and far out at sea by the clouds of smoke and steam in its path. As it came nearer and nearer to Hilo, however, the natives cut paths through the woods, by which it was practicable to ride to the vicinity of the flow on horseback and then work up to it on foot.

A contributor to the Chicago Tribune who made his way to the very edge of the flow of burning lava describes the extraordinary spectacle as follows:

The course of the main stream, several miles distant, could be traced by the clouds of smoke and steam which hung over it and the burning trees along its edge. Branching off from this was a smaller stream which had come into the course of the eruption of 1856 (the one we had followed up) and was following along the edge of it. We were near enough to see this very distinctly. It looked to be a great black mass with crevices here and there, through which could be seen the red molten lava. Occasionally one of these cracks would widen and the fiery liquid well up through it and spread over the shiny black around, and then rapidly cool and crust over, black flakes forming first on it very much as they do on melted iron as it cools. Everything had to give way before this as it encroached on fresh ground, and we could watch its progress through the trees, which it burned and then, as they fell, swallowed up. Far out in the stream could be seen the charred trunk of a tree standing—the only thing left in sight in the course of the molten lava. Frequently loud explosions could be heard from some distant part of the flow, caused by imprisoned steam, where the lava had run into a bed of some stream of water.

In the next two months the great flow of 1880-81, after coming over sixty miles from its source, stopped within a quarter of a mile of Hilo, where it cooled and hardened in the bed of a stream of water which had formerly flowed there.

It is estimated that there are 1,000,000 blind persons living to-day. In Cairo, Egypt, where the proportion of blind persons to the number of inhabitants is greatest, there is one to every twenty residents.

All black tailor suits of cheviot or of Henrietta cloth, without crape, are used for light mourning wear for the street. For the house dresses of white wool combined with black are admirable.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

A calf with eight legs and two heads is in possession of a farmer at Livermore, Cal.

The largest sweet potato on record was grown in Florida last season. It is twenty-eight inches long.

France secured on the conclusion of the Thirty Years War, in 1648 the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, which she lost in 1870.

Ten languages—English, German, Norwegian, Swedish, French, Bohemian, Finn, Polish, Italian and Chinese—are spoken in Minnesota.

Denver is the highest of the State capitals, being 5,175 feet above the sea level. Annapolis, Md., is the lowest, being only four feet above the sea level.

The words of the song "John Brown's Body Lies a Mouldering in the Grave," were written by Frank E. Jerome. Mr. Jerome is now one of the editors of the Russell (Kansas) Record. He was not thirty when the song appeared.

A curious habit of deer is that of eating the bones of their own kind. If a dead dear is left on a hill, when birds and insects have eaten its flesh, its bones will often be consumed by its own relations. They will also eat horns that have been shed.

When Alexander the Great took possession of Babylon, in 331 B. C., he found a series of astronomical observations taken by the Chaldæans for an unbroken period of 1903 years, which places the beginning of the observations as early as 2234 B. C.

Julius Cæsar was upward of forty years of age before he became prominent in public affairs, and, as he was assassinated at the age of fifty-six, he advanced in sixteen years from the position of a Roman citizen to be conqueror of the then known world and the ruler of the Roman empire.

It has been demonstrated that platinum wire may be drawn so fine as to be invisible to the naked eye, although its presence upon a perfectly white card can be detected by the touch, and can be seen by the aid of a small magnifying glass when the card is held is such a position that the wire casts a shadow.

The Profile is a huge and very interesting rock-conformation upon the side of Profile Mountain in the Franconia range (White Mountains), New Hampshire. From a certain point of view at a distance it bears wonderful resemblance to the outline of a human face. This remarkably complete and distinct profile is nearly 1,500 feet above the level of the little lake below it, and it is from sixty to eighty feet in length. It is also popularly know as the Old Man of the Mountain.

In his address at the dedication of the new Brooks library building at Brattleboro, Vt., Hon. Mellen Chamberlain of the Boston Public Library said that "before 1700 there was not in Massachusetts, so far as known, a copy of Shakespeare's or of Milton's poems; and as late as 1723, whatever may have been in private hands, Harvard College library lacked Addison, Atterbury, Bolingbroke, Dryden, Guy, Locke, Pope, Prior, Steele, Swift and Young." Against such a back-ground one may effectively paint the later progress of literary life in New England.

Smallpox and Cowpox.

George Fleming, LL. D., principal veterinary surgeon of the British Army, regards as untrue the generally accepted theory that smallpox in man and cowpox are one and the same disease. One of the best authorities quoted in support of the theory was the late Mr. Ceely, who reported that he had succeeded in producing cowpox by inoculating a cow with smallpox matter. Dr. Fleming believes that Mr. Ceely was misled in this experiment, and that what he really used was vaccine, and not the virus of smallpox. His experiment was subsequently repeated on twelve heifers by Dr. Klein under Mr. Ceely's supervision, and, though smallpox matter was inserted abundantly into the incisions, cowpox was not developed in any of the animals. Similar experiments have been performed in France and Italy, and the results have all been the same as those in England. Dr. Fleming holds that all these experiments go to show that the two diseases are not identical, nor can cowpox be produced by inoculation with smallpox virus.—Science.

General Lee's Broken Hands.

A brief chapter of unwritten war history has been related by Captain Greene, of Charlottsville, Va., as he with a group of exConfederates were studying the panorama of the battle of Bull Run at Washington. Said he: "It is a fact not generally known that a serious accident occurred to General Robert E. Lee the morning after the second battle of Bull Run. General Lee and Stonewall Jackson were seated on a log, near Sudley Springs, when some Confederate soldiers who had crossed the ford imagined they had struck Pope's whole army. They instantly became stampeded and rushed pell mell by the two officers. General Lee's horse, old Traveler, broke away, and the General, in his efforts to catch him, was thrown violently to the ground, breaking both his hands. General Lee went to South Mountain and Antietam in an ambulance, and traveled in this manner through the campaign that followed, carrying his hands in a sling. According to my best remembrance he never fully recovered from the injury."

Corpulency.

Professor Kisch has recently collected statistics of the frequency of sudden death among extremely stout persons. In nineteen cases of this occurrence, acute congestion of the lungs was discovered in twelve, cerebral hemorrhage in six, and rupture of the heart in one. The apoplectic symptoms were traced, in most of the cases, to arterial sclerosis, a very frequent concomitant of extreme corpulency. Rupture of the heart is due to the overworking of the walls of the left ventricle, which, being involved in the fatty infiltration and degeneration, can no longer increase in size in proportion to the extra work it has to perform.

The failure of heart-power appears always to be the immediate cause of death, which generally follows immediately after violent exertion, or excess in drink or diet.

Western Necks Becoming Thinner.

"It is a curious fact," said the manager of a furnishing goods wholesale house, "that the necks of the Western people are gradually growing smaller. Ten years ago I was in the office of a concern which made a specialty of collars for men. In stocking up the Chicago house the firm, whose factory was in the East, had put in a lot of 13 1-2 collars. For these there was no sale at all, and the Chicago manager finally wrote to the factory that they need never more send him any 13 1-2 collars, as the West had no use for them. Well, to-day every retail store in town carries a line of 13 1-2 collars, and there is quite a trade in goods of that number."—Chicago Herald.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Very high-crowned turbans appear among the spring hats.

It is said that Queen Victoria owns some real estate in Washington.

The "Cleveland pompadour" is the latest thing in feminine hairdressing.

An eminent doctor advises scrawny girls to go to bed at 9 o'clock every night for six months.

A revival of the Spanish comb is predicted as a crowning feature of the high coiffure at present universal.

Palm leaves form a very elegant and favorite design in trimmings this season, both in braid and passementerie.

Heelless slippers of scarlet velvet are the latest for house wear, and offer great temptations for kicking them off.

All new spring models have the effect of being "made over" costumes, as they are composed of two distinct fabrics.

One of the features of the Queen's jubilee in London will be a great charity fair with royal women as "salesladies."

Parisian buttons out-button any buttons seen for many a day, and are of the most elegant and elaborate description.

Societies for the advancement of dress reform for women now exist in England, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland.

Frise stripes with plain fabric between are seen in some light shades, and will lighten a plain cloth suit very successfully.

Skirtings of bayadere stripes are particularly stylish this season. They come in beautiful Parisian colors, rich and deep.

A correspondent says that the beauty of Cuban ladies does not wear well, and declares that there are no handsome old ladies at all.

Silk and wool frise goods when of rich quality are very much used in the new models for walking dresses for spring wear.

The trimming of many of the newest round hats is massed directly at the back, instead of in front or at the side, as formerly.

Crush opera hats for ladies are popular in New York. They are made of cloth, in a conical shape, and are fitted with springs.

Men tailors for women are now running riot on military fashions, and the amount of black braid used in "slashing" is enormous.

Neck ribbons are still fashionably worn. They should be tied in a bow in front or at the left side, or else basted in the collar of the dress.

Among the latest developments of woman's capacity in business is a Woman's National Lecture Bureau, which has its headquarters in Chicago.

Madame Benickzy is mentioned as the foremost writer of Hungarian fiction of the day. She has also brought out a play that is criticised favorably.

A new net for veils has a cross-barred surface, and is thicker than the spotted nets. Some of the newest net veils are mounted on wires, and hang quite loose around the bonnet.

Wear your bracelet on your upper arm above your gloves. If you have not a prettily turned wrist and forearm pretend you have, and wear your gloves drawn smooth and unadorned.

Apricot, rose color, copper, pale terracotta, bisque blue, the regular old-fashioned green and a new shade of golden brown are prominent among the colors used in Paris for day costumes.

Pinked ruche trimmings are once more in vogue, and are used upon all parts of dresses. Many beautiful variations are seen, the rose ruching and carnation ruching appearing upon many of the newly imported evening dresses.

White muslin, spotted with colored wafers, and figured muslin in pale colors are worn by very young girls at dancing parties. They are made over silk underskirts and wide soft silk sashes matching in color are worn with them.

A Dakota woman in the upper James valley decided that she wanted a fur cloak. She began trapping mink and tanning the skins. These she sent to St. Paul, where they have just been made into a beautiful cloak, for which she was offered $125.

Fancy woolen dresses for spring wear are made up with kilted and paneled skirts with tunics above, which are made either long or short, to suit the slender or the stout wearer. Graceful draperies are upon the back of the skirts, and the bodices are elaborately ornamented.

The Fayette jacket is a stylish garment, which will compete with the stylish covert coat, so very fashionable last season. The Fayette jacket is short and tight fitting behind, and has long pointed lapels which show the vest to the waist line. There are two pockets and clasps to fasten the vest.

The coiffure most liked in the fashionable English society is the Cadogan braid, which is tied low down on the neck; with a bow forming a queue. Sometimes a golden ornament, such as a spear or a dagger, is thrust through the braid to give it a finish and make a more dressy effect.

Old ladies, who have not too many prejudices against change, are wearing their hair more as young ladies do than ever before. They are more apt, it is true, to wear it lower and fuller on the back of the head, but the soft, pretty curls have completely enchanted them. Regular caps, too, they have learned to distrust, and a gentle lappet or two, or some bits of lace or ribbon, are their trusted aids to beauty.

Mrs. Westinghouse, the wife of the famous inventor, has a charming face. She loves a drive, and when her handsome equipages appear on the streets of Pittsburg they invariably excite universal admiration. Her dinner parties are characterized by an elegance usually credited to royalty. On these occasions a solid silver elephant, of unknown but certainly of great value, forms a centre piece for the dining table, and is utilized as a receptacle for flowers.

Strength and Warmth of Foods.

The food eaten supplies the body with either warmth or strength. Most articles yield both to a more or less extent, but some have warmth only and no strength. The first column of the following table gives the number of grains of strength yielded by one pound of the substance named; the second, the warmth:

	Strength.	Warmth.
Parsnips	12	425
Potatoes	24	770
Skimmed milk	34	351
New milk	35	378
Rice	70	2,750
Bacon	78	4,200
Fresh pork	108	3,100
Corn meal	125	2,830
Fresh fish	120	980
Oatmeal	140	975
Fresh beef	172	2,300
Cheddar cheese	310	2,500
Skim milk cheese	350	2,325

Coffee or tea cups if cleansed with scouring bricks will look as good as new.

Girls in Boys' Clothes.

A singular and romantic story comes by telegraph from Windom, Minn., a small town in the southwestern part of the State. Two young children wandered into the town Saturday evening. Their ages were about fourteen and sixteen. They gave their names as Charlie and Bertie Byers, of Rochester, N. Y. It was soon discovered that they were girls in boys' clothing, and then they admitted their names were Katie and Lilly Byers. Their story was that when very small they lived at Lindsay, Ont. They removed to Rochester after their parent's death, being taken there by a brother, W. A. Byers, now a resident of Calgary, Northwest Territory. Being badly treated at Rochester, they started without money to join their brother at Calgary. In order to get away they dressed in male attire. Their trip from Rochester to Windom was made on foot and in box cars as tramps. They are cared for at Windom. W. A. Byers, at Calgary, has been communicated with.

A Developing Man.

"Lighthead," exclaimed his excellent wife, testily, "you are a bigger fool than I took you to be." "Thanks," he said, gratefully, but meekly, "that is to say, I grow on you with longer acquaintance. Ah, my ownest own, you haven't half found me out yet."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"March 1882," wrote C. C. Shayne, 103 Prince street, N. Y., "Crippled with lumbago; I tried St. Jacobs Oil; it relieved; tried again, it cured me." November 1, 1886, he writes: "Confirm my statement; was completely cured." Price fifty cents.

A Franklin county fellow has won a bet by eating sixteen pies in twenty minutes. There are some men that find glory in a performance in which every little pig is their equal in every respect and every big hog is their superior.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Mrs. M. Pollock, 85 Asquith St., Baltimore, Md., says: "Red Star Cough Cure for colds, coughs and sore throat has no equal." Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

In the dining-room of respectable society it is not considered correct to put your fingers into the plate before you. But at church, into the plate that is set before you, all good Christians (?) are expected, with due honor to etiquette, to put their alms.—Punch.

"The Slough of Despondency"

In which you are wallowing, on account of those diseases peculiar to you, madam, and which have robbed you of the rosy hue of health, and made life a burden to you, you can easily get out of. Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," will free you from all such troubles, and soon recall the rose-tint of health to your cheek, and the elasticity to your step. It is a most perfect specific for all the weaknesses and irregularities peculiar to your sex. It cures ulceration, displacements, "internal fever," bearing-down sensations, removes the tendency to cancerous affections and corrects all unnatural discharges. By druggists.

It is inconsistent to expect a stationary engine to run.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures when every other so-called remedy fails.

When an ant-eater runs it should be called an antelope.

Don't Read This

If you have a sufficiency of this world's goods, but if you have not, write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and receive, free, full particulars about work that you can do, and live at home, wherever you are located, at a profit of from $5 to $25 per day and upwards. All succeed; both sexes; all ages. All is new. Capital not required. Hallett & Co. will start you. Don't delay; investigate at once, and grand success will attend you.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

A Pigeon Hawk.

The "devil hawk" of Arizona is a rare bird, and an interesting one. He is described as having remarkably handsome plumage, but a very ugly head. His talons are long and strong, and his beak is almost as sharp as a needle and very powerful. This bird, but for his head, when on the wing would pass for a pigeon. When seeking his prey he plays pigeon, and flies in among them unnoticed on account of his similarity and easily captures what he wants. He is the picture of grace and beauty and speed. It is estimated that there are not more than a dozen of them in the Territory. The Mexicans are superstitious about him, and regard his appearance as an evil omen.

Complicated Anger.

Gilhooly—"You say your wife is in bad humor?"

Pennybunker—"Yes, you bet she is."

"What is she mad about?"

"In the first place, she got mad at the servant-girl, then she got mad at me because I didn't get mad at the servant-girl, and now she is mad at herself, because I got mad at her because she got mad at the servant-girl. Do you understand?"

In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption, and Wasting in Children, Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. Please read: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man whom Physicians at times gave up hope. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, gained flesh and strength, and from all appearances his life will be prolonged many years."—John Sullivan, Hospital Steward, Morganza, Pa.

Since Sullivan broke his arm he has reformed. He is an expounder now.

Young or middle-aged men suffering from nervous debility, loss of memory, premature old age, as the result of bad habits, should send 10 cents in stamps for illustrated book offering sure means of cure. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

If a man wants to be sure of getting what he wants, he should want the earth.

Farmers,

Send 10 cents to the Prickly Ash Bitters Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "The Horse Trainer." A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

Read the adv't headed "Agents Wanted."

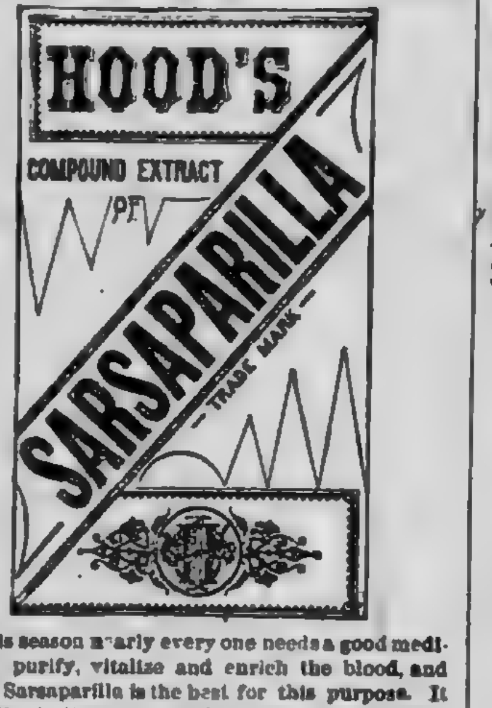
The farmers, in their swamps, we're sure,
Could find the roots and plants that cure.
If by their knowledge they only knew
For just the disease each one grew.
Take courage now and "Swamp-Root" try—
(for kidney, liver and bladder complaints),
As on this remedy you can rely,

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Envied by Her Sex,

Is the fate of every lady with a bright, glowing countenance, which invariably follows the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.



HOOD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA — TRADE MARK —

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best for this purpose. It is peculiar in that it strengthens and builds up the system and creates an appetite, while it eradicates disease. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not take any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Don't Buy Until you find out the new Improvements. WATCHES Save the middleman's PROFITS. SEND FOR CATALOGUE. J. P. STEVENS & BRO 47 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga.

WHETHER YOU WANT A PIANO OR ORGAN It will pay you to write to PHILLIPS & CREW, ATLANTA, GA., For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

AGENTS WANTED For the GRANDEST BOOK ever OFFERED to the People! "Marvelous Wonders of the Whole World" Being an Account of Thrilling Adventures, Famous Sights, Celebrated Voyages and Wonderful Discoveries in all parts of the globe. The latest and by far the best and most complete book of wonders ever published. Agents who have sold similar books are doubling their sales with this. No experience or capital needed. Splendid terms and choice of territory to those who will work. Ad'r's HUDGINS & TALTY, 38 S. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

PILES! DR. WILLIAMS' Indian Pile Ointment will cure any case of Itching, Bleeding, Ulcerated or Protruding Piles. CURE GUARANTEED. Prepared for Piles only. [Physicians' jars by express, prepaid, $2.50.] Price per box, 50c. and $1. Sold by druggists or mailed on receipt of price by LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR, Agents, Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 33 S. Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

LADY AGENTS WANTED to sell our Common-sense Bustle and Combination Skirt Bustle and Supporter. Send $1.00 for samples and agency. Address, with stamp, H. A. French & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address M. ROCK, P. O. Box 468, Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 60 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

Finest Poultry (Eggs). C. W. PARKER, Bremen, Ga

ELY'S CREAM BALM CATARRH HAY-FEVER

when applied into the nostrils, will be absorbed effectually cleansing the head of catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions. It allays inflammation, protects the membrane of the nasal passages from additional colds, completely heals the sores and restores sense of taste and smell.

Not a Liquid or Snuff.

A Quick Relief & Positive Cure.

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. Circulars free. ELY BROS., Druggists, Owego, N.Y.

WEBSTER'S Unabridged Dictionary. A DICTIONARY, 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings, a GAZETTEER OF THE WORLD, of 25,000 Titles, and a BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY, of nearly 10,000 Noted Persons, ALL IN ONE BOOK. Invaluable in every School and at every Fireside. Contains 3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Illustrations than any other American Dictionary. G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES. DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES. Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet. TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn

293 COLUMBUS Combined MANURE SPREADERS & FARM WAGONS sold the first year The cheapest Spreader out and the only kind that can be attached to old wagons. All are warranted. Prices mailed free. Newark Machine Co. Columbus, Ohio. Eastern Branch House, Hagerstown, Maryland.

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington D.C.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER PACKAGES, 25c. Makes 5 gallons of a delicious sparkling temperance beverage, strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy of flavor commend it to all. Sold everywhere. TRY IT.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. [illegible] Lafayette, Ind

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST. Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage. THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

FOR HORSES.

UVILLA, W. Va., Nov. 17, 1886.

Recently I bought a young horse. He was taken very ill with Pneumonia. I tried to think of something to relieve him. Concluded what was good for man would be good for the horse. So I got a bottle of Piso's Cure and gave him half of it through the nostrils. This helped him, and I continued giving same doses night and morning until I had used two bottles. The horse has become perfectly sound. I can recommend Piso's Cure for the horse as well as for man.

N. S. J. STRIDER.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

Ask your retailer for the James Means' $3 Shoe. Caution! Some dealers recommend inferior goods in order to make a larger profit. This is the original $3 Shoe. Beware of imitations which acknowledge their own inferiority by attempting to build upon the reputation of the original. None Genuine unless bearing this Stamp,

JAMES MEANS' $3 SHOE. For Gentlemen.

Made in Button, Congress and Lace. Best Calf Skin. Unexcelled in Durability, Comfort & Appearance. A postal card sent to us will bring you information how to get this Shoe in any State or Territory. J. Means & Co 41 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.

Our celebrated factory produces a larger quantity of Shoes of this grade than any other factory in the world. Thousands who wear them will tell you the reason if you ask them. JAMES MEANS' $2 SHOE for Boys is unapproached in Durability.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

DR. KILMER'S SWAMP-ROOT KIDNEY, LIVER & BLADDER CURE. Price 25c, $1.00 6 for $5.00 "Jones! What are you talking about?" "What every body talks about. They say that for Bright's Disease, Kidney, Liver or Bladder complaints, this remedy has no equal." Figure right to the Spot. Prepared at Dr. Kilmer's Dispensary, Binghamton, N.Y. Letters of inquiry answered. Guide to Health (Sent Free).

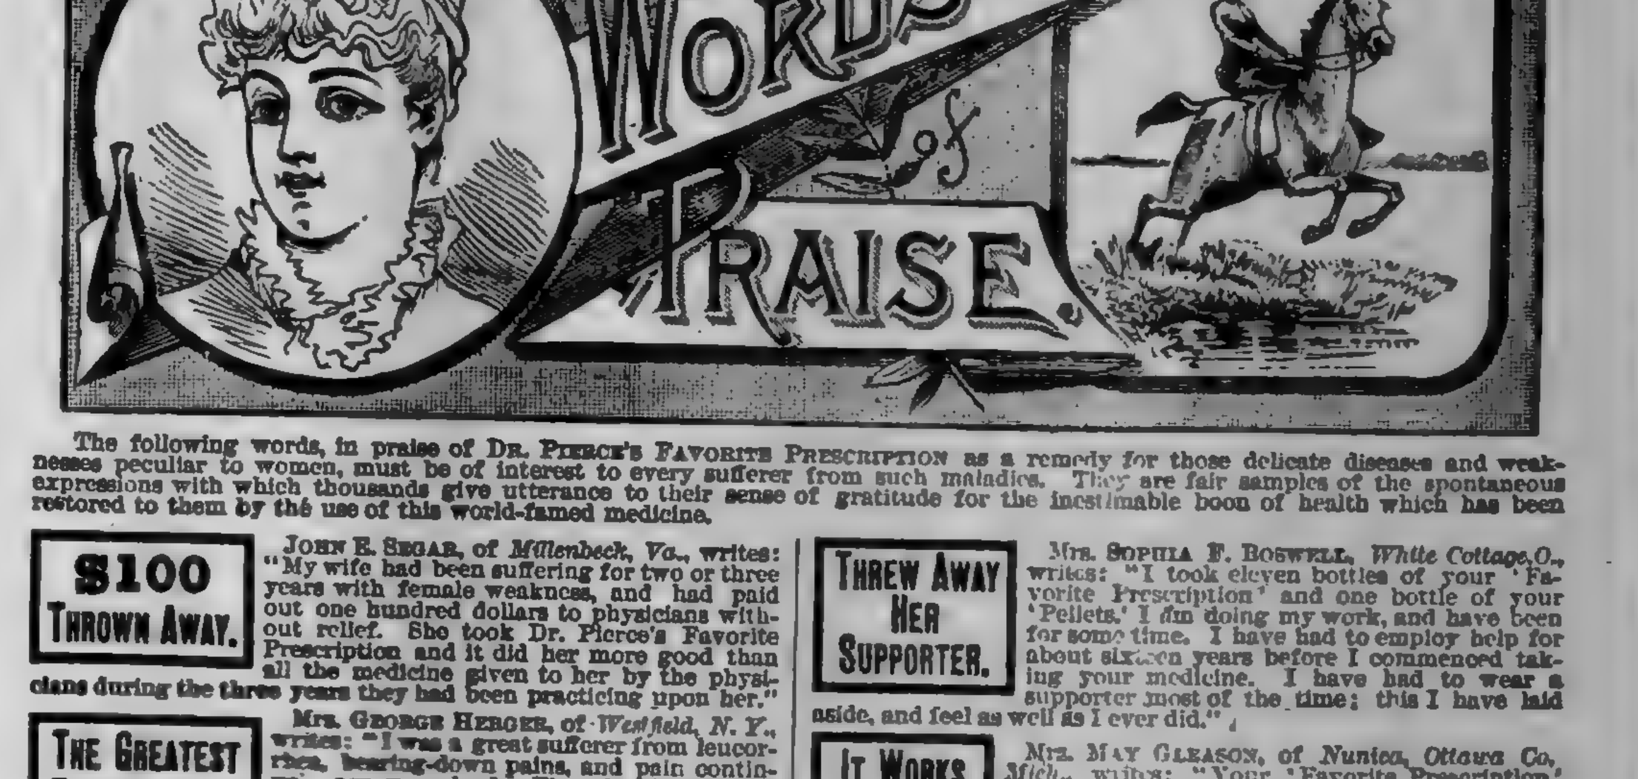
$100 TO $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

ARKANSAS MILD CLIMATE! Good Lands! Variety of PRODUCTS! LOW PRICES! EASY TERMS! MAPS AND CIRCULARS FREE. THOS. ESSEX, Land Com'r, Little Rock, Ark.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

$3.50 for a Photograph Outfit. Send stamp for circular. KERR & Co., 64—8 Ave., N. Y.

A. N. U. Fifteen, '87



WORDS of PRAISE.

The following words, in praise of DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION as a remedy for those delicate diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women, must be of interest to every sufferer from such maladies. They are fair samples of the spontaneous expressions with which thousands give utterance to their sense of gratitude for the inestimable boon of health which has been restored to them by the use of this world-famed medicine.

$100 THROWN AWAY. JOHN E. SEGAR, of Millenbeck, Va., writes: "My wife had been suffering for two or three years with female weakness, and had paid out one hundred dollars to physicians without relief. She took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did her more good than all the medicine given to her by the physicians during the three years they had been practicing upon her."

THE GREATEST EARTHLY BOON. MRS. GEORGE HERGER, of Westfield, N. Y., writes: "I was a great sufferer from leucorrhea, bearing-down pains, and pain continually across my back. Three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' restored me to perfect health. I treated with Dr. ——, for nine months, without receiving any benefit. The 'Favorite Prescription' is the greatest earthly boon to us poor suffering women."

THREW AWAY HER SUPPORTER. MRS. SOPHIA F. BOSWELL, White Cottage, O., writes: "I took eleven bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of your 'Pellets.' I am doing my work, and have been for some time. I have had to employ help for about sixteen years before I commenced taking your medicine. I have had to wear a supporter most of the time; this I have laid aside, and feel as well as I ever did."

IT WORKS WONDERS. MRS. MAY GLEASON, of Nunica, Ottawa Co., Mich., writes: "Your 'Favorite Prescription' has worked wonders in my case. Again she writes: "Having taken several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I have regained my health wonderfully, to the astonishment of myself and friends. I can now be on my feet all day, attending to the duties of my household.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

3 PHYSICIANS FAILED. MRS. E. F. MORGAN, of No. 71 Lexington St., East Boston, Mass., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restored, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-envelope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have earnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the local treatment so fully and plainly laid down therein, and were much better already."

JEALOUS DOCTORS. A Marvelous Cure.—MRS. G. F. SPRAGUE, of Crystal, Mich., writes: "I was troubled with female weakness, leucorrhea and falling of the womb for seven years, so I had to keep my bed for a good part of the time. I doctored with an army of different physicians, and spent large sums of money, but received no lasting benefit. At last my husband persuaded me to try your medicines, which I was loath to do, because I was prejudiced against them, and the doctors said they would do me no good. I finally told my husband that if he would get me some of your medicines, I would try them against the advice of my physician. He got me six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' also six bottles of the 'Discovery,' for ten dollars. I took three bottles of 'Discovery' and four of 'Favorite Prescription,' and I have been a sound woman for four years. I then gave the balance of the medicine to my sister, who was troubled in the same way, and she cured herself in a short time. I have not had to take any medicine now for almost four years."

THE OUTGROWTH OF A VAST EXPERIENCE.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the uterus, or womb and its appendages, in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It promotes digestion and assimilation of food, cures nausea, weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating and eructations of gas.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, or "whites," excessive flowing at monthly periods, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

In pregnancy, "Favorite Prescription" is a "mother's cordial," relieving nausea, weakness of stomach and other distressing symptoms common to that condition. If its use is kept up in the latter months of gestation, it so prepares the system for delivery as to greatly lessen, and many times almost entirely do away with the sufferings of that trying ordeal.

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's large, illustrated Treatise (160 pages) on Diseases of Women.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. [illegible] Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 [illegible]	18 00
3 Inches	10 00	16 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 00	20 00	27 50
5 Inches	15 00	22 00	32 50
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1887. NUMBER 25.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "The Overthrow of the Monster."

TEXT: "He will swallow up death in victory."—Isaiah xxv., 8.

About eighteen hundred and fifty-three Easter mornings have wakened the earth. In France for three centuries the almanacs made the year begin at Easter, until Charles IX. made the year begin at January 1st. In the Tower of London there is a royal payroll of Edward I., on which there is an entry of eighteen pence for four hundred colored and pictured Easter eggs, with which the people sported. In Russia, slaves were fed and alms were distributed on Easter. Ecclesiastical councils met at Pontus, at Gaul, at Rome, at Achaia to decide the particular day, and after a controversy, more animated than gracious, decided it, and now through all Christendom, in some way the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after March 21, is filled with Easter rejoicing.

The Royal Court of the Sabbaths is made up of fifty-two. Fifty-one are princes in the royal household, but Easter is queen. She wears richer diadem, and sways a more jeweled sceptre, and in her smile nations are irradiated. Unusually welcome this year because of the harsh winter and the late spring, she seems to step out of the snow-bank rather than the conservatory, come out of the North instead of the South, out of the Arctic rather than the tropics, dismounting from the icy equinox; but welcome this queenly day, holding high up in her right hand the wrenched-off bolt of Christ's sepulchre, and holding high up in her left hand the key to all the cemeteries in Christendom.

It is an exciting thing to see an army routed and flying. They run each other down. They scatter everything valuable in the track. Unwheeled artillery. Hoof of horse on breast of wounded and dying man. You have read of the French falling back from Sedan, or Napoleon's track of 90,000 corpses in the snow-banks of Russia, or of the retreat of our own armies from Manassas, or of the five kings tumbling over the rocks of Bethoran with their armies, while the hailstorms of heaven and the swords of Joshua's host struck them with their fury. In my text is a worse discomfiture. It seems that a black giant proposed to conquer the earth. He gathered for his host all the aches and pains and malarias and cancers and distempers and epidemics of the ages. He marched them down, drilling them in the northeast wind and amid the slush of tempests. He threw up barricades of grave-mound. He pitched tent of charnel house. Some of the troops marched with slow tread commanded by consumptions, some in double-quick, commanded by pneumonias. Some he took by long besiegement of evil habit, and some by one stroke of the battle axe of casualty. With bony hands he pounded at the door of hospitals and sick rooms, and won all the victories in all the great battlefields of all the five continents. Forward march, the conqueror of conquerors, and all the Generals and Commanders-in-Chief, and all Presidents and Kings and Sultans and Czars drop under the feet of his war-charger. But one Christmas night his antagonist was born. As most of the plagues and sicknesses and despotisms come out of the East, it was appropriate that the new conqueror should come out of the same quarter. Power is given Him to awaken all the fallen of all the centuries and of all lands, and marshal them against the black giant. Fields have already been won, but the last day of the world's existence will see the decisive battle. When Christ shall lead forth His two brigades, the brigade of the risen dead and the brigade of the celestial host, the black giant will fall back, and the brigade from the riven sepulchres will take Him from beneath and the brigade of descending immortals will take Him from above, and death shall be swallowed up in victory.

The old braggart that threatened the conquest and demolition of the planet has lost his throne, has lost his sceptre, has lost his palace, has lost his prestige, and the one word written over all the gates of mausoleum and catacomb and necropolis, on cenotaph and sarcophagus, on the lonely khan of the Arctic explorer, and on the catafalque of great cathedral, written in capitals of azalea and calla lily, written in musical cadence, written in doxology of great assemblages, written on the sculptured door of the family vault, is "Victory." Coronal word, emblazoned word, apocalyptic word, chief word of the triumphal arch under which conquerors return.

Victory! Word shouted at Culloden and Balaklava and Blenheim, at Megiddo and Solferino, at Marathon, where the Athenians drove back the Medes; at Poictiers, where Charles Martel broke the ranks of the Saracens; at Salamis, where Themistocles in the great sea-fight confounded the Persians, and at the door of the Eastern cavern of chiseled rock, where Christ came out through a recess and throttled the King of Terrors and put him back in the niche from which the celestial Conqueror had just emerged. Aha! when the jaws of the Eastern mausoleum took down the black giant "death was swallowed up in victory." I proclaim the abolition of death.

The old antagonist is driven back into mythology with all the [illegible] about Stygian ferry and Charon with oar and boat. Melrose Abbey and Kenilworth Castle are no more in ruins than is the sepulchre. We shall have no more to do with death than we have with the cloak-room at a Governor's or President's levee. We stop at such cloak-room and leave in charge of a servant our overcoat, our overshoes, our outward apparel, that we may not be impeded in the brilliant round of the drawing-room. Well, my friends, when we go out of this world we are going to a king's banquet, and to a reception of monarchs, and at the door of the tomb we leave the cloak of flesh and the wrappings with which we meet the storms of this world. At the close of an earthly reception, under the brush and broom of the porter the coat or hat may be handed to us better than when we resigned it, and the cloak of humanity will finally be returned to us improved and brightened and purified and glorified.

You and I do not want our bodies returned as they are now. We want to get rid of all their weaknesses and all their susceptibilities to fatigue and all their slowness of locomotion. They will be put through a chemistry of soil and heat and cold and changing seasons out of which God will reconstruct them as much better than they are now as the body of the rosiest and healthiest child that bounds over the lawn at Prospect Park is better than the sickest patient in Bellevue Hospital. But as to our soul, we will cross right over, not waiting for obsequies, independent of obituary, into a state in every way better, with wider room and velocities beyond computation; the dullest of us into companionship with the very best spirits in their very best mood, in the very parlor of the universe, the four walls burnished and paneled and pictured and glorified with all the splendors that the infinite God in all the ages has been able to invent. Victory!

This view of course makes it of but little importance whether we are cremated or sepultured. If the latter is dust to dust, the former is ashes to ashes. If any prefer incineration let them have it without caricature. The world may become so crowded that cremation may be universally adopted by law as well as by general consent. Many of the mightiest and best spirits have gone through this process. Thousands and tens of thousands of God's children have been cremated—P. P. Bliss and wife, the evangelistic singers, cremated by accident at Ashtabula Bridge; John Rodgers, cremated by persecution; Latimer and Ridley, cremated at Oxford; Pothinus, and Blandina, a slave, and Alexander, a physician, and their comrades cremated at the order of Marcus Aurelius—at least a hundred thousand of Christ's disciples cremated—and there can be no doubt about the resurrection of their bodies. If the world lasts as much longer as it has already been built, there perhaps may be no room for the large acreage set apart for the resting-places, but that time has not come. Plenty of room yet, and the race need not pass that bridge of fire until it comes to it. The most of us prefer the old way. But whether out of natural disintegration or cremation we shall get that luminous, buoyant, gladsome, transcendent, magnificent, inexplicable structure called the resurrection body, you will have it, I will have it. I say to you to-day, as Paul said to Agrippa: "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?" The far-up cloud, higher than the hawk flies, higher than the eagle flies, what is it made of? Drops of water from the Hudson, other drops from the East River, other drops from a stagnant pool out on Newark flats—up yonder there, embodied in a cloud, and the sun kindles it. If God can make such a lustrous cloud out of water drops, many of them soiled and impure and fetched from miles away, can He not transport the fragments of a human body from the earth and out of them build a radiant body? Cannot God, who owns all the material out of which bones and muscle and flesh are made, set them up again if they have fallen? If a manufacturer of telescopes drop a telescope on the floor and it breaks, can he not mend it again so you can see through it? And if God drops the human eye into the dust, the eye which he originally fashioned, can He not restore it? Aye, if the manufacturer of the telescope by a change of the glass and a change of focus can make a better glass than that which was originally constructed, and actually improve it, do you not think the fashioner of the human eye may improve its sight and multiply the natural eye by the thousandfold additional forces of the resurrection eye?

"Why should it be thought with you an incredible thing that God should raise the dead?" Things all around us suggest it. Out of what grew all these flowers? Out of the mould and the earth. Resurrected! Resurrected! The radiant butterfly, where did it come from? The loathsome caterpillar. That albatross, that smites the tempest with its wing, where did it come from? A senseless shell. Near Bergerac, France, in a Celtic tomb under a block were found flower seed that had been buried two thousand years. The explorer took the flower seed and planted it, and it came up; it bloomed in bluebell and heliotrope. Two thousand years ago buried, yet resurrected. A traveler says he found in a mummy-pit in Egypt garden peas that had been buried there three thousand years ago; He brought them out and on the 4th of June, 1844, he planted them, and in thirty days they sprang up. Buried three thousand years, yet resurrected. "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?"

Where did all this silk come from—the silk that adorns your persons and your homes? In the hollow of a staff a Greek missionary brought from China to Europe the progenitors of those worms that now supply the silk market of many nations. The pageantry of bannered host and the luxurious articles of commercial emporium blazing out from the silk worms. And who shall be surprised if out of this insignificant earthly body, this insignificant earthly life, our bodies unfold into something worthy of the coming eternities. Put silver into diluted nitre and it dissolves. Is the silver gone forever? No. Put in some pieces of copper and the silver reappears. If one force dissolves another force organizes.

"Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" The insects flew and the worms crawled last autumn feebler and feebler, and then stopped. They have taken no food, they want none. They lay dormant and insensible, but soon the south wind will blow the resurrection trumpet, and the air and the earth will be full of them. Do you not think that God can do as much for our bodies as He does for the wasps and the spiders and the snails? This morning at 4:30 o'clock there was a resurrection. Out of the night, the day. In a few weeks there will be a resurrection in all our gardens. Why not some day a resurrection amid all the graves?

Ever and anon there are instances of men and women entranced.

A trance is death followed by resurrection after a few days' total suspension of mental power and voluntary action. Rev. William Tennent, a great evangelist of the last generation, of whom Dr. Archibald Alexander, a man far from being sentimental, wrote in most eulogistic terms—Rev. William Tennent seemed to die. His spirit departed. People came in day after day and said: "He is dead, he is dead." But the soul that fled returned, and William Tennent lived to write out the experiences of what he had seen while his soul was gone. It may be found some time that what is called suspended animation or comatose state is brief death, giving the soul an excursion into the next world from which it comes back, a furlough of a few hours granted from the conflict of life to which it must return. Do not this waking up of men from trance, and this waking up of insects from winter lifelessness, and this waking up of grains buried three thousand years ago, make it easier for you to believe that your body and mine after the vacation of the grave shall rouse and rally, though there be three thousand years between our last breath and the sounding of the archangelic reveille? Physiologists tell us that while the most of our bodies are built with such wonderful economy that we can spare nothing, and the loss of a finger is a hinderment, and the injury of a toe-joint makes us lame, still that we have two or three useless physical apparati, and no anatomist or physiologist has never been able to tell what they are for. They are no doubt the foundation of the resurrection body, worth nothing to us in this state, to be indispensably valuable in the next state. The Jewish rabbins had only a hint of this suggestion when they said that in the human frame there was a small bone which was to be the basis of the resurrection body. Perhaps that may have been a delusion. But this thing is certain, the Christian scientists of our day have found out that there are two or three superfluities of body that are something gloriously suggestive of another state.

I called at my friend's house one summer day. I found the yard all piled up with the rubbish of carpenter and mason's work. The door was off. The plumbers had torn up the floor. The roof was being lifted in cupola. All the pictures were gone, and the paper-hangers were doing their work. All the modern improvements were being introduced into that dwelling. There was not a room in the house fit to live in at that time, although a month before when I visited that house everything was so beautiful I could not have suggested an improvement. My friend had gone with his family to the Holy Land, expecting to come back at the end of six months, when the building was to be done. And oh, what was his joy when at the end of six months, he returned and the old house was enlarged and improved and glorified! That is your body. It looks well now—all the rooms filled with health, and we could hardly make a suggestion. But after awhile your soul will go to the Holy Land, and while you are gone the old house of your tabernacle will be entirely reconstructed from cellar to attic, and every nerve, muscle and bone and tissue and artery must be hauled over, and the old structure will be burnished and adorned and raised and cupolaed and enlarged, and all the improvements of heaven introduced and you will move into it on resurrection day. "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." They are very fond of each other. Did your body ever have pain and your soul not pity it? or your body have a joy and your soul not re-echo it? or, changing the question, did your soul ever have any trouble and your body not sympathise with it, growing wan and weak under the depressing influence? Or did your soul ever have a gladness but your body celebrated it with kindled eye and cheek and elastic step? Surely God never intended two such good friends to be very long separated. And so when the world's last Easter morning shall come the soul will descend, crying: "Where is my body?" and the body will ascend, saying: "Where is my soul?" and the Lord of the resurrection will bring them together, and it will be a perfect soul in a perfect body, introduced by a perfect Christ into a perfect heaven. Victory! Do you wonder that to-day we swathe this house with garlands! Do you wonder we celebrate it with the most consecrated voice of song that we can invite, and with doxologies that beat these arches with the billows of sound as the sea smites the basalt at Giant's Causeway! Only the bad disapprove of the resurrection.

A cruel heathen warrior heard Mr. Moffat, the missionary, preach about the resurrection, and he said to the missionary: "Will my father rise in the last day?" "Yes," said the missionary. "Will all the dead in battle rise?" said the cruel chieftain." "Yes," said the missionary. "Then," said the warrior, "let me hear no more about the resurrection day. There can be no resurrection, there shall be no resurrection. I have slain thousands in battle. Will they rise?" Ah, there will be more to rise on that day than those want to see whose crimes have never been repented of. But for all others who allowed Christ to be their pardon and their life and their resurrection it will be a day of victory.

The thunders of the last day will be the salvo that greets you into harbor. The lightnings will be only the torches of triumphal procession marching down to escort you home. The burning worlds flashing through immensity will be the rockets celebrating your coronation on thrones where you will reign forever and forever and forever. Where is death? What have we to do with death? As your reunited body and soul swing off from this planet on that last day you will see deep gashes all up and down the hills, deep gashes all through the valleys, and they will be the emptied graves, they will be the abandoned sepulchres, with rough ground tossed on either side of them, and slabs will lie uneven on the rent hillocks, and there will be fallen monuments and cenotaphs, and then for the first time you will appreciate the full exhilaration of the text: "He will swallow up death in victory."

"Hail the Lord of earth and heaven!
Praise to Thee by both be given:
Thee we greet triumphant now,
Hail the resurrection Thou!"

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

No End to the Good Advice in Store for Members.

[From the Detroit Free Press.]

Previous to the opening of the meeting Brother Gardiner, Sir Isaac Walpole and Waydown Bebee were seen in earnest conversation around the President's desk, and when the triangle sounded it was pretty well understood throughout the room that some matter of gravest importance was on the tapis. One individual seemed to feel even more than a lively curiosity. This was Brother Process Davis, a member of about six months' standing. He jammed himself into a corner and tried to appear as small as possible, and when inquiries were made about his sore heel he let on that he had an awful toothache and didn't want to talk. Scarcely had the meeting opened when he was called to appear at the President's desk. The look of terror which came to his face as he rose up proved that he regarded the matter in a very serious light, and he shuffled up the aisle like one going to execution.

"Brudder Process Davis," said the President in very solemn tones, "at one of our weekly meetins last fall, an' as we war' about to disperse to our homes, Sir Isaac Walpole diskibered dat his umbreller was missin'. It was an umbreller wid a white bone handle, an' it was an heirloom in his fam'ly. His gran'fadder had walked under dat umbreller, an' it had kept de rain off his fadder, an' he himself had owned it fur nigh upon thirty y'ars. It had been left in de kyars an' on steamboats, an' on de front doah steps, an' nobody had took it. He had brung it down heah 200 times, an' it war' allus waitin' fur him when he got ready to go home. At las' some one stole it—some human hyena laid his desecrated paws on dat sacred relick and bore it off. We made ebery effort to find it, but de hunt was in vain. Den we settled down to wait fur Justice. She neber sleeps. She sometimes does a good deal of foolin' around, an' dar am sometimes a mighty long wait between de acks, but she nebber sleeps. She didn't go to sleep dis time. She war' lookin fur you, an' yesterday she oberhauled you. You had Sir Isaac's umbreller under yer arm. Here am de libin' proof to convict you! You ar' de hyena who stole it, an' you ar' now befo' de bar of Justice! Prisoner, how do you plead?"

Process stood there with his mouth open and could not reply. The sudden shock seemed to have paralyzed him. His guilt was as plain as the hind buttons on a coat.

"De pusson who will steal an umbreller under any circumstances," continued the President, "deserves condine punishment. In dis case you stole it from a fellow member of a society, an' you added de sin of lyin' to your crime. Your name will be crossed off our book, an' you will enter dis hall no more forebber. De carryin' out of de rest of de sentence am left to Givadam Jones and Hercules Johnson."

The prisoner was removed to the anteroom, and about a minute later Paradise Hall was shaken from roof to cellar. This was followed by a bumping sound on the stairs leading to the alley, and this again by the sound of feet making a rush for life. Brother Process Davis will doubtless remain in Canada during the rest of his life.

The Rev. Penstock sent to the Secretary's desk a copy of a New York paper in which reference was made to "a kinky-haired citizen of off-color," and at the same time submitted a resolution to the effect that the Lime-Kiln Club branded such reference as false, malicious and unworthy of the intelligence of the nineteenth century.

"Brudder Penstock, it seems to me you is makin' a powerful fuss ober a very small matter," observed the President.

"It's an outrage, sah—a fiendish outrage!" exclaimed Penstock.

"I can't see it in dat light. In de fust place, our h'ar kinks. It's unfortunate fur us, p'raps, but its a fackt dat can't be got ober. In de next place, if we ain't off culler what d'yo call it? I'd be white if I could; but I can't, an' I long ago stopped tryin' to sandpaper de black off. While dat noose-payper hasn't slandered us 'tall, an' while your resolution as it stands am declar'd outer order, I'm willin' to declar' de language uncalled fur an' in poo' taste."

Penstock growled around for awhile and then accepted the partial compensation and sat down.

KNOWS IT.—The King of Denmark won't have a soldier in his army unless the man has a large and robust nose. Such noses indicate firmness of character.

WHO KNOWS?

Who of us know
How our next neighbor fares?
How of the woes and many cares
That rise like mountains in their way?
And who of us can say
We know of that large world we never see,
The world of poverty?

Who of us know
How much of pain a smiling face conceals,
How little of the sunlight ever steals
Into the lives of those who seem the happiest?
The one who makes us merry with the jest,
May he not carry in his heart so free
A wound he does not wish the world to see?

Who of us love,
And loving, cherish but the empty name,
And feed our hearts on naught; the flame
That burns so brilliant and so bright,
That lights our path as do the stars of night,
Goes out as quick as heaven's lightning flashes,
And leaves us—ashes!

—George Wilmot Harris.

The Versailles Locket.

BY WOOD BUFF CHARK.

Reginald Fontaine owed his prosperity largely to personal skill as a workman, and to correct tastes. In part, also, his success was the result of economy, and that sound judgment which led him when once he had saved a little money to rent the principal corner store in town and advertise briskly. And part was due to his name, which had an aristocratic sound.

Fontaine was a young man of fine address, with a knack of apt apparel, and he quickly became the leading jeweler. His credit was excellent, from the start. He bought discreetly of the manufacturers, won and held the popular retail trade, and in five years rose to a good commercial position.

One September morning a stranger asked for Mr. Fontaine at his store, a gentleman of foreign accent and appearance, handsomely attired, with a shrewd, energetic face. He was salesman for a French manufacturing firm, who solicited trade direct with American retailers. His prices seemed high, although his wares were original in pattern, and the stones of superior purity and lustre. In fact, it was a grade of jewels more costly than Fontaine had yet carried, and it appeared doubtful if his quiet town would justify such expensive investments. Accordingly he declined to buy.

The stranger retired, but in a half-hour returned again. He had made inquiries at the banks, and satisfied himself of the jeweler's responsibility. He now offered to leave a few articles on commission, for the purpose of introducing his styles. Fontaine welcomed this proposal, and gave the required receipts, obtaining a dozen very handsome gold breastpins, bearing ruby, sapphire, and emerald in unique settings, and a costly locket. He exulted over the brilliant additions to his exhibit, which would at least lend eclat to the stock and add to his repute.

The locket especially was a notable accession, and he gave it a conspicuous plate-glass shelf of his corner show window. It was oval in form, of solid gold, adorned with delicate bas-relief work and dainty enamel. It was studded with a cluster of five diamonds on each side. These diamonds were clear and vivid, uniform in size and quality, and of radiant depth.

"We ought to give that locket a name," said Jean Fontaine, as he stood by the window, admiring it. Jean was Reginald's brother and chief clerk, a skillful and competent assistant.

"Suppose we label it former property of Marie Antoinette," suggested Reginald, who was wont to make free use of his imagination.

"No, no!" replied the more prosaic Jean. "We can't ascribe historical qualities. It looks too new. We might call it 'A Congo Souvenir,' or 'The Tonquin Trophy.'"

Reginald demurred.

"Not one in ten of our customers will know it is French, or even understand such a name. They will think it was made in Connecticut, unless we state the contrary. I will have a little placard printed, naming it the 'Versailles Locket,' and announcing maself as importer.

Accordingly, next day appeared a delicate advertisement in black-and-white: "The Versailles Locket.—Our own Importation.—Direct from France.—Genuine Diamonds.—Fine Gold.—Hand Graven.—Price, $3,000.

Time passed. The ladies of the town came, examined and admired the locket. Christmas went by, and still the jewel lay in its satin bed upon the plate-glass shelf unsold. The breastpins were taken, but the locket proved too expensive for Fontaine's patrons. Twenty-five hundred dollars was the sum he stood accountable for to the French manufacturer in payment for this locket should he make a sale, and although in confidential moments he offered it to especial customers at twenty-seven hundred, no one profited by this liberal discount from the set price. Every night the locket was carefully put away in the burglar-proof compartment of his huge steel vault, and every morning its plush box was restored to the show-shelf, but the jewel seemed likely to remain as an advertisement until the traveling saleman reappeared to claim it.

One day a gentleman came in and left his gold watch for repairs. This was a tall, majestic person, whom Fontaine had often seen of late upon the streets, wearing a heavy sealskin cap and a melton ulster, with collar and cuffs and pocket-laps of seal fur, and clad throughout in costly deference to fashion. His watch was heavily chased, and very valuable. He was particular to take a receipt in the name of F. F. Barton, and departed abruptly, without so much as recognizing in Reginald Fontaine the proprietor of the premises.

At the appointed time Mr. Barton returned for his watch. Fontaine in person waited on him, and noticed the massive signet ring worn by his customer, the onyx monogram of which seemed cracked. Mr. Barton threw down a fifty-dollar bill with an indifferent air, and gathered up the change without appearing to take count of it. He hooked the golden loop of his heavy chain into its buttonhole, restored the watch to his pocket with an air of satisfaction, and turned away.

"I see that your signet is broken," said Reginald Fontaine, respectfully.

"A little," replied Mr. Barton, drawing on his fleece-lined glove.

"I am now taking orders for signets. Should you wish to have the stone replaced at any time, I can have it duplicated with precision at reasonable cost."

The visitor bowed as he pulled on his other glove, and replied:

"It is an heirloom in my family, and was cracked a century ago. Nothing could replace it."

"In that case, of course not," rejoined Fontaine. He drew from a drawer a ring-tray. "If you are interested in rings, examine these. I have some odd forms here. I don't expect you to buy, sir; but I am an enthusiast in my trade, and if any one likes to look, I like to show the goods."

And, in fact, it was a feature of Fontaine's sagacious policy that he tried to have every customer see as many of his wares as possible.

Mr. Barton glanced incuriously over the tray.

"I've seen acres of rings," he replied, with a curling lip. And he continued to button his gloves.

"Is there anything I can show you that you are interested in?" continued Fontaine, politely, replacing the tray. "Family plate, tableware, children's or ladies' ornaments——"

Mr. Barton had faced towards the door. He turned about with feeble curiosity to ask:

"What have you in the way of ladies' ornaments?"

Fontaine led his customer to a show-case glittering with bracelets, combs, pins, and other bijoutry.

"The variety has been a little broken by our Christmas sales——" he began.

"No matter, I need not trouble you," interrupted Mr. Barton. "There is nothing here that I wish."

"It is the best assortment in town!" retorted Reginald Fontaine.

"Very likely. But I came from Paris only six months since, and shall return in the spring. I think I can afford to wait until that time before I buy."

With some warmth Fontaine flew to the show-window and caught up the locket. He put this before his scornful visitor.

"Here is something you have never seen excelled in Paris or elsewhere."

Mr. Barton looked at the locket in silence. He drew off his gloves and took up the jewel. He examined it minutely, and said, at last:

"These are genuine brilliants?"

"Guaranteed true diamonds."

"A very handsome affair—very handsome. This came from France?"

"Versailles. It is a masterpiece, sir, known as the Versailles Locket."

"What is the price?"

"Three thousand dollars."

Mr. Barton inspected it closely, and laid it down at last with manifest change of bearning. He looked at Reginald Fontaine more cordially, and said, in an insinuating tone:

"I presume you would shade that price a little for cash?"

"I might, a very little," returned the jeweler, now speaking coldly in his turn.

"Well, I'll see. I'll send my wife around to look at it. She likes such toys, but whether she will buy or not is quite uncertain. Luckily for me, she has money of her own. For my part, three thousand dollars is too much to put into a jewel."

"What is your business, Mr. Barton?" inquired Fontaine.

"Importer of oil paintings. I am also commissioned by wealthy people to buy works of art abroad, and usually make a trip once a year. Am here now to receive a shipment from Antwerp. My wife and I are stopping at the Desplaines House."

He laid down an embossed card, neatly engraved with his name and bearing his crest, bowed and sauntered out.

Three days later a messenger came to Reginald Fontaine with this note:

"DEAR SIR: Please bring the locket to Room 24, Desplaines House, at two o'clock this afternoon. My wife wishes to see it, and is unable to leave the hotel. I can't promise you that she will buy; but, as you like to show your wares, I would be pleased to have you submit the locket to her. "Yours,
F. F. BARTON."

Reginald Fontaine thought a moment. Then his dignity asserted itself. He called his trusty brother, and showed him the note.

"Jean, I'll let you wait on these people. Sell the locket if you can. Get twenty-seven hundred if you can't do any better. Take good care of the locket."

A porter led Jean that afternoon to Room 24, and knocked upon the door.

"Enter said a voice within.

Jean went in. A lovely young woman, richly clad, with pale face and languid air, reclined in an easy-chair. Before her on a centre-table was a tray of wine-glasses. Mr. Barton stood opposite, and still upheld a newly opened bottle from which he had just poured a tiny glass of dark wine. He bowed to Jean.

"You are from the jeweler's?"

"Yes, sir."

"Step forward, if you please."

The porter went out and closed the door. Jean handed forth the locket, which Mr. Barton passed to his wife.

"How beautiful!"

She held it to the light and examined it critically.

"Had you not better take this now?" said Mr. Barton, proffering her the glass of wine.

She took it, and looked toward Jean.

"Perhaps this gentleman——" she said, suggestively.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Barton. He poured out two more glasses, and pushed one toward Jean. "Will you join us, sir? It is port. Do you like sweet wine?"

Jean was very temperate and unused to liquors. But here were a couple, evidently of high social rank, accustomed, no doubt, to the foreign use of wine. It might give offense to refuse, and bargains often hang on trifles. He responded courteously, and sipped the sweet port to the quick bottom of his glass.

"Take a seat here," said the lady.

Jean accepted a large easy chair by her side. She turned her bright, dazzling eyes upon him,

"You are certain these are real diamonds?"

"Warranted genuine, madam," returned Jean.

His voice sounded thick to his own ears, a strange oppression rose into his brain, the world seemed rocking upon endless waves, and the lady and the locket appeared to float away—away.

* * * * * * *

When Jean awoke, twilight filled the room with fantastic shadows, and rays from the street lamps fell flickering on the walls.

He knew he was in a place he had seen before, but all was so unwonted, and the languor that lay upon him was so delicious and enchanting, that he felt sure he was in a dream from which he hated to awaken.

Even the loud knocking at the door failed to rouse him to reality, and when he heard his brother's voice crying out in alarm: "Jean! Jean!" it only stirred his wrath, as if summoned at an unwelcome hour.

Then followed silence, and he sat marveling at the luxurious surroundings, and the mystery of his presence here.

The turning of a key was followed by the quick entrance of the hotel clerk and Reginald Fontaine. The jeweler darted forward to his brother and clasped his arm; he looked into his dilated eyes and bewildered face, and cried:

"Jean! Jean! What is the matter? Where is the locket?"

The locket! Jean sprang up. His lethargy departed. He understood, and tottering toward his brother, fell senseless at his feet.

* * * * * *

Ten days later the French salesman reappeared. In vain Reginald Fontaine recounted these facts and urged delay until the swindler was captured and the locket recovered. The Frenchman only shrugged and listened, and at the end repeated: "Settlement!"

Fontaine at last drew a check for the amount of his indebtedness, and the Frenchman disappeared.

Time passed. No trace was found of Barton nor his lovely wife. One day, in New York, Reginald visited the Rogues' Gallery at Police Headquarters. He saw many faces there not in the collection of his home officials—among these, F. F. Barton, and the French salesman who had commissioned the locket!

Although the police could not explain this coincidence and scouted his conclusions, Fontaine always believed himself the victim of a double conspiracy; that the knaves traveled the globe with ample capital, one placing jewels stolen abroad in the hands of responsible dealers in small American towns, the other following to recapture the prizes, and the original conspirator returning to demand payment for the loss.

But while he never placed hand or eyes again upon the French salesman, he had the satisfaction of adding his testimony to the catalogue of evidence against Mr. Barton at a later day, and of seeing him consigned to prison. The Versailles Locket, however, never reappeared, but Mr. Reginald Fontaine concluded that his experience was worth the two thousand five hundred dollars which it cost him. He deals no more with unknown foreign manufacturers, neither does he trust valuable jewels among strangers.—Frank Leslie's.

An Explorers' Expedient.

Not a few people have wondered how Dr. Junker, who has just returned to civilization from Central Africa, succeeded in passing safely through the hostile tribes in the lake region. The mystery is explained at last, and Dr. Junker deserves credit for inventing an ingenious method of reducing danger to a minimum in traversing unfriendly parts of Africa.

Before going far from Albert Nyanza he ascertained that there was no hope of his getting through the territory of the Waganda and one or two other hostile tribes without aid. If he was not murdered he would at least be detained as a prisoner. Now and then an Arab trading caravan was starting for the coast, but the Arabs were afraid to appear to befriend him as they could not afford to incur the ill will of the native kings.

In this emergency the novel idea occurred to Dr. Junker to sell himself as a slave to one of the Arab traders. A bargain was struck, and he ostensibly became the property of the trader. The contract stipulated that the Arab, for the sum of 1,500 Austrian dollars, was to deliver the traveler alive at Zanzibar, where upon the presentation of the contract the money would be paid to him by a firm doing business there. It happened that Dr. Junker had with him an order written in Arabic by this firm, authorizing him to make any desirable arrangements with the Arab traders of Central Africa.

So Dr. Junker set out with his Arab caravan, which took him straight into the lion's den, or, in other words, into the chief town of M'wanga, the cruel despot of Uganda. The chief trader represented that Junker was not his friend or traveling companion, but was his slave, whom he had bought of a negro tribe further north. In his capacity as a slave Dr. Junker passed muster in the court of King M'wanga, and he was permitted to go in peace with his owner.—New York Sun.

Sale of Crown Jewels.

May 12 has been set for the auction sale of the crown jewels of France. The "Regent" diamond, valued at twelve million francs, will not be sold. The Louvre Museum will receive the jeweled watch of the Dey of Algiers; the imperial crown and the sword of the Dauphin will go into the melting pot. There will be plenty of rare and costly jewels left, however, for amateurs to bid on at l'Hotel-Drouot, where the sale is to take place. The diamonds and precious stones will be on public exhibition for a month after being catalogued. In the meantime they repose in a triple-walled safe with the Minister of Finance. This safe, fastened in the wall, is locked with three keys, each key being confided to a high and trusty functionary of the ministry. The diamonds were all stolen in 1793, when the revolution was at its height, but an anonymous letter told where they were two months after. They were found concealed in a thicket in the Champs Elysees. Some very costly jewels were never recovered, however.—Texas Siftings.

The national debt per capita of the United States is $23, or including State debts, $27; that of France is $124; of Great Britain, $127; of Holland, $115; of Italy, $90; of Belgium, $78; of Germany, $39. The combined national and State taxes, excluding county, town and other local taxes, are, for the United States, $4.50 per capita, or $6, including payment on the public debt; for Italy, $10.42; for Holland, $10.90; for Belgium, $11; for Great Britain, $11.80; for Germany, $12; for France, $18, or, with the annual deficit, $19.

We must do quickly what there is no hurry for, to be able to do slowly what demands haste.

OUR FATHERLAND.

From shores where Liberty's portal
Shines fair to earth's ultimate span;
From Prairies where Lincoln immortal
Won loftiest manhood of man;
From beyond those mountain peaks hoary,
Where Fremont, the brave, saw each way
Our after-time transcendent glory;
From land of Calhoun and of Clay,
Americans! make thy song ever,
At the God of all nations' command:
Our fatherland sweeps to both oceans
From the Lakes to the far Rio Grande.

Great men of the East, where fruition
Smiles sweet upon heritage won;
Strong men of the West, where the glowing
Of hope beckons endlessly on;
Brave men of the Northland, toil-girded,
Clear-visioned, and calm in thy tread:
Grand men of the Southland, transfigured
In light of thy sorrow and dead—
All, all! Let our anthem be ever,
At the God of all nations' command:
Our fatherland sweeps to both oceans,
From the Lakes to the far Rio Grande.

Here are birthrights noble in story;
There, dust of a consecrate throng.
Here, mountains and valleys of glory;
There, echoes of immortal song.
O, freemen! we are but each other's,
All these have been pricelessly won;
Rise, rise! to the love-height of others,
Invincible, evermore one!
Then, deathless, our song shall be ever,
At the God of all nations' command:
Our fatherland sweeps to both oceans,
From the Lakes to the far Rio Grande.

—Edgar L. Wakeman, in Southern Bivouac.

PITH AND POINT.

A big blower—The wind.

Letters of Credit—I. O. U. A. V.—Dansville Breeze.

The man who struck an attitude has not yet been arrested.—Boston Bulletin.

Naomi was 580 years old when she got married. Truly the Bible is a great consoler.—New Haven News.

A fireman on a locomotive, no matter how hard-hearted he may be, is still a tender man.—Boston Budget.

If angels' visits were as expensive as those of doctors' we should be glad that they are so few and far between.

The five mummies found in a Dakota cave last week belonged to one of the first families.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

Kate Sanborn says "there is too much of everything in this world." That is so, but the great difficulty is to get hold of it.—Graphic.

We are told that the Spaniards prefer boarding-houses to hotels, because the former offer them more exciting bull-fights when they attack the steaks.

"It's a fine day, your Honor," said the Disorderly Drunk in a wheedling tone. "It is, indeed," replied his Honor, sternly. "Ten dollars fine."—Philadelphia Call.

"Lives of great men all remind us
We should make our lives sublime,"
Then let ten o'clock ne'er find us
At the club, but home on time.
—Boston Courier.

Singular language ours: When a man is full of kindness and benevolence, we say he is humane; when he is full of frailties, we say he is only human.—Boston Courier.

An agricultural exchange advises its readers to take care of their cabbages. In this relation, we may remark that it is only a brute who would be unkind to his cabbage.—Graphic.

The new Mayor of a new Ohio city told the serenaders who tooted under his windows that "he wept tears of joy over his election." His Honor seems to be laboring under a mistake; he wasn't elected town crier.—Burdette.

What more precious offering can be laid upon the altar of a man's heart, than the first love of a pure, earnest, and affectionate girl, with an undivided interest in eight corner lots, and fourteen three-story houses?—Texas Siftings.

...."Hullo, Mr. Brown! What are you doing up at this time o' morning?" "Oh! I'm trying to scare up an appetite for my breakfast. Why are you up so early?" "I'm trying to scare up a breakfast for my appetite."—Judge.

"An Old Settler Gone," read Dr. Bolus in the obituary column of the local paper, and then he added thoughtfully: "Well, Bjenks may have been an old settler in one sense, but he always managed to forget to settle with me."—Somerville Journal.

An Illinois man advertises "pure bred, Poland-China swine, all the most fashionable and leading families represented." We presume that a fashionable Poland-China pig is much more valuable to sell than the common ordinary hog that crosses his legs in the street cars.—Graphic.

Animals that Change Color.

There is a tiny crustacean, the chameleon shrimp, which can alter its hue to that of any material on which it happens to rest. On a sandy bottom it appears gray or sand-colored; when lurking among seaweed it becomes green, or red or brown, according to the nature of its momentary background. Probably the effect is quite unconscious, or at least involuntary, like blushing with ourselves—and nobody ever blushed on purpose, though they do say a distinguished poet once complained that an eminent actor did not follow his stage directions because he omitted to obey the rubrical remark, "Here Harold purples with anger." The change is produced by certain automatic muscles which force up particular pigment cells above the others, green coming to the top on a green surface, red on a ruddy one, and brown or gray where the circumstances demand them. Many kinds of fish similarly alter color to suit their background by forcing forward or backward certain special pigment-cells known as chromatophores, whose various combinations produce at will almost any required tone or shade. Almost all reptiles and amphibians possess the power of changing their hue in accordance with their environment in a very high degree; and among certain tree toads and frogs it is difficult to say what is the normal coloring, as they vary indefinitely from buff and dove-color to chocolate-brown, rose, and even lilac.—Cornhill.

An English inventor claims that bells made by soldering together pieces of bent metal give a much better volume of sound than cast bells.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 28, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The New York Star, the only reliable Democratic daily now published in New York city, thinks the inter-State commerce law an absurdity from beginning to end.

The trial of Ike Vincent has been continued until the regular July term of the Montgomery city court. The postponement of the trial was on account of the illness of an important State witness.

A reporter of the Montgomery Advertiser was sent to Weatherford Texas, to look into the recent capture of Ike Vincent. He writes the Advertiser that he is satisfied from his investigations that the arrest was by agreement and that a division of the reward was made, but he cannot fasten the facts as everyone over there was as "dumb as death."

The Jasper Eagle exhibited considerable enterprise in the publication of an extra that the people might get the particulars of the hanging of Anderson Oaks alias "Jack the Bear," on the 14th inst. When the condemned man was asked if he had anything to say, he replied: Yes, tell everybody to let whiskey alone. It is what brought me here to-day. If it hadn't been for whiskey, I'd never killed Mr. Wootten. Tell them to keep away from the bar rooms and out of bad company."

The Mobile Register says the VIEW editor who wrote so harshly of Anderson, of Virginia, is demented. If the Mobile military had followed the admirable example set by the Montgomery military, the poor old Register would then have sung another song, and our criticism of Anderson would have met with its hearty approbation. Aren't we correct old fellow? Whether we are or not we are indeed gratified at having so effectually stirred up the rottenness which environs the Register and its military constituency.

In Kansas the women last week, availed themselves of their newly acquired burden of voting. In most cases the large majority of those who went to the polls were negro and white women of the lowest class. There were in some places most disgraceful scenes, quarrelling, and even fighting; and in one case the police were called in to part a husband and wife.

The experiment so far as the purifying of the ballot is concerned seems to have been a disgusting failure. May every similar experiment have a similar result, until women are convinced that their mission is not at the polls.—Christian Observer.

"The first three months of 1887 witnessed the most remarkable industrial activity in the South that the world has probably ever seen. From one end of the South to the other the people have awakened to the vast possibilities of the future of this land on which nature has bestowed her blessings with such a lavish hand. While capital from the North and West, and also from Europe, is pouring into the South, and the tide of immigration has turned this way, yet full credit should be given to the people of the South for their share in this great work of building up their country. In truth, Southern men and Southern money have led the way and demonstrated to the world that the South is not lacking in energy, nor are her people waiting for others to come in and develop her resources. While the South heartily invites the co-operation of outside capital and men in this great work, yet she is by no means dependent upon them for success in carrying out the gigantic enterprises that are attracting the the attention of the business world. It is indeed wonderful to see the abundance of money in the South ready for investment in any enterprise that promises well.

The people of the West and the North, seeing the unequaled opportunities that the South now affords for engaging in manufactures, in mining, in railroad construction and in agriculture, are rapidly moving this way, and to-day the South and its great future are the almost universal themes of conversation. There is no longer any room, even in the most skeptical mind, for questioning the stability and permanency of the South's progress, and the almost unbounded prosperity which is opening upon that section. This prosperity has made itself felt first in manufactures and mining, but from these it is gradually spreading out to all other interests, and the swelling tide of men and money seeking openings for employment in the South, is steadily enhancing the value of all real estate, and offering to the "land poor" farmers of the South opportunities for selling their idle land at profitable prices."—Baltimore Manufacturer's Record.

Bro. Ike Turns Up Again.

Since Bro. Ike got into the scrape with the bull dog he has been very quiet. He has, however, traveled a little the past week inspecting the growing crops. He says there have been more lands cleared, more houses built, more fencing repaired, more oats sown, and more guano bought, than he ever knew before in the county. All these things seem to indicate prosperity among the people. However, he does not hold in much favor the extensive use of guano. He learned that the acreage of cotton is not so great as previous years. People are increasing the amount of fertilizer to the acre, and not increasing the acreage. He thinks the acreage of cotton ought to be reduced every year until only three acres to the plow will be cultivated, and he recommends a small acreage in corn, but advises more fertilizing to the acre, and larger acreages of oats, grasses, rice, and ground peas. He also advises the reduction of stock, and an improvement thereof. He says if the farmers would turn their attention more to stock improvement, more money would be realized therefrom than from the loose way we have of planting so much cotton; and one thing he is surely certain of, that is, if all would go to improving their stock, he would have a better mule to ride, than the one he rode when he got into his famous dog scrape. Bro. Ike says the peach crop in the western portion of the county is a total failure. All killed by the frosts in March and first of April. Bro. Ike says he has seen "Peaceful Boy," and he likes him finely. Will visit his region soon.

SAM MING.

A Double Compliment.

Philadelphia Times.

James R. Randall, long chief editor of the Augusta Chronicle, and more widely known as the boy author of the yet well remembered Southern war song, "Maryland my Maryland," has caught the infection of Southern progress. He has retired from the editorial chair of the Chronicle that he has filled for many years with conspicuous credit to become interested in and editor of a new daily paper in Anniston Alabama, one of the new and booming industrial centres of that empire Commonwealth of riches, alike in forest field and mine. Mr. Randall has ample capital for his enterprise, and we welcome him to the new and wider field furnished by the wonderful industrial development of Alabama. There is no State on the continent, not even California, where such vast wealth can be so easily and profitably developed as in Alabama. There will be unwise inflators of speculative bubbles, but the wealth is there; it is easy of access; it has God-made highways to markets, and the next decade should double the population of Alabama and her fields should nearly feed her people.

They Never, Never Use Slang.

"I just think it's shameful the way Sally Spittlejig spits slang," said a Sac City maiden to a Sioux City miss. "My! If I twirled my talker as she does my blooming old snoozer of a dad would tan my duds until the dust was thicker'n fleas in fly time."

"You betcher brass, and serve you right," replied the Sioux City miss. "My parents are sunflowers of the same hue, and if I should make a raw crack in conversation they'd thrash the rosy cussedness out of my angelic anatomy quicker'n old Cleveland can bust a bill with his veto."—Odebolt (Iowa) New North.

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sep11 3

Notice to Delinquents.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
CHILTON COUNTY. } TO

Harrison Foshee, French Nabors, Thos. Peters, John Attaway, D. A. Caine, Unknown Owner or D. Haywood, D. T. Blakey, J. P. Batson, Mrs. Sidney Elsworth, M. Benjamin, R. A. Warner, W. L. Witworth, J. E. Butler, R. R. Carathers, and Unknown Owners:

The tax collector has filed in my office a list of delinquent tax payers and real estate upon which taxes are due. Each of you are reported as delinquents, and the following lands are reported as assessed to each of you as follows:

BEAT 1.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for State and county taxes and costs, $2.70. Printer's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Total assesment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 2.

To Harrison Foshee for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the s e ¼ sec 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 7 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.98. Pr's fee $1.94.

To French Nabors for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12 and the s e ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 16 t 24 r 13 and the e ½ of s w ¼ sec 16 t 24 r 13 and the n e ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 21 t 24 r 13 and the s w ¼ of the s w ¼ sec 22 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes costs $7.60. Pr's fee $3.29.

To Thomas Peters for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12 Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $13.70. Pr's fee $3.44.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 3.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the n w q sec 25 t 22 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

BEAT 4.

To John Attaway for the year 1886 the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $6.00. Pr's fee $2.27.

To D. A. Caine for the year 1886 the n e q of sec 16 t 22 r 14 and the n w q of sec 15 t 22 r 14 and the s w q of the s w q and a part of the s e q of the s w q in sec 10 t 22 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $14.20. Pr's fee $2.66.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the n e q sec 8 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner or D. Haywood for the year 1886 the s w q of the s e q and the s ½ of the s w q in sec 28 t 23 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.90. Pr's fee $1.85.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n ½ of the s e q in sec 29 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.90. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 Lot No. 10 in block 6, east of S and N Rail Road in Clanton Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $1.60. Pr's fee $1.49.

BEAT 5.

To D. T. Blakey for the year 1886 the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.95. Pr's fee $1.49.

To J. P. Batson for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena, Ala. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $11.50. Pr's fee $1.25.

To Mrs Sydney Ellsworth for the year 1886 the w ½ of the n e q in sec 10 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs 88 cents Pr's fee $1.40.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of n e q in sec 19 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s e q sec 19 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.40.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s ½ of the s e ¼ in sec 15 t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.80. Pr's fee $1.46.

To Unknown Owner or M. Benjamine for the year 1886 the s half of the s w q in sec 14 t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.70. Pr's fee $1.55.

To R. A. Warner, Agent, for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $23.49. Pr's fee $1.22.

To W. L. Whitworth for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.05. Pr's fee $1.52.

BEAT 8.

To J. E. Butler for the year 1886 the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33 t 20 r 11. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $2.20. Pr's fee $1.85.

To R. R. Carathers for the year 1886 the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e q of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $3.30. Pr's fee $2.69.

This is to notify each of you to appear before me on Monday, the 9th day of May next, and then and there to show cause why a decree for the sale of said lands should not be made for each of the above amounts specified, and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs.

H. J. CALLEN,
Judge of Probate.

April 14th, 1887.

NOTICE NO. 6297.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
April 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Alabama, on May 14, 1887, viz: Asa J. Robinson, Homestead 18106 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, n e of s e ¼ sec 24 township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Roberts, John Roberts, William Klinner and William W. Green, all of Dixie, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6293.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 14th, 1887, viz: Abraham C. Mims, homestead 10863 for the s w ¼ of sec 24 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, Linsey W. Henly, William P. Headley, James R. Broadhead, all of Kincheen, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6283.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John Bearden, homestead 14409, for the sw ¼ of nw ¼ and nw ¼ of sw ¼, section 14, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John D. Selman, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6284.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: Nathan D. Ellis, Homestead 12091, for n ½ of ne ¼, sec. 26, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, John D. Selman, Claton Hall, Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6282.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John D. Selman, homestead 12087, for the w ½ of ne ¼ section 22, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Job printing neatly executed at this office.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE
200 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Covers everything, Ec. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting & valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 58 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Send by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!
During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!
COLLINS
AGUE CURE
One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.
If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S
Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY
Sold at 25cts, 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.
If your EYES are affected in any way, use Dr. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.
Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.
SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC" for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun24-y

L&N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all
NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A., Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.
NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
:o:
NO TEXT BOOKS USED.
BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.
We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.
We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.
No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.
For circulars call at college or address
Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Successors to
MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.
Jobbers and Retailers of
Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,
Painters' and Artists' Supplies.
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.
1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
SELMA, ALABAMA.
mar24-y]

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., APR. 28, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Sing a Song of Sixpence.

Sing a song of sixpence,
You fellow full of rye;
With not a cent to bury you
To-morrow should you die.
The keeper's in the bar-room
Counting out his money,
His wife is in the parlor
With well-dressed sis and sonny:
Your wife has gone out working
And washing people's clothes,
To pay for old rye whiskey
To color your red nose.

For the Chilton View.]

My Savior.

St. John, Chap. VI., 37th Verse.

Oh! Savior mine, that wondrous love,
Thyself a sacrifice to give;
Descending from thy home above,
That sinners such as I might live.

I claim thy promise gracious Lord,
That thou wilt in no wise cast out.
And I believe thy precious word,
Help thou my unbelief and doubt.

No need thy tender hands to show,
To prove the pain of calvary;
I kiss the precious wounds for lo,
The cruel nails were driven for me.

Lord to my fainting spirit bring
Thy healing strength, with me abide;
Unto thy cross alone I cling,
And know for me my Savior died.

GEORGIA A. JONES.

Tuesday last was memorial day.

What about our municipal election?

Another store has been opened in Clanton by Mr. McRee.

Wanted.—A boy to learn the printer's trade. Apply at this office.

The Rev. Mr. Briggs, our Methodist pastor, will preach here next Sabbath.

F. J. Davis and P. D. Wilson, of Birmingham, spent several days in Clanton this week.

Rev. C. R. Lamar and wife of Demopolis, visited relatives in Clanton this week.

Communications received later than Tuesdays cannot be published until the following week.

Mrs. J. M. Ponder, visited her daughter, Miss Gertrude, this week, who is at school in Tuskegee.

Mr. T. M. Edwards has moved his stock of goods into the corner storehouse formerly occupied by Jno. Garner & Co.

The children's missionary society of the Baptist church made the pastor, Rev. A. E. Burns, a present of a nice suit of clothes last Saturday.

W. L. Sampey, the first honor man, of '85, is doing a flourishing business at Clanton. He alone, of that memorable class, has completed his happiness by taking unto himself a wife.—Howard Collegian.

On last Saturday night the commissary at J. H. Hunt's saw mill about two miles and a half from town was totally destroyed by fire. We understand that Mr. Hunt's loss is something over five hundred dollars.

Passing through Jemison last week we noticed a good many new buildings going up and rapidly too. If Clanton does not spur up and keep pushing ahead she cannot long boast of being the most thriving and rapidly growing town in this section.

Sampey's Corner.

Dull trade is worse than swapping dollars, so come along to town and bring your money and Sampey will sell you the goods you want whether he makes a big profit or none at all. He has the goods and did not buy them to keep for show, but for you to use.

The Lumbermen.

The Alabama Yellow Pine Lumber Association met in Montgomery on Monday last, to take action in relation to the inter-State commerce law. It was decided to send a committee to meet the United States Railroad Commission at Mobile, on the 29th inst., in order to present the lumber interests of the State to the consideration of the commission. The committee consists of Richard Coe, B. B. McKenzie, S. T. Brittle, W. T. Smith, D. M. Rogers, and J. B. Murphree. The Advertiser makes the following personal mention: "Several speeches were made by different gentlemen present. Major Bivings, of Clanton, made a stirring speech in which he pictured the Yellow Pine Lumber Association as the nucleus around which to hinge and gather the interests of the State and the people. It was a splendid speech, and well calculated to make every member proud of the organization."

Newspaper subscribers who are in arrears should bear in mind that a dun is not an impeachment of their integrity, but simply an outcropping of the publisher's necessity. For instance, five hundred men owe him from one to three dollars each. It is a small amount to each individual, but to him the amount is large. Instead of becoming indignant because the publisher asks for his honest dues, the delinquent subscribers should be grateful to him for waiting so patiently, and pay up like men. —Greensboro Watchman.

The VIEW cabinet is indebted to Miss Dalee Thornton for a fossiliferous contribution taken from the Henryellen Mines near Birmingham. The substance appears to be a blue and white clay with the print of fern leaves upon it. It was found at a depth of between two and three hundred feet below the surface, and is quite a curiosity.

The new Methodist church at Jemison is nearly completed. It has been built in the last two months. Clanton's new church building has not been commenced with the exception of the pillars which have been finished about three months.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Chandler's Mill.

We had a good rain last Sunday night.

Mr. J. H. Chandler is having the best wagon made for log hauling that has ever been put up in this part of the country.

We are sorry to say that there is some sickness in our little burgh.

Our conference was a grand success. The Rev. J. W. Weaver, of Burnsville, Dallas Co., delivered two very able and interesting sermons. He is a righteous man and a true christian.

Our church received 7 new members, 5 by letter and 2 converts. Misses Mattie and Alice Jones were the happy ones who received the Holy Love in their innocent and pure young hearts. Everybody was happy. We had a glorious meeting Saturday night, God be praised. The Rev. W. A. Wells, the father of this church, was truly pleased with the conference.

HUSTLER.

Bivings Duke & Co's Mill.

Mr. C. M. Williamson, of Verbena, made a visit to friends here last week.

Mr. E. S. Buist, of Birmingham, was here last week to spend a few days with his sister, Mrs. J. M. Bivings.

"Mill-Town" has been honored this week by representatives from Louisville, Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery and last but not least, Clanton.

The fish-pond is the chief excitement of "The Town" and is the "Boulevard" for the mill folks.

Maj. J. M. Bivings attended a meeting of the mill-men in Montgomery on Monday last.

We are glad to see our efficient clerk, Mr. E. Deramus, back at his post after a short illness.

Fishing is the order of the day and we have been enjoying some fine trout and bream.

The new engine at the Planing Mills is being put down and will soon be in working order.

Success to you.

OLD MAID.

Maplesville Dots.

Rev. J. O. Nobles preached to a most attentive audience Sunday at Maplesville.

Dr. Wooley, of Selma, has bought out Mr. Douthitt and will move to our town next week.

We had the pleasure of meeting Miss Lillie McGee in our town a few days since.

The family of Mr. Hernandez have improved so much in health as to add to the reputation of our locality in that way.

Mr. Gullahorn is proving himself a most patriotic citizen by selling so very cheap that all within his reach can afford to get something new occasionally from the store.

Some of our industrious gardners are beginning to get pay for their hard work in the early Spring. Mrs. DuBose is beginning to make those large strawberry pies that she is so famous for.

We regret very much that Mrs. Douthit has left our town to live in Ashby. We sincerely hope they may be pleased with their new home, and find as many warm friends there as they left here.

Stanton Puffs.

Our friend Mr. O. H. B. Wright book keeper for G. & C. L. Co. took a deer hunt with some friends one day last week, he reported four deer and one turkey killed. He had as companions a Baptist and a Methodist, preacher, also Mr. Prichard, the Nimrod of this part of the country.

The G. C. & L. Co. have ordered a new locomotive for their logging road.

The disturbance in Lodge & Bro's coaling has subsided, a number of the white hands were discharged as they were suspected of being involved, and as soon as they were paid off left for other parts.

The venerable Baptist preacher, elder A. Andrews preached at the Baptist Church last Sabbath. Our people here are always glad to see him, and hope he may be spared to visit us often.

The painting of the Baptist Church has been completed. The pulpit and seats have been turned around which gives it the appearance of a new house. One of the deacons remarked that he hardly knew where to sit down.

Mr. Guy H. Fitzgerald, of Howison Station, has moved his family to that point from Gallatin, Tenn.

Rev. Mr. Noble, of the Methodist church preached in Stanton last Sabbath. We understand that there will be an effort made to organize a church of that denomination here.

Next Sabbath is Bro. Ruddick's appointment at the Baptist church. He went to Autaugaville last Saturday to fill his appointment there and reports good congregations and some hopes of additions to the church there.

The new boiler has been placed in position at the Gregory & Coe saw mill and will soon be ready for service.

We learned not long since that Dr. T. E. Callier, of Dixie, proposed disposing of his business and property at that point.

Mr. Coe, of our town is off on an extended business trip this week.

Prof. E. D. Acker is still wielding the rod in the Stanton Academy to the full satisfaction of his patrons. He also gives this people an occassional sermon in the Baptist church. 89.

Verbena.

MR. EDITOR:—I will write you a few dots this week for the first time.

Farmers are through with planting and cotton chopping will soon be the order of the day. We had a fine rain on the 22d, which was badly needed. Oats are looking well.

The Pratt Saw Mill Co. had some bad luck last week. The log engine broke down and was sent to Birmingham for repairs. They also had quite a fire on the 21st. The shed over the planer furnace was burned.

A party of Verbena young folks spent the day at the Turnround on the 22d. They report quite a nice time. ELY.

Miss Bettie Sanders and her mother from Birmingham are visiting friends at this place.

Mr. Wendt, from Fort Deposit, is stopping here for a few days on his way to his home in Illinois.

A brother of Mr. Luther Jackson's, from Tennessee, is visiting Mr. J., at this place.

We listened to two excellent sermons delivered by the Methodist pastor, Dr. Briggs, Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Boykin and her daughter, Mrs. Emma Glover, of Pratt Saw Mills, are visiting relatives at Union Springs this week.

Two accidents occurred at the Pratt Mills last week. The locomotive while drawing ten cars up the grade at the switch, three of the crank pins broke off knocking out each end of one cylinder, the damage is about $900. The shed over the planing mill boiler caught fire Thursday evening, and burned down in spite of all that could be done to save it. Damage about $200. The property of the company we learn is fully covered by insurance.

We noticed an article in the VIEW some time since in reference to the business men at the Pratt Mills. The name of W. F. Claughton was not mentioned. He has been assistant foreman of the mills for one year and gives satisfaction in every respect.

WATCHMAN.

Consul Lucien J. Walker is on a visit to friends in Alabama. A foreign consul is soon forgotten by his "many friends" at home unless he puts in an appearance occasionally, hence Lucien's visit. Wise boy.

MONTGOMERY
FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

MOTHER'S FRIEND
MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!
SHORTENS LABOR.
LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT!
DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.
Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Valuable
Real Estate
FOR SALE.
:o:
A new five room residence at the hot well.
A seven room residence situated on a beautiful corner lot in town.
One hundred and twenty-five acres of land with a good 5 room residence, good water. Only four miles from town over good road.
Apply to W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Real Estate Agents, Clanton, Ala.

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

Administrator's Sale.

Under and by virtue of an order and decree of the honorable M. T. Porter Judge of Probate for Jefferson county, Alabama, I will sell at public auction in front of the courthouse at Clanton in Chilton county, Alabama, on Monday, the 2d day of May, 1887, at twelve o'clock m., all the following described real estate belonging to the estate of N. H. Thornton deceased, to-wit: The north half of northeast quarter, and the northeast quarter of northwest quarter of section seven township twenty-one and range fifteen.

Also northeast quarter of northeast quarter of section twenty-eight, township twenty-two and range fourteen. Also lot No. 2, block one, and the east half of lot 8 block 2, in the town of Clanton, on the west side of the South and North Alabama Railroad, all in Chilton county, Ala., with all the improvements thereon.

These lots are most desirably located in the thriving town of Clanton, county seat of Chilton county, Ala., noted for its pure atmosphere and water and close proximity to the famous "Hot Well" which is still hot and will some day be to Alabama as Hot Springs is to Arkansas. The lands are also within a mile of the "Hot Well," of light loamy soil and lying well and most desirable for dairy and truck farming.

Terms of sale cash. I will show the property to any one calling on me at this place.
L. A. THORNTON,
Clanton, Ala., Administrator.
April 14th, 1887.

THE CHICAGO
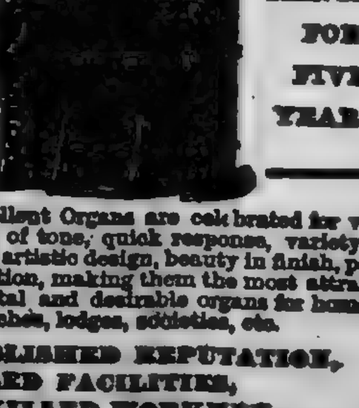
COTTAGE
ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.



These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞WATCH IT.☜

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

BUTLER & GATCHELL,
922 BROAD STREET, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. [mar24ly

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 806. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhoea, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C. H. St., Boston.
MAKE HENS LAY
Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food. [illegible]
Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. It cures chicken cholera and all diseases of hens. [illegible]

SALESMEN WANTED!
To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS,
mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.
I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.
[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen; Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞Correspondence solicited.☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

Clanton Academy.
:o:
CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.
The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.
RATES OF TUITION:
Primary Department............ [illegible]
Junior " .... [illegible]
High School " .... [illegible]
Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.
Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.
Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.
For further information address
R. E. R. HICKS,
feb10] Principal.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager,

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y.

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free to [illegible] under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

ANDREW EHMAN'S ROMANCE.

The Strange Story of an Escaped Convict Before a State Board of Pardons.

LANCASTER, PA.—In the spring of 1879 Andrew Ehman, a cigarmaker, aged 18, was convicted on a charge of burglary committed in this county and sentenced to five years in the county jail. He served nearly four years, when the memorable jail delivery, managed by the Abe Buzzard gang, several of whom were incarcerated in the jail, occurred. Ehman escaped with the rest, nearly all of whom were recaptured. A reward of $100 was offered for the apprehension of Ehman and the others who were at large, but no trace of them was ever found.

A month ago a person who knew Ehman in this county, and had worked with him, went to Delaware, Ohio, after employment, an extensive co-operative cigar factory having been started there about a year ago. The founder of the factory and its President was a young man named Charles A. Smith, who, although having been but two or three years in the place, was a leading citizen there, and foremost in many enterprises. The Lancaster county man recognized in this prominent citizen of Delaware the escaped convict, Andrew Ehman. He sent word to Lancaster, and an officer, armed with all the necessary papers, went to Delaware and arrested Ehman. The arrest would have resulted in a riot but for the good sense of the prisoner himself, as the citizens generally refused to accept the story the detectives told. Ehman confessed to the truth himself, and the officers were permitted to depart with their prisoner.

It seems that Ehman had tramped to Delaware after his escape from the Lancaster jail, and had obtained work at his trade under the name of Smith. He was such an expert and excellent workman, and his character and habits proved to be so uniformly correct, that he quickly obtained the confidence of his employers, was made their foreman, and subsequently started the co-operative works, which, at the time his identity was discovered, were employing 200 hands. He was instrumental in building a Lutheran church in the town, became treasurer of the Knights of Pythias, and occupied other places of trust. He married an estimable young woman, owned a fine residence, and was a model and exemplary citizen in every way.

So popular was he with the people of Delaware, from the highest to the lowest, that the knowledge of his youthful error, and that he came among them an escaped convict under an assumed name, has not lessened him in their estimation in the least, and they have sent a strong petition, signed by Judges, preachers, the Mayor, and hundreds of others, asking the Board of Pardons of this state to grant Ehman a pardon, that he may be restored to them and his family. This petition has been supplemented by many others from this county, and Ehman's case has been presented to the Board in a strong plea by B. Frank Eshelman, who was District Attorney of this county when Ehman was convicted. That the unfortunate young man's reformation is complete and unmistakable, his remarkable career since his escape from jail leaves no doubt, and it is certain that he will receive an unconditional pardon.

A LITTLE three-year-old girl strayed from her home near San Angelo, Cal., and was found five miles away after being out four days and three nights. She was very weak with hunger but soon recovered, and is now apparently none the worse for her adventure.

KILLED AT THE ALTAR.

A Sad Episode During the Terrible Siege of Charleston.

[From the Atlanta Constitution.]

During the tumult and excitement of the late war one of the saddest incidents that occurred was the marriage and death of Annie, eldest daughter of Gov. Pickens, of South Carolina. In the midst of the great events of the war such tragedies were comparatively unnoticed, but now that time has calmed the troubled sea of strife and contention, a picture of that scene will be of general interest, and will awaken a chord of sympathy in the hearts of all who read it.

On April 22, 1863, in Charleston, S. C., at the residence of Gov. Pickens, a party was assembled to witness the marriage ceremony of Annie Pickens to Lieut. Le Rochelle.

It was a time when terror and anguish were prevailing throughout the entire South, and the booming of the Union guns then roared in the harbors, but the little number who had collected together had determined to smile, even though their hearts were aching and they were trembling with terror. Beneath the soft light of the chandelier, the clergyman stood, with the habiliments of the church enshrouding his venerable form. Before him was the noble young lieutenant in his official uniform, while beside him leaned the beautiful and stately woman who was to become his wife. There she stood, regal and proud, possessing everything that prestige of birth, rank and wealth could give. "Are you ready," asked the minister, unclasping his book. "Yes," said Le Rochelle, taking the hand of his bride. Scarcely was the answer uttered than there was an awful crash. A shell from the enemy's guns had penetrated the mansion, bursting in the midst of the marriage scene and scattering its deadly missiles around. Men trembled and women screamed, mirrors were shivered and for a moment the walls seemed to rock to and fro. In a few moments quiet reigned, and it was ascertained that the only fatal wound received was in the left temple of the waiting bride, who laid like a beautiful crushed flower in the arms of her agonized lover. Laying her on a lounge he bent over her, and, in a moan of despair, prayed that even in death she would become his wife. Her quick drawn breath melted in a sigh, as the lips smiled assent. There she lay, pure and white as the cluster of camellias at her breast, while the crimson life-blood oozed in heavy drops from the death wound in her brow and coursed its stream over the lovely cheek, marring the snowy clouds of her bridal veil that enveloped her. The ceremony was of few words, and the "yes" was murmured in a dying whisper beneath the husband's kiss. In a moment all was over; a little struggle and she was dead.

Beneath the cool, deep shadows of the magnolia Annie Pickens Le Rochelle was laid to rest, where the sad wail of the waters sighed an eternal requiem, while the brave young soldier went his way, in the fire and danger of battle to serve his country and his God. He little feared the sword or the bullet of war, for ever at his heart there was a wound more cruel than death and lasting as life.

THE BIRMINGHAM, Conn., Electric Light Works were overrun with rats until the superintendent had a happy thought. To wires attached to dynamos he fastened bits of meat and scattered them about. The rats smelled the meat, nibbled, and—good-by, rats.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

Her Answer.

On my right at a dinner sat Mollie,
  On my left there was little May Belle,
Who is always so sparkling and jolly,
  And who likes me, I fancy, quite well.

The former somehow spoke of ages:
  "Now, what would you take me to be?"
I asked. She replied: "Of life's pages
  I suppose you have turned twenty-three."

Miss Belle, on my left was abstracted,
  And did not our words overhear,
Nor knew she the answer expected
  As I whispered quite low in her ear.

"And what would you take me for, Mary?"
  And then the small maiden perverse,
From out of abstraction, quite wary,
  Responded: "For better or worse."
    Samuel William Cooper, in Life.

Ladies of Sumatra.

The wealth of a Lampong lady is estimated by the number and weight of her ornaments; these, however, are only fully displayed on feast days and other high occasions; such is etiquette among "the upper ten" in the southeastern part of Sumatra. Native goldsmiths make these ornaments, and the purchaser gives in exchange weight for weight, in silver or gold, as the case may be. Young girls and children are heavily encumbered with them; indeed, every young miss is arrayed in sinkels or bracelets, of many shapes, of silver; the greater the wealth and higher the position of the parent, the larger the number of glittering bands and tinkling ornaments of every sort; rows upon rows of bracelets on her arms, and large button-like rings in her ears, and all these ornaments are worn until she marries.

Chinese Maids in Silken Trousers.

One oriental damsel who was airing herself and her finery simultaneously yesterday afternoon on Dupont street wore a pale-blue silk coat with huge flannel-like sleeves trimmed with black and pale yellow silk braid. Her trousers were of black silk, also bordered with pale yellow; her boat-like sabots were embroidered with blue silk, and the deep white soles provide an area about three square inches for the maid to stand erect upon. Another celestial maiden was similarly dressed, except that that garment which, among Christians, is peculiar to males, was a gorgeous orange silk. A third girl wore an azure-blue skirt, a crimson coat, and bright green trousers. Still another wore a pale violet cloak over a dark-blue blouse, her trousers also being green.

A very brilliant costume was a crimson silk coat with a broad band of green and red embroidery running all around the skirts, neck and sleeves; the trousers were bright blue and the shoes prettily embroidered in pink and gold. A pale blue cloak, violet trousers with yellow trimmings, pearl-beaded head-dress, and finely worked silver bangles on wrists and feet formed the principal features of the costume of a small Mongol maiden, who held in her hand the diminutive cue of her small brother who trotted before her. The boy was hardly less attractively dressed, and his pale pink silk round hat was decorated with a bright red silk knob and huge tassel of the same material and color.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Fashion Notes.

The tailor-made costume continues to be the correct style for street dress.

Pointed finger-nails and pointed bangs represent fashions that are going out of vogue.

French jackets in various styles are seen as a part of many Spring toilets. A favorite shape.

Among the favorite colors for dressy toilets are golden brown, pale primrose yellow, copper color and Persian lilac.

Outside jackets for Spring wear are longer than those worn last fall, and a hood of the material of the garment, lined with striped satin, is added.

Bonnets of black lace and black beaded Spanish net over foundations of primrose, lavendar, pink, sea green or cherry satin, are worn by fashionable ladies at the present time.

The newest plain English jackets are cut considerably longer than last spring, and are perfect fitting at the back and under the arms, with loose fronts fitted by a single dart.

Camel's hair, albatross, serge and nun's cloth are among the white wool goods intended for spring and summer wear. Heavy watered ribbon, an inch and a quarter wide, will be used as a garniture upon these dresses, being placed in rows upon the overskirt, both front and back.

Smooth taffetas and beiges are shown among the new wool stuffs. These are always popular, on account of their light weight, and may be had plain or barred in lines of contrasting color, or crossed with knotted threads of the same shade, or striped with double or twisted threads, giving a rough surface.

Foremost among the new skirt draperies are the bell skirts and the inverted bell skirts, two directly opposing styles. One shows the skirt draped at the back with an appearance of fullness at the bottom, and is intended for stout ladies, the other, intended for slender women, having the fulness immediately below the waist. The effect in either case, when arranged in moderation, is excellent.

The Great Pension Building.

The interior of the great hall of the pension building will soon be finished. The immense stretch of wall has nearly all been plastered, and some idea can be formed of what the completed half will look like. Whatever difference of opinion there may be as to the merits of the outside of the building, it will no doubt be generally admitted that this hall is a grand room. In point of size it is larger, with one exception, than any audience room in this country, and in point of capacity stands about fourth in the list of the large interiors of the world. The great Mormon tabernacle in Salt Lake City is said to have the largest capacity of any building in this country. It will seat about 15,000 people.

Gen. Meigs, the architect of the pension building, says that the hall in the pension building and the galleries surrounding it have a seating capacity of 11,307 men. The hall itself is 316 feet long and 116 feet wide, while it has two tiers of galleries extending all around it which are 12 feet in width. A third gallery, which encircles the hall, has a width of 5 feet. Gen. Meigs says he has estimated that 30,000 people can find standing room in this great space. St. Peter's Church, Rome, which is the largest structure in the world, will, in the same way, hold 54,000 people, while the Milan Cathedral will accommodate 37,000; St. Paul's Rome, 32,000, and St. Paul's London, 24,000. Gen. Meigs says he has no doubt that the principal portion of the inaugration exercises will in the future be held in this hall, as well as public funerals and other exercises which attract large gatherings of the people.—Washington Star.

Plenty of Gold.

Josiah Miller, a Quaker merchant and shipowner, was one of the rich men of New York in his day. He and Broker Leavitt were two old fellows always trying to get ahead of each other, and always on the watch for opportunities to cross swords. Hearing one day that there was something of a run on Leavitt's Exchange Bank, Miller thought it would be a good time to draw a big check and bother Leavitt. Walking into the bank, he coolly wrote a check for all the money he had on deposit, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. The cashier was dumbfounded, but took the check to Leavitt and asked what he should do about it.

"Pay it, of course," said the President.

"What with! It will take all our money."

"Have those kegs of small coins rolled up from the vault," said Mr. Leavitt.

The kegs were rolled up, each with the amount it contained marked on the head. Miller asked to have the heads knocked out so that he could see what was inside, and it was done. Walking from keg to keg, he took a handful of coin out of each without counting the pieces and dropped the money into the capacious pockets of his long coat. Then he said: "Well, I guess that's all I want to-day. I'll deposit the rest," and walked out. How long it took the clerks to count what remained in the kegs, Mr. Leavitt never told.

Big and Little Butchers.

Amour & Co., the packers, recently sent a carload of dressed beef to Akron, Ohio. For some reason, either because the boycott on Armour was enforced by the local labor organizations or through the hostility on the part of local butchers very little of it could be sold and the balance was returned here.

The Armours at once decided to strike back and authorized their Cleveland agent to open five or six retail meat shops in Akron and to sell their goods at lower rates than those of the resident dealers.

Convers, their representative, said: "We try to do a wholesale trade and generally succeed, but if any retailers think they can freeze us out of a town they are mistaken. We will sell meat one way or another, and we will make it very warm for the Akron butchers."

Superior Culture.

One night the eastern lady was watching the San Franciscan mother put her little four-year-old to bed, with the usual formulae.

"Ah," said the eastern lady, "of course you haven't got so far in these matters as we have."

"What do you mean?"

"My children have all been taught to say their prayers in French."

The Californian mother blushed. She had to confess with shame that her child could only speak to God in English. But the little four year-old was listening. She got up in bed and put her little hands together and said:

"Mon Dieu. Bon jour. Comment vous portez vous? Amen."—San Francisco Chronicle.

1880, R. T. Leonard, Hamburg, Pa., wrote: "Had severe inflammatory rheumatism for weeks, a few applications of St. Jacob's Oil cured me." Oct. 9th, 1886, he writes: "confirm my statement; was entirely cured." Price fifty cents. Sold by Druggists.

A school teacher tried to explain to a small boy in her class the meaning of the word "collision." She said: "Suppose two boys running on the street should come together real hard. What would there be?" "A fight?" cried the little fellow promptly, the teacher gave it up.

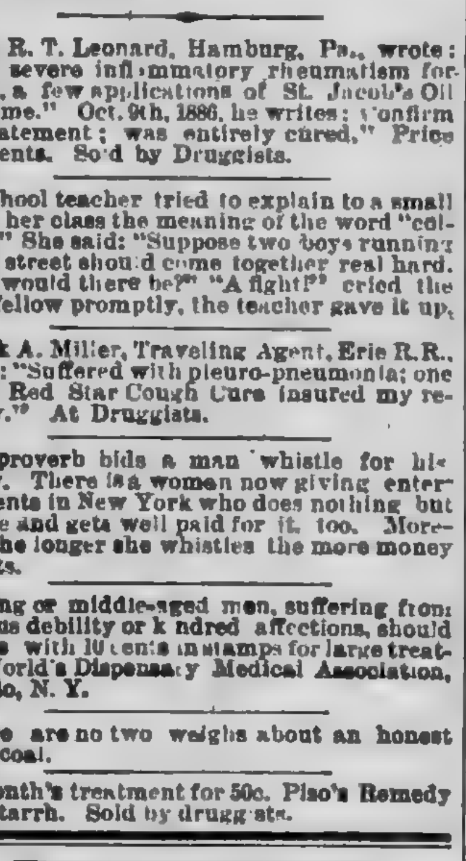
Mark A. Miller, Traveling Agent, Erie R.R., writes: "Suffered with pleuro-pneumonia; one bottle Red Star Cough Cure insured my recovery." At Druggists.

The proverb bids a man whistle for his money. There is a woman now giving entertainments in New York who does nothing but whistle and gets well paid for it, too. Moreover, the longer she whistles the more money she gets.

Young or middle-aged men, suffering from nervous debility or kindred affections, should address with 10 cents in stamps for large treatise, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

There are no two weighs about an honest ton of coal.

3 month's treatment for 50c. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.



Spring is the best time to purify the blood, for at no other season is the body so susceptible to benefit from medicine. The best thing to take is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by its peculiar Peculiar combination, proportion and preparation possesses curative powers unequaled by any other medicine. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Don't Buy Until you find out the new Improvements.

WATCHES

Save the middleman's PROFITS.

☞ SEND FOR CATALOGUE!

J. P. STEVENS & BRO

47 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, [illegible] Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circular & Specimen of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address M. BOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

LADY AGENTS WANTED to sell our Common-sense Bustle and Combination Skirt Bustle and Supporter. Send $1.00 for samples and agency. Address, with stamp, H. A. French & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 89 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

STAMMERING OR STUTTERING CURED BY A sure and simple method. For terms, etc., address DR. T. A. KYLE, BRIGHTON, TENN.

OPIUM [illegible]

Too Suggestive.

A horse made a dent in the basement of Mr. Softman's trousers, and in consequence he was confined to his home for several days. On convalescing he entered the parlor and found it ornamented with several gilded horse shoes and embroidered good luck tidies.

"What are those things for?" he asked of his wife.

"For ornament, of course," she replied.

"I don't like them," he returned, as he placed his hand beneath his coat-tails.

"Why?"

"They are too suggestive."

DE FOREST (reflectively)—No, no one can be an anarchist who has neither money nor tick. Smyth—How do you make that out? De Forest—He can't dine a mite. I know from experience.

Storm Signals.

As the coming of a great storm is heralded by the display of cautionary signals, so is the approach of that dread and fatal disease, Consumption of the Lungs, usually announced in advance by pimples, blotches, eruptions, ulcers glandular swellings, and kindred outward manifestations of the internal blood poison, which, if not promptly expelled from the system, attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs, causing them to ulcerate and break down. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is the greatest remedy for this, as for all diseases having their origin in bad blood. It improves the appetite and digestion, increases nutrition and builds up the wasted system.

The lost caws—The summer song of the vanished crows.

If bilious, or suffering from impurity of the blood, or weak lungs, and fear consumption (scrofulous disease of the lungs), take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" and it will cure you. By druggists.

The best weather for hay-making—When it rains pitchforks.

If you have a Cold, Cough, (dry-hacking) Croup, Cankered-throat, Catarrh Dropping causing cough—Dr. Kilmer's Indian Cough Cure (Consumption Oil) will relieve instantly—heals and cures. Price 25c., 50c. and $1.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Billious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO

BENSON'S

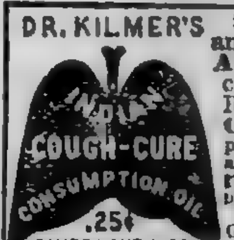
Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the Chest and all Aches and Strains.

CAPCINE

Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. ASK FOR BENSON'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.

PLASTER

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.



Stop that Cold, Cough, and Tickling in the Throat. Arrest that Catarrh, Bronchitis or Asthma. This Remedy relieves quickly. Cures permanently. It prevents Decline, Night-Sweats and death from Consumption. ☞ Prepared at DR. KILMER'S DISPENSARY, Binghamton, N. Y. Letters of inquiry answered. Guide to Health (Sent Free). Sold by Druggists.

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

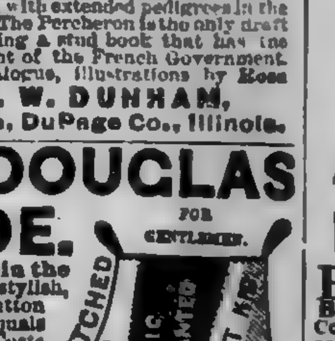
200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families,

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM,
Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN.



The best $3 Shoe in the world. Best material, stylish, perfect fit; Congress, Button or Lace; all styles toe. Equals any $5 or $6 Shoe. Costs nothing to examine them at your dealer's. I send information free how to obtain these celebrated $3 Shoes if your dealer does not keep them. W. L. DOUGLAS' $2.50 Shoe equals $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. Boys all wear W. L. Douglas' $2 Shoe. Beware of fraud. None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom of each Shoe.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

WANTED.

SOLDIERS IN TEXAS ARMY

Of 1835 and 1836 or their heirs to send their address to undersigned and learn something to their advantage. A. F. HABICHT, Austin, Texas.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER [illegible] Makes 5 gallons of a delicious sparkling temperance beverage, strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy of flavor commend it to all. Sold everywhere. TRY IT.

TOPEKA For information about Topeka and Kansas write Secretary of Topeka Real Estate Exchange, TOPEKA, Kansas.

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn. Superior natural Mineral Waters, Mountain and Cave Scenery. Convenient, healthy location. Select. Cheap board. Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS. Apply to F. REGISTER, Att'y, 324 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa. 21 years experience. Copies of law free.

MATRIMONIAL advertisements printed free in our next issue. Send them to CLIMAX, Chicago. This mammoth paper, by mail, 10c.

PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

A Life Made Miserable

By dyspepsia is scarcely worth the living. A capricious appetite, heartburn, puzzling nervous symptoms, increased action of the heart after eating, sinking in the abdomen between meals, and flatulence after, are among the successive indicia of this harrassing complaint. Two things only are needful for its removal. A resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and persistence in its use. These remedial measures being adopted, a cure is certain. Taken immediately before or after meals, this great stomachic promotes secretion of the gastric juice, the natural solvent of the food. The nervous and bilious symptoms consequent upon chronic indigestion disappear, as the complaint gradually yields to the corrective and invigorating influence of the Bitters. Appetite returns, sleep becomes more refreshing, and as a sequence, the body is efficiently nourished, muscular power increases, and the mind grows sanguine. Use the Bitters for chills and fever, and rheumatism.

The young lawyer ought to do a fee-nominal business.

In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption, and Wasting in Children, SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. Please read: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man whom Physicians at times gave up hope. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, gained flesh and strength, and from all appearances his life will be prolonged many years."—JOHN SULLIVAN, Hospital Steward, Morganza, Pa.

The ideal wife is the woman that never gets married.

Are you Making Money?

There is no reason why you should not make large sums of money if you are able to work. All you need is the right kind of employment or business. Write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and they will send you, free, full information about work that you can do and live at home, wherever you are located, earning thereby from $5 to $25 per day and upwards. Capital not required; you are started free. Either sex; all ages. Better not delay.

Farmers,

Send 10 cents to the PRICKLY ASH BITTERS Co., St. Louis, Mo., and get a copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER." A complete system, teaching how to break and train horses in a mild and gentle way, requiring no elaborate apparatus, nothing more than can be found in any stable in the country—a rope and a strap. Every one handling horses should have a copy.

Envied by Her Sex,

Is the fate of every lady with a bright, glowing countenance, which invariably follows the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

FOR HORSES.

UVILLA, W. Va.,
Nov. 17, 1886. }

Recently I bought a young horse. He was taken very ill with Pneumonia. I tried to think of something to relieve him. Concluded what was good for man would be good for the horse. So I got a bottle of Piso's Cure and gave him half of it through the nostrils This helped him, and I continued giving same doses night and morning until I had used two bottles. The horse has become perfectly sound. I can recommend Piso's Cure for the horse as well as for man.

N. S. J. STRIDER.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

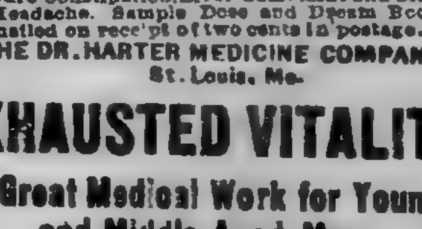
LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY.
St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

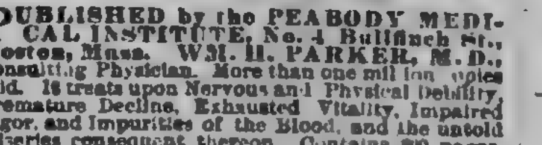
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



KNOW THYSELF.

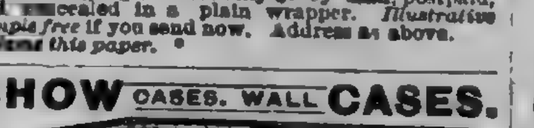
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES.



DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES. Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet. TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



We believe your "Tansill's Punch" 5-cent cigar to be the best in America for the money. W. D. SEWELL & Co., Juniata, Neb.

"Tansill's Punch" is the best 5c. cigar in the market. C. M. TOWNSEND, Wallingford, Vermont.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventor's Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

From the Artist who Took G. G. Hoffman's Photograph.

HICKORY, N. C.

I send you to-day half dozen photographs of G. G. Hoffman, of Conover, N. C., and I must say that your medicine has done wonders for Mr. Hoffman. It seems like raising the dead to life; he looks fat and hearty now, and they tell me when he commenced your medicine he was nothing but skin and bones. The sore on his breast is healed over, and you can see the one on the forehead is healing up from the top. I wish it had been so that I could have taken it when he was at his worst, but I could not leave my office, and he lives some distance from here.

Yours Respectfully,
A. McINTOSH.

This man, G. G. Hoffman, has risen by the use of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) to his present wonderfully improved condition. In a short time his boneless forehead will be fully healed, and he will stand a monument of humanity raised from the verge of death. Few persons ever recover from such a low state, being on a dying bed from that fell destroyer, blood poison, with the bones of his forehead rotted and taken out, 2½x3 inches, by the doctors, and given out to die. From skin and bones, wrecked by blood poison, to health and sound flesh, is the work of B. B. B.

Not many such desperate cases may be found, but when they are they should not despair of recovery, as B. B. B. will cure them.

When this medicine can cure such extreme cases, is it not reasonable that it will cure all cases of blood poison of less violence, as it has done in thousands of instances?

The Mayor and Doctors of Conover will verify the awful condition from which Mr. Hoffman was raised. B. B. Co.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Billous Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

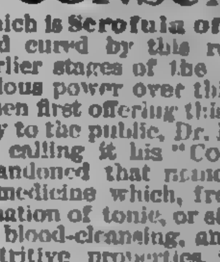
For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,

663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.



JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT 5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

ARKANSAS MILD CLIMATE! Good Lands! Variety of PRODUCTS! LOW PRICES! EASY TERMS. MAPS AND CIRCULARS FREE. THOS. ESSEX, Land Com'r, Little Rock, Ark.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

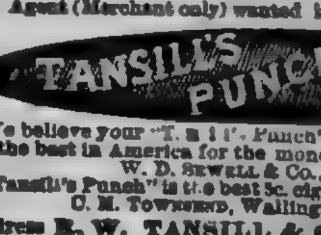
OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Also good for Cold in the Head, Headache, Hay Fever, &c. 50 cents.

A. N. U. ....Sixteen, '87



SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.

The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

PAINT YOUR BUGGY for ONE DOLLAR

[illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

INCHES.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 55	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 00	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	28 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. R. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 5, 1887. NUMBER 26.

There is a good deal of abuse heaped upon Americans for sins of omission and commission performed while traveling in Europe, but it is to be set down to their credit that the American travelers are said to have been the coolest and most self-possessed class during the recent earthquakes. Their superiority to fear was marked and commented on all sides.

The drummer is not to be a taxable commodity after all. The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision in a case brought from Tennessee which involves the right of one State or municipality to impose a license tax on drummers or traveling salesmen from another State seeking to sell goods by sample or otherwise. The decision is that such taxation is an interference with interstate commerce, and is therefore unconstitutional.

A Paris paper reports that the drummers and trumpeters of the German army are hard at work learning the beats and calls of the French troops. It also alleges that in many engagements in the war of 1870 the command to cease firing was often given to the French army by German buglers, and that the command to halt, sounded by the same buglers, often stopped a charge of French cavalry and placed them in a position where they could be mowed down.

Now a scientific person has explained why Hanlan is the great rower that he is. Dr. Sargent, of the Harvard gymnasium, has examined him, and says that he has "a great head and an excellent body all the way down to the legs." Judged by a standard of perfection the oarsman's legs and arms are too short. Dr. Sargent says that this defect has made Hanlan the oarsman he is, and that the power from the shoulders, back and loins, together with the immense leverage given by the short legs and arms, is what has made him almost the perfection in build for a sculler.

The people of Dodge City, Kansas, are now marveling over the discovery of a large bone, which has recently been brought into that city from a point about sixty-five miles southwest, near the Cimarron river. This mammoth fossil was unearthed by some workmen while digging a well at the depth of about forty-five feet, and below a stratum of sandstone. The length of this colossal femur is about 6 feet 8 1-2 inches; weight, 96 pounds; circumference of shaft, 20 inches; head of bone, (femur) 24 inches in circumference; lower end or knee, 30 inches in circumference. Further excavations will be made at an early date with the hope of discovering the entire skeleton.

Do you know that people like to be humbugged?" asked a physician of a Philadelphia Call reporter. "It's a fact, and a large percentage of the practice of the most successful doctors is pure humbuggery. A great many people are filled with imaginary aches and pains. They've had them for years in their imagination, and have grown to regard them with a tenacious affection. When they consult a physician about them they do not like to have the matter pooh-poohed. They do not wish to be told there is nothing the matter with them. They want to be told they are sick; to be sympathized with, and to be prescribed for. They then pay the fee willingly. Some of the best and most persistent patients I have are as sound as a dollar. I listen to their recital of their symptoms right along, prescribe some harmless as well as useless dose and charge it in my little bill. It is to this little diplomacy of mine that I attribute much of my success."

The Department of Agriculture reports an increase in the total number of horses, mules, cows and oxen owned in this country as compared with last year. The greatest increase, says Bradstreet, is shown in oxen, while mules show a slight excess over last year. In the case of sheep and hogs considerable decreases are shown. The following table shows the total number at this time and at a corresponding period last year:

Stock.	1886.	1887.
Horses	12,077,657	12,496,748
Mules	2,052,593	2,117,141
Milch cows	14,235,388	14,552,083
Oxen and other cattle	31,275,242	33,511,750
Sheep	48,322,331	44,759,314
Swine	46,092,043	44,612,836

As to values, the decline has not been very large, being greatest in the case of cattle, which show the largest increase in number. Horses, sheep and hogs have increased in value, while mules have slightly decreased. The total values of the various classes of animals are shown in the following:

Stock.	1886.	1887.
Horses	$860,823,208	$901,685,755
Mules	163,381,096	167,057,538
Milch cows	389,985,523	378,789,589
Oxen and other cattle	661,956,274	663,137,926
Sheep	92,443,867	89,872,839
Swine	187,509,804	200,043,291
Totals	$2,365,159,862	$2,400,586,938

The total value of all the farm animals of the country is placed at $2,400,586,938, an increase of $35,427,076 over this time last year. The greater share of the increase is due to the increased number and value of horses. The decline in the value of cows has been charged chiefly to the low price of butter.

THE FIRST VIOLET.

Sweet violet, starred with the dew,
What wondrous pains I took
To hunt its pretty eyes of blue,
Along the babbling brook;
Sweet violet that bloomed for y.
Within that sunny nook.

The loving warmth of southern skies
Shone on its mossy bed.
And soon it oped its sleepy eyes,
And raised its drooping head,
And gazed about in wild surprise
To find the snow had fled.

Blue as the waters of the bay,
Sweet herald of the spring;
To him whose skies are cold and gray
I said, perchance 'twill bring
A dream of bursting buds to-day,
And whir of robin's wing.
—Belle Bremer, in The Current.

CAMELEON.

BY ROSE H. LATHROP.

"What I am astonished at is your power over the confirmed bachelors," said Felina Drake. "You are too young for that; but something compensates, evidently."

Melly, whom some of her friends called Cameleon, was sitting over the fire in her private parlor discussing her various lovers with Felina. Fortunately Felina was engaged to be married, and was not in a position to feel envy or to watch unsympathetically the preliminary steps toward an engagement on the part of her friend. It was an event which she eagerly desired, that they might be entirely mutual in their experiences. Felina might have been jealous of the Cameleon's beauty; but the young girl was of that charming class of lovely women whose members appeal to their own sex by their perfect good nature and childlike innocence.

"Oh, I can tell you how that happens," the Cameleon responded, in her cheerful voice. "Clever Mr. Courtney told me that my face would last well, and that he had seen hundreds of belles fade in a few seasons, which had almost made a misanthrope of him."

"Well, I think it was fine distinction," Felina acquiesced. "Younger men don't think of that, and fancy that what is chiefly youth is downright beauty. But your precious countenance will certainly mature to its credit, and I can't imagine you anything but excellent, whether time pulls your face perpendicularly or horizontally! Plump or thin, pale or rosy, Cameleon, it will be sure to remain a face to conquer everybody."

Melly sighed.

"Are you sorry for anything," asked Felina.

"Why, it seems rather laborious," the young belle answered. "You see, I have got to accept one of them—these inevitable men—and it is so hard to choose. There are so many professions represented, for one thing. The handsomest and most facinating of all my admirers, in a way, is Mr. Bruce-Lyman; and you will admit that his being in preparation for a fashionable doctor of medicine is fatal. I had not been engaged to him for two days, Felina (I never told you that I did accept him at first), when he prescribed for a little cough which I quite enjoyed and would not have had cured for the world. But it was so lucky! I might have actually married him and heard all my life about drugs." Melly discussed her friend's hand-embroidery for a moment and then continued: "I suppose I rushed to the other extreme after breaking with the doctor, for I allowed Mr. William Fenimore to give me an exhaustive catalogue of his qualifications for making me a good husband. He has all his time to himself until he inherits from his father, when he must devote some attention to the estates; and he said that we could travel all over the world, and that he did not need any society but mine, and should be happy in China if I were his wife. It looked to me like too much leisure, you know, and I was afraid that he had a passion for traveling, and that I should become a thorough Arab if I married him. How could I employ Redfern in Asia? I decided positively against Mr. Fenimore. When Mr. Dalgian offered himself I was very much puzzled. Here was a fine social position, in which I should probably have been a leader from beginning to end and gone down in civic history as the beautiful Mrs. Dalgian, who entertained the elite of both hemispheres with such consummate grace. Mr. Dalgian is not by any means uninteresting. I often think of him, and the flowers he sent me were something astonishing, Felina; they showed such imaginative taste; and he insisted on my keeping this ring as an act of charity. Isn't it beautiful? He made his family call upon me, and seemed to think he had accomplished a great work for his century when they had paid me their respects. But oh, Felina, I could not endure those Miss Dalgians. I was afraid I should grow to be like them. They seemed to be inconvenienced by their ancestors, as if they had them still with them, and in a particularly paralyzing condition, either as ghosts or mummies; and they neither looked to the right nor to the left for fear of catching sight of one of the old curmudgeons. It was such a pity, but I had to tell Mr. Dalgian that I could not think of it—that I was too fond of the present."

"I must say, Cameleon, that is one of your little naughtinesses to keep the poor youth's gift on your finger. Just as long as you keep it he will think that you may relent; and I hope you will send it back to-morrow, dear. Meanwhile, give it to me," Felina felt bound to say.

The girl complied, pouting, and handing her the ring.

"Then there was Dick. Dear Dick! He had no money in particular, and his family were up-country people. But how equal to anything he was, Felina! How, he talked of anything, from apple cider to the queer old college professors when they were quizzed. I wanted dreadfully to accept Dick. But he would not give me a single definite idea of what he could offer me in the way of an establishment. He said, to be sure, that we should live in Connecticut somewhere, at the old homestead—where I suppose the ceilings were rickety, you know—until he had made a reputation as an architect. It was very vague. It would be so nice if one were allowed to take a fine young man like Dick and give him Mr. Dalgian's position and Mr. Bruce Lyman's reputation, with Mr. Fenimore's money.

"It is to be hoped, Cameleon, that you will find some one who combines almost everything. I wish he would hasten to the front, or our chance of getting married on the same day will be very slim, indeed. I almost feel inclined to "will" you to fall in love in spite of yourself."

"Why, I do fall in love, dear," pleaded Melly, "but something always changes my mind. As I say, it is becoming a positive labor to consider the matter so closely, day after day. It is like skating—love is charming, but requires constant attention, or one ends a complete wreck somewhere under the ice. There's the hall bell now. I wonder if it is any one for me."

"If it is," replied Felina, "let me wait here for you, Melly. I would rather go on with my embroidery than sit by while they talk to you."

"It is some one I have not told you about," said Melly, a moment later, looking up from the card; "he has such a queer name, hasn't he! Anthony Cowl. It is quite a new experience to be admired by a man of such a name and a character which well coincides with it. Excuse me, Felina dear; and wouldn't it be funny if I came back engaged?" The Cameleon embraced and kissed her friend with genuine fervor and arranged her lovely hair at the mirror, and then swept out of room. She stood at the head of the stairs for a breath's space, and then returned to her parlor and put her lips near Felina's ear, whispering: "If Mr. Cowl would only prove irresistible!"

As Felina sewed she often smiled. It was amusing to her to guess, every few minutes, how the courtship was progressing; how the suitor with the odd name was becoming elated and how the rare young flirt upon whom he gazed was involuntarily bringing him to the denouement which had proved so fatal to a dozen other men, as if the girl's heart were Swiss machinery which could only accomplish one thing, although it seemed so human. And Felina also gave a smile to the reflection that the Cameleon herself was acting in perfectly good faith, and was most eager to discover a genuine interest in one of these admirers; but her good sense and her unlimited opportunities stood much in the way of a final decision.

"I really don't know what to say," the Cameleon hesitatingly confessed to Mr. Anthony Cowl, looking down at her lapful of black lace, as she locked her fingers together. "I do like you so much; and I think your mother is perfectly sweet. But I suppose I am awfully young to choose what my destiny shall be; and perhaps you are a little old to be my destiny; and then, I never expected to be a Mrs. 'Cowl.' It would seem so strange!" The Cameleon had a mental vision in which people talked about "the beautiful Mrs. Cowl."

"Seems to me," said her lover, with glistening eyes and flushed cheeks, glad enough to find himself in the girl's presence again after a miserable absence, "seems to me it is a pity to put me off because my name is Cowl, and I have five years more in my existence than I exactly reqire. Life is short, at any rate, and happiness is never at its climax for a very long space, no matter what our fortune is. Perhaps if you married me your happiness would be as complete for as long a season as if you married a young fellow nearer your own age. And as for name you might find people paid a good deal of respect to it when coupled with fine dinners and a box at the opera."

The Cameleon looked up at him somewhat furtively, but he caught her glance as he devoured every motion she made. He became eagerly expectant.

"I was thinking to tell the truth," said she, "that you kept your temper wonderfully under a severe test; for people usually adore their own names. I am sure I am much obliged to you for bearing with my whims, Mr. Cowl."

"Don't—don't be so gentle and encouraging," he exclaimed, "unless you will let me kiss your hand!"

Again she gazed at him from under her lashes, while her lover was on the alert to spring to his feet and kneel at her side if he saw a permission in her face.

"May I—may I kiss your hand?" he asked, with trembling lips.

"I was just thinking how very—very considerate you are of my wishes," she murmured, but shaking her hand. "I do think your mother is so sweet. Mr. Cowl," she added, irrelevantly; and then explained, with a burst of confidence: "You know what a lady would not like!" In a moment she went on: "Did you ever do anything which people told you was remarkably noble?"

"No, indeed. Why?"

Again Melly treated Anthony Cowl to a searching but subtle glance.

"You're the first man I ever met who failed to tell me so," she said, smiling. "But wouldn't you make a great sacrifice for me?"

"I hardly believe I would," answered her admirer. "A sacrifice would necessitate my being wholly absent from you, or something of the sort, to strike a death-blow to my happiness in you. I should be a fool to make any sacrifice for you worthy of the name."

The Cameleon laughed outright.

"You seem willing to be quite honest," she commented. "But, Mr. Cowl, aren't you afraid to become engaged to me, even if I am to be persuaded, considering that I have changed my mind very often already, so that they actually call me a Cameleon? I was talking about it with your mother the last time I called, and she said that I would probably go on changing my mind until I was 30 unless something very extraordinary happened, just as a brook runs ever so irregularly down a mountain-side until it reaches a great fissure which hems it firmly in."

"Well, I shall be satisfied if you become engaged to me," Anthony Cowl replied. "I can't ask you to marry me first, you know, and have the engagement afterward, although I might prefer it. It is just possible you might really marry me, after all."

"I suppose I am very ambitious," Melly remarked. "I suppose I have such a sense of my own importance that I think only of myself and believe that nothing is good enough for me."

"I certainly don't feel good enough for you," Cowl declared, with a little sigh. "But I don't pay so much attention to that. I love you with my whole soul, as the most beautiful woman I could ever dream of seeing; and a woman with a look in her eyes and a tone in her voice that awakened something in my heart that gives me the greatest joy I ever felt. You're just the sort of woman to grow nobler and stronger every year and face the misfortunes of life as bravely as if you were a sister of mercy."

The Cameleon turned a little toward him. "Why, don't I seem frivolous in the extreme?" And isn't that agreeable to you?"

"Who dares call you frivolous?" cried Anthony Cowl, springing up.

"Oh, I shouldn't know what to do with myself if I was anything but silly and easy-go-lucky," she protested, merrily smiling. "Oh, I am so sorry! For I see that you would tire of my frivolity!"

"If you would only promise to be my wife!" he exclaimed, sitting down nearer to her, and gazing deeply into her eyes.

"Bless me, I never do that! I just consent to be 'engaged,' and they go to papa and have a talk; and then, in a few days, I tell papa that I have been forgetting an objection, and he will have to manage to break the engagement for me."

The Cameleon looked so innocent, startled, and half-amused that Cowl burst out laughing.

"Ah, well," he said, "it will not be very hard for you to become engaged to me, then, will it? That is all I ask, with all its risks and possible calamity. Let me hear you say that you 'engage' yourself to me and I will rejoice very much, and call every day, and leave it to your generosity to do me justice, and weigh my love at your leasure."

Melly sagely shook her head.

"If it only wasn't for Dick," she sighed, sinking back into an attitude of dejected musing.

"'Dick' is of no consequence," Anthony Cowl calmly answered. "Let him go, and give your hand to me."

She had covered her eyes for an instant, but she quickly glanced up. She laughed, blushed, and clapped her hands in delight.

"Why, I certainly thought that would make you angry!" she confided to him, giving him a melting look. "I wonder what your mother could have said to you about me! Did she tell you anything that we had said?"

"She only told me you were in every way adorable."

"I thought possible she had seen how much I c-cared——" All at once the Cameleon held out one of her hands to her enchanted lover, with a radiant face and lowered eyes. "You may kiss it!" she said.

It was a love-match.—The Epoch.

Superstitions About Birds.

Among the negroes the moaning dove moans to save a man's soul. To kill one of these doves is a sign of death, but more frequently of the death of a child. A buzzard or a crow on a housestep is believed by the same people to be an invariable sign of death or disaster; a visit at the door from a rooster, the approaching visit of a friend; the noise of the screech-owl, or "shivering" owl, is a bad omen of many interpretations; while, if the common owl hoots on your right, good luck will follow, but bad luck should he take up his position on the left and hoot therefrom.

In France the handsome white owl, with its beautiful plumage, is accepted everywhere as a forerunner of death. The reputation of all night birds, great or small, is no better; but Southern imagination has discovered a remedy for all their spells. It consists of throwing a pinch of salt into the fire as soon as their sound is heard.

In the south of Germany the crow bespeaks good luck; but, in France, anything but that if seen in the morning. The same with the magpie—ill luck if it flies on your left; if, on the contrary, on the right, you may be assured that the day will be a fortunate one. In England the influence of the appearance of this saucy bird upon current events is governed by the numbers in which he appears, and is thus summed up:

"One for sorrow;
Two for mirth;
Three for a wedding;
Four for a birth;"

and so on.

If a chaffinch perches on your window sill beware of treachery.

In the Tyrol many of the country people wear an eagle's tongue in an amulet, as a preservative against giddiness in climbing the mountains. If you have money in your pocket when you hear the cuckoo for the first time, it is a good omen, and you will have your pockets well lined during the year; if, on the contrary, you have no money, cultivate your friends, for you will be in need of their assistance before long.

They say in Normandy that the missel-thrush speaks seven languages; and in Languedoc, the shepherd who kills a wag-tail will shortly witness the death of the finest sheep in his flock. In Saintonge they believe the goatsucker hatches its eggs by merely looking at them.

The blackbird which crosses your road brings you good luck.

No physician should fail to procure a bed of partridge feathers. A patient laid upon such a bed, no matter what his disease, will never die of it, although he will not necessarily get well.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Level Headed Chemist.

What might have proved a very tragical occurrence was adroitly nipped in the bud the other day by a Parisian chemist. An elegantly dressed young woman, wearing a thick veil over her face, went into a pharmaceutical establishment at Clichy and asked for a phial of vitriol. The chemist, whose suspicions were aroused by the mysterious manner of his fair customer, asked her some questions, to which she returned evasive replies. He then gave her, instead of vitriol, a bottle of perfumed water, and directed a man to follow the fair damsel and to watch her movements. The amateur detective did so, and soon saw the woman take up her position at a street corner, phial in hand. After having carefully uncorked the bottle, she waited, and, as a young man well known in the neighborhood passed by, she flung its contents, with a yell of triumph, in his face. The man received the perfumed water in his eyes, but, although it only made him smart for a moment, he roared like a bull of Bashan, and cried out that he was blinded forever. Meanwhile, the emulator of Marie Beer, who thought she had inflicted a terrible punishment on her false-hearted Adonis, ran away with the speed of an Atalanta, vainly pursued by some of the bystanders who had witnessed the scene. The chemist's man, however, set everybody's mind at ease by describing the pious fraud employed by his master for the prevention of another Parisian drama.—Boston Post.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "What is the Moral Effect of Secret Societies?"

TEXT: "Discover not a secret to another." Proverbs, xxv., 9:

It appears that in Solomon's time, as in all subsequent periods of the world, there were people too much disposed to tell all they knew. It was blab, blab, blab; physicians revealing the case of their patients, lawyers exposing the private affairs of their clients, neighbors advertising the faults of the next door resident, pretended friends betraying confidences. One-half of the trouble of every community comes from the fact that so many people have no capacity to keep their mouths shut.

When I hear something disparaging of you my first duty is not to tell you. But if I tell you what somebody has said against you, and then go out and tell everybody else what I told you, and they go out and tell others what I told them that I told you, and we all go out, some to hunt up the originator of the story and others to hunt it down, we shall get the whole community talking about what you did do and what you did not do, and there will be as many scalps taken as though a band of Modocs had swept upon a helpless village. We have two ears but only one tongue, a physiological suggestion that we ought to hear a good deal more than we tell. Let us join a conspiracy that we will tell each other all the good and nothing of the ill, and then there will not be such awful need of sermons on Solomon's words: "Discover not a secret to another."

Solomon had a very large domestic circle. In his earlier days he had very confused notions about monogamy and polygamy, and his multitudinous associates in the matrimonial state kept him too well informed as to what was going on in Jerusalem. They gathered up all the privacies of the city and poured them into his ear, and his family became a Sorosis, or female debating society of 700, discussing day after day all the difficul ties between husbands and wives, between employers and employes, between rulers and subjects, until Solomon, in my text, deplores volubility about affairs that do not belong to us and extols the virtue of secretiveness.

By the power of a secret divulged families, churches, neighborhoods, nations fly apart. By the power of a secret kept great charities, socialities, reformatory movements and Christian enterprises may be advanced. Men are gregarious—cattle in herds, fish in schools, birds in flocks, men in social circles. You may by the discharge of a gun scatter a flock of quails, or by the plunge of the anchor send apart the denizens of the sea, but they will gather themselves together again. If you, by some new power, could break the associations in which men now stand, they would again adhere. God meant it so. He has gathered all the flowers and shrubs into associations. You may plant one forget-me-not or heart's-ease alone, away off upon the hillside, but it will soon hunt up some other forget-me-not or heart's-ease. Plants love company. You will find them talking to each other in the dew. A galaxy of stars is only a mutual life insurance company. You sometimes see a man with no out-branchings of sympathy. His nature is cold and hard like a ship's mast ice-glazed, which the most agile sailor could never climb. Others have a thousand roots and a thousand branches. Innumerable tendrils climb their hearts, and blossom all the way up, and the fowls of heaven sing in the branches. In consequence of this tendency we find men coming together in tribes, in communities, in churches, in societies. Some gather together to cultivate the arts, some to plan for the welfare of the State, some to discuss religious themes, some to kindle their mirth, some to advance their craft. So every active community is divided into associations of artists, of merchants, of bookbinders, of carpenters, of masons, of plasterers, of shipwrights, of plumbers. Do you cry out against it? Then you cry out against a tendency divinely implanted. Your tirades would accomplish no more than if you should preach to a busy ant-hill or bee-hive a long sermon against secret societies.

Here we find the oft-discussed question whether associations that do their work with closed doors and admit their members by pass-words, and greet each other with a secret grip are right or wrong. I answer that it depends entirely on the nature of the object for which they meet. Is it to pass the hours in revelry, wassail, blasphemy and obscene talk, or to plot trouble to the State, or to debauch the innocent, then I say with an emphasis that no man can mistake: No! But is the object the defence of the rights of any class against oppression, the improvement of the mind, the enlargement of the heart, the advancement of art, the defense of the government, the extirpation of crime or the kindling of a pure-hearted sociality, then I say, with just as much emphasis: Yes.

There is no need that we who plan for the conquest of right over wrong should publish to all the world our intentions. The General of an army never sends to the opposing troops information of the coming attack. Shall we who have enlisted in the cause of God and humanity expose our plans to the enemy? No! we will in secret plot the ruin of all the enterprises of Satan and his cohorts. When they expect us by day, we will fall upon them by night. While they are strengthening their left wing we will double up their right. By a plan of battle formed in secret conclave we will come suddenly upon them crying: "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon." Secresy of plot and execution are wrong only when the object and ends are nefarious. Every family is a secret society, every business firm and every banking and insurance institution. Those men who have no capacity to keep a secret are unfit for positions of trust anywhere. There are thousands of men whose vital need is culturing a capacity to keep a secret. Men talk too much, and women too. There is a time to keep silence as well as a time to speak.

Although not belonging to any of the great secret societies about which there has been so much violent discussion, I have only words of praise for those associations which have for their object the maintenance of right against wrong, or the reclamation of inebriates, or, like the score of mutual benefit societies, called by different names, that provide temporary relief for widows and orphans, and for men incapacitated by sickness or accident from earning a livelihood. Had it not been for the large number of secret labor organizations in this country monopoly would long ago have, under its ponderous wheels, ground the laboring classes into an intolerable servitude. The men who want the whole earth to themselves would have got it before this, had it not been for the banding together of great secret organizations. And, while we deplore many things that have been done by them, their existence is a necessity, and their legitimate sphere distinctly pointed out by the providence of God. Such organizations are trying to dismiss from their association all members in favor of anarchy and social chaos. They will gradually cease anything like tyranny over their members and will forbid violent interference with any man's work whether he belongs to their union or is outside of it, and will declare their disgust with any such rule as that passed in England by the Manchester Bricklayers' Association, which says any man found running or working beyond a regular speed, shall be fined two shillings and sixpence for the first offense, five shillings for the second, ten shillings for the third and if still persisting shall be dealt with as the committee think proper. There are secret societies in our colleges that have letters of the Greek alphabet for their nomenclature, and their members are at the very front in scholarship and irreproachable in morals, while there are others the scene of carousal, and they gamble, and they drink, and they graduate knowing a hundred times more about sin than they do of geometry and Sophocles. In other words secret societies, like individuals, are good or bad, are the means of moral health or of temporal and eternal damnation. All good people recognize the vice of slandering an individual, but many do not see the sin of slandering an organization.

There are old secret societies in this and other countries, some of them centuries old, which have been widely denounced as immoral and damaging in their influence, yet I have hundreds of personal friends who belong to them, friends who are consecrated to God, pillars in the church, faithful in all relations of life, examples of virtue and piety. They are the kind of friends whom I would have for my executors if I am so happy as to leave anything for my household at the time of decease, and they are the men whom I would have carry me out to the last sleep when I am dead. You cannot make me believe that they would belong to bad institutions. They are the men who would stamp on everything iniquitous, and I would certainly rather take their testimony in regard to such societies than the testimony of those who, having been sworn in as members, by their assault upon the society confess themselves perjurers. One of these secret societies gave for the relief of the sick in 1873, in this country, $1,490,274. Some of these societies have poured a very heaven of sunshine and benediction into the home of suffering. Several of them are founded on fidelity to good citizenship and the Bible. I have never taken one of their degrees. They might give me the grip a thousand times, and I would not recognize it. I am ignorant of their pass words, and I must judge entirely from the outside. But Christ has given us a rule by which we may judge not only all individuals, but societies, secret and open. "By their fruits ye shall know them." Bad societies make bad men. Good societies make good men. A bad man will not stay in a good society. A good man will not stay in a bad society. Then try all secret societies by two or three rules.

Test the first: Their influence on home, if you have a home. That wife soon loses her influence over her husband who nervously and foolishly looks upon all evening absence as an assault on domesticity. How are the great enterprises of reform, and art, and literature, and beneficence and public weal to be carried on if every man is to have his world bounded on one side by his front door-step, and on the other side by his back window, knowing nothing higher than his own attic, or lower than his own cellar? That wife who becomes jealous of her husband's attention to art, or literature, or religion, or charity is breaking her own sceptre of conjugal power. I know an instance where a wife thought that her husband was giving too many nights to Christian service, to charitable service, to prayer-meetings, and to religious convocation. She systematically decoyed him away until now he attends no church, waits upon no charitable institution, and is on a rapid way to destruction, his morals gone, his money gone, and I fear his soul gone. Let any Christian wife rejoice when her husband consecrates evenings to the service of humanity, and of God, or charity, or art, or anything elevating.

But let no man sacrifice home life to secret society life, as many do. I can point out to you a great many names of men who are guilty of this sacrilege. They are as genial as angels at the society room, and as ugly as sin at home. They are generous on all subjects of wine suppers, yachts and fast horses, but they are stingy about the wives' dresses and the children's shoes. That man has made that which might be a healthful influence, a usurper of his affections, and he has married it, and he is guilty of moral bigamy. Under this process, the wife, whatever her features, becomes uninteresting and homely. He becomes critical of her, does not like the dress, does not like the way she arranges her hair, is amazed that he ever was so unromantic as to offer her hand and heart. There are secret societies where membership always involves domestic shipwreck. Tell me that a man has joined a certain kind, and tell me nothing more about him for ten years, and I will write his history if he be still alive. The man is a wine guzzler, his wife broken-hearted or prematurely old, his fortune gone or reduced, and his home a mere name in a directory. Here are six secular nights in the week. "What shall I do with them?" says the father and the husband. "I will give four of these nights to the improvement and entertainment of my family, either at home or in good neighborhood. I will devote one to charitable institutions. I will devote one to my lodge."

I congratulate you. Here is a man who says: "Out of the six secular nights of the week I will devote five to lodges and clubs and associations and one to the home, which night I will spend in scowling like a March squall, wishing I was out spending it as I have spent the other five nights." That man's obituary is written. Not one out of 10,000 that ever gets so far on the wrong road ever stops. Gradually his health will fail through late hours, and through too much stimulants he will be first-rate prey for erysipelas and rheumatism of the heart. The doctor coming in will at a glance see it is not only present disease he must fight, but years of fast living. The clergyman, for the sake of the feelings of the family, on the funeral day will only talk in religious generalities. The men who got his yacht in the eternal rapids will not be at the obsequies. They have pressing engagements that day. They will send flowers to the coffin, will send their wives to utter words of sympathy, but they will have engagements elsewhere. They never come. Bring me mallet and chisel, and I will cut on the tombstone that man's epitaph: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." "No," you say, "that would not be appropriate." "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like his." "No," you say, "that would not be appropriate." Then give me the mallet and the chisel and I will cut an honest epitaph: "Here lies the victim of dissipating associations."

Another test by which you can find whether your secret society is right or wrong is the effect it has upon your secular occupation. I can understand how through such an institution a man can reach commercial success. I know some men have formed their best business relations through such a channel. If the secret society has advantaged you in an honorable calling it is a good one. But has your credit failed? Are bargain makers more anxious how they trust you with a bale of goods? Have the men whose name were down in the commercial agency A 1, before they entered the society, been going down since in commercial standing? Then look out. You and I every day know of commercial establishments going to ruin through the social excesses of one or two members, their fortune beaten to death with ball player's bat, or cut amidships with the prow of the regatta, or going down under the swift hoofs of the fast horses, or drowned in the large potations of Cognac or Monongahela. That secret society was the Loch Earn. The business was the Ville de Havre. They struck and the Ville de Havre went under!

The third test by which you may know whether the sciety to which you belong is good or bad is this: What is its effect on your sense of moral and religious obligation? Now, if I should take the names of all the people in this audience this morning and put them on a roll, and then I should lay that roll back of this organ, and a hundred years from now some one should take that roll and call it from A to Z there would not one of you answer. I say that any society that makes me forget that fact is a bad society. When I go to Chicago I am somewhat perplexed at Buffalo, as I suppose many travellers are, as to whether it is better to take the Lake Shore route or the Michigan Central, equally expeditious and equally safe, getting to their destination at the same time. But suppose that I hear that on one route the track is torn up, the bridges are down and the switches are unlocked, it will not take me a great while to decide which road to take. Now, there are two roads in the future—the Christian and the un-Christian, the safe and the unsafe. Any institution or any association that confuses my ideas in regard to that fact is a bad institution and a bad association. I had prayers before I joined that society, did I have them afterward? I attended the house of God before I connected myself with that union, do I absent myself from religious influences? Which would you rather have in your hand when you come to die—a pack of cards or a Bible? Which would you rather have pressed to your lips in the closing moment—the cup of Belshazzarean wassail or the chalice of Christian communion? Who would you rather have for your pall-bearers—the elders of a Christian church, or the companions whose conversation was full of slang and innuendo? Who would you rather have for your eternal companions—those men who spend their evenings betting, gambling, swearing, carousing and telling vile stories, or your little child, that bright girl whom the Lord took? Oh, you would not have been away so much nights, would you, if you had known she was going away so soon! Dear me, your house has never been the same place since. Your wife has never brightened up, she has never got over it. She never will get over it. How long the evenings are with no one to put to bed, and no one to whom to tell the beautiful Bible stories.

What a pity it is that you cannot spend more evenings at home in trying to help her bear that sorrow. You can never drown that grief in the wine cup. You can never break away from the little arms that used to be flung around your neck when she used to say: "Papa, do stay with me to-night. Do stay with me to-night." You will never be able to wipe away from your lips the dying kiss of your little girl. The fascination of a bad secret society is so great that sometimes a man has turned his back on his home when his child was dying of scarlet fever. He went away. Before he got back at midnight the eyes had been closed, the undertaker had done his work, and the wife, worn out with three weeks' watching, lay unconscious in the next room. Then the returned father comes upstairs, and he sees the cradle gone and the windows up, and says: "What is the matter?" On the Judgment Day he will find out what was the matter.

Oh, man astray, God help you! I am going to make a very stout rope. You know that sometimes a ropemaker will take very small threads and wind them together until after a while they become ship cable. And I am going to take some very small delicate threads and wind them together until they make a very stout rope. I will take all the memories of the marriage day—a thread of laughter, a thread of light, a thread of music, a thread of banqueting, a thread of congratulation, and I twist them together and I have one strand. Then I take a thread of the hour of the first advent in your house, a thread of the darkness that preceded, and a thread of the light that followed; and a thread of the beautiful scarf that little child used to wear when she bounded out at eventide to greet you; and then a thread of the beautiful dress in which you laid her away for the resurrection; and then I twist all these threads together, and I have another strand. Then I take a thread of the scarlet robe of the suffering Christ, and a thread of the white raiment of your loved ones before the throne, and a string of the harp cherubic, and a string of the harp seraphic, and I twist them altogether, and I have a third strand. "Oh," you say, "either strand is enough to hold fast a world." No; I will take these strands and I will twist them together, and one end of that rope I will fasten, not to the communion table, for it shall be removed; not to a pillar of the organ, for that will crumble in the ages; but I wind it round and round the cross of a sympathizing Christ, and, having fastened one end of the rope to the cross, I throw the other end to you. Lay hold of it! Pull for your life! Pull for Heaven!

A NICE HORSE STORY.

It Carries its Own Moral, which is a Most Excellent One.

[From the Chicago Herald.]

On Madison street one day I paused to pat the nose of a beautiful horse which stood by the curb and to commensurate his misfortune. For this beautiful animal, though sleek of coat and shapely in body and limb, was apparently suffering most excruciating torture. His head had been checked inhumanly high, and the cruel bit, drawing tightly into his mouth, disfigured an animal face of unusual charm and intelligence. I was just fancying that the horse had begun to understand and appreciate my words of sympathy, when the lady who sat in the carriage holding the reins fumbled in her pocket, produced a lump of white sugar, and asked me to give it to the horse.

"He is very fond of sugar," she explained, "and I have quite won his heart by feeding it to him. I always carry sugar in my pocket while out driving, and give him a lump at every opportunity. I never knew a horse to be so fond of sugar. Will you please give him another lump?"

"Certainly," I replied, "I see that you are quite as fond of the horse as he is of sweets."

"Yes, I think everything of him."

"Then why do you torture him."

"Torture my Prince?"

"Yes, that is just what you are doing. Do you not know that the poor animal suffers agony because his head is checked so unnaturally high? His neck is drawn out straight, producing a most ungraceful angle, he holds his head awkwardly, the bit is hurting his mouth, and that graceful curvature of neck and carriage of head which are his nature are now entirely lost. Why do you check him so high?"

She didn't know. She was not aware that high checking was a source of pain to horses, nor that it destroyed their natural beauty. She was amazed at the discovery.

"May I trouble you to loosen his his check?" she asked.

When the strap was unstrapped the horse immediately lowered his head, straightened the cramps out of his handsome neck, shook himself to make sure that he had actually been released from bondage, and then looked around with such a grateful, delighted expression in his intelligent eyes that his mistress declared no more checking straps should be used upon him.

Caught in the Flood.

A report from Livonia, Nebraska, pictures a most thrilling experience of twelve families near there, who were caught in the flood Saturday night and shut off from all communication with the world. Their homes were surrounded and they were driven to the roofs, where they remained until 10 o'clock the next day. The frost during the night froze a crust of ice, and the people walked on this thin support for over two miles to shore. The children were carried the entire distance, and several times during the trip members of the party broke through the ice, but were saved by their companions. The water over which they walked was from eight to twenty feet deep, and the escapes they met were many and thrilling.

A Prompt Inference.

"What's the trouble here, Mickey?"

"Don't you know? There's a street-car tie-up."

"Oh, I see. That's why so many people are standing around in knots."—Philadelphia Call.

A nobleman, who lives in habitual communion with God, has a living influence on his generation.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 5, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - -	$1.50
One copy six months - - -	75
One copy four " - - -	50

No Treasurer's report as yet.

The municipal election in Montgomery resulted in a victory for the entire Democratic ticket.

The Decatur Free Lance is a new paper established at Decatur which we are pleased to place upon our exchange list. The first issue now before us, besides much other interesting and well prepared matter, contains an article on the South which is admirable in thought and tone. Long life and prosperity to the Free Lance.

If the statements of an ex-Confederate officer are reliable, when Mayor Reese was at the front fighting with Southern men for Southern rights, ex-Alderman Sharp was safe in the cedar glades of Butler county making canteens of a sorry sort for Confederate soldiers. But what is still worse, it is further stated that said canteens would not hold water, nor whiskey nor sorghum.—Advertiser.

Rah for Sharp! Perhaps his canteens were made to hold gas.

Among thinking men every where the opinion is growing that the inter state commerce law is one of the rawest and rashest experiments that congress has ever made. Thus far it has helped nobody, and the probability is that, if the commission were to permit it to go into effect, its operation would create as much confusion as disaster—as much loss and suffering—as a financial panic.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Queen's Birthday.

The 24th of May is the anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria. It is observed as a national holiday in Great Britain, and with more or less eclat all over her Majesty's dominions. The Queen was born in 1819, and succeeded to the throne June 20, 1837, on the death of her uncle, King William IV. She was crowned June 28, 1838, and married Feb. 10, 1840, to Prince Albert, who died Dec. 14, 1861. Her Majesty has nine children and a large family of grand-children.

The "late improvement" referred to in another column by "Tax Payer" cost the county $51.00. A few months ago it was difficult for the county to furnish a rope and bucket for the court house well for the benefit of the tax-paying citizens who visit the county seat from all over the county. Our correspondent is one of the largest tax payers in the county and certainly is entitled to be heard. We cannot but agree with all that he says, for when we think of the way the county finances are managed we are involuntarily reminded of Mr. Shakespeare's words and forced to the conclusion that "there is something rotten in Denmark."

Our representative in the last congress, Capt. John M. Martin, was the only member of the house from Alabama who foresaw the serious embarrassment to the business interests of the country that the inter-state commerce bill will cause and he had the courage to raise his voice in a manly speech against its passage. The action of the commission in temporaily suspending the fourth section of the act, vindicates Captain Martin's position in the matter. It is a great pity that scheming politicians were able to deprive the sixth district of so able and watchful a representative; but when we get him back there he will be apt to "hold the fort" for more than one term.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

We published this week the report of the grand jury. It is a fine production. The author evidently understanding that art so rarely found among writers—the art of condensation, boiling down. The facts as stated, condensed and clear, show that Shelby county is in a healthy condition; financially and morally. This one fact should impress itself forcibly upon the mind of every reader of the report. This grand jury found but thirty-four indictments, after a lapse of one term of the court, or for a period of twelve months. Whereas the grand jury preceding this presented sixty-five cases for a period of six months. Is that not a most remarkable improvement? Does it not speak volumes for prohibition? In a short time, at our present rate of improvement, old Shelby will blossom as a rose, and crime will be unknown.—Shelby Chronicle.

The Inter-State Law.

There is no denying the fact that the business interests of the country as a whole are suffering to some degree from apprehensions of the enforcement of the inter-state commerce law. The commissioners are being met at every point where they stop by committees representing every class of industrial enterprise and nearly all petitioning for the permanent suspension of the 4th section of the law, which section contains the "long and short haul clause." This clause would prevent railroads charging more for a short than for a long haul.

A committee from the Board of Trade of Columbia, S. C., met the commissioners in Atlanta last week, and presented a very practical point in this connection. It was shown that merchants in Columbia, a city of 15,00 people, had been purchasing flour in St. Louis and paying 75 cents per barrel freight. Under the operation of the "long and short haul clause," the railroads had decided that as it would be suicidal to lower rates on "local" freight it would be necessary to increase rates on "through" freight, and the freight on flour from St. Louis to Columbia had been fixed at $1.50 per barrel—double the present rate—the increased rate to be charged as soon as the law was enforced. The main point here is in the fact that the increased rate will in the end come out of the consumer, who will be paying a further tax to the railroads under a law that was presumably enacted for his especial benefit. The wholesale merchant sells his flour to the country merchant adding the increase in freight to the price of the commodity, the country merchant does the same by the consumer, and if any benefit is derived at all it is by the railroad company that handles the freight. These are plain practical facts presented in no abstruse legal phrases. It will be the same with corn, meat, plows, all other produce, and all other freight.

There are some enterprises and some newspapers asking for the enforcement of the law to the letter. Some few enterprises hope to be greatly benefitted if it is enforced. They are asking that the commission be allowed to give the law "a fair trial." We once heard of a man who had a stout piece of rope. He proceeded to give the piece of rope a fair trial and it hung him as dead as Hector. Should the commissioners decide to act upon the petitions of the few enterprises that may be benefitted by the operation of the law, it is not probable that their political necks will stand the strain any great length of time.

The absurdity of the law is demonstrated by a comparison with the newspaper business for instance. The newspaper business, though it doesn't pay quite so well as railroading, yet like the railroad is a public enterprise in a certain sense. The public, however, has no capital invested in the enterprise. What right then has the public to attempt to control either or any like enterprise in its legitimate business? For instance, if congress should pass a law prohibiting newspapers from charging more for the first insertion of an inch of advertising than for the subsequent insertions, what would be the result? The newspapers that are now advocating the enforcement of the inter-state commerce law would sadly and woefully kick until their more clear-headed brothers had met and decided that instead of decreasing the rate charged for the first insertion of advertising it would be best to increase the rate for subsequent insertions. Then of what benefit would such a law be to anybody but the newspapers?

Next to the newspaper and the college the railroad is the greatest institution of civilization the world has yet seen. Wherever a railroad penetrates it carries a broader and more enlightened civilization than it finds. It also carries development and wealth. Considering this it is difficult to find any reason for such opposition to railroads as witnessed among those who are ever afraid that they are being swindled by the man or corporation that is richer than they. And when they come to correcting what they suppose to be abuses of monoplies, &c., they generally find that they have placed themselves "deeper in the mud than they ever were in the mire." The inter-state commerce law is a piece of demagogical legislation enacted for their benefit, which, if enforced, will operate to the injury of all excepting the railroad corporations, and a few competitive foreign enterprises.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Bivings Duke & Co's Mill.

Our pastor, Rev. A. J. Briggs, spent a few days out here last week, among his friends, and preached a fine sermon last Friday night. We are so much pleased with Mr. Briggs that we have asked him to preach for us once a month, and he has consented to do so, and will organize a church here when he comes again.

A Sunday-school was organized out here last Sunday evening.

Maj. J. M. Bivings returned from Mobile last Saturday night.

Mr. B. F. James and family moved here a few days ago.

Mrs. E. Deramus has gone to spend a few weeks with her father.

Summer has come in reality, and now we want rain.

OLD MAID.

Dots From Concord.

Corn, oats and cotton are looking fine at the present.

Preaching at the Methodist church Saturday at eleven o'clock, and also Saturday night, and Sunday at eleven o'clock, by the pastor, R. A. Thompson.

Tax collector White was in our community last week.

Quite a compliment was bestowed upon the "Peaceful Boy" by "Bro. Ike" in last week's VIEW. We don't know that we ever saw "Bro. Ike" and if he ever saw the "Peaceful Boy" he kept it to himself. We would like to have him visit our neighborhood for we know he would like it very much. He need not be afraid to come for we are all civil people and do not keep bull dogs. PEACEFUL BOY.

Maplesville Dots.

We are having some fine weather to plow our young corn.

The young folks had a very unnatural fishing frolic last Saturday; no one fell in the creek or got angry. Wonderful, wonderful.

A box car loaded with cotton caught fire near Maplesville last Thursday and came near burning up forty bales of cotton.

A thief broke into Mr. N. W. Foshee's gin house and stole about fifteen dollars worth of hides. That is one thief that may truthfully be called hide bound.

Dr. Wooley says the place he bought from Mr. Douthit is the best fixed up place he ever bought. I just tell you Charley is a straight hair pin anyhow.

Hurrah for one of our boys, he has invented a musical instrument of ten strings. It is composed of a plank with ten holes bored through it of different sizes, and then he gets ten hogs from grown to two months old and puts each hog's tail through the holes according to size, then the operator gets behind the plank with a good pair of pinchers and pinches the hogs' tails according to the notes of music. This instrument needs no tuning and is called the swinette.

Stick to the old interests boys they may boom yet.

I need not wish the VIEW success for as long as it sticks to the right point it will succeed. D.

Verbena.

Misses Hattie and Annie Clisby, of Montgomery, are visiting their father, Captain C., at this place.

Another entertainment was enjoyed last Saturday by the young people of Verbena and Pratt Mills. A jolly time reported. We think they must have a gold mine of love over there. Wish they would invite us.

We notice some improvements in town recently. Mr. Paine's houses are all receiving new coats of paint this week which beautifies them very much and some other improvements of interest in other portions of town.

We heard an excellent sermon preached by Rev. Dr. Hamrick in the Baptist Church. The Baptist Sunday School re-organized Sunday morning and elected officers.

We expect everybody would like to know how Verbena derived its name. Col. Norton had the honor of founding our town, but he did not have the honor of naming it. That honor falls to Col. Norton's daughter. Miss N. with several young ladies went together gathering wild flowers and among the lot gathered were a number of wild verbenas. Miss Norton proposed to name our town after this beautiful flower, and it has ever since borne that name.

Mrs. Phil McDonald is quite sick at this writing.

The Pratt Mill Co. have borrowed an engine from the L. & N. R. R. Co., while their locomotive is under repairs at Birmingham.

Rev. L. G. Skipper, Mr. A. J. Brooks, Dr. Caffey and several others of the Baptist Church are absent this week to attend the Southern Baptist Convention at Louisville, Ky., which convenes May 7th. WATCHMAN.

Stanton Puffs.

We were pleased to see our worthy tax assessor and his wife at Ebenezer church last Sabbath. We hope they have come back to stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams, of Dixie, lost their baby last Saturday night. The little one was taken with congestion and died after two hours of suffering.

Quite a number of Stanton's belles and beaux, with several of the older members of our community, boarded the G. & C. L. Co's train last Saturday, to spend the day at Mr. Sharp King's mill pond fishing. The party expressed themselves as being delighted with their trip, and from the appearence of the empty baskets on their return, there was proof that the inner man had not been neglected.

One of the young gentlemen who was in the party last Saturday reports one fish caught and that he caught it. He says he did not go for the fun there would be in fishing.

Dr. Little has visitors this week in his sister and neice from Cross Plains.

Miss Lucy Wilson, who spent the winter in Stanton as guest of Mrs. Little, returned to her home at Cross Plains last Monday. One of our young men is very much grieved at her departure, and would be pleased to see her speedy return.

Next Sabbath is the regular appointment of the Presbyterian pastor.

Measles are still on the rounds in and around Stanton.

Mr. Jerry Donovan, one of our oldest citizens in this part of the county, is dangerously ill of congestion. His recovery is despaired of.

Mr. Coe returned from his trip last Saturday.

Lodge & Bro's are again working their charcoal job to its usual limit and expect to continue it so during the summer. 89.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sep11 3

NOTICE NO. 6297.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., April 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Alabama, on May 14, 1887, viz: Asa J. Robinson, Homestead 18106 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, n e of s e ¼ sec 24 township 20 north, range 1[illegible] east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Roberts, John Roberts, William Klinner and William W. Green, all of Dixie, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6293.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 14th, 1887, viz: Abraham C. Mims, homestead 10863 for the s w ¼ of sec 24 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, Linsey W. Henly, William P. Headley, James R. Broadhead, all of Kincheep, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6283.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John Bearden, homestead 14409, for the sw ¼ of nw ¼ and nw ¼ of sw ¼, section 14, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John D. Selman, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6284.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: Nathan D. Ellis, Homestead 12091, for n ½ of ne ¼, sec. 26, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, John D. Selman, Claton Hall, Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6282.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., Mar. 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 7th, 1887, viz: John D. Selman, homestead 12087, for the w ½ of ne ¼ section 22, township 21, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: John Bearden, Nathan D. Ellis, Claton Hall and Eugene McGee, all of Maplesville, Ala.

mar31 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Job printing neatly executed at this office.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting & valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why. Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the [illegible] season of Winter MALARIA lurks in the System!

COLLINS AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or [illegible] will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your system and insure GOOD HEALTH IN SPRING. [illegible]

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS IN CHEST, or Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S Syrup LUNGWORT & WILDCHERRY [illegible]

If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.

Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY" ALMANAC for 1887. [illegible] COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., St. Louis, Mo.

jun24-y

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOMERY, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A., Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank. of Tuscaloosa.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,

SELMA, ALABAMA.

mar24-y]

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 5, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good-natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

For the Chilton View.]

To a Honeysuckle.

Sweet flower thy fragrant odors wake,
Within my heart fond memories;
Whose tuneful voices round me break;
In strains of sweetest harmonies.

Fond fancy sees again the time;
When youth and hope with magic lyre;
Had waked within my soul the chime
Of all their wondrous glowing fire.

When life so full of golden rays,
Had clothed the earth in radiant glory
Whose siren song with tender lays,
So softly whispered loves sweet story.

O rosey hours with golden gleams,
That glint like sunshine o'er the lea.
And fill the heart with hallowed dreams
That fondly cling to memory.

Why will ye flee the loving grasp;
Of outstretched hands that vainly grope,
For substance, leaving in our clasp.
The shadow of our sweetest hopes.

Yet incense from those dreams arise,
Sweet as the perfume of this flower;
The shadows of the past; we prize
The memory of their magic power.

G. A. J.

Dr. J. P. Givhan, and J. Bice, of Strasburg, were in Clanton Friday.

J. P. VanDerveer, Esq., of Clear Creek, spent Monday last in Clanton.

Mrs. Jno. Cox, of Birmingham, is visiting the family of Mr. W. H. Foshee.

If you want nice, fresh, candies call on I. B. Bowdon. A fresh supply just received.

The young people enjoyed a sociable at the residence of Mr. Beasley last Friday night.

Mrs. J. B. Boykin and Mrs. Wallis Glover, of Verbena, spent Sunday with relatives in Clanton.

Farmers say they have not had enough rain hereabouts to make crops grow and they are correspondingly despondent.

Mr. S. A. Blasingame's dry kiln containing several thousand feet of lumber was burned yesterday. Mr. Blasingame's loss is considerable.

The verses "To the Honeysuckle" published this week, in melody and sweetness, are sufficient to rank their author as a poet of considerable merit.

Prof. J. M. Corderie, of Jemison, was in Clanton one day last week. The Prof. has been appointed, by the Governor, as justice of the Peace in beat 2.

In the hopes of seeing the number of scholars in attendance upon Sabbath school rapidly increase, we make the announcement that the Sunday school picnic will be had in a very short while.

Our promising young friend and former employee, Nat Thornton, is at home from Birmingham getting well of the mumps. Nat is meeting with success in his new home, and it gives us pleasure to note the fact.

H. L. Williams, Esq., of Wetumpka, was in Clanton last Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Williams is prepared to make loans of money on good farming lands in Chilton county as security. See his card published in another column.

Sampey's Corner.

I am selling scovel Hoes at 50 cents. I have a job lot of Ladies' Shoes No. 4 that I am going to close out at the extremely low price of $1 per pair. Some very good shoes in this lot, and if you come in time you may save from 50 to 75 cents. Bargains in every line for a few days now to make room for new goods.

A Terrible Crime.

On Wednesday night last Mr. Abram Littlejohn and his wife were murdered at their home on the Strasburg road four and a half miles northwest of Clanton. Their dwelling house was burned down over their bodies evidently to conceal traces of the crime. Mr. Littlejohn and his wife were very poor, yet it is thought that the crime was committed for the purpose of robbery as it does not appear reasonable to attribute it to any other motive. The coroner's jury upon holding an inquest over the bones of the victims decided that they came to their death at the hands of some person or persons unknown. The body of the lady was burned entirely to ashes, and only a few of the bones of her husband were found whole.

Parties from the neighborhood were in Clanton Monday and reported that a negro by the name of Green Harrington, living at Verbena, was supposed to be the perpetrator of the diabolical deed, and it is thought that he had as an accomplice another negro. More than 150 people have been out scouring the country in search of the fiends, but no trace of them has been discovered. Harrington is described as a bright mulatto with black moustache, heavy build and about six feet high. If he should be caught up with by any of the people of the neighborhood, it is not probable that he will be long for this world.

Death of Mrs. Ada Knox.

Mrs. Ada Knox died at her mother's home in this city yesterday of that fatal malady, consumption. She had been ill for many months and death came like a summons to a land of peace.

Mrs. Knox was a Miss Herron, and one of the loveliest and most talented women ever reared in Montgomery. Her musical talents were of the highest order and added to these were poetic gifts that needed only cultivation to have made her famous. Many gems from her pen have graced the columns of the Advertiser. She was as well a lady of rare sweetness, a lovable woman, and many who knew her will stop to-day to pay a feeling tribute to her memory.—Advertiser.

The deceased lady had numerous warm friends in Clanton, having for several years resided here, and they will be deeply grieved at the above announcement.

We have recently notified a great many of our delinquent subscribers of their indebtedness to the VIEW and trust that they will each and every one appreciate the circumstances which have rendered it necessary for us to adopt this method in asking them to settle for their subscription. Some of them have been receiving and reading the paper for 3 and 4 years without paying regularly, and now it is time they were paying up without asking to be accommodated further. The amount to each individual is small but the aggregate amount owed by the parties we have notified is something near two hundred and fifty dollars, which amount we would be very glad to receive just now. So all who can, please pay us what you can so as to enable us to pay others to whom we are indebted.

Our Sheriff and his deputy went down to Wells & McCranie's mill one day last week to arrest a man named Hilyer charged with wife beating. Hilyer "got the drop" on them though and covering them both with revolvers they could do nothing save leave and try again. They accordingly went back the following night prepared to take him dead or alive, but alas! their bird had "skipped by the light o' the moon."

At the administrator's sale of the N. H. Thornton property on last Monday. Maj. J. C. Gibson, of Verbena, bought the corner lot opposite the Academy for $180, he also purchased 120 acres of land about a mile and a half from town. The half of a business lot just west of the railroad was bid in for R. H. Pearson, of Birmingham, at $190. Mr. Pearson is the attorney employed in the settlement of the estate.

Chilton County's Finances Getting Better.

EDITORS VIEW:—We are glad to see our officeholders getting so fashionable that each one has an individual key to their late improvements. This is done with the county's money, and the tax payers are the ones who have to pay for it. I as a tax-payer object to having the money spent in this way when the former place answered every purpose. I also object to such improvements being so prominently located. The next thing they will ask for will be carpets for their offices. The tax payers of Chilton work hard for the comfort of the officeholders, and while our money is spent our taxes will increase.

TAX PAYER OF CHILTON.

Rev. R. W. Hamrick, of Newnan, Ga., will preach in the Baptist Church, at this place, to-night, and also on next Sunday morning and night, as announced at the close of service last Sunday.

The trial of W. H. Boyle, of Clear Creek, before Judge Callen on a charge of burglary, came off last Monday and resulted in the acquittal of the defendant. His trial on the charge of carrying concealed weapons is set for Tuesday next.

Notice.

Dr. A. J. Massey, Dentist, at Rockford, Ala., will visit Clanton about the 10th of May to remain ten days. Extracts teeth with comparatively no pain. Inserting teeth a specialty. All operative work complete. Those who can't come to see him while here write to him and he will go to see them.

To the Citizens of Clanton and Vicinity.

Please accept my sincere thanks for the prompt and efficient aid you rendered me at the burning of my dry kiln Wednesday morning.

S. A. BLASINGAME.

The Methodist church will never be built by promises. Don't promise to do more than you can. Promise to do all you can and then do all you promise to do and the church will be built. Other towns are erecting new churches. What is the matter with Clanton that she cannot get her new church building under headway?

MR. EDITOR:

William Mills, Sr., died at his home near Kincheon, the 12th of April 1887. He was 80 years old; the father of elder Geo. W. Mills and Wm. H. Mills and leaves a second wife and a host of friends. He was a good man and a Baptist of 58 years standing. Its to be remembered that he was a victim of paralysis for more than two years unable to help himself. He bore it with patience to the end and died as he had lived a christian. Blessed are they that die in the Lord.

W. I. MULLINS.

The Best and Cheapest College.

Over two hundred young from men eighteen States entered the Commercial College of Kentucky University, Lexington, Ky., the past three months. This College received the Highest Honor and Gold Medal at the World's Exposition over all other Colleges for System of Book-keeping and Business Education. It is situated in the beautiful, healthy, and renowned city of Lexington, Ky., accessible by the leading railroads. Arrange now to enter this College during the spring or summer months, as students can enter at any time. The president of this renowned College has sent the Editor of this paper a Full Scholarship to his College, and an ambitious young man will find it to his advantage to call and see the Editor. Read advertisement of this College in another column, and write for particulars to its President, Wilbur R. Smith, Lexington, Ky.

"I never like to shave a corpse," remarked a red headed funeral director from an adjoining county, "and if it is practicable I always like to get a barber. About a month ago I had an old man to bury who had died with four or five days' growth of beard. His limbs had contracted terribly after death, and to straighten them out we laid a couple of pieces of plank across him. He was lying on a bed in this way when the barber came, a big colored fellow with considerable superstition about him. He shaved the outside of the face all right, and then had to climb on the bed over the deceased to shave the other side. In some way his knees hit the plank which lay across the dead man's chest and held his arms down, releasing both arms. They sprang together like the jaws of a steel trap and and happened to catch the barber on both sides of the head. He gave one long yell that lasted till he reached the street, and that was the last seen of him. I had to finish the job. The darkey was so badly scared that it was three days before he went to work again."—Ex.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES
—SUCH AS—
Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular
MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.
If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Register's Sale.
State of Alabama, Chilton county. B. H. Chesnutt vs. John H. Easterling.
By virtue of a decree rendered at the April term, 1887, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, of the 7th district, northeastern chancery division of said State, in the above entitled cause, I shall proceed to sell at public outcry, at the courthouse door, in Chilton county, on the first Monday in June, 1887, between the legal hours of sale for cash, the following described real estate situated in Chilton county, to-wit: The s w ¼ of sec. 3, township 21, range 15 east.
m5-4 W. E. STEWART, Register.

Valuable Real Estate For Sale.
—:o:—
A new five room residence at the hot well.
A seven room residence situated on a beautiful corner lot in town.
One hundred and twenty-five acres of land with a good 5 room residence, good water. Only four miles from town over good road.
Apply to W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Real Estate Agents, Clanton, Ala.

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

THE CHICAGO
COTTAGE
ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.
These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

HEADACHE
and all Bilious Complaints are relieved by taking
WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS
Purely Vegetable; No Griping. Price 25c. All Druggists.

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
WATCH IT.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala
SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING. BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS

MAKE HENS LAY

SALESMEN WANTED!
To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS,
mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.
I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.
[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

Clanton Academy.
—:o:—
CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.
—:o:—
The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.
RATES OF TUITION:
Primary Department..............$1.50
Junior " 2.50
High School " 3.50
Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.
Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.
Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.
For further information address
H. E. H. HICKS,
feb10] Principal.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation. FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c. TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course. PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 31 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation. Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

CARL DUNDER.

His Discourses on Several Little Things.

Sometimes somepody comes to me und says vhas I Carl Dunder! I vhas. All right, Mr. Dunder, I vhas going to trafel und I like some advice of you. Und I says to him:

"Keep sober, take the middle car on a railroat train, und doan' bet on some odder man's games."

Sometimes a man mit a plug hat und a bland shmile comes into my saloon und says how you vhas, Mr. Dunder, und how vhas dot good wife of yours, und how does Shake get along, und plese my soul! but you vhas der fattest und jolliest Dutchmans in Detroit? Say, Mr. Dunder, I like to shpeak a few words mit you in brivate. I vhas going to run for office dis fall, und I like to count on you to help me through. I pring all ter barty here to puy beer, und I make Shake my deputy, eh? How vhas it, oldt frendt? Und I say to him:

"Der man who depends upon bolitics vhas a knave or a fool. Der man who depends upon boliticians vhas all fool. If I help you und you vhas elected you forget me. If I help you und you vhas defeated dot odder gandidate vhas my enemy for life."

Sometimes a man mit a sadt look on his face slips aroundt to me und says I like to talk to you, Mr. Dunder. I vhas in some troubles mit my wife, und I like to ask your advice. If you would be so kindt as to tell me——

Und I says to him:

"My dear frendt, vhen it is time for husband or wife to go mit somepody else to complain of each odder it vhas time to go to der courts for a divorce. When family troubles can't be kept in der family it vhas better dot you go off und drown yourself."

Sometimes a young man comes in very softly vhen nopody vhas aroundt und says, hello, Mr. Dunder, you und my fadder has been friendts a good while, und I like to ask a leedle favor. I vhas a leedle pehindt financially, und I like to ask you to loan me twenty dollars. Und I say to him:

"Vhen a young man vhas pehindt financially something vhas wrong mit his way of living. Vhen a young man has to go to his fadder's friendt to raise twenty dollar it vhas a matter dot der fadder can't know too soon."—Detroit Free Press.

Wouldn't Spoil the Dinner.

An old war veteran, who had been through half a dozen campaigns, and was not very particular about what he ate, was invited out to a swell dinner party. He sat almost directly opposite the hostess, and was painfully conscious that every move he made could be observed by her. Suddenly, at the hight of the festivities, the veteran came across a caterpillar in his salad. A furtive glance at the hostess disclosed the fact that she too had discovered the embarrassing circumstance. It was a critical moment, but the old soldier was equal to the occasion. Without changing a muscle he gathered up the caterpillar with a forkful of the salad and swallowed both! The look of gratitude which he received from his hostess, a few minutes later, warmed the very cockles of his heart. In due time the story leaked out, and when somebody asked the old campaigner how he liked caterpillar salad, the reply came like a hot-shot: "Do you take me for a man who would spoil a dinner party for a little thing like a caterpillar!"—Detroit Free Press.

A VOODOO'S THREAT FULFILLED.

Wholesale Poisoning in the Family of a Geogira Negro.

John Harris, colored, the sixth victim of the Voodoo poisoning, died in the lunatic asylum in Milledgeville, Ga. The story of the case illustrates a phrase in negro character. Harris and his brother-in-law, Bonner, lived near each other in a colored settlement in the northern part of Baldwin county. For years, Bonner had made a living as a Voodoo doctor, and so great was the terror inspired by him that the negros did his bidding with implicit obedience. John Harris alone declined to believe in Bonner, saying that he could do no more than other men. This enraged Bonner greatly, and he declared that that which the Harris family ate would henceforth act as poison, and that before a new moon should come not one of the family would be alive. Two days later the Harris family, which consisted of eleven persons—father, mother and nine children—grew violently ill after breakfast. By 9 o'clock one of the children was dead. At noon a second victim was laid by the side of the first, and by dark a third was dead. Instead of taking action against the Voodoo, the Harris family now looked upon him as having a divine agency to visit wrath upon them who offended him, and they huddled together and endeavored to keep the whole matter secret.

Before the funeral of the three dead children could take place a fourth was added to the list, while the seven other members of the family were dangerously ill. That evening the mother died, and a day later still another child was added to the list. The father alone, who had not eaten much at the fatal meal, recovered sufficiently to move, but when he recovered he was a raving maniac and had to be confined in the lunatic asylum. He had fearful visions and would not eat for fear of being poisoned, and soon died in terrible contortions.

News from the settlement is that the survivors cannot live much longer, so that it is likely the Voodoo's prophecy will be fulfilled and that not one of the family will see the new moon come in.

As soon as the white people learned of the facts Bonner was hidden by the colored people and has not yet been found.

With Forty Prongs.

Gay F. Hulser and partner, two Kansas hunters, recently killed a black-tailed buck on the Gunnison River, Colorado, that was a veritable old-timer. He had fifteen prongs on one horn and twenty-five on the other. They were webbed somewhat after the manner of the horns of a young moose. It is unusual to find more than five or six prongs to a horn. In some localities this deer is called the mountain deer, and although it is abundant in some places, little is definitely known by naturalists of its habits. The deer was in very poor condition and its meat too strong to be eaten.

It has transpired that when Prince Alexander of Battenberg was first deposed from the Bulgarian throne and escorted out of the country by the successful conspirators, he accepted from them the sum of 4,900 francs with which to pay his way to his home at Darmstadt. The money was handed to him at Reni, in Bessarabia, where the Prince's kidnappers parted with him. A suit to recover the sum has been begun by the rebels who made the loan.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Curative Power of Water.

There is no remedy of such general application and none so easily obtainable as water, and yet nine persons out of ten will pass it by in an emergency, to seek for something of less efficacy. There are but few cases of illness where water should not be given the highest place as a remedial agent.

A strip of flannel or napkin folded lengthwise and wrung out of hot water and applied around the neck of a child that has the croup will usually bring relief in ten minutes. A towel folded several times and quickly wrung out of hot water and applied over the seat of pain, in toothache or neuralgia, will generally afford prompt relief. This treatment in colic works like magic.

We have known cases that have resisted treatment for hours yield to this in ten minutes. There is nothing that will so promptly cut short a congestion of the lungs, sore throat or rheumatism, as hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly. Pieces of cotton batting dipped in hot water and kept applied to all sores and new cuts, bruises and sprains, is the treatment now adopted in hospitals.—Health and Home.

Wisdom in Eating.

As a universal rule in health, and with very rare exception in disease, that is best to be eaten which the appetite craves or the taste relishes. Persons rarely err in the quality of food eaten; nature's instincts are the wisest regulators in this respect. The great sources of mischief from eating are three—quantity, frequency, rapidity—and from these come the horrible dyspepsias, which make of human life a burden, a torture, a living death. By eating fast, the stomach, like a bottle being filled through a funnel, is full and overflowing before we know it. But the most important reason is, the food is swallowed before time has been allowed to divide it into sufficiently small pieces with the teeth; for, like ice in a tumbler of water, the smaller the bits are, the sooner are they dissolved. It has been seen with the naked eye that if solid food is cut up in pieces small as half a pea, it digests almost as soon without being chewed at all as if it had been well masticated. The best plan, therefore, is for all persons to thus comminute their food; for, even if it is well chewed, the comminution is no injury, while it is of great importance in case of hurry, forgetfulness, or bad teeth. Cheerful conversation prevents rapid eating. It requires about five hours for a common meal to dissolve and pass out of the stomach, during which time this organ is incessantly at work, when it must have repose, as any other muscle or set of muscles, after such a length of effort. Hence persons should not eat within less than a five-hours' interval. The heart itself is at rest more than one-third of its time. The brain perishes without repose. Never force food upon the stomach. All are tired when night comes. Every muscle of the body is weary and looks to the bed; but just as we lie down to rest every other part of the body, if we, by a hearty meal, give the stomach five hours work, which in its weak state requires a much longer time to perform than at an earlier hour of the day, it is like imposing upon a servant a full day's labor just at the close of a hard day's work. Hence the unwisdom of eating heartily late in the day or evening; and no wonder it has cost many a man his life. Always breakfast before work or exercise. No laborers or active persons should eat an atom later than sundown, and then it should not be over half the midday meal. Persons of sedentary habits, or who are at all ailing, should take absolutely nothing for supper beyond a single piece of cold stale bread and butter or a ship biscuit, with a single cup of warm drink. Such a supper will always give better sleep and prepare for a heartier breakfast, with the advantage of having the exercise of the whole day to grind it up and extract its nutriment. Never eat without an inclination.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Conjuring Back the Buffalo.

While the Crow Indians have taken up stock raising in Montana, with reluctance, they have never given up the idea that the buffalo would some day return to them. They breed and raise cattle only as a last resort. The appearance of a few buffalo sets them wild with joy.

A regular practice of the tribe since the practical annihilation of the buffalo has been to hold a great medicine dance annually for the purpose of bringing the bison back. They believe that these animals have retreated to the caves in response to some order of the Great Spirit, whom they have offended, and they will not be convinced that they have been destroyed. At their last medicine dance the pow-wow was unusually demonstrative, and the head men expressed the opinion that the buffalo would soon return. Singularly enough, a few days later a small herd of scrawny buffalo was seen near the camp, and the Crows, with shouts, fell on them and soon dispatched them all. After the sport was over the Indians returned to camp, and, congratulating themselves that their medicine was very strong, made more of it, and continued their incantations for several days. No more buffalo appearing, they gave up the task of conjuring them, but will renew it at their next dance.—New York Sun.

A Demand for Gold Coins.

Superintendent Fox, of the Philadelphia mint, says: "We have incessant demand for gold coins of this year's mintage. The department has authorized me to strike only a limited number, and we started in this week more to keep up the continuity of years than for any other reason. The supply is not near sufficient to meet the demand. Whether the applications are to meet actual necessities or for speculation I do not know. There are a number of people who speculate on the new coinage. The disposition is to accumulate fine sets of cabinet coins, carry them distances away and sell them at considerable advance. I look upon it as an outrage that this institution should be used surreptitiously for procuring coin to, in a measure, corner the market, and I am exercising all the care I can so that the portion I am permitted to deliver shall go only to such directions as are strictly legitimate and not for speculation."

A Regular Jewel of a House.

Omaha house hunter—"I thought you said this house was a perfect gem."

Agent—"Indeed it is, madam."

"Why, the ceilings have no height at all."

"That's so they'll be easy to keep clean, madam."

"And the windows are dreadfully small."

"To keep the sun from fading the carpets, madam."

"And there is no bathroom."

"That's to save soap, madam."—Omaha World.

Rural Home says that there are 118 farmers in the Connecticut Legislature.

With His Mother.

A few weeks ago in this city a poor widow died, leaving one child, a little lame boy, to the cold charities of the world.

After his mother's funeral the little fellow was taken ill from the combined results of grief and neglect, and it was then evident that he would soon be united to his only friend.

He was left alone much of the day, there being no one who could spare the time to stay with him. It was often noticed that the voices of two persons could be heard in his little room. But when those in charge entered he would be alone and apparently asleep.

One day they listened, being quite sure that no one was with the child, and they overheard this strange monologue:

"Is you rite there, mamma?"

"Yes, my little boy, I is rite here."

"Was you went away yet?"

"I wented back to heaven to tell God about my little boy."

"Did you was afraid, mamma?"

"No, my own little boy, 'cause God is nicer'n people."

"Did you told him about me, mamma?"

"I told Him I had a little boy named Harry—an'—an'——"

There was a loud noise of sobbing then, and the listeners without cried, too. Presently the child's voice resumed:

"Did you told God to let me come up there, mamma?"

"Yes, my boy, an' He said 'bimeby, bimeby.'"

"Mamma, I'se—so—tired—an'—sleepy—an'—I want to come an' stay with—you—an'—God."

There was a long silence then, broken by no cry or sob. The listeners went in after resolving in their hearts to be thereafter very patient with the motherless one.

But death had been kinder than they.
—Detroit Free Press.

The introduction of photo-lithographic presses is likely to revolutionize the Chinese book trade. Two firms at Shanghai—one English and one native—now issue the Celestial classics at a price that causes each individual pig tail to stand on end with delight.

December, 1880, wrote O. L. Hathaway, Fall River, Mass., "Was greatly afflicted with rheumatism: tried St. Jacobs Oil; all pain left me." October 19, 1886, he writes: "Have not been troubled with rheumatism since."

The sole surviving representative of the revolutionary war is Abigail S. Tilton, of North Woodbridge, N. H. Mrs. Tilton is now a trifle more than one hundred years old. Her husband, Benjamin Stevens, participated in the battle of Bennington.

James McEllen, Port Huron, Mich., writes: "Had severe pains in side. After taking Red Star Cough Cure the pains ceased entirely." Price twenty-five cents. At druggists.

Bishop William Taylor, whose self-supporting missions on the Congo attract great and widespread attention, is a splendid looking man, with piercing eyes and a very bright countenance. His beard is of silky texture, and is long and spreading and of pure white.

Woman's Face.

"What furniture can give such finish to a room, as a tender woman's face?" asks George Elliott. Not any, we are happy to answer, provided the glow of health tempers the tender expression. The pale, anxious, bloodless face of the consumptive, or the evident sufferings of the dyspeptic, induce feelings of sorrow and grief on our part and compel us to tell them of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the sovereign remedy for consumption and other diseases of the respiratory system, as well as dyspepsia and other digestive troubles. Sold everywhere.

People who tell big yarns ought to be compelled to take out a special lie-cense.

In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption, and Wasting in Children, Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. Please read: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man whom Physicians at times gave up hope. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, gained flesh and strength, and from all appearances his life will be prolonged many years."—John Sullivan, Hospital Steward, Morganza, Pa.

There is one consistent thing about a bachelor.—He rips what he sews.

Best Goods are Put in Smallest Parcels.

The old proverb is certainly true in the case of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are little sugar-wrapped parcels, scarcely larger than mustard seeds, containing as much cathartic power as is done up in the biggest, most repulsive-looking pill. Unlike the big pills, however, they are mild and pleasant in their operation—do not produce griping pains, nor render the bowels costive after using.

It is time for a man to swear off when he mistakes a lamp post for a perpendicular bed.

Important to All

Who are willing to work for the reward of success. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will mail you, free, full particulars about work that either sex, young or old, can do, at a profit of from $5 to $25 per day, and live at home, wherever they are located. All can do the work. Capital not required; Hallett & Co. will start you. Grand success absolutely sure. Write at once and see.

Food makes Blood and Blood makes Beauty. Improper digestion of food necessarily produces bad blood, resulting in a feeling of fullness in the stomach, acidity, heartburn, sick headache, and other dyspeptic symptoms. A closely confined life causes indigestion, constipation, biliousness and loss of appetite. To remove these troubles there is no remedy equal to Prickly Ash Bitters. It has been tried and proven to be a specific.

A City of Beautiful Women.

Detroit, Mich., is noted for its healthy, handsome ladies, which the leading physicians and druggists there attribute to the general use and popularity of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

If you feel as though water was gathering around the heart (heart-dropsy) or have heart-rheumatism, palpitation of the heart with suffocation, sympathetic heart trouble—Dr. Kilmer's Ocean-Weed regulates, corrects and cures.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is agreeable to use. It is not a liquid or a snuff. 50c.

This standard preparation has by its peculiar merit and its wonderful cures won the confidence of the people and is to-day the most popular blood purifier and spring medicine.

N. B. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

Man Wants a Tonic

When there is a lack of elastic energy in the system, shown by a sensation of languor and unrest in the morning, frequent yawning during the day and disturbed sleep at night, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters infuses unwonted energy into the enfeebled and nervous, endowing them with muscular energy, an ability to repose healthfully and digest without inconvenience. Nervousness, headache, biliousness, impaired appetite and a feeble, troublesome stomach, are all and speedily set right by this matchless regulator and invigorant. The mineral poisons, among them strychnia and nux vomica, are never safe tonics, even in infinitesimal doses. The Bitters answers the purpose more effectually, and can be relied upon as perfectly safe by the most prudent. Fever and ague, kidney troubles and rheumatism yield to it.

A Rochester baby has two tongues. Of course it is a girl.

Delicate diseases of either sex, however induced, radically cured. Address, with 10 cents in stamps for book, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The general impression is that Tennyson's last ode is decidedly odelous.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO BENSON'S Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the Chest and all Aches and Strains. CAPCINE PLASTER Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for Benson's and take no other. THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

DR. KILMER'S OCEAN-WEED HEART REMEDY. Price $1.00 6 for $5.00

One of every five we meet has some form of Heart Disease, and is in constant danger of Apoplexy, Shock or Sudden Death! This Remedy regulates, relieves, corrects and cures. ☞ Prepared at Dr. Kilmer's Dispensary, Binghamton, N. Y. Letters of inquiry answered. Guide to Health (Sent Free). Sold by Druggists.

MARRY! The Correspondent, an 8-page paper, devoted to marriage, contains about 500 requests in each issue for correspondents. No charge for advertising. Mailed 4 months for 10c. silver. Address, The Correspondent, Cincinnati, O.

ARKANSAS MILD CLIMATE! Good Lands! Variety of PRODUCTS! LOW PRICES! EASY TERMS! MAPS AND CIRCULARS FREE. THOS. ESSEX, Land Com'r, Little Rock, Ark.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

ELY'S CREAM BALM I was cured before the second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm was exhausted. I was troubled with chronic catarrh, gathering in head, difficulty in breathing and discharges from my ears.—C. J. Corbin, 923 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. CATARRH HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cts. Circulars free. ELY BROS., Druggists, Owego, N. Y.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

FOR HORSES.

UVILLA, W. Va., Nov. 17, 1886.

Recently I bought a young horse. He was taken very ill with Pneumonia. I tried to think of something to relieve him. Concluded what was good for man would be good for the horse. So I got a bottle of Piso's Cure and gave him half of it through the nostrils. This helped him, and I continued giving same doses night and morning until I had used two bottles. The horse has become perfectly sound. I can recommend Piso's Cure for the horse as well as for man.

N. S. J. STRIDER.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

293 COLUMBUS Combined MANURE SPREADERS & FARM WAGONS sold the first year. The cheapest Spreader out and the only kind that can be attached to old wagons. All are warranted. Prices mailed free. Newark Machine Co., Columbus, Ohio. Eastern Branch House, Hagerstown, Maryland.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES.

DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES. Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet. TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

$100 to $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER PACKAGES, 25c. Makes 5 gallons of a delicious sparkling temperance beverage, strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy of flavor commend it to all. Sold everywhere. TRY IT.

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D. C.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage. THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

Don't Buy Until you find out the new Improvements. WATCHES Save the middleman's PROFITS. ☞ SEND FOR CATALOGUE. J. P. STEVENS & BRO 47 Whitehall Street. Atlanta, Ga.

WHETHER YOU WANT A PIANO OR ORGAN It will pay you to write to PHILLIPS & CREW, ATLANTA, GA., For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

PILES! DR. WILLIAMS' Indian Pile Ointment will cure any case of Itching, Bleeding, Ulcerated or Protruding Piles. CURE GUARANTEED. Prepared for Piles only. [Physicians' jars by express, prepaid, $2.50.] Price per box, 50c. and $1. Sold by druggists or mailed on receipt of price by LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR, Agents, Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 33½ S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

LADY AGENTS WANTED to sell our Common-sense Bustle and Combination Skirt Bustle and Supporter. Send $1.00 for samples and agency. Address, with stamp, H. A. French & Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 406, Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 69 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

A. N. U. .... Seventeen, '87

TOWER'S FISH BRAND TRADE MARK. None genuine unless stamped with the above TRADE MARK.

SLICKER Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

Don't waste your money on a gum or rubber coat. The FISH BRAND SLICKER is absolutely water and wind proof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. Ask for the "FISH BRAND" SLICKER and take no other. If your storekeeper does not have the "FISH BRAND", send for descriptive catalogue to A. J. TOWER, 20 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG DISEASES.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE. Mrs. Mary A. McClure, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery,' and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."

LIVER DISEASE. Mrs. I. V. Webber, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I wish to say a few words in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' For five years previous to taking them I was a great sufferer; I had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am happy to say I am now well and strong, thanks to your medicines."

Chronic Diarrhea Cured.—D. Lazarre, Esq., 275 and 277 Decatur Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I used three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it has cured me of chronic diarrhea. My bowels are now regular."

GENERAL DEBILITY. Mrs. Parmelia Brundage, of 161 Lock Street, Lockport, N. Y. writes: "I was troubled with chills, nervous and general debility, with frequent sore throat, and my mouth was badly cankered. My liver was inactive, and I suffered much from dyspepsia. I am pleased to say that your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' have cured me of all these ailments and I cannot say enough in their praise. I must also say a word in reference to your 'Favorite Prescription,' as it has proven itself a most excellent medicine for weak females. It has been used in my family with excellent results."

Dyspepsia.—James L. Colby, Esq., of Yucatan, Houston Co., Minn., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion, and would eat heartily and grow poor at the same time. I experienced heartburn, sour stomach, and many other disagreeable symptoms common to that disorder. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'" INVIGORATES THE SYSTEM.

Dyspepsia.—Theresa A. Cass, of Springfield, Mo., writes: "I was troubled one year with liver complaint, dyspepsia, and sleeplessness, but your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Chills and Fever.—Rev. H. E. Mosley, Montmorenci, S. C., writes: "Last August I thought I would die with chills and fever. I took your 'Discovery' and it stopped them in a very short time."

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

INDIGESTION BOILS, BLOTCHES. Rev. F. Asbury Howell, Pastor of the M. E. Church, of Silverton, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blotches began to arise on the surface of the skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and dullness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him for such complaints, and in one week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now sound and well. The 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are the best remedy for bilious or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. My wife could not walk across the floor when she began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now she can walk quite a little ways, and do some light work."

HIP-JOINT DISEASE. Mrs. Ida M. Strong, of Ainsworth, Ind., writes: "My little boy had been troubled with hip-joint disease for two years. When he commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' he was confined to his bed, and could not be moved without suffering great pain. But now, thanks to your 'Discovery,' he is able to be up all the time, and can walk with the help of crutches. He does not suffer any pain, and can eat and sleep as well as any one. It has only been about three months since he commenced using your medicine. I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude for the benefit he has received through you."

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION. Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "Mrs. Eliza Ann Poole, wife of Leonard Poole, of Williamsburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days."

Mr. T. A. Ayres, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

It rapidly builds up the system, and increases the flesh and weight of those reduced below the usual standard of health by "wasting diseases."

Consumption.—Mrs. Edward Newton, of Harrowsmith, Ont., writes: "You will ever be praised by me for the remarkable cure in my case. I was so reduced that my friends had all given me up, and I had also been given up by two doctors. I then went to the best doctor in these parts. He told me that medicine was only a punishment in my case, and would not undertake to treat me. He said I might try Cod liver oil if I liked, as that was the only thing that could possibly have any curative power over consumption so far advanced. I tried the Cod liver oil as a last treatment, but I was so weak I could not keep it on my stomach. My husband, not feeling satisfied to give me up yet, though he had bought for me everything he saw advertised for my complaint, procured a quantity of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took only four bottles, and, to the surprise of everybody, am to-day doing my own work, and am entirely free from that terrible cough which harrassed me night and day. I have been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years, and now feel so much better that I believe, with a continuation of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I will be restored to perfect health. I would say to those who are falling a prey to that terrible disease consumption, do not do as I did, take everything else first; but take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in the early stages of the disease, and thereby save a great deal of suffering and be restored to health at once. Any person who is still in doubt, need but write me, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply, when the foregoing statement will be fully substantiated by me." GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Ulcer Cured.—Isaac E. Downs, Esq., of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y. (P. O. Box 28), writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh. After trying almost everything without success, we procured three bottles of your 'Discovery,' which healed it up perfectly." Mr. Downs continues:

Consumption and Heart Disease.—"I also wish to thank you for the remarkable cure you have effected in my case. For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Before consulting you I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. I then consulted you, and you told me you had hopes of curing me, but it would take time. I took five months' treatment in all. The first two months I was almost discouraged; could not perceive any favorable symptoms, but the third month I began to pick up in flesh and strength. I cannot now recite how, step by step, the signs and realities of returning health gradually but surely developed themselves. To-day I tip the scales at one hundred and sixty, and am well and strong." WASTED TO A SKELETON.

Our principal reliance in curing Mr. Downs' terrible disease was the "Golden Medical Discovery."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS. Joseph F. McFarland, Esq., Athens, La., writes: "My wife had frequent bleeding from the lungs before she commenced using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She has not had any since its use. For some six months she has been feeling so well that she has discontinued it."

Golden Medical Discovery is Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors,

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 6 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 [illegible]	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	23 00	28 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI.

CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1887.

NUMBER 27.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "Behind the Counter."

TEXT: "And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us, whose heart the Lord opened."—Acts xvi. 14. "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings."—Proverbs xxii., 29.

The first passage introduces to you Lydia, a Christian merchantess. Her business is to deal in purple cloths or silks. She is not a giggling nonentity, but a practical woman, not ashamed to work for her living. All the other women of Philippi and Thyatira have been forgotten; but God has made immortal in our text, Lydia, the Christian saleswoman.

The other text shows you a man with head, and hand, and heart, and foot all busy toiling on up until he gains a princely success. "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings." Great encouragement in these two passages for men and women who will be busy, but no solace for those who are waiting for good luck to show them, at the foot of the rainbow, a casket of buried gold. It is folly for anybody in this world to wait for something to turn up. It will turn down. The law of thrift is as inexorable as the law of the tides. Fortune, the magician, may wave her wand in that direction until castles and palaces come; but she will, after a while, invert the same wand, and all the splendors will vanish into thin air. There are certain styles of behavior which lead to usefulness, honor and permanent success, and there are certain styles of behavior which lead to dust, dishonor and moral default. I would like to fire the ambition of young people. I have no sympathy with those who would prepare young folks for life by whittling down their expectations. That man or woman will be worth nothing to Church or State who begins life cowed down. The business of Christianity is not to quench but to direct human ambition. Therefore it is that I come out this morning and utter words of encouragement to those who are occupied as clerks in the stores and shops and banking houses of the country. You say: "Why select one class, and talk to one specially this morning?" For the same reason that a surgeon does not open the door of a hospital and throw in a bushel of prescriptions, saying: "Come, now, and get your medicine." He first feels the pulse, watches the symptoms, and then prescribes for that particular case. So to-day I must be specific. The people in this audience who are clerks are not an exceptional class. They belong to a great company of tens of thousands who are, in this country, amid circumstances which will either make or break them for time and for eternity. I should be very slow to acknowledge that the clerks, male and female, of other cities, are any more honest or faithful than the clerks of our own city. Many of these people have already achieved a Christian manliness and a Christian womanliness which will be their passport to any position. I have seen their trials. I have watched their perplexities. There are evils abroad which need to be hunted down, and dragged out into the noonday light.

In the first place, I counsel clerks to remember that for the most part their clerkship is only a school from which they are to be graduated. It takes about eight years to get one of the learned professions. It takes about eight years to get to be a merchant. Some of you will be clerks all your lives, but the vast majority of you are only in a transient position. After a while, some December day, the head men of the firm will call you into the back office, and they will say to you: "Now you have done well by us; we are going to do well by you. We invite you to have an interest in our concern." You will bow to that offer very gracefully. Getting into a street car going home, an old comrade will meet you and say: "What makes you look so happy to-night?" "O," you will say, "nothing, nothing." But in a few days your name will blossom on the sign. Either in the store or bank where you are now, or in some other store or bank, you will take a higher position than that which you now occupy. So I feel to-day that I am standing before people who will yet have their hand on the helm of the world's commerce, and you will turn it this way or that; now clerks but to be bankers, importers, insurance company directors, shippers, contractors, superintendents of railroads—your voice mighty 'on 'Change'—standing foremost in the great financial and religious enterprises of the day. For though we welcome in the professions many, on the platform, plead for the philanthropies, after all the merchants must come forth with their millions to [illegible] the movement. Be, therefore, present and diligent in this transient position. You are now where you can learn things you can never learn in any other place. What you consider your disadvantages are your grand opportunity. You see an affluent father some day come down on a prominent street with his son, who has just graduated from the University and established him in business, putting one hundred thousand dollars of capital in the store. Well, you are envious. You say: "Oh, if I only had a chance like that young man! if I only had a father to put one hundred thousand dollars in a business for me, then I would have some chance in the world." Be not envious. You have advantages over that young man which he has not over you. As well might I come down to the docks when a vessel is about to sail for Valparaiso, and say: "Let me pilot this ship out of the Narrows." Why, I would sink crew and cargo before I got out of the harbor, simply because I know nothing about pilotage. Wealthy sea captains put their sons before the mast for the reason that they know that it is the only place where they can learn to be successful sailors. It is only under drill that people get to understand pilotage and navigation, and I want you to understand that it takes no more skill to conduct a vessel out of the harbor and across the sea, than to steer a commercial establishment clear of the rocks. You see every day the folly of people going into a business they know nothing about. A man makes a fortune in one business; thinks there is another occupation more comfortable; goes into it and sinks all. Many of the commercial establishments of our cities are giving to their clerks a mercantile education as thorough as Yale, or Harvard or Princeton are giving scientific attainment to the students matriculated. The reason so many men are foundering in business from year to year, is because their early mercantile education was neglected. Ask those men high in commercial circles, and they will tell you they thank God for this severe discipline of their early clerkship. You are being afflicted to endure the wilderness march [illegible] to end in the vineyards and orchards of the promised land. But you say: "Will the women clerks in our stores have promotion?" Yes. Time is coming when women will be as well paid for their toil in [illegible] as men are now paid for their toil. Time is coming when a woman will be allowed to do anything she can do well. It is only a little while ago when women knew nothing of telegraphy, and they were kept out of a great many commercial circles where they are now welcome; and the time will soon come until the woman who at one counter in a store sells ten thousand dollars' worth of goods in a year, will get as high a salary as the man who at the other counter of the same store sells ten thousand dollars' worth of goods. All honor to Lydia, the Christian saleswoman. And in passing, I may as well say that you merchants who have female clerks in your stores ought to treat them with great courtesy and kindness. When they are not positively engaged, let them sit down. In England and the United States physicians have protested against the habit of compelling the womanly clerks in the stores to stand when it was not necessary for them to stand. Therefore, I add to the protest of physicians the protest of the Christian Church, and in the name of good health, and that God who has made the womanly constitution more delicate than man's, I demand that you let her sit down.

The second counsel I have to give to the clerks who are here to-day, is that you seek out what are the lawful regulations of your establishment, and then submit to them. Every well ordered house has its usages. In military life, on ship's deck, in commercial life, there must be order and discipline. Those people who do not learn how to obey will never know how to command. I will tell you what young man will reach ruin, financial and moral; it is the young man who thrusts his tumb into his vest and says: "Nobody will dictate to me, I am my own master; I will not submit to the regulations of this house." Between an establishment in which all the employes are under thorough discipline and the establishment in which the employes do about as they choose, is the difference between success and failure—between rapid accumulation and utter bankruptcy. Do not come to the store ten minutes after the time. Do not think anything too insignificant to do well. Do not say: "It's only just once." From the most important transaction in commerce down to the particular style in which you tie a string around a bundle, obey orders. Do not get easily disgusted. While others in the store may lounge, or fret, or complain, you go with ready hands, and cheerful face, and contented spirit to your work. When the bugle sounds, the good soldier asks no questions, but shoulders his knapsack, fills his canteen and listens for the command of "March!" Do not get the idea that your interests and those of your employer are antagonistic. His success will be your honor. His embarrassment will be your dismay. Expose none of the frailties of the firm. Tell no store secrets. Do not blab. Rebuff those persons who come to find out from clerks what ought never be known outside the store. Do not be among those young men who take on a mysterious air when something is said against the firm that employs them, as much as to say: "I could tell you some things if I would, but I won't." Do not be among those who imagine they can build themselves up by pulling somebody else down. Be not ashamed to be a subaltern.

Again I counsel clerks in this house to search out what are the unlawful and dishonest demands of an establishment, and resist them. In the six thousand years that have passed, there has never been an occasion when it was one's duty to sin against God. It is never right to do wrong. If the head men of the firm expect of you dishonesty, disappoint them. "O," you say, "I should lose my place then." Better lose your place than lose your soul. But you will not lose your place. Christian heroism is always honored. You go to the head man of your store, and say: "Sir, I want to serve you; I want to oblige you; it is from no lack of industry on my part, but this thing seems to me to be wrong, and it is a sin against my conscience, it is a sin against God, and I beg you, sir, to excuse me." He may flush up and swear, but he will cool down, and he will have more admiration for you than for those who submit to his evil dictation; and while they sink, you will rise. Do not, because of seeming temporary advantage, give up your character, young man. Under God, that is the only thing you have to build on. Give up that, you give up everything. That employer asks a young man to hurt himself for time and for eternity, who expects him to make a wrong entry, or change an invoice, or say goods cost so much when they cost less; or impose upon the verdancy of a customer, or misrepresent a style of fabric. How dare he demand of you anything so insolent!

There is one style of temptation that comes on a great many of our clerks, and that is upon those who are engaged in what is called "drumming." Now, that occupation is just as honorable as any other, if it be conducted in accord with one's conscience. In this day, when there are so many rivalries in business, all our commercial establishments ought to have men abroad who are seeking out opportunities of merchandise. There can be no objection to that. But there are professed Christian merchants in the week-night prayer meeting who have clerks abroad in New York, conducting merchants of Cincinnati, and Chicago, and St. Louis, through the debaucheries of the great town, in order to secure their custom for the store. There are in stores in New York and Brooklyn, drawers in which there are kept moneys which the clerks are to go to and get whatever they want to conduct these people through the dissipations of the city. The head men of the firm wink at it, and in some places actually demand it—professed Christian merchants. One would think that the prayer would freeze on their lips, and they would fall back dead at the sound of their own song. What chance is there for young men when commercial establishments expect such things of them? Among all things infernal I pronounce that the most damnable. Young man, how will that firm treat you when you are utterly despoiled, and dragged out with sin, going through the haunts of iniquity for the purpose of getting customers for their store? How will they treat you? O, they will give you a pension! They will build you a fine house! They will get you a horse and carriage! Will they? No. Some day you will go to the store, shabby, intoxicated, worn out in their service and they will say: "John, you are a disgrace to our house. Now, just look at yourself. "Accountant, how much do we owe this man?" "A dollar and thirty cents." "Well, now, here—here it is; a dollar and thirty cents. Go off. Don't hang around the store." Magnanimity superb! They stole the lustre from his eye, and the color from his cheek, and the honor from his soul, and then they kicked him out. If such professed Christian merchants do not go straight to hell, I don't know any use of having such a place. Oh, young men, disappoint the expectation of that firm; disappoint those customers, if these things are expected of you. You may sell an extra case of goods; you may sell an extra roll of silk; but the trouble is, you may have to throw your soul to boot in the bargain.

Again: I counsel all clerks to conquer the trials of their particular position. One great trial for clerks is the inconsideration of customers. There are people who are entirely polite everywhere else, but gruff and dictatorial and contemptible when they come into a store to buy anything. There are thousands of men and women who go from store to store and price things, without any idea of purchase. They are not satisfied until every roll of goods is brought down and they have pointed out all the real or imaginary defects. They try on all kinds of kid gloves, and stretch them out of shape, and they put on all styles of cloak and walk to the mirror to see how it would look, and then they sail out of the store, saying: "I will not take it to-day;" which means: "I don't want it at all," leaving the clerk amid a wreck of ribbons, and laces, and cloths, to smooth out five hundred dollars' worth of goods—not one cent of which did that man or woman buy or expect to buy. Now I call that a dishonesty on the part of the customer. If a boy runs into a store and takes a roll of cloth off the counter and sneaks out into the street, you all join in the cry pell-mell: "Stop thief!" When I see you go into a store, not expecting to buy anything, but to price things; stealing the time of the clerk, and stealing the time of his employer, I say, too: "Stop thief!" If I were asked which class of persons most need the grace of God amid their annoyances, I would say: "Dry goods clerks." All the indignation of customers about the high prices comes on the clerk. For instance. A great war comes. The manufactories are closed. The people go off to battle. The price of goods runs up. A customer comes into a store. Goods have gone up. "How much is that worth?" "A dollar." "A dollar! Outrageous. A dollar!" Why, who is to blame for the fact that it has got to be a dollar? Does the indignation go out to the manufacturers on the banks of the Merrimac, because they have closed up? No. Does the indignation go out toward the employer, who is out at his country seat? No. It comes on the clerk. He got up the war! He levied the taxes! He put up the rents! Of course the clerk!

Then a great trial comes to clerks in the fact that they see the parsimonious side of human nature. You talk about lies behind the counter—there are just as many lies before the counter. Augustine speaks of a man who advertised that he would, on a certain occasion, tell the people what was in their hearts. A great crowd assembled, and he stepped to the front and said: "I will tell you what is in your hearts: To buy cheap and sell dear!" O, people of Brooklyn! lay not aside your urbanity when you come into a store. Treat the clerks like gentlemen and ladies—proving yourself to be a gentleman or a lady. Remember, that if the prices are high and your purse is lean, that it is no fault of the clerks. And if you have a son or a daughter amid those perplexities of commercial life, and such a one comes home all worn out, be lenient, and know that the martyr at the stake no more certainly needs the grace of God than our young people amid the seven-times heated exasperations of a clerk's life.

Then there are all the trials which come to clerks from the treatment of inconsiderate employers. There are professed Christian men in this city who have no more regard for their clerks than they have for the scales on which the sugars are weighed. A clerk is no more than so much store furniture. No consideration for their rights or their interests. Not one word of encouragement from sunrise to sunset, nor from January to December. But when anything goes wrong—a streak of dust on the counter, or a box with the cover off—thunder showers of scolding. Men imperious, capricious, cranky towards their clerks—their whole manner as much as to say: "All the interest I have in you is to see what I can get out of you."

Then there are all the trials of incompetent wages. Some of you remember when the war broke out and all merchandise went up, and merchants were made millionaires in six months by the simple rise in the value of goods. Did the clerk get advantage of that rise? Sometimes, not always. I saw estates gathered in those times, over which the curse of God has hung ever since. The cry of unpaid men and women in those stores reached the Lord of Sabaoth, and the indignation of God has been around those establishments ever since; rumbling in the carriage wheels, flashing in the chandeliers, glowing from the crimson upholstery, thundering in the long roll of the ten-pin alley. Such men may build up palaces of merchandise heaven high, but after awhile a disaster will come along, and put one hand on that pillar, and throw itself forward until down will come the whole structure, crushing the worshippers as grapes are mashed in a wine-press.

Then there are boys in establishments who are ruined—in prosperous establishments—ruined by their lack of compensation. In how many prosperous stores it has been for the past twenty years that boys were given just enough money to learn them to steal! Some were seized by the police. The vast majority of instances were not known. The head of the firm asked: "Where is George now?" "O, he isn't here any more." A lad might better starve to death on a blasted heath than take one cent from his employer. Woe be to that employer who unnecessarily puts a temptation in a boy's way. There have been great establishments in these cities building marble palaces, their owners dying worth millions, and millions, and millions, who made a vast amount of their estate out of the blood, muscles, and nerves of half-paid clerks. Such men as—well, I will not mention any name. But I mean men who have gathered up vast estates at the expense of the people who were ground under their heel. "O," say such merchants, "if you don't like it here, then go and get a better place." As much as to say: "I've got you under my grip, and I mean to hold you; you can't get any other place." O, what a contrast we see between such men and those Christian mercants of Brooklyn and New York who to-day are sympathetic with their clerks—when they pay the salary, acting in this way: "This salary that I give you is not all my interest in you. You are an immortal man; you are an immortal woman; I am interested in your present and your everlasting welfare; I want you to understand that, if I am a little higher up in this store, I am beside you in Christian sympathy." Go back forty years to Arthur Tappen's store in New York—a man whose worst enemies never questioned his honesty. Every morning, he brought all the clerks, and the accountants, and the weighers into a room for devotion. They sang. They prayed. They exhorted. On Monday morning the clerks were asked where they had attended church on the previous day, and what the sermons were about. It must have sounded strangely, that voice of praise along the streets where the devotees of mammon were counting their golden beads. You say, Arthur Tappen failed. Yes, he was unfortunate, like a great many good men; but I understand he met all his obligations before he left this world, and I know that he died in the peace of the Gospel, and that he is before the throne of God to-day—forever blessed. If that be failing, I wish that you might all fail. There are a great many young men in this city—yea, in this house—who want a word of encouragement, Christian encouragement. One smile of good cheer would be worth more to them to-morrow morning in their places of business than a present of fifty-thousand dollars ten years hence. Oh, I remember the apprehension and the tremor of entering a profession. I remember very well the man who greeted me in the ecclesiastical court with the tip ends of the long fingers of the left hand; and I remember the other man who took my hand in both of his, and said: "God bless you, my brother; you have entered a glorious profession; be faithful to God and He will see you through." Why, I feel this minute the thrill of that hand-shaking, though the man who gave me the Christian grip has been in heaven twenty-five years. There are old men to-day who can look back to forty years ago, when some one said a kind word to them. Now, old men, pay back what you got then. It is a great art for old men to be able to encourage the young. There are many young people in our cities who have come from inland counties of our own State—from the granite hills of the North, from the savannas of the South, from the prairies of the West. They are here to get their fortune. They are in boarding-houses where everybody seems to be thinking of himself. They want companionship, and they want Christian encouragement. Give it to them. My word is to all clerks in this house: Be mightier than your temptations. A Sandwish Islander used to think when he slew an enemy, all the strength of that enemy came into his own right arm. And I have to tell you that every misfortune you conquer is so much added to your moral power. With omnipotence for a lever, and the throne of God for a fulcrum, you can move earth and heaven. While there are other young men putting the cup of sin to their lips, stoop down and drink out of the fountains of God, and you will rise up strong to thresh the mountains. The ancients used to think that pearls were fallen rain drops, which, touching the surface of the sea, hardened into gems, then dropped to the bottom. I have to tell you to-day that storms of trial have showered imperishable pearl into many a young man's lap. O, young man, while you have goods to sell, remember you have a soul to save. In a hospital a Christian captain, wounded a few days before, got delirious, and in the midnight hour he sprang out on the floor of the hospital, thinking he was in the battle, crying: "Come on, boys! Forward! Charge!" Ah! he was only battling the spectres of his own brain. But it is no imaginary conflict into which I call you, young man, to-day. There are ten thousand spiritual foes that would capture you. In the name of God up and at them. After the last store has been closed, after the last bank has gone down, after the shuffle of the quick feet on the Custom House steps has stopped, after the long line of merchantmen on the sea have taken sail of flame, after Brooklyn, and New York, and London, and Vienna, have gone down in the grave where Thebes, and Babylon, and Tyre lie buried, after the great fire-bells of the Judgment-Day have tolled at the burning of a world—on that day, all the affairs of banking-houses and stores will come up for inspection. O, what an opening of account books! Side by side, the clerks and the men who employed them—the people who owned thread-and-needle stores on the same footing with the Stewarts, and the Delanos, and the Abbotts, and the Barings. Every invoice made out—all the labels of goods—all certificates of stock—all lists of prices—all private marks of the firm, now explained so everybody can understand them. All the maps of cities that were never built, but in which lots were sold. All bargains. All gougings. All snap judgments. All false entries. All adulteration of liquors with copperas and strychnine. All mixing of teas and sugars, and coffees, and syrups, with cheaper material. All embezzlements of trust funds. All swindles in coal, and iron, and oil, and silver and stocks. All Swartouts, and Huntingtons, and Ketchums. On that day, when the cities of this world are smoking in the last conflagration, the trial will go on; and down in an avalanche of destruction will go those who wronged man or woman, insulted God and defied the judgment. O, that will be a great day for you, honest Christian clerk! No getting up early; no retiring late; no walking around with weary limbs; but a mansion in which to live, and a realm of light, and love, and joy over which to hold everlasting dominion. Hoist him up from glory to glory, and from song to song, and from throne to throne; for while others go down into the sea with their gold like millstone hanging to their neck, this one shall come up the heights of amethyst and alabaster, holding in his right hand the pearl of great price in a sparkling, glittering, flaming casket.

UNIQUE PRISON GOVERNMENT.

How Discipline is Maintained in a California Prison on a Stomachical Basis.

[From the Sacramento Record.]

To those who are unacquainted with the methods of prison discipline, a visit to the branch prison at Folsom is full of interest. To see the 600 prisoners at work in and around those quarries, one wonders by what means men who are convicted of all crimes known to our laws behave so excellently and work with a degree of industry that would be creditable to any walk of life. Six hundred men unmanacled, unchained, outside of the prison walls, with nothing to indicate that they were prisoners except their striped felons' suits, working away with a will, performing an honest day's labor and apparently proud of the result of their toil, is a sight to a visitor totally unexpected. Men who never in a free state did an honest day's work—forgers, burglars, highwaymen, murderers—vie with each other to see who can do the most, and strive to and do accomplish as good work as that turned out by free skilled labor. These men are of all ages, from a youth of sixteen to men bowed down by three score years and ten—men whose sentences range from one to fifty-five years, while others have been sentenced for life. What is still more remarkable, the "lifetimers," as they are called, are said to be the most contented and best workers, and those who in a free state are lazy, indolent and averse to labor of any kind are the most reliable and industrious. The secret of all this is the fact that the quality and service of their food and the limited privileges they enjoy are dependent upon their behavior and the amount and quality of the labor they perform. The eating department of the prison is divided into three grades, and is designated by the prisoners as the "bean table," "bull beef" and "mutton chop." The dining-room for the "bean table" is fitted up with tables consisting of a single board about ten inches wide, upon which, about every three feet, is securely nailed a tin dish containing pepper and salt. The beans and other rough food are served on tin plates, and knives and forks are not provided. The food is wholesome, but it must be eaten in the most primitive style, and the prisoners are not allowed to speak to one another during meal time. All new prisoners are placed at the "bean table," and it is not until their excellent conduct and industry commends them to the management that they are promoted to the "bull beef table." Here the fare is more varied, the prisoners are seated at tables, furnished with wholesome beef, vegetables, &c. This is quite a step in advance of the "bean table," and many prisoners never get beyond it. The "mutton chop table" is the height of the prisoner's ambition. Here he is seated at a regular dining-table; he has a full complement of dishes, though all are of tin; he has a knife and fork; the table is furnished with casters; he has a mutton stew, stewed beef, meats in variety, vegetables in season, and is allowed to converse freely with his fellows. It is a distinction he is proud of, one that he has worked hard to obtain, and one that he will maintain, no matter how hard the struggle. The prisoners are treated kindly; the "mutton chop" men are shown great consideration by the officers, and from this class little or no trouble is ever experienced, for an infraction of the rules sends them back to the "bean table," from which they find it difficult to again obtain what they have lost.

My Garden Fence.

I have made the fence around the garden of woven wire and like it very much; but I have put it to use to train grapevines upon as a trellis, and I can twine the shoots as I please in the loops.

It makes a perfect garden fence and serve as a fence around the poultry yard, letting in light and air; it also protects those little plots in the lawn, where the bedding plants luxuriate, from the excursions of poultry, and it protects the young apple trees from the rabbits. (A valuable suggestion.) I have tried many remedies to prevent their gnawing young apple trees, which they prefer; but they like to nip Norway maple, beeches and lindens as well; but at last I placed the woven wire fence fastened to posts around the field, and this is a permanent safeguard. But the meshes must not be too large, as to my surprise the rabbits will force themselves through quite a small space. A two-inch mesh is too large. The washes of various kinds I have used to prevent the injury from rabbits disappeared with the first hard rain, unless one of linseed oil or petroleum, and they were injurious to the trees. A fence of good strong woven wire protected by one or two strands of buckthorn fencing will last many years, protect the orchard or garden from the pigs and poultry, act as a barrier to the fruit stealer, and be a cheap fence, too, and how nice and convenient to have some good varieties of grapevines trained along this fence, the vines being fastened to the fence by their tendrils, and when growing woven in and out with little trouble.—ISAAC HICKS.

EDITOR GRAVES of the Jacksonville (Fla., Herald went to see a slugging match the other evening as he says, "in a thoughtless and entirely casual way," but he has repented of it, and in a personal card in his paper says: "The fact that many of the best and most reputable citizens of Jacksonville were among the spectators does not justify me, in view of my church relations, for being present, I frankly repent the thoughtless error, and shall make my excuses where they are better due.

THEY COME NO MORE.

They come no more!
The little voice that lisped its morning song,
The little feet that pattered all day long,
The little hands that mine so loved to press,
The little lips whose touch was a caress,
They come no more, alas! they come no more!

They come no more!
The laughing eyes that fondly looked in mine,
The baby ways that 'round the heart-strings twine,
The curly head that nestled on my breast;
All, all have left me for a sweeter rest,
They come no more, alas! they come no more!

They come no more!
And yet, to soothe my sorrow and regret,
The feeling comes my boy is with me yet,
I know that some day, when this life is past,
Loving me still the same, with joy at last
He'll come once more, ah! yes, he'll come once more!

—George Birdseye, in Detroit Free Press.

BEYOND THE BAR.

Two American boys stood in the door of a hotel in Brittany, watching with discontented faces the low-hanging clouds, and the trees on the opposite hills bowing before a stiff northwest wind—the storm-wind of Brittany.

"The sea is too rough," said Bob, disconsolately.

"Not at all," replied Frank. "I think we can go."

"Surely, Frank, you will not attempt it. You must see that we are in for a north-western storm. It will be blowing great guns out at sea."

Robert and Frank Hewlin were members of an American family who had been spending a year in rapid travel over the face of Europe. Having been in all the celebrated cities, they were now settled for the summer in this quietest and tiniest of Breton villages, Bont Arot.

To the boys, the change from sight-seeing and life on trains was delightful. Once more they could be boys, and, as Rob said, there were a few things, such as trees and trout, which were not of the "thirteenth century." But of all the pleasures of the change, none equaled that afforded by boating.

They had not handled a sail or a row-boat since they left their New Bedford home, and therefore the Arot, filled with craft of all sizes and varieties, was to them an irresistible attraction. Their father had given them a boat, a little beauty, fresh from the docks of St. Malo; but in giving it, he had made it a condition of his gift that they should never cross the bar at the mouth of the river, unless "Joseph," an experienced sailor, was with them.

The boys had been especially anxious to try their boat, the Star, on the open sea, but Joseph had been busy with a "land job," which seemed endless to the boys. They had grown tired of waiting for him, and so wearied Mr. Hewlin with their entreaties to be allowed to go out alone, that finally he yielded a reluctant consent, with the provision that if, on reaching the harbor, they found the surf high, they would not attempt to cross the bar.

As they sailed, the grassy hills grew more and more bare, and gradually there was a change to rugged masses of granite, which at the river's mouth towered cliff on cliff high above the blue beauty of the Bay of Biscay. Drawing near the mouth, they could see the open waters, and right before them the bar, marked by a double line of white breakers. A glance sufficed to show them that the passage was impossible. "Let's land on that little beach to the right," said Rob.

They were obliged to take to their oars in order to land, and this was effected with much difficulty. Cold, wet and hungry, they rowed against wind and tide, until at last, when their arms seemed read to drop out, they came to the sandy beach. Above the beach were cliffs.

Their first care was to make a fire of the driftwood which they hastily collected, but their second thought was for the lunch-basket. They had eggs to boil, and they went vigorously to work, first having spread their wet jackets before the blaze. The edge of their appetites was keen. Seldom had a lunch tasted so good.

Rob was just beginning on his fifth doughnut—think of doughnuts in France—when they were startled by a shrill call from above them.

Turning, they saw a woman standing at the top of the nearest cliff, screaming to them with all her strength, waving her arms wildly, and pointing out to sea with gestures of despair.

They followed the direction of her hand, but saw only the waves rising and falling, only the surf beating on the bar.

Again and again the woman called and beckoned to them; again and again they looked blankly towards the horizon; then, seeing that she was not understood, she began to climb down the side of the cliff.

The boys watched her in breathless fear. Neither of them would have dared to make the perilous descent; yet on she came, sometimes on her hands and knees, sometimes swinging herself over a boulder till her feet found a resting place beneath, then on again, in what seemed reckless leaps, from rock to rock!

They ran to meet her, and reached the cliff just as the woman, torn, breathless, bleeding, staggered to its foot.

Before she could speak, they had time to see that she was a peasant woman, her dress and cap denoting her to be of the class which lives far from towns and cities. She had lost both her sabots in her journey down the cliff, but at her back still hung the coarse wicker basket used by the fish wives on that coast. She was young and strong, and on her face was a look of terror and despair such as the boys had never seen before.

In a moment she began to speak rapidly in a language which neither of the boys understood, but which they knew to be Breton, the ancient language of these curious peasant folks.

Rob shook his head, and said in French: "We do not understand Breton, but we both speak French."

The woman's face grew pale as she heard; she began even more hurriedly and excitedly to pour out some tale in the unknown tongue, asking questions, pausing for the reply which they could not make, pointing with vehemence out to sea and the storm-swept horizon. Sometimes she seemed almost frenzied, and her voice rose to a positive shriek, and then sunk again to a low wail.

They could not understand one word she said, and her wild gestures were all without meaning for them. Distress, however, does not need an interpreter, and young as the boys were, they could plainly see that some great, uncommon sorrow was driving this woman mad.

She covered her face with her hands, moaning piteously, or threw her arms high in the air; then, seeing the fright and pity on their boyish faces, she seized Frank's hand, and holding it tightly, began to pour out a long story. The utter blankness of his face made her dash him aside, and thus, catching sight of their boat drawn up on the beach, she ran swiftly to it, followed more slowly by the boys.

She tried with all her might to drag or push the boat down to the water, but, strong as she was, she could move the Star only a few inches, and after several moments of greatest effort, she turned once more to the boys, to go through a pantomine which clearly said that she begged them to help her get the boat off and out to sea.

"Well," said Frank, as the idea dawned upon him, "did you ever hear of such a thing? She actually wants us to go outside in weather like this, and every minute growing worse? No, I thank you."

"Why does she want us to go, I wonder?"

"That we shall never know; and it does not make much matter, since we would not go on any account."

"I believe I have it. She has lost her boat!"

"How could that trouble her so much?" A boat's a boat, but she goes on as if her boat were a matter of life and death?"

"It often is to these fisherfolk. They can't fish without a boat, and they can't live without fishing. I'll try to ask her."

He laid his hand on the woman's shoulder, and pointing to the boat, he said,—with some idea that she could understand French better than English,—"Bateau?" And then out to the horizon, "Bateau?"

The woman nodded; she understood him, and her hope revived in a frenzy of excitement. She pulled away at the Star, laughing and nodding, and saying, "Bateau! bateau!" with every other breath.

Rob was keenly sorry for her, and his first impulse was to go with her, but yet he was not ready to run such a tremendous risk; and then, too, his promise to his father came to his mind with such force as to be almost a warning. At the same time, he wondered what his father would say were he there? Would he not wish him to help a woman in such deep distress, even at serious risk to himself?

As he stood reflecting upon this, he was gazing out over the water. Suddenly he made a discovery.

"I see it, Frank! I see it! There! there!" and he too pointed eagerly to the spot where the woman had so often pointed.

Frank looked, and just then a wave in the far distance rose higher than its fellows, and he plainly saw a tiny speck, in shape like a boat, rise on its crest, and sink into the trough behind it.

Having once found it, the two boys, now much excited, saw it rise and fall, while the woman laughed and cried with delight, tugged at their boat, ran to them with imploring gestures, trying by every means in her power to express her wish to go after her own boat.

"No, no," said Rob, "it's too dangerous." She turned to Frank; he, too, shook his head. "We could never get over the bar."

The woman understood their faces if not their words, and, all unconscious of the struggle going on in Rob's heart, once more abandoned herself to despair. Going some little distance from them, she flung herself face-down upon the sand, fairly writhing in her sorrow.

It was too much for Rob, for he was tender-hearted.

"Come, Frank, let's go for that boat."

Frank turned pale. "Rob, you are crazy! Why should we? Do you want us to drown?"

"I don't want to drown, and I think we stand a good chance of getting over the bar, and this poor soul"—

"Yes, I see her, but we can't help her. Besides, what did you promise father!"

"I know, I know. But father always wants us to use our judgment. He would not want us to refuse any one a good service, even if there is danger in doing it. There is something mysterious in this woman's distress. I cannot refuse her."

"O Rob, don't be foolish! I won't go one step with you, that's flat! You never can get over the bar and I hope you won't be fool enough to try."

"I am going. Give us a hand with the boat."

Rousing the woman, he showed her that they wanted her help, too. She went eagerly to work. Frank could not refuse his unwilling aid, and so with the efforts of all three the boat moved over the sands, touched the water, floated free.

The woman jumped in immediately, took her seat in the stern, and sat immovable, regardless of Rob's efforts to dissuade her. Seeing that it was of no use, he finally yielded, and pale but determined, he, too, stepped in, after a last good-by to Frank, and shoved off.

He had always flattered himself that he knew how to row, but in two minutes this Breton woman showed him that there were secrets of the art of which he knew nothing.

Her quick, vigorous strokes sent the Star spinning on her course. She seemed to know, by some instinct, just how much force to spend on every stroke, so as never to pull Rob around, and thus she never lost any way. Fast and evenly fell her oars, until right ahead of them thundered the breakers.

The woman rose to her feet, and, with a gesture that bade Rob draw in his oars, began to scull. Rob could never tell how it happened; in a moment they were in the first line of breakers, and before he could collect his senses, they were past it, sweeping on to the next.

Another breathless moment, in which the world seemed to reel and dance, the air to be filled with the noise of rushing waters, and the Star had passed triumphantly over the bar and floated free in deep waters!

Pausing an instant to strain her eyes after her own boat, the woman seized a halyard and with Rob's quick assistance hoisted a sail and flung out the sheet. Away they flew—the woman, with the tiller in one hand, the sheet in the other, and Rob sat in silent admiration of the skill which kept the boat so well before the wind, yet always avoiding the break of any wave.

Frank had seen all this from the shore, and now he climbed up the cliff the better to watch the Star as she rose and fell on the waves, throwing off the water from her bows in columns of foam.

"She is an out-and-out racer. I am glad I am not in her," was what he said; but deep in his heart were feelings which no one would have envied; he would, indeed, have been a miserable boy as he sat watching the lessening sail, had it not been that in admiration for Rob's pluck all thought of himself was drowned.

"Who would have thought it of Rob? Why, the fellows always treat him as if he were part girl! I don't understand it—to go willingly over that frightful bar—when only this morning he was so afraid of it! Rob is really timid, and yet he will do a very dangerous thing if any good can come out of it; but I do risky things just for fun and because I get going and don't know they are risky till they are done, and half the time harm comes of them to some one, if not to myself."

Puzzling over these differences in people, he tired his eyes in the strain of watching the swift little Star, and the dancing speck toward which she was being steered.

Time went on and on, still the distance between them hardly seemed to lessen; it was not till the hull of the Star was lost to his sight that Frank realized how far out the woman's boat had gone. He could distinctly see when they reached it, and then he remembered, with a sudden pang, that they must cross the bar once more to get in.

"It won't be for some time yet, however. They must tack so much with this wind, I think it will be near high tide before they reach the bar."

Another hour—endless it seemed to Frank—passed before he could intelligently follow their movements, and when he could, the Star was coming shoreward with the other boat in tow.

Alone though he was, Frank sprang to his feet, and gave cheer after cheer for Rob, for the Star, for the woman even, and, tired of inactivity, busied himself in collecting driftwood to make a fire, in order to welcome the travelers with proper warmth,

"I may as well make coffee and cook. Yes, they will be hungry as well as cold," thought Frank. So leaving the shore he went some distance inland to get water from a spring, and when he returned with a pot full, what was his joy to see the Star very near at hand. His preparations were barely ended, when he saw Rob rise to lower the sail, and the woman make ready to scull.

Frank saw the boat rise boldly on the top of a breaking wave; her bow disappeared under a cataract of foam, then rose again. It was evidently easier to come in than go out; but it was dangerous enough still, all the more as behind them was the clumsy hulk for which they seemed to have ventured so much. The Star shook and trembled under the woman's powerful strokes, but she passed in safety through the second line of breakers, and once more rode in peace.

Slowly now and quietly the rowers came toward the shore. When the Star was near enough, Frank rushed into the water, and, with Rob's aid, soon had beached her above the flow of the waves.

Rob leaped out, and the woman, who had been for a moment or so stooping over the bottom of the boat, rose to her feet with a large bundle in her arms.

As she stepped ashore Frank's astonished eyes beheld the bundle—what! a sleeping baby!

Rob screamed with laughter at the sight of Frank's bewildered face.

"That is what she was so crazy about—not her boat!"

"Yes," said Rob, "the child was in it. She must have left it loosely fastened while she went shrimping, and child and boat were carried out by this wind and I couldn't make her out at all, for I did not dream of this, you know, and when we got quite up to it, there in the bottom was the baby, broad awake, and it looked up and laughed when it saw its mother."

"O Rob, Rob, how glad I am that you went! You have saved its life, I know you have!"

Impetuous Frank gave his brother a hearty hug, while the smiling mother looked as if she would like to give him another.—Youth's Companion.

A Millionaire's Mausoleum.

A. J. Drexel, the millionaire banker and the head of the firm of Drexel & Co., has built a magnificent tomb in Woodland Cemetery, West Philadelphia, by the banks of the silvery Schuylkill River. It is an imposing structure in the form of a Greek temple, with stately columns and richly carved cornices, all of the purest white Italian marble. Its roof is an imitation of the Parthenon at Athens.

The mausoleum has been built mainly with an idea of strength. Its sides are far more massive than those of a bank vault. The entrance is guarded by iron and steel doors of great thickness, studded with heavy bolts. The door of the tomb is seven feet thick. In the coffins inside are the bodies of Mae, Mr. Drexel's married daughter; of Frank, his eldest son, and of one or two others. The coffins are wonders of cost and rare workmanship. The mausoleum is always the first thing to catch the stranger's eye walking in Woodland Cemetery, near the Schuylkill. It is watched day and night by guards. Mr. Drexel is said to have well-grounded fear of grave robbers.

Old oaks and hickories overhang the Drexel tomb, and its door, through which the body of the great banker will be carried some day, faces the rising sun.—New York World.

A Curious Find.

A curious "find" has recently been made at Athens, and that is the discovery of a "staircase" in the Acropolis, says a writer in Chambers's Journal. Twenty-two steps have been uncovered within the walls of the celebrated fortress, and it is supposed that the continuation of this staircase was cut down to the rock itself of the citadel. It was thought that these steps were those by which the enemy ascended during the Persian siege; but, on further examination, they are found to be of a later date. With the exception of a few decorative lions' heads and such like, no sculptures or inscriptions were found on or around the stairs.

The Parliament of the Colony of Victoria has voted the sum of $[illegible] to be expended in prospecting for gold.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 12, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Charles Dickens (and Charles is well up on human nature) say that "the first external revelation of the dry-rot in men is a tendency to lurk and lounge; to be on street corners without intelligible reason." If this be so, a good many young fellows in all of our towns and cities show the first symptoms. They had better get rid of them by not lounging where there is nothing for them to do. The worst of it is that the dry-rot is often a step in the road to wet-rot, or the too free use of whiskey. Do not loaf.

It was to be expected that some one or more of the county officials would object to the suggestion of the VIEW that a report of the condition of the county treasury be made public through the press. Yet if there is nothing wrong about the financial condition of the county, it is not very plain why anyone should object. It is our province and an important part of our work to keep the tax-payers informed of public affairs, and objections from no source can deter us in the work. We will tell all that we can learn though it be little. The county commissioners may be clever gentlemen personally. It is only their official acts that are said to be questionable.

Another County Heard From.

T. M. Brunson, late tax collector of Sumter county, Alabama, has been removed from office, and the State Examiner of Public Accounts has just reported him $12,000 behind in his accounts with the State and county. The county treasurer is also reported behind in his accounts to the amount of several thousand dollars. This is not at all surprising. Sumter county commissioners have neglected to publish semi-annual reports of county finances as the law directs, their reason for such neglect probably being that the majority of the county officers did not want such a report published. They have now learned that they have been duped into pursuing a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy for the benefit of a few county officers and at the expense of the tax-payers of the county. How long before Chilton will be again heard from in some such manner? She has been heard from more than once in the past.

The Size of It.

Some of the county officers don't like the way we have been talking about the "rottenness in Denmark" in reference to the county finances. Some of them have spoken to us about it and of course they think it is through self-interest that we continue to call for the publication of a treasurer's report. Well, the fact is, we would like to publish it for the money there is in it, though it is precious little. We want all the law gives us, and if by any manœuvres of the court of county commissioners or any one of them, or of any one else, we are prevented from publishing a semi-annual report of the county Treasurer, as the law requires, it is simply swindling us out of that much as well as keeping the tax-payers in the dark about an important matter, and we will continue to "raise sand" until we get the report to publish, or its equivalent in "sand;" which helps us to fill up when news is scarce.

It is not only beating us out of what the law justly allows us, but it is also a violation of the law which lays the responsible parties liable to indictment; and a grand jury with the proper amount of backbone will find an indictment in such case, as has been done in several counties in the State.

The VIEW is published in the interest of its proprietors and the citizens of the county, and is the organ of no sect or political ring and is constitutionally opposed to all such. If the law did not provided for the publication of a treasurer's report twice a year we would publish it as a matter of information to all tax-payers and interested citizens who are desirous of knowing the condition of the county finances occasionally. But as the law requires its publication and also provides for paying for it, it should be published, or else the parties responsible for the violation of the law, in not having it published, should be punished according to their deserts.

Henry Watterson can be very amusing when he forgets the "Money Devil" and "the Devilfish Corporation" long enough to get his wits together. In proof of this, we make the following extract from his speech defore the democratic convention at Louisville the other day:

Fellow democrats, we have stumbled upon times which, if they do not try men's souls are enough to nauseate dogs. Turn whichever way you will, it shall go lucky with you if you do not stick your nose in a bottle of patent medicine prepared for the regeneration of mankind. The air is full of nostrums. There is the Protectionists Wonderful Iron Tonic for making men rich by taxation. There is the Mugwumps' Civil Service Elixer for purifying the system and perpetuating liberty by the erection of an aristocracy of office on the ruins of representative government. There is Fraud's Own Pauper Patriotic Liniment, which proposes to exterminate vagabondage by making every tramp a pensioner, and which we should have actually had administered to us but for a fly which Grover Cleveland dropped into the first box of ointment submitted to his inspection. There is that delicious Sugar Coated Double Compound Educational capsule, which is to be given to every little nigger in the land before he goes to bed, and when he gets up in the morning he shall come forth a scholar and a gentleman. And then there is the Universal Renovator and Social, Moral and Political Cureall—the Teetotal Prohibition Porus Plaster—which will stick to you like a brother, and which is expected to convert every drinking saloon into a temple of worship and to repeople the world with a new race of red-nosed angels.

"The Enemies He Has Made."

Chicago News, Ind.]

If the sober, intelligent, industrious voters of the United States could only have been present at Uhlich's Hall on Tuesday, when Mr. King introduced a resolution indorsing Mr. Cleveland's administration, they would have had increased reason to appreciate how fortunate the President is in his enemies. For an instant all that was vile, all that was disreputable, all that was low, sordid mean and and despicable in the Democratic party in Chicago lifted its reeking voice in hideous protest. The ear of decency was shocked with the profanity and obscenity of the adherents and camp-followers of the Harrison-McDonald gang. But the howl of opposition, so full of disappointed rage and malignant hatred, paid its own tribute the highest at the command of such a mob—the tribute of his same old enemies to the President. The significance of the gang's disapproving yell at the mention of Cleveland's administration will be interpreted aright throughout Chicago and the West. It means that he has refused to place the Federal patronage at the disposal of the vicious elements of his party. He has courageously accepted the enmity of the "gang" rather than win its support by truckling to its wishes or pandering to its desires. Right here in Chicago Mr. Cleveland has won the respect of all right thinking voters, Republican or Democratic, by the local enemies he has made. May he continue to merit their hatred.

Birmingham will establish an iron safe factory. The capital comes from New Orleans and from Hall's Safe Company.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sep11 3

Valuable Real Estate

FOR SALE.

—:o:—

A new five room residence at the hot well.

A seven room residence situated on a beautiful corner lot in town.

One hundred and twenty-five acres of land with a good 5 room residence, good water. Only four miles from town over good road.

Apply to W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Real Estate Agents, Clanton, Ala.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Tax Sale.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
CHILTON COUNTY. } TO

Harrison Foshee, French Nabors, Thos. Peters, John Attaway, D. T. Blakey, M. Benjamin, R. A. Warner, W. L. Witworth, J. E. Butler, R. R. Carathers, G. L. Zimmerman and Unknown Owners:

Under and by virtue of decrees rendered at the regular term of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 9th day of May, 1887, by Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Alabama, I will proceed to sell in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, between the legal hours of sale, on Monday, June 13th, 1887, the following described real estate for the taxes and cost due thereon, viz:

BEAT 1.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for State and county taxes and costs, $4.86. Printer's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee $2.92.

BEAT 2.

To Harrison Foshee for the year 1886 the s w ¼ of the s e ¼ sec 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 7 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.62. Pr's fee $3.88.

To French Nabors for the year 1886 the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes costs $3.43. Pr's fee $4.55.

To Thomas Peters for the year 1886 the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $17.84. Pr's fee $6.88.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.92.

BEAT 4.

To John Attaway for the year 1886 the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $8.97. Pr's fee $4.54.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.92.

BEAT 5.

To D. T. Blakey for the year 1886 the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $7.14. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e q of n e q in sec 19 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee $2.92.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the n e ½ of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.80.

To Unknown Owner for the year 1886 the s ½ of the s e ¼ sec 15, t 20 r 15. Total assessment and charges thereon due for State and county taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee $2.92.

To G. L. Zimmerman for the year 1886, the e ½ of fractional section 25, t 22, r 16. Part of sec 27 t 22 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for State and county taxes and costs $11.52. Pr's fee $1.59.

To R. A. Warner, Agent, for the year 1886 a house and lot in Verbena. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $25.41. Pr's fee $2.44.

To W. L. Whitworth for the year 1886 the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $5.27. Pr's fee $2.50.

BEAT 8.

To J. E. Butler for the year 1886 the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33 t 20 r 11. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $4.75. Pr's fee $3.70.

To R. R. Carathers for the year 1886 the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e q of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Total assessment and charges thereon due for state and county taxes and costs $6.59. Pr's fee $5.38.

D. A. WHITE, T. C. C. C.
Clanton, May 11, '87.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Notice!

All persons trespassing on lands lying in Chilton county, belonging to the estate of Dr. Gant late of Talladega county, deceased, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. John F. Maull is my authorized agent to take care of said lands and prevent trespass on the same.

ma12-4t JOHN T. HEFLIN, Administrator.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

NOTICE NO. 6370.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Edward T. Rhodes, Homestead 12457 for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 8, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Vinson Gragg, George Mims, Joseph Gore, and James W. Knox, all of Clanton, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6297.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
April 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Alabama, on May 14, 1887, viz: Asa J. Robinson, Homestead 18106 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼, n e of s e ¼ sec 24 township 20 north, range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Thomas Roberts, John Roberts, William Klinner and William W. Green, all of Dixie, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6293.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Apr. 5, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on May 14th, 1887, viz: Abraham C. Mims, homestead 10868 for the s w ¼ of sec 24 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, Linsey W. Henly, William B. Headley, James R. Broadhead, all of Kincheen, Ala.

ap7 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Register's Sale.

State of Alabama, Chilton county. B. H. Chesnutt vs. John H. Easterling.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the April term, 1887, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, of the 7th district, northeastern chancery division of said State, in the above entitled cause, I shall proceed to sell at public outcry, at the courthouse door, in Chilton county, on the first Monday in June, 1887, between the legal hours of sale for cash, the following described real estate situated in Chilton county, to-wit: The s w ¼ of sec. 8, township 21, range 15 east.

m5-4 W. E. STEWART, Register.

Probate Notice.

State of Alabama, Chilton county. Estate of Jesse Attaway, Deceased.

Probate Court, 5th day of May, 1887.

To Elizabeth Adams, wife of Joel Adams, B. T. Attaway, Elvina Beard, wife of Eli Beard, John Attaway, E. W. Attaway, Matilda Smitherman, wife of J. P. Smitherman, Sally Campbell wife of John Campbell, Harrison Attaway, John W. Attaway and all other persons interested. Take notice that this day came J. P. Smitherman, the administrator of said estate and filed his statement, accounts and evidence for a final settlement of his administration. It is ordered that the 13th day of June, 1887, be appointed a day upon which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.

H. J. CALLEN,
ma12 Probate Judge Chilton Co.

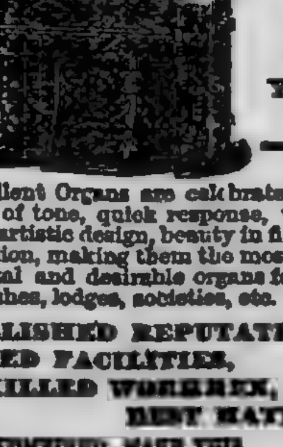
THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 60 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER. St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!

COLLINS

AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING.

PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S

Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY

Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use Dr. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.

Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC" for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.

COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun24-y

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

—:o:—

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank. of Tuscaloosa.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 12, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.

—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:37 p. m.
No. 7	4:12 p. m.
No. 51	6:00 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	9:55 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:55 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Dr. Massey has arrived.

Mrs. H. J. Callen, who has been quite ill, is convalescent.

A wagon load of fish was sold on our streets last Friday evening.

Our probate judge has a very efficient clerk in the person of Mr. Hanks.

Be sure to attend the mite meeting Friday night at Mrs. O. A. Duke's.

Mr. T. J. Holt and wife, of Siluria, have moved to Clanton. They occupy the Randolph residence.

Rev. H. H. McNeil, Methodist Protestant minister, of Deatsville, will preach in Clanton next Sunday night.

J. H. Hunt has sold out his saw mill business to Mr. J. M. Stanfield who is now running the mill on full time.

An effort is on foot for getting up a concert to raise money for the purpose of buying an organ for the Methodist church when it is completed.

Last Friday little Lottie, daugh- er of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bell, had very severe spasm. We are glad o know that the little one has re- overed.

The supper which was to have een given by the Ladies Aid Society sometime this month, we regret to learn, has been postponed ndefinitely.

Mr. J. M. Oliver, of Dadeville Tallapoosa county is now a patient t the hot well. He is a paralytic and we hope that the use of the vater may be of great benefit to him.

The contract for building the Methodist church has been let to Mr. Jim Gallaspie, of Montgomery, or the sum of $450. Work was egun on it Monday and will now e pushed through to completion s soon as possible.

The manufacturers of Coussens' Honey of Tar, the greatest remedy in he world for coughs, colds and diseases f throat and lungs, are gentlemen of ighest standing in the business world, nd are at the head of a large establish- ent in St. Louis, for the manufacture this and other reliable remedies. For ough use Coussens' Honey of Tar.

We acknowledge the receipt of n invitation to attend the com- nencement exercises of the Hunts- ille Female College. The invita- ion cards are among the prettiest e have ever seen, and are in per- ect keeping with the excellent in- itution from which they emanate.

County Medical Society.

A meeting of the County Medi- l Society was held in this place aturday, in the office of Dr. W. E. tewart, Dr. Givhan, of Strasburg, r. H. W. Caffey, of Verbena, and rs. Duncling and Caffey, of Jemi- n, were in attendance.

We understand that a series of ite meetings will be held and the oney made at them be given to e Methodist church. The meet- gs will be held on Friday nights, d will begin with the first meet- g at Mrs. O. A. Duke's next Fri- y night. Refreshments will be ved at very moderate charges.

Sampey's Corner.

am now prepared to sell nice fresh ter to the town trade. New goods of kinds just received, and marked low wn to suit the scarcity of money. ow is the time to get a nice, summer em and get it ready for the picnic. ew hats in desirable styles at any ice from 15 cents to $1.25. Come and e the new goods even if you do not y.

From the two descriptions, one of the negro who murdered old man Abe Littlejohn and wife, near this place, and then set fire to their home burning their bodies up in it and of the one who raped a lady at Helena last week, the general opinion is that they are one and the same person. The country is still full of people on the hunt for the knavish fiend who has thus far so successfully dodged their search. A negro was captured out near Blue Creek last Saturday, by Messrs. Jno. Garner, Mose Robinson and R. Ehrman, and brought in to be identified. He proved to be the wrong man and was given his liberty. If the right one is caught it is probable that he will not last long thereafter.

Death of a Charming young Lady.

The death of Miss Bettie Falkner yesterday at Bozeman, Ala., was a shock to her numerous friends and acquaintances here. Her girlhood was spent in Montgomery, and her sweet presence and lovely christian character endeared her to all. She was a lovely and dutiful daughter, a model sister a kind neighbor, and a friend especially of the young and poor. She was the youngest daughter of Rev. Jefferson Falkner of Mountain Creek, and a sister of our fellow townsman Capt. J. M. Falkner. The family have the sympathy of our entire community in their sad bereavement.—Montgomery Star.

A Texas editor announces himself as follows: "We were born on the Texan frontier, have been reared on the broad prairie; have plowed, herded cattle, kept store, run a mill, practiced physic, lectured on phrenology, edited a newspaper and run a drug store, but we have never been whipped, and when any person undertakes it he will be pretty certain to regret it till he dies, 'plase God,' that he lives that long, as the Irishman said. We can be slandered, cursed, abused and ridiculed, but we draw the line at being whipped, even by such a renowned slugger as Hon. Barnett Gibbs."

For West Point.

The committee which met at Dadeville on Friday last to examine applicants for the West Point cadetship in this district recommended S. P. Adams, of Tuskegee, for the appointment and W. M. Brass, of Coosa, as alternate. Mr. John N. Thornton was the only applicant from Chilton, and he made a good stand against older competitors. Mr. W. H. Lawrence, of the VIEW, was a member of the examining committee.

There is no end to the amount of good work that can be done by such organizations as the Ladies' Aid Society. Already we notice a decided improvement in the appearance of the church every Sabbath, since this society has taken the matter of attending to it in hand. By giving suppers and other entertainments they could soon raise money enough to carpet the aisles and pulpit and otherwise improve the building. A new belfry would not disfigure it much.

The trial of W. H. Boyle came off before Judge Callen on Tuesday. He was tried for two offenses of carrying concealed weapons and also on a charge of using profane language in the presence of females. He was acquitted in the latter and in one of the first mentioned cases, and was granted a new trial in the other, which will probably be had next week. He is still in jail.

The Birmingham Age correspondent says there is wild excitement in Chilton, and that if the negro rapist of Helena, is caught here, the fire will be his fate. Hardly correct. We know a good many citizens who could stamp the life out of a negro rapist or even roast such a brute without getting excited in the least.

"Oft in the stilly night ere slumbers chain could bind me," the entrance to dream land was guarded by a Cerberus in the shape of piles, which made the night horrible. But that was before I found the remedy for it in Tabler's Buckeye Pile Oinment which is a never failing cure for piles. So you need look no further for a remedy if you have piles.

Notice.

Dr. A. J. Massey, Dentist, at Rockford, Ala., will visit Clanton about the 10th of May to remain ten days. Extracts teeth with comparatively no pain. Inserting teeth a specialty. All operative work complete. Those who can't come to see him while here write to him and he will go to see them.

The Legislative Halls of the beautiful Capitol at Nashville, Tennessee, are damp, and it is no wonder that Coussens' Honey of Tar is in demand among her law-givers. They want to be relieved of coughs, colds and diseases of the throat and lungs, and know that Coussens' Honey of Tar is the only permanent cure. If suffering with a cold try it.

Job printing neatly executed at this office.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered up by Our Correspondents.

Chandler's Mill.

Mrs. Todd's sisters are visiting her from Montgomery.

A party of church members chartered an ox wagon last Sunday and went to Pleasant Grove to hear Rev. Stanfield, of Clanton, deliver one of his many good sermons.

There was a Sunday school organized here Sunday. Also a day school was started with Rev. Mr. Todd as teacher. That is a good move in the right direction and we trust every parent with children of suitable age will send them to school, as Mr. Todd is an able and efficient teacher.

HUSTLER.

Dots From Concord.

A very nice rain fell on the fifth.

The oat crop, is almost a failure in this part of the county, on account of the dry weather.

Mr. R. L. Woolley and J. M. Garner, of this community visited Clanton the 9th, on business.

Miss Lucy Meredith, of Montevallo, visited the family of Mr. R. L. Woolley last Sunday.

The Sunday school of this neighborhood is expecting a pleasant time next Sunday, as they are going to have essays, and an address by Rev. Dr. Oliver, of Calera.

Quite a crowd of the people of this neighborhood went to the Meredith memorial meeting last Sunday.

May the VIEW every prosper.

PEACEFUL BOY.

Bivings, Duke & Co's Mills.

Dry weather has injured the crops in this locality very much.

The Sunday school here is flourishing, quite a number of new scholars came last Sunday evening.

Mr. L. C. McCants and family are here making a visit to Mrs. A. E. Bivings.

Mrs. J. M. Bivings and little daughter, Laura have gone to South Carolina to visit relatives in Greenville and Spartanburg.

There was service at Mount Pizgah church last Sunday.

The colored folks out here had church last Sunday night and judging from what we heard we think they had a very interesting time.

Mrs. Joe H. Marbury, of Bozeman and Mrs. Taff, of Columbus, Ga., were here last week, on a visit to their niece Mrs. Walter Gray.

A remarkable coincidence occurred last week. John Hall, a colored man working here, suddenly lost his hearing without any perceptible cause. He went to Montgomery to Dr. Dorsey, who by his skill has restored his hearing.

We see a bay horse hitched here quite often and we wonder who the rider is and what his business can be.

OLD MAID.

Stanton Puffs.

There has been one death from measles in the Clanton Ford neighborhood. A little girl; the grandaughter of Mrs. Betsy Roebuck.

Mr. Gregory, of St. Johns, Canada, spent last Monday in Stanton.

Our Methodist friends met last Sunday evening to see what could be done toward organizing a church. But little was done; there will be another meeting, at 4 p. m., on the fourth Sabbath in May, when it is expected the preacher in charge will be present.

The graveyard at Ebenezer church ought to be cleaned off and fenced in. It is in a very bad condition. Who will start in, this much needed work?

Next Sabbath there will be preaching at the Baptist church by Geo. W. Mills, pastor.

Mr. Wiley Rouse has been very sick with measles. He is now rapidly recovering and we hope to see him out again in a few days.

Have our citizens forgotten the new road? We have heard nothing of it since the order was granted.

89.

Dixie Dots.

We have had two nice showers recently, and cotton is doing nicely.

Machinery for the new saw mill of Parnell Bro's has been ordered, and they will begin building their mill very soon.

Miss Ellen Crum of Sewanee, Tenn., is on a visit to her mother at this place.

Miss Mattie Day, of Portland, Ala., is visiting Mrs. Pritchard.

Miss Virgie Smith who has been attending school at Verbena, has returned home.

We regret to learn that Mrs. J. W. Broadhead is quite ill.

Dr. C. C. O'Barr and wife, of Pelham, Ala., are in our village.

We learn that an effort is being made to organize a Methodist church at this place.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. James Stewart, at her home in this place on the 9th inst. The deceased was sick only a few hours and her death was a very unexpected blow to the bereaved family.

Mr. J. A. Stephens was so accommodating as to allow his mill pond to be drained recently, and a fine quantity of fish was captured.

Father Shannahan, of the Catholic church, Selma, was in our village last week, en route to visit Mr. Jerry Donovan, who, we are glad to hear is improving.

Numerous prisoners and witnesses from this vicinity attended U. S. Court at Montgomery last week.

J. B. Murphree & Co. have established a lumber brokerage business at Howison and report lumber trade very brisk.

Our butchers will now be able to keep the town supplied with fresh beef, mutton &c., with some to spare our neighboring villages.

B.

Verbena.

Miss Mary Tarrant, of Montgomery, who is a teacher of elocution there is visiting her mother this week, who is assistant teacher in the Academy at this place.

Mr. Tobe McLemore, our former young townsman, but now of Birmingham, is visiting relatives at this place.

Dr. Caffey, of Jemison, is visiting his father, Judge Caffey at this place.

A Mr. Batterson from above Birmingham, was here a few days ago, looking out a location for a grocery store. We think he will locate here.

We are grieved to note the death of Mrs. Sallie Merriwether, which occurred last week two miles north of this place. A few minutes before she died she said to her husband, "Tom fix my pillows so that I can die for I will soon be with Jesus."

We feel very sad to note three deaths at Mountain Creek which occurred last week. Two children of William McCanns aged ten and twelve. Also that of Miss Bettie Falkner, a daughter of Rev. Jefferson Falkner. She died camly and peacefully, and her death was an example of what a glorious thing it is to die in the Lord.

A singular thing occurred here Sunday morning. Mr. J. M. Hanlin's calf was heard making a noise in the lot. It was then seen to butt the fence down and run about one hundred yards, when it dropped dead. Upon examination its head and throat were found considerably swollen. It was supposed to have been snake bitten, but no snake could be found.

Mrs. Hood, of this place, is very ill, and has been for some time, but we hope to see her up soon.

Mrs. Wallace Glover is quite ill at Pratt Mills. Mr. Glover returned home last Saturday from an extended trip northwest selling lumber.

Mitchell Williamson, our young townsman, has accepted a situation as book keeper for S. T. Brittle in Birmingham.

NOTICE NO. 6371.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Reason L. Woolly, Homestead 13154, for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 14, township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Garner, John B. Moore, Shelby Coshatt, Joseph W. Reynolds, all of Montevallo, Ala.

mal2° J. G. HARRIS, Register.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

MOTHER'S FRIEND
MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!
SHORTENS LABOR. LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT! DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.
Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞ WATCH IT. ☜

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala
SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN. FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
☞ CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhoea, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C.H. St., Boston.
Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food.
MAKE HENS LAY
Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. It cures chicken cholera and all diseases of hens. Is worth its weight in gold. Illustrated book by mail free.
Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cents in stamps. [illegible] Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston.

SALESMEN WANTED!
To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS,
mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.
I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.
[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 257,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen, Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

Clanton Academy.
CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.
The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.
RATES OF TUITION:
Primary Department.......... $1.50
Junior " 2.50
High School " 3.50
Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.
Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.
Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.
For further information address
R. E. R. HICKS, Principal.
feb10]

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greer.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

THE MINISTERIAL CANDIDATE.

What He Would Do and Say in the Pulpit.

I was traveling up the Ohio River one day last fall on the packet Fairy. The day was very cold. A party of us were sitting around the stove in the lower cabin, while the boat landed at some little way-side stopping place to take on freight and passengers.

Presently a tall, gaunt old man, evidently a new arrival; came up, with his carpet bag in hand, which he deposited between his knees as he sat down and spread out his long knotty fingers before the door of the stove to warm them.

Casting his keen gray eyes around him as he did so, he suddenly espied the thin, cadaverous-looking young fellow, dressed all in black broadcloth, who was sitting next to me in the circle around the stove.

"Why, howdy, Lemmel!" the old man said in the heartiest way. "I hardly knowed yer. How's the folks?"

"P-pr-pr-pretty w-w-well, M-M-Mr. J-J-Johnson," replied the young man, stuttering miserably, as he submitted to the hearty hand-shaking which the old man had reached across several of us to effect.

"Finished yer schoolin' yet?" inquired he.

"Y-y-yes s-s-s-sir," replied the young man, with difficulty.

"Waal, what bizness air ye in now?" asked the old fellow, eyeing the dress of his young friend curiously.

"I-I-I-I'm st-st-st-studying for the m-m-ministry."

"Phew—ee!" exclaimed the old man, in a low whistle of intense surprise. "Waal, now, Lemmel," he said after a while, "that's about the last line uv bizness I'd 'a ver thought of attemptin' to tackle ef I'd a-been in yore place. What ever put it into yore head."

"I-I-I had a v-ve-very st-st-strong ca-ca-call, M-M-Mr. Jo-Jo-Jo-Johnson," explained the young man, with a slight flush on his pale weak face.

"You might 'a had a dozen calls," returned the old man, dryly. "But ef I a-been you I'd be switched ef I'd 'a come."

An "audible smile" ran around the circle at the old man's wit, which he, however, never noticed. His young friend made no response to his last suggestion, while he continued in a dry anxious tone:

"It beats me, Lemmel, to know how you 'low, even concedin' the call, to get through with the rest of the bizness."

"Th-the L-L-ord will p-p-put the w-w-words into m-my m-m-mouth," gasped the poor young fellow, stuttering worse than ever under the keen gray eyes of the old man.

"He'll have to do more 'an that, sonny," said the old man pityingly. "After He put's 'em thar, blamed ef He won't hev to send somebody else along to pull 'em out."

The ministerial candidate retired to his state-room, and was seen no more.—Harper's Magazine.

THERE recently died in Alexandria, Va., an old man who had long carried on, in a small way, the jewelry business. A commission appointed to examine into his affairs found in his dilapidated house where he had lived with his aged wife an old iron safe, and in it were $30,000 in money and over 300 in watches. The widow was entirely surprised, and so were the neighbors, who always thought the couple to be very poor.

Gratitude is the most dignified return you can lavish on your benefactor.

SNAKES IN THE BACK LOG.

THRILLING ADVENTURE BY THE FIRESIDE IN A CATSKILL HOME.

PINE HILL, N. Y.—Up here in the Catskills, where two or three thousand New Yorkers while away the summer, is an old homestead in which a farmer resides with his family. The house is quaint and old fashioned, not the least of the attractions being great yawning fireplaces, in which immense "back logs" crackle and blaze, while the kettle simmers merrily on the hob.

It is still winter at Pine Hill and vicinity, so "back logs" continue to be in great demand.

When the snow and hail were coming down lively on a recent Sunday night, and the wind was blowing no "small guns," the farmer, Matthews, replenished the fire around which his wife and rosy cheeked boys and girls were cosily gathered. As the farmer placed an immense knotty piece of wood, in which there was a deep hole, on the fire one of the children remarked:

"Hope there's no little mousies in there, dad."

That there was something in the pine knot was soon made evident by the unusual crackling and hissing, and five pairs of dilated eyes watched the hole in the wood intently, as the blaze crept closer and closer to it.

Presently there was a jumping and skurrying of the farmer and his family as a snake slowly but surely issued forth from the wood. It squirmed and jumped, and at last, by a violent effort, freed itself from the fireplace. The farmer and eldest son killed the reptile, which was found to be a young rattlesnake.

Two other small snakes of the same species also crawled out of the wood and were quickly despatched.

During the entire performance the farmer's wife stood on a chair with her skirts gathered heroically about her and shrieked lustily.

The next morning, however, according to the farmer's story, his wife pointed proudly to the snakes and said:

"We killed them all within a half hour; didn't we, William?"

Students' Pranks.

Some eighty years ago, when Dr. Dwight was president of Yale College, students were much more given to playing tricks upon their teachers than in later years.

The doctor had what at that time was considered a very handsome close carriage, of which he was exceedingly careful. Some of the students made up a scheme to draw it away the first dark night and hide it in a piece of woods about a mile and a half distant. By some means the doctor got wind of the students' intentions. Just before the time agreed upon by the young men to play their joke, the doctor went out and got into his carriage and closed the door. Presently the trick players came in high glee, caught hold of the carriage without looking inside, and trundled it away at a rapid pace down hill to the piece of woods. When they had arrived at the place selected, and stopped, the old doctor quietly opened the carriage door, and stepping out said, in bland tones, "Young gentlemen, I have had a very pleasant ride. I enjoyed it exceedingly, and now I would be delighted to have you draw me back again."

The students did as requested, but not half so joyfully as when running down hill; there are some rules in this world that do not work equally well both ways.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS.

The first street railroad in America was completed in New York city in 1852.

That gout may be produced by starvation has been proved by the case of Mr. Jacques, the English faster, who developed gout on the eighteenth day of his fast.

During 1865 eleven new asteroids were detected, increasing the number known to 264. Of this total, fifty-seven have been discovered by Dr. J. Palisa of Vienna, and forty-six by Dr. Peters, of Clinton, N. Y.

In the records of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church of Philadelphia is an entry of the marriage of Mr. John Codd and Miss Mary Fish. The ceremony was performed 181 years ago by the Rev. William Sturgeon, the rector.

Stingl and Morofski have recently confirmed the fact that in the Soja Bean there exists a ferment of remarkable saccharifying power. Two-thirds of the starch is converted by this ferment into sugar, and one-third into dextrine. This discovery will, without doubt, increase greatly the importance of this bean in agriculture.

Six miles from Mackinaw, Ill., is a bit of ground eighty feet square that is always so warm that snow melts as soon as it falls upon it. It is said that when the earth there is disturbed it flashes like burning powder, and that a peculiar gas comes up from the ground, which so far has shattered every vessel in which an effort has been made to confine it.

A curiosity has been taken by a Pierce City (Mo.) man from his well. It is a living fish about one and one-half inches in length. The external markings are those of a catfish, but there are no feelers about the mouth. The little creature is almost colorless, the red blood showing the translucent flesh. It does not seem to have eyes, though it is hard to decide whether it has or not.

The wearing of a wooden hat led to the introduction of what is known as the oval lathe. A Scotchman applied for work in a large factory in England, but was denied work. As he was about to retire the owner of the factory noticed that the man wore a wooden, oval-shaped hat. On being questioned he said that being too poor to buy a hat, he had made one on a turning lathe of his own invention. An oval lathe was something new, and the manufacturer saw that the man was no ordinary mechanic. He gave him employment, brought the lathe before the public, paid him a large profit, and finally took him into partnership.

The identity of the mysterious state prisoner, who in the time of Louis XIV. was known as "The Man with the Iron Mask," has never been clearly determined; the most credited supposition, however, is that the distinguished prisoner was a Count Matthioli, a minister of Charles III., Duke of Mantua. He was secretly conveyed, wearing this mask as disguise, to the castle of Pignerol in 1679, where he remained until 1686, when he was removed to the Isle of St. Marguerite, and in 1698 his place of confinement was again changed to the Bastille. He died at the latter place in 1703. He was treated with the greatest deference, but was always closely guarded, and during all these twenty-four years he was never once seen without the mask. Contrary to the idea that would be given by the name applied to him, the mask was not an iron one. It was black and made of velvet, stiffened with whalebone and fastened behind the head with a padlock, or by steel springs.

A Museum of Crime.

The Museum of Crime, opposite the private office of Inspector Byrnes, is a shuddering horror; not so much from what is seen as from what is suggested. Speaking likenesses of shop-lifters, pick-pockets, burglars, and eminent "crooks" glare from the walls upon visitors. Sledge-hammers whose heads are filled with lead, drags, drills, sectional jimmies, masks, powder-flasks, etc., that were used in the Manhattan Bank robbery of October 27, 1878, challenge inspection in their glass cases. The rascals made away with $2,749,400 in bonds and securities, and about $15,000 in money, on that occasion; but, thanks to our unequaled detective system, did not retain all their booty. Here are samples of the mechanical skill of Gustave Kindt, alias "French Gus," a professional burglar and maker of burglars' tools, which he let out to impecunious thieves on definite percentages of their robberies. The assortment of burglarious kits, tools, keys, wax impressions, etc., is complete. The genius of Kindt and Klein, so wofully perverted, ought to have made their fortunes in legitimate fields of operation. Nat White's bogus gold brick; Mike Shanahan's eighteen-chambered pistol; counterfeit Reading Railroad scrip; the lithographic stone on which ten or twenty thousand spurious tickets of the elevated railroad were printed; stones for printing fractional currency; bogus railroad bonds used by confidence operators; the black caps and ropes of murderers; the pistols wherewith various persons were slain; the lock curiosities of Langdon W. Moore, who knew how to open combination locks through studying their emitted sounds; the box in which the same thief, known as "Charley Adams," put $216,000 in Government bonds, stolen from the Concord Bank, Massachusetts, in February, 1866, and which he first buried four feet below the surface of the Delaware River, and then dug up and surrendered when under arrest; the pipes, pea-nut oil, lamps, liquid raw opium, and pills used for smoking in opium joints—are all here.—Harper's Magazine.

Chinese Mind-Readers.

Mind Reading or "Bishopism" is called by the Chinese in China "Lew Jee," or "Flowing Knowledge," says Wong Chin Foo in the New York World.

There is one of these living in the city of Canton, China, who beats Messrs. Bishop and Montague, of Boston, America, by at least ten points. This "Flowing Knowledger" of the Flowery Kingdom not only reads the thoughts and detects the actions of his patients who come to see him, but could go so far as to be able to tell who was to be his next caller, giving the day and the hour, and even to the very cent that the caller would have in his pocket and the exact portion that he (the Lew Jee) was to get out of it.

But unlike his American compatriots his knowledge only extends to thirty-six patients daily, that being the limit of his power on each day. It is also very singular that such knowledge begins to flow at 10 A. M., and falls at about 4 P. M., regularly for the past two years.

The Chinese say that in order to obtain such wonderful foresights a man must be in silent prayers to the gods for the period of thirty-six years; a bowl of rice and water each day to encourage him. At the end of his prayers, just before the setting sun dwindles down into temporary oblivion, cut off the head of a ten-year-old boy with a sacred sword, under the drooping bows of a weeping willow, then swear at the bleeding head of a chicken that he would never tell a lie.

EVERY FACULTY SUSPENDED.

Singular Case of Loss of Identity and Mysterious Restoration.

NORRISTOWN, PA.—A most remarkable case of loss of identity, recalling the story of Griffith Gaunt, is agitating society circles here. Surgeon-General L. W. Read was called in, and says the case is the most peculiar in his wide range of experience.

Six weeks ago a strange gentleman of good address came here and rented a store on East Main street. He divided the room into two apartments by means of curtains. The rear he furnished and occupied as a living room; the front he stocked with notions and toys and did a modest but successful business. The family from whom he rented the store came in daily contact with their tenant, but neither they nor any of his patrons ever noticed anything peculiar in his manner or habits. He visited Philadelphia several times, replenished his stock and conducted his business carefully.

No mental obliquity was noticed until yesterday morning, when he knocked at the door leading from the store to the dwelling part of the building. Mrs. Earl, who answered the knock, was surprised to hear him ask "Where am I?" She tried to convince him of his whereabouts, but failing her husband came to her assistance. To him the tenant made the following statement: "I awoke about four o'clock this morning after dreaming that I was buying and selling merchandise. I discovered that I was in a store, and was seized with the fear that I would be arrested as a burglar. Now I want to know where I am." He could not be made to believe that he was in Norristown, or that he visited Philadelphia recently. He only answered: "I was in Philadelphia twenty-eight years ago, but not since that time."

Dr. Read was then summoned, and to him the stranger made the following statement: "Doctor, I have just awakened from a confused dream. I am informed that I am in Norristown, Pennsylvania, and that this is the 14th of March. If this is true the past two months have been an entire blank to me. Yesterday I left my home in Coventry, Rhode Island. But that was the morning of January 18. I drove to Green's Station on the New England Railroad, left my horse and carriage in charge of a friend, went to Providence, drew $550 from the bank, called at several places, including the store of my nephew, Andrew Harris, No. 121 Broad street, opposite the Narraganset Hotel, and left there to go to my sister's residence on Westminister Street. I have a distinct recollection of having passed the Adams Express office, corner of Dorrance and Broad streets, but have no recollection of a single event since that time. I am a minister of the Gospel, my name is Ansel Bourne and I am sixty-one years of age."

Dr. Read left him in the care of Mr. Earl's family, with instructions to partake copiously of food. He then telegraphed Andrew Harris: "Do you know Ansel Bourne? Please answer," and received the following reply: "He is my uncle. Wire me where he is and if well. Write particulars."

Mr. Bourne is rapidly regaining his faculties, and is anxiously awaiting the arrival of relatives, when he will dispose of his stock of notions and toys and return home. He is a man of good address, fine appearance and an interesting talker.

Dr. Read is completely mystified thus far and will venture no opinion on the case.

MRS. TILTON'S PENSION.

AN AGED CENTENARIAN, THE WIDOW OF A REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER.

The sole surviving representative of the Revolutionary War, as recognized by the government, is Abigail S. Tilton, of North Woodbridge, Rockingham County, N. H. Out of the army of persons who are entitled to pensions she is the only one who receives such as the wife of a soldier of the Revolution. Mrs. Tilton is the widow of Benjamin Stevens, who, according to the musty records of the office, participated in the battle of Bennington as a member of Captain McConnell's company, under the command of General Stark. Mrs. Tilton is now a trifle more than one hundred years old. She was married a second time in 1831, but was divorced and resumed her maiden name.

Her second marriage invalidated her right to a pension as the widow of Benjamin Stevens, but the State of New Hampshire subsequently granted her an allowance of $2 a week for the remainder of her natural life. About eight years ago Congress further increased this by the addition of $16 a month, to be paid to her as a special revolutionary pension, it having been alleged that she was "houseless, homeless and childless." The old lady is represented as enjoying excellent health and in the full possession of all her mental and physical faculties. Until a year ago three other relics of Revolutionary heirs drew similar pensions through the Knoxville agency. But they have all died within the past twelve months and Mrs. Tilton is now the only link that is left connecting the government of to-day with the stormy scenes of 1776.

Something Better.

"You did not seem to welcome the attentions of Lord Lowcollar at the party last evening, Jennie," said an ambitious mother to her daughter. "What were you thinking about to ignore him for the plain young man in the toothpick shoes?"

"Lord Lowcallar is as poor as a church mouse."

"But he has a title that's something."

"I prefer money. It seems you don't know the young man in the toothpick shoes, as you call him."

"No, I don't. Who is he?"

"He is the right fielder in the Carry-all-before-'em Club."

"Oh! if that is the case, you did well. After all, a princely income is better than a title."

UNCLE SAM should postpone the Canadian war of conquest for a few years longer. If American bank deposits continue to be made in Canada, Uncle Sam can check it out of existence.

To Dislodge the Enemy,

When it takes the form of disease of the kidneys or bladder, is a task well nigh impossible of accomplishment. Renal and vesical maladies are more obstinate than any others. Counteract, therefore, the earliest indication of inactivity of the many organs with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which possesses, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diuretic. The degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond the bounds of safety. It invigorates always, never irritates. Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, are diseases successfully combated in their incipiency with this benign medicinal stimulant and tonic. Besides reinforcing and regulating the kidneys and bladder, the Bitters is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspepsia.

A Famous Detective.

James Jackson, the famous State detective, resides in Sing Sing, and is generally in attendance at the prison. His duties are to examine carefully the face of every convict as he enters, and to scrutinize every visitor in order to prevent any discharged convict from seeing his pals. Occasionally he has to make long journeys in pursuit of runaway prisoners or to identify criminals convicted in other States. He never makes a mistake; if once he looks a man in the eye he will know him under any disguise, as he tells his man by the look of his eyes. Once an escaped convict had his nose pared down one-third, but Jackson detected him at once, notwithstanding this remarkable change of feature. Mr. Jackson is about 5 feet 8 inches in height, about 35 years old, of a light and sinewy build, with black hair and piercing black eyes, and is altogether remarkably handsome. He knows about 10,000 criminals, and it is simply wonderful that he can distinguish the features of every one. On his long journeys he eats very moderately and always takes one Brandreth pill at night. When much fatigued by the jolting of the cars on his tiresome trips he uses two Allcock's Porous Plasters on the small of the back, which give him renewed vigor and quickly relieve him of all weariness. These are the only two remedies he uses, and he attributes his vigor and remarkable health to Allcock's Porous Plasters and Brandreth's Pills.—Sing Sing, N. Y., Daily Register.

A LAZY man when offered a Waterbury watch as a premium with a suit of clothes which he had purchased, declined it with the remark that he had enough of hard work to do already, without winding a Waterbury watch every twenty-four hours.

Over-Worked Women.

For "worn-out," "run down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.

A large treatise on Diseases of Women, profusely illustrated with colored plates and numerous wood-cuts, sent for 10 cents in stamps. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

It is ony the sober man who can walk the tight-rope successfuly.

Use Dr. Pierce's "Pellets" for constipation.

Judge Blodgett decides that calling a man a crank is not libelous.

If all so-called remedies have failed, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

There is a machine out for making finger-nails almond shaped.

FOOD makes Blood and Blood makes Beauty. Improper digestion of food necessarily produces bad blood, resulting in a feeling of fullness in the stomach, acidity, heartburn, sick headache, and other dyspeptic symptoms. A closely confined life causes indigestion, constipation, biliousness and loss of appetite. To remove these troubles there is no remedy equal to Prickly Ash Bitters. It has been tried and proven to be a specific.

One Cent Invested

In a postal card on which to send your address to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will, by return mail, bring you free, particulars about work that both sexes, of all ages, can do, and live at home, wherever they are located, earning thereby from $5 to $25 per day, and upwards. Some have earned over $50 in a single day. Capital not required; you are started free.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

If a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption and rest well.

In the Spring

Nearly everybody needs a good medicine. The impurities which have accumulated in the blood during the cold months must be expelled, or when the mild days come, and the effect of bracing air is lost, the body is liable to be overcome by debility or some serious disease. The remarkable success achieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the many words of praise it has received, make it worthy your confidence.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"We have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for several years, and feel proud to recommend it as an excellent spring medicine or to be used at all times as a blood purifier. For children as well as grown people we consider it the best. We set aside one bottle for our boy to take in the spring. He is nine years old and has enjoyed good health ever since we began giving it to him."—R. F. GROVER, Rochester, N. H.

That Tired Feeling

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and in an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all gone feeling, as if I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling."—G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,

Specialists for Thirteen Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage.

Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds.,

250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.

JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 69 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 28½ S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows, Pensions now, try our aid. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

WANTED TEACHERS, FOR SEPTEMBER session. Schools write for Teachers. Address Southern Teachers' Agency, Birmingham, Ala.

OPIUM and Morphine Habit cured in 10 to 30 days. Refer to 1000 patients cured in all parts. Dr. MARSH, Quincy, Mich.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

An Unlucky Number.

"Yo' hab not yet called to see me at de house," said a colored West Side belle to her Adonis, the other night.

"De trouble is, I has not got de acquaintance of your fambly," he replied.

"Come up, den, and be introduced."

"Is your fadder at home?"

"Dat am jist whar he am."

"Am dar a dog about de premises."

"Dar am not."

"What size boot does your fadder w'ar?"

"Number thirteen."

"I guess den I will defer gwine up to de parental mansion dis evenin'. Thirteen am an unlucky number."

A leading Real Estate Agent and Private Banker, Mr. Ira Brown, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I feel it my duty to say of St. Jacobs Oil that I lay on my back three months with rheumatism. I tried it, was cured, and have never been troubled since."

The population of the island of Cyprus, now under British control, is almost entirely rural, yet the number of offenses in proportion to the population is three times as great as in England, and the number of homicides ten times as large.

Mr. T. J. Murphy, 61 Debavoice Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism and found St. Jacobs Oil very efficacious."

Has your grindstone become hollowed from the grinding of small tools? Grind up the spades and shovels by holding them square across the stone at a proper level. Spades like hoes, should be ground all on one side. Paste this in your hat.

In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption, and Wasting in Children, SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. Please read: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man whom Physicians at times gave up hope. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, gained flesh and strength, and from all appearances his life will be prolonged many years."—JOHN SULLIVAN, Hospital Steward, Morganza, Pa.

Many talk the loudest against sin when they are walking arm and arm with the devil.

The Public Interested.

When manufacturers of an article are asking the public to consume their wares, it is indeed refreshing to know that they are reliably endorsed, as illustrated by the united endorsement of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic and Liver Pills by the druggists of St. Paul.

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO BENSONS

Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the Chest and all Aches and Strains.

CAPCINE

Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for BENSON'S AND TAKE NO OTHER.

PLASTER

THE BEST IN THE WORLD

HARTER'S

THE ONLY TRUE

IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

W. L. DOUGLAS

$3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN.

The best $3 Shoe in the world. Best material, stylish, perfect fit; Congress, Button or Lace; all styles toe. Equals any $5 or $6 Shoe. Costs nothing to examine them at your dealer's. I send information free how to obtain these celebrated $3 Shoes if your dealer does not keep them. W. L. DOUGLAS' $2.50 Shoe equals $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. Boys all wear W. L. Douglas' $2 Shoe. Beware of fraud. None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom of each Shoe.

SILK STITCHED BEST KID ELASTIC WARRANTED BEST KID BEST TANNERY CALF SEWED.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢

Your "Tansill's Punch" are the best 5c. cigars we ever handled. GLASCOTT & BRAND, Monroe, Wis.

We think, without doubt, that your "Tansill's Punch" are the finest 5c. cigars we have ever had. WM. L. DAVIS & CO., Druggists, Worcester, Mass.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES.

DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES.

Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet.

TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER PACKAGES, 25c. Makes 5 gallons of a delicious sparkling temperance beverage, strengthens and purifies the blood. Its purity and delicacy of flavor commend it to all. Sold everywhere. TRY IT.

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn.

Superior natural Mineral Waters, Mountain and Cave Scenery. Convenient, healthy location. Select. Cheap board. Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

SHORTHAND Writing thoroughly taught BY MAIL or personally. Situations procured all pupils when competent. Send for circular. W. G. Chaffee, Oswego, N.Y.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Apply to F. REGISTER, Att'y, 304 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa. 21 years experience. Copies of law free.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS PRICE DOLLAR

It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.

Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.

Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED!

Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents, 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

MARRY! The Correspondent, an 8-page paper, devoted to marriage, contains about 500 requests in each issue for correspondents. No charge for advertising. Mailed 4 months for 10c. silver. Address, The Correspondent, Cincinnati, O.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. U. .... Eighteen, '87

TOWER'S FISH BRAND

SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.

The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 00
2 Inches	7 00	11 00	15 00
3 Inches	10 00	13 00	20 00
4 Inches	12 00	16 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	21 00	30 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1887. NUMBER 28.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "What Books Shall We Read? What Pictures Look At?"

TEXT: "Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men; and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver."—Acts xix, 19.

Paul had been stirring up Ephesus with some lively sermons about the sins of that place. Among the more important results was the fact that the citizens brought out their bad books, and in a public place made a bonfire of them. I see the people coming out with their arms full of Ephesian literature, and tossing it into the flames. I hear an economist standing by and saying: "Stop this waste. Here are seven thousand five hundred dollar's worth of books—do you propose to burn them all up? If you don't want to read them yourselves, sell them, and let somebody else read them." "No," said the people, "if these books are not good for us, they are not good for anybody else and we shall stand and watch until the last leaf has turned to ashes. They have done us a world of harm, and they shall never do others harm." Hear the flames crackle and roar!

Well, my friends, one of the wants of the cities of this country is a great bonfire of bad books and newspapers. We have enough fuel to make a blaze 200 feet high. Many of the publishing houses would do well to throw into the blaze their entire stock of goods. Bring forth the insufferable trash, and put it into the fire, and let it be known, in the presence of God, and angels, and men, that you are going to rid your homes of the overtopping and underlying curse of profligate literature.

The printing press is the mightiest agency on earth for good and for evil. The minister of the Gospel, standing in a pulpit, has a responsible position; but I do not think it is as responsible as the position of an editor or a publisher. At what distant point of time, at what far out cycle of eternity, will cease the influence of a Henry J. Raymond, or a Horace Greeley, or a James Gordon Bennett, or a Watson Webb, or an Erastus Brooks, or a Thomas Kinsella? Take the simple statistics that our New York dailies now have a circulation of about eight hundred and fifty thousand per day, and add to it the fact that three of our weekly periodicals have an aggregate circulation of about one million, and then cipher, if you can, how far up, and how far down, and how far out, reach the influences of the American printing press. Great God! what is to be the issue of all this? I believe the Lord intends the printing press to be the means for the world's rescue and evangelization, and I think that the great last battle of the world will not be fought with swords and guns, but with types and presses—a purified and gospel literature triumphing over, trampling down and crushing out forever that which is depraved. The only way to overcome unclean literature is by scattering abroad that which is healthful. May God speed the cylinders of an honest, intelligent, aggressive, Christian printing press.

I have to tell you this morning that the greatest blessing that ever came to this nation is that of an elevated literature, and the greatest scourge has been that of unclean literature. This last has its victims in all occupations and departments. It has helped to fill insane asylums, and penitentiaries, and almshouses, and dens of shame. The bodies of this infection lie in the hospitals and in the graves, while their souls are being tossed over into a lost eternity, an avalanche of horror and despair!

The London plague was nothing to it. That counted its victims by thousands, but this modern pest has already shovelled its millions into the charnel house of the morally dead. The longest rail-train that ever ran over the Erie or Hudson tracks was not long enough or large enough to carry the beastliness and the putrefaction which have been gathered up in bad books and newspapers of this land in the last twenty years.

Now, it is amid such circumstances that I put, this morning, a question of overmastering importance to you and your families. What books and newspapers shall we read? You see I group them together. A newspaper is only a book in a swifter and more portable shape, and the same rules which will apply to book reading will apply to newspaper reading. What shall we read? Shall our minds be the receptacle of everything that an author has a mind to write? Shall there be no distinction between the tree of life and the tree of death? Shall we stoop down and drink out of the trough which the wickedness of men has filled with pollution and shame? Shall we mire in impurity, and chase fantastic will-o-the-wisps across the swamps, when we might walk in the blooming gardens of God? O no! For the sake of our present and everlasting welfare we must make an intelligent and Christian choice.

Standing, as we do, chin deep in fictitious literature, the first question that many of the young people are asking me is: "Shall we read novels?" I reply: There are novels that are pure, good, Christian, elevating to the heart and ennobling to the life. But I have still further to say that I believe that ninety-nine out of the one hundred novels in this day are baleful and destructive to the last degree. A pure work of fiction is history and poetry combined. It is a history of things around us, with the licenses and the assumed names of poetry. The world can never pay the debt which it owes to such fictitious writers as Hawthorne and McKenzie, and Landon and Hunt, and Arthur and Marion Harland, and others whose names are familiar to all. The follies of high life were never better exposed than by Miss Edgeworth. The memories of the past were never more faithfully embalmed than in the writings of Walter Scott. Cooper's novels are healthfully redolent with the breath of the seaweed, and the air of the American forest. Charles Kingsley has smitten the morbidity of the world, and led a great many to appreciate the poetry of sound health, strong muscles, and fresh air. Thackeray did a grand work in caricaturing the pretenders to gentility and high blood. Dickens has built his own monument in his books, which are an everlasting plea for the poor, and the anathema of injustice. Now, I say, books like these, read at right times, and read in right proportion with other books, cannot help but be ennobling and purifying; but alas for the loathsome and impure literature that has come upon this country in the shape of novels, like a freshet overflowing all the banks of decency and common sense! They are coming from some of the most celebrated publishing houses of the country. They are coming with recommendation of some of our religious newspapers. They lie on your centre table to curse your children, and blast with their infernal fires generations unborn. You find these books in the desk of the school miss, in the trunk of the young man, in the steamboat cabin, on the table of the hotel reception room. You see a light in your child's room late at night. You suddenly go in and say: "What are you doing?" "I am reading." "What are you reading?" "A book." You look at the book: it is a bad book. "Where did you get it?" "I borrowed it." Alas, there are always those abroad who would like to loan your son or daughter a bad book! Everywhere, everywhere an unclean literature. I charge upon it the destruction of ten thousand immortal souls, and I bid you this morning wake up to the magnitude of the theme. I shall take all the world's literature—good novels and bad, travels true and false, histories faithful and incorrect, legends beautiful and monstrous, all tracts, all chronicles, all epilogues, all family, city, State and national libraries—and pile them up in a pyramid of literature, and then I shall bring to bear upon it some grand, glorious, infallible, unmistakable Christian principles. God help me to speak with reference to my last account, and God help you to listen.

I charge you, in the first place, to stand aloof from all books that give false pictures of human life. Life is neither a tragedy nor a farce. Men are not all either knaves or heroes. Women are neither angels nor furies. And yet, if you depended upon much of the literature of the day, you would get the idea that life, instead of being something earnest, something practical, is a fitful and fantastic and extravagant thing. How poorly prepared are that young man and women for the duties of to-day who spent last night wading through brilliant passages descriptive of magnificent knavery and wickedness! The man will be looking all day long for his heroine, in the tin shop, by the forge, in the factory, in the counting-room, and he will not find her, and he will be dissatisfied. A man who gives himself up to the indiscriminate reading of novels will be nerveless, inane and a nuisance. He will be fit neither for the store, nor the shop, nor the field. A woman who gives herself up to the indiscriminate reading of novels will be unfitted for the duties of wife, mother, sister, daughter. There she is, hair disheveled, countenance vacant, cheeks pale, hands trembling, bursting into tears at midnight over the fate of some unfortunate lover; in the day-time, when she ought to be busy, staring by the half-hour at nothing; biting her finger nails into the quick. The carpet, that was plain before, will be plainer after having wandered through a romance all night long in tesselated halls of castles. And your industrious companion will be more unattractive than ever, now that you have walked in the romance through parks with plumed princesses, or lounged in the arbor with the polished desperado. Oh, these confirmed novel readers! They are unfitted for this life, which is a tremendous discipline. They know not how to go through the furnaces of trial through which they must pass, and they are unfitted for a world where everything we gain we achieve by hard, long-continuing and exhaustive work.

Again: abstain from all those books which, while they have some good things about them, have also an admixture of evil. You have read books that had two elements in them—the good and the bad. Which stuck to you? The bad! The heart of most people is like a sieve, which lets the small particles of gold fall through, but keeps the great cinders. Once in a while there is a mind like a loadstone, which, plunged amid steel and brass filings, gathers up the steel and repels the brass. But it is generally just the opposite. If you attempt to plunge through a hedge of burrs to get one blackberry, you will get more burrs than blackberries. You cannot afford to read a bad book, however good you are. You say: "The influence is insignificant." I tell you that the scratch of a pin has sometimes produced the lock-jaw. Alas, if through curiosity, as many do, you pry into an evil book, your curiosity is as dangerous as that of the man who would take a torch into a gunpowder mill merely to see whether it would blow up or not. In a menagerie in New York, a man put his arm through the bars of a black leopard's cage. The animal's hide looked so sleek, and bright, and beautiful. He just stroked it once. The monster seized him, and he drew forth a hand torn, and mangled, and bleeding. O, touch not evil, even with the faintest stroke. Though it may be glossy and beautiful, touch it not, lest you pull forth your soul torn and bleeding under the clutch of the black leopard. "But," you say, "how can I find out whether a book is good or bad without reading it?" There is always something suspicious about a bad book. I never knew an exception—something suspicious in the index or style of illustration. This venomous reptile almost always carries a warning rattle.

Again: I charge you to stand off from all those books which corrupt the imagination and inflame the passions. I do not refer now to that kind of a book which the villain has under his coat waiting for the school to get out, and then, looking both ways to see that there is no policeman around the block, offers the book to your son on his way home. I do not speak of that kind of literature, but that which evades the law and comes out in polished style, and with acute plot sounds the tocsin that rouses up all the baser passions of the soul. To-day under the nostrils of this land, there is a fetid, reeking, unwashed literature, enough to poison all the fountains of public virtue, and smite your sons and daughters as with the wing of a destroying angel, and it is time that the ministers of the Gospel blew the trumpet and rallied the forces of righteousness, all armed to the teeth, in this great battle against a depraved literature.

Again: abstain from those books which are apologetic of crime. It is a sad thing that some of the best and most beautiful bookbindery, and some of the finest rhetoric, have been brought to make sin attractive. Vice is a horrible thing any how. It is born in shame, and it dies howling in the darkness. In this world it is scourged with a whip of scorpions, but afterwards the thunders of God's wrath pursue it across a boundless desert, beating it with ruin and woe. When you come to paint carnality, do not paint it as looking from behind embroidered curtains, or through lattice of royal seraglio, but as writhing in the agonies of a city hospital.

Cursed be the books that try to make impurity decent, and crime attractive, and hypocrisy noble! Cursed be the books that swarm with libertines and desperadoes, who make the brain of the young people whirl with villainy! Ye authors who write them, ye publishers who print them, ye booksellers who distribute them, shall be cut to pieces, if not by an aroused community, then at last by the hail of Divine vengeance, which shall sweep to the lowest pit of perdition all ye murderers of souls. I tell you, though you may escape in this world, you will be ground at last under the hoof of eternal calamities, and you will be chained to the rock, and you will have the vultures of despair clawing at your soul, and those whom you have destroyed will come around to torment you, and to pour hotter coals of fury upon your head, and rejoice eternally in the outcry of your pain and the howl of your damnation. "God shall wound the hairy scalp of him that goeth on in his trespasses."

The clock strikes midnight. A fair form bends over a romance. The eyes flash fire. The breath is quick and irregular. Occasionally the color dashes into the cheek, and then dies out. The hands tremble as though a guardian spirit were trying to shake the deadly book out of the grasp. Hot tears fall. She laughs with a shrill voice that drops dead at its own sound. The sweat on her brow is the spray dashed up from the river of death. The clock strikes "four," and the rosy dawn soon after begins to look through the lattice upon the pale form that looks like a detained spectre of the night. Soon, in a madhouse, she will mistake her ringlets for curling serpents, and thrust her white hand through the bars of the prison and smite her head, rubbing it back as though to push the scalp from the skull, shrieking: "My brain! my brain!" Oh, stand off from that! Why will you go sounding your way amid the reefs and warning buoys, when there is such a vast ocean in which you may voyage, all sail set!

There is one other thing I shall say this morning before I leave you, whether you want to hear it or not. That is, that I consider the lascivious pictorial literature of the day as most tremendous for ruin. There is no one who can like good pictures better than I do. The quickest and most condensed way of impressing the public mind is by picture. What the painter does by his brush for a few favorites, the engraver does by his knife for the million. What the author accomplishes by fifty pages, the artist does by a flash. The best part of a painting that costs ten thousand dollars you may buy for ten cents. Fine paintings belong to the aristocracy of art. Engravings belong to the democracy of art. You do well to gather good pictures in your homes. Spread them before your children, after the tea-hour is past, and the evening circle is gathered. Throw them on the invalid's couch. Strew them through the rail-train to cheer the traveler on his journey. Tack them on the wall of the nursery. Gather them in albums and portfolios. God speed the good pictures on their way with ministries of knowledge and mercy!

But what shall I say of the prostitution of this art to purposes of iniquity? These death-warrants of the soul are at every street corner. They smite the vision of the young man with pollution. Many a young man buying a copy has bought his eternal discomfiture. There may be enough poison in one bad picture to poison one soul, and that soul may poison ten, and ten fifty, and the fifty hundreds, and the hundreds thousands, until nothing but the measuring line of eternity can tell the height, and depth, and ghastliness, and horror of the great undoing. The work of death that the wicked author does in a whole book the bad engraver may do on a half side of a pictorial. Under the guise of pure mirth, the young man buys one of these sheets. He unrolls it before his comrades amid roars of laughter, but long after the paper is gone the result may perhaps be seen in the blasted imagination of those who saw it. The queen of death holds a banquet every night, and these periodicals are the printed invitation to her guests. Alas that the fair brow of American art should be blotched with this plague-spot, and that philanthropists, bothering themselves about smaller evils, should lift up no united and vehement voice against this great calamity.

Young man! buy not this moral strychnine for your soul! Pick not up this nest of coiled adders for your pocket! Patronise no news stand that keeps them! Have your room bright with good engravings; but for these unclean pictorials have not one wall, not one bureau, not one pocket. A man is no better than the pictures he loves to look at. If your eyes are not pure, your heart cannot be. At a news stand one can guess the character of the man by the kind of pictorial he purchases. When the devil fails to get a man to read a bad book, he sometimes succeeds in getting him to look at a bad picture. When Satan goes a-fishing he does not care whether it is a long line or a short line, if he only draws his victim in. Beware of lascivious pictorials young man; in the name of Almight God I charge you.

If I have this morning successfully laid down any principles by which you may judge in regard to books and newspapers then I have done something which I shall not be ashamed of on the day which shall try every man's work, of what sort it is.

Cherish good books and newspapers. Beware of the bad ones. One column may save your soul; one paragraph may ruin it. Benjamin Franklin said that the reading of "Cotton Mather's Essay on Doing Good" molded his entire life. The assassin of Lord Russell declared that he was led into crime by reading one vivid romance. The consecrated John Angell James, than whom England never produced a better man, declared in his old days that he had never yet got over the evil effects of having for fifteen minutes once read a bad book. But I need not go so far off. I could come near home, and tell you of something that occurred in my college days. I could tell you of a comrade who was great hearted, noble, and generous. He was studying for an honorable profession; but he had an infidel book in his trunk, and he said to me one day: "De Witt, would you like to read it?" I answered: "Yes, I would." I took the book and read it only for a few minutes. I was really startled with what I saw there, and I handed the book back to him and said: "You had better destroy that book." No, he kept it. He read it. He re-read it. After a while he gave up religion as a myth. He gave up God as a nonenity. He gave up the Bible as a fable. He gave up the Church of Christ as a useless institution. He gave up good morals as being unnecessarily stringent. I have heard of him but twice in many years. The time before the last I heard of him, he was a confirmed inebriate. The last time I heard of him, he was coming out of an insane asylum—in body, mind and soul an awful wreck. I believe that one infidel book killed him for two worlds.

Go home to-day, and look through your library, and then, having looked through your library, look on the stand where you keep your pictorials and newspapers, and apply the Christian principles I have laid down this morning. If there is anything in your home that cannot stand the test, do not give it away, for it might spoil an immortal soul; do not sell it, for the money you get would be the price of blood; but rather kindle a fire on your kitchen hearth, or in your back yard, and then drop the poison in it, and keep stirring the blaze until from preface to appendix there shall not be a single paragraph left, and the bonfire in Brooklyn shall be as consuming as that one in the streets of Ephesus.

A Drunkard's Theory.

The St. Louis Globe thus tells the story of a drunkard: Freedom from restraint is a bad thing for a man who drinks to excess. I have been in the Washingtonian Home, at Chicago, for three months at a time, and came out feeling well, with my head clear and a strong determination not to taste liquor again. One curious thing, which I cannot explain to my own satisfaction, is that while in the home, after the first week, I seemed to have no desire for intoxicants at all, but the very next morning after I was at liberty, though I had not been near a saloon, nor been in any way brought into contact with liquor, yet the old feeling of "goneness" in the stomach, and an intense desire for something to "brace up" on returned with almost irresistible force. I wish I could account for it, for in every other respect I felt just as well as when confined in the institution. I have tried drinking coffee, have taken various specifics, and kept tobacco, gum, and different kinds of herbs and roots in my mouth, but all in vain. I cannot conquer the intense desire for liquor which has blasted my life and made my once happy home a scene of wretchedness and misery. My only safety seems to be in being locked up. When I once taste whisky or beer, then nothing can keep me from getting drunk, and sooner than go without a drink I would part with the clothes on my back. The feeling of weakness of which I spoke is regular and persistent, coming on every morning about ten o'clock, and if I am at work, or on the street, it seems as though I would faint if I did not get the stimulant. But this feeling does not exist when I know that I cannot get out to obtain it. I believe the desire is more a mental than a physical disease.

Didn't Want the Pills in Shells.

"Gi'me a postage-stamp, an' wrap it up soze I won't lose it," said a little girl to Camden drug clerk. "An' say, can't you gi'me some Easter cards and a liquorish drop? An' mother wants to know what's good for a swellin' in the ear."

"Oh, that's an everyday occurrence here," said the drug clerk, sadly, as the girl went out. "Last week that child's mother came here with a prescription for forty quinine pills, one grain each. I put 'em up in capsules, and it isn't a nice job for a busy man, either. Two days ago she came back here with the capsules in a little box and wanted me to renew the prescription.

"'Don't put the pills in these little shells,' she said, ''cause it's an awful bother to get 'em out when I want to swallow 'em.' She wanted me to throw off five cents for returning the capsules."—Philadelphia News.

NEW BEDFORD is interested over the prospect of a new industry. It is discovered that extract of whale is quite as good as beef extract, and much more economical. A whale weighing 200 tons yields 5,000 pounds of extract, and one pound of extract makes 100 pints of soup. Thus one whale will furnish 500,000 people with dinners, and 100 whales will give all the people in the United States old enough to eat soup one comfortable meal apiece, and 5,200 whales would give us a whale-soup dinner once a week. There's millions in it.

He that injures another injures himself.

PUSH AHEAD.

Up and on and do not wait
 If you've anything to do;
Never be a moment late;
 Drive ahead and push it througn.

Onward press without complaint,
 Never murmur, fret or scold;
Lingering never made a saint;
 Vacant hearts no virtue hold.

Every moment keep in play
 Nerve and faculty and grit;
Providence will haste the day
 When with honor you will sit.
 —Religious Herald.

A TROUBLESOME LANE.

That line had always been a bone of contention between Uncle Joe Allen and his neighbor on the west. When the country was new Uncle Joe and Samson Freeholder had bought adjacent farms. In some way or another they had not agreed about the matter of building the line fence. One wanted the privilege of building it in his own way, the other would not adopt that method; and so it came about that they decided to build a lane two rods wide, one-half lying one side the line and one-half on the other side. Each man put up a fence the whole length of the line, leaving that long strip of land that neither could use.

With a considerable degree of propriety the lane came to be known as "the Devil's Lane." Similar lanes may be found in certain parts of this country at the present time, although they are fast disappearing.

So the matter stood. The two men let each other severely alone after the fence was built. Each kept up the fence on his side of the Devil's Lane, never venturing to do anything toward making the land of value to himself or his neighbor.

Time brought gray hairs to those good farmers, and at length Sampson Freeholder was gathered to his fathers. Then the farm was sold to Dick Lamson, a wide-awake thorough-going young fellow who was bound to succeed in life. Everybody said so, and what all in Springfield agreed upon, who could question? Uncle Joe was not blind to the young man's sterling qualities, and so it happened that when, in the course of time, Dick came to court his handsome daughter Bess, he was very much inclined to favor his suit. It was not long before it came to be well understood that Dick was "going with Bess," and that they were going to "get married" in a few months.

Matters were in this condition when once upon a time Dick happened to get to thinking about that Devil's Lane. Then it stretched the whole width of his farm, separating him from his prospective father-in-law.

At that time the lane was well calculated to be an eyesore to any energetic farmer. It had been allowed to run to waste for many years. No one had set foot on it since the fences had been built save now and then a venturesome boy hunting rabbits, for which it furnished an excellent retreat. For it had grown up so thickly with shrubs, briars and weeds that it was the next thing to impossible for any one to force his way through it. In such a condition it was of no use to the men who owned the land. It looked to Dick like a sheer waste of property. There was a strip of land 100 rods long and a rod wide that belonged to him, and a piece of the same size which Uncle Joe ought to have under cultivation.

Was it not poor policy to allow that land to run wild in that way? So it seemed to him. He knew nothing about the circumstances under which the lane had been built and possibly thought it was only by chance.

"I'll speak to Uncle Joe about it the next time I'm over that way," was Dick's resolution; and it was not long before he had a chance to carry it into effect. The old gentleman seemed to be in very good humor the day Dick called on him, and the two men sat on the fence half an hour chatting about the crops and matters in general. Finally the young man said:

"By the way, Uncle Joe, what do you say to clearing up that land between you and me and putting a good fence on the line? That's where it belongs. The use of that land is worth something to us both."

Uncle Joe's lips closed for a moment very tightly. Then he replied:

"It's good enough for me as it is!"

Now, that meant a great deal from Uncle Joe. It meant that he had not forgotten the strife of almost half a century ago with neighbor Freeholder, and that he had no inclination now to depart from the decision he had then formed never to help build a fence on the line.

Dick was not slow to see that there was something back of the farmer's remark, and he wisely said no more about the lane.

But as fate would have it, the Legislature of the State about that time happened to recognize the fact that there were a number of devil's lanes inside its boundaries; and appreciating the fact that they were but standing monuments of man's perversity, some one introduced a bill to do away with them for ever. In case the parties in interest could not or would not agree to build a joint fence, the trustees of the township were authorized to locate the line, build a fence upon it and charge the expense to the general tax.

This Dick knew, but his steady-going neighbor did not. So that when some one happened to remark to Dick that it was about time the lane was closed up, it set the young man to thinking very earnestly.

Why should Uncle Joe persist so foolishly in maintaining that crop of bushes and briars. His farm was everywhere else a model of thrift. After a while he ventured to approach Uncle Joe again on the subject and told him, as the law then was, he didn't see but the lane would have to be done away with. But the old man was immovable. It passes all comprehension what an amount of litigation and neighborhood difficulty have grown out of so simple a matter as the construction of a line fence. Men sensible in most matters have been made enemies for life by just such a thing as that. It is my duty to chronicle the fact that, the more Dick thought about it, the more it aroused him. It was downright meanness on the old man's part to stand out in that way, according to Dick's opinion. Of course, he was an old man now and full of whims; but he ought to listen to common sense.

He finally talked it over with Bess, and, like the sensible girl she was, she sought to act as a mediator between the two men. It was not the first time a woman's heart had been crushed by the obstinacy of two men, like wheat by millstones. Uncle Joe finally told Bess never to mention the thing to him again. The fence was all right as it was and should not be disturbed. He had thought Dick Lamson "a pretty square kind of a fellow," but if that was the way he was going to act, he didn't want anything more to do with him; and, as for Bess, she needn't think she would ever get his consent to marry such an out-and-out scoundrel as he was!

Of course that put the climax on the trouble. Bess, with her lovely eyes full of tears, told her lover the old man's decision, and Dick's teeth came together hard as he listened.

So it was war, was it? Well, if that was so, he would see what the law could do.

In about ten days after that the trustees went out to the farms and very gravely struggled through the tangled lane and staked out the line. Then they served a notice on the two men that they must build a good legal fence there within thirty days. Uncle Joe looked on, and remarked that he knew what the law was and he'd try to live up to it.

Dick went to work and cut rails and drew them to the lane for the purpose of building his part of the fence; but Uncle Joe made no move in that direction. He spent much of his time in the neighborhood of the lane. He carried his gun most of the time. Now and then he brought home a rabbit for dinner. He had been, so he was fond of saying, something of a hunter in his time, and even now was counted a good shot for a man of his age.

After Dick had finished splitting rails for the fence, he had sharpened his axe, and, taking a good scythe, went down to clear the ground of brushes and briars.

He knew this would be no small task, but his arms were strong and his will good. Hardly an hour had he worked when a rifle shot rang out on the air and his strong right arm dropped to his side painfully wounded.

So severe was his injury that he could do nothing toward discovering who fired the murderous shot, and he was alone. After he had made his way to the house, the alarm was given and a crowd of men and boys turned out and hunted the lane from end to end, but in vain; no one could be found hiding there, and the deed remained a mystery.

In this way things stood for some time. Dick's arm healed slowly somehow. The bone had been injured a little, the doctor said. Dick saw Bess now and then. He could not help noticing that the poor girl's cheeks were growing paler day by day, and she seemed ready to break down whenever he came to see her. Her father was home but little now. Night and day he stood guard at the lane, a sturdy veteran on some self-imposed post of duty. He had even slept out in the bushes several times all night, coming to his meals in the morning stiff and sore from the damp, but with a determined look on his face. He was a man who never yielded what he thought was right. The thirty days given by law had passed, and the Township Trustees "allowed" to build the fence in a few days. They had watched things from a distance and knew how desperate the old man was.

About this time Dick and Bess happened to be sitting on the porch in the harvest moonlight. Uncle Joe was out on the fence probably. Neither of the young people referred to him.

As they sat thus Dick turned his eyes toward the Devil's Lane.

What was it he saw?

He sprang to his feet. Away down at the farther end of the lane a cloud of smoke curled lazily up.

As he watched, the breeze freshened a little, and a lurid glare leaned angrily skyward, sweeping the fire directly down the lane.

Some one had fired the undergrowth which crowded the lane.

It was a time of the year when everything was as dry as tinder. There had been no rain for weeks, and fire like that was a thing to be dreaded.

Where is your father, Bess?"

The girl now rose quickly, and with startled gaze looked toward the lane.

"He must be down yonder. Dick, I'm afraid—you don't suppose—"

"The bush is on fire. If your father is there he is in danger. I will go and see if I can find him."

Before the words were fairly spoken Dick had cleared the fence surrounding the farm-house, and was running swiftly toward the fire, Bess following as fast as she could.

How the flames did sweep through that thicket! It seemed to lick the crackling bushes up like leaves. If her father was there—no; she couldn't bear to think what might be his fate. The old man was tired with his watching. He might have fallen asleep down there as he had so often before.

Dick soon reached the lane and plunged into the bushes as near the fire as he dared. If Uncle Joe was behind him then nothing short of a miracle could save him. If in front, then he possibly might be rescued from death in the flames.

"Don't come in here, Bess," shouted Dick as he saw the girl about to leap into the thick growth of brushes near him. "Go farther down and look along the fence."

Poor Bess obeyed silently. How like a very giant he seemed to her as he tramped through the briars, mud and bushes, tearing his face and hands terribly, hunting for the wilful old man who had wronged him so! Now there was his right arm powerless! Did Bess know who had fired the shot that had made it so? If she did, she dutifully kept the secret.

On and on swept the flames, chasing Dick like mad demons. The lower end of the lane was in sight. That would end the search. Where was the old man? Had he missed him? Could it be he had indeed perished? Dick's heart had softened toward the old man. It was a useless quarrel. He was ashamed of his part in it. If he had know how Uncle Joe felt about it, he never would have said a word about the miserable lane.

Suddenly a low cry fell on Dick's ears. It came from the rear, where the fire was raging fiercely. Dick knew Uncle Joe had been found.

Could he reach him before it would be too late? God help him, he would try. Nerving himself for the ordeal, he rushed back through the smoke toward the spot whence the cry proceeded. Again the call came, this time full of horror.

Plunging on, his feet hot, his breath choked, and his clothing on fire in places, the young man heroically made his way.

When almost ready to drop he found Uncle Joe staggering blindly toward the place. He was fearfully burned and almost exhausted.

Seizing him with his left arm, Dick bore him out into the meadow, and placing him on the ground, rolled him over and over till the flames which were eating into his flesh were put out. Then he fell to the earth himself unconscious.

By this time Bess had reached them. Quickly she wrapped Dick in her own garments, deadening the fire, and he was saved!

Two months after that Dick and Uncle Joe, scarred and still weak, staggered toward each other and clasped hands.

"I've been a fool, or crazy, Dick!" said Uncle Joe in a choked voice. "I'm ashamed of myself. Can't you forgive me?"

"Don't take all the blame, Uncle Joe," was the young man's reply. "I've done wrong myself. I'm sorry, let's forget it, and build a fence worthy the name."

That was all that was said about the Devil's Lane. The joint fence was built, and Uncle Joe kept his part up faithfully as long as he lived. After that the two farms were thrown into one, and Dick and Bess are the happy man and wife who live on the Allen homestead.

A Dyak Climber.

The Hill Dyaks of Borneo are expert climbers. Mr. Hornaby, while collecting specimens of natural history, saw a Dyak ascend a large tapang tree, five feet in diameter at the base, straight as a ship's mast, and without the smallest limb or knot for a hundred and twenty feet up.

The man went up the tree to secure a bees' nest hanging from the under side of the lowest limb. The nest was simply a large, naked, triangular piece of white comb. A Dyak "ladder" had been put up the previous year, and reached from the ground to the branches. It consisted of seven twenty-foot bamboo poles held almost end to end alongside the trunk by sharp pegs driven into the soft wood about two feet apart. The pegs were driven first on one side of the poles and then on the other, and to them the bamboos were lashed by rattans, which held them firmly about eight inches from the tree. These pegs served as the rungs of the ladder. The builder must have been a bold man, with nerves of steel. He was obliged to let the ends of the poles overlap a few feet in order to build the ladder with safety to himself. The completion of the ladder was most difficult. Clinging to the slight bamboo pole, a hundred feet from the ground, he hauled up the last bamboo, twenty feet long, drove in the peg, lashed the lower end of the pole to it, and then ascended that bamboo to fasten it at the top.

The Dyak honey-hunter fastened to his back a basket to receive the honey. Making up his torch-wood, with which to smoke the bees out of the nest and away from himself, he ignited it, slung it by a cord from his neck, so that it would hang below his feet, and started up the slender "ladder." Hand and foot he went up, peg after peg, with a nonchalant ease which would have done credit to the most daring of sailors. Even that sailor would have been pardoned if he was a little shaky, while climbing a tall factory chimney by the lightning-rod. On reaching the lower limb, 120 feet from the ground, he took his torch in one hand, waved it to and fro, until it smoked freely, and then crawled out along the bare branch until he was in reach of the coveted nest. Examining it first on one side, and then on the other, he shouted down as cheerfully as if his climb had been nothing: "No honey!" Leaving the comb untouched, he descended, with a smile, and reached the ground without the least tremor.

Seeing and Observing.

"I never was so impressed with the difference between eyes and no eyes," wrote an English author lately, in a private letter, "as on a short journey I once made with Charles Dickens in France.

"We spent half an hour in a station house waiting for a train. As we left it he said: 'Did you see that miser sitting by the door? No doubt he has a bag full of gold buried in his garden at home. Every coin had left a crow's foot about his eyes. Did you notice the lovers? The unsuccessful rival was there, too. He was the bagman with the hooked nose. And the young mother with her baby?'

"'I saw no baby,' I said.

"'No; it was dead. But the mother was with it, though she sat there alone in the crowd.'

"Now, I had seen only an indistinguishable crowd of people. I read no history of greed, or love, or death, in their faces."

A story with a similar meaning is told of a picture exhibited in New York a year or two ago. A wealthy merchant with his wife stopped before it. It represented the tower of a church covered with wild ivy, crimsoned by the frost, and in its shadow an old Italian peasant crouching over a basket of fruit.

"What a picturesque effect!" exclaimed the millionaire. "Norman, eh? Or Italian?"

"The tower," said the artist, who happend to be present, "is opposite your own chamber-windows, and the fruit-vender is old Lise, who has been sitting there all summer."

The merchant, no doubt, appeared ridiculous in the eyes of the artist for his lack of artistic sight. Yet it is probable that if a bundle of scraps of cloth had been placed before him, his eyes would have been keen to detect differences which the artist could not see.

Every object in the world is like a letter of the alphabet, and each man's eye, with differing insight and training, spells out with these letters differing words.

Let us not be too sure that our own word is always the highest or the best; nor obtrude our method of spelling too confidently on our neighbor.—Youth's Companion.

Guest (who had been elegantly served with almost nothing)—"Now, waiter, that I have struggled through eleven courses of cut-glass, silver and air, I begin to feel hungry. Bring me some corned beef and cabbage and a glass of plain every-day water."—Tid-Bits.

THE HOUSE THAT LOVE BUILT.

Love built a house for his very own;
Not of spicy woods, not of brick and stone;
Not of polished marble, with all the rooms
Hung with fabrics from Eastern looms;
Nor of jewels held in dazzling mass;
Nor of gold or silver, or gleaming brass,
With splendor like to a looking-glass,
 Was the beautiful house that love built.

No, no indeed. But no palace fair
With this wonderful structure can compare,
Though you search from Jericho to Japan,
From Salamanca to Ispahan,
And travel many a weary mile,
You'll find, in ancient or modern style,
No building so grand as the lofty pile—
 The beautiful house that love built.

Of what was it built? Of a sigh—a glance—
A touch of the hand—a song—a dance,
A smile, or a whisper—who can tell?
As if evoked by a magic spell,
In dazzling splendor it rose and rose,
'Neath tropic sun, or mid Arctic snows,
And still in its radiant beauty grows
 The wonderful house that love built.

'Tis a palace—a temple—a holy shrine—
Fashioned according to love's design,
And set in the light of a cheerful sun—
Where two hearts enter and dwell as one.
And though, alas! on this earthly ball
Wreck and ruin must come to all,
There is no ruin so great as the fall
 Of the beautiful house that love built.
 —Josephine Pollard, in Good Cheer.

PITH AND POINT.

A swell affair—inflating a balloon.—Siftings.

It's a wise child that resembles its richest relative.—Danville Breeze.

"My heart goes out to thee," hummed the gambler, as he passed the ace of that suit under the table to his "pal."—Tid-Bits.

Lillie Cushman prints a poem entitled "Unknown is Best." But how does Lillie know what is best, if it is unknown?—Hartford Journal.

People who declare most loudly their ability to paddle their own canoe are generally the people who haven't got a canoe.—Somerville Journal.

It reads "New Maple Sugar."
 But then, it knows it lies,
For last year's date is plainly seen
 Stamped on by last year's flies.
 —Danville Breeze.

A Boston paper recently published a communication on "The Model Wife," and 2,000 Boston husbands swore next morning that they wrote it.—Albany Argus.

"Sunday is the golden clasp which binds together the volume of the week." It is also a good time, and usually accepted as such, for a man to pull off his boots and try all the corn and bunion remedies accumulated during the six preceding days.—Hartford Journal.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Ill sowers makes ill harvest.

The boughs that bear most hang lowest.

Life is half spent e'er we know what it is.

He who begins many things finishes but few.

Mortifications are often more painful than real calamities.

Men's years and their faults are always more than they are willing to own.

The silent man may be overlooked now, but he will get a hearing by and by.

If we do not flatter ourselves, the flattery of others will not be able to injure us.

When the forenoons of life are wasted there is not much hope of a peaceful evening.

The heart that is fullest of good works has in it the least room for the temptations of the enemy.

Bad custom, consolidated into habit, is such a tyrant that men sometimes cling to vices, even while they curse them.

Vicious habits are so odious and degrading that they transform the individual who practises them into an incarnate demon.

When two start in the world together, he that is thrown behind, unless his mind proves generous, will be displeased with the other.

Life is never all work or sorrow; and happy hours, helpful pleasures, are mercifully given like wayside springs to pilgrims trudging wearily along.

Beer Among the Ancients.

A German professor has succeeded in tracing the origin of beer to the land of the pyramids. An ancient papyrus has revealed the wrath of an Egyptian father who had convicted his son of the deplorable habit of lounging about the Nile taverns and guzzling beer. From Egypt the art of manufacturing "liquid bread," as the professor affectionately describes his favorite beverage, was introduced into Ethiopia and the heart of Africa, where perpetual summer made it seasonable all the year round. The Roman Empire declined because among other things, it despised beer and was beguiled by stronger but less wholesome fluids. The Northern races overran Italy, according to the same authority, because they had learned to live on bread and beer. Enthusiasm certainly carried the learned professor a long way; and perhaps he has not reached the end of his archaic researches. Is he certain that the Israelites did not have beer with their manna; or that there was not a fresh brew served betimes in Eden?—New York Tribune.

Why a Sea Voyage Restores Health.

The air of the sea, taken at a great distance from land, or even on the shore and in port when the wind blows from the open, is in an almost perfect state of purity. Near continents the land winds drive before them an atmosphere always impure, but at one hundred kilometres off from the coasts this impurity has disappeared. The sea rapidly purifies the pestilential atmosphere of continents; hence every expanse of water of a certain breadth becomes an obstacle to the propagation of epidemics. Marine atmospheres driven upon land purify sensibly the air of the regions which they traverse; this purification can be recognized as far as Paris. The sea is the tomb of moulds and of aerial schizophytes.—MM. Moreau and Miquel.

Reason and kindness are the great promoters of that harmony and hilarity which generate friendship and affection.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 19, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - - .75
One copy four " - - - - .50

From Jeff. Davis' wordy criticism of Wolsley may the saints deliver us.

Birmingham Sunday base-ball players were arrested on Monday morning and placed under bond.

The Elyton Land Company will invest $1,000,000 in rolling mill and furnace plants in Birmingham. Verily Birmingham isn't dead yet, no "not by a jug full."

The Bibb Blade has been purchased by Messrs. Sam H. Gist and Son, and has improved its appearance by donning a good looking and readable "patent out-side."

The Avondale Enterprise is a new candidate for public favor in the way of a newspaper and is a very neat weekly published in a flourishing suburb of Birmingham

Huntsville Mercury: "Had drank" is not good English grammar says a high authority. It certainly is not. "Was drunk" is better grammar, and more in accordance with the fact, at least nine times out of ten.

Seaborn Posey, the defaulting county superintendent of education of Winston county, who left there in October, 1885, with some $1,500 of the school fund has been caught up with by Pinkerton's detectives in Arkansas and brought back to the scene of his crime.

"Yes, we have professional jurors in Shelby county the same that afflict all other communities," said a prominent man to a Chronicle reporter this morning. "If you noticed the empaneling of the juries at the last term of our Circuit Court, you are aware of this fact. "I have no remedy to suggest," continued our informant. "The court officers should at least be familiar with their names and faces. They have haunted every court for the past five years."—Shelby Chronicle.

The cashier of a chinese bank tried to leave with the funds for Japan or some place, on the American plan, the other day, but it is not believed the custom will become popular. The government walled up the cashier to starve to death, and chopped the heads off all his family. And next fall they are going to decapitate everybody in the empire bearing his name.

Florence sold real estate to the amount of $140,000 at her big land sale which was extensively advertised over the country. Decatur has had no sale day but has quietly "scooped" in those who want to make money on Decatur dirt to the amount of $275,000. Tuskaloosa, with very little "blow," has distanced Florence and Decatur. The sales in the "Oak City" for one week amounted to $400,000.

All the interviews that we have had on county matters during the last few days having been in our favor we have no new ideas to promulgate and there is necessarily a lull in the campaign until some of the other side come around with inquiries or suggestions that will originate some new idea to write a poem on. Our side has been heard, and these columns are always open to the other side if they desire to say any thing.

Thomas M. Brunson, tax collector of Sumter county, this state, has gone wrong. His friends claim that the little indiscretion of banking the state's funds in his own name, is of no moment. No? Well, there are some vacancies in the Dade coal mines which such fellows would about fit.—Anniston Hot Blast.

Why should we send our criminals to Georgia. The Hot Blast man is a Georgian who evidently thinks that all that is bad as well as all that is great properly belongs to Georgia.

We think it would be profitable to many of the editors of this State if at the next meeting of the press association the president or some member of the association should lecture on "journalistic ethics" and "professional courtesy." There are a number of newspapers in the State which apparently know nothing of either. Read them some of Steele's and Addison's contributions to the "Guardian" and implore reform. The above has reference to no particular press nor no particular case, but to all who ought to learn.

A Proposal.

The publication of the report of county finances which we last published cost the county $13. Such a report published semi-annually as the Code directs would be an expense to the treasury of $26. Now as the VIEW is prosperous and in a good humor, it thinks that $26 is not worth howling around for, and it had other and more important reasons for giving the public its recent articles on a report of county finances.

For the good of the county it now proposes to the county commissioners to publish the last report submitted to them free of any charge. Parties who are amply able to do so have offered to pay our bill out of their own private funds if we will publish the report and the commissioners do not wish to pay for it. As it is not proper that we should accept payment from private funds for such publication we shall not do so, and we further assure the commissioners that if they will turn the last report over to us to publish no charge will be made against the county.

There will be a special term of the court in July for just such business as this and this proposal will remain open until after that meeting.

Twenty-six dollars has not been the incentive that inspired us to continue "shaking a red rag at a mad bull," nor is it our ambition to keep the loafers of this wonderful burg in a ferment, hence we make the above proposal out of the goodness of our great big heart, and to satisfy friends who like Miss Rosa Dartle "only want to know."

The Pall Mall Gazette at last announces the result of its competition in regard to the best novels. "We did not," it says, "expressly limit the competition to English novels, but our readers have been patriotic, and hardly a single foreign book appears in the lists. The result may be taken therefore, as embodying the current opinion of the day on English novels and novelists: The best historical novel,' Scott, 'Ivanhoe.' The best humorous novel, Dickens, 'Pickwick.' The most imaginative romance, Rider Haggard 'She.' The best novel with a purpose, Charles Reade 'Never Too Late to Mend.' The best tale of seafaring life, Marryatt, 'Midshipman Easy.' The best tale of country life, George Eliot, 'Adam Bede.' The best sensational novel, Wilkie Collins, 'Woman in White.' The best tale for boys, Defoe, 'Robinson Crusoe.' The best Irish novel, Lever, 'Charles O'Malley.' The best Scotch novel, 'The Heart of Midlothian.' The best novel of all, Thackeray, 'Vanity Fair.'

The Grand Jury of Sumter county in their report have this to say: "The collector has recently been suspended from office by the Governor. and these facts together with other acts of misconduct by David W. Mitchell, county treasurer having been brought to our knowledge, and the further fact he is incompetent to fill the office, all of which matters have been dilligently and faithfully inquired into by us, we are of the opinion that the said David W. Mitchell ought to be and we therefore recommend that he be impeached and removed from the office of county treasurer of Sumter county." The first charge brought against the treasurer even ahead of his misappropriation of funds is "wilful neglect of duty."

R. D. Gambrel, editor of the Jackson, Miss., Sword and Shield was assassinated last week. He was an earnest worker in the temperance cause in Jackson, which has recently voted whiskey out, and there is little doubt that his work for temperance was the prime cause of his murder. Four men have been arrested and jailed charged with the killing. One of them J. S. Hamilton was seriously wounded in the encounter with Gambrel, receiving two shots from the latter's weapon. Gambrel was only twenty-two years old. He was the eldest son of a Baptist minister.

New Orleans States: The New York Herald has nominated Cleveland and Grady for 1888. The more we look at the ticket the stronger grows our conviction that the Herald has attached an exceedingly small tail to a very large kite. Mr. Grady no doubt would make a very excellent vice-president for an Atlanta fair, but in such a position as the vice-president of the United States he would rattle around in such away as to excite the alarm of his friends.

The Dispatch is after the Montgomery city council for increasing the salaries of the Mayor and city attorney in face of the fact that the city treasury is already short of funds to pay outstanding indebtedness to the amount of $23,000. We know nothing of the merits of this case, but we have noticed that the Dispatch is seldom on the wrong side in criticising public men and measures; and if if it were not for such papers scattered here and there over the State, the country would go to the "demnition bow-wows" in short order and nobody would ever know what carried it there. The course of the Dispatch and all such journals is attributed to bitterness. This, however, is the false reasoning of a warped judgment. It might as well be said that the preacher and his gospel, both of which denounce evil men and evil practices in strong language, do so in a spirit of bitterness, when the truth is they have "the greatest good to the greatest number" at heart all the while, and if in their work they should injure feelings and reputations, it is altogether due to the failings of those whose feelings and reputations are injured.

Because the VIEW sometimes uses strong language, it is set down with the Dispatch as bitter. But the VIEW has met with nothing of sufficient importance to embitter it, and uses strong language principally because it has a talent in that direction and thinks strong language should at times be used; and when the VIEW finds anything to exercise this bubbling over talent upon, it is much more elated than angry, even though it prefers to touch upon better things.

We don't see how the Democracy managed to get along so great a while without such a press at the capital as the Dispatch. Though we do not agree with all its opinions on important subjects, we are sure it has "the greatest good to the greatest number" always in view, and we hope never to be without the daily visits of just such a press. It is far better to root corruption out of the party than to cover it over.

The CHILLON VIEW reflecting on the management of that county's finances, concludes that there is "something rotten in Denmark." If the VIEW is dependent on "public pap" for a living there will likely be a newspaper funeral in Chilton before long. That's the way people frequently pay newspapers for doing their duty.—Eutaw Mirror.

That's truth. If the VIEW had been dependent on "public pap" its funeral would have taken place years ago. It is sufficiently independent of "pap" of every kind to know its duty.

Tax Sale.

Under and by virtue of decrees rendered at the regular term of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 9th day of May, 1887, by Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Alabama, I will proceed to sell in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, between the legal hours of sale, on Monday, June 20th, 1887, the following described real estate for the taxes and cost due thereon, for the year 1886, viz:

BEAT 1.

Unknown Owner, the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Taxes and costs, $4.86. Printer's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 2.

Harrison Foshee, the sw ¼ of the s e ¼ S 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ S 7 t 23 r 13. Taxes and costs $4.62. Pr's fee $1.32.

French Nabors, the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $3.43. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Thomas Peters, the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12. Taxes and costs $17.84. Pr's fee $2.88.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cents.

Unknown Owner, the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 4.

John Attaway the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Taxes and costs $8.97. Pr's fee $1.77.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 5.

D. T. Blakey, the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Taxes and costs $7.14. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s ½ of the s e ¼ sec 15, t 20 r 15. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

G. L. Zimmerman, the e ½ of fractional section 25, t 22, r 16. Part of sec 27 t 22 r 16. Taxes and costs $11.52. Pr's fee $1.05.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the n e q, sec 19 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner the n e q of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $5.90. Pr's fee 80 cts.

R. A. Warner, Agent, a house and lot in Verbena. Taxes and costs $25.41. Pr's fee 70 cts.

W. L. Whitworth, the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $5.27. Pr's fee 96 cents.

BEAT 8.

J. E. Butler the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33, t 20 r 11. Taxes and costs $4.75. Pr's fee $1.26.

R. R. Carothers, the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e qr of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Taxes and costs $6.59. Pr's fee $2.13.

D. A. WHITE,
Tax Collector,
Chilton Co.

Clanton, Ala.,
May 11, 1887.

GORDON DUBOSE,

Attorney at Law,

CENTREVILLE, ALA.

Notice!

All persons trespassing on lands lying in Chilton county, belonging to the estate of Dr. Gant late of Talladega county, deceased, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. John F. Maull is my authorized agent to take care of said lands and prevent trespass on the same.

JOHN T. HEFLIN,
ma12-4t Administrator.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

NOTICE NO. 6370.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Edward T. Rhodes, Homestead 12457 for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 8, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Vinson Gragg, George Mims, Joseph Gore, and James W. Knox, all of Clanton, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6371.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Reason L. Woolly, Homestead 13154, for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 14, township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Garner, John B. Moore, Shelby Coshatt, Joseph W. Reynolds, all of Montevallo, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Register's Sale.

State of Alabama, Chilton county. B. H. Chesnutt vs. John H. Easterling.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the April term, 1887, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, of the 7th district, northeastern chancery division of said State, in the above entitled cause, I shall proceed to sell at public outcry, at the courthouse door, in Chilton county, on the first Monday in June, 1887, between the legal hours of sale for cash, the following described real estate situated in Chilton county, to-wit: The s w ¼ of sec. 3, township 21, range 15 east.

m5-4 W. E. STEWART, Register.

Probate Notice.

State of Alabama, Chilton county. Estate of Jesse Attaway, Deceased.

Probate Court, 5th day of May, 1887.

To Elizabeth Adams, wife of Joel Adams, B. T. Attaway, Elvina Beard, wife of Eli Beard, John Attaway, E. W. Attaway, Matilda Smitherman, wife of J. P. Smitherman, Sally Campbell wife of John Campbell, Harrison Attaway, John W. Attaway and all other persons interested. Take notice that this day came J. P. Smitherman, the administrator of said estate and filed his statement, accounts and evidence for a final settlement of his administration. It is ordered that the 13th day of June, 1887, be appointed a day upon which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.

H. J. CALLEN,
ma12 Probate Judge Chilton Co.

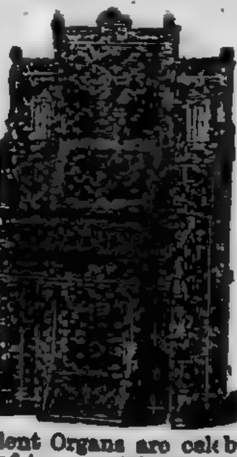
THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the [illegible] MALARIA [illegible] System!

COLLINS AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you [illegible] fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING. PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE. Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC" for 1857. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store. COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun24-y

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,

—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—

DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,

Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.

OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,

Birmingham, Ala.

Your Orders Solicited.

[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 19, 1887.

The View is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	2:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	10:36 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

For the Chilton View.]

To a Despondent Friend.

Hope not for too much in this wearisome world,
Of sunshine to lighten the way,
For gloom will obscure the brightest of skies;
And cloud the most beautiful day.

Though the heart may be chilled by coldness and scorn,
When it looked for encouraging smiles,
Droop not neath the chill disappointment brings,
Humanity is full of such wiles,

Even the flowers that bloom by the wayside heath,
In rare colors of purple and blue;
Oft have their delicate petals kissed,
By frost instead of the dew.

Then hope not too much of sunshine's beams,
On the pathway thou walkest in life;
And He that will call forth the flowers again,
Will strengthen thy heart for the strife.

GEORGIA A. JONES.

May 17th, 1887.

For some excellent sweet cider call on I. B. Bowdon.

Mr. McRee is having his storehouse improved with a new front.

Mr. W. F. Claughton, of Verbena, made a visit to Clanton, Monday.

See a slight change in the L. & N. schedule, which went into effect last Sunday.

Mr. W. L. Sampey moved into the new residence of Mr. "Jabe" Woolley, last Monday. It has just been completed in West Clanton.

Read the new double column card of Mr. John P. Leeper, dealer in sash, doors, blinds, &c., Birmingham. He solicits the patronage of this section.

The amount realized from the mite meeting Friday night was $13.50, which we learn from Mrs. Duke has been turned over to the treasurer for the M. E. Church.

Persons in ordinary circumstances cannot afford to be sick when a heavy bill from a doctor is the result. The latter can be obviated if you have a cough or cold, by the timely use of Coussens' Honey of Tar, which has long been in use, and is universally conceded to be the only pure and simple remedy for a cough or cold.

Capt. Jno. A. Caldwell, of Tuskaloosa, stopped over in Clanton a few days with his sister, Mrs. E. C. Lawrence, on his return from a business trip to South Alabama.

Those friends who have come forward and settled their dues will be remembered by us for many years to come and those that have neglected to do so will not be forgotten.

Reader have you ever used Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment? If you have tried it for Piles, we are sure you will heartily agree with us that this preparation although good for nothing else in the wide world is the best remedy ever offered the public for Piles. In fact it is the only safe, simple and effectual cure for that disease.

In accordance with an act of the last Legislature a register of all stock killed by trains in this state is now kept in the offices of the railroads and nearest to where the killing occurs.

Mrs. Robt. Mullins, of the Jumbo neighborhood, died last Sunday morning with something like paralysis. She was a widow and leaves many relatives to mourn her loss. Our sympathies are extended.

Sampey's Corner.

I am now prepared to sell nice fresh butter to the town trade. New goods of all kinds just received, and marked low down to suit the scarcity of money. Now is the time to get a nice, summer dress and get it ready for the picnic. New hats in desirable styles at any price from 15 cents to $1.25. Come and see the new goods even if you do not buy.

"Fellow slaves," began an orator at a labor meeting in Buffalo; and then he stopped. "Go ahead!" cried a voice in the audience; "most of us are married!"

Dr. A. J. Massey, of Rockford, has purchased two lots at the hot well and is making arrangements to have two six room residences erected thereon. He has also purchased some vacant lots in Clanton.

A large congregation listened to an excellent sermon last Sunday night, delivered by Rev. Mr. McNeil, of Deatsville. He will preach here again on the third Sabbath of next month and if desired by our people will preach for us every third Sabbath.

Jay Gould can afford the luxury of a strike — the strikers themselves can stand the want of employment temporarily—the business world can recuper from the losses incident to suspension of trade, but no one who suffers with cough, cold or disease of throat and lungs can afford to be without Coussens' Honey of Tar. It is a necessity to them.

There are books on "English as she is spoken," "English as she is taught," and "English as she is translated;" and now a Texas cow boy is to write one on "English as she is cussed." He says he obtained his material from gamblers, mule drivers and congressmen.

The mite meeting on Friday night at the residence of Mr. O. A. Duke, was a success in every particular. Our Methodist ladies have now taken hold of the work of building a new church in earnest, and their determination will meet with success. God speed the work.

Judicious Advertising

Creates many a new business.
Enlarges many an old business.
Revives many a dull business.
Rescues many a lost business.
Saves many a falling business.
Preserves many a large business.
Secures success in any business.

The "Unloaded Gun."

Selma Times: The record of the past week contains notices of four more funerals from the festive "unloaded gun." Under the circumstances the best advice to follow is: If a man points an "unloaded gun" at you, knock him down, knock him hard and keep him down.

Died,

At Brierfield, Ala., on the 14th inst., Hiram M. Hayes, formerly tax collector of Chilton county. The deceased will be remembered here as having been on trial at one time for defalcation or misappropriation of funds. He was, however, acquitted of the charge, and has since been residing at Brierfield.

Twenty-four new subscribers in the past few weeks is not discouraging to the VIEW. If public sentiment is not backing the paper public sentiment is rotten and its backing not desired. The territory from which the VIEW draws its support is not bounded even by State lines, but extends from New York and Chicago on the north to Texas on the South. If there be any who discredit this they may have the privilege of examining our books.

A western exchange tells its readers how "to mind their P's" in the following paragraph: "Persons who patronize our paper should pay promptly, for the peculiar prospects of the press have a peculiar power in pushing forward public prosperity. If the printer is paid promptly, and his pocket-book kept plethoric by prompt paying patrons, he puts his pen to his paper in peace; his paragraphs are more pointed; he paints his pictures of passing events in more pleasing colors and persual of his paper is a pleasure to the people. Paste this piece of proverbial philosophy in some place where all persons can perceive it.

Programme:

For the district meeting of the 3d district of the Unity Baptist Association which meets with Mt. Zion Baptist Church Friday before the fifth Sunday in May, 1887:

1st. Is foot-washing an ordinance of the Church according to the New Testament. A. E. Burns to open discussion.

2d. Was foot washing performed by the Savior at the Eucharist or Lord's Supper. W. H. Lawrence to open discussion.

3d. What constitutes a public offense to the peace, honor and dignity of the church. J. L. Long to open discussion.

4th. The necessity of a Sabbath school in every church. H. C. Young to open discussion.

The enjoyment of benevolence and church aid. ———— to open discussion.

Wherein do we as Baptists differ from other denominations. L. G. Skipper to open discussion.

Introductory sermon by Rev. John Taylor.

OLIVER MULLINS,
Chairman.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Chandler's Mill.

The weather still remains very dry and dusty in this neighborhood and the blacksmith is kept busy with wheels.

Rev. W. R. East favored us with three very eloquent sermons the past week, and on Saturday afternoon he christened and dedicated to the service of the Lord the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Griffin. Rev. Mr. East is the traveling missionary of the Congregational Methodist Church.

The mill is turning out lumber rapidly to-day.

Maplesville Dots.

We are needing rain very much. Crops are looking bad on account of dry weather.

Mr. F. M. Kelley will not have to go far to see the best oats in this community.

Mr. James Griffin one of our oldest men can get up at three o'clock and drive twelve miles, and get along as spry as a boy.

Next Sunday is Rev. J. O. Nobles regular appointment at Maplesville church. Come out and hear him.

We are proud to say that Mr. T. W. Foshee is the only smooth-faced railroad agent on this road. Tom is a business boy.

We all agree that red hot iron is hot indeed. But one of our boys thinks a good mining tongue with a well disturbed mine is about as disagreeable as red hot iron.

Stanton Puffs.

News very scarce.

Miss Myra Gardner, of Montevallo, visited her brothers one evening last week.

Rev. E. S. Starr, of Plantersville, preached at the Baptist church last Sabbath. He also addressed the Sabbath school.

Prof. E. D. Acker is in excellent humor as the Sabbath school organ is nearly paid for. The professor is superintendent of the S. S.

Mr. David Lodge is off on a visit to Cross Plains this week.

Mrs. J. R. Lamberson left Stanton the 16th inst., to join her husband at Argenta, Ark.

A number of improvements are being made at the saw mill. The new locomotive is expected in a few weeks.

A. A. Dyer & Sons continue to make large quantities of cheap furniture at their factory. They have also had several building contracts at Calera. 89.

The following words were uttered by Jefferson Davis at the meeting of the Mississippi Press Association at Meridian last week. The concluding sentences contain the noblest sentiments that have emanated from Mr. Davis since the war being entirely devoid of acridity:

"I am unable to treat this theme as it should be without premeditation. What was the army and navy of the south? It was the patriotism of those persons who bared their breasts to the bullets in defending a constitutional right. With great navies and armies against us, we formed regiments and battalions. At their head, we placed Lee as their commander. We remember scenes where the wife, as she threw her arms around her husband, and daughters in loving embraces gathering around those that were to go, and then the widowed mother, as she let a tear drop fall on the face of the devoted son she would never see again, and girded the sword to his waist and told him to go forth and do as his father would have done. These were the kind of women we had. With inferior numbers of men we marched onward, fighting for our rights, and battle after battle was fought and won. But northern historians have never conceded that, and indulged in triumphs of mind over matter. But now those scenes and incidents have passed and they only live in minds and history. United you are now, and if the union is ever to be broken, let the other side break it. The army of the South will shine forever around camp fires and will still shine to our children. The truth we fought for shall not encourage you to ever fight again, but keep your word in good or evil. God bless you all."

A man of close observation, a careful reader, and who operates a little railroad not many miles from Montgomery, was in town the other day and was talking about the inter-state commerce bill. Said he: "It is a scheme backed by Pennsylvania to choke off the growing competition of southern, especially Alabama, iron and coal development. Alabama, is going into their markets with her coal and iron, and cheap freights enable her to do it. If they can stop these low through rates they shut us out of all the northern markets. I saw in the beginning this was the way the law would work. And our representative in congress sat there and saw Alabama slaughtered when they ought to have been a solid unit against it. Reagan, who championed the bill in the house, is from an agricultural State which has little interest in a long cheap haul for mineral and forest products. Cullom is from Illinois, which has no interest to be developed, and here we go following these two old stagers, blind to the fact that Alabama's prosperity depends on cheap long haul for her iron and coal and lumber. You will see an effort in the next congress to repeal the law and you will see the Pennsylvania iron interests straining every nerve to keep it in the books. They may not come out openly, but they will set up the pegs. Why, this law means death to Alabama and a long life and full control to the higher priced iron to the north of us."—Montgomery Advertiser

MONTGOMERY
FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sep11 3

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action, $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton.

BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES
SUCH AS
Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular
MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.
If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. ☞ Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

C. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞ WATCH IT. ☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS' AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala
SADDLES!
Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
☞ CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhoea, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C.H. St., Boston.
Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. [illegible] is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food.
MAKE HENS LAY
Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. It cures chicken cholera and all diseases of hens. Is worth its weight in gold. Illustrated book by mail free.
Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for [illegible] stamps. [illegible] air-tight tin cans, $1; by mail, $1.20. Six cans by express, prepaid, for $5.00. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston.

SALESMEN WANTED!
To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS,
mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.
I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.
[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

Clanton Academy.
CLANTON, CHILTON CO., ALA.
The course of instruction is divided into three departments, Primary, Junior and High School.
RATES OF TUITION:
Primary Department $1.50
Junior " 2.50
High School " 3.50
Tuition payable monthly IN ADVANCE.
Public examinations of the pupils of the school will be held at the close of each session, but exhibitions will not be had at any time.
Board can be obtained by pupils of the school in private families in Clanton at very moderate rates.
For further information address
R. E. R. HICKS,
feb10] Principal.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE, BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 21-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation. FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c. TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made in each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

A TALK ABOUT SHAD.

Reminiscences of the Olden Time—Useful Recipes for Cooking the Fish.

"Tell you something about shad? Why, certainly," said an old fisherman. "Fine ones have been somewhat scarce this season, though a good many iced Southern have come in. Next week should bring us plenty of North Rivers and allow them to sell at rather less trout-like prices than have been ruling, but the good old days that you and I have seen when a pair of roe shad could be had for a quarter will never come back. Now we call 30 and 40 cents low prices for large roe-fish single. In the old times common wagons could do the vending; now the buyer has to contribute to high shop-rents and suffer his part of the enlarged demand of New York and suburbs.

"Why, you can remember when nets could be set abundantly about the Bay and close to the city on the Hudson. Steam has driven them away. Then, lots of families used to send right down to the wharves for their day's supply. The gills had to be bright red and the scales shining to sell even as cheaply as I have mentioned, or they would be pushed aside as stale and go for what used to be called 'boarding-house price.'

"A good many buyers insist that a buck is better flavored than a female shad, but the roes of the latter give them preference. Some housewives object to cooking roes because they sputter fat so annoyingly while being fried. Tell your readers that this discomfort can be avoided by slightly parboiling the roes or putting them in boiling water for a few, say three or four, minutes. A shad to fry can be split down the back, the easiest way of cutting, but for broiling it needs an expert cleaner to give it the Connecticut cut, which is to split it in front and remove the backbone.

"Planked shad is a method oftener used South than here. Early warm weather there starts a good many beach parties, like our chowder parties and clambakes. It needs an open fire. The shad is split and nailed to a board—an oak one is preferable—and propped before hot coals until cooked. A man who is used to it will keep the board from catching fire or from charring so as to impart a smoky taste to the fish. Baked shad is not a proper thing; the fish is too delicate to do well with highly flavored stuffing and long oven cooking. No, the frying-pan and gridiron are the correct implements for fixing the silver beauties for the table. Of recent years cotton-seed oil has been popular with many frying fish of all kinds. The pieces are said to cook through without becoming so saturated with fat as when lard is used. You know they use oil in the West Indies for frying fish; and, by the way, do you know that negro cooks can cook fish better than other people as a rule? It's so.

"Let me give you a choice recipe for making shad salad. Take some of the parts that have not been browned in frying or broiling; let them get cold and then put them into vinegar that has had a mild hot steeping of bay leaves. After about half an hour take them and chop fine with crisp water-cress, adding a trifle of Worcestershire sauce. This makes a delicious relish for tea. What is a good thing to drink with a fish dinner or luncheon? Well, that depends upon the taste."

BE SURE if you do your very best in that which is laid upon you daily you will not be left without help when some mightier occasion arises.

A Story About a Bad Man

A tall, heavily-built, loose-jointed man, in the free and easy dress common in frontier towns, swaggered up Centre street and turned around on the park side of Park row at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. He spread consternation among the women and children whom he met, and even the men did not feel entirely happy until after he had passed by, for even the most obtuse could see that he was b-a-a-d all the way through. A blue shirt with a huge rolling collar covered his big chest, the bottoms of his trousers were stuck in the tops of his heavy cowhide boots, a slouch hat with a gray cord and tassels was upon his head, and he snapped his fingers recklessly as he sauntered.

Anybody could see that he was a hard-hearted wretch, for this fact was written in his cold gray eyes, in his long black [illegible] and in the wide belt that held his trousers about his waist. Taken altogether he looked like a man who was steeped to the lips in human gore, and his appearance on such a bright Easter Sunday seemed a shame and an outrage. On the edge of the sidewalk, a hundred feet north of Mail street, sat a cripple, with his crutches before him and his tattered hat held out to passers-by. The hard-hearted villain eyed the cripple with a venomous stare, causing the latter to shrink partly into the gutter.

"Plough me with a 44-calibre bullet if this ain't tough," said the ruffian, as he thrust his hands into his pockets and raised his shoulders until they were on a level with his ears. "Ain't yer got no home?"

The cripple sadly shook his head.

"Can't yer walk?"

Again the cripple shook his head.

"There ain't no Cony Island for you this year or never; no bathin' in the surf or ridin' on the merry-go-rounds; there ain't nothin' for you but hard ridin' with mighty poor forage and more cuffs than pettin', is there?"

The deadly ruffian's voice had somehow softened, and there was a moisture in his eyes that was unaccountable in so black a villain.

"I ain't over rich myself," said the desperado, "but if I war I'd help you lots. But then I ain't busted neither, and if half a dollar will make ye any happier, why, there it is, and may you always find plenty of provender and drink within seein' distance, with no red-skins or ornery beasts nearer than a thousand miles."

The heartless rascal flipped a fifty-cent piece into the cripple's lap, and then swaggered on toward the post office, filling all good and honest citizens with fear and misgivings.—N. Y. Sun.

Making Steel Pipes.

The new method of making steel pipe at Barbach, Germany, is said to be very successful, and the process of manufacture is briefly as follows:

As soon as the steel is cast into the round mould, a core is thrust into the steel, so that the tube is formed between it and the sides of the mould. In order to prevent cracking of this annular casting during cooling, the core is made up in such a manner that it follows up the shrinkage of the steel. The steel cup thus obtained may then be rolled in an ordinary train. It is stated that a large firm in Paris proposes to apply the method to the manufacture of copper tubing.

THOUGH true self-denial is harsh at the beginning, it is easy in the middle, and becomes most sweet in the end.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

It is estimated that the fog which almost ceaselessly hangs over London contains nearly fifty tons of solid carbon and 250 tons of carbon in the form of hydrocarbon and carbonic oxide gases.

The slopes of Etna and Vesuvius owe their richness to the fertilizing action of volcanic ashes, and reports from New Zeland indicate that the ashes from last year's eruption have enriched the soil to a remarkable degree.

Heavy machinery is run by artesian-well power in many parts of France, and the experience of the French shows that the deeper the well the greater the pressure and the higher the temperature. At Grenelle a well sunk to the depth of 1802 feet, and flowing daily 500,000 gallons, has a pressure of sixty pounds to the square inch, and the water from this well is so hot that it is used for heating the hospitals in the vicinity.

It is an error to suppose that severe winters are destructive to insect life, according to Mr. McLachlan, an English entomologist. Larvæ may be frozen until as brittle as rotten sticks, in which condition they can scarcely be said to live, but on the return of warm weather they revive, quite uninjured by their freezing. It is a noteworthy fact that butterflies and bumblebees have been found almost as close to the North Pole as man has ever approached.

The Sidereal Messenger contains an article by Dr. S. V. Clevenger on the optical appearance of comets. He holds that "comets are aggregations, usually spherical or spheroidal, of relatively tenuous and variable densities, and their nuclei and tails are optical appearances only." According to his view, the first or telescopic (globular) appearance of the comet is the only real one, and all the rest is simply phenomenal to an extent which some other people might feel justified in calling delusive.

The mean atmospheric pressure for the whole earth, as shown by the barometer, is found by Kleiber, of St. Petersburg, to be 29.91 inches. That for the northern hemisphere is 29.96 inches, and for the southern 29.87. The average northern excess is greatly increased in January, but becomes a deficiency in July, when the southern pressure is slightly the greater, a mass of air sufficient to give a pressure of nearly .24 over a hemisphere appearing to be periodically shifted from one side of the equator to the other by the changing seasons.

It is thought that in the making of stock sizes of sash, doors and blinds, in the factories of the Northwest, white pine will not much longer be the material so exclusively used heretofore. Poplar is commonly looked to as the most available substitute, its reasonable price being a prime consideration, and there are other woods adapted to the purpose. One of the most recent and satisfactory features in this line is the manufacture of doors of basswood, treating them to a priming coat of paint; they are found to answer well in every respect, and, withal, are comparatively inexpensive.

Every one knows that the sea has larger animals than can be found on land; but, with the enormous sequoias of California in mind, many may be surprised to learn of vegetable growths in the ocean vastly exceeding in length, though not in bulk, these giants of the forest. Recently the ship Clever, commanded by Captain John Stone, arrived at Montevideo with a portion of a seaweed which had been picked up in the Atlantic near the equator. The sailors perceived an object floating on the surface some distance from the ship, and, manning a boat, they rowed to it, and ascertained that it was an alga of enormous size. On measuring it, it was found to have a length upward of 1,500 feet.

The Coughing Habit.

Coughing is often under control of the will and the result of habit. There are many people who consume a small portion of a life-time in unnecessary coughing. At first a little irritation is felt, a cough is set up, and habit keeps it going until the irritation provoked produces a real and serious disease. Through force of sympathy coughing often becomes contagious. This can be well illustrated in a schoolroom on restless boys and girls, on a cold winter's day. Let one child set the ball rolling, when the teacher addresses the school—another child takes up the musical note, then another, and still another, until the teacher's voice is as powerless as if he were in a din of artillery. The teacher brings the ruler to the desk, and commands this noise to stop. Then for an instant an eloquent silence prevails. In church we may sometimes observe the same thing—when some old lady, who has had a pet cough for years, sets up a coughing strain, which is soon followed, as if in chorus, by many other members. The poor preacher then wages an unequal contest and may as well stop preaching. These facts should be ample evidence, that coughing is an act under control of the will in very many cases. In such cases a little application of "mind cure" can be made effective. The family physician can often cure chronic coughs not by a prescription but a simple command to stop them.—Health and Home.

A Disgusted Indian.

A certain New England Governor had occasion to visit a tribe of Indians who have their home within his jurisdiction, and took his staff along with him. One of the officers, who was of a consequential turn, resolved to make a deep impression upon the untutored red man, and with this object arrayed himself with great care and crowded on all the gold lace and braid that his uniform would bear. As he expected, the display attracted the attention of the chief of the tribe, but the impression made on him was not just what the owner of the showy uniform had looked for. As he strutted up to the chief the latter expressed himself in curt Indian fashion: "You army?" "No," said the officer. "Navy?" "No." "Militia?" "Yes." Whereupon the chief, with a look of supreme contempt, ejaculated: "Oh, bah!"—Boston Post.

Discussing "Chelonia Midas."

A friend of the late scientist Agassiz says he had a very clever way of getting rid of bores. One day he had a call from a specially trying specimen. His friends, who knew the reputation of the visitor, asked Agassiz how he managed to get away so soon without offending the man and asking him to dine. "I told him," said Agassiz with a twinkle in his eye, "that I was sure he would excuse me, for at the moment his card came to me I was completely engrossed in discussing the qualities of the 'Chelonia Midas.' He begged to be forgiven in his intrusion and sent me back to the discussion. But I am sure he would not," he added as he took the last spoonful of his green turtle soup, "if he had known how good it was."

Do not put horses to work too suddenly and steadily in the spring. See that the harness is in good trim and does not chafe or rub.

EVERY FACULTY SUSPENDED.

Singular Case of Loss of Identity and Mysterious Restoration.

NORRISTOWN, PA.—A most remarkable case of loss of identity, recalling the story of Griffith Gaunt, is agitating society circles here. Surgeon-General L. W. Read was called in, and says the case is the most peculiar in his wide range of experience.

Six weeks ago a strange gentleman of good address came here and rented a store on East Main street. He divided the room into two apartments by means of curtains. The rear he furnished and occupied as a living room; the front he stocked with notions and toys and did a modest but successful business. The family from whom he rented the store came in daily contact with their tenant, but neither they nor any of his patrons ever noticed anything peculiar in his manner or habits. He visited Philadelphia several times, replenished his stock and conducted his business carefully.

No mental obliquity was noticed until yesterday morning, when he knocked at the door leading from the store to the dwelling part of the building. Mrs. Earl, who answered the knock, was surprised to hear him ask "Where am I?" She tried to convince him of his whereabouts, but failing her husband came to her assistance. To him the tenant made the following statement: "I awoke about four o'clock this morning after dreaming that I was buying and selling merchandise. I discovered that I was in a store, and was seized with the fear that I would be arrested as a burglar. Now I want to know where I am." He could not be made to believe that he was in Norristown, or that he visited Philadelphia recently. He only answered: "I was in Philadelphia twenty-eight years ago, but not since that time."

Dr. Read was then summoned, and to him the stranger made the following statement: "Doctor, I have just awakened from a confused dream. I am informed that I am in Norristown, Pennsylvania, and that this is the 14th of March. If this is true the past two months have been an entire blank to me. Yesterday I left my home in Coventry, Rhode Island. But that was the morning of January 18. I drove to Green's Station on the New England Railroad, left my horse and carriage in charge of a friend, went to Providence, drew $550 from the bank, called at several places, including the store of my nephew, Andrew Harris, No. 121 Broad street, opposite the Narragansett Hotel, and left there to go to my sister's residence on Westminister Street. I have a distinct recollection of having passed the Adams Express office, corner of Dorrance and Broad streets, but have no recollection of a single event since that time. I am a minister of the Gospel, my name is Ansel Bourne and I am sixty-one years of age."

Dr. Read left him in the care of Mr. Earl's family; with instructions to partake copiously of food. He then telegraphed Andrew Harris: "Do you know Ansel Bourne? Please answer," and received the following reply: "He is my uncle. Wire me where he is and if well. Write particulars."

Mr. Bourne is rapidly regaining his faculties, and is anxiously awaiting the arrival of relatives, when he will dispose of his stock of notions and toys and return home. He is a man of good address, fine appearance and an interesting talker.

Dr. Read is completely mystified thus far and will venture no opinion on the case.

MRS. TILTON'S PENSION.

AN AGED CENTENARIAN, THE WIDOW OF A REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER.

The sole surviving representative of the Revolutionary War, as recognized by the government, is Abigail S. Tilton, of North Woodbridge, Rockingham County, N. H. Out of the army of persons who are entitled to pensions she is the only one who receives such as the wife of a soldier of the Revolution. Mrs. Tilton is the widow of Benjamin Stevens, who, according to the musty records of the office, participated in the battle of Bennington as a member of Captain McConnell's company, under the command of General Stark. Mrs. Tilton is now a trifle more than one hundred years old. She was married a second time in 1831, but was divorced and resumed her maiden name.

Her second marriage invalidated her right to a pension as the widow of Benjamin Stevens, but the State of New Hampshire subsequently granted her an allowance of $2 a week for the remainder of her natural life. About eight years ago Congress further increased this by the addition of $16 a month, to be paid to her as a special revolutionary pension, it having been alleged that she was "houseless, homeless and childless." The old lady is represented as enjoying excellent health and in the full possession of all her mental and physical faculties. Until a year ago three other relics of Revolutionary heirs drew similar pensions through the Knoxville agency. But they have all died within the past twelve months and Mrs. Tilton is now the only link that is left connecting the government of to-day with the stormy scenes of 1776.

Something Better.

"You did not seem to welcome the attentions of Lord Lowcollar at the party last evening, Jennie," said an ambitious mother to her daughter. "What were you thinking about to ignore him for the plain young man in the toothpick shoes?"

"Lord Lowcollar is as poor as a church mouse."

"But he has a title; that's something."

"I prefer money. It seems you don't know the young man in the toothpick shoes, as you call him."

"No, I don't. Who is he?"

"He is the right fielder in the Carry-all-before-'em Club."

"Oh! if that is the case, you did well. After all, a princely income is better than a title."

UNCLE SAM should postpone the Canadian war of conquest for a few years longer. If American bank deposits continue to be made in Canada, Uncle Sam can check it out of existence.

To Dislodge the Enemy.

When it takes the form of disease of the kidneys or bladder, is a task well nigh impossible of accomplishment. Renal and vesical maladies are more obstinate than any others. Counteract, therefore, the earliest indication of inactivity of the many organs with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which possesses, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diuretic. The degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond the bounds of safety. It invigorates always, never irritates. Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, are diseases successfully combated in their incipiency with this benign medicinal stimulant and tonic. Besides reinforcing and regulating the kidneys and bladder, the Bitters is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspepsia.

A Famous Detective.

James Jackson, the famous State detective, resides in Sing Sing, and is generally in attendance at the prison. His duties are to examine carefully the face of every convict as he enters, and to scrutinize every visitor in order to prevent any discharged convict from seeing his pals. Occasionally he has to make long journeys in pursuit of runaway prisoners or to identify criminals convicted in other States. He never makes a mistake; if once he looks a man in the eye he will know him under any disguise, as he tells his man by the look of his eyes. Once an escaped convict had his nose pared down one-third, but Jackson detected him at once, notwithstanding this remarkable change of feature. Mr. Jackson is about 5 feet 8 inches in height, about 35 years old, of a light and sinewy build, with black hair and piercing black eyes, and is altogether remarkably handsome. He knows about 10,000 criminals, and it is simply wonderful that he can distinguish the features of every one. On his long journeys he eats very moderately and always takes one Brandreth pill at night. When much fatigued by the jolting of the cars on his tiresome trips he uses two Allcock's Porous Plasters on the small of the back, which give him renewed vigor and quickly relieve him of all weariness. These are the only two remedies he uses, and he attributes his vigorous health to Allcock's Porous Plasters and Brandreth's Pills.—Sing Sing, N. Y., Daily Register.

A LAZY man when offered a Waterbury watch as a premium with a suit of clothes which he had purchased, declined it with the remark that he had enough of hard work to do already, without winding a Waterbury watch every twenty-four hours.

Over-Worked Women.

For "worn-out," "run down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.

A large treatise on Diseases of Women, profusely illustrated with colored plates and numerous wood-cuts, sent for 10 cents in stamps. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y.

It is only the sober man who can walk the tight-rope successfully.

Use Dr. Pierce's "Pellets" for constipation.

Judge Blodgett decides that calling a man a crank is not libelous.

If all so-called remedies have failed, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

There is a machine out for making finger-nails almond shaped.

FOOD makes Blood and Blood makes Beauty. Improper digestion of food necessarily produces bad blood, resulting in a feeling of fullness in the stomach, acidity, heartburn, sick headache, and other dyspeptic symptoms. A closely confined life causes indigestion, constipation, biliousness and loss of appetite. To remove these troubles there is no remedy equal to Prickly Ash Bitters. It has been tried and proven to be a specific.

One Cent Invested

In a postal card on which to send your address to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will, by return mail, bring you free, particulars about work that both sexes, of all ages, can do, and live at home, wherever they are located, earning thereby from $5 to $25 per day, and upwards. Some have earned over $50 in a single day. Capital not required; you are started free.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

If a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption and rest well.

In the Spring

Nearly everybody needs a good medicine. The impurities which have accumulated in the blood during the cold months must be expelled, or when the mild days come, and the effect of bracing air is lost, the body is liable to be overcome by debility or some serious disease. The remarkable success achieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the many words of praise it has received, make it worthy your confidence.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"We have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for several years, and feel proud to recommend it as an excellent spring medicine or to be used at all times as a blood purifier. For children as well as grown people we consider it the best. We set aside one bottle for our boy to take in the spring. He is nine years old and has enjoyed good health ever since we began giving it to him."—B. F. GROVER, Rochester, N. H.

That Tired Feeling

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and in an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling, as if I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling."—G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,

Specialists for Thirteen Years Past, Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians. From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc. Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail. If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage. Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. ROCK, Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 39 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 38½ Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

WANTED TEACHERS FOR SEPTEMBER session. Schools write for Teachers. Address Southern Teachers' Agency, Birmingham, Ala.

OPIUM and Morphine Habit cured in 10 to 20 days. Refer to 1000 patients cured in all parts. Dr. Marsh, Quincy, Mich.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

An Unlucky Number.

"Yo' hab not yet called to see me at de house," said a colored West Side belle to her Adonis, the other night.

"De trouble is, I has not got de acquaintance of your fambly," he replied.

"Come up, den, and be introduced."

"Is your fadder at home?"

"Dat am jist whar he am."

"Am dar a dog about de premises."

"Dar am not."

"What size boot does your fadder w'ar?"

"Number thirteen."

"I guess den I will defer gwine up to de parental mansion dis evenin'. Thirteen am an unlucky number."

A leading Real Estate Agent and Private Banker, Mr. Ira Brown, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I feel it my duty to say of St. Jacobs Oil that I lay on my back three months with rheumatism. I tried it, was cured, and have never been troubled since."

The population of the island of Cyprus, now under British control, is almost entirely rural, yet the number of offenses in proportion to the population is three times as great as in England, and the number of homicides ten times as large.

Mr. T. J. Murphy, 61 Debavoice Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was afflicted with sciatic rheumatism and found St. Jacobs Oil very efficacious."

Has your grindstone become hollowed from the grinding of small tools? Grind up the spades and shovels by holding them square across the stone at a proper level. Spades like hoes, should be ground all on one side. Paste this in your hat.

In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption, and Wasting in Children, SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. Please read: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man whom Physicians at times gave up hope. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, gained flesh and strength, and from all appearances his life will be prolonged many years."—JOHN SULLIVAN, Hospital Steward, Morganza, Pa.

Many talk the loudest against sin when they are walking arm and arm with the devil.

The Public Interested.

When manufacturers of an article are asking the public to consume their wares, it is indeed refreshing to know that they are reliably endorsed, as illustrated by the united endorsement of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic and Liver Pills by the druggists of St. Paul.

35·MEDALS·AWARDED·TO·

BENSONS

Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the Chest and all Aches and Strains.

CAPCINE

Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for BENSON'S AND TAKE NO —OTHER.—

PLASTER

THE·BEST·IN·THE·WORLD·

HARTER'S

THE ONLY TRUE

IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage. THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass., WM. H. PARKER, M.D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

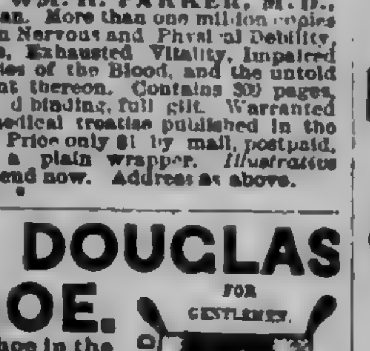
W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE.

FOR GENTLEMEN.

The best $3 Shoe in the world. Best material, style, perfect fit; Congress, Button or Lace; all styles toe. Equals any $5 or $6 Shoe. Costs nothing to examine them at your dealer's. I send information free how to obtain these celebrated $3 Shoes if your dealer does not keep them.

W. L. DOUGLAS' $2.50 Shoe equals $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. Boys all wear W. L. Douglas' $2 Shoe. Beware of fraud. None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom of each Shoe.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.



One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢

Your "Tansill's Punch" are the best 5c. cigars we ever handled. GLASCOTT & BRAND, Horton, Wis. We think, without doubt, that your "Tansill's Punch" are the finest 5c. cigars we have ever sold. W. L. DAVIS & Co., Druggists, Worcester, Mass. Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

SHOW CASES. WALL CASES.

DESKS, OFFICE FURNITURE AND FIXTURES. Ask for Illustrated Pamphlet. TERRY SHOW CASE CO., Nashville, Tenn.

HIRES' IMPROVED ROOT BEER PACKAGE, 25c. Makes 5 gallons of a delicious and wholesome beverage, strengthens and purifies the blood. [illegible]

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn. Superior Mineral Waters, Mountain Air, Cave Scenery. [illegible] Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

SHORTHAND Writing thoroughly taught by mail or personally. Situations procured all pupils when competent. Send for circular. W. G. Chaffee, Oswego, N.Y.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS. Apply to J. B. [illegible] Att'y, [illegible] Fifth St., Phila. [illegible]

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION [illegible] PRICKLY ASH BARK [illegible] SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES

It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c. disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO Sole Proprietors, St. Louis and Kansas City

Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets — The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur. M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

JONES

HE PAYS THE FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the sensation of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, pamphlet free. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address DR. WM. H. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

MARRY! The Correspondent, an 8-page paper, devoted to marriage, contains about 500 requests in each issue for correspondents. No charge for advertising. Mailed 4 months for 10 cents. Address The Correspondent, Cincinnati, O.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D.C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail, 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. U. Eighteen, '87

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.

The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	35 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 26, 1887. NUMBER 29.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "Sprig of Heart's-Ease."

TEXT: "And His Disciples went and told Jesus."—Matthew xiv., 12

An outrageous assassination had just taken place. To appease a revengeful woman, King Herod ordered the death of that noble, self-sacrificing Christian, John the Baptist. The group of the disciples were thrown into grief and dismay. They felt themselves utterly defenseless. There was no authority to which they could appeal, and yet grief must always find expression. If there be no human ear to hear it, then the agonized soul will cry it aloud to the winds and the woods and the waters. But there was an ear that was willing to listen. There is a tender pathos, and at the same time a most admirable picture, in the words of my text: "They went and told Jesus." He could understand all their grief, and He immediately soothed it. Our burdens are not more than half so heavy to carry if another shoulder is thrust under the other end of them. Here we find Christ, His brow shadowed with grief, standing amid the group of disciples, who, with tears, and violent gesticulations, and wringing of hands, and outcry of bereavement, are expressing their woe. Raphael, with his skillful brush putting upon the wall of a palace some scene of sacred story, gave not so skillful a stroke as when the plain hand of the evangelist writes: "They went and told Jesus."

The old Goths and Vandals once came down upon Italy from the north of Europe, and they upset the gardens, and they broke down the altars, and swept away everything that was good and beautiful. So there is ever and anon in the history of all the sons and daughters of our race an incursion of rough-handed troubles that come to plunder and ransack and put to the torch all that men highly prize. There is no cave so deeply cleft into the mountains as to allow us shelter, and the foot of fleetest courser cannot bear us beyond the quick pursuit. The arrows they put to the strings fly with unerring dart, until we fall pierced and stunned.

I feel that I bring to you a most appropriate message. I mean to bind up all your griefs into a bundle, and set them on fire with a spark from God's altar. The same prescription that cured the sorrow of the disciples will cure all your heartaches. I have read that when Godfrey and his army marched out to capture Jerusalem, as they came over the hills, at the first flash of the pinnacles of that beautiful city, the army that had marched in silence lifted a shout that made the earth tremble. Oh, you soldiers of Jesus Christ, marching on toward heaven, I would that to-day, by some gleam from the palace of God's mercy and God's strength, you might be lifted into great rejoicing, and that before this service is ended you might raise one glad hosanna to the Lord!

In the first place, I commend the behavior of these disciples to all those in this audience who are sinful and unpardoned. There comes a time in almost every man's history when he feels from some source that he has an erring nature. The thought may not have such heft as to fell him. It may be only like the flash in an evening cloud just after a very hot summer day. One man to get rid of that impression will go to prayer; another will stimulate himself by ardent spirits, and another man will dive deeper in secularities. But sometimes a man cannot get rid of these impressions. The fact is, when a man finds out that his eternity is poised upon a perfect uncertainty, and that the next moment his foot may slip, he must do something violent to make himself forget where he stands, or else fly for refuge.

If there are any here who have resolved that they would rather die of this awful cancer of sin than to have the heavenly surgeon cut it out, let me say, my dear brother, you mingle for yourself a bitter cup. You fly in the face of your everlasting interests. You crouch under a yoke and you bite the dust, when, this moment, you might rise up a crowned conquerer. Driven and perplexed and harassed as you have been by sin, go and tell Jesus. To relax the grip of death from your soul, and plant your unshackled feet upon the golden throne, Christ let the tortures of the bloody mount transfix Him. With the beam of His own cross He will break down the door of your dungeon. From the thorns of His own crown He will pick enough gems to make your brow blaze with eternal victory. In every tear on His wet cheek; in every gash of His side; in every long, blackening mark of laceration from shoulder to shoulder; in the grave-shattering, heaven storming death groan, I hear Him say: "Him that cometh unto Me, I will in no wise cast out."

"Oh," but you say, "instead of curing my wound you want to make another wound, namely: That of conviction!" Have you never known a surgeon to come and find a chronic disease, and then with sharp caustic burn it all out? So the grace of God comes to the old sore of sin. It has long been rankling there, but by divine grace it is burned out through these fires of conviction; "the flesh coming again as the flesh of a little child;" "where sin abounded grace much more aboundeth." With the ten thousand unpardoned sins of your life, go and tell Jesus. You will never get rid of your sins in any other way; and remember that the broad invitation which I extend to you will not always be extended.

King Alfred, before modern time-pieces were invented, used to divide the day into three parts, eight hours each, and then had three wax candles. By the time the first candle had burned to the socket, eight hours had gone, and when the second candle had burned to the socket, another eight hours had gone, and when all the three candles were gone out, then the day had passed. Oh, that some of us instead of calculating our days, and nights, and years by any earthly time-piece, might calculate them by the numbers of opportunities and mercies which are burning down and burning out, never to be relighted, lest at last we be amid the foolish virgins who cried: "Our lamps have gone out!"

Again: I commend the behavior of the disciples to all who are tempted. I have heard men in mid-life say they had never been led into temptation. If you have not felt temptation it is because you have not tried to do right. A man hoppled and handcuffed, as long as he lies quietly, does not test the power of the chain; but when he rises up, and with the determination resolves to snap the handcuff or break the hopple, then he finds the power of the iron. And there are men who have been for ten, and twenty, and thirty years bound hand and foot by evil habits who have never felt the power of the chain, because they have never tried to break it. It is very easy to go on down with the stream and with the wind, lying on your oars; but just turn round, and try to go against the wind and the tide, and you will find it is a different matter. As long as we go down the current of our evil habit we seem to get along quite smoothly; but if after a while we turn around and head the other way, toward Christ, and pardon, and heaven, oh, then, how we have to lay to the oars. You all have your temptation. You have one kind, you another, you another, not one person escaping.

It is all folly for you to say to some one: "I could not be tempted as you are." The lion thinks that it is so strange that the fish should be caught with a hook. The fish thinks it is so strange that the lion should be caught with a trap. You see some man with a cold, phlegmatic temperament, and you say: "I suppose that man has not any temptation." Yes, as much as you have. In his phlegmatic nature he has a temptation to indolence and censoriousness and over-eating and drinking; a temptation to ignore the great work of life: a temptation to lay down an obstacle in the way of all good enterprises. The temperament decides the styles of temptation; but sanguine or lymphatic, you will have temptation. Satan has a grappling-hook just fitted for your soul. A man never lives beyond the reach of temptation. You say when a man gets to be seventy or eighty years of age he is safe from all Satanic assault. You are very much mistaken. A man at eighty-five years of age has as many temptations as a man at twenty-five. They are only different styles of temptation.

Ask the aged Christian whether he is never assaulted of the powers of darkness. If you think you have conquered the power of temptation, you are very much mistaken.

A man who wanted a throne pretended he was very weak and sickly, and if he was elevated he would soon be gone. He crawled upon his crutches to the throne, and having attained it he was strong again. He said: "It was well for me while I was looking for the keys of authority that I should stoop, but now that I have found them, why should I stoop any longer?" and he threw away his crutches and was well again.

How illustrative the power of temptation! You think it is a weak and crippled influence, but give it a chance, and it will be a tyrant in your soul, it will grind you to atoms. No man has finally and for ever overcome temptation until he has left the world. But what are you to do with these temptations? Tell everybody about them? Ah, what a silly man you would be! As well might a commander in a fort send word to the enemy which gate of the castle is least barred, as for you to go and tell what all your frailties are, and what your temptations are. The world will only scoff at you. What then must a man do? When the waves strike him with terrific dash shall he have nothing to hold on to? In this contest with "the world, the flesh, and the devil," shall a man have no help, no counsel?

Our text intimates something different. In those eyes that wept with the Bethany sisters I see shining hope. In that voice which spake until the grave broke and the widow of Nain had back her lost son, and the sea slept, and sorrow stupendous woke up in the arms of rapture—in that voice I hear the command and the promise: "Cast thy burden on the Lord, and He will sustain thee." Why should you carry your burdens any longer? Oh, you weary soul, Christ been in this conflict. He says: "My grace shall be sufficient for you. You shall not be tempted above that you are able to bear." Therefore, with all your temptations, go, as these disciples did, and tell Jesus.

Again: I commend the behavior of the disciples to all those who are abused and slandered and persecuted. When Herod put John to death, the disciples knew that their own heads were not safe. And do you know that every John has a Herod? There are persons in life who do not wish you very well. Your misfortunes are honeycombs to them. Through their teeth they hiss at you, misinterpret your motives, and would be glad to see you upset. No man gets through life without having a pummelling. Some slander comes after you, horned and tusked and hoofed, to gore and trample you; and what are you to do? I tell you plainly that all who serve Christ must suffer persecution. It is the worst sign in the world for you to be able to say: "I haven't an enemy in the world." A woe is pronounced in the Bible against the one of whom everybody speaks well. If you are at peace with all the world, and everybody likes you and approves your work, it is because you are an idler in the Lord's vineyard, and are not doing your duty.

All those who have served Christ, however eminent, have been maltreated at some stage of their experience. You know it was so in the time of George Whitefield, when he stood and invited men into the kingdom of God. What did the learned Dr. Johnson say of him? He pronounced him a miserable mountebank. How was it when Robert Hall stood and spoke as scarcely any uninspired man ever did speak of the glories of Heaven! and as he stood Sabbath after Sabbath preaching on these themes his face kindled with the glory. John Foster, a Christian man, said of this man: "Robert Hall is only acting, and the smile on his face is a reflection of his own vanity." John Wesley turned all England upside down with Christian reform, and yet the punsters were after him, and the meanest jokes in England were perpetrated about John Wesley. What is true of the pulpit is true of the pew; it is true of the street, it is true of the shop, and the store. All who will live godly in Christ Jesus must suffer persecution.

And I set it down as the very worst sign in all your Christian experience if you are, any of you, at peace with all the world. The religion of Christ is war. It is a challenge to "the world, the flesh and the devil;" and if you will buckle on the whole armor of God, you will find a great host disputing your path between this and heaven. But what are you to do when you are assaulted and slandered and abused, as I suppose nearly all of you have been in your life? Go out and hunt up the slanderer? Oh, no, silly man! While you are explaining away a falsehood in one place, fifty people will just have heard of it in other places.

I counsel you to another course. While you are not to omit any opportunity of setting yourselves right, I want to tell you this morning of one who had the hardest things said about Him, whose sobriety was disputed, whose mission was scouted, whose companionship was denounced, who was pursued as a babe and spit upon as a man, who was howled at after He was dead. I will have you go unto Him with your bruised soul, in some humble, child-prayer, saying: "I see Thy wounds—wounds of head, wounds of feet, wounds of heart. Now, look at my wounds, and see what I have suffered, and through what battles I am going; and I entreat Thee, by those wounds of Thine, sympathize with me. And he will sympathize, and He will help. Go and tell Jesus!

Again: I commend the behavior of the disciples to all who may have been bereaved. How many in garb of mourning! If you could stand at this point where I am standing and look off upon this audience, how many signals of sorrow you would behold. God has His own way of taking apart a family. We must get out of the way for coming generations. We must get off the stage that others may come on, and for this reason there is a long procession reaching down all the time into the valley of shadows.

This emigration from time into eternity is so vast an enterprise, that we cannot understand it. Every hour we hear the clang of the sepulchral gate. The sod must be broken. The ground must be ploughed for resurrection harvest. Eternity must be peopled. The dust must press our eyelids. "It is appointed unto all men once to die." This emigration from time into eternity keeps three-fourths of the families of the earth in desolation. The air is rent with farewells, and the black-tasselled vehicles of death rumble through every street.

The body of the child that was folded so closely to the mother's heart is put away in the cold and the darkness. The laughter freezes to the girl's lip, and the rose scatters. The boy in the harvest field of Shunam says: "My head! my head!" and they carry him home to die on the lap of his mother. Widowhood stands with tragedies of woe struck into the pallor of the cheek. Orphanage cries in vain for father and mother. Oh, the grave is cruel! With teeth of stone, it clutches for its prey. Between the closing gates of the sepulchre, our hearts are mangled and crushed. Is there any earthly solace? None. We come to the obsequies, we sit with the grief-stricken, we talk pathetically to their soul; but soon the obsequies have passed, the carriages have left us at the door, the friends who stayed for a few days are gone, and the heart sits in desolation, listening for the little feet that will never again patter through the hall, or looking for the entrance of those who will never come again—sighing into the darkness—ever and anon coming across some book or garment, or little shoe or picture, that arouses former association, almost killing the heart.

Long days and nights of suffering that wear out the spirit, and expunge the bright lines of life, and give haggardness to the face, and draw the flesh tight down over the cheek-bone, and draw dark lines under the sunken eye, and the hand is tremulous, and the voice is husky and uncertain, and the grief is wearing, grinding, accumulating, exhausting.

Now, what are such to do? Are they merely to look up into a brazen and unpitying heaven? Are they to walk a blasted heath unfed of stream, unsheltered by overarching tree? Has God turned us out on the barren common to die? Oh, no! no! no! He has not. He comes with sympathy and kindness and love. He understands all our grief. He sees the height, and the depth, and the length, and the breadth of it. He is the only one that can fully sympathize. Go and tell Jesus. Sometimes when we have trouble we go to our friends and we explain it, and they try to sympathize: but they do not understand it. They cannot understand it. But Christ goes all over it, and all through it. He not only counts the tears and records the groans, but before the tears started, before the groans began, Christ saw the inmost hiding-place of your sorrow; and He takes it, and He weighs it, and He measures it, and He pities it with an all-absorbing pity. Bone of our bone. Flesh of our flesh. Heart of our heart. Sorrow of our sorrow.

As long as He remembers Lazarus's grave He will stand by you in the cemetery. As long as He remembers His own heart-break, He will stand by you in the laceration of your affections. When He forgets the foot-sore way, the sleepless nights, the weary body, the exhausted mind, the awful cross, the solemn grave, then He will forget you, but not until then.

Often when we were in trouble we sent for our friends; but they were far away, they could not get to us. We wrote to them "Come right away," or telegraphed: "Take the next train." They came at last, yet were a great while in coming, or perhaps were too late. But Christ is always near—before you, behind you, within you. No mother ever threw her arms around her child with such warmth and ecstasy of affection as Christ has shown towards you. Close at hand—nearer than the staff upon which you lean, nearer than the cup you put to your lip, nearer than the handkerchief with which you wipe away your tears—I preach him an ever-present, all sympathizing, compassionate Jesus. How can you stay away one moment from Him with your griefs? Go now. Go and tell Jesus.

It is often that our friends have no power to relieve us. They would very much like to do it; but they cannot disentangle our finances; they cannot cure our sickness and raise our dead; but glory be to God that He to whom the disciples went has all power in heaven and on earth, and at our call He will balk our calamities, and, at just the right time, in the presence of an applauding earth and a resounding heaven, will raise our dead. He will do it. He is mightier than Herod. He is swifter than the storm. He is grander than the sea. He is vaster than eternity. And every sword of God's omnipotence will leap from its scabbard, and all the resources of infinity be exhausted, rather than that God's child shall not be delivered when he cries to him for rescue.

Suppose your child was in trouble; how much would you endure to get him out? You would go through any hardship. You would say: "I don't care what it will cost. I must get him out of that trouble."

Do you think God is not so good a father as you? Seeing you are in trouble, and having all power, will He not stretch out His arm and deliver you? He will. He is mighty to save. He can level the mountain and divide the sea, and can extinguish the fire and save the soul. Not dim of eye, not weak of arm, not feeble of resources, but with all eternity and the universe at His feet. Go and tell Jesus. Will you? Ye whose cheeks are wet with the night-dew of the grave; ye who cannot look up; ye whose hearts are dried with the breath of a sirocco; in the name of the religion of Jesus Christ, which lifts every burden, and wipes away every tear, and delivers every captive, and lightens every darkness, I implore you now, go and tell Jesus.

A little child went with her father, a sea Captain, to sea, and when the first storm came the little child was very much frightened, and in the night rushed out of the cabin and said: "Where is father? where is father?" Then they told her: "Father is on deck guiding the vessel and watching the storm." The little child immediately returned to her berth and said: "It's all right, for father's on deck." Oh, ye who are tossed and driven in this world, up by the mountains and down by the valleys, and at your wit's end, I want you to know the Lord God is guiding the ship. Your Father is on deck. He will bring you through the darkness into the harbor. Trust in the Lord. Go and tell Jesus. Let me say that if you do not, you will have no comfort here, and you will forever be an outcast and a wanderer. Your death will be a sorrow. Your eternity will be a disaster.

But if you go to Him for pardon and sympathy, all is well. Everything will brighten up, and joy will come to the heart and sorrow will depart; your sins will be forgiven and your foot will touch the upward path; and the shining messengers that report above what is done here will tell it until the great arches of God resound with the glad tidings, if now, with contrition and full trustfulness of soul, you will only go and tell Jesus.

But I am oppressed, when I look over this audience, at the prospect that some may not take this counsel, and go away unblessed. I cannot help asking: What will be the destiny of these people? So I never care whether it come into the text or not, I never leave my place on this platform without telling them that now is the accepted time, and to some, perhaps, the last time.

Xerxes looked off on his army. There were two million men—perhaps the finest army ever marshaled. Xerxes rode along the lines, reviewed them, came back, stood on some high point, looked off upon the two million men, and burst into tears. At that moment, when everybody supposed he would be in the greatest exultation, he broke down in grief. They asked him why he wept. "Ah," he said, "I weep at the thought that so soon all this host will be dead." So I stand looking off upon this host of immortal men and women, and realize the fact, as perhaps no man can, unless he has been in similar position, that soon the places which know you now will know you no more, and you will be gone—whither? whither? There is a stirring idea which the poet put in very peculiar verse when he said:

> "'Tis not for man to trifle: life is brief,
> And sin is here;
> Our age is but a falling leaf—
> A dropping tear.
> Not many lives, but only one have we—
> One, only one;
> How sacred should that one life ever be—
> That narrow span."

The African Expedition.

The main point of the recent tidings of Emin Bey is a repetition of what was announced several weeks ago, namely, that he had visited King Mwanga. From the new version it appears that he was not actually driven back in an attempt to escape to Zanzibar, but after a prolonged visit was refused permission to pass through. That he had returned to Wadelia was already known. One important addition to the previous news is that the messengers sent from Zanzibar to inform Emin that Stanley was on the road to rescue him were detained by Mwanga. This is unfortunate, as Stanley does not expect to reach Wadelai or its neighborhood before July or August. But there seems to be nothing in the news additionally menancing to Emin's safety. Had Mwanga wished to destroy his European visitors he had an abundant opportunity to do so. The chief matter of regret is that the heroic Governor will not learn as early as he might otherwise have done that an expedition is on the way to relieve him. Still he must count on the fact that Dr. Junker has told his story to the world, and will confidently await the arival of a party to rescue.

THE United States Ordnance Department has made a computation which shows that when a soldier is equipped with rod, bayonet, rifle and cartridge-belt, three days' cooked rations, and 100 rounds of ball cartridges and "kit" of clothing, he carries a total weight of 30 pounds 2.58 ounces. With Springfield rifle, bayonet, scabbard, cartridge boxes and leather belt, clothing, ammunition, etc., the load is 54 pounds 1.84 ounces, and with Springfield rifle, bayonet, cartridge belt, clothing, ammunition, etc., the weight is 53 pounds 15.96 ounces.

STRENGTH IN SUFFERING.

Each weary heart that sorrow fills
With some o'erwhelming woe,
Reaps with his own unnumbered ills
The tears that others sow,
While sadness cumbers day by day,
And weary hours grow long.
Bright hope shall light the clouded way;
Then suffer and grow strong.

Yes! Strong in suffering, strong in hope,
Strong hearts by conscience led,
'Gainst every bitter sin can cope
That rears its vicious head;
Bright germs of hope surround each heart,
The sunshine and the dew,
Regardless of affliction's smart;
Then suffer and be true,

In the red battle-field of life,
Its turbulence and din,
In every scene in human strife,
Temptation, sorrow, sin,
That brings chill pallor to the face,
That mars domestic light,
And smothers every tender grace—
Still suffer and be right.

Refined by suffering, overwhelm'd
With thine and others' cares;
Be true, be brave, be armed and helm'd.
'Gainst current wiles and snares;
Proud in thy strength, heroic pride
Can every ill endure,
Though in temptation doubly tried;
Then suffer and be pure.
—Charles J. Beattie, in Inter-Ocean.

BASE INGRATITUDE.

BY LILY CURRY.

The first two weeks of September are undoubtedly the finest of all summer for ocean bathing. The water has at length become bearably warm, and the waves, though running high, run regularly and with a certain evenness that a fair swimmer can comprehend and count upon. At the resorts along the New Jersey coast, for instance, this is a season of absolute water revelry. The beach is peopled with thousands of figures, happy and picturesque—or grotesque, as the case may be. Child, youth, adult, all are here. The strong swimmer calmly cleaving his way out through the breakers; the timid novice shrinking at each new burst of salty suds, and the would-be brave one, prancing defiantly knee-deep in the mighty brine, yet clinging at the same time with desperate grip to the life-line.

It was not long since, at one of these resorts, a heavenly morning—the sky a sheer dazzle of sun and palest azure; the sea booming grandly on the white sand, and all the merry thousands hastening down to meet it.

Two men and a woman left the fourth of their party, an elderly lady, who was not in bathing costume, as were they, safely ensconced with camp-stool and umbrella, where the sand was quite dry, and tripped lightly down to the first thin edge of the water. To be strictly accurate, but two of them tripped lightly; the woman, who was young and, in her own way, beautiful, and the smaller and less thoughtful appearing of the men. The third of the party followed with a gravity of countenance that was almost absurd in conjunction with his costume. Having entered the water, they naturally separated. The young man was of the slender, willowy, graceful type; a blonde with golden tints of hair and beard. Moreover every word and gesture seemed expressive of intense self-satisfaction and self-gratification, possibly relative to some late personal triumph.

"Come!" he cried, reaching out joyously to the girl. But she drew back; she could not swim. "No?" he said carelessly, and plunged off leaving her there near the other man. This other was also fair of complexion, but his close-shaven hair had the look of brown velvet and his large violet eyes were fringed with lashes almost black.

He had stooped to put some water on his head, and looking up he saw that the young lady stood alone, her gaze resting quietly upon him.

"Shall I take you out a little further?" he asked.

She shook her head, with a fretful curve of the lip.

"You look too sober," she said. "You might want to drown me."

He took no notice of the closing petulance.

"You think I should not look sober, then?"

"I'm sure I think nothing whatever, Mr. Denton. You have relieved me of the necessity."

He took a step nearer to her. His face flushed. There, in the edge of the ocean, was an absurd place to show feeling. But he seemed to forget their surroundings, and to see only her dark, uncommon beauty, her flashing, conquering eyes.

"Elma," he said, quietly, "I have done nothing to merit your enmity; I have been sincere."

"O, yes; but too much sincerity bores one at times."

The young man started, his lips moved, then he seemed to recall some resolution, and no sound issued from his tightly-set jaws.

The girl continued to speak, however, in the same studiously insolent tone. "Why are we standing here? At least you might take me over to the line. I certainly shall have lessons when we go back to town. It is absurd for one to feel so dependent. And these good swimmers are always so selfish."

He put out his hand.

"Come this way," he said, simply.

They made as pretty a picture as any of the thousands of couples who had gone down or were going down together.

Some of the lookers-on upon the beach singled them out and discussed them:

"The young lady in white and scarlet? With the Italian face? The tall young escort in blue and yellow? Miss Warriner—Elma Warriner. Quite rich. Hush! The mother is there with the red umbrella. The young man is Ned Denton; sort of third cousin; used to be engaged to her, but I hear it is off now; she is to marry some one else."

Meanwhile the young couple were out waist-deep. Miss Warriner had grown more gracious.

"Go and swim, Ned," she commanded with a little laugh. "We won't quarrel any more."

"Quarrel?" he repeated. "You think I would quarrel with you? If, as you have told me, it has all been a mistake—our caring for each other—and you really love Fielding, do you think I wouldn't be man enough to desire your welfare first of all? Do you think I would let any memory of one year ago—of last summer—however precious, stand between you and your happiness?"

"We never live over again our 'last summers,'" she replied with some constraint.

"You are right," he echoed, in a lower tone—almost too low to be audible above the water-clamor, "we never live them over * * * There is only one thing I would like to say to you, Elma. You won't be angry. It is this: Be sure you know your own mind."

"You—you think I do not now?" she questioned sharply.

"I cannot tell. I hope you do. Not all men are wont to take such disappointments philosophically. I do not think that Fielding would."

Miss Warriner's cheeks turned a shade paler. Her dusky complexion had a bluish look.

"Are you getting a chill?" cried Denton.

"Not at all. But I don't see Harry anywhere. It is strange he should stay away so long."

Denton put up his hand to shade his eyes and looked out over the water. The sun was dazzling.

"I do not see him either," he answered, and continued to gaze.

"He is a perfect swimmer," said the girl, uneasily. "And he surely would not go out too far."

"Can you stay here alone?" Denton asked, quickly, "or can you go in ashore by the line? I'll look for him."

"I'll go ashore," she had begun to say, when he had plunged out through a big wave, and could no longer hear her.

She turned and slowly made her way back, clinging ever to the sagging rope.

But she had not gone far, when something checked her steps and caused her so turn sharply and face seaward.

A wild outcry for an instant made her heart stand still! A bitter cry, and sudden hoarse shouts. Then the beach blackened with men and women by thousands other than the bathers.

"Man drowning!" That was all. That was the awful cry.

Elma Warriner standing statue like, with eyes straining to know the worst, could not even feel the water that lapped her feet. She was incapable of feeling anything; cold as ice; frozen from head to foot. For now she knew—half intuitively, half by circumstances—that Harry Fielding was out there beyond reach of the boldest and going down to his death.

She could not stir. She could only stand there feeling frozen.

The shouts of outcries constantly increased, until the hubbub was maddening, it seemed to her. And still she stood there, with capability for just one agonized idea;

"If I could only swim!"

Harry Fielding, her lately avowed lover, the man who had weaned her heart from Edwin Denton. Harry out there, battling, struggling, dying!

She fancied she saw his arms flung up for the last time; then—hush! Why should they cheer? What was that? Who was that out there? Could she see the gleam of orange and a paler blue than salty waters? Why should they cheer? Was it because another risked his life to save her lover's? Was it because Ned Denton had not waited, had not hesitated, had gone out there to save the man who had robbed him of her love? Hush! Another cheer! Was she dead herself?

On either side of her some one had caught her arms and was dragging her up the beach. It seemed to her that she must shriek aloud. Yet she was dumb, and growing deaf and blind, she thought. Only her mother caught her in her arms.

"Mother," she cried in a voice that grated with its own agony; "Mother, will they both be lost?"

And now another maddening cheer. The life-savers going out, and strong ropes gradually uncoiling.

"God!" prayed Elma Warriner on her knees, there at her mother's side; "God, if only their strength may last!"

Would the life-savers never reach them? Every second was indescribable torture! Yet the men had responded promptly. It had been hardly minutes since the first alarm.

"Mother, can you—can you see the blue and yellow? Oh, God, save him for his bravery!"

Then she shut her ears with her fingers; the men were drawing in the ropes; the rhythmic, awful chant of the voices measuring the length of pull, and telling when to ease and let out with the ebb of wave.

They were pulling in—what, whom? Would the savers bring one rescued man, one drowned, two drowned, two rescued—or none at all, or not even a cold form with the soul battered out? Who could say?

She held her fingers in her ears. The chant of the toiling men would have crazed her.

And amid louder shrieks and hoarser clamor the savers staggered ashore at last, and laid two forms upon the sand.

Life was in both as yet. But Harry Fielding needed much rolling and skilful manipulating to bring him around. Denton, on the other hand, revived speedily and tried to stand alone upon his feet. His face was as ghastly as the other's, and had the same blue circles around the mouth and eyes.

"I am all right," he murmured feebly, then his half-open eyes fell upon Elma Warriner. She had turned from Fielding's side.

"You saved him," she cried, with an hysterical sob. Perhaps her voice grated again as a little while before.

The throng took up her words with a mighty cheer. Fielding had been carried to his hotel, but the rescuer was yet among them.

"Give me your hand," one man cried, and then another, and "God bless you!" and the women sobbed aloud.

Elma Warriner sank dizzily into her mother's embrace, and heard rather than saw Ned Denton borne home upon men's shoulders—a hero.

* * * * * * * * *

Of the three, Miss Warriner perhaps felt the shock longer than the two who had been so near their deaths that morning. For several days she remained almost wholly in her chamber. Fielding and Denton went about as if nothing had happened. Fielding, who was quite wealthy, showed the other some extra little attentions, it may be, but neither of them alluded in any way to the late almost tragic occurrence.

Elma Warriner, on the other hand, could not refrain from talking of it.

Fielding must have been ill-natured on some other score when one night he responded impatiently to a remark of hers concerning Ned Denton. His answer was almost sneering: "You make a perfect god of him for what he did!"

Elma gazed straight in his face for a moment. She was silent, but her eyes had a dull, ominous gleam.

"If he had been lost," she said, very slowly and coldly, "I should never have forgiven myself."

"Perhaps," said Fielding, angrily, "perhaps I am to take this as an indication of a change in your feelings toward me. Perhaps I am to understand you would like to end the engagement."

They had been sitting together in her mother's cottage parlor. She arose at his words, and, ere leaving the room, said: "You may take it so, if you choose. I adore bravery, and I loathe ingratitude!"

In this way she freed herself.

That evening Denton came to her. They sat for a time in the porch of her mother's cottage.

"Are you sure," he inquired, "are you sure you have made no mistake in breaking your engagement to Fielding?"

She drew more closely about her shoulders a little scarlet shawl she wore.

"I suppose you think that I don't know my own mind," she said. "I suppose you think I haven't any mind of my own."

"It has very much that appearance," he answered, coolly.

She reflected for a moment.

"I have always known my own mind," she said then, quite deliberately, "except on one occasion."

Denton was silent a little space. Then he leaned closer to her. "Will you tell me what the occasion was, and when?" he asked, softly.

She looked at him with tears welling up in her dusky eyes.

"You know!" she answered, tremulously, and laid her head upon his shoulder, where it had always seemed to him to belong!

Feeding Captive Monkeys.

The monkeys in a New York store for the sale of wild animals are served with four courses of food twice a day. The first course, says the Sun, consists of a small frying pan full of diluted milk. One monkey, with blue side whiskers, buried his nose in the milk, and then carefully wiped his muzzle on a board. A rich-brown South American puma, in a cage above that of the monkeys, had been served a small frying pan full of cooked beef. The handle of the frying pan projected from between the bars of the cage. The monkey saw an opportunity to secure an unaccustomed morsel, and he climbed up the iron bars between him and liberty and grabbed the handle. The puma growled a snarling protest, and put his big paw on the frying pan. The monkey was not dismayed, however, but kept on rolling the pan until the meat had been shifted down near the handle of the frying pan. Then he dropped the handle, and, seizing a piece of the beef, began to devour it.

When the big, solemn, 125-pound baboon had his share of milk and water, and the thirst of thirty other monkeys had been assuaged, the second course, consisting of stale bread, was passed around. The monkeys did not take so kindly to the bread, and ate it only after biting off the crust. But the onions, served raw, were heartily relished. So fond, indeed, was the blue-whiskered citizen from an African jungle of this Jersey tid-bit that he ate his own share and then pulled his mate out of a corner by the ear, soundly cuffed her ears, and appropriated her portion of the fragrant vegetable.

The fourth and last course consisted of dried corn, which was rained in upon the monkeys like hail stones. The animals showed their taste in disposing of the corn. They seemed suffused with a sense of repletion, and they cracked the torn kernels of corn with the leisure of gentlemen picking their after-dinner nuts.

Various Kinds of Eyes.

Emerson has well spoken of the eye that threatens like a leveled rifle—how often is it seen! You need not visit camps to find it; the counting-room and the office contain it quite as often, and sometimes it is seen even under crimps. But the threatening eye is not to be confounded with the commanding eye or the wild beast eye. The last mentioned, the most savage and inhuman of all, is seen chiefly under the brows flushed or pale from debauchery, and, according to circumstances, it has a restless or fixed glare. Then there is the cruel and treacherous eye. This is peculiar and rather less common. It is a cold gray—different from the "intellectual gray"—with a dark edge to the eyelid. There is none more thoroughly repellent. Sometimes a yellowish cat-like eye looks at you saying: "I'll deceive you at every opportunity." Other kinds are the secretive eye, set so far back that you can not see the expression, the foxy, the critical, the loving, the sensual, &c. The list is long, but of all the most common is the non-committal eye. So frequent is it that the eye is greatly overrated as a general index of character; we really form our judgment from the rest of the features. When you have well mustered the different kinds of eyes, then try to account for their differences on anatomical principles. The components of an eye's expression are certainly not numerous. There are the color, degree of openness, movement steady or vacillating, &c. Can these material elements alone account for the wonderful transparency you sometimes meet? There are eyes which seem actually open windows, in which the invisible spirit sits and becomes visible to the earthly sense of sight.—Mind and Nature.

Derivation of Niagara.

The word Niagara was probably derived from the Mohawks, through whom the French had their first intercourse with the Iroquois. Some controversy had existed concerning its signification. The Mohawks affirm it to mean neck, in allusion to its connecting the two lakes. It is probably the same both in the Neutral and Mohawk languages, as they were kindred dialects of one generic tongue.—Magazine of American History.

In the way of odd names the following are a little eccentric. They are the names of a family in McDuffie county, Ga.: Lenty Edney, Adney Detney, Elkey Betney, Malchy Ebney and Zebedee Redley,—Savannah News.

SPRING GREETING.

All faintly through my soul to-day
As from a bell that far away
Is tinkled by some frolic fay,
Floateth a lovely chiming.
Thou magic bell, to many a fall
And many a Winter saddened dell,
Thy tongue a tale of Spring doth tell,
Too passionate sweet for rhyming.
Chime out, thou little song of Spring,
Float in the blue skies lavishing,
Thy song of life a joy doth bring
That's sweet, albeit fleeting.
Float on Spring winds e'en to my love
And when thou to a rose shall come
That hath begun to show her bloom,
Say, I send her greeting.
—Sydney Lanier

PITH AND POINT.

The best thing on record is the deed of a corner lot.—Puck.

Warfare—Corned beef and hard tack.—Merchant Traveler.

Boss has named his dog "Wellington," because of the animal's proficiency in rending a bone apart.—Boston Transcript.

The man who would pick another man's pocket would write an anonymous communication to a newspaper.—Lowell Citizen.

In the Alps: Guide—"If the ladies will only stop talking your honor may hear the roaring of the waterfall across the valley."—Fliegende Blaetter.

The baby sucks its dexter finger,
East and West and North and South;
And so the thought must with us linger,
The baby lives from hand to mouth.
—Puck.

In ancient times kissing a pretty girl was a cure for the toothache. "It is difficult to improve upon some of those old-time remedies," sagely remarks the Norristown Herald.

Manners: In the dining-room of respectable society it is not considered correct to put your fingers into the plate before you. But at church, into the plate that is set before you, all are expected to put their alms.—Punch.

A Burlington boy confided to his Sunday School teacher that he had no desire to walk in his father's footsteps, and being pressed for the reason finally admitted that it was because his father toed in.—Burlington Free Press.

"Rain-in-the-Face," one of the Indians who killed Custer, wants to go to school. He will soon change his name to "Hail-on-the-Back," then; unless boys and teachers have changed marvelously since this witness used to miss four lessons a week.—Burdette.

Chickens Artificially Raised.

"For my part I don't see why Dr. Edson seizes all the bob veal and leaves all the spring chickens," said a veal dealer who had just lost a morning's profit through the visit of a lynx-eyed inspector.

"Why do you class the two together?" inquired the reporter.

"Because one is just as immature as the other, and if young veal is unfit for food so are young chickens. Take for instance the eggs hatched by incubators. Any poultry expert will tell you that the flesh of the artificially hatched chicken is as insipid as a snowball, and yet people are willing to pay $3 a pair for them. The incubator folly is, however, less prevalent than it was a few years ago, and fewer people are ruined. It is fair to say that each year, for the past ten years, $1,000,000 have been lost by persons who believed that there was a fortune in hatching eggs with the aid of kerosene oil.

"Ten years ago a gentleman of this city bought a farm up the Hudson and spared no expense in attempting to make it a success of artificial chicken raising. He sunk $50,000 in the enterprise and gave it up as a failure. Last year a prominent type foundry man of this city became infatuated with the incubator craze, sold his snug home in Harlem, bought a place out near Paterson, N. J., and with his family started to hatch chickens with the aid of an incubator. The incubator cost $200. He spent $25 in kerosene oil, $23 in eggs, and hatched out two dozen chickens. Seventeen of them died with the pip. His family became disgusted and left him on the farm with the incubator, the pig and a cow. He couldn't milk the cow nor cook a meal, and when he wrote to the incubator people asking them to take the machine back they offered him $15 for it. An old hen, aided by nature and warm weather, will knock out the incubator in short order, and besides the chickens will live and have some flavor to them."—New York Sun.

Phenomenal Musical Precocity.

Not long ago the first prize at the Paris Conservatory of Music was won by a girl named Renie, who is ten years old, and was so small that the pedals of the piano had to be raised in order that she might be able to reach them. Juliette Bone is the name of an eight-year old artist who has won the first piano prize in a competition at Namur, Belgium. In several German cities Joseph Hoffman, of Warsaw, has given a very successful series of concerts; he is nine years old and has performed several strong compositions of his own in his concerts. Henry Varteau, of Rheims, not yet eleven years old, has been making a brilliant concert tour along the Rhine. The Hagel sisters have given concerts in the German cities of Bamberg, Erfurth and Nordhausen. The youngest of these sisters, six years old, plays the violin; the second, seven years old is a performer of talent on the 'cello; and the oldest, eight years old, plays the piano.—Boston Transcript.

Migration of an Entire Village.

There is a charming Arcadian village called La Tour, situated near Privas, in the Southern Department of Ardeche, which has become uninhabitable, owing to the vast number of crimes that have been committed therein of late. A short time ago a widow named Roche was murdered there by her nephew and niece after she had made her will in their favor, and not long afterward two small farmers quarreled with each other over a small strip of ground which each claimed as his own. The dispute was adjusted by one of the improvised litigants kicking the viscera out of his antagonist and leaving him for dead on the field.

The inhabitants of La Tour, terrified at the epidemic of crime which has swept over their once-peaceful hamlet, have left their houses in a body and migrated to less blood-stained regions.—London Telegraph.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 26, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - - 75
One copy four " - - - - 50

A Pennsylvania girl eloped the other day with a negro, her father's gardner. The love of the Yankee for the "nigger" may never be overcome.

Hon. Samuel Pasco, formerly of Connecticutt, has been elected United States Senator from Florida to fill the vacancy of the redoubtable Senator Jones.

A new paper in Clanton is the idea now agitating the atmosphere. It is a wild idea, but such ideas are frequent in this day and locality. It will help the VIEW to grow.

The Paducah News thinks that if the Hiwaiian Queen had visited the South she would possibly have found things more to her liking. That she would at least have met with some of her "sisters and her cousins and her aunts."

Anglers in the State of New York are being considerably annoyed by a law which makes the catching of a trout less than six inches long a misdemeanor. As the fish have not had the law explained to them four and five inch trout continue to bite.

Michigan abolished the gallows several years ago. Crimes which are usually punished with death are said to have increased greatly in that State since it ceased to hang felons. An effort has recently been made to re-enact the old law but the Leislature refused to do so.

"Why haven't I 600 acre as well as that man riding by in his carriage?" yelled a red-nosed anarchist orator as he glanced at the crowd. "Because he saved $600 and bought his farm when it cost him $1 an acre, and you poured your $600 down your throat," responded a man on the back seat and the orator asked no more conundrums.—Chicago Tribune.

The New Mississippian made the air hot with its reports and comments of the Gambrell assassination, and serves notice that there are three editors on that paper either of whom is willing to lay down his life rather than falter at a journalistic duty; then some one braver will take hold of the paper and carry on the struggle with invincible determination against wrong.

President Cleveland's letter to the Wilmington U. S. Grand Army Post is a sensible and sincere statement of the difficulty with which a conscientious official has to deal in the discharge of public duties. There is a strong resemblance between the matter of fact and homely utterances of Cleveland on such occasions and those of Abraham Lincoln—both strong party men and emphatically the people's Presidents.—N. Y. Star.

Commissioner Oliver Mullins says he is only tickled at the calls of the VIEW for a report of county finances. Commissioner Robinson says he thinks such a report ought to be published at least once a year. The other two commissioners, we learn, object on the score of "unnecessary expense." Very little attention has been given the matter and that is the way the case now stands. Our periodical "fussing" does very little in the way of getting the report published unless it goes in free perhaps. We shall see what we shall see after the July meeting.

The Demand for Cleveland.

The Montgomery Advertiser says: "The Pittsburg Post has interviewed seventy-two Democratic members of the Pennsylvania legislature in regard to the presidential preference. The canvass shows an overwhelming majority in favor of the renomination of President Cleveland, the expression of preference being as follows: For Cleveland, 51; for Hill, 10; non-committal, 11. The Post says most of the non-committal members really prefer the renomination of Mr. Cleveland. The significance of this exhibit is thus summed up editorially by the Post: 'Cleveland will go into the convention of 1888 with the delegates from Pennsylvania.' The outspoken demand of five-sixths of the party cannot be waived by any sort of political intrigue or double dealing. The sentiment is too pronounced and overwhelming to be ignored."

The Vacant Chair.

There is but little doubt that a Southerner will get the vacant seat on the Supreme bench. It has been said that when Mr. Cleveland appointed Senator Jackson, of Tennessee, to the United States Circuit court bench, he intimated to him that when a vacancy occurred on the Supreme bench he should have it. On the other hand, it was said by a friend of Judge Jackson in the Chronicle office yesterday evening that he would not accept the place if it were tendered him. This gentleman said that Judge Jackson had just built a $40,000 home in Nashville, and could spend six months of the year there. That he was rich now aside from his life salary of $7,500 a year and that he would not give up his pleasant circuit to go to Washington to live.

The next man in line for the place is Judge Somerville of our Supreme Court. It is now certain that the bar of Alabama will present Judge Somerville and his chances are very good. Judge Somerville would fill the place most ably.—B'ham Chronicle.

Tell us not in mournful numbers that our town is full of gloom, for the man's a crank who slumbers in these bursting days of boom. Life is real, life is earnest, and the grave is not its goal; every dollar that thou turnest helps to make the young town roll. But enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way; if you have no money, borrow—buy a corner lot each day! Lives of great men all remind us we can win immortal fame; let us leave the chumps behind us, and we'll get there just the same. In this world's broad field of battle, in the bivouac of life, let us make the dry bones rattle—buy a corner lot for wife! Let us then be up and doing, with a heart for any fate, still achieving, still pursuing—booming early, booming late.—Jere Dennis in the Wylie (Texas) Herald.

Public sentiment in Selma is so clearly demonstrated in regard to her municipal affairs, that he who runs may read. The appointment of two negroes on the police force of the city, of extreme radical sentiments and with radical records of a most unsavory character, to the exclusion of a tried officer, who had nearly lost his life in the performance of his duty, and of a democratic negro of excellent record, has met with the most unqualified disapproval of the citizens of the city, and is regarded with apprehension by the democracy of the county. It is the duty of the city council to take heed in time. They cannot ignore the sentiment of the city that has been made manifest on this subject for the past few days.—Selma Times.

One of the editors of the New York Commercial Advertiser has had a curious experience. When Phœbe Cary died he wrote an appreciative editorial about the Cary sisters. That was years ago. Recently this editor received from a contributor, as an original article, this same editorial copied verbatim.

This is almost as curious as something that occurred in this office. Soon after General Cleveland Forsyth received a manuscript poem for publication entitled "Clanton's Charge at Booneville." He handed it over to his associate who recognized it as a production of his own, written on the head of a drum just after the engagement, and which was published in some of the papers during the war.—Mobile Register.

A representative of the VIEW was accosted by a farmer the other day, who said: "If it were not for the newspapers the inter-State Commerce law would be enforced at once as it should be." Passing on a saw mill man and railroad man were met and their chorus was: "If it were not for the newspaper this abominable inter-State law would not have deen foisted upon the country." So its all the fault of the paper. Perhaps if it hadn't been for the paper in the early days of this old world the flood would have been postponed, or mother Eve would never have come into being, and we would all have been happy. May the devil take the newspapers.

A Gritty Editor.

Some of the leading business men of town said they would not patronize this paper and it would soon starve out. Now don't fret yourself about starving any body out, for if you don't advertise in this paper you will starve yourself out, and that in the near future.—Calera Labor Advocate.

The VIEW upholds the organised Democracy, but is not blind to party defects. It wants no office, and prefers to battle for the good of the party and for a high christian civilization in its own way. Its columns are open for the free discussion of all public questions of a political nature. But when it comes to moral questions—such as the prohibition of the whiskey traffic—its columns can be used only by the side that seeks to further the cause of morality. A kind Providence has piloted us over many shoals in the past, and it is now evident that the same great aid will be with us in the future.

A Newspaper Wager.

A few days since the Macon Telegraph announced the conviction that "if Jefferson Davis lives five years longer and retains his faculties he will address the people of Boston in Fanueil Hall upon the subject of constitutional liberty." This declaration appears to have excited the amiable and esteemed Philadelphia Press, which rises to remark "we are willing to bet our esteemed cotemporary a bushel of marrowfat peas against a Georgia yam that Mr. Davis will do nothing of the sort, providing the people of Boston see him first." The Telegraph promptly accepts the wager, as follows: "It's a whack; and we feel all the more sure of the marrowfats when we remember that the Press once staked a great deal more upon the election of James Gillespie Blaine, of the State of Maine."

Don't Read Enough.

Montezuma (Ga.) Record: Golden moments once lost can never be re-called. It is astonishing how little some young men and young women read. This fact can readily be discovered in coming in contact with them in society. They are as full of nonsense and idle gossip as an office dog is of fleas, but when it come to talking on some theme which requires thought, study, research and the companionship of a high order of instructive books they are as blank as a board and as green as a bay tree in spring time. There can be no plausible excuse given for such stupidity. Books, newspapers and oil are cheap, and leisure time in abundance, especially during the long winter evenings. Young people should turn over a new leaf for the new year, and the new leaf should be in some good book. Our advice is to study more and frolic less if you desire to fit yourselves for the society of cultivated people.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalize. is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

ELECTION NOTICE.

Under and by virtue of an order made by the Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, there will be an election held in the town of Clanton at the usual place of voting in said town, on Wednesday, the 1st day of June, 1887, for the election of the following officers of said town, to-wit: One intendant and five Councillors.

The following named persons have been appointed inspectors of said election, viz: J. M. Ponder, John Garner and W. D. Statter.

Witness this 23d day of May, 1887.
J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff.

Tax Sale.

Under and by virtue of decrees rendered at the regular term of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 9th day of May, 1887, by Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Alabama, I will proceed to sell in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, between the legal hours of sale, on Monday, June 20th, 1887, the following described real estate for the taxes and cost due thereon, for the year 1886, viz:

BEAT 1.

Unknown Owner, the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Taxes and costs, $4.86. Printer's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 2.

Harrison Foshee, the sw ¼ of the s e ¼ S 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ S 7 t 23 r 13. Taxes and costs $4.62. Pr's fee $1.32.

French Nabors, the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $3.43. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Thomas Peters, the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12. Taxes and costs $17.84. Pr's fee $2.88.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cents.

Unknown Owner, the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 4.

John Attaway the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Taxes and costs $8.97. Pr's fee $1.77.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 5.

D. T. Blakey, the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Taxes and costs $7.14. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s ½ of the s e ¼ sec 15, t 20 r 15. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

G. L. Zimmerman, the e ½ of fractional section 28, t 22, r 16. Part of sec 27 t 22 r 16. Taxes and costs $11.52. Pr's fee $1.05.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the n e q, sec 19 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner the n e q of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $5.90. Pr's fee 80 cts.

R. A. Warner, Agent, a house and lot in Verbena. Taxes and costs $25.41. Pr's fee 70 cts.

W. L. Whitworth, the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $5.27. Pr's fee 96 cents.

BEAT 6.

J. E. Butler the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33, t 20 r 11. Taxes and costs $4.75. Pr's fee $1.28

R. R. Caruthers, the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e qr of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Taxes and costs $6.59. Pr's fee $2.13.

D. A. WHITE,
Clanton, Ala., Tax Collector,
May 11, 1887. Chilton Co.

Notice!

All persons trespassing on lands lying in Chilton county, belonging to the estate of Dr. Gant late of Talladega county, deceased, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. John F. Maull is my authorized agent to take care of said lands and prevent trespass on the same.
JOHN T. HEFLIN,
ma12-4t Administrator.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

NOTICE NO. 6370.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Edward T. Rhodes, Homestead 12457 for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 8, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Vinson Gragg, George Mims, Joseph Gore, and James W. Knox, all of Clanton, Ala.
ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6371.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Reason L. Woolly, Homestead 13154, for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 14, township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Garner, John B. Moore, Shelby Coshatt, Joseph W. Reynolds, all of Montevallo, Ala.
ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Register's Sale.

State of Alabama, Chilton county. B. H. Chesnutt vs. John H. Easterling.

By virtue of a decree rendered at the April term, 1887, of the Chancery Court at Clanton, of the 7th district, northeastern chancery division of said State, in the above entitled cause, I shall proceed to sell at public outcry, at the courthouse door, in Chilton county, on the first Monday in June, 1887, between the legal hours of sale for cash, the following described real estate situated in Chilton county, to-wit: The s w ¼ of sec. 3, township 21, range 15 east.
m5-4 W. E. STEWART, Register.

Probate Notice.

State of Alabama, Chilton county. Estate of Jesse Attaway, Deceased.

Probate Court, 5th day of May, 1887.

To Elizabeth Adams, wife of Joel Adams, B. T. Attaway, Elvina Beard, wife of Eli Beard, John Attaway, E. W. Attaway, Matilda Smitherman, wife of J. P. Smitherman, Sally Campbell wife of John Campbell, Harrison Attaway, John W. Attaway and all other persons interested. Take notice that this day came J. P. Smitherman, the administrator of said estate and filed his statement, accounts and evidence for a final settlement of his administration. It is ordered that the 13th day of June, 1887, be appointed a day upon which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.
H. J. CALLEN,
ma12 Probate Judge Chilton Co.

THE CHICAGO
COTTAGE
ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THE
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo.
CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!
During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!
COLLINS
AGUE CURE
One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.
If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S
Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY
Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.
If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.
Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.
SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. 'PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAS' for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun24-y

L&N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Southern Business College.
NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
NO TEXT BOOKS USED.
BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.
For circulars call at college or address
Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALARY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Successors to
MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.
Jobbers and Retailers of
Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,
Painters' and Artists' Supplies.
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.
1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., MAY 26, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	2:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	10:36 a. m.
No. 4	9:13 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

A beef market has been established in Clanton.

Maj. J. L. Harrell, was in to see us yesterday. As usual he was looking fine.

Mr. W. M. Wilson is improving the appearance of his residence by having it painted.

Prof. G. L. Speer, of Lily, was in Clanton Monday, and gave the VIEW a pleasant call.

Mr. F. J. Davis, of Birmingham, spent a few days with his family at this place last week.

Several ladies and gentlemen from this place attended a picnic at Shelby Springs yesterday.

Miss Mollie Thornton, a charming young lady from Eufaula, is visiting relatives in Clanton.

The meeting of the county democratic executive committee on last Monday was well attended.

Many of our citizens were shocked last Saturday—a man with an electric battery was in the burg.

The colored people enjoyed a magic lantern show at their church in this place last Saturday night.

Mr. J. M. Ponder, of Clanton, brings us the first cotton square. His cotton will soon be blooming.

The senior editor is in Birmingham attending the annual meeting of the Ala. Press Association.

Mr. B. H. Chesnutt, of this place, has gone to Birmingham to conduct the lumber business of Mr. Ehrman,

Mrs. H. Callen, of Summerfield, Dallas county, died last week. She was a sister-in-law of Judge H. J. Callen, of this place.

The VIEW cabinet has had an addition made to it by Mr. J. M. Dawson in the shape of several pieces of petrified roots of a tree.

Mr. W. N. Jones, of Verbena, was in to see us Monday. He reports a good rain through his section on Friday and crops are looking well.

A party of Clantonians will go out to Mt. Zion church next Sunday in a wagon to attend the district meeting to be held at that church.

Gordon DuBose, Esq., who is well known in this place, has gone to Centreville, Bibb county, where he will practice law. See his card in another column.

Rev. A. E. Burns filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday morning and night. He preached two excellent sermons to the usual good congregations.

We are sure that the sufferer with Piles who gives Tabler's Buckeye Ointment a trial will experience a complete cure and go on his way rejoicing that there is a remedy for piles composed of simple ingredients which fulfil the purpose of this excellent preparation more completely than all the so-called pile remedies in existence.

Our clever druggist Mr. W. H. Phillips cut one of his feet very badly last week by letting a chisel fall on it. He is still able to hop around to wait on customers and fill prescriptions.

Sampey's Corner.

I am now prepared to sell nice fresh butter to the town trade. New goods of all kinds just received, and marked low down to suit the scarcity of money. Now is the time to get a nice, summer dress and get it ready for the picnic. New hats in desirable styles at any price from 15 cents to $1.25. Come and see the new goods even if you do not buy.

Work on the new Methodist church was suspended for a few days last week on account of a shortage in lumber. The carpenters are again at work however and the work is progressing well.

Our young friend "Rube" Duke has just returned from Louisville, Ky., where he has been attending the Southern Business College. His general average on his "sheepskin" shows that he made a good record there.

Disease is no respecter of persons, and there is something about an effectual remedy for it that appeals to common humanity characterized by the highest intellect, or simplest intelligence, and which possesses an interest alike for rich and poor. Such is Coussens' Honey of Tar, a well tried remedy for coughs, colds, and diseases of throat and lungs.

Attention Citizens.

There will be a mass meeting of the white citizens of Clanton at the court house in said town on Saturday, May 28th, at 8 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of placing a ticket in the field for town officers.

The hot well development only needed a starter and now that it has one in the person of Dr. Massey, of Rockford, the public may expect to soon see this movement followed up by others and the fame of our little city and its hot well will be forthcoming.

"Ring out the old; ring in the new!" has no reference to medicines. The numerous novelties in that line which have only an ephemeral existence are scarcely worthy to be mentioned in the same category as that old reliable remedy known as Coussens' Honey of Tar, which our grandfathers used when the boys and girls had coughs, colds, and diseases of the throat and lungs.

Crops.

Good rains are reported throughout the section east of the L. & N. R. R., in Chilton, and crops are looking well. No rains of any consequence in the immediate vicinity of Clanton for many weeks and gardens and crops are suffering—the oat crop being almost a failure.

The county democratic executive committee at its meeting last Monday endorsed Prof. R. E. R. Hicks, the principal of Clanton Academy, for the office of county Supt. of Education, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Prof. W. U. Acree, of Verbena. The State Supt. could not do better than act upon this endorsement and appoint Prof. Hicks to fill the office.

This section was visited by a considerable wind storm Tuesday at noon. Several trees were blown down. The blacksmith shop of Mr. Williams just west of the depot was completely demolished by a large oak tree being blown down on it. A horse that was in the shop at the time was slightly crippled. The men who were working in the shop managed to get out in time to escape injury.

Dr. A. J. Massey purchased twenty-six lots at the hot well on Monday in addition to those he had previously bought. He will commence building right away. He proposes to put up a good size bath house with several bath rooms in it and have two water pipes to each bath tub, one for the hot water and one for cold, so the temperature can be regulated as desired by the bather.

Municipal Election.

The municipal election has been ordered for Wednesday, June 1st. Though we doubt to some extent the success of such a movement while the town is so small, yet it may result in much benefit, and the signers of the petition asking that the election be ordered had only an experiment in view which they hope may redound in permanent good to the community.

"A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck," was one of president Garfield's truisms. Let not proverty," he said, "stand as an obstacle in your way. Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine cases out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man, is to be tossed overboard and be compelled to sink or swim for himself. In all my experience I have never known one to be drown who was worth saving."

The Maiden's Dream.

Softly stole the moon's silvery light over dewy grasses, where floated summer's fragrant breath on zephyr's noiseless wings, on to the honeysuckles clustering flowers that half hid the partly drawn curtains, and sought in kisses soft and sweet, the rosy lips of a sleeping maiden. Her tresses of golden hair rolled in graceful curls from off her soft white forehead. One arm lay half arched above her head; and in her fingers so divinely shaped, she gently clasped a rose that scarce matched the bloom on her cheek; while closed were her mild blue eyes, and slowly heaved her half-bared breast. But look. A dream has passed, and seems to throw a wave of thought across the sweetly expressive face, as flies the shadows over fields of golden grain. She dreams a lover breathes his heart in accents low, and now she gently feels his arm steal round her waist. Her fingers drop the rose, and quickly move to meet his hand in its delicate pressure. But it meets nothing, and she turns and sleeps again. Another dream has come. Still there seems an arm around that slender form, though not a lovers. For surely now she feels the scratching nails of some rough hand that tears deep into her tender flesh, as some one holds her fast in his iron grasp. Wildly she opens her eyes, that seem now to flash darts of fire; firmly clenches those pearly teeth, and curls those ruby lips; while those quick fingers are closed into a snowy fist, and her bosom draws its breath quick and short. All is ready for defence. But wait. No one is near. What then has caused this dream of pleasure at first and then of fright? Quickly she unbuttons her ruffled gown, when in all his glory out rolls a tremendous—BED BUG.

SHACK.

Comes Out all the Same.

"There must be somebody backing that paper, for I ordered my paper stopped, and I know three or four who got mad and stopped theirs, but the blamed paper seems to come out just the same." Foolish man, don't think that because you got on your ear and stopped your paper it will make any perceptible difference with the run of the office. The same article that you got mad at, tickled half a dozen other men so that they came and subscribed. Always remember that a paper is not run for the benefit of one person, but for all. Go and take a drink out of Lake Superior, and then look along the shore and see how much you have lowered the water. When you have ascertained the exact figures, you can put them down as representing pretty accurately just how much you amount to, individually, toward the success or failure of the average newspaper.—Donsville Breeze.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Dots From About Cooper's.

We have good rains in this section and crops are looking well. West of Cooper's on cur ed clay soil the best crops in the county are raised.

Messrs. Gullahorn are running there mill near our depot regularly now and their enterprise with the log hauling makes things quite lively in this "neck o' the woods."

Rev. J. M. Stanfield preaches regularly once a month at the Methodist Protestant Church near Mim's place. He filled his regular appointment there last Sunday.

The residence of Mr. P. C. Dennis with its new coat of paint and beautiful growth of shrubbery presents a very pleasant picture for the eye of the denizen of our village.

Mr. Ed. Marsh has moved here with his family. He is welcome by old friends here.

Mr. Wm Wright, of this place, is a thorough going young business man who deserves success. He is now engaged in saw milling.

Mr. P. C. Dennis is still the leading merchant here. He is a christian gentleman whom all like to patronize.

WANDERER.

Stanton Puffs.

The Methodists succeeded in organizing their church here last Sabbath with seventeen members. The presiding elder is expected to be with them next fourth Sabbath.

The house occupied by W. J. Ruddeck very narrowly escaped being destroyed by fire last Saturday. The mill whistle brought the entire fire brigade to the rescue and the flames were soon under control.

Died near Clanton Ford, May 21st, Miss Beulah Rucker, in the 16th year of her age.

Rev. W. J. Ruddeck will preach in the Baptist church next Sabbath instead of 1st in June.

The measles have now somewhat subsided in the Clanton Ford neighborhood much to the relief of our worthy physician, Dr. Little.

89 received the doubled and twisted compliment sent by the editor.

Stanton will now have preaching every Sabbath in the month, and we hope that great success will crown the efforts of all the preachers this year.

89.

Verbena Views.

Dry weather.

Mumps measles and disentery came so near the Watchman last week that his dots failed.

A good deal of sickness in our community, of the above named diseases.

We had a rain Saturday evening which was badly needed. It makes us all very cheerful to enjoy the delightful air.

Mr. Wells returned home from a four weeks visit to friends and relatives in Texas, he reports times prosperous out there and the people seem cheerful over the future.

Mr. Josiah Morris and family will move from Montgomery to Verbena this week to spend the summer, also Mr. Barrett and family, we are proud to welcome them in our midst.

Another accident for the Pratt Mill Company Saturday night at 1 o'clock. The new steam pump and boiler put up six weeks ago caught fire some way it is not known how. When discovered the house was falling in. It being four hundred yards from the Mills wasn't seen soon enough to save it. The damage is supposed to be $250. No insurance.

Mr. E. H. Wingate and wife went to Birmingham Friday, to join Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Brittle in a sad experience; to share their sorrows in burying their infant babe. All we have to say is weep not father or mother for your babe is gone to rest try and follow it.

The Baptist Sunday school will have childrens day the 3rd Sunday in June.

The Rev. L. G. Skipper while on his Louisville trip went to the Mammoth Cave in company with several other ministers and while in the cave they sang a hymn and had prayer. We would call it subterranean prayer.

Rase Clark's wife, a colored woman, died last week at Pratt Mills.

We are sorry to report so much sickness at Bozeman Ala. Mr. Henry Evans' wife is very low at this writing and is not expected to live.

We think the VIEW will get several subscribers from our community on the strength of the articles calling for the county Treasurer's report. Call again. It is the voters right to know where the money goes. Success to our county paper.

WATCHMAN.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Sick Headache and a sensation of oppression and dullness in the head are very commonly produced by indigestion; morbid despondency, irritability and over-sensitiveness of the nerves may, in a majority of cases, be traced to the same cause. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm and Pillets will positively cure. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. sepl1 3

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Take one of Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets at night before you go to bed and you will be surprised how buoyant and vigorous you will feel the next day. Only 25 cents a vial.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton. jun16y

Life will acquire new zest, and cheerfulness will return, if you will impel your liver and kidneys to the performance of their functions Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm will stimulate them to healthful action. $1.00 per bottle. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

If you are suffering with weak or inflamed eyes, or granulated eyelids, you can be quickly cured by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cents a box. For sale by M. J. Greene Clanton.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR. LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT! DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To Mothers," mailed free.

Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga.

C. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS, AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala

SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhoea, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.

PARSONS' PILLS

MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C. H. St., Boston.

MAKE HENS LAY

Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food. [illegible]

GORDON DUBOSE,

Attorney at Law,

CENTREVILLE, ALA.

SALESMEN WANTED!

To canvass for the sale of Nursery Stock! Steady employment guaranteed. Salary and expenses paid. Apply at once, stating age. (Refer to this paper). CHASE BROTHERS, mar31-2m Rochester, N. Y.

Saw Mill Men.

I am now prepared to hammer your buckled saws. Just received a new outfit of tools for hammering. Can return a saw in 4 days after it arrives. Satisfaction guaranteed. Remittance after trying the saw. Ship to Pratt Saw Mill Co. WM. R. HOLDER.

[feb24 3m]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop

—BY—

MEREDITH CANN,

Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜

Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,

Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds

Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your pictures taken. [illegible]

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from [illegible] to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of [illegible] is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

SOME OF THE POLITICAL SLANG.

Senator John Sherman Tells About Looking After Fences and Laying Pipes.

"Well, how did they treat you in the South, Senator?"

"Splendidly; splendidly indeed," and there was a tone of unusual enthusiasm in his voice as he said it.

"You're going home to look after your fences, of course?"

The Senator laughed heartily.

"Do you know," he inquired, "how that expression originated?" "No!" "Then I'll tell you. While I was Secretary of the Treasury I came home to Mansfield for a few days at one time. As soon as I got there there was an influx of newspaper correspondents from all parts. Some of them announced that I was getting ready to run for Governor; others that I was working up a boom for the Presidential nomination. One of them came to me and boldly asked me what I was doing in Ohio. It just happened that on that day I had contracted with a man to repair some fences on my place that were in a tumbled-down condition. So when that newspaper man asked me what I was doing in Ohio, I told him that I had come home to look after my fences. He published what I said; the expression was taken up by the papers and went all over. It has even been used on some occasions in the British Parliament. It's funny how these political expressions originate. In some city just before election the Democrats employed an immense number of laborers to lay water pipes. That's what gave rise to the expression 'layin' pipes.' You remember that at one time the Democrats were called Locofocos. During a Democratic meeting in New York the participants grew so turbulent that it became necessary to extinguish the lights. The participants, left in total darkness, pulled out locofocos, as the old-fashioned matches were called. That's where that name originated."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Perfect Weld Without Fire.

A correspondent of the Blacksmith writes as follows: "I never never seen anything in the columns of your paper relative to making a perfect weld of steel without fire or borax. A job came to my shop a few days ago in the shape of two pieces of three-quarter inch round steel, welded together end to end. A taper plug of steel was in one end of a shaft on which a corn was running. The plug of steel was bearing against a piece of steel in the frame, the object of this being to tighten the burrs. Owing to a loose box on the shaft, the shaft got to jumping, giving a side motion and creating friction enough to weld the two pieces of steel together as stated. The two pieces of steel were hardened."

It is not a very uncommon thing, adds the Scientific Press, for a steel spindle in a spinning mechanism, when running at great speed, as it does in a steel cap, with perhaps a little wabbling, to suddenly stop its motion and become thoroughly welded to the cup. Of course this can occur only when the oil in the cup is exhausted.

A newsman traveling through Virginia threw a package that he did not want out of a car window. Some one thinking the package had been lost from a postal car, picked it up and sent it to the dead letter office at Washington. After a week's search the package was returned to its original owner.

The Jews in Russia.

A commission has been for several years past occupied in Russia with inquiries as to the number of Jews, and especially as to their position as landholders, with a view to contemplating legislation on the subject. Some results of the investigations have lately been published. According to the census statistics of 1881 relating to sixteen governments of the south and west of the empire there were 2,930,639 Jews of both sexes in a total population of 25,500,000—i. e., at the rate of 11½ per cent. The Hebrew element is most largely represented in Lithuania and White Russia, and least in Little Russia. In Minsk it is as one in five, while in Kharkov the proportion is one to 250.

In general the Jews prefer to settle in villages, or in towns that are not seats of government. A striking example of their preponderance is shown in the hamlets of the Troki district (Wilna), where they form 92 per cent. of the population. Regarding their position as owners or occupiers of land in the above-mentioned provinces, which contain 37,000,000 acres in all, it appears that they have purchased 1,800,000 acres from the nobles since 1861, and they hold 5,250,000 acres as tenant farmers. These lands they do not cultivate themselves, but let or sub-let them, as the case may be, in small lots, to the peasants of neighboring villages. Their profits as middlemen have hitherto been very large. There are instances in Bessarabia, Volhynia and Kherson of extensive districts hired by them at from one-third to two roubles an acre, and re-let in small lots at four to five roubles per acre.

In Bessarabia they have obtained long leases of agricultural land belonging to some foreign convents which they have sub-let in some cases for twenty roubles per faltcha, a local measure equal to nearly three acres. In Podolia almost all the large estates situated in the basins of the affluence of Dneister are held by Jews at long terms. The system of agriculture pursued under these new masters is found to be no better than that of other classes of land speculators. The soil is exhausted after five or ten years' cropping, and it is not to be wondered at that within the last decade there has been a fall of thirty per cent. in the value of landed property.

Wood and Bones in a Deep Well.

The Eureka (Col.) Times says:—

In addition to bits of charred wood, which we noticed the other day as having been brought up from a depth of 500 feet in the artesian well which the Ricks Water Company is drilling, we have been shown pieces of shells such as are common along the ocean beach. These came up from as far down as 589 feet, which depth has now been reached. These fragments of shells are found in considerable quantity, and Mr. Ricks informs us also that two or three pieces of bone from the skeleton of a bird have come up. The finding of such things so deep in the earth is exciting considerable interest in the community, and the inquiry naturally arises, How came they there? It seems pretty conclusive that at some period the strata in which they are embedded were not below the level of the sea. At some time those shells were on the surface, and on the surface, in ages past, somebody kindled the fire that charred those bits of wood; some time that bird was winging about above ground. But when was that, and by what means were they entombed in so deep a sepulchre?

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

The Summer Girl.

Oh! the summer girl, with her golden hair
 And her robe of snowy lawn,
And her blushing cheeks is a vision as fair
 As the summer morning's dawn.
Her cheeks are the blushing skies sun-kissed,
Her dress is the morning's fleecy mist,
 Her eyes are the ocean's fathomless blue,
 And her lips are the rosebuds fresh with dew.

—Boston Courier.

Marriages in Turkey.

The following is from Emile Julliard's article in the Cosmopolitan on "Life Beneath the Crescent:" Marriage receives scarcely more attention among the Turks than birth and death, and there is but little embarrassment from the administrative formalities that precede and accompany this solemn act in the West. There are no bans, no announcements, no registrations. A man obtains a wife just as he would buy a bouquet; but neither the buyer nor the seller, nor the intermediary, asks for a receipt. As it is forbidden a man to enter the harem of another (even if he were a near relative of the latter) to see a young woman and talk with her, there are no marriages for love and no engagements. One father meets another father, and says to him: "You have a son and I have a daughter. If the mother of your son knows my daughter, let us strike a bargain; if she does not know her, let them see each other, and then let us close up the business." The conditions are discussed, the dowry haggled over, then all the arrangements between the parents are made and the young people introduced to each other.

Let us add in passing, that among us the marriages that are contracted in the great capitals of Europe, especially in Paris, do not depart far from this programme. In France, however, a man is still allowed to behold the object for the acquisition of which negotiations are in progress. In Turkey this is forbidden; there, marriage is a lottery indeed.

Turkish girls are promised usually when they are very young, even at a tender age, when they are only three or four years old. If the young bride should happen to die before her marriage, or be required for the Sultan's harem—for it may be premised that this is a case that breaks all engagements, and is esteemed as a great honor by parents—the intended husband is not expected to weep over what he loses, for he has never seen it. When the young girl reaches her twelfth or thirteenth year, or somewhat later, her fourteenth year, she receives the nuptial blessing, and the husband cannot see the face of his wife until after the ceremony.

No woman, not even the wife, takes part in the solemnity of marriage, which is effected by proxy, delegated to an uncle or to an elder brother, often with a full beard, who plays the role of the bride. The parents of the couple sign the contract before the imam of their quarter, in the presence of a few friends, who act as witnesses. The nuptials are then celebrated by the families with a calmness and gravity that would be as suitable for a funeral as for a wedding.

The sexes never mingle at these festivals. The men take their pleasure in silence in their selamik; the women, a little more noisily—it is but natural—in the haremlik.

If the wife is too young or has delicate health, she is not entrusted to her husband. She is quickly shut up at her mother's, or at her mother-in-law's, sometimes for more than a year, until it shall please the latter to re-unite her with her husband. It even happens that the husband has had time to take a second wife before receiving his first.

It is not, however, always happiness that the young wife finds in her new situation, where she is often obliged to share with companions, and even with black and white slaves, the heart and the attentions of her husband. How often have the poor creatures exchanged their maiden seclusion, a captivity that a mother always knows how to make pleasant, for another seclusion more narrow, more severe, often aggravated by the neglect of her husband, or by the brutality and the bad treatment of a detestable guardian!

Fashion Notes.

Very fine jet beads are used for hat trimming.

Copper buttons are a novelty for outside garments.

The latest sun umbrellas look like so many huge posies.

A gold cord is one of the latest designs in jewelry for the neck.

There are a great many new braids in English, Neapolitan, Milan, and Tuscan straws, in chips and American straws.

The new applique lace looks very like embroidery and is a very dressy trimming for summer costumes of thin fabrics.

Surahs with a pin-head dot in white are quite new this season. They are of American manufacture and very wide.

Spangles are having a day of their own and appear in all sorts of impossible places from the shoes to the head-gear.

Aigrettes for the hair are invariably of a tuft of ostrich plumes in one or two shades; sometimes even three are allowable.

The white plush card case has an interlining of sachet powder which is delicate enough to just suggest an odor to the cards.

The ribs of the rich new parasols are tipped with tortoise shell, gilt or silver, after the old fashions in our grandmothers' times.

White dresses promise to be more generally worn than ever before, and many of the new materials are very dainty and beautiful.

Alys cloth is a new black dress material, and is the most desirable of all black fabrics. It has a silk warp and its softness and even texture render it suitable for the finest wear.

Beads of every color, pale pink, amber, blue and white, as well as jets, garnets, steel, silver and gold-lined beads that do not tarnish, are made into passementeries for trimming.

Leather buttons are the novelty in this important detail of the costume. These are an alligator skin or the smooth Russia leather and in large and small sizes, and are suitable for walking suits and jackets.

Gray and pale shades of tan are the popular colors for undressed kid gloves, and they must have three rows of heavy stitching on the back, and fastened with four rather large silvered or gilt metal buttons.

Very few dress-makers remain faithful to the balayeuse. The lace or embroidered edging was often getting unsewn, and it was not an impossible thing to trip and fall over a straggling end. In its place two narrow flounces of silk, of the same color as the dress, are sometimes used, but more often nothing at all.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

No time is ever lost that is devoted to work.

One foolish act may undo a man, and a timely one make his fortune.

Common sense in an uncommon degree is what the world calls wisdom.

If we do not flatter ourselves, the flattery of others will not be able to injure us.

What is really best for us lies always within our reach, though often overlooked.

The worst prison is not of stone. It is of a throbbing heart, outraged by an infamous life.

Economy has the same effect upon our fortunes as good breeding has upon our conversation.

Courage is generally of the highest order, for the brave are prodigal of the most precious things.

Most people would succeed in small things, if they were not so commonly troubled with great ambitions.

True glory takes root, and then spreads; all false pretenses, like flowers, fall to the ground; nor can any counterfeit last long.

A beautiful woman is a practical poet, taming her savage mate, planting tenderness, hope and eloquence in all whom she approaches.

It is the close observation of little things which is the secret of success in business, in art, in science, and in every pursuit in life.

In our spring-time every day has its hidden growths in mind, as it has in the earth when the little blades are getting ready to pierce the ground.

In the whole universe, there are no agents to work out the misery of a soul like its own fell passion; not the fire, the darkness, the flood or the tempest.

Peasants of the Azores.

With exports falling off and no manufacturing interests to speak of the condition of the Azorean peasantry is deplorable, writes a correspondent of the Boston Herald. To add to these evils most of the islands are over populated and wages are extremely low, unskilled labor at times commanding no more than fifteen or twenty cents of our money per day. Of course, the cost of living is very little, or people could not exist on these wages; but it is only a bare existence that the poorer classes obtain. Their food is of the coarsest description, their clothing confined to a few garments of cheap material, and their houses are almost bare of furniture. Many of these houses are unfloored, and have not even a table or chair. The women sit on rugs of native linen spread flat on the floor, and their children are allowed to run entirely naked or with one loose garment reaching from the shoulders to the hips.

It is no wonder that, under the circumstances, great numbers of the islander emigrate. Thousands have gone to the Sandwich Islands and to America, where the great majority settle in California, and more are going every year. The Portuguese laws regulating emigration are very strict, and no young man over eighteen years of age is allowed to go away unless he has served in the army, stood a draft, or will furnish bonds in $300 to come back and serve if drafted. These laws are frequently evaded, and the business of taking off "contraband" passengers by American whalers and other vessels are as common as smuggling.

Speculating for Charity.

The every-day life of men like Jay Gould, Russell Stage and others of their class has a hundred cares growing out of and yet not connected with their stocks and bonds, writes a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times. Hardly a day passes that all the great leaders are not pestered by scores of little speculators, each anxious to get a "pointer" from the men who can bring about a panic in five hours if they wish, and hardly a day passes that they do not give a dozen bits of advice. "Tell me what to do, Mr. Sage," burst out an excited intruder in that gentleman's office recently; "tell me what stock to operate in for a turn? That's all I ask. I can't afford to lose a cent. My folks are in want of the necessaries of life." Mr. Sage told him that it was pretty difficult to say what to do, but after thinking a bit told him to buy 100 shares of a certain stock. "I think you will make $100 on it," he added, "but if the market goes against you, I'll protect the stock." The man made his $100, and next evening, when Mr. Sage returned to his home, Mrs. Sage showed him a letter from the wife of the man who had appealed for aid, thanking her in the warmest terms for the conduct of her husband.

The Staked Plain of Texas.

The staked plain of Texas—Llana Estacado—forms part of the Western plateau of the State. The name is given from the great number of bare yucca stems seen there resembling stakes. This plain extends from the head-waters of the Colorado, Brazos, and Red rivers on the east, to the Red Pecos in New Mexico on the west, and from the valley of the Canadian on the north to the Pecos on the south. Its surface is gently undulating, but owing to lack of water there is almost a total absence of vegetation. The yucca is the only plant that grows there, and this but scantily; there are no trees, and in the summer the feeble crop of grass dries up. It is said that the traveler can track his way across the staked plain by the skeletons lying there of those who have perished of thirst in the journey across. The general level of the plain is from 3,000 to 4,000 feet above the sea.—Inter-Ocean.

Through the Year With the Poets and Paragraphists.

I.

Our resolutions good we plan
To take effect the first of Jan.

II.

But ah! how sorely do they ebb
Before we reach the first of Feb.

III.

And as a rule they busted are
Before we reach the first of Mar.

IV.

His door bell will be decked with crape
Who shifts his underwear in Ap.

V.

No prudent man will put away
His gums or liver pad till May.

VI.

All outdoor billing 'neath the moon
May safely be postponed till June.

VII.

On ill-thatched heads the agile fly
Gets in his work about July.

VIII.

Wild runs the hydrophobic dog
In breezeless, sticky day of Aug.

IX.

And parties bitten take the step
Of going to Pasteur in Sep.

X.

Returning tourists on the dock
Evade their custom dues in Oc.

XI.

Tax dodgers from Nahant may move
In safety back to town by Nov.

Envoi.

Now tired muse your [illegible] cease,
Since you've arrived alive at [illegible]

—Boston Courier.

Seemingly Eradicated

With repeated and powerful doses of quinine, chills and fever, in some one of its various forms, springs into active existence again, often without the slightest apparent provocation. To extinguish the smoldering embers of this obstinate and recondite malady, no less that to subdue it when it rages fiercely in the system, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is all sufficient. When every resource of the pharmacopœia has been exhausted against it in vain, the Bitters conquer it—will remove every lingering vestige of it. Nay, more, the Bitters will protect those brought within the influence of the atmospheric poison that begets malarial disease, from its attacks. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, are among the complaints to be apprehended from the use of miasma tainted water. These are both cured and prevented by the Bitters. Rheumatism, constipation and renal complaints yield to its action.

Base-ball King Mike Kelly of the "Bostons" received a $500 watch from his admirers.

"I Love Her Better than Life."

Well, then, why don't you do something to bring back the roses to her cheeks and the light to her eyes? Don't you see she is suffering from nervous debility, the result of female weakness? A bottle of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will brighten those pale cheeks and send new life through that wasting form. If you love her, take heed.

Queen Victoria has offered the sum of $5,000,000 for the great Cape diamond.

Delicate Children, Nursing

Mothers, Overworked Men, and for all diseases where the tissues are wasting away from the inability to digest ordinary food, or from overwork of the brain or body, all such should take SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. "I used the Emulsion on a lady who was delicate, and threatened with Bronchitis. It put her in such good health and flesh, that I must say it is the best Emulsion I ever used."—L. P. WADDELL, M. D., Hugh's Mills, S. C.

The dependent pension bill will go to Congress in October again in a new form.

If you have catarrh, use the surest remedy—Dr. Sage's.

Of 6,000,000 women in Brazil only 500,000 can read and write.

How Pale You Are!

Is frequently the exclamation of one lady to another. The fact is not a pleasant one to have mentioned, but the act may be a kindly one, for it sets the one addressed to thinking, apprises her of the fact that she is not in good health, and leads her to seek a reason therefor. Pallor is almost always attendant upon the first stages of consumption. The system is enfeebled, and the blood is impoverished. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will act as a tonic upon the system, will inrich the impoverished blood, and restore roses to the cheek.

The King of Siam has conferred the highest honors on an American dentist.

Something New

And most important. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, can furnish you work that you can do at great profit and live at home, wherever you are located. Either sex: all ages. Asa P. Rand, Westboro, Mass., writes us that he made $60 profit in a single day. Every worker can make from $5 to $25 and upwards per day. All is new. Capital not required; you are started free. Full particulars free. Send your address at once.

FOOD makes Blood and Blood makes Beauty. Improper digestion of food necessarily produces bad blood, resulting in a feeling of fullness in the stomach, acidity, heartburn, sick headache, and other dyspeptic symptoms. A closely confined life causes indigestion, constipation, biliousness and loss of appetite. To remove these troubles there is no remedy equal to Prickly Ash Bitters. It has been tried and proven to be a specific.

If you have tumor, (or tumor symptoms) Cancer (or cancer symptoms), Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt-Rheum, Chronic weaknesses, Nervousness or other complaints—Dr. Kilmer's FEMALE REMEDY will correct and cure.

All Men are not Bad,

Neither are all prepared remedies unreliable. This is proven by the results following the use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic for Dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, jaundice, torpid liver and general weakness.

A Wonderful Machine and Offer.

To introduce them we give away 1,000 Self-operating Washing Machines. No labor or washboard. Best in the world. If you want one, write The National Co., 27 Dey St., N. Y.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

Relief is immediate, and a cure sure. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. 50c.

Biliousness

Is more general at this season than any other. The bitter taste, offensive breath, coated tongue, sick headache, drowsiness, dizziness and loss of appetite make the victim miserable, and disagreeable to others. Hood's Sarsaparilla combines the best anti-bilious remedies of the vegetable kingdom, in such proportion as to derive their best medicinal effects without the least disturbance to the whole system. This preparation is so well balanced in its effects that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, restores the appetite, and overcomes that tired feeling.

Dyspepsia and Malaria

"I had been sick for several years, being troubled chiefly with dyspepsia and malaria. I had medical attendance, but only grew worse, until one day in February my wife brought me a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which seems to have entirely cured me, as I have not been troubled by any ailment since taking it."—JOHN ERSKINE, Chillicothe, Ohio.

"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and must say it is one of the best medicines for giving an appetite and regulating the digestive organs that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good."—MRS. N. A. STANLEY, Canastota, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES.

It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO
Sole Proprietors,
ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

35 MEDALS AWARDED TO

BENSONS

Cures Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache, Weakness, Colds in the Chest and all Aches and Strains.

CAPCINE

Beware of imitations under similar sounding names. Ask for Benson's and take no other.

PLASTER

THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 22½ S. Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

$15.00 First-class No. 7 Cook Stove for $15.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 40 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

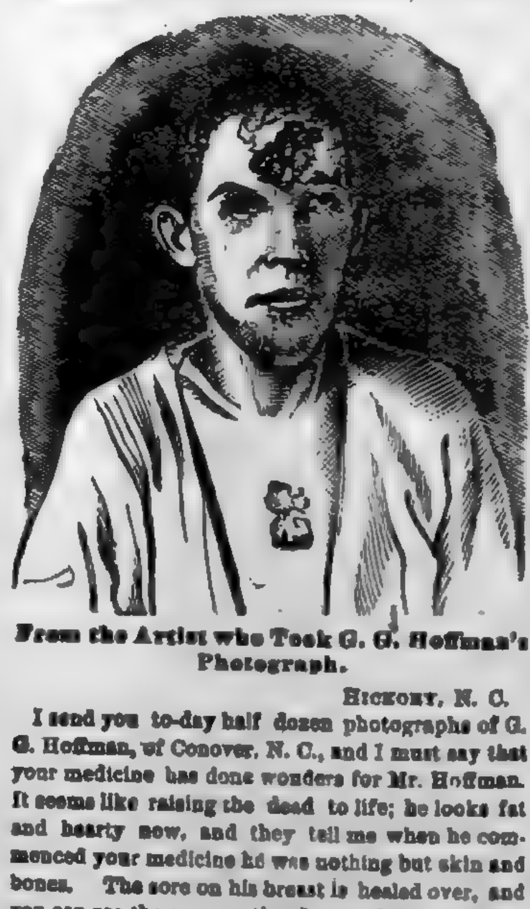
PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

Mr. F. E. Hush, Adrian, N. Y., says: "My father was very lame with rheumatism. Now after using St. Jacobs Oil he is no lamer than I am. He was cured." Price fifty cents.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Hamburg, N. Y., has adopted resolutions congratulating Mrs. Frances Folsom Cleveland for having drank cold water at a diplomatic dinner, and because "she has the moral heroism to prove loyal to God, the church and temperance."

At Bieber, Lassan County, Cal., resides Mr. Thomas P. Ford, who writes: "I can truthfully say I have used St. Jacobs Oil in my family for years, and find it a never failing remedy for all painful complaints."

The police of New York City caused a "dry Sunday" by raiding the rum shops; one saloon keeper dressed his shop in crape and black ribbons, and hung out a plackard inscribed, "Closed on Account of the Death of Liberty!"



From the Artist who Took G. G. Hoffman's Photograph.

HICKORY, N. C.

I send you to-day half dozen photographs of G. G. Hoffman, of Conover, N. C., and I must say that your medicine has done wonders for Mr. Hoffman. It seems like raising the dead to life; he looks fat and hearty now, and they tell me when he commenced your medicine he was nothing but skin and bones. The sore on his breast is healed over, and you can see the one on the forehead is healing up from the top. I wish it had been so that I could have taken it when he was at his worst, but I could not leave my office, and he lives some distance from here.

Yours Respectfully.
A. MCINTOSH.

This man, G. G. Hoffman, has risen by the use of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) to his present wonderfully improved condition. In a short time his boneless forehead will be fully healed, and he will stand a monument of humanity raised from the verge of death. Few persons ever recover from such a low state, being on a dying bed from that fell destroyer, blood poison, with the bones of his forehead rotted and taken out, 3½x3 inches, by the doctors, and given out to die. From skin and bones, wrecked by blood poison, to health and sound flesh, is the work of B. B. B.

Not many such desperate cases may be found, but when they are they should not despair of recovery, as B. B. B. will cure them.

When this medicine can cure such extreme cases, is it not reasonable that it will cure all cases of blood poison of less violence, as it has done in thousands of instances?

The Mayor and Doctors of Conover will verify the awful condition from which Mr. Hoffman was raised. B. B. Co.

Ladies! Those dull tired looks and feelings speak volumes! This Remedy corrects all conditions, restores vigor and vitality and brings back youthful bloom and beauty. Druggists. Prepared at Dr. Kilmer's DISPENSARY, Binghamton, N. Y. Letters of inquiry answered. Guide to Health (Sent Free).

HARTER'S

THE ONLY TRUE

IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

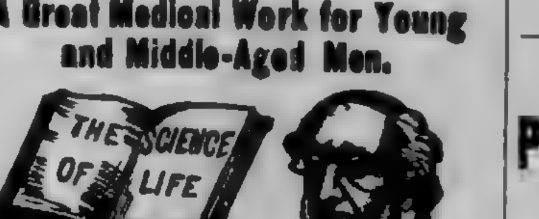
LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY,
St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

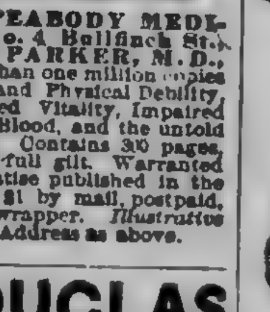
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above.
Name this paper.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE.

FOR GENTLEMEN.



The best $3 Shoe in the world. Best material, stylish, perfect fit; Congress, Button or Lace; all styles toe. Equals any $5 or $6 Shoe. Costs nothing to examine them at your dealer's. I send information free how to obtain these celebrated $3 Shoes if your dealer does not keep them.

W. L. DOUGLAS' SEWED. $2.50 Shoe equals $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. Boys all wear W. L. Douglas' $2 Shoe. Beware of fraud. None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom of each Shoe.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢

Your last invoice of "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigars came in yesterday. I was out of them for half a day and had to call on the Governor for a company of militia to prevent a riot. Have already retailed over 300,000. R. C. MANLEY, Lincoln, Neb.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. HOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

SALE OF LOTS!

East Sheffield Land Company.

Beginning Thursday, 9th June, 1887,

ON THE PROPERTY ADJOINING SHEFFIELD, ALA.

The East Sheffield Land Co. own about 1,200 acres of land, laid off into lots and blocks, and which immediately adjoins the Sheffield property on the East.

There are three Railroads on the property of the East Sheffield Co., besides a Street Railroad running dummy engines, and extending from Sheffield to Tuscumbia, through East Sheffield.

Property admirably and conveniently located, and the Company desire to sell cheap lots to actual residents, who will have suburban homes in close and quick communication with Sheffield by street car line.

Terms of sale, one-fourth cash, and balance in one, two and three years, at six per cent. ONE-HALF the purchase price returned to all buyers who improve the lots bought in twelve months from date of sale, and ONE-FOURTH returned to those who improve in eighteen months from date of sale.

Donations of land made to Churches, Schools and Manufacturing enterprises.

For further information, Pamphlet and Map, write to

EAST SHEFFIELD LAND CO.,
SHEFFIELD, ALA.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

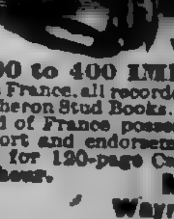
PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM,
Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.



JONES

HE

PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for

$60.

Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! DR. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the sensation of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn. Superior natural Mineral Waters, Mountain and Cave Scenery. Convenient, healthy location. Select. Cheap board. Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists, or mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS. Apply to F. REGISTER, Att'y, 324 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa. 21 years experience. Copies of law free.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. D. [illegible] 3. '87

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.
"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION.'
TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.
VOLUME VI.
CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1887.
NUMBER 30.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 15	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	30 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all Advertising after the first publication.

A doctor named Sowers began advertising for patients in Washington, and succeeded so well that the Critic bravely went to work and turned out the following:

And now the doctors raise a row—
They're selfish, by the powers;
They see that advertising pays,
And all the sweets are Sowers'.

A farmer in Greensborough, Md., thinking to change his grade of potatoes, barrelled all that he had, shipped them to Baltimore, and ordered a few barrels of extra fine Northern potatoes for seed. While barrelling his own tubers he lost his spectacles. When he received his Northern seed potatoes he found his missing spectacles in one of the barrels. Such things destroys confidence.

The Overland describes a modern California mining camp, saying: "The cuts and scars and gullies left by the early prospector have been long since filled up, and over them now stands the neat residences and green lawns of the miners' families. Shade trees, in profuse abundance, line the public thoroughfares, while the gardens yield abundance of fruit and vegetables. In the evening the sidewalks become a miniature Kearny street during business hours, while the subsequent night-time is still enough to satisfy the most fastidious. Neither dance house nor dive is known. If a gambling den is in operation, it is kept away from the public gaze. The streets are deserted long before midnight, and seldom any sound greets the ear save the heavy, champing "chow-ow" of the the neighboring quartz mills, in their ceaseless grinding of the yellow ore."

A crazy man, named Wetterlind, recently terrorized the Swedish town of Goteborg for more than a whole week. He had locked himself in the top story of a house, whence he commanded a wide sweep of street, and fired at any and everybody who approached. After he had shot one man dead the firemen attempted to drown him out, but could not get near enough, as the man was a dead shot. They next made iron shields to protect them in the approach, but these proved too cumbersome. An attempt to dislodge the lunatic by throwing dumb-bells charged with electricity at him had to be abandoned. A barricade was then erected around the house by the police and a regular siege laid to it. The lunatic stood it a week before he was starved out, and was then seized by strategy, too weak to defend himself. He had wounded a number of people from his perch during the singular campaign.

Statistics are often presented showing the enormous size of the nation's liquor bill, but few persons, comparatively, are aware how much is spent annually on another luxury—tobacco. The American Grocer has made a careful estimate of the nation's tobacco bill for 1886, and places it at $256,500,000—about $3.44 per capita. As not more than one-fifth of the population, probably, makes use of the weed, the average expenditure of each user is about $17 per year, an amount that put at compound interest for fifty years at six per cent. would buy a house and lot. Of course this amount is nothing like so large as that spent for liquor—only a little over one-third, in fact, for the nation's annual liquor bill is about $700,000,000—but still a sufficiently formidable sum for an article that is not an absolute necessity of life. More money is spent for tobacco than for sugar; almost twice as much as for those other luxuries, tea and coffee; and two and a half times as much as is spent upon schools.

Three of the new vessels for the construction of which the United States Navy Department has invited proposals, will be cruisers and gunboats. For the cruisers a maximum speed of nineteen knots per hour must be guaranteed. Every quarter knot of speed above or below this limit is to be compensated for or deducted from the contract price at the rate of $50,000 per quarter knot. All the material used must be of domestic manufacture. The vessels must be built where the Department directs. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for five per cent. of the amount of the bid. The cost of one cruiser (the Newark) is not to exceed $1,300,000. The other two cruisers are to cost not more than $3,000,000 for both. The gunboats are to cost not more than $550,000 each. Full plans and specifications will be prepared, and will be on exhibition at the Department. Proposals will be received until noon of August 1.

Practical Jokers Cured.

The story is told of a celebrated New England doctor who, when he was just commencing his career, received an earnest message to come and set a fractured limb. He hurried to the house, and found there a goose whose leg had been broken by a bad boy with a brick. The doctor was not at all disconcerted. He gravely examined and set the leg, and promised to call the next day. He made a number of visits to his feathered patient, and at length pronounced it cured. Then he handed in a bill, whose length, breadth and extent simply horrified the would-be jokers. They had to pay, and the doctor remarked, in taking leave, that he thought of making a specialty of geese, and he hoped they would send for him again to attend the next case they had. This proved an effectual cure for practical joking.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN PASTOR'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "From Twelve to Three O'clock."

TEXT: "Watchman, what of the night?" —Isaiah xxi., 2.

When night came down on Babylon, Nineveh, and Jerusalem, they needed careful watching, otherwise the incendiary's torch might have been thrust into the very heart of the metropolitan splendor; or enemies, marching from the hills, might have forced the gates. All night long, on top of the wall and in front of the gates, might be heard the measured step of the watchman on his solitary beat; silence hung in the air, save as some passer-by raised the question: "Watchman, what of the night?"

It is to me a deeply suggestive and solemn thing to see a man standing guard by night. It thrilled through me, as at the gate of an arsenal in Charleston, the question once smote me: "Who comes there?" followed by the sharp command: "Advance and give the countersign." Every moral teacher stands on picket, or patrols the wall as watchman. His work is to sound the alarm; and whether it be in the first watch, in the second watch, in the third watch, or in the fourth watch, to be vigilant until the daybreak flings its "morning glories" of blooming cloud across the arching trellis of the sky.

The ancients divided their night into four parts—the first watch, from six to nine; the second, from nine to twelve; the third, from twelve to three; and the fourth, from three to six.

I speak now of the city in the third watch, or from twelve to three o'clock, at that season of the year when the days and nights are about equal.

I never weary looking upon the life and brilliancy of the city in the first watch. That is the hour when the stores are closing. The laboring men, having quitted the scaffolding and the shop, are on their way home. It rejoices me to give them my seat in the city car. They have stood and hammered away all day. Their feet are weary. They are exhausted with the tug of work. They are mostly cheerful. With appetites sharpened on the swift turner's wheel and the carpenter's whetstone, they seek the evening meal. The clerks, too, have broken away from the counter, and with brain weary of the long line of figures, and the whims of those who go a-shopping seek the face of mother, or wife and child. The merchants are unharnessing themselves from their anxieties on their way up the street. The boys that lock up are heaving away at the shutters, shoving the heavy bolts, and if it be winter taking a last look at the fire to see that all is safe. The streets are thronged with young men, setting out from the great centers of bargain-making.

Let idlers clear the street and give right of way to the besweated artisans and merchants. They have earned their bread, and are now on their way home to get it.

The lights in full jet hang over 10,000 evening repasts—the parents at either end of the table, the children between. Thank God, "who setteth the solitary in families."

A few hours later and all the places of amusement, good and bad, are in full tide. Lovers of art, catalogue in hand, stroll through the galleries and discuss the pictures. The ballroom is resplendent with the rich apparel of those who, on either side of the white, glistening boards, await the signal from the orchestra. The footlights of the theatre flash up; the bell rings, and the curtain rises; and out from the gorgeous scenery glide the actors, greeted with the vociferation of the expectant multitudes. Concert halls are lifted into enchantment with the warble of one songstress, or swept out on a sea of tumultuous feeling by the blast of brazen instruments. Drawing-rooms are filled with all gracefulness of apparel, with all sweetness of sound, with all splendor of manner; mirrors are catching up and multiplying the scene, until it seems as if in infinite corridors there were garlanded groups advancing and retreating.

The outdoor air rings with laughter, and with the moving to and fro of thousands on the great promenades. The dashing span adrip with the foam of the long country ride, rushes past as you halt at the curb-stone.

Mirth, revelry, beauty, fashion, magnificence mingle in the great metropolitan picture, until the thinking man goes home to think more seriously, and the praying man to pray more earnestly.

A beautiful and overwhelming thing is the city in the first and second watches of the night.

But the clock strikes twelve, and the third watch has begun.

The thunder of the city has rolled out of the air. The slightest sounds cut the night with such distinction as to attract your attention. The tinkling of the bell of the street car in the distance, and the baying of the dog. The stamp of a horse in the next street. The slamming of a saloon door. The hiccough of the drunkard. The shrieks of the steam-whistle five miles away. Oh, how suggestive, my friends, the third watch of the night!

There are honest men passing up and down the street. Here is a city missionary who has been carrying a scuttle of coal to that poor family in that dark place. Here is an undertaker going up the steps of a building from which there comes a bitter cry which indicates that the destroying angel has smitten the first-born. Here is a minister of religion who has been giving the sacrament to a dying Christian. Here is a physician passing along in great haste, the messenger a few steps ahead, hurrying on to the household.

Nearly all the lights have gone out in the dwellings, for it is the third watch of the night. That light in the window is the light of the watcher, for the medicines must be administered, and the fever must be watched and the restless tossing off of the coverlid must be resisted, and the ice must be kept on the hot temples, and the perpetual prayer must go up from hearts soon to be broken.

O, the third watch of the night! What a stupendous thought—a whole city at rest!

Weary arm preparing for to-morrow's toil. Hot brain being cooled off. Rigid muscles relaxed. Excited nerves soothed. The white hair of the octogenarian in thin drifts across the pillow, fresh fall of flakes on snow already fallen. Childhood with its dimpled hands thrown out on the pillow and with every breath taking in a new store of fun and frolic. Third watch of the night! God's slumberless eye will look. Let one great wave of refreshing slumber roll over the heart of the great town, submerging care, and anxiety, and worriment, and pain.

Let the city sleep. But, my friends, be not deceived. There will be thousands to-night who will not sleep at all. Go up that dark alley, and be cautious where you tread, lest you fall over the prostrate form of a drunkard lying on his own doorstep. Look about you, lest you feel the garroter's hug. Look through the broken window-pane, and see what you can see. You say: "Nothing." Then listen. What is it? "God help us!" No footlights, but tragedy ghastlier and mightier than Ristori or Edwin Booth ever enacted. No light, no fire, no bread, no hope. If it be winter, shivering in the cold, and they have had no food for twenty-four hours. You say: "Why don't they beg?" They do, but they get nothing. You say: "Why don't they deliver themselves over to the almshouse?" Ah! you would not ask that if you ever heard the bitter cry of a man or a child when told he must go to the almshouse.

"Oh," you say, "they are vicious poor, and, therefore, they do not deserve our sympathy." Are they vicious? So much more need they your pity. The Christian poor, God helps them. Through their night there twinkles the round, merry star of hope, and through the broken window-pane they see the crystals of heaven; but the vicious poor, they are more to be pitied. Their last light has gone out. You excuse yourself from helping them by saying they are so bad, they brought this trouble on themselves. I reply, where I give ten prayers for the innocent who are suffering I will give twenty prayers for the guilty who are suffering.

The fisherman, when he sees a vessel dashing into the breakers, comes out from his hut and wraps the warmest flannels around those who are most chilled and most bruised and most battered in the wreck; and I want you to know that these vicious poor have had two shipwrecks—shipwreck of the body, shipwreck of the soul—shipwreck for time, shipwreck for eternity. Pity, by all means, the innocent who are suffering, but pity more the guilty.

Pass on through the alley. Open the door. "Oh," you say, it is locked!" No, it is not locked. It has never been locked. No burglar would be tempted to go in there to steal anything. The door is never locked. Only a broken chair stands against the door. Shove it back. Go in. Strike a match. Now, look. Beastliness and rags! See those glaring eyeballs. Be careful now what you say. Do not utter any insult, do not utter any suspicion, if you value your life. What is that red mark on the wall? It is the mark of a murderer's hand!

Look at those two eyes rising up out of the darkness and out from the straw in the corner, coming toward you, and as they come near you, your light goes out. Strike another match. Ah! this is a babe, not like those beautiful children presented in baptism. This little one never smiled; it never will smile. A flower flung on an awfully barren beach. Oh! Heavenly Shepherd, fold that little one in Thy arms. Wrap around you your shawl or your coat tighter, for the cold wind sweeps through.

Strike another match. Ah! is it possible that that young woman's scarred and bruised face ever was looked into by maternal tenderness? Utter no scorn. Utter no harsh word. No ray of hope has dawned on that brow for many a year. No ray of hope ever will dawn on that brow. But the light has gone out. Do not strike another light. It will be a mockery to kindle another light in such a place as that. Pass out and pass down the street. Our cities of Brooklyn and New York and other great cities are full of such homes, and the worst time is the third watch of the night.

Do you know it is in this watch of the night that criminals do their worst work? It is the criminal's watch.

At half-past eight o'clock you will find them in the drinking-saloon, but toward twelve o'clock they go to their garrets, they get out their tools, then they start on the street. Watching on either side for the police, they go to their work of darkness. This is a burglar, and the false key will soon touch the store lock. This is an incendiary, and before morning there will be a light on the sky, and a cry of "Fire! fire!" This is an assassin, and to-morrow there will be a dead body found in one of those vacant lots. During the daytime these villains in our cities lounge about, some asleep and some awake, but when the third watch of the night arrives, their eye is keen, their brain cool, their arm strong, their foot fleet to fly or pursue, they are ready.

Many of these poor creatures were brought up in that way. They were born in a thieves' garret. Their childish toy was a burglar's dark-lantern. The first thing they remember was their mother bandaging the brow of their father, struck by the police club. They began by robbing boys' pockets, and now they have come to dig the underground passage to the cellar of the bank, and are preparing to blast the gold-vault.

Just so long as there are neglected children of the streets, just so long we will have these desperadoes. Some one, wishing to make a good Christian point and to quote a passage of Scripture, expecting to get a Scriptural passage in answer, said to one of these poor lads, cast out and wretched: "When your father and your mother forsake you, who then will take you up?" and the boy said: "The perlice, the perlice!"

In the third watch of the night gambling does its worst work. What though the hours be slipping away, and though the wife be waiting in the cheerless home! Bring on more drinks. Put up more stakes. That commercial house that only a little while ago put out a sign of copartnership will, in a few seasons, be wrecked on a gambler's table. There will be many a money-till that will spring a leak. A member of Congress gambled with a member-elect and won one hundred and twenty thousand dollars. The old way of getting a living is so slow. The old way of getting a fortune is so stupid. Come, let us toss up and see who shall have it. And so the work goes on, from the wheezing wretches pitching pennies in a rum-grocery up to the millionaire gambler in the stock market.

In the third watch of the night, pass down the streets of these cities, and you hear the click of the dice and the sharp, keen stroke of the ball on the billiard-table. At these places merchant princes dismount, and legislators, tired of making laws, take a respite in breaking them. All classes of people are robbed by this crime—the importer of foreign silks and the dealer in Chatham street pocket-handkerchiefs. The clerks of the store take a hand after the shutters are put up, and the officers of the court while away their time while the jury is out.

In Baden-Baden, when that city was the greatest of all gambling-places on earth, it was no unusual thing the next morning, in the woods around about the city, to find the suspended bodies of suicides. Whatever be the splendor of surroundings, there is no excuse for this crime. The thunders of eternal destruction roll in the deep rumble of that gambling tenpin-alley, and as men come out to join the long procession of sin, all the drums of death beat the dead march of a thousand souls.

In one year, in the city of New York, there were seven million dollars sacrificed at the gaming-table. Perhaps some of your friends have been smitten in this sin. Perhaps some of you have been smitten by it.

Perhaps there may be a stranger in the house this morning come from some of the hotels. Look out for those agents of iniquity who tarry around the hotels, and ask you: "Would you like to see the city?" "Have you ever seen that splendid building up town?" "No." Then the villain will undertake to show you what he calls the "lions" and "elephants," and after a young man, through morbid curiosity or through badness of soul, has seen the "lions" and the "elephants" he will be on enchanted ground. Look out for these men who move around the hotels with sleek hats—always with sleek hats—and patronizing air and unaccountable interest about your welfare and entertainment. You are a fool if you cannot see through it. They want your money.

In Chestnut street, Philadelphia, while I was living in that city, an incident occurred which was familiar to us there. In Chestnut street a young man went into a gambling-saloon, lost all his property, then blew his brains out, and before the blood was washed from the floor by the maid the comrades were shuffling cards again. You see there is more mercy in the highwaymen for the belated traveler on whose body he heaps the stones, there is more mercy in the frost for the flower that it kills, there is more mercy in the hurricane that shivers the steamer on the Long Island coast, than there is mercy in the heart of a gambler for his victim.

In the third watch of the night, also, drunkenness does its worst. The drinking will be respectable at 8 o'clock in the evening, a little flushed at nine, talkative and garrulous at ten, at eleven blasphemous, at twelve the hat falls off, at one the man falls to the floor asking for more drink. Strewn through the drinking-saloons of the city, fathers, brothers, husbands, sons, as good as you are by nature, perhaps better.

In the high circles of society it is hushed up. A merchant prince, if he gets noisy and uncontrollable, is taken by his fellow-revelers, who try to get him to bed or take him home, where he falls flat in the entry. Do not wake up the children. They have had disgrace enough. Do not let them know it. Hush it up. But sometimes it cannot be hushed up, when the rum touches the brain and the man becomes thoroughly frenzied. Such an one came home, having been absent for some time, and during his absence his wife had died, and she lay in the next room prepared for the obsequies, and he went in and dragged her by the locks, and shook her out of her shroud, and pitched her out of the window.

Oh! when rum touches the brain you cannot hush it up. My friends, you see all around you the need that something radical be done. You do not see the worst. In the midnight meetings in London a great multitude have been saved. We want a few hundred Christian men and women to come down from the highest circles of society to toil amid these wandering and destitute ones, and kindle up a light in the dark alley, even the gladness of heaven.

Do not go wrapped in fine apparel and from your well-filled tables with the idea that pious talk is going to stop the gnawing of an empty stomach or to warm stockingless feet. Take bread, take raiment, take medicine as well as take prayer. There is a great deal of common-sense in what the poor woman said to the city missionary when he was telling her how she ought to love God and serve Him. "Oh!" she said, "if you were as poor and cold as I am, and as hungry, you could think of nothing else."

A great deal of what is called Christian work goes for nothing, for the simple reason it is not practical; as after the battle of Antietam a man got out of an ambulance with a bag of tracts, and he went distributing the tracts, and George Stewart, one of the best Christian men in this country, said to him: "What are you distributing tracts for now? There are three thousand men bleeding to death. Bind up their wounds, and then distribute the tracts."

We want more common-sense in Christian work, taking the bread of this life in one hand and the bread of the next life in the other hand. No such inapt work as that by the Christian man who, during the last war, went into a hospital with tracts, and coming to the bed of a man whose legs had been amputated, gave him a tract on the sin of dancing! I rejoice before God that never are sympathetic words uttered, never a prayer offered, never a Christian almsgiving indulged in but it is blessed.

There is a place in Switzerland, I have been told, where the utterance of one word will bring back a score of echoes; and I have to tell you this morning that a sympathetic word, a kind word, a generous word, a helpful word, uttered in the dark places of the town, will bring back 10,000 echoes from all the thrones of heaven.

Are there in this assemblage this morning those who know by experience the tragedies in the third watch of the night? I am not here to thrust you back with one hard word. Take the bandage from your bruised soul, and put on it the soothing salve of Christ's Gospel and of God's compassion. Many have come. I see others coming to God this morning, tired of the sinful life. Cry up the news to heaven. Set all the bells ringing. Spread the banquet under the arches. Let the crowned heads come down and sit at the jubilee. I tell you there is more delight in heaven over one man that gets reformed by the grace of God than over ninety and nine that never got off the track.

I could give you the history, in a minute, of one of the best friends I ever had. Outside of my own family, I never had a better friend. He welcomed me to my home at the West. He was of splendid personal appearance, but he had an ardor of soul and a warmth of affection that made me love him like a brother. I saw men coming out of the saloons and gambling-hells, and they surrounded my friend, and they took him at the weak point, his social nature, and I saw him going down, and I had a fair talk with him—for I never yet saw a man you could not talk with on the subject of his habits if you talked with him in the right way. I said to him: "Why don't you give up your bad habits and become a Christian?" I remember now just how he looked, leaning over his counter, as he replied: "I wish I could. Oh; sir! I should like to be a Christian, but I have gone so far astray I can't get back."

So the time went on. After a while the day of sickness came. I was summoned to his sick-bed. I hastened. It took me but a very few moments to get there. I was surprised as I went in. I saw him in his ordinary dress, fully dressed, lying on top of the bed. I gave him my hand, and he seized it convulsively, and said: "Oh, how glad I am to see you! Sit down there." I sat down and he said: "Mr. Talmage, just where you sit now my mother sat last night. She has been dead twenty years. Now, I don't want you to think I am out of my mind, or that I am superstitious; but, sir, she sat there last night just as certainly as you sit there now—the same cap and apron and spectacles. It was my old mother—she sat there." Then he turned to his wife, and said: "I wish you would take these strings off the bed; somebody is wrapping strings around me all the time. I wish you would stop that annoyance." She said "There is nothing here." Then I saw it was delirium.

He said: "Just where you sit now my mother sat, and she said: 'Roswell, I wish you would do better—I wish you would do better.' I said: 'Mother, I wish I could do better; I try to do better, but I can't. Mother, you used to help me; why can't you help me now?' And, sir, I got out of bed, for it was a reality, and I went to her, and threw my arms around her neck, and I said: 'Mother, I will do better, but you must help; I can't do this alone.'" I knelt down and prayed. That night his soul went to the Lord that made it.

Arrangements were made for the obsequies. The question was raised whether they should bring him to the church. Somebody said: "You cannot bring such a dissolute man as that into the church." I said: "You will bring him in church; he stood by me when he was alive, and I will stand by him when he is dead. Bring him." As I stood in the pulpit and saw them carrying the body up the aisle, I felt as if I could weep tears of blood.

On one side of the pulpit sat his little child of eight years, a sweet, beautiful little girl that I have seen him hug convulsively in his better moments. He put on her all jewels, all diamonds, and gave her all pictures and toys, and then he would go away as if hounded by an evil spirit, to his cups and the house of shame—a fool to the correction of the stocks. She looked up wonderingly. She knew not what it all meant. She was not old enough to understand the sorrow of an orphan child.

On the other side of the pulpit sat the men who had ruined him; they were the men who had poured the wormwood into the orphan's cup; they were the men who had bound him hand and foot. I knew them. How did they seem to feel? Did they weep? No. Did they say: "What a pity that so generous a man should be destroyed?" No. Did they sigh repentingly over what they had done? No; they sat there looking as vultures look at the carcass of a lamb whose heart they have ripped out. So they sat and looked at the coffin-lid, and I told them the judgment of God upon those who had destroyed their fellows. Did they reform? I was told they were in the places of iniquity that night after my friend was laid in Oakwood Cemetery, and they blasphemed, and they drank. Oh! how merciless men are, especially after they have destroyed you! Do not look to men for comfort and help. Look to God.

But there is a man who won't reform. He says: "I won't reform." Well, then, how many acts are there in a tragedy? I believe five.

Act the first of the tragedy: A young man starting off from home. Parents and sisters weeping to have him go. Wagon rising over the hill. Farewell kiss flung back. Ring the bell and let the curtain fall.

Act the second: The marriage altar. Full organ. Bright lights. Long white veil trailing through the aisle. Prayer and congratulation, and exclamation of "How well she looks!"

Act the third: A woman waiting for staggering steps. Old garments stuck into the broken window-pane. Marks of hardship on the face. The biting of the nails of bloodless fingers. Neglect, and cruelty, and despair. Ring the bell and let the curtain drop.

Act the fourth: Three graves in a dark place—grave of the child that died for lack of medicine, grave of the wife that died of a broken heart, grave of the man that died of dissipation. Oh! what a blasted heath with three graves! Plenty of weeds, but no flowers. Ring the bell and let the curtain drop.

Act the fifth: A destroyed soul's eternity. No light. No music. No hope. Anguish coiling its serpents around the heart. Blackness of darkness forever.

But I cannot look any longer. Woe! woe! I close my eyes to this last act of the tragedy. Quick! Quick! Ring the bell and let the curtain drop. "Rejoice, Oh young man! in thy youth, and let thy heart rejoice in the days of thy youth; but know thou that for all these things God will bring you into judgment." There is a way that seemeth right to a man, but the end thereof is death."

LOOK ONWARD.

Every day is a fresh beginning,
Every morn is the world made new,
You who are weary of sorrow and sinning,
Here is a beautiful hope for you:
A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over.
The tasks are done and the tears are shed.
Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover;
Yesterday's wounds, which smarted and bled,
Are healed with the healing which night has shed.

—Susan Coolidge.

A 'LONGSHORE EPISODE.

We never could settle why it was that Sue and I spent our vacation at Connor's Landing. I almost thought it was kismet, as those picturesque orientals say, only I do not approve of fatalism.

We were country school-ma'ams, Sue and I, from a region of mountain farms, where, according to report, the farmers stood on ladders to harvest their crops, so steep and rugged were the fields, and we had decided for months that our holiday should be spent within reach of the innumerable tongues of the many-voiced sea.

At least, that is what I said, for I am an æsthetic young woman with a yearning for Culture—with a big C—but Sue said she wanted to study up the personal habits of clams and fiddler crabs, and all sorts of dreadful slimy creatures. Sue was not very poetic in her tendencies, and she used to pore over Darwin and Lubbock, though I often thought she might have more improving instructors than men who were so familiar with worms and ants. I wouldn't say so much about ants, since our good Dr. Watts found them worthy of notice, but I think a man of genius should draw the line at earth-worms.

Well, you may think it easy to find a seaside resort good enough for two school-ma'ams, considering our length of coast, but the more we thought of the matter the more puzzled we became. We wanted to be quiet, because I intended writing a few marine sonnets, and ballads, and things, for my projected book—"Ballads and Other Poems, by a Mountain Singer"—and Sue said she didn't want to be interrupted by any tiresome children or idiotic young men when she was endeavoring to gain the confidence of a cephalopod.

You may think from her biological yearnings that Sue was an emancipated female of the most virulent type, but she was a tall and graceful girl of twenty-three, her small head crowned with bronzy-brown hair, and her oval face lighted by dark gray eyes that were incisive, tender, and appealing by turns.

We never arrived at a decision about our destination until we had started on our journey. We were waiting in the railway station—one of those gruesome barn-like structures our country delights in, where gaudy lithographs confuse the brain of the traveler, until he is uncertain whether to change cars at Kalamazoo for Capadura, or take the air-line route from Nova Scotia to Neuralgine. We had decided to try Squid's Neck—at least Sue had, as she thought the name rather promising, but, woman-like, we missed our train, and found there was no way of reaching that place until evening.

A sympathetic gateman suggested our going to Connor's Landing, there to hire a carriage and drive to Squid's Neck, a distance of six or eight miles. Before reaching Connor's Landing we asked a few judicial questions of a mild-mannered brakeman concerning our destination. Finding that it was on a large estuary opening into the sea, possessed of a good beach, and secluded in the extreme, we resolved to make it our camping ground, instead of the zoologically-named Squid's neck.

I shall never forget the brakeman's look of pitying surprise when I asked him if the beach was sandy.

"Marm," he said, impressively, "the folks down there what plants anything besides oysters would thank you considerable if you could point out a square foot of land anywhere what ain't sandy, and the meanest kind o' sand at that."

With this discouraging statement, which we soon verified, he left us.

On arriving at the Landing, we soon made arrangements for our temporary home, and evening found us domiciled with Aunt Jane Applegate.

Connor's Landing does not appear on any map, nor is it the subject of guide-book eulogy—it is shy, shrinking from publicity, like

Sweet Auburn, loveliest village of the plain.

Apart from its shrinking modesty, however, it differs widely from the poet's village. It is on the bank of a broad estuary, where the flat beach, not silvery sand or shingle, but melancholy and uncompromising black mud, is bordered by a weary length of flat salt meadow, this dimly relieved by a background of rugged and careworn pines.

And the natives, we found, are singularly in harmony with their surroundings. They are Aborigines; as Aphrodite sprang from the sea-foam they developed from the river mud, equipped for their calling with a boat-hook and a pair of oyster tongs. Their lank forms suggest a mossbunky diet—the mossbunker is a silvery but deceptive little wretch of the herring tribe, containing no more real nourishment than a newspaper on toast.

The Connor's Landingite does not feel himself in full dress without a knitted jersey, overlapping in folds like a rhinoceros hide, and a tarpaulin hat, possessing a rear extension like a sugar scoop, this headgear being technically known as a sou'wester. It is an interesting question to the thoughtful student, whether the native has been gradually evolved from the oyster, primeval lord of the soil, or whether the oyster has been developed by the retrogression of the native.

After a night's rest in a big, bare, drowsy chamber, with the soft wash-wash of the waves below our windows, we descended to our breakfast, to find Aunt Jane and Cordy, her daughter, awaiting us. The master of the house, we learned, had started on an early fishing expedition with the other boarder, of whose existence we now learned for the first time. He was a young man, Mrs. Applegate told us, whereat Sue's brow displayed a portentous frown, which was not entirely smoothed away when Aunt Jane supplied us with an omelette and an outline sketch of the young man together.

"He ain't one of the regular summer vacation young men," said our hostess, with a tone displaying fine contempt for this briefly-described order of humanity. "He'll spend a hull forenoon under the pines out on the bluff, or he'll wander off around the clay banks, an' bring home a pocket full of rocks and pirates."

"Pirates!" I ejaculated, in astonishment.

"Yes, them iron pirates, clay balls we call 'em."

"She means iron pyrites," explained Sue, in an aside.

"Anyway, he don't give us no trouble, an' is as pleasant-spoken a young man as ever I see," concluded our hostess, as she left us.

"Precisely, 'as mild a mannered man as ever scuttled ship, or cut a throat,'" muttered the incorrigible Sue.

"Oh, Sue!" I cried, "I'm sure he must be something——."

"Probably he is," interpolated Sue.

"Perhaps some scientific or literary character," I suggested.

"Scientific or literary fiddlesticks," said Sue, calmly. "Now, Dulcinea, put on your hat, and our exploration shall begin."

I didn't really care about exploring, as I had an idea for a sonnet I was going to write; besides, I felt sure the sun glaring on so much sand must be bad for the complexion. Aunt Jane and Cordy had a complexion like a tiger-lily, but I felt it was no use objecting, so off I went.

I should have enjoyed that walk more if I had been in a carriage, for apart from sand and chuckle-burrs and prickly pears everything seemed alive with insects, and dreadfully familiar and confiding creatures they were.

We went up on the bluff, to a little grove of pines, where Sue cast herself down on the fragrant pine needles in the reckless manner she is so addicted to. Lounging attitudes always seem to suit her, and she never had that regard for her clothes possessed by most well-regulated young women.

For a few moments there was a restful silence; only the lazy rustle of the pines and the subdued lapping of the water below. Then we heard the crackling of dry twigs under a heavy, hesitating footstep, and turning round, with that feeling of horror we women reserve for tramps, mice, and the like desperate characters, we beheld an aborigine. He was not by any means prepossessing, but even a timid school-ma'am could not gaze on Jonty Bloodgood with dread.

Jonty—the local diminutive for Jonathan—stood about six feet four in his rawhide boots; in build he strongly recalled the mossbunker which formed his staple diet. He had a small head, rudely thatched with lank hay-colored hair, and he possessed washed-out blue eyes which were not a pair. One of these orbs was fixed on us, while the other gazed impressively at the zenith. Over his shoulder he carried a decrepit-looking shotgun, while following and preceding him were several gaunt hounds of an undeterminate species.

This apparition gazed at us for a few minutes in evident amazement, then, taking courage, remarked conversationally, as we might comment on the weather:

"Hain't seen no fleckers this way, hev ye?"

"Fleckers" being unknown game to us both, we answered, with an emphatic negative, and our interlocutor slouched away, with the air of a man who has done his duty to society. Sue said she would like to study him; she has such a cold-blooded way if looking at people, as if she would like to impale them on a piece of cork, like the unfortunate insects she collects. I thought he might be worked up into a poem, beginning:

Lone dweller 'neath the balmy pines.

Only I should have to ignore his inaccurate eyes. And he could hardly be called a "lone dweller" either, as Sue, who does not see poetic license, pointed out; we found seven of the dirtiest children I ever saw, all of them cross-eyed, and a lank wife who dipped snuff.

For an entire week we wandered about all day, by woodland and shore, and we never had a glimpse of the other boarder, whom Sue flippantly designated as O. B. in familiar converse. He was always off before we were up, either boating or tramping the country with Jonty Bloodgood, who appeared to be a kindred spirit. Sue said probably he was cross-eyed too, or knock-kneed, or something of the kind, but Cordy said he was the likeliest young man that ever stepped, so we judged him to be some big, hulking, stupid wretch who wasn't really fit for ladies' society, anyway.

I don't really care for young men—unless they possess soul—and Sue cares a good deal more for polystichums and polypodiums, to say nothing of pollywogs. But I must confess that, as time went on, we began to think a good deal about that mysterious Other Boarder. It wasn't curiosity, you know, but simply interest in humanity. We didn't even know his name. He never got any letters, and Mrs. Applegate called him Mr. Jim; he had told her it was not his name, but would do as well as any other. Just like one of Bulwer's heroes, only, as Sue pointed out, we never heard him give a cold laugh in two syllables, or impatiently stride his room at midnight, as the characters in question always do; nor, as nearly as we could learn, did not possess a raven brow and marble locks—I mean vice versa.

Cordy said he was something like me, so he could never be a hero, for I am a little sandy, with pale eyes and a tendency to freckles.

Our curiosity gradually settled down to a sort of dead level mystery, until one day Cordy told us that the Other Boarder expected a visitor to spend a few days with him.

"A young man, Miss Denning," she explained. "Mr. Jim says how him an' this friend goes about together every vacation, being cousins, an' he's a lawyer, an' his name's Mr. Hort."

"Sue Farrell," I said, solemnly, as soon as Cordy had left us, "if we don't see this hateful Mr. Jim and his disreputable friend——"

"We will," said Sue, with emphasis, "if we have to lurk in ambush for a week."

I saw by this that Sue had got her mind removed for once off those abominable cephalopods, and as we strolled toward our favorite lounging place on the bluff we thought of a dozen plans for setting our doubts at rest; for I must say I had my doubts of a young man who would display such a Guy Fawkes reticence toward two intelligent girls.

We sat there, talking about secretive young men, and such conspirators, when we heard the crackling of the pine needles, and the sound of murmuring voices. We looked up, to behold at a short distance a disreputable blue flannel coat, which we had seen lying about Aunt Jane's hall. It was to us a veritable flag of battle, for it was the property of the Other Boarder.

For a moment we hesitated—and the woman who hesitates is lost—when we heard a laughing voice say:

"School-ma'ams be hanged! If you've dodged them for three weeks I guess the pair of us can dodge them for three days."

At this juncture, to Sue's profound astonishment, I rushed forward, precipitated myself upon the blue flannel coat, and seized a sunburned ear above it, turned toward us the face of a very surprised young man, while the disrespectful individual who had alluded to the possibility of dodging us laid himself down on the fragrant pine needles, and indulged in convulsive mirth that threatened serious consequences.

"You good-for-nothing, horrid boy," I began, as I embraced the Other Boarder, while Sue, evidently under the impression that we were all suffering from an attack of emotional insanity, seated herself at the foot of a pine tree with an air of saintly resignation.

"It's my brother Ned!" I explained.

"And here for three weeks I've been dodging my own sister! Why didn't you tell a fellow where you were going?"

"Because Sue and I wanted to be quiet," I said, with much dignity. "This is Sue Farrell, whom I've always wanted you to know; she is just as fond of hateful beasts and things as you are. And as soon as Cousin Horace can stop laughing and look like a rational being, we will go back to the house."

Well, as we strolled along the beach, Ned explained how he had come to Connor's Landing to rest—he is a civil engineer—and kept out of our way because he was rather afraid of school-ma'ams—they were not always as beautiful as they were intellectual. He looked appreciatively at Sue as he said this. And we explained that we were devoting our time to intellectual culture, and didn't want to be bothered by young men. Of course we did not say how we had been scurrying around to get a sight of him.

Well, for the remainder of our stay we four had a jolly time together. Somehow, wherever Sue was, Ned always seemed in the same vicinity, discussing fiddler crabs or something equally slimy, and they seem likely to zoologize through life together.

Horace and I have amused one another ever since I wore brown Holland pinafores, but I am little and sandy, with a tendency to freckles, as I said before, so sentiment is not in my line, in spite of my poetic yearnings. It is utterly useless for a girl to be sentimental if she is not at least passably nice-looking.

So I have gone back to my school again, and am cultivating as much divine afflatus as a very crabbed board of trustees will allow. Perhaps, after all, the "Ballads of a Mountain Singer" will never see the light, so I am fortunate if allowed to approach the glory of print in this episode of Connor's Landing.—Emily L. Taplin, in Current.

Lives Lost in Warfare.

It is estimated that nearly 7,000,000,000 of human beings have perished in the battles which man has waged against his fellow-creature—man; but there is scarcely a battle of the last three centuries which can at all rival in destructiveness many ancient struggles. In the following list the first-named in each case were the victors:

Jerusalem (siege of), A. D. 70, Romans and Jews. More than 1,000,000 Jews perished.

Platæa, B. C. 479, Greeks and Persians. The latter were annihilated, losing 300,000 men.

Battle (A. D. 269) between the Romans (under Claudius) and the Goths. In this fight 300,000 were slain.

Issus, B. C. 333, Greeks and Persians. The latter lost 110,000, of whom 70,000 were left dead on the field.

Hastings, A. D. 1066, Normans and Saxons. Over 30,000 men were slain.

Falkirk, A. D. 1298, English and Scots. The latter left 40,000 dead on the field.

Bannockburn, A. D. 1314, Scots and English. The latter lost 50,000 men.

Vienna (siege of), 1529, Germans and Turks. The Turks lost 70,000 men.

Blenheim, A. D. 1704, English and Germans against French and Bavarians. The latter lost 27,000 men.

Prava, 1764, Russians and Poles. The latter had 30,000 killed.

From a rough calculation, taken from the returns of those left dead on the fields of battle in which Napoleon commanded, from Montenotte to Waterloo, we find the amount 1,811,500. The Crimean war caused the destruction of 784,900 lives; the war in Italy in 1857, 45,000; in Schleswig-Holstein, 3,500; the civil war, 800,000; the Prussian and Austrian war, 45,000; the war in Mexico and China by the English and French, 65,000; and the Prussian and French war, 100,000; a grand total between 1853 and 1880 of 1,850,000 lives.—Troy Times.

Angoras Up High.

I was on the summit of Tallac, nearly 10,000 feet in elevation, at sunset. I there found nearly 200 Angora goats camped for the night on rocks about thirty feet east of and below the summit. They were in full sight of Tahoe and the best views from the summit. There was fine, green mountain pasture, soft soil bedding and shelter down below them a mile or two, but they preferred the rocks of the summit and the keener air and magnificent mountain pictures. Their bed was nearer the stars and they would have the very earliest sight of the morning sun. Four hundred of this breed of goats were, five years ago, every one killed by lightning near the same spot. They were the property of the same owner, Mr. Gilmore, of Glen Alpine Springs. Many of them were pure or half-pure breeds. The herd was worth at least $6,000. They were dead before they were discovered, so that not even their pelts were saved. These goats are not herded; they take care of themselves altogether, and except for being salted—that is, supplied with salt to lick twice a week—they get no care or watching. They are shorn once a year and yield three or four pounds of mohair. Mohair is used very largely for railroad car cushions.—San Francisco Bulletin.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 2, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The Lomax Rifles won the first prize awarded to infantry companies at the Washington drill. The amount of the prize money was $5,000.

A petition will be presented to the county commissioners at their next meeting asking that the county be supplied with a set of blood hounds for use by the sheriff in his work of hunting prisoners.

The meeting of the newspaper brotherhood in Birmingham last week was a round of pleasure and enjoyment, and the reception accorded by the Magic City has never been excelled in cordiality or hospitality. Anything more of the meeting would hardly interest our readers, and Birmingham needs no "booming" at our hands.

One of the most interesting gentlemen met at the Press Association in Birmingham last week was the poet-editor James R. Randall, late of Augusta, Ga., now of the Anniston Hot Blast. Mr. Randall became famous as the author of the war song "My Maryland." In his editorial work he is adding new laurels to his crown as the years go by.

At the recent meeting of the Ala. Press Association the following officers were elected for the succeeding year. President—W. M. Meeks; 1st Vice President—R. N. Rhodes; 2d Vice President—Thos. Hudson; Secretary—James Armstrong; Treasurer—Robt. M. Rawls; Executive Committee—J. B. Stanley, D. F. McCall, W. H. Lawrence. Selma was selected as the place for the next annual meeting.

The member who "raised the biggest racket" at the Press Association in Birmingham was "little but loud." He was about six months old and goes by the euphonious cognomen of Lawrence Kleibacher Ketchum. He is said to be the son of his father, John Ketchum better known as the fat boy of the Blount County News. His performances were rich, rare and racy, and at the banquet he serenaded six hundred people with a solo of his own composition. Long life to Kleibacher and his pa.

Affairs like that in Jackson, Miss., in which the boy editor Gambrell was shot down by a man whose conduct as a public officer he had criticized in his paper, the Sword and Shield, must only result in one thing, and that is the rousing of the press to do its duty regardless of bullets. Public opinion will sustain the press against the rascal and ruffian every time. The upright and truly courageous editor will do his duty anyhow, and the public, though it misapprehend at first, will come to his side in the end. Thus the power of the press for good will be increased and the welfare of the community better guarded.—Age.

The VIEW in its article in which it concluded that there was "something rotten in Denmark," as to county finances did not design to create the impression that there was any defalcation or embezzlement imminent among the county officers, as some of the over-suspicious have it. But it did design to warn the commissioners that they might be the means of getting themselves and the county into a deal of difficulty by non-compliance with the regulations of the code in the management of county finances. This is the sum and substances of our position and we repeat the warning here. The VIEW is proud to say that it has some enemies, and it does not expect anything but misrepresentation of its policy and views from such source.

The Editor's Duty.

Birmingham Chronicle.]

The recent killing of editor Gambrell, at Jackson, Miss., has awakened anew the discussion of what an editor should not write in his paper. Gambrell wrote charging a public official as being unfit for re-election on the ground that he was working with a corrupt ring to defraud the state. The proper course for the officer would have been a suit in a criminal court, but that is not the custom in the south. In our country a man who would sue another for slander or assault and battery is looked upon as a coward. Still when a charge is made by a newspaper on a public officer that is the proper course.

An editor occupies a trying position. He is expected to expose fraud and corruption when his attention is brought to it. When he does so he is liable to be whipped or shot, so the editorial chair is no place for a coward or fool any more than for a bully. In respectable papers it has long been the rule to ignore personal likes and dislikes in the columns of a paper. Of course, there are many newspaper men who do not appreciate the position they occupy and use their columns as vehicles of their own likes and dislikes. On respectable papers the policy is clearly marked out and the writers must conform to it.

No man should be allowed to use such a position to pursue a policy of revenge to his enemies and reward to his friends. The paper should be a common carrier of news and a commentary on news. Unless a writer signs his articles he should not be held personally responsible. On the contrary no article should appear in a paper injuring a man's character, position or business, unless the public good demands it. Gambrell had a right to publish such an article as he did if it was the truth and he thought the public good demanded an exposition of the truth.

The editor occupies a difficult position and should be as far above petty meanness as above cowardice. There are always fools who cannot understand articles, mean men who misinterpret them, and a great body of fair and just readers who never have trouble with their papers. There is no way for an editor to avoid writing to each of the three classes every day, and his only course is to go directly on doing his life work according to his idea of right. He must do his full duty even at risk of slander and pistols, and the sad assassination of Gambrell will not affect a single article in a single paper. Duty is duty and the world honors the man who discharges it most faithfully.

Third District of the Unity Baptist Association.

According to appointment the ministers and delegates composing the third district of the Unity Baptist Association convened with Mt. Zion Church on Friday, before the 5th Sunday in May, 1887.

The introductory sermon was preached by Rev. A. E. Burns.

After the sermon dinner was served on the grounds, after which the meeting re-assembled for work. The following names as delegates from the different churches were enrolled: Chestnut Creek—W. L. Price, G. B. Gray and Wm. Connell; Collins Chapel—W. D. Martin, W. A. Mims and Aaron Littleton; Mt. Zion—Elder James A. Mullins, James Vines, H. C. Young, D. H. Mullins and J. H. Vines; Clanton—W. H. Lawrence; Bro. A. E. Burns as corresponding messenger from Mulberry Association. The third question on programme was taken up first. "What constitutes a public offence against the peace, honor and dignity of the church;" The following resolution was introduced by Bro. A. E. Burns. "Resolved, that any course of conduct incompatible with the christian character as set forth in the New Testament is an offence against the peace, honor and dignity of the church." After discussion by Rev. A. E. Burns, followed by Elder James A. Mullins the resolution was adopted. Meeting adjourned until Saturday at 10 a. m. Saturday morning after the opening exercises, the discussion of questions as on the programme was taken up. The first question was: "Is foot washing an ordinance of the church of Christ according to the New Testament." A. E. Burns offered the following resolution: "That it is the opinion of the body that foot washing is not an ordinance of the church of Christ according to the New Testament." After a discussion of much interest the resolution was adopted, though not unanimously. Adjourned for dinner. The meeting re-assembled at 1 p. m. The second question on the programme was taken up. "Was foot washing performed by the Savior at the Eucharist or Lord's Supper." Discussion opened by W. H. Lawrence. After much discussion the question was tabled.

The next question taken up was: "The enjoyment of benevolence and church aid." Discussed by several brethren after which the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that contributions to benevolence and church aid afford the christian the rarest pleasure he may enjoy, and neglecting the opportunity of making such contribution may prove a thorn upon a dying pillow." Adjourned.

Sunday morning the exercises began at 9:30 o'clock with the discussion of the subject: "The necessity of a Sabbath school in every church." Discussion opened by Bro. H. C. Young followed by W. H. Lawrence, James Lindsay, Rev. Isaac Rutherford and other brethren. On this subject the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that the Sabbath school is a necessity to the church as a feeder and source of supply from which to draw its future support and membership."

Our pastor being ill, Bro. James A. Mullins preached a good sermon at 11 o'clock upon the distinctive principles of the Baptist Church; and the meeting was closed by exhortation and prayer by Bro. Isaac Rutherford.

D. H. MULLINS,
Clerk.

March off the Field at the Washington Encampment.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The color line question is reported to have cropped out again in to-day's national drill exercises. After Dr. Talmage had finished his sermon, and before the battalion dress parade began, the Vicksburg Southrons, and the Memphis Zouaves entertained the audience with some clever company manouvres. Later on, when the battalion entered the field and formed in line for parade these two companies marched off, and it was also noticed that several companies that had entered just before the Vicksburg and Memphis companies left the field, also followed them out. Captain Searles of the Vicksburg Southrons, says to-night that the explanation of this is to be found in the fact that the Washington cadets (colored) formed a part of the Washington battalion and that he purposely took his command off of the field and refrained from joining in the dress parade because of the presence of the colored company on the field and that five other companies, the Memphis Zouaves, the Lomax Rifles, of Mobile, the two Texas companies and the Louisiana Rifles after entering the field and learning that the colored cadets were to participate in the parade, also marched off. This, in effect, is the statement in circulation on one side to-night. On the other hand, Gen. Ordway, at headquarters says that there is no truth in it, that these six southern companies through some misunderstanding supposed they were to form a battalion for dress parade, and came on the field for that purpose, but when informed that they were not included in the parade, merely wheeled about and left the field.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-headache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Tax Sale.

Under and by virtue of decrees rendered at the regular term of the Probate Court of Chilton county, Alabama, on the 9th day of May, 1887, by Hon. H. J. Callen, Judge of Probate of Chilton county, Alabama, I will proceed to sell in front of the courthouse door in Clanton, Alabama, between the legal hours of sale, on Monday, June 20th, 1887, the following described real estate for the taxes and cost due thereon, for the year 1886, viz:

BEAT 1.

Unknown Owner, the s w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 18 t 23 range 15. Taxes and costs, $4.86. Printer's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 township 24 range 14. Taxes and costs $4.86.; Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n w ¼ of the n w ¼ sec 17 t 24 r 14. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 2.

Harrison Foshee, the sw ¼ of the s e ¼ S 6 t 23 r 13 and the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ S 7 t 23 r 13. Taxes and costs $4.62. Pr's fee $1.32.

French Nabors, the n w ¼ of the n e ¼ sec 2 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $3.43. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Thomas Peters, the n e ¼ of sec 21 t 24 r 12 and the n e ¼ of sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the e ½ of the n w q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the s w q of the s e q sec 15 t 24 r 12 and the n ½ of sec 22 t 24 r 12 and the s e q of the s e q sec 16 t 24 r 12. Taxes and costs $17.84. Pr's fee $2.88.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the s w q sec 4 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s e q of the s w q sec 22 t 23 r 12. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cents.

Unknown Owner, the n w q of the s e q sec 17 t 23 r 13. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the s e q sec 19 t 24 r 14. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the n w q of the s e q sec 25 t 24 r 13. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 4.

John Attaway the s e q of the n w q and the s ½ of the n e q and the n ½ of the n w q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 4 t 22 r 15. Taxes and costs $8.97. Pr's fee $1.77.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the n e q sec 6 t 21 r 15. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

BEAT 5.

D. T. Blakey, the s w q of the n w q sec 17 t 20 r 16. Taxes and costs $7.14. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner, the s ½ of the s e ¼ sec 15, t 20 r 15. Taxes and costs $5.96. Pr's fee 90 cts.

G. L. Zimmerman, the e ½ of fractional section 25, t 22, r 16. Part of sec 27 t 22 r 16. Taxes and costs $11.52. Pr's fee $1.05.

Unknown Owner, the n e q of the n e q, sec 19 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $4.86. Pr's fee 90 cts.

Unknown Owner the n e q of Fractional sec 15 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $5.90. Pr's fee 80 cts.

R. A. Warner, Agent, a house and lot in Verbena. Taxes and costs $25.41. Pr's fee 70 cts.

W. L. Whitworth, the n e q of the s w q in sec 22 t 21 r 16. Taxes and costs $5.27. Pr's fee 96 cents.

BEAT 8.

J. E. Butler the s half of the n e q and the n e q of the s e q all in sec 33, t 20 r 11. Taxes and costs $4.75. Pr's fee $1.28

R. R Caruthers, the n half of the s e q and a part of the n e qr of the n w q in sec 5 t 20 r 11 and the n w q of the s w q and the n w q of the n w q in sec 4 t 20 r 12. Taxes and costs $6.59. Pr's fee $2.13.

D. A. WHITE,
Tax Collector,
Chilton Co.

Clanton, Ala.,
May 11, 1887.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.

WILSON HOUSE.

COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. jun16y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Notice!

Notice is hereby given that J. L. Williams is not connected with this company in any capacity.

ALA. MINERAL LAND CO.
By JNO. M. MCKLEROY,
Att'y and General Agent.
May 28, 1887. [jun2-4t]

Notice!

All persons trespassing on lands lying in Chilton county, belonging to the estate of Dr. Gant late of Talladega county, deceased, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. John F. Maull is my authorized agent to take care of said lands and prevent trespass on the same.

JOHN T. HEFLIN,
Administrator.
ma12-4t

NOTICE NO. 6370.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Edward T. Rhodes, Homestead 12457 for the n ½ of s e ¼ see 8, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Vinson Grugg, George Mims, Joseph Gore, and James W. Knox, all of Clanton, Ala.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
ma12*

NOTICE NO. 6371.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Reason L. Woolly, Homestead 13154, for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 14, township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Garner, John B. Moore, Shelby Coshatt, Joseph W. Reynolds, all of Montevallo, Ala.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
ma12*

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1910 FIRST AVENUE (Upstairs)

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!

COLLINS AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING. PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S

Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY

Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use Dr. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE. Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC" for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.

COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun24-y

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,

And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs. - - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,

—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—

DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,

Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.

OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,

Birmingham, Ala.

Your Orders Solicited.

[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
SELMA, ALABAMA.

mar24-y]

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 2, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	2:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	10:36 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Praise and Prayer.

Holy, holy is the Lord,
Just and true his every word.
Blessed God may love divine,
Make us truly, wholely thine.

Give us grace thy will to do,
Let us work for Thee anew,
As shall pass each shining hour,
May we feel thy quickening power.

Fill our hearts with faith and love,
That we reach our home above,
Meet our loved ones on the strand,
Greet them in that heavenly land,

Hear our prayer, O, God our King.
We to Thee give thanks and sing;
Serve Thee here on earth below,
Praise Thee there forevermore.
E. C. L.

No plums.

Fruit scarce.

Blackberries scattering.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Church suppers are good things.

Concert talk seems to be dying out.

Send us your job printing. Satisfaction guaranteed.

The Alabama Mineral Land Company has a notice in this issue of the VIEW.

Mr. S. J. Brock and wife, of Birmingham, visited friends and relatives here this week.

Miss Anna Lou Duke, of this place, paid a visit to relatives in Deatsville last week.

Mr. Lee Holt has just returned from a trip over to Meridian, Miss., where he spent several days.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

This section has been visited by splendid rains during the last week and crops are looking fine.

Born,—To Mr. and Mrs. Phil Givhan at this place, on Thursday morning the 3d ult., a bouncing boy baby weighing nine pounds.

We learn that Prot Acree, of Verbena, will remove to Newton, his old home in Dale county. Chilton regrets to give him up.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

There were about twenty-five Clantonians in attendance upon the district meeting at Mt. Zion church, twelve miles northeast of Clanton, on last Sunday.

The Clear Creek Slate Works are advertising that enterprise through out the country by means of a neat little pamphlet printed at the VIEW office.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Miss Augusta Evans was taken suddenly ill while in church last Sunday night and being unable to go home she was carried to her sister's, Mrs. B. H. Chesnutt, just across the street from the church, where she remained till Tuesday morning when she was sufficiently ly recovered to be removed to her home. She is now improving.

Sampey's Corner.

I am now prepared to sell nice fresh butter to the town trade. New goods of all kinds just received, and marked low down to suit the scarcity of money. Now is the time to get a nice, summer dress and get it ready for the picnic. New hats in desirable styles at any price from 15 cents to $1.25. Come and see the new goods even if you do not buy.

James F. Estes, the genial young Kentuckian, representing the Dr. J. H. McLean's Medicine Co., of St. Louis Mo., paid us a pleasant call last week.

Mr. G. E. Williams has rebuilt his blacksmith shop which the winds of last week demolished and he is now ready to attend to the wants of his customers.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Mr. W. H. Phillips desires to put an end to the practice of guzzling from a whiskey bottle in his drug store and has hung up a sign to ask that it be discontinued.

Invitations to the commencement exercises of the many institutions of learning in the state have begun to come in. We acknowledge the receipt of one from Marion and one from Tuscaloosa.

Who steals my purse steals trash, but he who deprives me of the use of Coussens' Honey of Tar makes me poor in When I have a cough, cold or disease of throat or lungs, I want Coussens' Honey of Tar, because I have seen it tried for those ills, with unvarying success and know its virtues.

We have recently re-copied our subscription list. If any names have been omitted in the copying and any subscriber should fail to get the paper we would be pleased to hear of the matter so that it may be corrected.

Mr. R. Ehrman has sold out his stock of merchandise at this place and will spend much of his time in Birmingham now, looking after his lumber business there. He will still make Clanton his home however.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

White's Cream Vermifuge is good for the chaps certain, when the chaps are troubled with worms. When their presence is indicated in the stomach by the usual unmistakable symptoms, only give the boys and girls a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge and worms will follow as surely as night does the day. Remember White's Cream Vermifuge will expel worms.

Read the advertisement of the Wilson House, Birmingham. Tom Cowin now famous over the United States, is sole manager of this house, which is the largest hotel in Birmingham. It is located corner of second avenue and twenty first street.

Ice Cream Supper.

Ice cream will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society, at Mrs. M. DeJarnette's on Friday evening, June 3rd. All are cordially invited to attend. The grove in front of the Methodist church will be illuminated for the delectation of promenaders.

Let us discard a beginning, and begin by a conclusion of the whole matter, which is that Coussens' Honey of Tar for coughs, colds, and diseases of the throat and lungs, is unequaled. There are numberless imitations of this excellent remedy, but only one Coussens' Honey of Tar, a positive cure for coughs, colds and diseases of throat and lungs.

A Happy Marriage.

Just as we were going to press last week a marriage took place in Clanton which we failed to hear of in time to mention it in our last issue. The contracting parties were Mr. T. M. Edwards and Miss Mattie Cottingham, both of this place. Rev. Mr. Briggs, performed the ceremony. The groom is a promising young merchant and the charming bride is a daughter of Mr. J. W. Cottingham who recently moved to this place from Lowndes county. May they ever be happy.

Jumbo, Ala.

On a recent trip to Jumbo a VIEW representative made the acquaintance of quite a number of thorough going farmers of the settlement. There is a growing settlement around Jumbo post-office, and there are evidently more farmers in the neighborhood who are independent of the merchant and who live upon the products of their farms than in any other neighborhood in the county. Yellowleaf creek upon which the best farms are situated is a picturesque mountain steam which looks peaceful enough after the drouth, but which at times becomes a torrent to the detriment of all the farms along its banks. We found the citizens kind and hospitable and some of them are among the most well to do citizens of the county. One of our friends up there killed the fatted calf for us and made us feel large enough to eat it all. We shall repeat the visit.

Our Town Officers.

At the citizens meeting in the court house last Saturday night for the purpose of putting a ticket in the field for town officers the following gentleman were nominated candidates for the difference offices: Mayor, J. M. Ponder; Councillors, W. H. Foshee, E. T. Gullahorn, M. C. McRee, W. H. Phillips and W. A. Collier.

Mr. Foshee and Mr. Collier declined to serve if elected whereupon the ticket was supplemented with the names of W. E. Stewart and W. H. Sartor.

The election came off yesterday but we were unable to ascertain the result or vote polled before going to press. As there was no opposition to the ticket nominated it is without doubt that the above named gentlemen are elected.

It may be that the benefits to be derived from this election remain for the future to set forth. If there is nothing more accomplished than the securing of a new plat of the town and having the many fenced up and otherwise obstructed streets opened, even then we can say that much good has been done.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Dots From Six Mile Creek.

Crops clean, and growing finely.

Measles are visiting our community.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay preached a good sermon at the Pleasant Grove Baptist church on the 13th inst.

Mrs. Paratine Jones of Ark. is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Susan Hubbard is in very bad health.

Tax Assessor Smith was in our neighborhood a few days ago.

Mr. J. L. Waldrup, Sr., has been visiting in Missisippi.

The Baptist at Pleasant Grove are building a new church, and with such men as A. Patterson, J. L. Thomas and Joseph Smitherman to go ahead, encouraged by the gifted pastor, Rev. Mr. Burns, the house will soon be finished.

The Farmer's Alliance is flourishing here. JULIUS.

Deatsville Points.

Rain plenty, crops good.

Picnics are all the go. There was a very nice picnic at Birch Grove the 27th given by the Sunday school at this place. Every one seemed to enjoy themselves splendidly. The "Little soldiers" as they called themselves seemed to have most of the fun although they had some very hard fighting to do. Their first battle was with the preachers in which they gained the victory. Their next with the school teachers was also a victory for them. But the boys did not come out so well when they tackled the doctor, he did not like the fun. Even the old Capt. was made to look sad. Clanton was well represented by Misses Duke and Hyde. Elmore Station was also well represented by Misses Smith and Gainer. Every one enjoyed the excellent dinner and free lemonade. The day was one to be long remembered by the young people of the place. A VISITOR.

Verbena.

Good rains last week.

Mr. L. J. Hand and Prof. Corderie from Jemison gave our town a very pleasant visit this week.

Mr. R. Ehrman and James Dawson from Clanton were in Verbena Sunday.

The Rev. L. G. Skipper has been advised by a physician to quit preaching owing to his delicate health. We are very sorry to lose him for the Baptist church is in a prosperous condition under his management. May he soon recover and resume his labors again.

A. J. Brooks, went to Liberty church Sunday in east Chilton to attend a Sabbath school speaking.

Amand Lodge No. 250, of F. & A. M. at Verbena, elected officers on the fourth Saturday in May. The officers will be installed on the fourth Saturday in June. We would like to have the brethren of neighboring Lodges take part with us and be governed accordingly.

We are sorry to say that Prof. W. U. Acree's school has closed and he don't know at present whether he will teach another year or not, as his health is feeble.

Mr. C. C. Sellers, from Randolph Ala., was in Verbena last week looking out a situation as school teacher. He made a fine impression here, probably he will get a school. We need a good teacher another year.

Miss Etta Haralson a daughter of J. L. Haralson, of this place, is at home this week from South Ala. WATCHMAN.

Maplesville Dots.

We have had plenty of rain for the past week and have a good prospect for more.

We have a better prospect for good crops this year than we have had for the past four.

Mr. Enoch Hays says that he has the best crop in the county. Mr. Hays also showed us something like a cotton boll that he says grew on his farm.

The ground peas in this vicinity did not come up well. We suppose the dry weather was the cause.

Miss Beulah Perry, from Texas, spent a few days with Mr. T. D. DuBose's family last week.

Mrs. Emma Berry, of Orrville, is visiting her mother in this place.

Two of Dixie's belles gave our little village a flying visit not long ago.

Maplesville was not largely represented at the picnic on account of the sickness of Mr. Bowline.

We regret to record the death of one of our well known citizens Mr. W. R. Bowline. Mr. Bowline died about eleven o'clock Wednesday. His death was very unexpected to his friends. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved family. D.

In the decline of life infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLaen's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

On Several Subjects.

Had Adam got a patent out on woman he might have died a millionaire.

Obstinacy and heat in argument are surest proofs of folly.—Montaigne.

Never stop at the church door to ask about the music. In choir within.

Why is gooseberry jam like counterfeit money? Because it is not currant.

A man of exalted berth:—The man who has the upper berth in a steamer.

If the power to do hard work is not talent, it is an excellent substitute for it.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam.

Why is a chicken pie like a gunsmith's shop? Because it contains fowl-in-pieces.

The great road of human welfare lies all along the highway of steadfast well-doing.

Every beautiful pure and good thought which the heart entertains is an angel of mercy, purifying and guarding the soul.

The most thoughtful man living is the one who immediately stopped dying when reminded that his life insurance policy had expired.

Nature is frank, and will allow no man to abuse himself without giving him a hint of it.

The praises of others may be used in teaching not what we were, but what we ought to be.

Wealth is like a bird; it hops all day from man to man, as that does from tree to tree, and none can say where it will roost at night.—T. Adams.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES
SUCH AS
Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular
MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.
If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

MONTGOMERY
FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

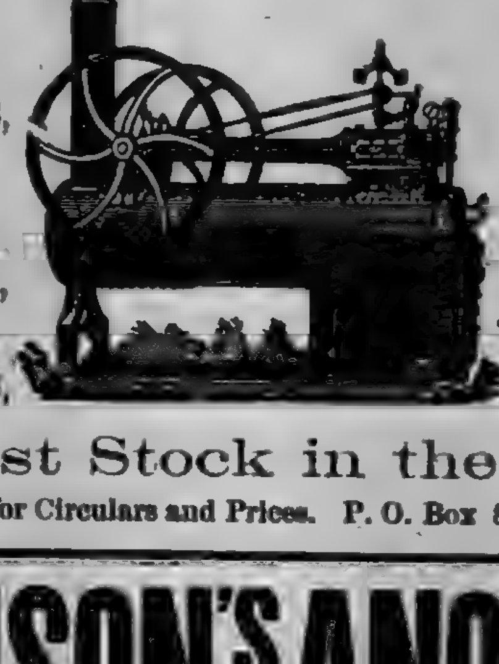
This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala.
SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.



Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
☞ CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, [illegible] Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, [illegible] Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. [illegible]
MAKE HENS LAY
Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. [illegible]

GORDON DUBOSE,
Attorney at Law,
CENTERVILLE, ALA.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 2, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	2:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	10:36 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Praise and Prayer.

Holy, holy is the Lord,
Just and true his every word.
Blessed God may love divine,
Make us truly, wholely thine.

Give us grace thy will to do,
Let us work for Thee anew,
As shall pass each shining hour,
May we feel thy quickening power.

Fill our hearts with faith and love,
That we reach our home above,
Meet our loved ones on the strand,
Greet them in that heavenly land,

Hear our prayer, O, God our King.
We to Thee give thanks and sing;
Serve Thee here on earth below,
Praise Thee there forevermore.

E. C. L.

No plums.

Fruit scarce.

Blackberries scattering.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Church suppers are good things.

Concert talk seems to be dying out.

Send us your job printing. Satisfaction guaranteed.

The Alabama Mineral Land Company has a notice in this issue of the VIEW.

Mr. S. J. Brock and wife, of Birmingham, visited friends and relatives here this week.

Miss Anna Lou Duke, of this place, paid a visit to relatives in Deatsville last week.

Mr. Lee Holt has just returned from a trip over to Meridian, Miss., where he spent several days.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

This section has been visited by splendid rains during the last week and crops are looking fine.

Born,—To Mr. and Mrs. Phil Givhan at this place, on Thursday morning the 3d ult., a bouncing boy baby weighing nine pounds.

We learn that Prof Acree, of Verbena, will remove to Newton, his old home in Dale county. Chilton regrets to give him up.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

There were about twenty-five Clantonians in attendance upon the district meeting at Mt. Zion church, twelve miles northeast of Clanton, on last Sunday.

The Clear Creek Slate Works are advertising that enterprise through out the country by means of a neat little pamphlet printed at the VIEW office.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Miss Augusta Evans was taken suddenly ill while in church last Sunday night and being unable to go home she was carried to her sister's, Mrs. B. H. Chesnutt, just across the street from the church, where she remained till Tuesday morning when she was sufficiently recovered to be removed to her home. She is now improving.

Sampey's Corner.

I am now prepared to sell nice fresh butter to the town trade. New goods of all kinds just received, and marked low down to suit the scarcity of money. Now is the time to get a nice, summer dress and get it ready for the picnic. New hats in desirable styles at any price from 15 cents to $1.25. Come and see the new goods even if you do not buy.

James F. Estes, the genial young Kentuckian, representing the Dr. J. H. McLean's Medicine Co., of St. Louis Mo., paid us a pleasant call last week.

Mr. G. E. Williams has rebuilt his blacksmith shop which the winds of last week demolished and he is now ready to attend to the wants of his customers.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Mr. W. H. Phillips desires to put an end to the practice of guzzling from a whiskey bottle in his drug store and has hung up a sign to ask that it be discontinued.

Invitations to the commencement exercises of the many institutions of learning in the state have begun to come in. We acknowledge the receipt of one from Marion and one from Tuscaloosa.

Who steals my purse steals trash, but he who deprives me of the use of Coussens' Honey of Tar makes me poor in When I have a cough, cold or disease of throat or lungs, I want Coussens' Honey of Tar, because I have seen it tried for those ills, with unvarying success and know its virtues.

We have recently re-copied our subscription list. If any names have been omitted in the copying and any subscriber should fail to get the paper we would be pleased to hear of the matter so that it may be corrected.

Mr. R. Ehrman has sold out his stock of merchandise at this place and will spend much of his time in Birmingham now, looking after his lumber business there. He will still make Clanton his home however.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

White's Cream Vermifuge is good for the chaps certain, when the chaps are troubled with worms. When their presence is indicated in the stomach by the usual unmistakable symptoms, only give the boys and girls a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge and worms will follow as surely as night does the day. Remember White's Cream Vermifuge will expel worms.

Read the advertisement of the Wilson House, Birmingham. Tom Cowin now famous over the United States, is sole manager of this house, which is the largest hotel in Birmingham. It is located corner of second avenue and twenty first street.

Ice Cream Supper.

Ice cream will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society, at Mrs. M. DeJarnette's on Friday evening, June 3rd. All are cordially invited to attend. The grove in front of the Methodist church will be illuminated for the delectation of promenaders.

Let us discard a beginning, and begin by a conclusion of the whole matter, which is that Coussens' Honey of Tar for coughs, colds, and diseases of the throat and lungs, is unequaled. There are numberless imitations of this excellent remedy, but only one Coussens' Honey of Tar, a positive cure for coughs, colds and diseases of throat and lungs.

A Happy Marriage.

Just as we were going to press last week a marriage took place in Clanton which we failed to hear of in time to mention it in our last issue. The contracting parties were Mr. T. M. Edwards and Miss Mattie Cottingham, both of this place. Rev. Mr. Briggs, performed the ceremony. The groom is a promising young merchant and the charming bride is a daughter of Mr. J. W. Cottingham who recently moved to this place from Lowndes county. May they ever be happy.

Jumbo, Ala.

On a recent trip to Jumbo a VIEW representative made the acquaintance of quite a number of thorough going farmers of the settlement. There is a growing settlement around Jumbo post-office, and there are evidently more farmers in the neighborhood who are independent of the merchant and who live upon the products of their farms than in any other neighborhood in the county. Yellowleaf creek upon which the best farms are situated is a picturesque mountain steam which looks peaceful enough after the drouth, but which at times becomes a torrent to the detriment of all the farms along its banks. We found the citizens kind and hospitable and some of them are among the most well to do citizens of the county. One of our friends up there killed the fatted calf for us and made us feel large enough to eat it all. We shall repeat the visit.

Our Town Officers.

At the citizens meeting in the court house last Saturday night for the purpose of putting a ticket in the field for town officers the following gentleman were nominated candidates for the difference offices: Mayor, J. M. Ponder; Councillors, W. H. Foshee, E. T. Gullaborn, M. C. McRee, W. H. Phillips and W. A. Collier.

Mr. Foshee and Mr. Collier declined to serve if elected whereupon the ticket was supplemented with the names of W. E. Stewart and W. H. Sartor.

The election came off yesterday but we were unable to ascertain the result or vote polled before going to press. As there was no opposition to the ticket nominated it is without doubt that the above named gentlemen are elected.

It may be that the benefits to be derived from this election remain for the future to set forth. If there is nothing more accomplished than the securing of a new plat of the town and having the many fenced up and otherwise obstructed streets opened, even then we can say that much good has been done.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Dots From Six Mile Creek.

Crops clean, and growing finely.

Measles are visiting our community.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay preached a good sermon at the Pleasant Grove Baptist church on the 13th inst.

Mrs. Paratine Jones of Ark. is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Susan Hubbard is in very bad health.

Tax Assessor Smith was in our neighborhood a few days ago.

Mr. J. L. Waldrup, Sr., has been visiting in Mississippi.

The Baptist at Pleasant Grove are building a new church, and with such men as A. Patterson, J. L. Thomas and Joseph Smitherman to go ahead, encouraged by the gifted pastor, Rev. Mr. Burns, the house will soon be finished.

The Farmer's Alliance is flourishing here.

JULIUS.

Deatsville Points.

Rain plenty, crops good.

Picnics are all the go. There was a very nice picnic at Birch Grove the 27th given by the Sunday school at this place. Every one seemed to enjoy themselves splendidly. The "Little soldiers" as they called themselves seemed to have most of the fun although they had some very hard fighting to do. Their first battle was with the preachers in which they gained the victory. Their next with the school teachers was also a victory for them. But the boys did not come out so well when they tackled the doctor, he did not like the fun. Even the old Capt. was made to look sad. Clanton was well represented by Misses Duke and Hyde. Elmore Station was also well represented by Misses Smith and Gainer. Every one enjoyed the excellent dinner and free lemonade. The day was one to be long remembered by the young people of the place.

A VISITOR.

Verbena.

Good rains last week.

Mr. L. J. Hand and Prof. Corderie from Jemison gave our town a very pleasant visit this week.

Mr. R. Ehrman and James Dawson from Clanton were in Verbena Sunday.

The Rev. L. G. Skipper has been advised by a physician to quit preaching owing to his delicate health. We are very sorry to lose him for the Baptist church is in a prosperous condition under his management. May he soon recover and resume his labors again.

A. J. Brooks, went to Liberty church Sunday in east Chilton to attend a Sabbath school speaking.

Amand Lodge No. 250, of F. & A. M. at Verbena, elected officers on the fourth Saturday in May. The officers will be installed on the fourth Saturday in June. We would like to have the brethren of neighboring Lodges take part with us and be governed accordingly.

We are sorry to say that Prof. W. U. Acree's school has closed and he don't know at present whether he will teach another year or not, as his health is feeble.

Mr. C. C. Sellers, from Randolph Ala., was in Verbena last week looking out a situation as school teacher. He made a fine impression here, probably he will get a school. We need a good teacher another year.

Miss Etta Haralson a daughter of J. L. Haralson, of this place, is at home this week from South Ala.

WATCHMAN.

Maplesville Dots.

We have had plenty of rain for the past week and have a good prospect for more.

We have a better prospect for good crops this year than we have had for the past four.

Mr. Enoch Hays says that he has the best crop in the county. Mr. Hays also showed us something like a cotton boll that he says grew on his farm.

The ground peas in this vicinity did not come up well. We suppose the dry weather was the cause.

Miss Beulah Perry, from Texas, spent a few days with Mr. T. D. DuBose's family last week.

Mrs. Emma Berry, of Orrville, is visiting her mother in this place.

Two of Dixie's belles gave our little village a flying visit not long ago.

Maplesville was not largely represented at the picnic on account of the sickness of Mr. Bowline.

We regret to record the death of one of our well known citizens Mr. W. R. Bowline. Mr. Bowline died about eleven o'clock Wednesday. His death was very unexpected to his friends. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved family.

D.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLaen's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

On Several Subjects.

Had Adam got a patent out on woman he might have died a millionaire.

Obstinacy and heat in argument are surest proofs of folly.—Montaigne.

Never stop at the church door to ask about the music. In choir within.

Why is gooseberry jam like counterfeit money? Because it is not currant.

A man of exalted berth:—The man who has the upper berth in a steamer.

If the power to do hard work is not talent, it is an excellent substitute for it.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam.

Why is a chicken pie like a gunsmith's shop? Because it contains fowl-in-pieces.

The great road of human welfare lies all along the highway of steadfast well-doing.

Every beautiful pure and good thought which the heart entertains is an angel of mercy, purifying and guarding the soul.

The most thoughtful man living is the one who immediately stopped dying when reminded that his life insurance policy had expired.

Nature is frank, and will allow no man to abuse himself without giving him a hint of it.

The praises of others may be used in teaching not what we were, but what we ought to be.

Wealth is like a bird; it hops all day from man to man, as that does from tree to tree, and none can say where it will roost at night.—T. Adams.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful, Profuse, Suppressed, Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala.

SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES,
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN. FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhœa, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C. H. St., Boston.

Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food.

MAKE HENS LAY

Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. It cures chicken cholera and all diseases of hens. Is worth its weight in gold. Illustrated book by mail free.

Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cents in stamps. [illegible]

GORDON DUBOSE,
Attorney at Law,
CENTREVILLE, ALA.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb18-tf

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously, Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞Correspondence solicited.☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 448. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. [illegible]
Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.
ma5 1y

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line.

[mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of [illegible] is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading railroads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

A Ridiculous Affair.

A London paper tells the following story of "the army":—While Dr. Young, an officer belonging to the Woolwich Garrison, was escorting some ladies up the river to Vauxhall about the year 1720, he played them some tunes on a flute. Behind them was a boat, in which were several officers, rowing for the same goal, and, as these soon came alongside the one the Doctor and his party were in, he ceased playing.

One of the officers immediately asked why he did so. "For the same reason I begun," answered Dr. Young—"to please myself." The reply to this was an order to continue playing, ending with a threat that if he did not do so he (the officer) would toss the Doctor into the Thames. Dr. Young complied with the insolent demand and played all the way up the river to Vauxhall. During the evening, however, the Doctor observed the officer, who had been so musically inclined, by himself in one of the walks, when he went up to him, and with great coolness said: "It was, sir, to avoid interrupting the harmony of either my company or yours that I complied with your arrogant demand, but that you may learn courage is to be found under a black coat as well as under a red one, I expect that you will meet me to-morrow morning at a certain place without any second, the quarrel being entirely between ourselves." The Doctor further covenanted that the affair should be decided by swords, to all of which conditions the officer readily agreed. The parties met the following morning as had been arranged; but, the moment the officer had taken his ground and drawn his sword, the Doctor pulled out a horse-pistol and presented it at him. "What!" exclaimed the officer in a fright, "do you mean to assassinate me?"

"No," replied the Doctor, "but you shall instantly put up your sword and dance a minuet; otherwise you are a dead man." The other at this began to swear at his opponent as well as to vow he would do nothing of the kind; but the Doctor was resolute, giving the officer to understand that if he did not begin to dance before he (Young) counted thirty the threat would be carried into effect. In slow time the Doctor began to count, "one, two, three," and by the time he had got to "ten" the sword was returned into its sheaf, and before he had counted "twenty" the officer was going through a minuet as stately as a man could do that had a loaded pistol levelled within but a few feet of his head. After a quarter of an hour's practice the muzzle of the pistol was lowered, the holder of it saying as it fell: "That will do, sir; we are now quits. You forced me to play against my will, and I have compelled you to dance against yours. Being now on a level I will give you whatever other satisfaction you require. The next affair will, of course, be with seconds. You know where to find me. Good morning." The Doctor, however, heard nothing more of the matter.

A PHILADELPHIA photographer took an instantaneous photograph of a beautiful five-year-old boy as he was playing near his rooms. A manufacturer of cotton goods saw the picture, bought it, and adopted it as a trade mark for his goods. The father of the boy is in the dry goods trade, and was one day astonished to find the portrait of his pet pasted on a piece of muslin. He investigated the matter, and at his request the owner of the mill surrendered the pictures not already used.

LIFE AT SEA.

How They Stand Watches on an Ocean Steamer.

The officers and sailors are divided into two watches, and keep watch and watch from the time of her departure from one port till the time of arrival at the other. These watches are: First watch, from 8 p. m. till midnight; middle watch, from midnight till 4 a. m.; morning watch, from 4 a. m. till 8 a. m.; forenoon watch, from 8 a. m. till noon; afternoon watch, from noon till 4 p. m.; then come the dog watches, the first from 4 p. m. till 6 p. m.; the second, from 6 p. m. till 8 p. m.; by this arrangement seven instead of six watches are made, the intention being to change the turn of the night watch every 24 hours. By the way, it was facetiously remarked by Theodore Hook, that the term dog watch comes from these watches being "curtailed." The chief officer, third and fifth officers, and half the sailors are in one watch, (the port watch;) the second, fourth and sixth officers and half the sailors make up the starboard watch. When the chief officer is on deck, he is stationed on the bridge where the telegraphs to the engine room, wheelhouse and other parts of the vessel are fixed; the third officer is on the lookout bridge, forward and the fifth officer is at the con, attending to the steering of the ship; two of the sailors are stationed as far forward as possible as lookout men, one sailor is stationed at the crank hatch to pass an order to the engine room should anything go wrong with the telegraph to the engine-room, and a quartermaster is stationed in the after wheelhouse to attend to the steering engine and also to look after the wheel chains; in thick weather the lookouts are doubled, and in heavy weather additional men are stationed in the after wheelhouse to put the brakes on the circle on the rudder head should anything go wrong with the wheel chains, steering engine, etc., in which case the hand steering gear could be attached in less than a minute; the remaining part of the watch, under the boatswain, attend to making or shortening sail, washing decks, etc. When the starboard watch comes on deck the second officer relieves the chief officer, the fourth the third officer, and the sixth the fifth officer, the lookouts, etc., being relieved by members of the watch coming on duty. Every care and attention is paid by the officers and lookouts or it would be impossible to navigate ocean steamers as safely as is done. This routine is carried on from the beginning till the end of the passage, and through sunshine and darkness, storm and tempest, the only change is removing the lookout men from the fore end of the ship, where they might have a chance of being washed away, to the lookout bridge, or even to the main bridge, but this latter is only done in very bad weather.—Good Words.

THERE is a famous modern picture at Moscow of John the Terrible, after he has murdered his son in a fit of rage, and suddenly discovers the crime he has committed. The expression in his eyes is that of a madman, with a curious gleam of horror and consciousness striking him, after his son has sunk at his feet with the blood streaming from his wounded temple. It is intensely realistic, and report asserts that on one occasion a lady was so much affected by the sight of it that she fell down dead on the spot. According to this tale, the picture was subsequently removed to an inner room and ladies not admitted in the absence of a medical attendant.

SCIENTIFIC AND INDUSTRIAL.

The species and sub-species of birds now recognized by ornithologists as belonging to the avi-fauna of North America number 941. Of these eighty-two may be regarded as stragglers from other countries, leaving 859 species of which this continent may properly be called the habitat.

A scheme is on foot to utilize the pressure of the fresh-water wells of Florida for manufacturing purposes. Water is found at a depth of 250 feet, and in many wells there is a pressure of fourteen pounds to the square inch. The theory entertained is, the deeper the well the greater will be the pressure.

The fish commission states that the total distribution of shad fry for the season of 1886 amounted to 90,000,000. As the entire number of shad taken for the market was less than 6,000,000, it will be seen that for ever shad taken from the waters the past season, fifteen artificially hatched young shad have been returned.

Vulcabeston is the name of a new article intended to combine all the valuable qualities of asbestos and India rubber, of which it is mainly composed, although other vulcanizable materials enter into its composition. It forms a substance of the toughness of horns, although it can be made of any degree of flexibility. It is a non-conductor of electricity, and stands the severest tests of acids, steams, gases, etc.

Meerschaum ranks among the most important mineral products of the Turkish Empire. It is a magnesite or hydro silicate of magnesia, and is found in extensive masses in the lower transition beds, in the Crimea and the Island of Negropont, but most abundantly in Asia Minor. Some twenty beds of the magnesite are worked near Eski-Sheir. They belong to the Turkish Government, but are farmed out to European companies.

A scientific observer in Lebbeke, Belgium, who has kept a record of the church bells and the weather for over ten years, to determine the distance the bells may be heard under varied conditions, finds the sounds are heard farthest when the movement of the air is cyclonic, or, if calm, when the air is very moist. Sometimes contrary winds make no obstacle to sound transmission. Sounds are heard the greatest distance between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning. Certain clocks, six and eight kilometres southwest of Lebbeke, are called water clocks by the country folk, because a rainy period always sets in soon after they are heard.

Professor J. S. Newberry defines an earthquake as a movement caused by a shrinking, from loss of heat, of the heated interior of the earth, and the crushing together and displacement of the rigid exterior, as it accommodates itself to the contracting nucleus. As the nucleus contracts, the solid crust cannot accommodate itself, moment by moment, to the loss of volume, for it resists by its rigidity, and is brought into a state of strain, which is relieved, from time to time, whenever it passes the resistance of the materials composing the crust, by crushing together and displacement of the surface rocks. When the data collected in regard to the Charleston earthquake shall have been tabulated, it will doubtless be found that the displacements which occasioned the vibrations were located along a line parallel with the Alleghanies, and at a depth of from 10,000 to 20,000 feet, not under, but westward of the city.

At the moon's surface, the force of gravitation being very much less than at the earth's surface, a being constituted like man, and endowed with the same muscular energy, could leap an astonishing distance—clearing, for example, a three-story house with the same case that he would clear a fence on she earth; a stone thrown from the hand of a thoughtless boy might fall in an adjoining county; armies could engage in battle at great distances apart, and all kinds of labor would be greatly lightened by reason of the diminished weight of tools and materials. While this state of things might not render human life, endowed as we have it on earth, impossible on the moon, the opposite state of things which would prevail on Jupiter and Saturn would certainly render life a burden. The masses of Jupiter and Saturn being so much greater than that of the earth, the corresponding greater attractions which they would exert would so impede locomotion that, unless endowed with enormously greater muscular power than he is gifted wish on earth, man would only be able to crawl along as though his feet were weighted with lead.

The Confederate Cabinet.

President Davis's Cabinet—with the successive Secretaries of each department, including both the provisional and permanent Cabinets—were as follows: State Department—Robert Toombs, Georgia, Feb. 21, 1861; R. M. T. Hunter, Virginia, July 30, 1861; Judah P. Benjamin, Louisiana, Feb. 7, 1862; Treasury Department—Charles G. Memminger, South Carolina, Feb. 21, 1861, and March 22, 1862; James L. Trenholm, South Carolina, June 18, 1864. War Department—L. Pope Walker, Mississippi, Feb. 21, 1861; Judah P. Benjamin, Louisiana, Nov. 10, 1861; James A. Seddon, Virginia, March 22, 1862; John C. Breckridge, Kentucky, Feb. 15, 1865. Navy Department—Stephen R. Mallory, Florida, March 4, 1861, and March 22, 1862. Attorney-General—Judah P. Benjamin, Louisiana, Feb. 21, 1861; Thomas H. Watts, Alabama, Sept. 10, 1861, and March 22, 1862; George Davis, North Carolina, Nov. 10, 1863. Postmaster-General—Henry J. Ellet, Mississippi, Feb. 21, 1861; John H. Reagan, Texas, March 6, 1861, and March 22, 1862.

The generals were as follows: S. Cooper, commissioned May 16, 1861; A. S. Johnston, May 28; R. E. Lee, June 14; J. E. Johnston, July 4, and G. T. Beauregard, July 21. Braxton Bragg was made General after the death of A. S. Johnston.

How Hindoos Reap and Clean.

The Milling World tells its readers how the Hindoo reaps with an iron blade, six inches long, an inch wide, and curved like a sickle, costing him four cents. He squats on his heels, cuts a handful, lays it down, and without rising off his heels waddles forward and cuts another. In twelve days he cuts an acre, and receives five cents a day, boarding himself. When he wants to thrash his grain, he drives a stake in the ground, spreads his grain around it, ties a rope to his bull's horns and then to the stake, and drives them around and around till the straw is tramped very fine into what they call "bhoosa." This is fed to the cattle after the wheat is separared. Englishman have introduced thrashing machines, but the Hindoos will have none of them. They think their cattle would not eat the straw because it breaks it instead of tramping it flat. They clean their wheat by holding it up in the wind in a scoop made of reeds, or, if the wind is not blowing, two Hindoos make wind by waving a blanket, while a third dribbles the grain from the scoop.

The "Plebe" Camp at West Point.

The summer camp is one round of labor for the plebe, as the first-year man is called at West Point. If he were transported to another planet there could hardly be a greater change in his life than that which he experiences when he leaves the comforts of his home and plunges into the routine of military drill and discipline of West Point. He rises at 5 in the morning for reveille, and in half an hour marches to breakfast, the interval being employed in doing the policing of his own tent and of the tent of the cadet to whom he may stand in the relation of "special-duty man." When he walks he marches with depressed toes and outspread palms. He has two hours of drill every morning and another hour with parade in the afternoon. After tattoo, which is half-past eight, he may retire; but no downy couch awaits him. He spreads his blanket on the tent floor, and spreads himself on that, with a quilt drawn over him for protection against the night cold. The only change from this programme is on Sundays, or on days when he marches on guard. On Sunday there is the Sunday morning inspection and two hours at chapel, making it anything but a day of rest; and when, as a sentinel, he marches on guard in the morning, he walks post two hours at a stretch in sunshine and in rain, with four-hour intervals, during the whole twenty-four hours that elapse before the guard is relieved. This much, in general, falls to the lot of every plebe in the way of duty. Aside from this comes in the question of his treatment by older cadets. Ability to sing, play, dance, or render one's self entertaining in some such way is highly appreciated by cadets; and a readiness to exercise what few accomplishments he may possess usually saves the plebe much harassing. Of course all do not escape so easily. Many have guns to clean and water to carry and bedding to pile for the upper-class men, and are unpleasantly "roughed" in other ways; but the ill usage which a new cadet ordinarily receives is almost always exaggerated in the accounts which reach the public through the press.—St. Nicholas.

A Sea Sick Passenger,

On the ocean, cares little about a storm. He is positively indifferent whether he is washed overboard or not. But, set right by a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, he feels renewed interest in his personal safety. This fine corrective neutralizes in brackish water—often compulsorily drank on shipboard, to the grievous detriment of health—the pernicious impurities which give rise to disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. To the mariner, the tourist, the Western pioneer and the miner, the Bitters is invaluable as a means of protection against malaria, when its seeds are latent in air and water. To the effects of overwork, mental or manual, it is a most reliable antidote, and to the debilitated and nervous, it affords great and speedily felt relief and vigor.

A unique society in Philadelphia is styled the "Social Funeral Directors."

Five Hundred Dollars

Is the sum Dr. Pierce offers for the detection of any calomel or other mineral or injurious drug in his justly celebrated "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They are about the size of mustard seed, therefore easily taken, while their operation is unattended by any griping pain. Billiousness, sick-headache, bad taste in the mouth and jaundice yield at once before these "little giants." Of your druggist.

The New York Coaching club used 48 horses in going with one coach to Philadelphia.

Delicate Children, Nursing

Mothers, Overworked Men, and for all diseases where the tissues are wasting away from the inability to digest ordinary food, or from overwork of the brain or body, all such should take SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. "I used the Emulsion on a lady who was delicate, and threatened with Bronchitis. It put her in such good health and flesh, that I must say it is the best Emulsion I ever used."—L. P. WADDELL, M. D., Hugh's Mills, S. C.

Base-ball King Mike Kelly of the "Bostons" received a $500 watch from his admirers.

Is it Really Consumption?

Many a case supposed to be radical lung disease is really one of liver complaint and indigestion; but, unless that diseased liver can be restored to healthy action, it will so clog the lungs with corrupting matter as to bring on their speedy decay, and then indeed we have consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs in its worst form. Nothing can be more happily calculated to nip this danger in the bud than is Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." By druggists.

New York intends to pension all National guardsmen that get injured while on duty.

PROF. LOISETTE AND COLLEGES.

How the Famous Memory-Teacher Occupies His Time—The Busiest Man in America.

For instance, during the week commencing May 9. On that evening he gave the first of his course of five lectures to a second class at Yale of 200 students. May 10, he gave the first lecture to a class of 400 students at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. May 11, he gave the third of his course to 100 Columbia law students. May 12, he gave the first lecture to 300 lady students of Wellesley College, Mass., and May 13 he gave the second lecture at the University of Pennsylvania. And yet he is always found at his office from 8 A. M. till noon of every day. During this time he runs through his correspondence, giving his assistants the most minute and detailed instructions in regard to each letter received or any other matter that is brought to his notice. In the afternoon he travels out of town, and in the evening gives his lecture, always returning home the same night or early next morning. He endures all this incessant occupation and necessitated broken sleep because he loves his work and because he takes good care of his health. He claims that the warm weather is the best time in the year for study.

The lectures, it is true, are not essential to the mastery of the Professor's system, since his printed lesson-papers are full and complete, enabling any one to learn.—N. Y. World.

Fortune's Favorites

Are those who court fortune—those who are always looking out for and investigating the opportunities that are offered. Send your address to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and they will mail you free, full particulars about work that you can do while living at home, wherever you are located, and earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards. Capital not required. You are started free. Both sexes. All ages. Some have earned over $50 in a single day. All is new.

WHATEVER name or designation is given to Fever and Ague or other intermittent diseases, it is safe to say that Malaria or a disordered state of the liver is at fault. Eliminate the impurities from the system and a sure and prompt cure is the result. Prickly Ash Bitters is the safest and most effective remedy for all biliary troubles, kidney diseases, and like complaints that has ever been brought before the public. A trial is its best recommendation.

A Rich Legacy.

The General attorney of the Pullman sleeping car company, Ex-chief Justice O. A. Lochrane, states that old Dr. Biggers could leave no better legacy than his Huckleberry Cordial for all bowel affections.

A Wonderful Machine and Offer.

To introduce them we give away 1,000 Self-operating Washing Machines. No labor or washboard. Best in the world. If you want one, write The National Co., 27 Dey St., N. Y.

As a raindrop foretells a storm, so a pimple upon human body indicates health-destroying virus in the blood, which can be neutralized and expelled only by Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

The King of Siam has conferred the highest honors on an American dentist.

The "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce cures "female weakness" and kindred affections. By druggists.

The English yacht, "Thistle," easily made 15 knots an hour on her trial trip.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c per bottle

The best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

ABOUT a year ago Undertaker Noel of Altoona, Pa., received a postal card asking him to go with his hearse to a neighboring town and bury a man who had died suddenly. It was a two days' trip, but he went, and found that he had been hoaxed. There was no corpse to bury. Noel set to work to find out the author of the hoax, and had S. March, a wealthy merchant of Altoona, arrested for malicious mischief. March tried to settle with Noel, but the latter wouldn't hear of it, and is suing for heavy damages.

A VERY little fellow has a very lively tongue, and talks so much at meals that on a recent occasion, when there were to be guests at the table, his elder brother bribed him with a nickel to be still. After ten minutes of silence the little boy whispered anxiously to his brother, "Arthur, Arthur, mayn't I talk a cent's worth?"

From Philipsburg, Pa., Mr. S. M. Cross, writes, briefly and pointedly, thus: "Your St. Jacob's Oil has cured me of neuralgia of the face and head." Price fifty cents.

Medical missions are proving of great benefit to the Presbyterian mission work in Persia. A Christian physician has been appointed as consulting physician to the heir apparent of the throne, and his influence is felt in favors shown to the mission work.

Mr. H. Carl, 130 Fourth Street, Troy, N. Y., says: "My daughter had a sprained ankle; St. Jacobs Oil cured her in a day or two. My son had rheumatism about nine years ago, St. Jacobs Oil cured him; he has not been affected since." Price fifty cents.

Poor's Manual reports the total railroad construction in the Southern section in 1886 at 3,784 miles, and estimates that during the present year, "unless some serious revulsion should occur to reverse existing plans," the construction will amount to 12,000 miles.

A Good Appetite

Is essential to good health; but at this season it is often lost, owing to the poverty or impurity of the blood, derangement of the digestive organs, and the weakening effect of the changing season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, toning the digestion, and giving strength to the whole system. Now is the time to take it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am glad to say it has cured me of a very severe pain in the small of my back. I also gave it to my little girl. She had very little appetite; but Hood's Sarsaparilla has increased it wonderfully, and from our experience I highly recommend this medicine."—MRS. A. BAUSLIER, 135 1-2 Van Horn Street, Jersey City.

Makes the Weak Strong

"I must say Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever used. Last spring I had no appetite, and the least work I did fatigued me ever so much. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon I felt as if I could do as much in a day as I had formerly done in a week. My appetite is voracious."—MRS. M. V. BAYARD, Atlantic City, N. J.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Milo B. Stevens & Co.

GLOVER BUILDING,

PENSIONS Washington, D. C.

This offer is not Equalled.

For 10c. we will send a certificate worth 75c., and samples of beautiful cards. The old reliable. CARD, WATCH AND NOVELTY CO., Wallingford, Conn.

STOCKS.—10 TO 1,000 SHARES. Bought, Sold and Carried on Margin. Send for our list of STOCK PRIVILEGES. S. J. PECK & CO., 52 BROADWAY, N. Y.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D C.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES.

It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS PRICE 1 DOLLAR

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

MARVELOUS

MEMORY

DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading. Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 350 University of Penn., 300 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

$100 to $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D.C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

SALE OF LOTS!

East Sheffield Land Company.

Beginning Thursday, 9th June, 1887,

ON THE PROPERTY ADJOINING SHEFFIELD, ALA.

The East Sheffield Land Co. owns about 1,200 acres of land, laid off into lots and blocks, and which immediately adjoin the Sheffield property on the East.

There are three Railroads on the property of the East Sheffield Co., besides a Street Railroad running dummy engines, and extending from Sheffield to Tuscumbia, through East Sheffield.

Property admirably and conveniently located, and the Company desire to sell cheap lots to actual residents, who will have suburban homes in close and quick communication with Sheffield by street car [illegible]

Terms of sale, one-fourth cash, and balance in one, two and three years, at six per cent. ONE-HALF the purchase price returned to all buyers who improve the lots bought in twelve months from date of sale, and ONE-FOURTH returned to those who improve in eighteen months from date of sale.

Donations of land made to Churches, Schools and Manufacturing enterprises.

For further information, Pamphlet and Map, write to

EAST SHEFFIELD LAND CO.,

SHEFFIELD, ALA.

HERBRAND

FIFTH WHEEL!

King-bolt in rear of axle, prevents accidents from broken king-bolts, never rattles and leaves axle full strength. Before you buy a buggy send for free pamphlet describing this valuable improvement.

THE HERBRAND CO., Fremont, O.

WHETHER YOU WANT A

PIANO OR ORGAN

It will pay you to write to

PHILLIPS & CREW,

ATLANTA, GA.,

For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.

JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

PILES! DR. WILLIAMS' Indian Pile Ointment will cure any case of Itching, Bleeding, Ulcerated or Protruding Piles. CURE GUARANTEED. Prepared for Piles only. [Physicians' jars by express, prepaid, $2.50.] Price per box, 50c. and $1. Sold by druggists or mailed on receipt of price by LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR, Agents, Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 38½ S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 69 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

A. N. U.............. .... Twenty-one, '87

LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG DISEASES.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE.

MRS. MARY A. MCCLURE, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery,' and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."

LIVER DISEASE.

MRS. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I wish to say a few words in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' For five years previous to taking them I was a great sufferer; I had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am happy to say I am now well and strong, thanks to your medicines."

Chronic Diarrhea Cured.—D. LAZARRE, Esq., 275 and 277 Decatur Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I used three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it has cured me of chronic diarrhea. My bowels are now regular."

GENERAL DEBILITY.

MRS. PARMELIA BRUNDAGE, of 161 Lock Street, Lockport, N. Y. writes: "I was troubled with chills, nervous and general debility, with frequent sore throat, and my mouth was badly cankered. My liver was inactive, and I suffered much from dyspepsia. I am pleased to say that your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' have cured me of all these ailments and I cannot say enough in their praise. I must also say a word in reference to your 'Favorite Prescription,' as it has proven itself a most excellent medicine for weak females. It has been used in my family with excellent results."

Dyspepsia.—JAMES L. COLBY, Esq., of Yucatan, Houston Co., Minn., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion, and would eat heartily and grow poor at the same time. I experienced heartburn, sour stomach, and many other disagreeable symptoms common to that disorder. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'"

INVIGORATES THE SYSTEM.

Dyspepsia.—THERESA A. CASS, of Springfield, Mo., writes: "I was troubled one year with liver complaint, dyspepsia, and sleeplessness, but your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Chills and Fever.—Rev. H. E. MOSLEY, Montmorenci, S. C., writes: "Last August I thought I would die with chills and fever, I took your 'Discovery' and it stopped them in a very short time."

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

INDIGESTION BOILS, BLOTCHES.

REV. F. ASBURY HOWELL, Pastor of the M. E. Church, of Silverton, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blotches began to arise on the surface of the skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and dullness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him for such complaints, and in one week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now sound and well. The 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are the best remedy for bilious or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. My wife could not walk across the floor when she began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now she can walk quite a little ways, and do some light work."

HIP-JOINT DISEASE.

MRS. IDA M. STRONG, of Ainsworth, Ind., writes: "My little boy had been troubled with hip-joint disease for two years. When he commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' he was confined to his bed, and could not be moved without suffering great pain. But now, thanks to your 'Discovery,' he is able to be up all the time, and can walk with the help of crutches. He does not suffer any pain, and can eat and sleep as well as any one. It has only been about three months since he commenced using your medicine. I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude for the benefit he has received through you."

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION.

Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "Mrs. ELIZA ANN POOLE, wife of Leonard Poole, of Williamsburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days."

Mr. T. A. AYRES, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

It rapidly builds up the system, and increases the flesh and weight of those reduced below the usual standard of health by "wasting diseases."

Consumption.—MRS. EDWARD NEWTON, of Harrowsmith, Ont., writes: "You will ever be praised by me for the remarkable cure in my case. I was so reduced that my friends had all given me up, and I had also been given up by two doctors. I then went to the best doctor in these parts. He told me that medicine was only a punishment in my case, and would not undertake to treat me. He said I might try Cod liver oil if I liked, as that was the only thing that could possibly have any curative power over consumption so far advanced. I tried the Cod liver oil as a last treatment, but I was so weak I could not keep it on my stomach. My husband, not feeling satisfied to give me up yet, though he had bought for me everything he saw advertised for my complaint, procured a quantity of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took only four bottles, and, to the surprise of everybody, am to-day doing my own work, and am entirely free from that terrible cough which harrassed me night and day. I have been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years, and now feel so much better that I believe, with a continuation of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I will be restored to perfect health. I would say to those who are falling a prey to that terrible disease consumption, do not do as I did, take everything else first; but take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in the early stages of the disease, and thereby save a great deal of suffering and be restored to health at once. Any person who is still in doubt, need but write me, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply, when the foregoing statement will be fully substantiated by me."

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Ulcer Cured.—ISAAC E. DOWNS, Esq., of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y. (P. O. Box 28), writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh. After trying almost everything without success, we procured three bottles of your 'Discovery,' which healed it up perfectly." Mr. Downs continues:

Consumption and Heart Disease.—"I also wish to thank you for the remarkable cure you have effected in my case. For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Before consulting you I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. I then consulted you, and you told me you had hopes of curing me, but it would take time. I took five months' treatment in all. The first two months I was almost discouraged; could not perceive any favorable symptoms, but the third month I began to pick up in flesh and strength. I cannot now recite how, step by step, the signs and realities of returning health gradually but surely developed themselves. To-day I tip the scales at one hundred and sixty, and am well and strong."

WASTED TO A SKELETON.

Our principal reliance in curing Mr. Downs' terrible disease was the "Golden Medical Discovery."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS.

JOSEPH F. MCFARLAND, Esq., Athens, La., writes: "My wife had frequent bleeding from the lungs before she commenced using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She has not had any since its use. For some six months she has been feeling so well that she has discontinued it."

Golden Medical Discovery is Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors,

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

PAINT YOUR BUGGY for ONE DOLLAR

By using COTT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday, use it to Church Sunday. Six Fashionable Shades: Black, Maroon, Vermilion, Olive Lake, Brewster and Wagon Greens. No Varnishing necessary. Dries hard with a high Gloss. Tip top for Chairs, Furniture, Baby Carriages, Front Doors, Store Fronts, etc. Will send enough to paint your Buggy upon receipt of One Dollar, and warrant it to wear. Discount to the Trade. COTT & CO., [illegible]

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION.' TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1887. NUMBER 31.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

INCHES.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line e insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, h rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five D lars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candid for office will be headed as advertisements a charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advert ing by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising aft the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN PASTOR'S SUNDAY SERMON

Subject: "American Seamen."

TEXT: "Behold also the ships—James iii, iv.

If this exclamation was appropriate about 1800 years ago, when it was written concerning the crude fishing smacks that sailed Lake Galilee, how much more appropriate in an age which has launched from the dry docks for purposes of peace—the Arizona, of the Guion Line, the City of Richmond, of the Inman Line, the Egypt, of the National Line, the Germanic, of the White Star Line, the Circassia, of the Anchor Line, the Etruria, of the Cunard Line, and the Great Eastern, with hull six hundred and eighty feet long—not a failure for it helped lay the Atlantic cable, and that was enough glory for one ship's existence—and in an age which for purposes of war has launched the screw-sloops like the Idaho, the Shenandoah, the Ossipee, and our ironclads like the Kalamazoo, the Roanoke and the Dunderberg, and those which have already been buried in the deep like the Monitor, the Housatonic, the Weehawken and the Tecumseh, the tempests ever since sounding a volley over their watery sepulchres, and the scarred veterans of war shipping that have swung into the naval yards to spend their last days, their decks now all silent of the feet that trod them, their rigging all silent of the hands that clung to them, their port-holes silent of the brazen throats that once thundered out of them. If in the first century, when war vessels were dependent on the oars that paddled at the side of them for propulsion, my text was suggestive, with how much more emphasis and meaning and overwhelming reminiscence we can cry out as we see the Kearsarge lay across the bows of the Alabama and sink it, teaching foreign nations they had better keep their hands off our American fight; or as we see the ram Albermarle, of the Confederates, running out and in the Roanoke, and up and down the coast, throwing everything into confusion as no other craft ever did, pursued by the Miami, the Ceres, the Southfield, the Sassacus, the Mattabesett, the Whitehead, the Commodore Hull, the Louisiana, the Minnesota and other armed vessels all trying in vain to catch her, until Captain Cushing, twenty-one years of age, and his men blew her up, himself and only one other escaping; and as I see the flagship Hartford, and the Richmond, and the Monongahela, with other gunboats, sweep past the batteries of Port Hudson, and the Mississippi flows forever free to all Northern and Southern craft, I cry out with a patriotic emotion that I cannot suppress if I would, and would not if I could: "Behold also the ships."

At the annual decoration of graves, North and South, among Federals and Confederates, full justice has been done to the memory of those who fought on the land in our sad contest, but not enough has been said of those who on ship's deck dared and suffered all things. Lord God of the rivers and the sea, help me in this sermon! So, ye admirals, commanders, captains, pilots, gunners, boatswains, sailmakers, surgeons, stokers, messmates and seamen of all names, to use your own parlance, we might as well get under way and stand out toward sea. Let all land lubbers go ashore. Full speed now! Four bells!

Never since the sea fight of Lepanto, where three hundred royal galleys manned by fifty thousand warriors, at sunrise, September 6, 1571, met two hundred and fifty royal galleys manned by one hundred and twenty thousand men, and in the four hours of battle eight thousand fell on one side and twenty-five thousand on the other; yea, never since the day when at Actium, thirty-one years before Christ, Augustus with two hundred and sixty ships scattered the two hundred and twenty ships of Mark Antony and gained universal dominion as the prize; yea, since the day when at Salamis the twelve hundred galleys of the Persians, manned by five hundred thousand men, were crushed by Greeks with less than a third of that force; yea, never since the time of Noah, the first ship captain, has the world seen such a miraculous creation as that of the American Navy in 1861. There were about two hundred available seamen in all the naval stations and receiving ships, and here and there an old vessel. Yet orders were given to blockade thirty-five hundred miles of sea coast, greater than the whole coast of Europe, and, besides that the Ohio, Tennessee, Cumberland, Mississippi, and other great rivers, covering an extent of two thousand more miles, were to be patrolled. No wonder the whole civilized world burst into guffaws of laughter at the seeming impossibility. But the work was done, done almost immediately done thoroughly, and done with a speed and consummate skill that eclipsed all the history of naval architecture. What brilliant achievements are suggested by the mere mention of the name of the war admirals. If all they did should be written, every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written. But these names have received the honors due. The most of them went to their graves under the cannonade of all the forts, navy yards and men-of-war, the flags of all the shipping and capitals at half-mast.

But I recite to-day the deeds of our naval heroes who have not yet received appropriate recognition. "Behold also the ships." As we will never know what our national prosperity is worth until we realize what it cost, I recall the unrecited fact that the men of the navy ran especial risks. They had not only the human weaponry to contend with, but the tides, the fog, the storm. Not like other ships could they run into harbor at the approach of an equinox, or a cyclone, or a hurricane, because the harbors were hostile. A miscalculation of a tide might leave them on a bar, and a fog might overthrow all the plans of wisest commodore and admiral, and accident might leave them, not on the land ready for an ambulance, but at the bottom of the sea, as when the torpedo blew up the Tecumseh in Mobile Bay, and nearly all on board perished. They were at the mercy of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, which have no mercy. Such tempests as wrecked the Spanish Armada might any day sweep upon the squadron. No hiding behind the earthworks. No digging in of cavalry spurs at the sound of retreat. Mightier than all the fortresses on all the coasts, is the ocean when it bombards a flotilla. In the cemeteries for Federal and Confederate dead are the bodies of most of those who fell on the land. But where those are who went down in the war vessels will not be known until the sea gives up its dead. The Jack tars knew that while loving arms might carry the men who fell on the land and bury them with solemn liturgy, and the honors of war, for the bodies of those who dropped from the ratlines into the sea or went down with all on board under the stroke of a gunboat there remained the shark and the whale and the endless tossing of the sea which cannot rest. How will you find their graves for this national decoration! Nothing but the archangel's trumpet shall reach their lowly bed. A few of them have been gathered into naval cemeteries of the land and you will garland the sod that covers them, but who will put flowers on the fallen crew of the exploded Westfield and Shawsheen, and the sunken Southfield, and the Winfield Scott. Bullets threatening in front, bombs threatening from above, torpedoes threatening from beneath and the ocean with its reputation of six thousand years for shipwreck lying all around, am I not right in saying it required a special courage for the navy?

It looks picturesque and beautiful to see a war vessel going out through the Narrows, sailors in new rig singing:

"A life on the ocean wave,
A home on the rolling deep!"

the colors gracefully dipping to passing ships, the decks immaculately clean, and the guns at Quarantine firing a parting salute. But the poetry is all gone out of that ship as it comes out of that engagement, its decks red with human blood, wheel-house [illegible], the cabins a pile of shattered mirrors and destroyed furniture, steering wheel broken, smokestack crushed, a hundred-pound Whitworth rifle shot having left its mark from port to starboard, the shrouds rent away, ladders splintered and decks plowed up, and smoke-blackened and scalded corpses lying among those who are gasping their last gasp far away from home and kindred, whom they love as much as we love wife and parents and children. Not waiting until you are dead to put upon your graves a wreath of recognition, this hour we put on your living brow the garland of a nation's praise.

Oh, men of the Western Gulf squadron, of the Eastern Gulf squadron, of the South Atlantic squadron, of the North Atlantic squadron, of the Mississippi squadron, of the Pacific squadron, of the West India squadron and of the Potomac flotilla, hear our thanks! Take the benediction of our churches. Accept the hospitalities of the nation. If we had our way we would get you not only a pension but a home and a princely wardrobe, and an equipage and a banquet while you live, and after your departure a catafalque, and a mausoleum of sculptured marble, with a model of the ship in which you won the day. It is considered a gallant thing when in a naval fight the flagship with its blue ensign goes ahead up a river or into a bay, its admiral standing in the shrouds watching and giving orders. But I have to tell you, Oh veterans of the American navy! if you are as loyal to Christ as you were to the Government, there is a flagship sailing ahead of you of which Christ is the admiral, and He watches from the shrouds, and the heavens are the blue ensign, and He leads you toward the harbor, and all the broadsides of earth and hell cannot damage you; and ye, whose garments were once red with your own blood, shall have a robe washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb. Then strike eight bells! High noon in heaven!

With such anticipation, O, veterans of the American navy! I charge you bear up under the aches and weaknesses that you still carry from the war times. You are not as stalwart as you would have been but for that nervous strain and for that terrific exposure. Let every ache and pain, instead of depressing, remind you of your fidelity. The sinking of the Weehawken off Morris Island, December 6, 1863, was a mystery. She was not under fire. The sea was not rough. But Admiral Dahlgren from the deck of the flag steamer Philadelphia, saw her gradually sinking, and finally she struck the ground, but the flag still floated above the wave in the sight of the shipping. It was afterwards found that she sank from weakness through injuries in previous service. Her plates had been knocked loose in previous times. So you have in nerve, and muscle, and bone, and dimmed eyesight, and difficult bearing, and shortness of breath, many intimations that you are gradually going down. It is the service of twenty-three years that is telling on you. Be of good cheer. We owe you just as much as though your life-blood had gurgled through the scuppers of the ship in the Red River expedition, or as though you had gone down with the Melville off Hatteras. Only keep your flag flying as did the illustrious Weehawken.

Good cheer, my boys! The memory of man is poor and all that talk about the country never forgetting those who fought for it is an untruth. It does forget. Witness how the veterans sometimes had to turn the hand-organs on the street to get their families a living. Witness how ruthlessly some of them have been turned out of office that some bloat of a politician might take their place. Witness the fact that there is not a man or woman now under thirty years of age, who has any full appreciation of the four years' martyrdom of 1861 and 1865 inclusive. But while men may forget, God never forgets He remembers the swinging hammock. He remembers the forecastle. He remembers the frozen ropes of that January tempest. He remembers the amputation without sufficient ether. He remembers the horrors of that deafening night when forts from both sides belched on you their fury, and the heavens glowed with ascending and descending missiles of death, and your ship quaked under the recoil of the one hundred pounder, while all the gunners, according to command, stood on tiptoe with mouth wide open lest the concussion shatter hearing or brain. He remembers it all better than you remember it, and in some shape reward will be given. God is the best of all paymasters, and for those who do their whole duty to Him and the world the pension awarded is an everlasting heaven.

Sometimes off the coast of England the Royal Family have inspected the British navy manoeuvred before them for that purpose. In the Baltic Sea the Czar and Czarina have reviewed the Russian navy. To bring before the American people the debt they owe to the navy I go out with you on the Atlantic Ocean where there is plenty of room, and in imagination review the war-shipping of our three great conflicts—1776, 1812, and 1865. Swing into line all ye frigates, ironclads, fire-rafts, gunboats, and men-of-war. There they come, all sail set and all furnaces in full blast, sheaves of crystal tossing from their cutting prows. That is the Delaware, an old Revolutionary craft, commanded by Commodore Decatur. Yonder goes the Constitution, Commodore Hull commanding. There is the Chesapeake, commanded by Captain Lawrence, whose dying words were: "Don't give up the ship;" and the Niagara, of 1812, commanded by Commodore Perry, who wrote on the back of an old letter, resting on his navy cap: "We have met the enemy and they are ours." Yonder is the flagship Wabash, Admiral Dupont commanding; yonder, the flagship Minnesota, Admiral Goldborough commanding; yonder, the John Adams, Admiral Stringham commanding; yonder, the flagship Philadelphia, Admiral Dahlgren commanding; yonder, the flagship San Jacinto, Admiral Bailey commanding; yonder, the Carondelet, Admiral Wathe commanding; yonder, the flagship Black Hawk, Admiral Porter commanding; yonder, the flag steamer Benton, Admiral Foote commanding, yonder the flagship Hartford, David Glascoe Farragut commanding. And now all the squadrons of all departments, from smallest tugboat to mightiest man-of-war, are in procession, decks and rigging filled with men who fought on the sea for the old flag ever since we were a nation. Grandest fleet the world ever saw. Sail on before all ages! Run up all the colors! Ring all the bells! Yea, open all the port holes! Unlimber the guns and load and fire one great boardside that shall shake the continents in honor of peace and the eternity of the American Union! But I lift my hand and the scene has vanished. Many of the ships have dropped under the crystal pavement of the deep, sea monsters swimming in and out of the forsaken cabin, and other old craft have swung into the navy yards, and many of the brave spirits who trod their decks are gone up to the Eternal Fortress, from whose casements and embrasures may we not hope they look down to-day with joy upon a nation in reunited brotherhood?

At this annual commemoration I bethink that most of you who were in the naval service during our late war are now in the afternoon or evening of life. With some of you it is two o'clock, three o'clock, four o'clock, six o'clock, and it will soon be sundown. If you were of age when the war broke out, you are now at least forty-eight. Many of you have passed into the sixties and the seventies; therefore it is appropriate that I hold two great lights for your illumination—the example of Christian admirals consecrated to Christ and their country, Admiral Foote and Admiral Farragut. Had the Christian religion been a cowardly thing they would have had nothing to do with it. In its faith they lived and died. In our Brooklyn navy-yard Admiral Foote held prayer meetings and conducted a revival on the receiving ship North Carolina, and on Sabbaths, far out at sea, followed the chaplain with religious exhortation. In early life on board the sloop of war Natchez, impressed by the words of a Christian sailor, he gave his spare time for two weeks to the Bible, and at the end of that declared openly: "Henceforth, under all circumstances, I will act for God." His last words, while dying at the Astor House, New York, were: "I thank God for all His goodness to me." When he entered heaven he did not have to run a blockade, for it was amid the cheers of a great welcome. The other Christian admiral will be honored on earth until the day when the fires from above shall lick up the waters from beneath and there shall be no more sea.

"Oh, while Atlantic's breast
Bears a white sail,
While sailor's fight for right
And sweethearts wail,
Men will ne'er forget
Old heart of oak,
Farragut, Farragut,
Thunderbolt stroke!"

According to his own statement Farragut was very loose in his morals in early manhood and practiced all kinds of sin. One day he was called into the cabin of his father, who was a ship-master. His father said: "David, what are you going to be, anyhow?" He answered: "I am going to follow the sea." "Follow the sea," said the father, "and be kicked about the world and die in a foreign hospital?" "No," said David, "I am going to command like you." "No," said the father; "a boy of your habits will never command anything," and his father burst into tears and left the cabin. From that day David Farragut started on a new life. Captain Pennington, an honored elder of this church, was with him in most of his battles, and had his intimate friendship, and he confirms, what I had heard elsewhere, that Farragut was good and Christian. In every great crisis of life he asked and obtained the Divine direction. When in Mobile Bay the monitor Tecumseh sank from a torpedo, and the great war-ship Brooklyn that was to lead the squadron turned back, he said he was at a loss to know whether to advance or retreat, and he says: "I prayed: 'Oh, God, who created man and gave him reason, direct me what to do. Shall I go on?' And a voice commanded me: 'Go on,' and I went on." Was there ever a more touching Christian letter than that which he wrote to his wife from his flagship Hartford? "My dearest wife, I write and leave this letter for you. I am going into Mobile Bay in the morning, if God is my leader, and I hope He is, and in Him I place my trust. If He thinks it is the proper place for me to die, I am ready to submit to His will in that as in all other things. God bless and preserve you, my darling and my dear boy, if anything should happen to me. May His blessings rest upon you, and your dear mother, and all your sisters and their children."

Cheerful to the end, he said on board the Tallapoosa in the last voyage he ever took: "It would be well if I died now in harness." The sublime Episcopal service for the dead was never more appropriately rendered than over his casket, and well did all the forts of New York harbor thunder as his body was brought to our wharf, and well did the minute guns sound and the bells toll as in a procession, having in its ranks the President of the United States and his cabinet, and the mighty men of land and sea, the old admiral was carried amid hundreds of thousands of uncovered heads on Broadway, and laid on his pillow of dust in beautiful Woodlawn, September 30, amid the pomp of our autumnal forests.

Ye veterans who sailed and fought under him, take your admiral's God and Christ for your God and Christ. After a few more conflicts you too will rest. For the few remaining fights with sin, and death, and hell make ready. Strip your vessel for the fray; hang the sheet chains over the sides. Send down the top-gallant masts. Barricade the wheel. Rig in the flying jib-boom. Steer straight for the shining shore, and hear the shout of the great Commander of earth and heaven as He cries from the shrouds: "To him that overcometh, will I give to eat of the tree of life which is in the midst of the Paradise of God." Hosanna! Hosanna!

BY THE SHORE.

A Pleasant Little Pen Picture by M. Quad.

One day, when the ocean was at rest, and its waters sheened and sparkled under the summer sun, an old man walked upon the sandy shore and sat down in the shade of a rock, to be alone by himself. Above him was the blue canopy through which the eyes of living men have never penetrated—at his feet the waters which had rolled across a world to lap at the sandy shores of a continent.

And there was a lapping, and a lapping, and a grieving, and a sobbing as the waters laved the sand and fell back to break into patches of foam and go swirling along the shore, never to rest. And the old man fell in a revery, and he whispered to himself:

"It is like the life of a child—sunshine, tears, griefs, complaints. He, like the ocean, may seem to sleep, but there is no rest. The pulses never cease their throbbing—the heart never stops beating until death comes."

Then a cloud rose slowly out of the sea and climbed into the heavens, and the waters fretted and foamed and dashed about. Along the sands the lapping and grieving changed to an angry rush to reach a higher point, and the great patches of foam which floated away were no longer of snowy white. And the old man whispered:

"It is like the life of a man—toil, trouble, sorrow, adverse struggles. He is the shore on which the ever changing ocean of life is flinging its tide, and he, like the shore, must be solid and steadfast."

And again the sky cleared, the vexed waters were smoothed by the hand of peace, and the summer sun tipped each wavelet with an edge of gold. And along the sand there was a lapping and a lapping, and the waters sobbed and grieved again as they fell back to rest for a moment. Then the foam-drifts were as white and pure as the mantle of an angel, and the tide kissed them tenderly as it bore them away. And the old man whispered:

"It is like the last days of an old man—one who has been ennobled by faith—strengthened by love—purified by forgiveness. His sun of life goes down in a blaze of glory; his pulse sinks to rest as the vexed waters have grown quiet; the lapping of the waters are the whispers of the dead; the sobbing and the grieving are the tears of those who will never see him more on earth."

And as he closed his eyes and slept, or seemed to sleep, a child came down to the shore to look with wondering eyes upon the calm and glorious sea—to place its hand confidingly upon that of him who felt it not—to whisper in the ear of him who heard no sound:

"And the foam-drifts—white and pure, and without taint. are the souls of those who have lived in the faith and died pure in heart, drifting into the placid ocean of the great and grand hereafter."

THERE is a famous modern picture at Moscow of John the Terrible, after he has murdered his son in a fit of rage, and suddenly discovers the crime he has committed. The expression in his eyes is that of a madman, with a curious gleam of horror and consciousness striking him, after his son has sunk at his feet with the blood streaming from his wounded temple. It is intensely realistic, and report asserts that on one occasion a lady was so much affected by the sight of it that she fell down dead on the spot. According to this tale, the picture was subsequently removed to an inner room and ladies not admitted in the absence of a medical attendant.

NO WOMAN can be handsome by the force of features alone, any more than she can be witty only by the help of speech.

IF I HAD KNOWN.

She lay with lilies on her pulseless breast,
Dim, woodland lilies wet with silver dew,
"Dear heart," he said, "in life she loved them best!
For her sweet sake the fragrant buds were blown,
For her in April-haunted nooks they grew—
. . . Oh, love, if I had known!

"If I had known, when yesterday we walked
Her hand in mine, along the hedges fair,
That even then the while we careless talked,
The shadow of a coming loss was there,
And death's cold hand was leading us apart—
If I had known the bud she would not wear
Nor touch, lest she should mar that perfect grace,
To-day would press its dewy, golden heart
Against her poor, dead face!

"Last year, when April woods were all aglow,"
She said, "if it be death to fall asleep,"
And, bending, kissed the lilies sweet and wet,
"A dreamless sleep from which none wake to weep—
When I lie down to that long slumber, dear,
And life for you has dark and empty grown,
Come to me then, and though I shall not hear,
Lay your sad lips to mine, and whisper low:
(If I had known! Oh, love, if I had known!)
That you would not forget."

—Adelaide D. Rollston, in The Current.

The Convict's Daughter.

In the year 186— John Harlow started for San Francisco, Cal., on a tour of recreation from a long course of legal study. Nothing of special note occurred to relieve the tediousness of his journey; he arrived at his destination much shattered and fatigued. Immediate rest was needed, so he sought a boarding-house in a dull, quiet part of the city, and for some days enjoyed the seclusion and rest he stood so much in need of. His meals were brought to his room, and therefore he had no opportunity to make the acquaintance of his fellow-boarders. The house was run by a matronly-looking woman named Wentworth, whose only weakness seemed to be her voluble tongue. However, she atoned somewhat for this in the excellent quality of her menu, and, as this is the paramount object sought for in a boarding-house, whatever foibles she possessed in the eyes of her tenants were graciously overlooked.

Her daughter, a comely young girl of seventeen years, assisted her in the household duties and at evening usually entertained the house with pleasing music on the piano. One evening as Harlow was enjoying a fragrant Havana in his room, and musing retrospectively over old scenes and faces, the soft plaintive strains of a delicate but musical voice seemed to emanate from the parlor below. There was something in the tone of the voice that told him he had never heard it there before. The air spoke volumes of sadness and breathed such pathos and distress that he turned involuntarily in his chair, and noticing in the mirror at the other side of the room what a change it had wrought in his features, he jumped up suddenly and was about to shut out the voice from his hearing, when it suddenly stopped. The music had piqued his curiosity. He would know the owner of that pathetic voice.

The chatting of two women below told him that some lady friend of Bertha—Mrs. Wentworth's daughter—was probably paying her a friendly visit. He dressed himself hastily and repaired to the parlor, where, under the pretext of wishing to be called early in the morning, he had opportunity of speaking to Bertha. She seemed pleased to be of service to him and invited him in. The Rubicon passed, he was soon engaged in delectable conversation with Cora Lane, to whom he had been introduced by Bertha.

Of all fair faces he had ever seen here was the fairest. There was an air of melancholy suffusing the entire features that seemed in keeping with the sad, blue eyes, the expression of which completely charmed him. Something indefinable in her sweet, gentle manner, felt its way deeply into his breast and caused it to beat with rapture. He could have sat for hours and contemplated her lovely face, so great was his infatuation.

That night as he lay on his couch, with the picture of one fair face engrossing his every thought, he felt, he knew, that Cora Lane was the only woman he would ever love. It was late the next morning when he arose, despite the fact that Bertha had done his bidding.

His first impulse was to rush to her and learn all she knew of Cora, but better judgment prevailed. He concluded to ascertain through quiet inquiries all he could about his new-found love. Bertha, however, anticipated him. She saw, with a woman's quickness, the profound look of admiration on his visage as he sat gazing at her friend the night previous, and intuitively surmising that he wished to know something of her friend, told him of her own accord all that she knew.

"Cora was employed as saleslady in a millinery establishment. She was twenty years old, was supposed to be an orphan, and came originally from the East."

This was all Bertha knew of her, although she dwelt eloquently on her amiable manners and goodness of heart.

Every night for two weeks Harlow saw his love safely home, but not as an escort. He could not nerve himself to meet those great blue eyes, for he felt that the venture would lead him to a passionate avowal of the love that was surging against his heart like a vast billow. No, he must strive to beat down the vehement attachment that was almost consuming him and let time shape his fortunes.

Harlow had passed two evenings at the house of Cora, and each time he set eyes on her some new-born charm revealed itself to his enamored vision. A certain air of constant reserve in her demeanor awed down all efforts on his part to divulge the dictates of his heart. If the mellow gaze that wreathed her face at times conveyed to his mind the looks of reciprocal affection, its relaxation into a moody, apathetic stare dispelled the felicitous thought. Still, his manner and conversation appeared to please and entertain her, and at times she grew eloquent in her responses.

One gentle moonlight evening, when the stars studded the vaulted heavens with unwonted brilliancy and bracing breezes stole softly through the trees and flowers, bringing with them the invigorating influences of a balmy evening in May, Harlow unbosomed his heart to her. He told her in impassioned tones of his adoration; how life without her would be a dismal blank; how he had watched her night after night, and felt happy to know that he was close to the woman whom he loved; how eagerly he had looked forward to the time when he could tell her all. She listened demurely, with downcast eyes, but uttered not a word. That she did not remonstrate with him reconciled him to the belief that the affection was mutual. At last she spoke and her melodious voice thrilled him with delight.

She told him she dearly loved him, loved him for his kindness to her; that ever since she first saw him his image was indissolubly mingled with her day-dreams; every moment in his presence seemed an hour of happiness to her.

These endearing words threw off the restraint he had sustained, and in the ardency of his fondness he drew her to his side, and repeatedly kissed the pale, upturned lips.

"Cora, you will be my wife," he said, looking down upon her with unspeakable joy, as if the answer he sought was already his.

She drew herself gently from his embrace and the gaze in her lovely eyes appeared to pass over him to space beyond. She spoke as if in a dream.

"That can never be," she uttered, at the same time throwing her arms about him and sobbing bitterly, as if in deep anguish.

To be refused by a woman who had just avowed herself in love seemed a strange anomaly to him. A hundred conjectures filled his brain at that moment. Was her heart preoccuppied? Was there a man on earth who adored Cora Lane more than he did? Why could she not be his wife?

"Don't ask me why, John. It is better for us if we see each other no more. Forgive me if I make you unhappy, but it can never be; to be your wife would only bring sorrow and distress to our home."

Her enigmatical words puzzled him. "Cora, dearest, I will forgive everything. We will start life anew; blot the past from your sight; only say you will be mine."

She strove to answer, but the profound anguish in her bosom mocked all efforts to scorn. The look of melancholy sadness that overspread her entire features told Harlow that his love was hopeless.

When he left that night with the arrow of deep disappointment sunk deep into his breast she exacted a vow from him never again to broach the subject of matrimony; but he left her with the sorry assurance that she loved him better than any one on earth.

For a week Harlow never left his room. His sprightly, gay spirits vanished; and long fits of dejection supervened.

If Bertha suspected the cause of the change in his appearance she never betrayed it. He pleaded an attack of malaria, to which he said he was a victim; this was all he offered in explanation of his moodiness.

At the end of his hermitage a longing desire to see his love again reasserted itself. He tore himself from his seclusion and went to her house.

When he entered, to his bewildered consternation he learned she had left the city.

A note was handed him by the lady of the house, which she gave him at Cora's request. He tremblingly tore open the envelope. The note read as follows:

"In three years. CORA."

Every one of those words seemed as if written in fire. He was mystified beyond reason. The thought, "Was she trifling with his affections?" took the place of all other considerations. But where was the motive? The more he cogitated over the short note the more he clothed it with an occult meaning.

He left the house, repaired to his room, and in the wreck of his life's happiness wept poignant tears of woe.

The Occident had no more charms for him; he determined to return East in the course of a fortnight.

He left San Francisco an altered man and returned to his home, but the thought of Cora, ever present in his mind, drew a veil of sadness over his whole life. Some months afterward he finished his law studies and entered upon his chosen profession.

At the end of three years his life was just as void of happiness as the day when Cora told him it could never be.

He resolved at last to once again visit the West and learn, if possible, her whereabouts.

When he arrived at San Francisco he called at the house where he had last seen her; she had never been heard from, and as far as the good lady could enlighten him she might be dead. Mrs. Wentworth and her daughter told the same despairing story—she had almost dropped from their memory.

The one great object of life now was to find her and learn from her own lips the meaning of those odd words: "In three years."

If he failed—alas! he dared not contemplate the consequences. Find her he would, if it took years of constant search. Such is the love of some men, who in their constancy sacrifice years of happiness for the sake of one mortal. Not a stone was left unturned in his untiring search for her, but to no avail. No one could be found to give him one ray of hope as regards her whereabouts. But he found her at last—found her a new woman, even lovelier than he had ever seen her.

What strange, impelling influence led him to visit San Quentin he will never know. Was it a mere whim, a fancy, or was it the hand of fate striving to make amends for past discourtesies?

San Quentin is a small town, situated on the bay of San Francisco. It took him but a short time to ascertain that there was nothing there to interest his attention. But stay—the State's prison is located in this small village. Another train did not arrive for two hours; why not pass the the time there?

It was the extravagant desire of a morbid temperament. He had no idea that the sights there would interest him any more than the commonplace realities of the village itself.

He repaired to the prison. The warden was very kind and urbane—he could go through the prison if he so desired. An usher who escorted him through the different departments explained every point in the workings of the place, but he listened indifferently; he felt that not one of the hardened criminals he passed by could be more chopfallen than he. In going out he had to pass by a waiting-room. He casually looked through a hole in the panel of the door that opened into that room. In that room a sight met his gaze the effect of which almost froze his blood.

Was it Cora's face he saw, or was it the phantom of his love?

To assure himself he peered again; the truth was very patent. Her arms were entwined around a tall, manly form, but he could not see the face, as the back was turned toward him. The usher, noticing his wild, fixed gaze, drew him to one side and asked him if he was sick.

A glass of water was all that he requested, as he sat or rather fell into a chair. He told the man that it was an attack of the vertigo; it would soon be over. He felt as though his reason was fast leaving him; strange phantasies shot through his brain.

That Cora loved another, and that person a convicted felon, was his first deduction. The terrible truth sank into his soul like a poisoned shaft. A craving for revenge on the man he had just seen all but controlled him.

That man should never live to enjoy the happiness that should be his.

The usher in his dismay was about to shout for help, thinking he was caged with a mad-man, when Harlow suddenly sprang to his side and hoarsely whispered:

"Who is that man in the other room?"

The latter seeing that his companion had subsided somewhat in his wildness, deigned to reply.

It was John Lane, who was about to be discharged from prison. He had been convicted of forgery and had served a fifteen years' sentence. The woman was his daughter. This was all he knew.

The sudden revulsion in Harlow's feelings stunned him; he reeled and would have fallen had not the usher caught him in time; then reason again found its way to the brain. He slipped a gold coin into the hand of the usher and left the prison.

He sought a tree near by, whose large, drooping branches afforded a good ensconcement, and, throwing himself on the green grasses, began to ruminate over the exciting circumstances which had just taken place.

That, indeed, was one of the happiest moments of his life. His heart never beat so lightly before.

The words "noble, grand girl," escaped his lips in the delirium of his delight. Ah! now he knew the reason of her magnanimous sacrifice; of her refusal to accept the hand of the man she loved. The filial love was paramount to all other affections.

Why had she not told him all? So great was his love he could have forgiven everything.

He lay on the cool grass for some time, turning over future plans, but was at last roused from his blissful thoughts by the noise of the approaching train which was to bear him and his love back to San Francisco.

He watched the devoted couple until they boarded the train, and then took a seat himself in the rear coach. How different was the journey back. Every object along the road sparkled like a dazzling gem; every plot of grass disclosed some new-born charm; the very air seemed to breathe happiness. John Harlow's new life began when he boarded the train that afternoon. For reasons better known to himself he did not see Cora Lane for two weeks after the prison episode.

He allowed the excitement of the past few weeks to completely die out before he ventured to see her. Then he found her and reiterated his undying affection. They were soon married and returned to the East, but the father remained in San Francisco, where for many years he led a good, useful life, and fully expiated his past misdeeds. John buried the secret of his wife deep in his noble heart; as regards that his lips were forever silent. Often as he sits and gazes into her large, liquid eyes he wonders if she reads his thoughts; but as she never speaks of the reason why for three long years she avoided the man she loved, he rests contented that his secret is unknown to her.—New York Journal.

Where Children's Hoops are Made.

"This is the height of the hoop season," said the dealer. The trade is better this year than I ever knew it to be before. This shows that there is no new-fangled game for children on the market. Remember the year the ball and rubber string came out. There were no hoops sold that spring. It's always that way. The business is risky. No one can tell whether it will be good or bad, as it all depends on the whims of children.

"The plain wooden hoop is all the go now. The iron hoop is not called for. Granville, Mass., turns out about 200,000 this year and Philadelphia about two-thirds as many. They are made of beech or ash. The wood is cut into narrow strips and steamed. The heat curls the strips and the ends are tacked together. Hoops with bells, flags and other ornaments are made in Philadelphia. Few are sold. They cost too much and usually go to amuse sick children who have not a lusty pair of legs. The hoop trade will reach 2,000,000 this year. No one will get wealthy out of this. The margin is too small on account of the great competion. Care is taken by the manufacturers that a hoop is not made strong enough to last forever. The more hoops broken in the season the livelier is the trade. The East supplies the West with rolling stock of this kind."—New York Sun.

Handy to have in the House.

A veritable boon to harassed housekeepers has been discovered. This is the "Witch's Ladder," "charm of marvellous power," says Walford's Antiquarian, from which we take the following trustworthy directions for its manufacture: "Take four wheaten straws, tie two together, top and bottom, for one side of the ladder. Tie the other two in the same manner, and then insert short straws between for steps. Now take small feathers and place them up each side of the ladder, and the thing is done. Now, if aught go wrong, if fire will not burn, nor irons heat, let the ladder be waved to and fro in the air, while the request is mutt ered, and all will be right."

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOME

The young ladies of Calusa, Cal., w organize a militia company.

The women of Finland, it is said, sent as an insult a salute on the lips.

Oriental scarfs are among the trimmi predicted for the new straw bonnets.

In Dakota ten per cent. of the cou superintendents of schools are women.

The fashionable stocking is black some very dark shade of brown or blu

Twenty-five Mormon women are work as missionaries in East Tenness

Thistles, catkins and pussy willows r resent decided novelties in artificial flo ers.

The art of fencing furnishes exercis many of the daughters of fashion in N York.

Velvet is a favorite trimming on dress fabrics—cotton, as well as silk a wool.

Tufts of ostrich feathers trim the tra of some very elaborate dresses of hi ceremony.

Rochester, N. Y., has appointed M Pauline Morton, M. D., on the staff city physicians.

A society has been organized amo Japanese women to cultivate a taste f foreign cooking.

Leg-of-mutton sleeves and sleeves w the Marguerite puff at the elbow are se on dressy in-door frocks.

The quaint little Neapolitan mandol is the musical instrument affected by t fashionable women of to-day.

A revival of the "gold and white" ch of our grandmothers' day, one of the mo elegant of styles, is indicated.

The long, round overskirt, simp hemmed and caught up on the sides, w be used on wash dresses the coming se son.

A certain Mr. Grosse has established journal in Vienna called the Misogyni Its object is the ridicule and denunc tion of women.

Miss Alice Sanborn has been elect Superintendent of Schools for Bru County, Dak., receiving 1,000 of t 1,600 votes cast.

Hats, as shown thus far, are high than ever in the crown, and some ne bonnets combine three or four differe kinds of straw.

The newest cloaks for little girls ha waists reaching only to the armpits, mo like a deep yoke than a waist, and skir falling to the ankles.

All bodices are adorned with so kind of plastron, waistcoat, bretelles, fulness, the arrangement of which is le to the individual taste.

A few very handsome capotes, wi large brims and the increased size of crowns, show the tendency of fashion t ward a revival of the big bonnet.

The English fashion of wearing a si gle rose, with foliage as a corsage bo quet, has been introduced, and affords pleasant change from the large loose clu ters so long in vogue.

The tussores for the tailor-made co tumes for summer have hair line strip on dark green, blue, brown or red ground and promise to be popular, as they are light weight, cool and durable.

The Ohio Legislature has passed a la making a married woman's rights coequ and coextensive with those of her hu band, as far as the acquisition and di position of property is concerned.

Blocks form a pretty trimming whe used as panels for a petticoat. Sometime the blocks are made by running in wid velvet ribbon between openings of th fabrics of which the petticoat is made.

The jewels recently made in German for the Empress of Japan are said to con sist of a diadem, a necklace and severa bracelets. Her diadem contains 60 diamonds, nine of which are very large.

Bonnet pins are so like hair pins as t be indistinguishable. In fact, the fanc bonnet pins have combs on them, an might well be used for either the hair o the bonnet, and many of them are ver elaborate.

Some of the new plaids are very larg and of very bright colors, others show th faded tints and mixed shades so dear t the æsthetes, and others again have sombr lines crossing each other on grounds o light color.

White ginghams of an exquisite, silky finish, have bars and stripes in color, an are very stylish and dainty, being particularly appropriate for young girls' afternoon costumes for summer wear. A wid watered ribbon sash is the only trimming such a costume needs.

Among the living ladies of the White House is Mrs. Dandridge, formerly know as Mrs. Bettie Bliss, a daughter of President Zachary Taylor. Mrs. Dandridge gracefully dispensed the hospitalities o the mansion during her father's lifetime, and has recently visited Washington.

The Empress of Germany gives a golden cross to every servant in the Empire who has remained over forty years in her present position, and whose character is good. More than 1,300 have already received the cross, of whom a large number have remained over fifty years in one place.

A woman of fashion who is employed in remarks upon the weather, who observes from morning to noon that it is likely to rain, and from noon to night that it mizzles, that it is set in for a wet evening, and being incapable of any other discourse, is as insipid a companion, and just as pedantic, as he who quotes Aristotle over his tea, or talks Greek at a card-table.—B. Thornton.

Facts About Elephants.

A book which has lately appeared under the title of "The Ivory King," states that the elephant through its tusks furnishes to the world some eight hundred tons of material a year for its piano keys, knife handles, billiard balls, etc.

According to an estimate made by Cuvier, the French naturalist, the trunk of the elephant contains 40,000 muscles. As regards the stomach it seems that elephants possess the same strange properties as camels and the author of the work mentioned states that hunters have often been astonished at seeing elephants which they have been chasing for some time, insert their trunks into their mouths and obtain a supply of water that is blown over their dry and heated body.

The present average cost of an elephant in India is said to be [illegible].

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 9, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - 75
One copy four " - - - - 50

Wm. A. Wheeler, Vice President under Rutherford B. Hayes, is dead.

Crop prospects all over Alabama, are reported better than for ten years past.

Col P. T. Sayre, of the law firm of Sayre & Graves, Montgomery, died in that city last week.

If every man was as big as he feels there would not be standing room in these United States.

Rhode Island has gone Democratic. There are no surprises in this old world that will surpass the unvarnished truth.

The Alabama edition of the Montgomery Dispatch issued last Sunday was something to be proud of and has never been excelled by a newspaper in this State.

The New Orleans Picayune says: "An Anniston paper wants to change the motto of Alabama from 'Here we Rest,' to 'We Take the Cake.' The substitute is not classic, but it has a business ring in accordance with the spirit of the age."

At a recent breach of promise trial eight letters were produced which told the story pretty clearly. The first began: "Dear Mr. Smith," then followed "My Dear John," then "Mr Darling John," "My own Darling Jack," "My Darling John," "Dear John," "Dear Sir," "Sir," and all was over.

The country is reunited. Boston has a Stonewall Jackson association. Last Tuesday night it commemorated the death of the great soldier in the most appropriate manner. There was a large attendance of representative citizens. Jackson's fame grows brighter with the passing years, and his memory is now honored everywhere.

One of the noblest members of the Press Association of Alabama is the editor of the Eutaw Whig. This scribe has known him long, and knows naught but good of him. Time is silvering his locks as he moves onward and upward in his earnest life work and a firm adherence to the party and principles of right—a worthy model for the younger members.

The Prattville Progress is one of our most interesting exchanges, and we would greatly regret to see its mission ended. Consequently, we were in some solicitude to its future as we sat by and witnessed its editorial machinery take in the Birmingham banquet. As our contemporary still survives, we feel safe in saying that in the "bright lexicon" of the Progress there is no such word as "bust."

Cremation is making rapid strides in Europe. In Germany there had been 386 cremations up to the close of 1886, in Italy there were 606 cremations up to December, 1885, and 200 persons were cremated last year. Our friends across the water are somewhat proud of their record, but wait until the returns from the big hotels and railway car stoves come in, and we'll then show them what we can do in a young and growing country.

Senator Regan says the newspapers have been bought up by the railroads to oppose his pet interstate commerce bill. We thank him for the information, and will thank him more if he will be a little more specific. We want to know which railroad bought the Mirror. We know the Mirror is only a small paper, but it is a paper "for a' that," and as funds run low in the dull summer time we want to know where to apply for our part of the boodle.—Eutaw Mirror.

The good old L. & N. has often made itself conspicuous by its liberality and its charity. It drew upon both these noble qualities in tendering the poor "faber pushers" an excursion to Mammoth Cave after their meeting at Birmingham, and we cannot neglect to call attention to this kindness. The VIEW representative had taken in the cave on a previous occasion and did not join in the excursion. Such generous acts, however, are appreciated by each and every member of the overworked and poorly paid fraternity.

"The White Man of the Old South and of the New."

Prof. Tillet, of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, had an article in the March Century on the above subject in which he belabors the old South as inhabited by a race of idlers, and applauds the "new South," so-called, as a grand improvement upon the old order of things here. A lengthy reply is made to the article by Mr. B. F. Ward, of Winona, Miss, from which we extract the following:

The naval and military cadets from the south have had no superiors as a class. The culture and intelligence in the ranks of the Confederate army were unsurpassed by that of any of the great armies of the world, hence the exalted esprit de corps which so oftened rendered the Confederate soldiers more than equal to an odds of three to one in the splendid columns of the Federal army. Where is there an example of modern seamanship that will compare with the daring and brilliant cruise of Admiral Semmes, who, with a single ship, swept from the seas the commerce of a great nation? Who was it that mapped the geography of the seas, explained their secret phenomena, blazed out on the trackless ocean the shortest and safest highways for the commerce of the world, by his "Wind and Current Charts" and his "Sailing Directions," saving the United States millions of dollars annually on outgoing tonnage alone? Matthew F. Maury, a southern man to the core, and by comment of all nations, accorded the proud title of "Philosopher of the Seas." Where is there a parallel to Audubon, the naturalist and ornithologist of the world? Chloroform, that has robbed the surgeon's knife of all its terrors, was first applied by a southern physician. The two greatest eras in surgery for the last two centuries, in fact two of the greatest in surgical history, were marked by two southern physicians, Ephraim McDowell, of Kentucky, and J. Marion Sims, of Alabama. In their respective branches the surgery of the whole enlightened world recognizes and follows the leadership of these famous men. Ben Hill was the only man in America who ever made $1,000,000, as the direct product of his brain, independent of investment or speculation; in addition to which he gave fifteen of his best years to active public service. The only approximation to his record was that of another southern lawyer, Judah P. Benjamin, who went to England after the meridian of life and became the leading jurist in that land of great lawyers, having on his docket, at one time, half the appeal cases in the kingdom. Does this order of men spring from a race of "idlers," whose aspirations and energies have been emasculated by the "curse of slavery?" But memory wearies with enumeration, and we only suggest that southern parents should look to the education of their boys and act with due circumspection when the friends of education come to us "bearing gifts" in the shape of endowments for southern universities, where children are to be taught to forget history and to blush for the character and the deeds of their ancestors.

Considering the above comparisons so well set forth it might be best for the so-called "new South" to catch up with the excellencies of the "old South" before she begins to crow.

The Gazette has received a letter from George W. Cable's manager, offering to come to Tuskaloosa to lecture if the people here desire it. Mr. Cable is most respectfully informed that he is not wanted. His last effort in this town, some time ago, nauseated the people to such an extent that he could not get a respectable audience to hear him. He had better stay up in the New England States, where his style of oratory is more appreciated than it is here. He was treated courteously while here simply because he was an invited guest. It would not do for him to try the experiment again, for even the bounds of good raising might be over-reached, and some one might snub him should he attempt to lecture in our town again.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

We would kindly advise George to go to Mobile with his lecture. The Lomax Rifles and the Register staff would no doubt turn out in full force to hear him.

Texas Wedding Festivities.

From the Dakota Bell.

During a marriage ceremony in Texas the other day the guests became involved in a general fight. Revolvers were drawn and the bride had crawled under the piano, when the officiating clergyman saw how matters were going and reached down into his surplice and began blazing away with his six-shooter from his pocket. Several of the guests made a break for the door, but the clergyman winged them as they went out. The groom was shot a couple of times through the back and during the remainder of the ceremony was supported by a brother. The local paper referred to the wedding as being "a little informal affair, at which there were none but near and dear friends and was one of the most quiet, but none the less merry, weddings ever celebrated in Texas. Funeral of the groom Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock."

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Verbena.

Two other applications last week by Professessors for a school at this place. We don't think there will be any trouble about a school the coming year.

Mr. A. J. Brooks our esteemed merchant will go North this week to select a summer resort for his wife.

Dr. Caffey, of this place, is attending the examination exercises at Marion, where he has two sons who graduated in the Marion college this week.

The Verbena and Prattville Baptist churches have given Rev. L. G. Skipper, their pastor, a four months rest on account of his feeble health.

We are sorry to say that Grandma Holt is quite ill at this writing and is not expected to live long.

We are sorry to note the sudden death of a two year old child of Thomas Traywick, at this place, which occurred last week. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved parents.

We are very sorry to note the death of Mrs. Henry Evans which occurred at Bozeman ten days since. We heartily extend our sympathise to the bereaved ones.

Mr. Thomas Smith's mother, of Bozeman, is very low at this writing, and no hopes are entertained for her recovery. It is sad for us to have to report these deaths and sickness but it is God's work and we have to submit.

The Rev. S. H. Nettles, former Methodist pastor at this place, who eloped with a sixteen year old girl, stopped in Verbena with his bride on their way to Pensacola, Fla., the bride's home. We expect that the Rev. S. H. has learned the eloping science. It has occurred three times with him during life. May happiness and prosperity follow them all their future life.

We expect the health of the country will soon be better as we have had an abundance of lightning recently which has electrified the air.

Mr. J. B. Boykin's house at Pratt Mills was discovered to be on fire Monday at 11 o'clock, A. M. The No. 1 Pratt Fire Company was promptly on hand and the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

Mrs. W. R. Holder is quite sick at Pratt Mills this week. W.

Stanton Puffs.

One of the boilers at the G. & C. saw mill bursted June 1st without doing any considerable damage. The colored fireman was badly scalded. Low water is supposed to be the cause. The damaged boiler was removed and the mill resumed work Monday.

The planing mill will be run at night until the new boiler recently set will be made ready for work.

The children, young folks and old folks enjoyed themselves at the Sunday School picnic last Saturday.

Rev. J. D. Selman preached at Clanton Ford last Sunday.

Wm. Armstrong Stewart, once a citizen of Stanton but now of Cross Plains, visited his friends here last week. We are always glad to see him.

Rev. R. A. Lapsley the Presbyterian pastor will fill his regular appointment next Sabbath.

Mrs. Dr. Little has gone on a visit to Cross Plains.

Mrs. Lula Leckie, who has been teaching school in the Clanton Ford neighborhood, has returned to her home in Butler county.

Mrs. Thomas and her daughter, of Wilcox county, are going to spend the summer at Stanton, occupying the house recently built for Mr. Oscar Butler.

Miss Myra Gardner, of Montevallo, has again visited our town, for several days the guest of Mr. Coe.

Mr. H. E. Macon was the happy man last week. This week W. J. Ruddick is the one—both boys.

Mr. C. W. Plant our bee-keeper recently took twenty pounds of honey from one hive. It was very nice and found ready sale. 89.

Bivings, Duke & Co's Mills.

We have had several fine rains here in the last two weeks and crops look very much improved.

Dr. Massey was out last week doing dental work for quite a number.

Mrs. J. M. Bivings, who has been on a visit to her old home in South Carolina, has returned.

Mrs. E. Deramus is quite sick at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Gray have returned after a week's visit to relatives and friends at Bozeman.

Mr. Rube Duke, who has just returned from the Southern Business College at Louisville, is now keeping books at the Mills.

The people were delighted with Mr. Briggs, who filled his first appointment here on the fifth Sunday in May. They look forward to his next appointment with great pleasure.

We have a flourishing Sunday school of seventy-five scholars under the superintendence of Dr. A. E. Bivings.

"Mill Town" was made quite lively last Sunday by the presence of Messrs. C. M. Williamson, C. K. Biving, Jesse Brockman and E. S. Buist, four of Birmingham's rising young men. They were visiting the house of Mr. J. M. Bivings, hope their visit afforded them as much pleasure as it did their friends.

OLD MAID.

Dixie Dots.

Miss Carry Day, who has been attending school near this place, and her charming sister Miss Mattie, who has been visiting her aunt Mrs, Pritchard, have returned to their home at Portland.

The young people, of Dixie, who attended an entertainment at the residence of Mr. Coe, at Stanton, reported a very pleasant evening.

Come up missing—one long slim girl, green eyes, brown hair, except when it is turning gray, never seen with a collar, and the last that was seen or heard of her she was the professor of the high school in the city of Elmore. If you see any body answering this description please let "76" know. 76.

By 8 o'clock last Saturday the citizens in and around Dixie were gathering on that beautiful lawn in front of Mr. Jas. A. Stephens' residence for the purpose of celebrating the Baptist Sunday school's annual picnic. We were glad to meet the charming Misses Mamie Kellie, Willie Glover, Eula Woolley and Fannie Foshee, of Maplesville. We were also glad to meet Misses Lula and Bessie Lassiter, two of Plantersville's lovely belles. It was a lovely day, and all who attended, report having a lovely time. We noticed the dude as he came up about half past 11 o'clock, for "they" seemed glad to meet each other. Ah, me! X.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.

WILSON HOUSE.

COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. jun16y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Notice!

Notice is hereby given that J. L. Williams is not connected with this company in any capacity.

ALA. MINERAL LAND CO.
By JNO. M. MCKLEROY,
Att'y and General Agent.
May 28, 1887. [jun2-4t]

NOTICE NO. 6370.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1897.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Edward T. Rhodes, Homestead 12457 for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 8, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Vinson Gragg, George Mims, Joseph Gore, and James W. Knox, all of Clanton, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6371.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Reason L. Woolly, Homestead 13154, for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 14, township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Garner, John B. Moore, Shelby Coshatt, Joseph W. Reynolds, all of Montevallo, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

THE
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.
I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advise—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER. St. Louis. Mo.
CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!
During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!
COLLINS AGUE CURE
One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.
If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY
Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.
If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.
Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.
SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. "PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC" for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun24-y

L & N
(LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all
NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this Company will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Southern Business College.
NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
NO TEXT BOOKS USED.
BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.
We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.
We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.
No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.
For circulars call at college or address
Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Successors to
MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.
Jobbers and Retailers of
Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,
Painters' and Artists' Supplies.
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.
1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
SELMA, ALABAMA.
mar24-y]

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 9, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	2:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	10:.3 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

To A Mocking Bird.

Little songster of the forest,
Is thy merry song for me;
Hast thou come to cheer me birdie,
From thy native forest tree?
Here to warble at my window,
A sweet song of joy and praise:
Gazing up to heaven's blue arches
As if there thy song to raise.

Little bird thy merry wood-notes
Ringing out upon the air,
Breathe of naught but joy and gladness
As it falls upon my ear,
I would join thee in thy chorus,
But thy voice is sweeter far
Than the sweetest notes that mortal
Ever breathed upon the air.

Hast thou tired gentle songster,
Of thy merry song of glee;
Go thou bird of joy and gladness,
Back unto thy forest tree.
And when morn again breaks o'er us,
Come and at my window here:
Sing again thy song of gladness,
I will lend a list'ning ear.

GEORGIA A. JONES.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Ice cream supper at the court house to-night. Let everybody attend.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks, has received the appointment to the office of county Supt. of Education.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Miss Gertrude Ponder has returned from Tuskegee where she has been attending school.

Rev. Mr. Briggs preached to good congregations, at this place, Sunday morning and night.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

The Sunday school picnic will be had to-day week the 16th, in the grove in front of Mr. J. H. Aldridge's.

Mrs. H. C. Thornton, of this place, was unexpectedly called to the bedside of a sick relative in Eufaula this week.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Our city fathers will now have their hands full in keeping parties from shooting inside the corporate limits.

Prof. W. U. Acree was in Clanton Saturday and turned over all appurtenances to the office of County Supt. of Education to Prof. Hicks.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

Charles Campbell, a respected colored man, died in Clanton Monday morning of consumption contracted last winter.

News comes to us that Mr. S. H. Nettles, our Methodist pastor of last year, has recently taken unto himself a wife. We did not learn the name of the bride or any of the particulars.

Sampey's Corner.

I am now prepared to sell nice fresh butter to the town trade. New goods of all kinds just received, and marked low down to suit the scarcity of money. Now is the time to get a nice, summer dress and get it ready for the picnic. New hats in desirable styles at any price from 15 cents to $1.25. Come and see the new goods even if you do not buy.

Married, at the court house on Wednesday the 1st inst., by Judge Callen, Mr. H. C. Vinson and Miss Louisa Honce, both of this county.

We hope those subscribers who promised us some oats for our "animule" will not forget to bring them in now that the crop is being harvested.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

The ice cream supper given by the Ladies' Aid Society on last Friday night was quite a success considering the storm which came up just about dark and prevented many from venturing out. About $11 was taken in.

Rev. Jno. R. Sampey, of the Baptist Seminary, Louisville, stopped off in Clanton to see his brother, Mr. W. L. Sampey, one night last week. He was en route to Mobile where he will preach during the months of vacation.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

Two negroes became involved in a difficulty out at Stanfield's mill yesterday morning in which one of them received several severe cuts. The negro who did the cutting took leg bail and has not been captured at this writing.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-headache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

We return thanks to our talented friend, Joe Kailin, for an invitation to Howard College commencement. Joe is numbered among the graduates this year. Among the graduates we also find the names of William H. and Francis G. Caffey, sons of Judge Caffey, of Verbena.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

See the advertisement of the trustees of the Verbena Male and Female Academy, in another column. There is an opening there caused by the removal of Prof. Acree to another county, and it requires no exercise of our elastic newspaper conscience (as suggested by one of the trustees) to recommend this as one of the very best openings in the state.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

We suggest to our "city fathers" that they give us an ordinance against vagrancy, and in that way they can put some of the idle negroes who "hang around" every where and any where at work on the streets. We also need ordinances punishing public drunkness and street broils, and something more could be added to the exchequer from this source, paticulary while the circuit court is in session.

A quite painful accident befell our friend Charlie Hannon last Saturday. While he was out in the woods overseeing some men who were sawing down trees for saw logs a large limb fell from a tree he was under and striking him on top of the head cut a long gash but did not enter the skull. The wound, while painful is not giving him a great deal of trouble as he is still able to attend to his duties at the new saw mill which he and Mr. Blasingame have just finished putting up.

Masonic Officers.

The following officers were elected for Clanton Lodge No. 423 A. F. & A. M., for the ensuing masonic year:

Albert E. Bivings, W. M.; Hugh J. Callen, S. W.; Joseph H. Chandler, J. W.; William J. Simpson, Treas.; Abner J. Hall, Sec.; Harry W. Herbert, S. D.; William H. Sartor, J. D.; Winston M. Burton, Tyler.

These officers will be publicly installed at Shelby Springs on the 24th inst., having accepted an invitation to join the Calera Lodge in their annual celebration at that place.

W. D. SARTOR, W. M.

A Horrible Wreck.

The wreck which occurred at Clear Creek, on the night of the 1st inst., was caused by the colliding of two through freight trains. The engineer and fireman and a negro tramp, all on the south bound train were killed, but those on the north bound train saved themselves by jumping. The engineer and fireman on the north bound train say they saw the reflection from the head light of the other train shining on the side of the cut through which they were running around a curve, and jumped just in time to escape being killed. It is reported that the north bound train was running off of time and should have side-tracked at Clear Creek for the South bound train to pass but running on collided with the South bound train just north of the station.

The engineer killed was named Rowe. He leaves a mother and three sisters in Tennessee who were dependent upon him for support.

Twelve freight cars and both engines were completely wrecked. It is estimated that between 500 and 700 people from neighboring stations visited the wreck.

The ordinary routine of life is often up hill work, and at our best we need all our health and strength to meet our daily trials. No one likes to be relegated to the circumscribed space of an invalids chair and to a person afflicted with piles, such a remedy as Tabler's pile ointment is invaluable.

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. A. J. Hall made a narrow escape from what might have proven a fatal accident one day last week. He has been driving a young mare of Judge Callen's to break her to harness and was down near Deatsville with her when she became frightened and jumping threw Mr. Hall out between the wheels and the buggy where he got caught in such a manner as to scotch one of the wheels with his head, and was carried some distance in that position. He finally extricated himself and managed to stop the mare. He was considerably bruised about the head and limbs, but we guess he consoles himself with the thought that it might have been worse.

The queer part of it is that Mr. Hall does not know and cannot tell much about the accident or the cause of it. He simply knows he was slightly disfigured when he picked himself up. If we did not know that our friend Ab. never takes a "smile" we would be inclined to believe that he "smole a ghastly smile" on that occasion.

Down south where playful breezes stray among perpetual flowers; the good people do not enjoy an immunity from coughs, colds and diseases of throat and lungs, for which they find relief by using Coussens Honey of Tar. This is the family remedy in that section as well as in the north, because of its undoubted virtues as a cough medicine. Just try it.

Another Ice Cream Supper.

The Ladies' Aid Society will have another ice cream supper to-night at the courthouse. They have several articles of fancy work, done by the members of the society, which they will auction off; among them a beautiful crazy quilt. Several amusing methods have been contrived by which the ladies propose to reach down into the inmost recesses or the young men's pocket books and secure the dimes and quarters. We understand they will have a postoffice where you must pay to get the letters that are put in it for you; a fishpond in which the fishes bite only at a dimes, quarters &c., except some of the big fish that can gobble up a dollar. The occasion promises to be one of much pleasure to all who attend.

Sickness the common fate of all, is not regarded as an angel visitant in whatever form it comes. An efficient remedy for a cough, cold, or diseases of throat and lungs can be found in Coussens Honey of Tar, which is known throughout our broad land as the only effectual cure for a cough. Use Coussens Honey of Tar.

Shooting Club.

A shooting club has been organized in Clanton by the lovers of that sport and will have regular shootings, at glass balls, about once a week. We have some good marksmen in Clanton and also some who are not so good. At a meeting held Monday night at the court house W. H. Foshee was elected president of the club, H. J. Callen, vice president and W. J. Simpson, secretary and treasurer. Another meeting will be held Saturday night for the purpose of selecting a shooting ground &c.

"The scold waves are very trying," said a man to his wife the other morning when she raided him for not building the fire.

COL. CAL. SAYRE.

A Protectionist and Boomer From Alabama.

Special to Philadelphia Press.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Colonel C. Sayre, of Montgomery, Ala., was at the Hoffman House to-day. Speaking of Secretary Lamar's recent interview about the South, in which he said prosperity existed only in localities and was not general, Colonel Sayre had this to say to a reporter:

"In my State prosperity is general and not confined to certain districts. The people are devoting their whole energies to the development of the country. Mr. Lamar has taken a gloomy view of things. The negroes generally around Montgomery are well-to-do and some are growing rich. They have bank accounts, and a majority of them can get credit for any sum from $250 to $3,000. That does not look like depression. We are deeply interested in the mineral resources of our State, and of course we believe in protection. But protection does not mean that we are becoming Republicans, not a bit of it. On the contrary we are strong Democrats, only we desire a protection candidate. I tell you our people will support heartily some strong man like Randall for the Presidency. His views on the tariff question are sound, and the South knows that protection is the thing to foster and build up our manufacturing industries."

Last Sunday night, when young Rocket called, the little girl climbed on his knee and began poking the visitor in the ribs. "What are you doing, Minnie?" asked Rocket "Des pokin" you to see if you's soft," replied the artless infant. "Sister said you was soft's a boiled squash." Rocket didn't wait to see "sister," and vows he'll never call there again.—Chicago Mail.

Agent—Don't you wish to subscribe to this book? South Carolinian—Reckon not.

"It tells all about earthquakes. Here is a picture of Charleston just after the earthquake."

"I don't think that book will do me any good. What I want, is a picture showing how the landscape looks just before the earthquake. I might learn to get out of the way."—Texas Siftings.

Purposes, like eggs, unless they be hatched into deeds, will turn into rottenness.

When a man dies in the Society Island they paint his body, but in this country his character is the thing that is frescoed.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.

Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR, LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT! DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Dixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS:

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala

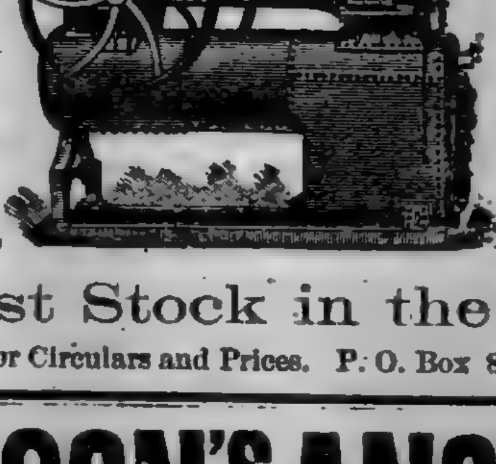
SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.



ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS, COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN. FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

☞ CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhoea, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS

These pills were a wonderful discovery. [illegible] Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C. H. St., Boston.

Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food.

MAKE HENS LAY

Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. It cures chicken cholera and all diseases of hens. Is worth its weight in gold. Illustrated book by mail free.

Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cents in stamps. [illegible]

GORDON DUBOSE, Attorney at Law

CENTREVILLE, ALA.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY, Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street MONTGOMERY, ALA. P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop

—BY—

MEREDITH CANN,

Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photograhs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials: Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited.☜ [jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY —AND— SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stills, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O., Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE (Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken: [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT,

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS, Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

ma5 1y

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

FAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of [illegible] is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading railroads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

SHOOTING A GAS WELL.

It is Exciting, and Gives the Sensation of a Mild Earthquake

[From the Kokomo Dispatch.]

"By George, sir, if that stuff was to explode it would blow us all to kingdom come!"

Everybody eyed the bit of white tarpaulin and the four innocent-looking cans it covered suspiciously, and of one accord withdrew to a safer distance. Each of the cans contained eight quarts of nitro-glycerine, fetched overland from Lima, O., by Jim Calihan, representing the Hercules Torpedo Company, of that place, to shoot the Junction gas well.

A large crowd had gathered at the gas well Saturday morning, watching every movement with an interest born of curiosity that brooks all danger to satisfy itself in the minutest detail. The big drill was withdrawn and fastened at the point to the casing-head. Lashed to it was a strong steel pulley, through which ran a light line extending from an iron reel made fast to the arm of the great walking beam and terminating in an iron hook. To this hook was attached a large tin vessel, resembling in shape a monster syringe. Here began the most dangerous part of the work, and the spectators were warned to leave the ground. The cans were brought into the derrick and thirty-two quarts of the terrible explosive, formed by treating glycerine with concentrated sulphuric and nitric acids, were carefully poured into the tin torpedo. This was slowly lowered into the well by aid of the reel, great care being taken to see that it did not jar violently against the casing and cause a premature explosion. When the bottom of the well was reached the hook was swung loose and the line drawn out. Calihan then filled another tin vessel of smaller capacity, shaped very much like a gun cartridge, and attached it a detonating fuse. The glycerine cans containing the small residue of the explosive, were removed to a place of safety. Calihan then entered the derrick with his "go-devil," coolly lighted the fuse from his cigar, dropped it in the well and slowly walked a few rods away. Everybody held their breath and waited. A minute passed—two—three. Inexperienced persons thought the shot had failed, and approached nearer the well. Presently there was a dull, heavy thud, much like striking a meal bag with one's closed fist. There was a slight tremor or the earth, barely perceptible to those nearest the well. Then followed another wait of fifteen seconds when a great volume of black colored water shot up, up away over the derrick a hundred feet in all, falling with a great shadow of stones and drenching the more venturesome spectators who rushed toward the well.

The effect of the shot was at once discernable. The well was a good one before, but the deep, sullen roar from the five-and-five-eighth-inch casting announced a find perhaps exceeding in volume any well yet drilled in the Kokomo field. When the union was put on and connection with a two inch pipe was made, the roar increased to a hoarse scream, almost drowning the mighty shout that went up when the gas was was lighted, throwing out a flame nearly to the top of the derrick.

The Photographic News, noting the growing demand for dark rooms in hotels, explains that such lodging is called for by the requirements of tourists photographers.

A CONGRESSMAN ABROAD.

One of Our Representatives on His Travels in France.

I heard a good story to-day about an ex-Congressman from a Western State, who recently made a tour through Europe with a party of friends. When he got to Paris he sought out the American Legation and burst in on the Secretary in charge at the time in a towering rage. He complained to the secretary in very violent language that he had been robbed by the railway officials. They had refused to let him or his party out of the depot when they arrived in Paris without the payment of a very considerable number of francs. He thought it an outrage that a distinguished American or his friends could not travel through France without paying tribute to brigands. He wanted the Secretary of Legation to write at once to the president of the railway, demanding the instant return of the money he had been unwarrantedly compelled to pay.

"Tell him who I am," he said, "and he'll come down promptly with the ducats—francs, I mean."

Then the secretary, first soothing him with sympathetic expressions, drew from him some facts which he had omitted to state. Yes, he had surrendered his railway ticket. His friends had surrendered theirs. And yes, he had received a small piece of green paper in exchange. Yes, it had some printing on it. But was French nonsense of some sort—gibberish; he couldn't make head or tail of it.

"What did you do with it?" asked the secretary.

"Why, I threw it out of the window," he replied. "I didn't want it; some French trash, any way. Then when I got to Paris and we started to walk out of the depot, just as we do at home, by George, they stopped us and wouldn't let us out because we didn't have that infernal piece of green paper. It took me half an hour to find out what they wanted, for none of them could speak English, and I couldn't understand their gibberish. But I finally made out that they wanted that piece of paper or the money I told you about. I saw that there was no other way out, so I handed over the money."

The secretary understood it all then. He told the distinguished son of the West that he would make the required demand of the railway company at once, and so sent him happily to his hotel. Then he sat down and made the best story he could out of it to the president of the railway. The latter replied in a politely sarcastic note enclosing the money in question, expressing his regret at the occurrence.—Philadelphia Record

Brown is a big St. Bernard dog of Boston famous for his intelligence. It was his habit to go with the nurse when she wheeled the baby out for an airing. There was a high embankment with a steep incline going down at a sharp angle, and on one occasion the nurse, going in to pay a visit to some of her friends, left the carriage with the baby in it perilously near the dangerous spot. Something started the wheels in motion and the carriage rolled down toward the dangerous edge; in a moment more it must have gone over, when Brown threw himself before the wheels and lay there, holding the carriage back by the weight of his body until the truant maid returned.

Spring openings have thus far admitted nothing but cold drafts.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Washing Butter.

It is stated that a new method of washing butter has been patented in Germany. As soon as gathered in the churn in particles of about a tenth of an inch in size it is transferred to a centrifugal machine, whose drum is pierced with holes and lined with a linen sack that is finally taken out with the butter. As soon as the machine is set in rapid motion the buttermilk begins to escape; a spray of water thrown into the revolving drum washes out all foreign matter adhering to the butter. This washing is kept up till the last drop of water is removed, as clothes are dried in the centrifugal wringer. The dry butter is then taken out, molded and packed. It is claimed that the product thus so fully and quickly freed from all impurities, without any working or kneading, has a flavor, aroma and grain, and far better keeping qualities than when prepared for market in the ordinary way.

Testing Seed.

It is always best to test your seed, no matter whether you have saved it yourself or not. Many farmers think that when they save their own seed they are then safe beyond a doubt, and do not give the matter any further attention, but experience shows that this will not do to depend on always, for there are so many causes during the course of a winter, any one of which would destroy the vitality of the seed, that the farmer is not safe in planting any crop of considerable size without first testing the seed to see whether it is perfectly good or not.

This can be easily done by putting a fair sample of the seed in a box of dirt, and placing the box back of the kitchen stove, where it will be kept warm most of the time. If the seed is good it will then quickly sprout, if the dirt is kept warm and moist. In this way the farmer is enabled to act intelligently, and can easily see just how good his seed is, and whether it is safe to plant large crops with it or not.

It is indeed very risky business to plant large fields with seed that has not been tested. The work is trifling and it is but a small job to test it, yet it oftentimes results in saving a big loss.

Beginning Work in Good Season.

The farmer who is always behind with his work never gets very large crops, and he has to work quite as hard as the farmer who is always in season and who always has good crops. In fact, the cultivation of crops is often attended by twice as much labor where the work is delayed a few days beyond the proper time, and where the weeds get well started it is not only double the work to cultivate the crop, but, as a rule, leaves the weeds but half destroyed, so in a few days others will get rooted and growing as vigorously as ever, thus necessitating the work to be done over again at more expense of time than at first: but when the work of cultivation begins at the proper time, it can easily be done in such a thorough manner that the weeds will be destroyed, and a new crop must start from the seed, thus giving the crop a chance to get so well started that the second crop of weeds will be small. Land that is to be seeded down to grass should receive early attention, that the grass-seed may grow and cover the ground before the weeds get up to shade the young grass. When seeding down is delayed until the weather becomes warm the weeds will start before the grass and grow so rapidly as to entirely overshadow the young grass, and thus the work of seeding down to grass in the spring becomes a failure. Spring rye, barley and oats should be sown as early in the season as the soil will work well; when delayed until the season is well advanced, should the weater become dry, the seed will fail to grow on the dry places, thus leaving bare spots to be filled in with useless weeds.—Chicago Herald.

Farm Experiences.

REMEDY FOR THE SQUASH BORER.

E. S. Goff, New York: For the squash borer I find cobs dipped in coal-tar and placed among the plants a great benefit, but not a perfect remedy. The cobs should be placed in the hills about the middle of June, and they should be dipped in the tar again once a month or so during the season.

PROFIT IN THINNING PEACHES.

A Successful Gardener: My ten fruit trees were loaded with fruit. When as large as hickory nuts I began the operation of removing all the smallest, and of thinning out unsparingly wherever they were crowded. After going over five trees in this way the operation was suspended, and five left untouched. The peaches on the five denuded trees grew prodigiously large, and brought in market $41 clear of all expenses, while the fruit from the other five trees netted only $26, making a difference of $15 in favor of thinning.

PEAR BLIGHT AND THE PRUNING KNIFE.

J. C. Arthur, Geneva, N. Y.: To be perfectly certain whether there would be any danger of communicating a pear blight with the pruning knife, I tried a number of experiments. I took the knife and drew it through diseased branches, then cut off limbs of different sizes with it, making a record of them. In no case did I communicate any disease, except when I cut off a very tender twig. I also took diseased pears and drew the knife through those and then cut off limbs, with the same results. In no case did I communicate any disease to large limbs. Hence there is no necessity for being careful to disinfect your knife.

VALUE OF COOKED FEED FOR PIGS.

Prof. E. W. Stewart: On the 1st of October I divided six pigs of the same litter into two lots of three each, they being of the same weight and thrift—225 pounds each lot—placing them in separate pens. Lot No. 1 was fed upon corn-meal soaked about twelve hours in cold water, all they could eat, with a little early-cut clover hay thrown into the pen for them to chew, to promote health. Lot No. 2 was fed corn-meal thoroughly cooked and fed lukewarm, ad libitum, with a lock of clover hay. This experiment continued till the 8th of January, or 100 days. Lot 1 consumed 2,111 pounds of meal and gained 420 pounds—average, 140 pounds each. Lot 2 consumed 2,040 pounds and gained 600 pounds—average, 200 pounds each. This gives 11 pounds gain for one bushel of meal by lot No. 1 and 16.47 pounds gain for a bushel of meal by lot 2. Lot 1 ate on an average 7.04 pounds of meal per day and gained 1.40 pounds. Lot 2 ate on an average 6.80 pounds of meal per day and gained 2 pounds.—New York World.

Farm and Garden Notes.

An Eastern farmer says he does not know of anything finer than a good ox team, and that wherever you see one you see good crops.

German potash salts are a capital absorbent of ammonia, and ought therefore to be used in horse stables to prevent the escape of an important element of fertility.

It is a good idea in early spring to send a boy over the pasture or grass fields with a long-handled mallet, to knock to pieces the droppings of cattle and horses, as the grass springs forth.

Squash, cucumbers, egg plants, melons and beans should not be planted until all danger of frost is over and the ground well warmed. Nothing is gained by attempting to force them in cool weather.

Whenever it is noticed that the hogs eat gravel it is a sign that something they need is lacking. A few pieces of coal or charcoal will probably be a cure, while the food at the same time should be varied.

To save time in hauling about the farm, such as drawing out manure, etc., it is a good idea to have two wagons, that hands may be loading and unloading alternately, while the team is passing to and fro.

It was an old practice with the Indians as spring approached to set fire to the leaves and old dead grass on the ground, that the rays of the sun might enliven the new crop. Some farmers think the custom a good one.

Divide your rhubarb plants at the roots and make a new location for them. This should be done very early in the spring or in the fall. Put them on very rich ground with the buds about one or two inches below the surface.

Charred wood from the stove, or charcoal in any shape, is excellent for hogs. It is best to keep charcoal in the pens where the hogs can always have free access to it. Rotten wood is also relished by hogs, and they are very fond of burnt bread or other charred substances.

Horses' necks and shoulders are very liable to scald and become sore by early spring plowing. The use of the breast or Dutch collar—having a broad band connected with the traces, and supported only by a light belt over the neck, is a good substitute for the ordinary collar in this case.

In using seed potatoes select such as are fresh and plump. The supposition that it is best to use sprouted potatoes is an error, as the sprouting of the seed potato before it is planted causes a lack of nutrition to the plants after the seed is planted. Every sprout draws nourishment from the seed.

A practical farmer of Franklin, N. J., in a late address showing "how to make farming pay," said his main reliance for success in the growing of any product is work, well directed personal effort and manure, good manure, lots of it, poked in, chucked in, jammed in as long as any can be thrust in, and then a generous dressing spread on the surface. He added: Every farmer should keep a goodly number of the best kind of fowls, which should be regularly and generously fed. The speaker makes a speciality of raising sweet corn for the Newark market. "The manure is like a thick blanket over the young corn."

For egg laying and flesh producing qualities combined, the French breeds of fowls are not excelled by any others. Foremost among these are the Houdans and Crevecœurs; and while they require, perhaps, a little more care than some of our native breeds, they are worthy of special attention where egg and flesh producing non-sitters are desired. The Houdans are handsome and attractive in appearance; their bodies are square and massive, with short gray legs, and their showy crest, beard and muffling, together with their peculiar black and white plumage, give them a decidedly spirited carriage. They thrive well in confinement, and if properly cared for the hens will lay on without showing any inclination to sit.

WISE WORDS.

[illegible] certain way to be cheated is to fancy oneself more cunning than others.

Be not too brief in conversation, lest you be not understood, nor too diffuse, lest you be troublesome.

How noiselessly the snow comes down. You may see it, feel it, but never hear it. Such is true charity.

There is no act, however trivial, but has its train of consequences, as there is no hair so small but casts its shadow.

The wise and the active conquer difficulties by daring to attempt them; sloth and folly shiver and shrink at sight of toil and hazard, and make the impossibility they fear.

It is an old saying that a lie will go half around the world while truth is getting its boots on. Indeed, a lie will so soon run itself to death that pursuit is generally unnecessary.

The truest gain of friendship is in being a friend, rather than having a friend. Only he who knows how to be a friend unselfishely and unswervingly, knows what a true friend is worth.

Many persons fancy themselves friendly when they are only officious. They counsel not so much that you should become wise as that they should be recognized as teachers of wisdom.

It is utterly impossible for the best men to please the whole world, and the sooner this is understood and a position taken in view of this fact the better. Do right, though you have enemies.

Indian Pupils in Dakota.

Miss Goodale, who has opened a school among the Indians in Dakota, has written to her friends an amusing account of the first few days' experience. The cleaning of the log school-house and making a flag occupied the first day. The school did not open promptly, because "the worst thing about Indians is that they will not get up in the morning," but about half-past ten the children began to struggle in. Mr. Littletail brought his two sons, "both seven years old," and when asked "twins?" he said: "Oh, no; two wives!" The children are given clean faces, hands and well brushed hair, and are taught to sit, stand and move properly. Religious exercises, singing lessons, marches, broom drills and other exercises form the principal features of the instruction at first. The Indians are unused to order and their whole lives are changed by the new lessons.

Where He Kept His Money.

There is a queer character in the Adirondacks—a hunter called "Romeo." He has a profound distrust of loans, mortgages, banks and all kinds of financial securities. In his prime he at one time accumulated a considerable sum by faithful labor in his calling. The problem of investing it troubled him, but he found a solution which revealed his character and ingenuity. His dwelling was rude and unfinished; huge posts of unseasoned ash ran up the walls at the corners of the building, and were exposed to view inside. He resolved to make these his place of deposit. Having changed his money into gold, he bored deep auger-holes into the posts and put in the coin. Then he drove a wooden pin into each hole, and sawed off the pin. The gold remained for years in this situation, being dug out as he needed it.—Argonaut.

A Noted Frenchman.

Of Gen. Boulanger's personal appearance a correspondent says: The moment he entered the room one saw clearly how mistaken is the common conception of his personality. He is a short man, rather stoutly built, with brown hair, brown beard, rather a red face, above all things, quiet looking almost to commonplaceness. His mother was an English woman, his aunt is living at Lewes, England. He wore the ordinary French civilian's dress of black frock coat and trousers, with only the single red spot in his buttonhole. In manners Gen. Boulanger is not more striking than in appearance. He speaks slowly, like most soldiers, but without gesture and without much force either of voice or language. Gen. Boulanger has fought his way from grade to grade and from decoration to decoration. He was shot through the chest at Turbigo in 1859, he was speared in the hip at Trai-dan in 1861, he was shot in the shoulder at Villiers on Nov. 30, 1870, and his elbow was broken by a ball in January, 1871.

A Short Inscription.

A certain gentleman had a mother-in-law with whom he did not live on a very peaceful footing. They were continually quarreling. Finally she died, and the son-in-law, a few days afterward, met Jones, who is somewhat of a literary character.

"Suppose you have heard of my misfortune?" said the distressed son-in-law.

"Yes, I read the news."

"Well, I want you to get me a nice epitaph for her, something short."

"Yes," replied the friend, "the shorter the better. How would 'At Last' do?"

ADMIRAL Farragut's noted flag-ship the "Hartford," is one of the ships being fitted out in California.

Clear the Way

Without loss of time, when the intestinal canal is blocked up by reason of constipation, chronic or temporary. It should be borne in mind that this ailment is prone to become lasting and obstinate, and breed other and worse complaints. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the proper remedy to remove the obstruction effectually, but without drenching or weakening the blockaded bowels, a consequence always to be apprehended from the use of violent laxatives, which are among the most pernicious of the cheap nostrums swallowed by the credulous and misinformed. The fiat of experience, and of the medical fraternity. Not only as a source of relief and permanent regularity to the bowels, liver and stomach, but as a means of remedying and preventing kidney and bladder troubles, and fever and ague, it is without a peer.

The export of wheat from the Atlantic and Pacific ports, is 3,000,000 bushels weekly.

For the Ladies.

Laughter is the poor man's plaster,
  Making every burden light;
Turning sadness into gladness,
  Darkest hour to May dawn bright.

'Tis the deepest and the cheapest
  Cure for ills of this description.
But for those that woman's heir to,
  Use Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription."

Cures all weaknesses and irregularities, "bearing down" sensations, "internal fever," bloating, displacements, inflammation, morning sickness and tendency to cancerous disease. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

Dakota leads all other states or territories in the size of her Indian population.

Delicate Children, Nursing

Mothers, Overworked Men, and for all diseases where the tissues are wasting away from the inability to digest ordinary food, or from overwork of the brain or body, all such should take SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. "I used the Emulsion on a lady who was delicate, and threatened with Bronchitis. It put her in such good health and flesh, that I must say it is the best Emulsion I ever used."—L. P. WADDELL, M. D., Hugh's Mills, S. C.

The most forcible stump orators is the farmer whose plow strikes a snag.

Money Makers

Don't let golden opportunities pass unimproved; there are times in the lives of men when more money can be made rapidly and easily, than otherwise can be earned by years of labor. Write Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, who will send you, free, full particulars about work that you can do and live at home, wherever you are located, at a profit of at least from $5 to $25 daily. Some have made over $50 in a single day. All is new. You are started free. Capital not required. Either sex; all ages.

WHATEVER name or designation is given to Fever and Ague or other intermittent diseases, it is safe to say that Malaria or a disordered state of the liver is at fault. Eliminate the impurities from the system and a sure and prompt cure is the result. Prickly Ash Bitters is the safest and most effective remedy for all bilious troubles, kidney diseases, and like complaints that has ever been brought before the public. A trial is its best recommendation.

The trade dollar redemption is at an end, only one-third has been redeemed.

I Had a Dreadful Cough,

And raised a considerable amount of blood and matter; besides, I was very thin, and so weak I could scarcely go about the house. This was the case of a man with consumption arising from liver complaint. He recovered his health completely by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Thousands of others bear similar testimony.

The total of cattle, hogs, and sheep in the U. S., are 49,000,000, 45,000,000 and 48,000,000.

* * * Delicate Diseases, affecting male or female, however induced, speedily and permanently cured. Illustrated book for 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Thomas Jefferson brought the tomato from France, knowing it could be grown in America.

From the Tar Heel Country.

Knott, Hennessee & Co., Brindleton, N. C., writes that Huckleberry Cordial sells better with every satisfaction for bowel troubles and children teething, and commend it to every mother, the physician of the home.

Posterity vs. Ancestry.

It is no longer questioned, but admitted, that the blood of man is improving. Children of to-day are better formed, have better muscle and richer minds than our ancestors. The cause of this fact is due more to the general use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic than any other source.

A Wonderful Machine and Offer.

To introduce them we give away 1,000 Self-operating Washing Machines. No labor or washboard. Best in the world. If you want one, write The National Co., 27 Dey St., N. Y.

Best, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

The Oft Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion and preparation of its ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequaled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most popular medicine before the public to-day for purifying the blood, giving strength and creating an appetite.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

MARVELOUS

MEMORY

DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading. Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 250 University of Penn., 400 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

STOCKS.—10 TO 1,000 SHARES, Bought, Sold and Carried on Margin. Send for our list of STOCK PRIVILEGES. S. J. PECK & CO., 62 BROADWAY, N. Y.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

A veteran, Mr. George McKone, Ashburnham, Mass., writes: "While suffering with chronic rheumatism (result of Andersonville), I used St. Jacobs Oil which gave immediate relief." Sold by Druggists and Dealers.

The wife of an English clergyman has established in London a place for the distribution of clothing, which she denominates "The Clotheries." During the last year no less than 30,000 garments have been received and distributed among the worthy poor.

Carl Otto Schoenrich, Captain Oriole Yacht Club, Baltimore, Md., writes: "The Club, during practice cruise, used St. Jacobs Oil and it cured several cases of sprains and bruises." Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.

You have no doubt read the incident of the man in the sleeping-car, who, when a baby's crying disturbed his slumbers, growled out to the porter: "Where is that child's mother?" and how the porter answered: "In the express-car, forward, in her coffin."

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headaches, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

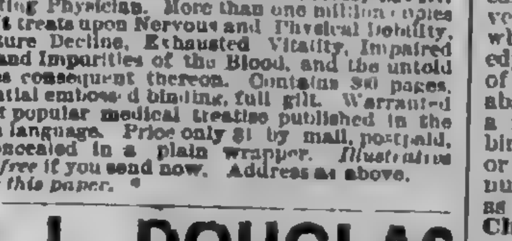
LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN.

The best $3 Shoe in the world. Best material, stylish, perfect fit; Congress, Button or Lace; all styles toe. Equals any $5 or $6 Shoe. Costs nothing to examine them at your dealer's. I send information free how to obtain these celebrated $3 Shoes if your dealer does not keep them. W. L. DOUGLAS' $2.50 Shoe equals $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. Boys all wear W. L. Douglas' $2 Shoe. Beware of fraud. None genuine unless name and price are stamped on bottom of each Shoe.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

LOCATE

In a Live Town. Cash bonus paid to all kinds of manufacturing enterprises. Live men in all kinds of businesses wanted. Address, BANK OF VALLEY, Valley, Douglas Co., Nebraska.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

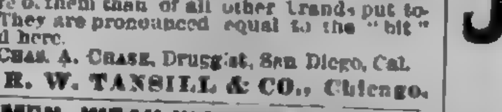
One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



Your "Tansill's Punch" gives better satisfaction to my customers than any 5c. cigar I have handled. I sell more of them than of all other brands put together. They are pronounced equal to the "bit" cigar sold here. CHAS. A. CHASE, Druggist, San Diego, Cal.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn. Superior natural Mineral Waters, Mountain and Cave Scenery. Convenient, healthy location. Select. Cheap board. Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS. Apply to F. REGISTER, Att'y, 234 S. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa. 21 years experience. Copies of law free.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

SALE OF LOTS!

East Sheffield Land Company.

Beginning Thursday, 9th June, 1887,

ON THE PROPERTY ADJOINING SHEFFIELD, ALA.

The East Sheffield Land Co. owns about 1,200 acres of land, laid off into lots and blocks, and which immediately adjoin the Sheffield property on the East.

There are three Railroads on the property of the East Sheffield Co., besides a Street Railroad running dummy engines, and extending from Sheffield to Tuscumbia, through East Sheffield.

Property admirably and conveniently located, and the Company desire to sell cheap lots to actual residents, who will have suburban homes in close and quick communication with Sheffield by street car line.

Terms of sale, one-fourth cash, and balance in one, two and three years, at six per cent. ONE-HALF the purchase price returned to all buyers who improve the lots bought in twelve months from date of sale, and ONE-FOURTH returned to those who improve in eighteen months from date of sale.

Donations of land made to Churches, Schools and Manufacturing enterprises.

For further information, Pamphlet and Map, write to

EAST SHEFFIELD LAND CO., SHEFFIELD, ALA.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,

663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

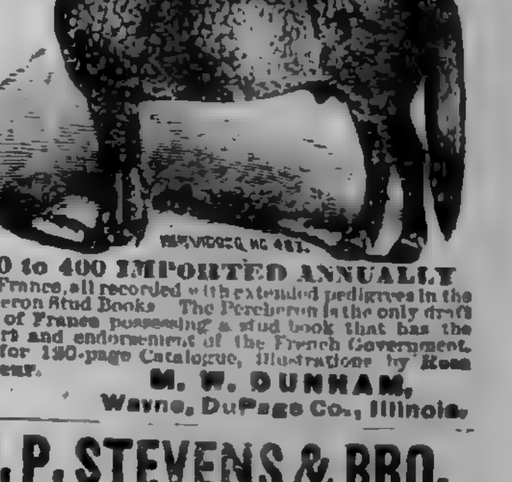
OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.



300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France, all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM [illegible] Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address [illegible] M. BOCK, P. O. Box 166, Atlanta, Ga.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 8 & 8 Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 thick Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 46 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. U. .... Twenty-two, '87

TOWER'S FISH BRAND TRADE MARK

SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.

The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.
"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."
TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.
VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1887. NUMBER 32.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

INCHES.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 15
2 Inches	7 00	11 15	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	18 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	30 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

One of the dynamite shells recently made for the United States Navy will kill, it is thought, a thousand men, blow up a man-of-war or destroy a Government building.

A correspondent of the Scientific American says: A fortune awaits the inventor of a successful perfect dash or buggy lamp, or a lamp to be attached to a horse's breast. One that will not go out when most needed, and with sufficiently strong reflector to light the road for some distance ahead of the horse.

A gentleman interested in the commerce of the great lakes says that it is going rapidly to large hulls. Twenty years ago a propeller that could carry 50,000 bushels of grain or 1,000 tons of coal was considered a monster, but there are many now in the trade between Buffalo and Chicago and Cleveland and Duluth that carry over 100,000 bushels of grain in a single cargo. The Onoko, one of the great iron propellers, takes 120,000 bushels of oats in a single cargo. These large vessels are fast crowding the smaller propellers and sailing vessels off the lakes.

A Berlin correspondent writes that successful experiments have been made at Metz with a navigable balloon, propelled by an electric motor. The balloon is the invention of a German engineer named Welker, who for some time was employed in America, where he perfected his discovery. The German Government has bought the invention, paying for it 1,000,000 marks down and another 1,000,000 which is to be paid in installments. The speed of the balloon exceeds that of a railway train, and it may be stopped and directed at will, moving against the wind.

Many efforts have been made in vain in recent years to introduce the one-cent piece into common use in the South. The New Orleans Times-Democrat recalls the fact that several years ago "a newspaper imported some barrels of the coins and put them forth, only to find out that they returned in a very short time." At last the despised coin is reported to be winning favor in New Orleans. The Times-Democrat declares that "a large number of houses are now willing to accept it and make their change accordingly, and the public is beginning to recognize that the cent is of some value after all. Strange to say, at the beginning of this movement, the small dealers still hold back."

What Napoleon wittily said of Russia, that it is a despotism limited only by assassination, still holds true, says the Cultivator. The last Czar, the father of the present one, was brutally murdered, and there is never a moment when the autocrat is absolutely safe. Since the invention of dynamite the position of this poor creature has become more pitiable than ever, as he may be blown to atoms at any moment, with no possibility of previous warning. And even more serious than this is the effect upon the millions of Russian people who seem driven to plots and dynamite as the only means for effecting reforms which in happier lands are brought about by popular education and the enactment of more just and liberal laws.

Professor Brown-Sequard," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "has been informing his students that death by throat-cutting is painless from the moment the skin of the neck is severed, and that the severing of the larynx produces complete anesthesia. However, a blow delivered with violence upon the larynx can produce instantaneous death, with syncopal appearances; and M. Brown-Sequard thinks that 'inasmuch as most assassins seem to be cognizant of the fact, honest people ought to be made aware of it also.' Just what the conclusion from these statements is, we do not exactly see. Is it a plea for the introduction of a new method of capital punishment, or a veiled compliment to the extensive and peculiar knowledge possessed by the French assassin?"

Within the past few years several towns in the Western States have been experimenting with street pavements of brick. Many miles of brick pavement, it is needless to say, exist in Holland, and there are remains of brick in the streets of Nantucket, Mass., but elsewhere in the United States this material has been rarely, if ever, used for the purpose. According to the Engineering News, Bloomington, Ill., deserves the credit of being the first modern town in his country to introduce brick paving on an extensive scale. The town is situated in the clay region and bricks are cheap there as well as good, and by careful selections of material it has been found possible to produce bricks so tough and hard that in Bloomington, where seven miles of streets are laid with them, they have been found, after ten years' experience, durable, as well as cheap and convenient. In Amsterdam, where, although canals intersect the city in all directions, a good deal of traffic is carried on by means of horses and wagons, the pavements of small, whitish bricks show little sign of wear; and, partly on account of their porosity and partly from the numerous joints which exist between them, they are in wet weather much dryer and pleasanter to walk over than stone, or even asphalt.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Preached to Soldiers From Thirty-One States at the National Drill Encampment in Washington.

TEXTS: "Fifty thousand which could keep rank."—I. Chronicles xii., 33; and "Every one could sling stones a hair's breadth and not miss."—Judges xx., 16.

Companies of infantry, cavalry, artillery and zouaves, please notice the first Scripture passage applauds the soldiers of Zebulun, because they were disciplined troops. They may have been inefficient at the start and laughed at by old soldiers because they seemed so clumsy in the line, but it was drill, drill, drill, until they could keep step as one man. "Fifty thousand which could keep rank." The second Scripture passage applauds a regiment of slingers, in the tribe of Benjamin, because they are dextrous marksmen. When they first enlisted they may have been an awkward squad and all their fingers were thumbs, but they practiced until when they aimed at a mark they always hit it. "Every one could sling stones at a hair-breadth and not miss." Both texts combining to show us that if we must fight we should do it well.

There is something absorbing in the military science of the Bible. In olden times all the men between twenty and fifty years of age were enrolled in the army and then a levy was made for a special service. There were only three or four classes exempt: those who had built a house and had not occupied it; those who had planted a garden and had not reaped the fruit of it; those who were engaged to be married and had not led the bride to the altar; those who were yet in the first year of wedded life; those who were so nervous that they could not look upon an enemy but they fled, and could not look upon blood but they fainted.

The army was in three divisions—the centre and right and left wings. The weapons of defence were helmet, shield, breastplate, buckler. The weapons of offence were sword, spear, javelin, arrow, catapult—which was merely a bow swung by machinery, shooting arrows at vast distances—machinery, shooting arrow as large as seven great arrows, one ballista, which was a sling swung by machinery, hurling great rocks and large pieces of lead to vast distances. The shields were made of woven willow-work with three thicknesses of hide and a hoop inside through which the arm of the warrior might be thrust; and when these soldiers were marching to attack an enemy on the level, all these shields touched each other, making a wall, moving but impenetrable, and then when they attacked a fortress and tried to capture a battlement this shield was lifted over the head so as to resist the falling of the missiles. The breastplate was made of two pieces of leather, brass covered, one piece falling over the breast, the other falling over the back. At the side of the warrior the two pieces fastened with buttons or clasps.

The bows were so stout and stiff and strong that the warriors often challenged each other to bend one. The strings of the bow were made from the sinews of oxen. A case like an inverted pyramid was fastened to the back, that case containing the arrows, so that when the warrior wanted to use an arrow he would put his arm over his shoulder and pull forth the arrow for the fight. The ankle of the foot had on an iron boot. When a wall was to be assaulted a battering ram was brought up. A battering ram was a great beam swung on chains in equilibrium. The battering ram would be brought close up to the wall and then a great number of men would take hold of this beam, push it back as far as they could and then let go and the beam became a great swinging pendulum of destruction.

Twenty or forty men would stand in a movable tower on the back of an elephant, the elephant made drunk with wine, and then headed toward the enemy, and what with the heavy feet and the swinging proboscis and the poisoned arrows shot from the movable tower, the destruction was appalling. War chariots were in vogue and they were on two wheels so they could easily turn. A sword was fastened to the pole between the horses so when they went ahead the sword thrust and when they turned around it would mow down. The armies carried flags beautifully embroidered. Tribe of Judah carried a flag embroidered with a lion; tribe of Reuben, embroidered with a man; tribe of Dan, embroidered with cherubim. The noise of the host, as they moved on, was overwhelming. What with the clatter of shields, and the rumbling of wheels, and the shouts of the captains, and the vociferation of the entire host, the prophet says it was like the roaring of the sea. Because the arts of war have been advancing all these years, you are not to conclude that these armies of olden times were an uncontrollable mob. I could quote you four or five passages of Scripture, showing you that they were thoroughly drilled; they marched step to step, shoulder to shoulder, or, as my text expresses it, they were "Fifty thousand which could keep rank," and "Every one could sling stones a hair's breath and not miss."

I congratulate you, the officers and soldiers of this national encampment; that if a foreign attack should at any time be made you would be ready, and there would be millions of the drilled men of North and South like the men of my first text "which could keep rank," and like the men of my second text, that would not miss a hair's breadth.

At this national drill when thirty-one States of the Union are represented, and between the decoration of the graves of the Southern dead, which took place a few days ago, and the decorations of the graves of the Northern dead, which shall take place to-morrow, I would stir the Christian patriotism and gratitude not only of this soldiery here present but of all the people by putting before them the difference between these times when the soldiers of all sections meet in peace and the times when they met in contest. Contrast the feeling of sectional bitterness in 1862 with the feeling of sectional amity in 1887. At the first date the South had banished the national air, the Star Spangled Banner, and the North had banished the popular air of "Way Down South in Dixie." The Northern people were "mudsills" and the Southern people were "white trash." The more Southern people were killed in battle the better the North liked it. The more Northern people were killed in battle the better the South liked it. For four years the head of Abraham Lincoln or Jefferson Davis would have been worth a million dollars if delivered on either side of the line. No need now, standing in our pulpits and platforms of saying that the North and South did not hate each other. To estimate how very dearly they loved each other, count up the bombshells that were hurled and the carbines that were loaded and the cavalry horses that were mounted. North and South facing each other all around in the attempt to kill. The two sections not only marshaled all their earthly hostilities, but tried to reach up and get hold of the sword of heaven, and the prayer of the Northern and Southern pulpits gave more information to the heavens about the best mode of settling this trouble than was ever used. For four years both sides tried to get hold of the Lord's thunderbolts, but could not quite reach them. At the breaking out of the war we had not for months heard of my dear uncle, Samuel J. Talmage, President of the Oglethorpe University in Georgia. He was about the grandest man I ever knew and as good as good could be. The first we heard of him was his opening prayer in the Confederate Congress in Richmond, which was reported in the New York papers, which prayer, if answered, would, to say the least, have left all his Northern relatives in very uncomfortable circumstances. The ministry at the North prayed one way and the ministry at the South prayed the other way. No use in hiding the fact that the North and the South cursed each other with a withering and all-consuming curse.

Beside that antipathy of war-time I place the complete accord of this time. Not long ago a meeting in New York was held to raise money to build a Home at Richmond for crippled Confederate soldiers, the meeting presided over by a man who lost an arm and a leg in fighting on the Northern side, and the leg not lost so hurt that it does not amount to much. The Cotton Exhibition held not long ago at Atlanta was attended by tens of thousands of Northern people, and by General Sherman, who was greeted with kindness, as though they had never seen him before. At the New Orleans Exhibition held two years ago, every Northern State was represented. A thousand-fold kindlier feeling after the war than before the war. No more use of gunpowder in this country except for rifle practice or Fourth of July pyrotechnics or at a shot at a roebuck in the Adirondacks. Brigadier-Generals in the Southern Confederacy making their fortunes as lawyers in the northern cities. Rivers of Georgia, Alabama and North Carolina turning mills of New England capitalists. The old lions of war—Fort Sumter and Moultrie and Lafayette and Pickens and Hamilton sound asleep on their iron paws, and instead of raising money to keep [illegible] out of our New York harbor, raising money for the Bartholdi Statue on Bedloe's island, figure of Liberty with uplifted torch to light the way to all who want to come in. Instead of war antipathies, when you could not cross the line between the contestants without fighting your way with keen steel or getting through by passes carefully scrutinized at every step by bayonets, you need only a railroad ticket from New York to Charleston or New Orleans to go clear through, and there is no use for any weapon sharper or stronger than a steel pen. Since the years of time began their roll has there ever been in about two decades such an overmastering antithesis as between the war time of complete bitterness and this time of complete sympathy?

Contrast also the domestic life of those times with the domestic life of these times. Many of you were either leaving home or far away from it, communicating by uncertain letters. What a morning that was when you left home! Father and mother crying, sisters crying, you smiling outside but crying inside. Everybody nervous and excited. Boys of the blue and gray! Whether you started from the banks of the Hudson, or the Savannah, or the Androscoggin, don't you remember the scenes at the front door, at the rail car window, on the steamboat landing. The huzza could not drown out the suppressed sadness. Don't you remember those charges to write home often and take care of yourself, be good boys, and the good-bye kiss which they thought and you thought might be forever. Then the homesickness as you faced the river bank on a starlight night on picket duty and the sly tears which you wiped off when you heard a group at the camp fire singing the plantation song about the old folks at home. The dinner of hard-tack on Thanksgiving day and the Christmas without any presents, and the long nights in the hospital so different from the sickness when you were at home with mother and sister at the bedside, and the clock in the hall giving the exact moment for the medicine, and that forced march when your legs ached, and your head ached, and your wounds ached, and, more than all, your heart ached. Homesickness that had in it a suffocation and a pang worse than death. You never got hardened as did the guardsman in the Crimean war, who heartlessly wrote home to his mother:

"I do not want to see any more crying letters come to the Crimea from you. Those I have received I put into my rifle after loading it and I have fired them at the Russians, because you appear to have a strong dislike of them. If you have seen as many killed as I have, you would not have as many weak ideas as you now have."

You never felt like that. When a soldier's knapsack was found after his death in our American war there was generally a careful package containing a Bible, a few photographs and letters from home. On the other hand tens of thousands of homes waited for news. Parents saying: "Twenty thousand killed! I wonder if our boy was among them." Fainting dead away in postoffice and telegraph stations. Both the ears of God filled with the sobs and agonies of kindred waiting for news or dropping under the announcement of bad news. Speak, swamps of Chickahominy and midnight lagoons and fire-rafts of the Mississippi, and gunboats before Vicksburg, and woods of Antietam, and tell to all the mountains and villages and rivers and lakes of North and South jeremiads of war times that have never been syllabled.

Beside that domestic perturbation and homesickness of those days put the sweet domesticity of to-day. The only camp fire you now ever sit at is the one kindled in stove or furnace or hearth. Instead of a half ration of salt pork, a repast luxuriant because partaken of by loving family circles in secret confidences. Oh, now I see who those letters were for, the letters you, the young soldier, took so long in your tent to write and that you were so particular to put in the mail without anyone seeing you lest you be teazed by your comrades. God spared you to get back. Though the old people have gone you have a home of your own construction, and you often contrast those awful absences of filial and brotherly and loverly heartbreaks, with your present residence, which is the dearest place you will find this side of heaven, the place where your children were born and the place where you want to die. To write the figures 1862 I set up four crystals of tears. To write the figures 1887 I stand up four members of your household, figures of rosy cheeks and flaxen hair, if I can get them to stand still long enough.

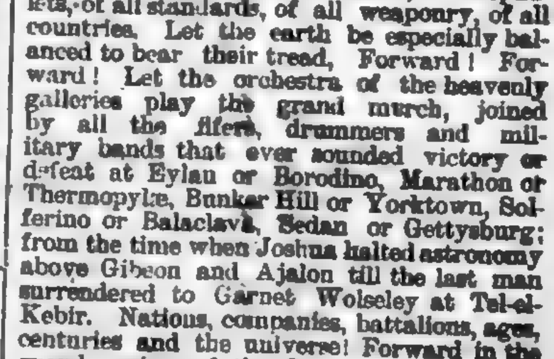
Living soldiers of the North and South, take new and special ordination at this season of the year to garland the sepulchres of your fallen comrades. Nothing is too good for their memories. Turn all the private tombs and the national cemeteries into gardens. Ye dead of Malvern Hill, and Cold Harbor, and Murfreesboro, and Manassas Junction, and Cumberland Gap, and field and hospital receive these floral offerings of the living soldiery.

But they shall come again, all the dead troops. We sometimes talk about earthly military reviews, such as took place in Paris, in the time of Marshal Ney, in London, in the time of Wellington, and in our own land; but what tame things compared with the final review, when all the armies of the ages shall pass for divine and angelic inspection. St. John says the armies of heaven ride on white horses, and I don't know but some of the old cavalry horses of earthly battle that were wounded and worn out in service may have resurrection. It would be only fair that, raised up and ennobled, they would be resurrected for the grand review of the Judgment Day. It would not take any more power to reconstruct their bodies than to reconstruct ours, and I should be very glad to [illegible] them among the white horses of Apocalyptic vision. Hark to the trumpet blast, the reveille of the last judgment. They come up. All the armies of all lands and all centuries, on which ever side they fought, whether for freedom or despotism, for the right or the wrong. They come! They come! Darius and Cyrus and Sennacherib, and Joshua and David, leading forth the armies of Scriptural times. Hannibal and Hamilcar leading forth the armies of the Carthaginians. Victor Emanuel and Garibaldi leading on the armies of the Italians. Tamerlane and Ghengis Khan followed by the armies of Asia. Gustavus Adolphus, and Ptolemy Philopater, and Xerxes, and Alexander, and Semiramis, and Washington leading battalion after battalion. The dead American armies of 1776 and 1812, and one million of Northern and Southern dead in our civil war. They [illegible] up. They pass on in review. The six million fallen in Napoleonic battle, the twelve million Germans fallen in the thirty years war, the fifteen million fallen in the war under [illegible]tris, the twenty million fallen in the wars of Justinian, the twenty-five million fallen in Jewish wars, the eighty million fallen in the crusades, the 180 million fallen in the wars with Saracens and Turks. The thirty-five billion men estimated to have fallen in battle, enough according to one statistician, if they stood four abreast, to reach clear around the earth 448 times.

But we shall have time to [illegible] pass in review before the throne of judgment, the cavalry-men, the artillery-men, the spearmen, the infantry, the sharp-shooters, the gunners, the sappers, the [illegible], the skirmishers, men of all colors, of all epaulets, of all standards, of all weaponry, of all countries. Let the earth be especially balanced to bear their tread. Forward! Forward! Let the orchestra of the heavenly galleries play the grand march, joined by all the fifers, drummers and military bands that ever sounded victory or defeat at Eylau or Borodino, Marathon or Thermopylæ, Bunker Hill or Yorktown, Solferino or Balaclava, Sedan or Gettysburg; from the time when Joshua halted astronomy above Gibeon and Ajalon till the last man surrendered to Garnet Wolseley at Tel-el-Kebir. Nations, companies, battalions, ages, centuries and the universe! Forward in the grand review of the Judgment! Forward! Gracious and eternal God! On that day may it be found that we were all marching in the right regiment, and that we carried the right standard, and that we fought under the right commander, all heaven, some on Amethystine battlement and others standing in the shining gates, some on pearly shore and others on the turreted heights giving us the resounding, million-voiced cheer, "More than conquerors." Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from everlasting to everlasting, and let the whole earth be filled with His glory. Amen and Amen.

Relic of an Ancient Race.

The Smithsonian Institution at Washington has received the great stone image or statue secured last year in Easter Island. The image weighs fifteen tons.



SIDE VIEW. FRONT.

Easter Island is in the eastern part of the Pacific Ocean, 2,300 miles from the Coast of South America. It has about a thousand inhabitants of the Polynesian race, and is seldom visited by navigators. Since 1865, when some French missionaires landed among them, they have become Christians. The island contains several hundred gigantic stone statues, the largest of which is forty feet high and measures nine feet across the shoulders. The are scattered about the island, which is about eleven miles long and six wide, generally prostrate. They were carved out of the common rock of the island and some are tolerably well chiseled.

Nothing is known as to the origin of these rude works of art and worship. As the present race has neither tools for such sculpture nor means of moving such huge masses, it seems certain that they were cut in some former age. Native traditions give them a supernatural origin. It has recently been conjectured that the island is the remnant of a submerged continent, and that these statues were made for idols by an extinct race.

A "Red-Hot One."

"Soy, Teddy Nolan, send us in a red-hot one."

It comes!—Life.

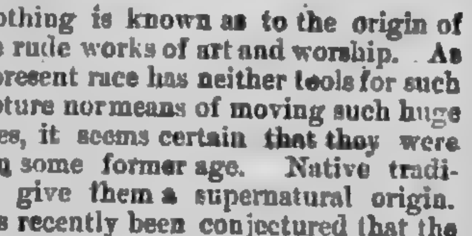
Squeezed In.



"Oh! that this too, too solid flesh would melt."—Life.

First Sight of a Confederate.

General William W. Averill, U. S. A., in one of his lectures related quite humorously his first sight of a uniformed Confederate officer. It was in Virginia, near Fairfax C. H., and before first Bull Run. He was in the command of Col. Andrew Porter, making a reconnoissance. They saw a mounted body of men in front. Porter gave the order "Draw sabres" and ordered a charge. When they came within ten rods of the opposing force its commander raised his hand palm outward and halted. Col. Porter sent Lieut. Averill forward to ascertain what was wanted. He rode up and the Confederate announced: "I am Col. Taylor, of the Confederate army, bearing dispatches from President Davis, of the Confederate States of America, to President Lincoln, of the United States." Averill returned to Porter with the message and was sent back to bid the Confederate to dismount and approach. He did so and came up to ten paces of Col. Porter, and in the same precise language repeated his message. Col. Porter replied coldly: "I know of no such officer nor service, nor can I receive your communication until I receive instructions." The two men faced each other a moment longer, then stepped forward and shook hands with "How are you, Andy," and "How are you, Tom," while a bottle from Porter's haversack was seen to make its way to Taylor's lips. That message asked for an exchange of prisoners that was not granted, and in consequence, General Averill added, "many poor Union soldiers languished and died in Rebel prison pens."

"COME, SWALLOW, COME."

Come, swallow, come, for thee we wait;
Come seek thy northern home anew,
Where pale spring flowers are delicate,
And winter skies are changed to blue;
Come, swallow, come, for thee we wait.

Come, swallow, come, for thee we wait;
The thatch is warm beneath the sun—
Here tell of love to thy fond mate;
To-day should see thy nest begun.
Come, swallow, come, for thee we wait.

Come, swallow, come, for thee we wait;
The spring is perfect but for thee;
Ah! welcome, though thou speedest late
Thy truant wings from o'er the sea;
Welcome, for not in vain we wait.

—Magazine of Art.

MONTE SAM.

"CAMP SIERRA, Jan. 28, 1886.

"Dear Old Chum Homer—Here I am at last, the happiest one-lunged consumptive in Southern California. You know when I last left Los Angeles I was determined to find some quiet, sequestered spot in these grand old Sierras where I could lead a life of perfect ease and contentment, untrammeled by the demands of society dress or business; and I have found the Mecca to which I have journeyed so far. I am seated to-night in a typical old-time miner's cabin, a relic of the 'Days of Old, the Days of Gold, the Days of '49,' with an old-time miner and prospector as my companion. I am leading a glorious life. Up with the lark in the morning, a bath in a clear, cold mountain stream, a half an hour's fishing rewarded with half a dozen fine mountain trout that are immediately thrown into a frying-pan, with quail on toast on the side, washed down with fragrant coffee, and I have a breakfast fit for any consumptive. Then a day's tramping over mountain and vale in search of the agile deer or festive jack rabbit. At night a seat before a blazing fire, for the nights in these mountains are chilly, listening to an old-time tale of the early days of California, of which you know I am passionately fond of listening to (although I am a tender-foot Easterner), and then a splendid refreshing sleep at night. I tell you, Harry, my boy, it's immense. Now, then, I want you to leave your musty law books alone. Let lawing clients take care of themselves for awhile; drop all such as 'whereas the party of the first part,' etc., and join me at my mountain home. I have guns and rods enough for both, and can promise you a splendid time. Don't dissapoint me, but come as soon as possible. Your Chum,

"HAL EDMONDS."

This letter found me seated in my unpretentious law office, in busy bustling Los Angeles, pouring over what was to me an important case—in fact my first and only case; hence its importance. Many a lawyer accustomed to rich fees and long-winded cases would not have given it a second thought, yet I had accepted it with sincere pleasure and had given it such an earnest attention that I was beginning to feel sadly in need of rest; and yet the state of my financial affairs would hardly warrant my taking so expensive a luxury as a mountain trip. As my eyes rested on ever-generous Hal's invitation I suddenly resolved to accept it, even if I had to subsist on coffee and doughnuts ever after. To resolve was to act. Hastily gathering some traps together, for my office was also my bedroom, I posted this notice on my office door:

OUT OF TOWN ON IMPORTANT
BUSINESS.
WILL RETURN IN A MONTH.

And I smiled with satisfaction as I pictured to myself how my creditors would glare upon that notice.

The next day found me at Camp Sierra, grasping Hal's hand and responding to his enthusiastic greeting. Hal Edmonds was an old college chum of mine, who imagined that he had consumption, or at least he had persuaded his loving parents into that belief in order that he might return to California with me when I left our law college for my homeward trip. And here he was before me, looking the picture of health, as active and as strong as a mountain wildcat.

"You are a healthy looking one-lunged consumptive," I sarcastically remarked.

"Thanks," replied Hal, affably. "You see," sinking his voice to an almost inaudible whisper, "this lung is badly affected, but this lung," raising his voice so that it sounded like a foghorn, "is all right." And he laughed merrily. "Say, Harry, I am like that sickly Chinaman that did my washing in Los Angeles. His sign read 'Wan Lung'—"

"Oh, rats!" I interrupted. "I didn't come up here to be killed with sickly puns."

"Well, never mind. Come, I'll show you my retreat and introduce you to my chum."

And proudly Hal showed me all the surroundings of his log cabin home, as well as the trophies of the many hunts he had taken. And finally, as his companion entered, introduced me to him.

"Monte Sam, Mr. Davis, my chum, Mr. Davis, Monte Sam." And the introduction was complete.

Before me stood a grizzled, gray-haired specimen of humanity, clad in a red shirt, overalls, cowhide boots and a wide broad-brimmed sombrero. My heart warmed to him at once, for I beheld before me one of those hardy old California pioneers. I extended my hand to receive a pressure in return that made me wince. I endeavored to engage Sam in conversation, but it was a one-sided affair. Muttering something about "'tendin to the dogs," he abruptly left us together.

"Queer fellow, that," said Hal as Sam left us. "I had quite a time scraping an acquaintence with him. I met him in Pasadena, where he was trying to buy some whisky without success. Some time after that I met him again and this time he told me where he lived. He said he was a hunter and miner, that he had a little placer claim up the mountains and that the hunting was always good. By much persistence I managed to get an invitation to visit him, which I accepted with alacrity. And many's the good time he's given me. Sam has lived here for years and years. He built this cabin himself, which he says is a counterpart of one he had in Eldorado county, when Jim Marshall, as he calls him, first discovered gold in the historic year '49. You'll like him when you know him better."

As long as I live I believe I shall ever remember the glorious days that followed my introduction into Camp Sierra. With Monte Sam and his dogs to guide us, we hunted the deer, chasing them over mountains and ravines, through brush and boulders, often being rewarded, after an exciting chase, with a deer or doe, whose skins and horns were a source of pride to both Hal and me.

One night after we had retired from a long tramp well laden with the spoils of the chase, and were resting after supper, lying full length before a blazing fire, I related to sympathetic Hal all my struggles and trials since we had last parted, mentioning at last my first and only case. "You see, Hal," I explained, "this Don Jose Maria Antonio Jesus Ybarra, away back in the early days, received a grant from the Government of California of three leagues of land adjoining and running due east from what is now the heart of the city of Los Angeles. His cattle and sheep and horses roamed what were then grassy plains, in almost countless numbers. He was a lordly land owner, rich in all that constituted wealth in those days, but a drouth came upon the country once that swept away all his vast herds and flocks. The heavens refused to rain and the grass failed to grow. His dead horses and cattle and sheep were strewn for miles along the plains, and old Don Jose became desperate. He saddled his horse one day and rode into Los Angeles, where he sought one of the gambling hells, as prolific in those days as real estate agents and lawyers are now.

"The old Don got into one of the numerous games of monte, that being the favorite gambling amusement in those days, and his ill luck followed him. He lost all his ready money, then his horse, saddle, bridle and at last his rancho. Quitting the table he sought the outside air and then blew his brains out. Some years after his death, when the supremacy of the American Government had been fully established, a couple of Americans arrived at the rancho and claimed to be its owners and demanded possession; one of the strangers claiming to be an officer of the law. The family, ignorant of law, and American law at that, moved away without demur, a generous neighbor providing them with land from his own possessions. The rancho passed into many hands, and the family have all passed away save my client, a young Mexican, fairly intelligent and with enough knowledge to know his rights. He came to me and asked me to take his almost impossible case and do what I could with it. I took it for a want of something to do, and I have made many important discoveries. The Mexican grants have long ago been confirmed to the Ybarra family. No record of transfers from them appear upon the county records. Could I but produce those gamblers and the papers that passed between as witnesses, I could build up a strong case, even after all these years,"

"Say, young feller," said Monte Sam, "what did yer say thet greaser's name war?"

"Jose Maria Antonio Jesus Ybarra."

"And the land was the San Miguel rancho, eh!"

"Yes, that was its name."

"And he lost it playing monte?"

"Yes."

"Well, I guess as how I kin tell you a little about thet."

"You!" I excitedly exclaimed, "what do you know about that?"

"Easy, youngster, easy; mebbe I knows all about it and mebbe I don't; leastwise I can remember one night I was sittin in Joe O'Campo's saloon, in Los Angeles, a dealin monte, when an old pard of mine—Horse Pistol Dick—we called him thet cause he uster kill men with that weepin, specially greasers, for greasers warn't wuth much in them days nohow. Well, as I was a sayin, I was doin the dealin and Dick was rustlin ther suckers, when old Don Jose Maria Antonio Jesus Ybarra cum in. He was a pretty wealthy greaser then, and we knew we had a good thing on hand. He commenced ter bet at ther game, and we let him win a little just to hold him. Bymbye he begun ter lose, and purty soon we had his coin, then we had got his horse and outfit and finally he staked his rancho agin a few thousands we had, cause he looked purty full and we thought we could beat him. We won the rancho, and Dick drew up a bill of sale for ther place and Joe O'Campo witnessed it. I kinder remember 'bout the cuss blowin ther top of his head off, but that happened every day then. Dick and I dusted off North after that. Dick gin me the dockiment, and purty soon after that a greaser tipped Dick wide open with a knife. Dick war drunk at the time and didn't get no show, so he passed in his chips and the Dealer up above cashed em for him. I kinder think I've got that paper yet, cause I had reason to save a number of papers after that. Ef it'll do yer any good yer kin have it."

"Good!" I exclaimed, "why it's worth thousands; give it to me, and I'll share all I make with you."

"Oh, never mind, youngster, old Sam's got his little claim and he's got nuff to see him through this world without that."

With that Sam rose and went to a little box that stood in one corner of the room. First he took out a pick, spade and a rocker. "See them, youngster; them's my pardners of the old times. Many an ounce of dust they brung me," and he laid them gently down."

Next he fished out an old pair of boots; "that's another pard of '49," and at last he drew forth a packet of papers. Carefully he handled them and brought them to the light, where he stood silent and still with those letters in his hand, and a shadow seemed to pass over his face. I was burning with impatience to examine the papers, but something in his manner restrained me. "Youngster," he finally said, "these are some letters from home—maybe you don't know what that meant in '49 and '50. I've kept them for many a year, kept every one, until they didn't cum eny more, and then I knew the old folks was dead. Thar's one thar that all the gold in Californy couldn't buy," and he selected a faded envelope from the pack and gazed reverently upon it.

"Tell us about it, Sam," urged Harry. "Let Homer wait, and spin us a yarn."

Sam threw himself upon his side, rested his head upon his hand and began:

"I had cum down from the north to Los Angeles, just to take a hand in the fun Commodore Stockton was a havin' with the greasers, for he and Kearney and a few others was a raising Cain down here, and the greasers were purty hot toward 'gringoes,' as they called white men then. Wall, one day they had a big jamboree on the Plaza.

There was a hull lot of new Americans in town, a lot of soldiers that had 'listed and served their time and had been discharged—they were all out for a lark and in for a good time. I noticed one young chap among 'em who seemed ter have a familiar look to me. He was a standing in the street a lookin' at their show, when a big greaser cum along on h back; he yelled to the young fell Spanish to git out of the road. He 'Cuidado, perro,' (look out, you d and all the greasers commenced to

This young feller didn't know no S ish, so he stood there, and the gre dug his spurs in the side of his horse triedto make him jump over him, but hoss couldn't do it; so he brung his f feet down on that young feller's head smashed him into a jelly. I tell you gringoes was hot. I knocked that gre off that hoss with a shot from my C revolver, and ther balance of ther cleaned the hull crowd out, then picked up that pore young feller and t him into a saloon and laid him out.
of the boys searched his clothes and fo this letter.

"'Hello, Sam,' he says, 'this chap's got the same name as yer.'

"I took the letter and looked at Sure nuff, it sed, "Charles Sawyer, N
Orleans.' I took it, and read it, here's what it said:

"'BLOOMINGDALE, N. H., Jan. 6, 184
'MY DEAR SON—I write this letter to y hoping it will reach you at New Orleans.
dear, dear boy may God keep and watch o you in your long journey. You have left poor and heart-broken. It makes me tram to think what perils my darling boy may counter. I fear I shall never see you ag and oh, my darling boy, try to become a g and true man. Don't forget the prayers learned at your mother's knee. You will thrown among bad and wicked men, b always turn to Him to keep you an hon man. God bless and keep you. I cann write more, but only pray that you will fi
Samuel and return with him to the old far Father joins me in sending our love a prayers. Write to me as often as you ca
With love and prayers to our Father to bri you safely back, I am your loving

'MOTHER.'

"I stood there with that letter in m hand a looking at that boy, and I seeme to see the old farm away back home
the States. It was all clear ter me nov
That little brother of mine, he was litt when I left home, had growed up an followed me to Californy. He had gon to New Orleans and 'listed with Taylo and fought ther greasers in Mexico, an then cum ter Californy. Poor little boy
I could remember how he used ter cree into my bed at home, and twine his lit tle arms around my neck and listen t the stories I uster tell him. I felt some thin' warm trickle down my cheeks, an
I knew I was a crying. I tell yer I fel awful. I just remembered those ol parents of mine, whom I had not writter to fer years. That was the hand writ o my dear mother, God bless her memory
We buried pore Charley, and I swor vengeance agin all the cussed greaser and their kind. And many's ther one a hez paid interest on ther debt they owe me. I writ home after that and sent em some money, and told em Charly wa with me adoin well. I think God'll for give the lie I told em then, cause I couldn't write the truth.

"After awhile I got a letter saying father was dead, and when no more let ters come after that I knew mother must have died too. It kinder broke me all up. So I moved up here among the mountains to git away from ther people in ther valley, and here I have lived for many a year. Thar's towns and cities down thar now where I used ter ride on ther plains and hunt and fish. And even all ther mountains seems ter be all alive with people. But the greasers are agoin fast, and that's a heap of satisfaction to me. Yer look something like Charley, youngster. Yer've got the same eyes and ther same hair, and I kinder like you, and if the paper'll do yer any good, why take it. Old Sam hain't got no use fer anything much more, 'cept to be left alone."
And the old man's head sank upon his breast in silent reverie, as the scenes and thoughts of the past arose before his vision. Silently Hal and I sought our bunks and left Sam alone with his thoughts.
The next day I bade adieu to Hal and Monte Sam to renew my labors. With the assistance of the papers and the presence of the same Joe O'Campo, yet living, and Sam, I was able to make out a very strong case, sufficient to bring it to a successful compromise, from which my client and I reaped a handsome remuneration. Enough for me to build me up a practice that today supports a wife and little ones in comfort.

Monte Sam is not forgotten, and many is the pleasant time I've since spent with him, listening to his thrilling stories of the early days in California. He yet dwells in his mountain home, and woe betide the Mexican, or, as he calls them, "greasers," who disturbs his retreat.—H. C. Katz, in Golden Era.

Fulton's Steamboats.

It is useless to draw comparisons between the value of claims of precedence in the history of steam navigation. The fact that Fulton's efforts finally started the world to building steamboats is indisputable. All preceding cases were simply sporadic, and had none of the experiments on the Hudson. Fulton himself had already built six steamboats before one was built elsewhere than in America. His boats, too, from the beginning were of practical value, and not small experiments, the Clermont herself being 1[illegible] feet long, 16 feet broad, 7 feet deep, of 160 tons; and the diameter of her wheels was 15 feet.

Fulton also has the honor of being the first to design and build a war steamer, which for her time was a most remarkable production, and by far the largest steam vessel built before 1838. She was a fitting monument to the genius of the man who unfortunately did not live to see her completion and successful trials.

The Demologos, or Fulton the First, was laid down June 20, 1814, and launched October 29th of the same year. She made her first trip on June 1, 1815, and on the Fourth of July she steamed outside of Sandy Hook and back, a distance of fifty-three miles, in eight hours and twenty minutes. She was then supposably light, as it is stated that she was again tried September 11, 1815, with twenty-six of her guns on board, and ammunition and stores to bring her down to nearly eleven feet draught. She steamed from four and one-half to five miles an hour, Fulton having only promised three, and may certainly be considered to have been a success. She was never commissioned, but was used as a receiving ship at New York until June 4, 1829, when she accidentally blew up.—Scribner.

Henry Bergh, the animal's friend, has printed rules on "How to approach a kicking horse." It appears that the safest way is [illegible] to do the approaching [illegible].—[illegible]

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line insertion.
Obituaries and Tributes of Respect,
rates.
Announcing candidates for office, Five lars, strictly in advance.
Communications recommending candi for office will be headed as advertisements charged for accordingly.
Liberal contracts made with those adve
ing by the year.
☞ The money is due on all advertising a the first publication.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 16, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - -	$1.50
One copy six months - - - -	75
One copy four " - - -	50

Birmingham has a new industry known as the Silk Culture Industrial Academy of Birmingham.

West Alabamian: The crop prospect is the best we have had for many years. Cotton next season, 6c. per pound.

A northern Congressman says that New York kept out of the National Drill because she is not yet ready to cross the color line.

The celebrated case of Harris Gunter who killed policeman Montgomery was to be tried at Prattville Tuesday. The State secured postponement on an illegally drawn venire.

Man is the only creature that laughs; angels do not, animals cannot, and devils will not.—Clipping.

Now will the idiot who originated the above wonderful effort at "philosopy," so-called, kindly inform us where he obtained his information in regard to the angels and devils.

Bro. McIver, of the Tuskegee News seems determined to slaughter all opposition to Col. Langdon for Secretary of State as long as Col. L. shall want the office. The way the News man has recently handled post-master Grubbs, of the Decatur News, and Bro. Keiser, of the Opelika Times, is evidence that he is not inexperienced in the candidate-butchering business.

We met in Birmingham our old friend, Ryland Randolph, who now resides in that city. He is not now connected with the Press, but our meeting recalled many pleasant recollections of the past, and especially our excursion North and to Canada about ten years ago; the prominent part he took in the winings and dinings, the banquets, the toasts and the speeches—always full to overflowing with wit, humor and sarcasm never failed to enlist rounds of applause. He should be made an honorary member of the Association, and we expect to present his name at the next meeting.—Eutaw Whig.

Col. Don Piatt has written a great book entitled "Memories of the Men Who Saved the Union." He thinks the five greatest characters of the period of which he writes were Lincoln, Chase, Seward, Stanton and Thomas. This causes an exchange to remark: "It is a curious fact that the Southern cause was lost principally because of Lincoln, the Kentuckian, Stanton, the North Carolinian, and Thomas, the Virginian. Out of the South's own loins sprang the men who laid her low. It may be that, with perfect propriety, Col. Piatt might have added the name of Farragut, the Tennessean, to his list of men who saved the Union."

"Another County Heard From."

The State Examiner of Public Accounts has just reported, after thorough examination, the Probate Judge of Butler county, J. L. Powell, a defaulter to the State to the amount of $4,000. It appears from the facts that can be had that the judge would collect for each quarter large amounts of money belonging to the State for licenses; and when he made his report to the auditor he would only report a part of the amount so received by him; the fraud having been practiced by him through many years.

Marriages Should Be Waited For.

The bachelor editor of the Prattville Progress has evidently adopted the advice of Louise Chandler Moulton, which he publishes in the local column of his paper thuswise:

Marriage, it seems to me, should be waited for, not sought. Who knows round what corner his destiny may be hiding—at what unexpected turn he may come upon the face above all faces for him? To put aside as far as possible the thought of marriage until compelled to think of it by some strong and special attraction toward some special person, is wiser than to be seeking in every chance acquaintance the possible husband or wife. "We shall meet the people who are coming to meet us," no matter in what far off land their journey toward us begins.

Now William, we don't agree with you and the fair Louise at all—at all. You should "step off" into the matrimonial chasm just as quick as you can.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Jemison.

Though you have not heard from our quiet little city in some time, we are still in statu quo.

Jemison Lodge, No. 411, A. F. & A. M. met last Saturday night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: L. J. Hand, W. M.; S. J. Heath, S. W.; Jonathan Bice, J. W.; J. M. Brantley, Treas.; A. E. Burns, Sec'y; G. L. McCrary, S. D. Thomas Collins, J. D.; S. G. Whatley, J. M. Corderie and J. A. Skaggs, Stewards.

The Board of Directors, of Jemison Academy will soon have completed a spacious new building, in which a first-class school will be opened under the auspices of a thoroughly competent educator. Those desiring the best facilities for educating their children can do no better than matriculate them at the opening of this school; of which due notice will be given.

The beautiful and accomplished Misses Liles will close their school about the last of June. Having given entire satisfaction to their patrons, they will wind up with a big commencement.

Miss Mattie Hand has just returned home from Mary Sharpe College at Winchester, Tenn., and will lend her genial, sunny presence to our community during the summer months.

Miss Bettie Anderson recently returned from a protracted visit to friends in Birmingham and Brewton and now gladdens the hearts of her friends with her many charms.

The Rev. Mr. Lee having just returned from the Southern Baptist Convention which convened at Louisville, entertained our people last Sunday night with a lecture lasting an hour and a half on what he saw, heard and learned in that body. We trust he will cultivate his talent for lecturing, as his audience was highly delighted with his manner and style of address.

More anon. X. Y. Z.

[Written for last week's issue but received too late.—Ed.]

THIS WEEK.

Prof. A. C. Heaton from Lewes, Delaware, is sojourning with us, enjoying our pure air and splendid free stone water. We hope he will locate among us.

Capt. J. M. Harris and his most excellent wife have returned from Brewton, where they have resided for some months. We are glad to welcome them back.

Prof. Corderie still holds the fort. He dispenses drugs and presides with much dignity over the magistrate's court.

Miss Carrie Mullins, a lovely young lady from Jumbo, is visiting the Rev. Mr. Burns' family.

The Misses Givhan, two of Strasburg's fairest maidens, visited Jemison last Sunday, much to the delight of their many friends.

Our cross tie and saw mill men are driving a big trade.

The recent rains have made the crops look finely, and our farmers' countenances beam with sunny smiles. X. Y. Z.

Dixie Dots.

Farmers report crops better in this community than for several years.

C. C. O'Barr, dental surgeon, of Pelham, is in our village on business.

Capt. T. D. Parnell is building a handsome residence on Main street.

Miss Ellen Crum, one of Dixie's most lovely belles is attending the commencement at Marion this week. Ah! me.

Mr. John Marcus, living twelve miles east of Dixie, was seriously and probably fatally cut by Mr. W. J. Lindsay. Cause of the affray unknown.

We noticed the dude with a magnolia limb on his coat last Sunday evening. Suppose he had been to see her.

What do you think of Rats?

[What do we think of "Rats"? Well we think if there is more than one of them they ought to stir up more items.—Ed.]

John Marcus who was cut by a knife in the hands of W. J. Lindsay 12 miles east of Dixie died from the wounds at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. Lindsay was under the influence of whiskey at the time of the cutting, and from all accounts the murder was most unprovoked. C.

Verbena.

News very scarce this week. Mr. J. F. Maull who lives near Jemison is visiting J. G. Farley at this place.

The Rev. Dr. Briggs filled his regular appointments Sunday and preached a splendid missionary sermon. After which he took up a collection and received $65. Good for our burg.

The Pratt Mill locomotive returned from Birmingham Wednesday, very neatly overhauled. The company is thinking of running day and night in order to keep logs and wood for the 17 charcoal ovens they have in operation.

We learned from a lady on the accommodation train to-day that a man at Coosada, Ala., went to bed Friday night as well as usual; next morning he was found dead in bed. The cause supposed to have been heart disease. His name we did not learn.

We want to say a few words about a great king which is very familiar to our people. Alcohol is his name. His tyranny is weakened to what it was some years ago. The men and women of God have done this. Rally ye soldiers of Christ, and bring the great king down by voting him out of your county, and then if any one violates the law report him to the grand jury. We will take the liberty to say we had rather sell pointer dogs than whiskey for they would do bird hunters some good, and the whiskey seller does not benefit anyone. He only takes the sword in his hand, lifts it up and plunges it to the hearts of his fellowmen and their widows and orphans and also brings gray haired and broken hearted mothers and fathers down to the grave. This is an awful thought for a rational man to think over.

The writer will be in Clanton in a few weeks and will call on the VIEW men with something personal for them. WATCHMAN.

Maplesville Dots.

We had a good rain last Friday.

Our crops are in a good condition and a good many of the farmers are laying by their corn.

So much hard work and hot weather is making our farm horses look like Brick Pomeroy's Virginia horses; they are decreasing in the legs and increasing in ribs.

Our free-holders are taking time by the forelock. They have gone to staking their chickens out to see how it will work before they vote for no picnic.

The citizens and patrons of the school here were pleased to gather at the school house on the 3rd inst. and hear the exercises from the pupils; all of which we will place to the credit of our teacher, Miss Fannie McMath.

Mrs. W. R. Bowline moved to Selma shortly after the death of Mr. Bowline. We regret loosing such a good lady from our neighborhood.

Mr. Herbert Woolley, of this place, has gone to Mississippi. We wonder if he will get any letters from here with the stamp across the corner.

Dr. Woolley has bought Mr. Bowline's house and lot in town and is improving it.

Our little town was visited last Saturday evening by a mad dog which made things very disagreeably interesting. It was followed by some colored men and killed about two and a half miles above here. We want a dog law, we do.

Our ladies send many thanks to "X" for his compliments. D.

Stanton Puffs.

Mrs. Dr. Little, accompanied by Miss Lucy Wilson, returned home last week from Cross Plains.

A number of our citizens claim to have seen the evening star at noon last Sunday. This scribe looked but failed to see it.

The G. & C. L. Co. have resumed their regular routine of work. A new boiler has been orderd to take the place of the bursted one.

A large congregation attended church at Clanton Ford last Sunday. The ordnances of baptism and communion were attended to and there were three additions to the church by letter.

The G. & C. L. Co. are again extending their tram road.

Several of our mill men decided two weeks ago that they would quit using the weed. Two or three have succeeded, the others have resumed the filthy habit.

Preaching next Sunday at the Baptist church. 89.

The Atlanta Capitol mourns because Alabama has become the Empire State of the South, leaving Georgia in the lurch. God did more for Alabama than for Georgia, and man is co-operating with the Divine gift.—Anniston Hot Blast.

Croup, Whooping cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. jun16 y

Tidings for the Afflicted!

This is to inform all persons that I will be in Montgomery, Ala., about June 25, 1887, and will remain there until September 1st, 1887.

I will be prepared to treat all cases of Cancer, Ulcer, or Sore Breast, without the use of the knife. I have endorsements of the most prominent physicians in the country, also many from parties whom I have treated. Read these:

TO THE PUBLIC:—I have had a very bad case of Ulcer in the neck in my family; have had treatment of several physicians from New York and Washington, but was not relieved until I was recommended to Dr. Daniel, who made a successful cure, and I can heartily recommend him.

MRS. MARIE MOORE,
323 Missouri Ave., Washington, D. C.

ALTOONA, PENN., Oct. 16, 1886.

This is to certify that I was treated by Dr. Daniel for Cancer on the face and I am now entirely well. I had been to Philadelphia and was treated by the best doctors there. They gave me up and told me I might as well go home to die, as my cancer was incurable. The doctors in Altoona all gave me up. I can recommend Dr. Daniel to any one who is afflicted with that dreadful disease—cancer.

Respectfully,
HENRY MASSACHE.

I have many more certificates, but have not the space to give them. All who may not be able to come to me at Montgomery, can send me full particulars of their case with $10, and I will send them medicine and directions to cure any case of Cancer, Ulcer or Sore Breast. Persons can consult or write me at Mrs. Clark's boarding house, Monroe Street, Montgomery, Ala.

j16-4t LITTLETON DANIEL.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.

WILSON HOUSE.

COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

It is only about a year now before the next county election, but we hear no talk of candidates in the field. Guess everybody in these parts can make money enough at private duty without being hauled over the coals in a political campaign.—Tennessee Valley.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton. jun16y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton Ala.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by M. J. Greene, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle.

Notice!

Notice is hereby given that J. L. Williams is not connected with this company in any capacity.

ALA. MINERAL LAND CO.
By JNO. M. MCKLEROY,
Att'y and General Agent.
May 28, 1887. [jun2-4t]

NOTICE NO. 6370.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Edward T. Rhodes, Homestead 12457 for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 8, township 22 n, range 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Vinson Gragg, George Mims, Joseph Gore, and James W. Knox, all of Clanton, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6371.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., May 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on June 25, 1887, viz: Reason L. Woolly, Homestead 13154, for the n ½ of s e ¼ sec 14, township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James Garner, John B. Moore, Shelby Coshatt, Joseph W. Reynolds, all of Montevallo, Ala.

ma12* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

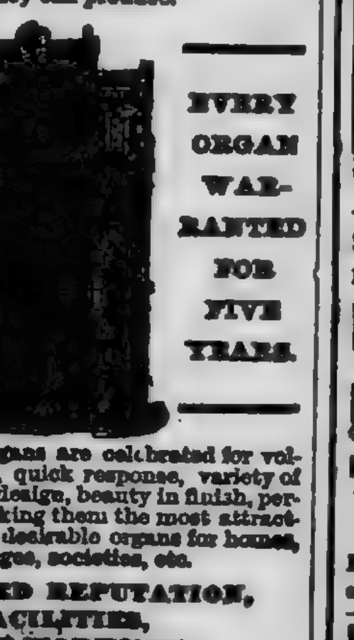
DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

THE
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.



OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THE
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo.
CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!
During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!
COLLINS
AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING.
PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S
Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY
Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE.
Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

SEND FOR COLLINS BROS. 'PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC' for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store.
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun24-y

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of NASHVILLE, MEMPHIS, MONTGOM'Y, MOBILE, and N. ORLEANS
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all
NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

Newman's Southern Flower Cologne is the best. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by M. J. Greene.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address
Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to
MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.
Jobbers and Retailers of
Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,
Painters' and Artists' Supplies.
WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.
1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—

DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,

Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 16, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	2:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Blessings Sought.

Holy Father guard and keep me,
Guide me in the heavenly way,
With thy gracious arm protect me,
From the evils of each day.

Lead me through this vale of sorrow
With a father's loving hand;
May I find that each to-morrow,
Brings me near that blessed land:

Where no storm clouds ever enter,
Where no sorrows ever come,
And our Savior is the center
Of that happy, heavenly home,

There the angels, they will greet us,
And our loved ones beckon on,
There our Savior, he will meet us
Saying, children welcome home.

E. C. L.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

The young men should re-organize their debating club.

Capt. Jegter, of Opelika is in Clanton using the hot well water for paralysis.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

Messrs. H. A. McKinney and F. J. Davis, of Birmingham, visited Clanton last week.

Miss Annie Stamps, of Robinson's Springs, is visiting the family of Mr. A. J. Hall near this place.

Mrs. O. A. Duke, of this place, has gone to Shelby Springs to spend some time for her health.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Mr. W. M. Wilson has purchased the Steve Baker property west of the railroad and is having it fenced in.

Mr. Tom Evans, of Randolph, visited his mother's family and many friends in this place last week.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Sunday school picnic to-day in front of Baker's school house east of Clanton. Go out and get your dinner.

The L. & N. Railroad Company have improved their depot at this place by putting on a new roof and building new platforms.

Mr. S. Headley brings us the first cotton bloom. It was brought to our office last Monday and was no bud, but a full blown blossom.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

We learn that Mr. DeJarnette, of this place, who is running on one of the Trade Company's boats between Montgomery and Mobile, has recently been made captain of the boat he was employed on as clerk.

Sampey's Corner.

You can get good tobacco for less money at Sampey's store than any other place in the county. Sweet Catawba is the best chewing tobacco you can buy for a dime a plug. Lily White flour is as good as you can buy, and the price is $5.75 per barrel. All shoes sold are guaranteed as represented. Cash customers wanted.

Work on the Methodist church building is now progressing rapidly. When it is completed it will be the best church building in the county.

We learn that Maj. J. C. Gibson, of Verbena, has purchased the lot west of the railroad on which Mr. Ehrman started to build, and that he intends putting up a large store house on it.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-headache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Clanton Academy closed yesterday and the children will enter upon their vacation by "taking in" the picnic to-day and enjoying themselves in the woods the first day of their holidays.

Rev. H. H. McNeill will preach in this place next Sunday at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. Subject—morning: "Eternal Life;" evening: "Treason and Destiny of Judas Iscariot."

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Mrs. E. C. Nun, of Autaugaville, died at her home in that place last Thursday. She was a sister of Mrs. A. J. Hall, Mrs. W. H. McNeil and Mrs. Mumford DeJarnette of this place.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

The ice cream supper at the court house last Thursday night drew a large crowd. The only draw back to the entertainment was that the ice cream did not hold out. Twice the quantity made could have easily been sold. The fancy work sold at auction was bid in by the Society and will be held for better prices. Everybody had a nice time and about $35.00 was added to the treasury of the Ladies' Aid Society, which will be used in improving the Baptist church building.

Some Rumors.

It is gathered from here and there that the negro Green Harrington, the supposed murderer of Mr. Abe Littlejohn and his wife has been captured, carried to the scene of the crime where he confessed the deed and was immediately tied to a pine tree and burned. Of course we have been unable to find any one who witnessed the punishment inflicted upon the negro, and do not give the rumors as authentic. It is further reported that Harrington confessed having committed several other dastardly crimes, among which was the recent assault upon a lady at Helena.

Another rumor is that a negro who threatened to kill Mrs. John Traywick, who lives three miles South of Clanton, because she had ordered him out of her yard, was found dead with his body riddled with bullets the morning after the threat was made. These are rumors and we publish them as rumors, without comment.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

A Mysterious Murder.

Saturday morning about daylight the body of Charlie Harris, a colored man living at this place, was found on the railroad track a little north of the depot and near the lumber platform. He showed some signs of life when picked up but was unable to speak. He was carried to his home and examined. No evidence of his having received a blow, or of other violence, being visible it was at first thought that he had a fit, but further investigation went to prove that he had been foully dealt with. He died Saturday night having been unable to speak a word to tell who had hurt him. Just before he died his neck became very much swollen which led to the belief that he had been "sand-bagged" and struck on the neck. It then came to light that he had had a quarrel with George Oliver, a negro with whom he had been working the evening before in cleaning a well, and parties had heard Oliver threaten to "fix him" if he would come down to the railroad. Oliver was arrested and placed in jail and a coroner's jury held an inquest over the body of Harris on Sunday and returned a verdict of "deceased came to his death at the hands of one George Oliver."

The fact of his having been found on the railroad track is evidence that he was murdered and that the party who did the work placed him there that the train might run over him and cover up the crime. All the circumstances point to George Oliver as the perpetrator of the deed. He is still confined in jail at this place. The body of Charlie Harris was buried Sunday evening at 5 o'clock.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

Good Advice.

"I used it in the Spring of 1885 with excellent results for bronchitis and catarrh, and I have taken pleasure in recommending it to invalids. Several have sent for it and it has worked well. I think it will do good in all." So writes a clergyman in Portland, Me., when writing Oct. 11, 1886, to Drs. Starkey & Palen to send him another full Treatment of Compound Oxygen.

This Compound Oxygen has a history wonderful in its way, and worth reading by everybody whose life is worth preserving. This history is embodied in a very interesting two hundred page treatise, which is sent free by mail on application. Please address Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1520 Arch street, Philadelphia, Penn.

A Remarkable War Story.

"Cover my defenseless head
with the shadow of thy wing."

A party of northern tourists formed part of a large company gathered on the deck of an excursion steamer that was moving slowly down the historic Potomac one beautiful evening in the summer of 1881. A gentleman who has since gained a national reputation as an evangelist of song had been delighting the party with the happy rendering of many familiar hymns, the last being the sweet petition so dear to every christian, beginning "Jesus lover of my soul."

The singer gave the first two verses with much feeling, and a peculiar emphasis upon the concluding line that thrilled every heart. A hush had fallen upon the listeners after the musical notes had died away. Then a gentleman made his way from the outskirts of the crowd to the side of the singer, and accosted him with, "Beg your pardon, stranger, but were you actively engaged in the war?"

"Yes sir" the man of song answered courteously; "I fought under General Grant."

"Well," the first speaker continued with something like a sigh, "I did my fighting on the other side, and think, indeed am quite sure, I was very near you one bright night eighteen years ago this very month. It was much such a night as this. If I am not mistaken you were on guard duty. We of the South had sharp business on hand and you one of the enemy. I crept close to your post of duty, my murderous weapon in my hand: the shadow hid me. As you paced back and forth you were humming the hymn you have just sung I raised my gun and aimed at your heart, and I had been selected by our command for the work because I was a sure shot. Then out upon the night rang the words:

"Cover my defenseless head
With the shadow of thy wing."

Your prayer was answered. I could not fire after that. And there was no attack made on your camp that night. You were the man whose life I was spared from taking."

The singer grasped the hand of the Southerner, and said with much emotion: "I remember the night very well, and distinctly the feeling of depression and loneliness with which I went forth to my duty. I knew my post was one of great danger, and I was more dejected than I remember to have been at any other time during the services. I paced my lonely beat thinking of home and friends and all that life holds dear. Then the thought of God's care for all that He has created came to me with peculiar force. If He so cared for the sparrow how much more for man created in his own image; and I sang the prayer of my heart, and ceased to be alone. How the prayer was answered I never knew until this evening. My heavenly Father thought best to keep the knowledge from me for eighteen years. How much of his goodness to us we shall be ignorant of until it is revealed by the light of eternity! 'Jesus, lover of my soul,' has been a favorate hymn; now it will be inexpressively dear.

The incident related in the above sketch is a true one, and was related to the writer by a lady who was one of the party on the steamer.—Ex.

If a cold wave rudely crosses your path you can say "Blow winds and crack your cheeks!" if you have a bottle of Coussens Honey of Tar, which will cure all the bad colds, coughs, and diseases of throat and lungs that ever rode on the back of a blizzard. Try Coussens Honey of Tar for your cough.

That hacking cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's cure. We guarantee it. For sale by M. J. Greene.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. M. Phillips, Clanton.

If we had a whole dictionary of adjectives at our tongues end to use in recommendation of Coussens Honey of Tar, as a cure for coughs, colds and diseases of throat and lungs, we would simply pick out the little word "best" and apply it sincerely to Coussens' Honey of Tar, because it is the only permanent cure for a deep seated cough or cold upon the lungs.

Tell me not in mournful numbers that piles cannot be cured. Use Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment and experience the permanent cure which is always effected by this preparation. There are numerous so-called remedies; only one Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment good for piles only, but so good for that disease that all sufferers with it need only use the great remedy.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A WELL TRIED TREATMENT

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a Pa.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.

Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES
—SUCH AS—
Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular
MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Bixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

MONTGOMERY
FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING GENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.
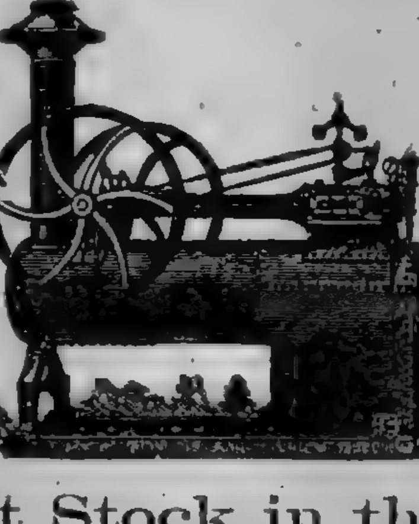
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala.
SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,



COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES.
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhoea, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.

PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C. H. St., Boston.

Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. [illegible]
MAKE HENS LAY
Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. [illegible]

GORDON DUBOSE,
Attorney at Law,
CENTREVILLE, ALA.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style.
Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10].

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mort[illegible] loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap [illegible] negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
mar5 ly Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager,

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 800 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented to students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

MILITARY INFALLIBILITY.

Strange Significance of the Sunset Gun.

A contemporary thinks that the recent order of the Secretary of War for discontinuing the firing of the sunrise and sunset guns at Governor's Island and other military stations is hard on the army, as it forces the men to consult the almanac to ascertain when the sun rises and sets.

This recalls a good story that is told of the late Colonel Robert N. Scott, who died recently, leaving unfinished his important work of editing the War Records. After the war he was stationed at some small fort in New York State over a garrison of less than twenty men, and there was very little work to be done other than performing the military ceremonies and keeping up the garrison farm and garden.

An amateur astronomer in the vicinity took considerable interest in timing the morning and evening guns, and became seriously disturbed when their irregularity caused his chronometer to appear to vary. He had too much respect for the military regulations, which said the gun should go off exactly with the sun, to doubt that error was at the fort. He made the calculations for that meridian and found his chronometer correct. But his respect for the government outweighed even his reliance on his figures so he sent his figures for verification to the Dudley Observatory at Albany.

On getting them back with the Observatory endorsement of their correctness he was startled and shocked, and saw no way but to lay the facts before the Commandant at the fort. Colonel Scott received him with affable dignity, and listened to his tale of perplexity. Having heard him through, the Colonel said:

"My dear sir, I think I can enlighten you on this matter. The man that fires that gun is the ordnance sergeant. He is also the orderly sergeant, Quartermaster sergeant, sergeant major and hospital steward, and he likewise milks my cow. Now, his orders are to fire that gun as soon as he has milked my cow, and while there may be some uncertainty about your timing the sunrise and sunset by the report of that gun, you may feel mighty tolerably sure that my cow has been milked!"

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

FRANCHINI, the great Italian singer, is dead.

The Emperor of Austria spends over $1,000,000 a year on the Vienna Opera House.

Next season Joseph Jefferson will make an extended tour in the South and Southwest.

THE custom of giving oratorio performances in English cathedrals is fast spreading.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll's eldest daughter is said to have the purest and best soprano voice in New York.

It is said that the famous Swedish tenor, Bjorksten, who has made such a success in Paris, is soon to come to this country.

MISS ANNIE PIXLEY is looking for a theatre in New York in which to start a comedy company, with herself as stock star.

MRS. JAMES BROWN POTTER is to appear in "Old Love Letters," at a performance in London in Baron Rothschild's palatial mansion.

Another young American violinist has been making a stir in Germany. This is Miss Campbell, who recently gave a concert at Gorbersdorf in Silesia.

At the next concert of the London Musical society, a cantata by Beethoven which has recently been discovered will be presented. It is said to be very beautiful.

"THE PYRAMID," Mr. Puerner's new comic opera, appears to have made a popular success at the Star Theatre, New York, where the audiences are large and enthusiastic.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

JOAQUIN MILLER is going to establish a literary colony at Fruit Valley, California.

GOVERNOR DAVIS of Rhode Island is enthusiastically interested in Sunday school work.

DR. H. T. PECK, professor of Latin and Greek in Columbia College, is barely thirty years of age.

THE widow of the late Henry Ward Beecher has taken up her residence with her daughter at Stamford, Conn.

COLONEL FRED GRANT, besides inheriting his father's appearance, has also his inordinate love of a good cigar.

MARY L. BARR, who is making a success of Scottish dialect stories, did not begin to compose until she was fifty-four.

SENATOR-ELECT PASCO from Florida served in the Confederate Army, and he has a brother who was in the Union Army.

LORD LANSDOWNE, the Governor-General of Canada, owns something like 95,000 acres in County Kerry, Ireland, alone.

JOHN D. LAUBERMANN, of Philadelphia, has given $1,000,000 for a German hospital to be under the charge of Lutheran deaconesses.

SECRETARY ENDICOTT has decided to do away with the practice of making military prisoners carry heavy logs for punishment.

M. CHEVREUL, the French centenarian chemist, has a remarkably keen sense of smell, which extreme age has not in the least impaired.

GENERAL VISCERENT TANNI, the Japanese Minister of Agriculture, who is now visiting in this country, keeps two secretaries busy recording his observations.

EDITOR O'BRIEN, the Irish Home Rule agitator, has a very peculiar delivery when speaking in public. He emits each word between his teeth as though biting it.

MRS. KATE CHASE SPRAGUE is growing wealthy by the advance in real estate values, having but recently been offered $150,000 for her Edgewood estate near Washington.

S. V. WHITE, member of Congress from Brooklyn, was once a wagon builder at Galesburg, Ill., at eight cents an hour. His board then cost him seventy-five cents a week. He is now a millionaire.

HARRIET HOSMER, the sculptor, whose chisel earned her fame and fortune, lost a lot of money in Keely motor stock, and Anna Dickinson sunk in her dramatic experience the fortune she made as a lecturer.

MRS. SARAH FISHER AMES, whose bust of Lincoln occupies the post of honor at the Capitol of Washington, is still a fine-looking woman, and in her day was called the most beautiful American girl ever seen abroad.

A Dakota Man's Scheme.

"That brindle dog of yours has killed three more of my chickens this morning," said the wife of a Dakota settler to her husband, "and if you don't shoot him I'm going to give him a dose of strychnine."

"Hold on now, Sary, hold on, I've got a plan."

"Oh, bother yer plan—you can't never break him of the trick, and the best thing you can do is to kill him."

"No 'taint, Sary, nowhere near the best we can do. Just wait till you hear my plan."

"Well, what is yer remark'ble plan?"

"Why, I'll tie him up now and sell him fer a bird dog to the first Chicago hunter that comes along. I'll get $50 fer that dog yet, if you'll just lemme be."—Dakota Bell.

A NEGRO cook at the Los Angeles, Cal., jail kept eighty-five prisoners at bay the other day and prevented their escape. Fifteen desperate characters overpowered the jailer and got away before the cook heard the disturbance. He faced the remainder with a carving knife, which he threatened to use with all his skill on the first convict that came within his reach.

MELTING TRADE DOLLARS.

TURNING THE REDEEMED COINS INTO SILVER BARS.

How They are Handled at the Sub-Treasury and Assay Office in New York—Thrown into a Furnace.

Two months ago there were nearly 7,000,000 trade dollars stored away in vaults and safe places all over the country by their luckless holders, worth only their bullion value in silver, and for the ordinary uses of money without either credit or circulation. Yet with the new law which requires them to be redeemed and remelted it looks as if the coin collectors would soon be offering premiums for the big, discredited pieces, so quickly are they disappearing into the crucibles of the Government Assay Office. Of course more than 7,000,000 trade dollars in all were coined—about five times that many according to the estimates of the Treasury Department. But the bulk of the pieces got across to China and the East Indies and never came back. The Chinese cut up a good many for small coins and what the other Asiatic traders had could not be reimported after the sudden stoppage of the circulation here.

The first day the law went into effect, early in March, and for a good many days after a limit had to be put on the number of silver pieces to be received. The clerks could not test and count more than 100,000 each day, and even then they had to stand knee-deep in the silver sometimes, pushing the big dollars off the receiving counters as fast as they could be weighed. Some days to accommodate people who had come long distances with heavy loads of silver more than 100,000 were taken in. For the last fortnight the daily return has sometimes fallen below 100,000. But the stream of these light-weight dollars, some battered and dirty, some greasy and stained, some as brand-new-looking as the day they were minted, will not run much thinner, probably, like other streams, before it goes quite dry.

At first the coins were merely shoveled into bags and stored away in the sub-treasury vaults. But the mass of silver soon grew unwieldy. The vaults were choked and the drawers and cases of the receiving-room were jammed each day to bursting. So, near the middle of March a first instalment of 100,000 was sent across the way to the assay office to be melted. And almost every day since, 100 bags, each with 1,000 pieces in it, have been turned into the Government crucibles. Here the metal melts down and purifies itself of its baser alloys in the old dollar form. And when it is at the bubbling point it is run into molds and solidifies again in brick-shaped silver bars, of standard fineness. Each 1,000 dollars makes a bar 1,200 ounces in weight. The bars themselves are afterward tested and stamped and then stored away in boxes in the big safety vaults. Many of them are sold to manufacturing jewelers at face value; others are kept as a sort of coin reserve, and still others are sent away to the mints to be turned back into legal-tender silver dollars or into smaller fractional currency.

The New York Assay Office could melt several hundred thousand dollars every day, if necessary. As it is, there is so much other work constantly on hand that scarcely $500,000 of the disused pieces are turned into bars a week. Three or four men have been detailed specially to work on the trade dollars. They first go over them again carefully, getting an even 1,000 in each box, and then turn the boxes out into the small crucibles. The little furnaces in the Wall street section of the Assay Office are used, and there is little to make one think of a big, glaring, dirty foundry, with its dusty smoke and pungent gases, in the light, clean, well-ventilated room where the boxes of coins—dull for the most part now—and piled neatly one on another, and the furnace, just a foot or two off, looks no more formidable with its covers on than an every-day cooking range. The molders lift the caps of the crucibles off now and then, and one can see the white metal bubbling and simmering within. Some of the topmost dollars are only half melted, the big, square winged eagle on the reverse or the image of Commerce on the obverse, showing in faint, wavering lines. The small crucibles full melt quickly, and as each reaches the proper fluid state it is turned over into the brick-shaped molds. Here the metal cools to a solid almost instantly and is shaken out in bars and blocks of various sizes. The trade dollars, of course, do not make the clear, whitish bars that one sees lying about melted down from the pure silver ore. Some of the bricks are dirty, almost leaden, in color at first; others look brighter and fresher. There is little difference, in fact, however. All the bars are up to the average legal fineness, 899 1-2 to 900 parts in 1,000.—New York Tribune.

A Treeless Forest.

Away down in Devonshire, in the southwestern part of England, there is a very interesting tract of land. It is known as Dartmoor Forest, and is so named in all old deeds and grants of land; yet, with the exception of a small grove of dwarf oaks, it is almost entirely without trees! This strange contradiction is said to be due to the fact of the greater part of Dartmoor having actually been a forest years ago, but it was so infested with fierce wild animals that the people were forced, in self-defence, to set fire to the trees, and so by degrees the forest was destroyed.

Certain it is that the soil of the moor is composed of rich, black vegetable matter, and that remains of tree trunks have been found under the ground. Moreover, the people of one district have for generations enjoyed the privilege of free pasturage, through a grant awarded their ancestors for services in destroying wolves in Dartmoor Forest. For the same reason they are allowed to gather the peat which abounds in the fens or marshy lands, and which makes excellent fuel. The atmosphere of the moore is nearly always moist and foggy. Indeed, the people who live there say that "The west wind always brings wet weather,

The east wind, wet and cold together;
The south wind surely brings us rain,
The north wind blows it back again."

So it seems the people of Dartmoor have very little dry weather, but in spite of this salt dampness (or perhaps because of it) the region is one of remarkable healthfulness, and the little barefoot children of the moor, who live in low huts made of sods, are as fat and rosy a set as can be found anywhere.—American Agriculturist.

Fifty years ago two-fifths of the public school teachers in Massachusetts were men; now about one-tenth are men. The average wages of men then were $25.44 per month, and of women $11.38; now men average $111.23, and women $43.07.

The total receipts of bananas at New York City during the year 1886 were 1,971,753 bunches, against 2,145,332 bunches in 1885.

A LITTLE FEATHERED DETECTIVE.

The Cute Tricks of the Honey Bird to Obtain Sweet Morsels.

We came to a large piece of timber, and while passing through it I had my first experience with the honey bird of South Africa, says a writer in the American Field. This curious little bird is, in size and plumage, about like an English sparrow, and gets his name from the fact that the little fellow, who is very fond of honey, being unable to obtain it for himself, will lead men to the places where the wild bees have hidden stores of rich wild honey.

Whenever this bird sees a man he will fly close to him, hovering around, uttering a twittering sound; then he will go off in the direction of the place (generally a tree) where the honey is, flying backward and forward in a zigzag fashion. Then back he will come, twittering in the same manner, as if to say, "Come along, I'll show you where it is." These actions are repeated until the tree is reached, when the bird will indicate it very plainly by flying to it and hovering around it.

If the distance is great (and sometimes the honey bird will lead a person who is willing to follow a distance of ten miles), he will wait on a tree until the follower comes up and will then continue his business of piloting. He is very persistent and will do his best to draw any one on, but if the party is not posted about honey birds and refuses to follow, or goes in the wrong direction, the bird will leave, probably in search of some person who will appreciate his efforts to provide him with sweetmeats.

While the bees are being smoked out and the honey taken up, the bird will hover in the vicinity until the job is done, when of course his reward comes in the shape of a feast on the fragments that are left. If he knows of other hives, just as soon as one is disposed of he will lead the way to another, and I have, since this time, known as many as four trees to be taken up by a party in one day.

When the honey bird has shown one tree, if the hunters are satisfied with that and refuse to follow him further, he leaves them; but I have never heard of an instance in which the bird misled any one in regard to finding honey. It frequently happens, however, that a honey bird will lead a person into very dangerous places, and unless the hunter keeps his eyes about him, when following this bird, he may run right on to a lion, venomous snake, or some other qeually undesirable acquaintance.

A Confederate's Recovery.

The instances where men have carried bullets in their brains and lived, are nearly as rare as the fabulous hen's teeth. Col. Henry Pickens, who was discharged, cured from Bellevue Hospital, N. Y., afforded a notable example. He was an officer in the Confederate army. His home is at Lexington, Ky. He was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg in 1863. Since that time he has carried a bullet constantly in his brain.

A MADRID scholar, Senor Carulla, who has been for many years at work on a rhymed version of the Bible, has just completed his text. The work contains 250,000 verses.

Disease and Death

Force their way into many a household, that might be protected from their inroads, by the simple protection of keeping in the house that benign family medicine and safeguard of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Particularly where there are children, should it be kept on hand, as a prompt remedy for infantile complaints, in their outset easily conquerable, but which, if allowed to engraft themselves on the delicate childish organism, are not easily dislodged, and speedily work grievous mischief. Irregularity of the bowels, indigestion and biliousness, are ailments of common occurrence in the household. Children, living in malarious regions, are more liable to be attacked with chills and fever than adults, and the ravages of that fell disease in their system are speedier and more serious. In remote localities, far from professional aid, it is especially desirable.

A spinster says old bachelors are frozen-out old gardeners in Love's flower-bed.

Is There a Cure for Consumption?

We answer unreservedly, yes! If the patient commences in time the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," and exercises proper care. If allowed to run its course too long all medicine is powerless to stay it. Dr. Pierce never deceives a patient by holding out a false hope for the sake of pecuniary gain. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured thousands of patients when nothing else seemed to avail. Your druggist has it. Send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption with numerous testimonials. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A fan valued at $800 was presented to the Queen of Italy by some ladies in Florence.

The city of Little Rock, Ark., offers every inducement to the manufacturer, merchant, mechanic and homeseeker. Population about 35,000, taxes low; good public schools, churches and society. Climate temperate all the year round. It is an enterprising city, has railroads from five directions, about a dozen contemplated lines, street railroads, gas, electric light, paid fire department, two daily papers, board of trade, etc. It is the capital of the State, the geographical centre, and the chief city in every respect. Land is cheap, both lots and suburban property being on the market. Information in regard to Little Rock or Arkansas, will be furnished on application to the Real Estate Exchange, Hon. Thomas Essex, or The Gazette, Little Rock, Ark.

Snug Little Fortunes

May be had by all who are sufficiently intelligent and enterprising to embrace the opportunities which occasionally are offered them. Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, have something new to offer in the line of work which you can do for them, and live at home, wherever you are located. Profits immense, and every worker is sure of over $5 a day; several have made over $50 in a single day. All ages; both sexes. Capital not required; you are started free; all particulars free. You had better write to them at once.

WHATEVER name or designation is given to Fever and Ague or other intermittent diseases, it is safe to say that Malaria or a disordered state of the liver is at fault. Eliminate the impurities from the system and a sure and prompt cure is the result. Prickly Ash Bitters is the safest and most effective remedy for all biliary troubles, kidney diseases, and like complaints, that has ever been brought before the public. A trial is its best recommendation.

The Strongest Man in Ohio

Is said to be George C. Arnold, of Cleveland, Ohio, who less than one year ago, owing to chronic liver trouble and Bright's disease of the kidneys, weighed less than ninety-five pounds, but by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic has gained in strength and weight, until now he is admitted to be the giant of Ohio.

Mother.

If the little darling is spending such sleepless nights slowly and pitifully wasting away by the drainage upon its system from the effect of teething, give Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial and a cure will result.

A Wonderful Machine and Offer.

To introduce them we give away 1,000 Self-operating Washing Machines. No labor or washboard. Best in the world. If you want one, write The National Co., 27 Dey St., N. Y.

S. H. Morse, a Boston sculptor, is making a bust of President Cleveland.

Dr. Pierce's "Pellets"—the original "Little Liver Pills" (sugar-coated)—cure sick and bilious headache, sour stomach, and bilious attacks. By druggists.

Thomas Jefferson brought the tomato from France, knowing it could be grown in America.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed, Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

MIKE HADN'T A WORD TO SAY.

How Spalding Nicely Turned the Tables on the Washington Manager.

Base ball is the most delightfully uncertain sport in the world, says a Washington correspondent, and I believe it is this uncertainty that constitutes nine-tenths of the charm that surrounds everything connected with the national game. My memory involuntarily runs back to a series of games between the pennant-wining Chicagoes and the tail ending Washingtons, played in this city last summer. The local team had not done anything to be proud of for some time when Anson's boys dropped down on the town. The White Stockings, after chasing leather until every man on the team was footsore, were forced to succumb to the powers of the local team and leave them in possession of the field, triumphant by a score of 7 to 0.

Mike Scanlon was so overcome by the unexpected result that he was moved to wire Spalding something like this:

"Send us a team that can play ball."

Mike's unwisdom in thus giving way to the feeling of rapture that filled his breast was amply demonstrated the next day.

The big fellows from the Windy city turned in and wiped up the whole of Capital Park with Mike's aggregation. About nine oclock that night the genial Scanlon received a terse message from the Chicago president:

"What do you want, the earth?"

The score of the day's game had been 20 to 0, and Mike hadn't a word to say.

Mr. Arthur Shurtleff, Parker, Dakota, writes: "St. Jacobs Oil will cure the thing not advertised. It cured a wart on my finger which I had for years." Price fifty cents.

The Pope's jubilee gifts will be rich and varied. The Sultan of Turkey has given him a ring valued at $50,000. The Empress of China will send him a valuable jewel. Queen Victoria will send a copy of the Latin Vulgate, richly bound.

A Baltimore Police Officer, 30 years on the force, Mr. Henry H. Durkee, says: "I suffered with poison oak for more than a year. I tried St. Jacobs Oil; after second application all the sores dried up and I was cured. I think it invaluable."

Key West, at the extreme southern point of Florida, has an area of less than 2,000 acres, yet its population is 18,000, and there are in successful operation there 132 cigar factories. The city is well supplied with gas, and has about 5 miles of street railway in operation.

Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" was made known to them. In all those derangements causing backache, dragging down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from "internal fever," congestion, inflammation, or ulceration. By druggists.

The Knights of Labor of Cincinnati, O., will hold no more Sunday meetings.

It Is Economy

To buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, for in it you get more real value for the money than in any other medicine. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 Doses and lasts a month, while others will average to last not over a week, and the superior curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are also well known. Hence for economy, purity, strength and health buy Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"All I ask of any one is to try one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and see its quick effect. It takes less time and quantity to draw its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house."—MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D.C.

Blair's Pills. Great Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

WANTED TEACHERS FOR SEPTEMBER session. Schools write for Teachers. Address Southern Teachers' Agency, Birmingham, Ala.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly Mich.

For Rickets, Marasmus, and Wasting Disorders of Children.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is unequaled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. Read the following: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing, and have been more than pleased with the results, as in every case the improvement was marked."—J. M. MAIN, M. D., New York.

The Connecticut Legislature did not pass the High License Bill. The Senate killed it.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c. a bottle.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

MARVELOUS

MEMORY

DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading. Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 400 University of Penn., 400 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

HERBRAND

FIFTH WHEEL!

King-bolt in rear of axle, prevents accidents from broken king-bolts, never rattles and leaves axle full strength. Before you buy a buggy send for free pamphlet describing this valuable improvement.

THE HERBRAND CO., Fremont, O.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

Milo B. Stevens & Co.

GLOVER BUILDING,

PENSIONS Washington, D. C.

$100 to $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

HIRES' Improved Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. ROOT BEER Sold by druggists, mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,

Specialists for Thirteen Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage.

Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds.,
250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY,
St. Louis, Mo.

WHETHER YOU WANT A PIANO OR ORGAN

It will pay you to write to

PHILLIPS & CREW,
ATLANTA, GA.,

For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

PILES! DR. WILLIAMS' Indian Pile Ointment will cure any case of Itching, Bleeding, Ulcerated or Protruding Piles. CURE GUARANTEED. Prepared for Piles only. (Physicians' jars by express, prepaid, $2.50.) Price per box, 50c. and $1. Sold by druggists or mailed on receipt of price by LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR, Agents, Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Books sent FREE. Address A. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 400, Atlanta, Ga.

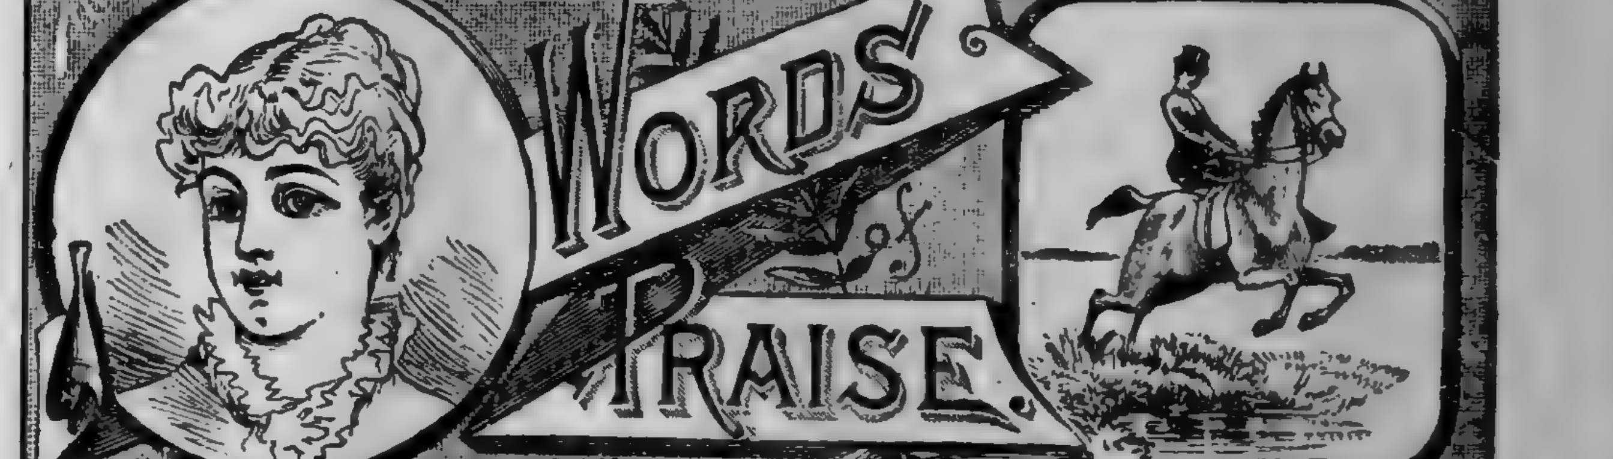
Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 38½ S. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 60 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

A. N. U. .... Twenty-three, '87



WORDS of PRAISE.

The following words, in praise of DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION as a remedy for those delicate diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women, must be of interest to every sufferer from such maladies. They are fair samples of the spontaneous expressions with which thousands give utterance to their sense of gratitude for the inestimable boon of health which has been restored to them by the use of this world-famed medicine.

$100 THROWN AWAY.

JOHN E. SEGAR, of Millenbeck, Va., writes: "My wife had been suffering for two or three years with female weakness, and had paid out one hundred dollars to physicians without relief. She took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did her more good than all the medicine given to her by the physicians during the three years they had been practicing upon her."

THE GREATEST EARTHLY BOON.

Mrs. GEORGE HERGER, of Westfield, N. Y., writes: "I was a great sufferer from leucorrhea, bearing-down pains, and pain continually across my back. Three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' restored me to perfect health. I treated with Dr. ——, for nine months, without receiving any benefit. The 'Favorite Prescription' is the greatest earthly boon to us poor suffering women."

THREW AWAY HER SUPPORTER.

Mrs. SOPHIA F. BOSWELL, White Cottage, O., writes: "I took eleven bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of your 'Pellets.' I am doing my work, and have been for some time. I have had to employ help for about sixteen years before I commenced taking your medicine. I have had to wear a supporter most of the time; this I have laid aside, and feel as well as I ever did."

IT WORKS WONDERS.

Mrs. MAY GLEASON, of Nunica, Ottawa Co., Mich., writes: "Your 'Favorite Prescription' has worked wonders in my case.

Again she writes: "Having taken several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I have regained my health wonderfully, to the astonishment of myself and friends. I can now be on my feet all day, attending to the duties of my household.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

3 PHYSICIANS FAILED.

Mrs. E. F. MORGAN, of No. 71 Lexington St., East Boston, Mass., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restored, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-envelope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have earnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the local treatment so fully and plainly laid down therein, and were much better already."

JEALOUS DOCTORS.

A Marvelous Cure.—Mrs. G. F. SPRAGUE, of Crystal, Mich., writes: "I was troubled with female weakness, leucorrhea and falling of the womb for seven years, so I had to keep my bed for a good part of the time. I doctored with an army of different physicians, and spent large sums of money, but received no lasting benefit. At last my husband persuaded me to try your medicines, which I was loath to do, because I was prejudiced against them, and the doctors said they would do me no good. I finally told my husband that if he would get me some of your medicines, I would try them against the advice of my physician. He got me six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' also six bottles of the 'Discovery,' for ten dollars. I took three bottles of 'Discovery' and four of 'Favorite Prescription,' and I have been a sound woman for four years. I then gave the balance of the medicine to my sister, who was troubled in the same way, and she cured herself in a short time. I have not had to take any medicine now for almost four years."

THE OUTGROWTH OF A VAST EXPERIENCE.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the uterus, or womb and its appendages, in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It promotes digestion and assimilation of food, cures nausea, weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating and eructations of gas.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, or "whites," excessive flowing at monthly periods, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

In pregnancy, "Favorite Prescription" is a "mother's cordial," relieving nausea, weakness of stomach and other distressing symptoms common to that condition. If its use is kept up in the latter months of gestation, it so prepares the system for delivery as to greatly lessen, and many times almost entirely do away with the sufferings of that trying ordeal.

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's large, illustrated Treatise (160 pages) on Diseases of Women.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 75	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	32 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.
"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."
TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1887. NUMBER 33.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

English farmers are resorting to the use of barbed wire fences to protect their premises from the depredations of hunters, who trample down the crops and destroy fences.

There are forty-seven vessels under construction at lake ports, which will cost $6,440,000. The extraordinary activity in preparing for the summer water traffic between the West and the seaboard is encouraged in part by the average profit of 25 per cent, earned last year by the lake carriers, but mainly, no doubt, by the expectation of large additional water traffic to be driven from the railroads by the operations of the interstate commerce law.

The heat of a fire is very liable to put a piano out of tune. This is not due to the expanding and contracting of the strings, as generally supposed, but to the variations produced in the sounding boards under the influence of the increased dryness of the air, especially in furnace-heated houses. Sounding boards are made of spruce, because of the superior resonance of the timber, but spruce, of all woods, is most effected by changes in temperature.

Cincinnati capitalists, looking for natural gas, not long ago bought an option on a farm in Findlay, Ohio, for $65,000 cash with the privilege of buying outright within six months for $150,000 more. Wells were put down and gas found, but before the option expired the farmer died. Then it was found that the farm was in his wife's name and that neither the wife nor children knew anything of the $65,000 that had been paid. The speculators could not get the place even for $150,000. It is supposed that the farmer buried the money paid him.

At the present time the death sentence is carried out by hanging or beheading in every European state except Spain. In Spain, condemned persons are executed by means of the garrote, a steel collar with a screw, which is turned until it enters the spinal marrow at the base of the brain. If the operation is skillfully performed death is instantaneous, but much agony has sometimes been caused to convicts by the bungling of the executioner. Hanging is the death punishment throughout the British Empire, except in the case of soldiers, who are shot. In France persons condemned to death have, since the revolution, been dispatched by the guillotine, and in most of the German States beheading is also favored. In Austria, however, hanging is the mode of execution.

During the past winter many cowboys out of work have taken to "wolfing"—that is, hunting wild animals. Range men furnish horses, rifles, ammunition, strychnine, and free board, and the Territory pays bounties. Mountain lions and bear fetch $3; gray wolves and timber wolves, $2; coyotes, $1; prairie dogs, 10 cents, ground squirrels, 5 cents each. In addition, the boys get ready sale for the pelts, as follows: Bears and lions, $6 to $10; wolves, $2.50; coyotes, $1 to $1.50; prairie dogs, 0 to 10 cents; squirrels, 10 cents. County Commissioners in Montana are authorized to appropriate $700 in each county, if urgently needed, to exterminate prairie pups and squirrels. In Arizona the bounty is: Lynx, $2; bob cat, $2; small wolf, $1; timber wolf, $2; coyote, $1; bear, $3; panther, puma, cougar, mountain lion, $15; jack rabbit, 5 cents.

In the office of one of the big clock concerns is the timepiece by which a native missionary in South Africa preached his sermons. It is a brass bowl with a little hole in the bottom. The bowl is placed in a gourd of water, and when it fills and sinks the preacher knows that an hour has elapsed, and if he is wise he concludes his sermon. It is alleged that a wag once plugged this timepiece, and the preacher, seeing it still above water talked on and on until his sermon dragged on its appalling length over three hours, which caused so much dissatisfaction among the congregation that the minister purchased a nickle-plated $2 watch and became the marvel and envy of all his townsmen.

A notable phase of railway industry is a railway tie nursery, situated near the little town of Farlington, Kansas, in the southern part of that State. It is said to be the largest artificial plantation of forest trees in North America, and is owned by the Southern Pacific. The different sections have been planted, respectively, two, four, and six years, one-fourth being planted with the ailanthus, the rest with the catalpa, together with a few of white ash. Those first planted are now about twenty-five in height, the last about twelve, and some of the taller are seven inches through the stem. There are in all about three million trees, in full vigor, on the plantation; all were planted four feet apart each way, to shade the ground, though eight feet is the ultimate intention, this plan allowing three-fourths of the trees to be cut out. When they are fit for fence posts. When rather larger it is expected the trees will make excellent railway ties in great numbers—that is, after a thinning-out process there will be some nine hundred thousand trees to come to maturity. The area of this vast railway tie nursery is to be still further increased.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "The Tempest."

The text was, Mark iv., 36-39, describing Christ stilling the tempest.

Tiberias, Galilee, Gennesaret—three names for the same lake. No other gem ever had so beautiful a setting. It lay in a scene of great luxuriance; the surrounding hills high, terraced, sloped, groved, so many hanging gardens of beauty the waters rumbling down between rocks of gray and red limestone, flashing from the hills and bounding into the sea. On the shore were castles, armed towers, Roman baths, everything attractive; all styles of vegetation in shorter space than in almost any other space in all the world, from the palm-tree of the tropics to the trees of rigorous climate.

It seemed as if the Lord had launched one wave of beauty on all the scene, and it hung and swung from rock and hill and oleander. Roman gentlemen in pleasure boats sailing the lake, and the countrymen in fish-smacks coming down to drop their nets pass each other with nod and shout and laughter, or swinging idly at their moorings. Oh, what a wonderful, what an enchanting lake!

It seems as if we shall have a quiet night. Not a leaf winked in the air; not a ripple wrinkled the face of Gennesaret; but there seems to be a little excitement up the beach, and we hasten to see what it is, and we find it an embarkation.

From the western shore a flotilla pushing out; not a squadron of deadly armament, nor a clipper with valuable merchandise, nor piratic vessels ready to destroy everything they could seize; but a flotilla, bearing messengers of life, and light, and peace. Christ is in the front boat. Many of His disciples are following in smaller boats. Jesus, weary with much speaking to large multitudes, is put into somnolence by the rocking of the waves. If there was any motion at all the ship was easily righted; if the wind passed from starboard to larboard, or from larboard to starboard, the boat would rock, and by the gentleness of the motion putting the Master asleep. And they extemporized a pillow made out of a fisherman's coat. I think no sooner is Christ prostrate, and His head touches the pillow, than He is sound asleep. The breezes of the lake run their fingers through the locks of the worn sleeper, and the boat rises and falls like a sleeping child on the bosom of a sleeping mother.

Calm night, starry night, beautiful night. Run up all the sails, ply all the oars, and let the large boat and the smaller boats glide over the gentle Gennesaret. But the sailors say there is going to be a change of weather. And even the passenger's can hear the moaning of the storm, as it comes on with great stride, and all the terrors of hurricane and darkness. The large boat trembles like a deer at bay among the clangor of the hounds; great patches of foam are flung into the air; the sails of the vessel loosen, and flapped by the wind crack like pistols; the smaller boats, like petrels, poise on the cliff of the waves and then plunge.

Overboard go cargo, tackling, and masts, and the drenched disciples, rush into the back part of the boat, and lay hold of Christ, and say unto him; "Master, carest Thou not that we perish?" That great personage lifts His head from the pillow of the fisherman's coat, walks to the front of the vessel, and looks out into the storm. All around Him are the smaller boats, driven in the tempest, and through it comes the cry of drowning men. By the flash of the lightning I see the calm brow of Christ as the spray dropped from his beard. He has one word for the sky and another for the waves. Looking upward He cries: "Peace!" Looking downward He says: "Be still."

The waves fall flat on their faces, the foam melts, the extinguished stars re-light their torches. The tempest falls dead, and Christ stand with His right foot on the neck of the storm. And while the sailors are bailing out the boats, and while they are trying to untangle the cordage, the disciples stand in amazement, now looking into the calm sea, then into the calm sky, then into the calm Saviour's countenance, and they cry out: "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

The subject in the first place impresses me with the fact that it is very important to have Christ in the ship; for all those boats would have gone to the botton of Gennesaret if Christ had not been present. Oh, what a lesson for you and for me to learn! We must always have Christ in the ship. Whatever voyage we undertake, into whatever enterprise we start, let us always have Christ in the ship. Many of you in these days of revived commerce are starting out in new financial enterprises. I bid you good cheer. Do all you can do. Do it on as high plane as possible. You have no right to be a stoker in the ship if you can be an admiral of the navy. You have no right to be a colonel of a regiment if you can command a brigade; you have no right to be engineer of a boat on the North River, or near the coast, if you can take the ocean steamer from New York to Liverpool. All you can do with utmost tension of body, mind, and soul, you are bound to do; but oh! have Christ in every enterprise, Christ in every voyage, Christ in every ship.

There are men here who asked God to help them at the start of great enterprises. He has been with them in the past; no trouble can overthrow them; the storms might come down from the top of Mount Hermon, and lash Gennesaret into foam and into agony, but it could not hurt them.

But here is another man who starts out in worldly enterprise, and he depends upon the uncertainties of this life. He has no God to help him. After awhile the storm comes and tosses off the masts of the ship; he puts out his lifeboat and the long-boat, the sheriff and the auctioneer try to help him off; they can't help him off; he must go down; no Christ in the ship. Here are young men just starting out in life. Your life will be made up of sunshine and shadow. There may be in it arctic blasts, or tropical tornadoes; I know not what is before you, but I know if you have Christ with you all shall be well.

You may seem to get along without the religion of Christ while everything goes smoothly, but after a while, when sorrow hovers over the soul, when the waves of trial dash clear over the hurricane deck, and the decks are crowded with piratical disasters; oh, what would you do then without Christ in the ship? Young man, take God for your portion, God for your guide, God for your help; then all is well; all is well for time; all shall be well forever. Blessed is that man who puts in the Lord his trust. He shall never be confounded.

But my subject also impresses me with the fact that when people start to follow Christ they must not expect smooth sailing.

These disciples got into the small boats, and I have no doubt they said: "What a beautiful day this is! What a smooth sea! What a bright sky this is! How delightful is sailing this boat! and as for the waves under the keel of the boat, why they only make the motion of our little boat the more delightful." But when the winds swept down, and the sea was tossed into wrath, then they found that following Christ was not smooth sailing. So you have found it; so I have found it. Did you ever notice the end of the life of the apostles of Jesus Christ? You would say if ever men ought to have had a smooth life, a smooth departure, then those men, the disciples of Jesus Christ, ought to have had such a departure and such a life.

St. James lost his head. St. Philip was hung on a pillar. St. Matthew had his life dashed out with a halbert. St. Mark was dragged to death through the streets. St. James the Less was beaten to death with a fuller's club. St. Thomas was struck through with a spear. They did not find following Christ smooth sailing. Oh, how they were all tossed in the tempest! John Huss in the fire, Hugh McKail in the hour of martyrdom, the Albigenses, the Waldenses, the Scotch Covenanters—did they find it smooth sailing?

But why go to history when I can come into this audience to-day and find a score of illustrations of the truth of this subject. That young man in the store trying to serve God, while his employer scoffs at Christianity, the young men in the same store, antagonistic to the Christian religion, teasing him, tormenting him about his religion, trying to get him mad. They succeed in getting him mad, saying: "You're a pretty Christian." Does this young man find it smooth sailing when he tries to follow Christ? Here is a Christian girl. Her father despises the Christian religion; her mother despises the Christian religion; her brothers and sisters scoff at the Christian religion; she can hardly find a quiet place in which to say her prayers. Did she find it smooth sailing when she tried to follow Jesus Christ? Oh, no! all who would live the life of the Christian religion must suffer persecution; if you do not find it in one way, you will get it in another way.

The question was asked: "Who are those nearest the throne?" and the answer came back: "These are they who come up out of great tribulation;—great flailing, as the original has it; great flailing, great pounding—"and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb." Oh, do not be disheartened! Oh, child of God! take courage! You are in glorious companionship. God will see you through all these trials, and He will deliver you.

My subject also impresses me with the fact that good people sometimes get very much frightened.

In the tone of the voice of these disciples as they rushed into the back part of the boat, I find they are frightened almost to death. They say: "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" They had no reason to be frightened, for Christ was in the boat. I suppose if we had been there we would have been just as affrightened. Perhaps more.

In all ages very good people get very much affrightened. It is often so in our day, and men say: Why, look at the bad lectures; look at the Spiritualistic societies; look at the various errors going over the Church of God; we are going to founder; the Church is going to perish; she is going down." Oh, how many good people are affrightened by the iniquity in our day, and think the Church of Jesus Christ is going to be overthrown, and just as much affrightened as were the disciples of my text. Don't worry, don't fret, as though iniquity were going to triumph over righteousness.

A lion goes into a cavern to sleep. He lies down, with his shaggy mane covering the paws. Meanwhile the spiders spin a web across the mouth of the cavern, and say: "We have captured him." Gossamer thread after gossamer thread is spun until the whole front of the cavern is covered with the spiders' web, and the spiders say: "The lion is done; the lion is fast." After awhile the lion has got through sleeping; he rouses himself, he shakes his mane, he walks out into the sunlight; he does not even know the spiders' web is spun, and with his voice he shakes the mountain.

So men come spinning their sophistries and skepticism about Jesus Christ; He seems to be sleeping. They say: "We have captured the Lord; He will never come forth again upon the nation; Christ is captured forever. His religion will never make any conquest among men." But after a while the Lion of the Tribe of Judah will rouse Himself and come forth to shake mightily the nations. What is the spider's web to the aroused lion? Give truth and error a fair grapple, and truth will come off victor.

But there are a great many good people who get affrightened in other respects; they are affrightened in our day about revivals. They say: "Oh! this is a strong religious gale, we are afraid the Church of God is going to be upset, and there are going to be a great many people brought into the church that are going to be of no use to it;" and they are affrightened whenever they see a revival taking hold of the churches.

As though a ship captain with five thousand bushels of wheat for a cargo should say, some day, coming upon deck: "Throw overboard all cargo;" and the sailors should say: "Why, captain, what do you mean! Throw over all the cargo?" "Oh," says the captain, "we have a peck of chaff that has got into this five thousand bushels of wheat, and the only way to get rid of the chaff is to throw all the wheat overboard." Now, that is a great deal wiser than the talk of a great many Christians who want to throw overboard all the thousands and tens of thousands of souls who are the subjects of revivals. Throw all overboard because they are brought into the kingdom of God through great revivals, because there is a peck of chaff, a pint of chaff! I say, let them stay until the Last Day; the Lord will divide the chaff from the wheat.

Do not be afraid of a great revival.

Oh, that these gales from heaven might sweep through all our churches! Oh, for such days as Richard Baxter saw in Kidderminster and Robert McCheyne saw in Dundee! Oh, for such days as Jonathan Edwards saw in Northampton! I have often heard my father tell of the fact that in the early part of this century a revival broke out at Somerville, N. J., and some people were very much agitated about it. They said: "Oh, you are going to bring too many people into the church at once;" and they sent down to New Brunswick to get John Livingston to stop the revival.

Well, there was no better soul in all the world than John Livingston. He went and looked at the revival; they wanted him to stop it. He stood in the pulpit on the Sabbath, and looked over the solemn auditory, and he said: "This, brethren, is in reality the work of God; beware how you try to stop it." And he was an old man, leaning heavily on his staff—a very old man. And he lifted that staff, and took hold of the end of that staff, and began to let it fall very slowly through, between the finger and the thumb, and he said: "Oh, thou impenitent, thou art falling now—falling away from life, falling away from peace and heaven, falling as certainly as that cane is falling through my hand—falling certainly, though perhaps falling slowly." And the cane kept on falling through John Livingston's hand. The religious emotion in the audience was overpowering, and men saw a type of their doom, as the cane kept falling and falling, until the knob of the cane struck Mr. Livingston's hand, and he clasped it stoutly and said: "But the grace of God can stop you, as I stopped that cane;" and then there was gladness all through the house at the fact of pardon and peace and salvation. "Well," said the people after the service, "I guess you had better send Livingston home; he is making the revival worse." Oh, for the gales from heaven, and Christ on board the ship! The danger of the Church of God is not in revivals.

Again my subject impresses me with the fact that Jesus was God and man in the same being. Here He is in the back part of the boat. Oh, how tired He looks; what sad dreams he must have! Look at his countenance; He must be thinking of the cross to come. Look at Him. He is a man—bone of our bone, flesh of our flesh. Tired, He falls asleep; He is a man. But then I find Christ at the prow of the boat; I hear him say: "Peace, be still;" and I see the storm kneeling at His feet, and the tempests folding their wings in His presence; He is a God.

If I have sorrow and trouble, and want sympathy, I go and kneel down at the back part of the boat, and say: "O, Christ! weary one of Gennesaret, sympathize with all my sorrows, man of Nazareth, man of the cross." A man, a man. But if I want to conquer my spiritual foes, if I want to get the victory over sin, death and hell, I come to the front of the boat and I kneel down, and I say: "O, Lord Jesus Christ, Thou who dost hush the tempest, hush all my grief, hush all my temptation, hush all my sin." A man, a man; a God, a God.

I learn once more from this subject that Christ can hush a tempest.

It did seem as if everything must go to ruin. The disciples had given up the idea of managing the ship; the crew were entirely demoralized; yet Christ rises, and He puts His foot on the storm, and it crouches at His feet. Oh, yes! Christ can hush the tempest.

You have had trouble. Perhaps it was the little child taken away from you—the sweetest child of the household, the one who asked the most curious questions, and stood around you with the greatest fondness, and the spade cut down through your bleeding heart. Perhaps it was an only son, and your heart has ever since been like the deserted castle, the owls of the night hooting among the falling arches and the crumbling stairways.

Perhaps it was an aged mother. You always went to her with your troubles. She was in your home to welcome your children into life, and when they died she was there to pity you; that old hand will do you no more kindness; that white lock of hair you put away in the locket didn't look as it usually did when she brushed it away from her wrinkled brow in the home circle or in the country church. Or your property gone, you said: "I have so much bank stock, I have so many Government securities, I have so many houses, I have so many farms"—all gone, all gone.

Why, sir, all the storms that ever trampled their thunders, all the shipwrecks have not been worse than this to you. Yet you have not been completely overthrown. Why? Christ hushed the tempest. Your little one was taken away. Christ says: "I have that little one in my keeping. I can care for him as well as you can, better than you can, O bereaved mother!" Hushing the tempest. When your property went away God said: "There are treasures in heaven, in banks that never break." Jesus hushing the tempest.

There is one storm into which we will all have to run. The moment when we let go of this life, and try to take hold of the next, we will want all the grace possible. Yonder I see a Christian soul rocking on the surges of death; all the powers of darkness seem to let out against the soul—the swirling wave, the thunder of the sky, the shriek of the wind, all seem to unite together; but that soul is not troubled; there is no sighing, there are no tears; plenty of tears in the room at the departure, but he weeps no tears; calm, satisfied, peaceful; all is well. By the flash of the storm you see the harbor just ahead, and you are making for that harbor. All shall be well, Jesus hushing the tempest.

"Into the harbor of heaven now we glide;
We're home at last, home at last.
Softly we drift on its bright, silv'ry tide,
We're home at last.

Glory to God! all our dangers are o'er,
We stand secure on the glorified shore;
Glory to God! we will shout evermore,
We're home at last."

ONLY FOR THE RICH.

What it Costs to Own and Run a Steam Yacht.

In a recently published paper on "American Steam Yachting," E. S. Jaffray, the owner of the steam yacht Stranger, gives in detail the cost of running the various classes of steam pressure boats. He estimates that a steam launch from forty to fifty feet long, can be run for a season of five months for about $2,500. The crew on such a craft would consist of a pilot, an engineer and a deck hand, the first two receiving $60 a month each and the last $30. The annual overhauling and the clothes for the men would cost $750, the provisions $75 a month, coal $75, and repairs and sundries $50. With strict economy steam vessels from seventy-five to 160 feet in length can be run for a season for from $7,500 to $12,000; while the larger boats will cost from the larger sum named up to $20,000. A deduction of the cost of fuel from these figures brings one approximately near the expense of the wind-driven boats for a season, always bearing in mind however, that nothing is allowed for the entertainment of guests.

James Gordon Bennett probably devotes a greater sum to yachting than any other American. His steamer, the Namouna, is in commission twelve months in the year, and hardly a week passes when her cabin is not the scene of some lavish entertainment. The payroll of the crew of fifty men is said to be $2,500 a month, and it costs at least $1,500 a month to feed them.

The Atlanta is used by Jay Gould daily during the season to transport him from his country place at Irvington to New-York and return. He seldom uses her for cruising, and more seldom has guests aboard, and yet she makes a $6,000 hole in his income every month.

What the Alva, which already represents a half million of W. K. Vanderbilt's money, will cost to keep afloat is still a mystery, but it is not likely to be less than $10,000 a month, since Mr. Vanderbilt has already planned several extensive cruises in her for large parties of his friends.

The Nourmahal was less frequently used last season than any of the big steamers of the fleet; yet it is said that a check for $40,000 with so good a name as William Astor, her owner, at the bottom of it would not defray the expenses incurred on her account. Mr. Astor seldom appears at regattas or races, and is not what would be called an enthusiastic yachtman. He is a member of the New York Club, but seldom, if ever goes to the club-house.

A Way They Have in Mexico.

A Mexican custom which is extremely pleasant and convenient to us women folk is their way of leading a lady up and down stairs, and American men would do not only a courteous but a humane thing in imitating them in this respect, writes a Mexican correspondent. In descending stairs the Mexican goes a step before his companion, and, taking her hand, holds it up in such a way that any misstep or failure on her part would be sustained by him. I think the most courtly illustration of gallant attention I ever saw was the way in which General Ramon Corona led his American wife down the broad stairway of the house my family occupied in Durango when I was a child. I then and there resolved that when it came my time to select a husband I would subject him to that test of grace. In ascending, the lady takes her escort's arm and is thus assisted by him. I have often had an utter stranger, seeing me about to mount the stairs alone, step forward and offer his arm. Accept it? Certainly. Why should one be brutal enough to reject a courtesy tendered in all good faith and kindliness? Arrived at the top the man would tap at the door I was to enter, reply to my thanks that he was happy to have been of even such trifling service, and with "I am at your feet, senorita," bow himself away. If I ever saw him again I might bow or not, as I saw fit. For decent civility's sake I usually do recognize such parties, and in spite of the reputation Mexican men have for obtrusive gallantries I never found them presume at all on my salutations.

A Mistake That She Remembered.

Boston Young Lady—"I want to look at a pair of eyeglasses, sir, of extra magnifying power."

Dealer—"Yes, ma'am; something very strong?"

Boston Young Lady—"Yes, sir. While visiting in the country last summer I made a very painful blunder, which I never want to repeat."

Dealer—"May I ask what that—er—blunder was?"

Boston Young Lady—"Oh, yes; I mistook a bumblebee for a blackberry."

BANG AWAY.

First, be sure you're in the right,
In whate'er you wish to do,
Even though you have to fight
All the world to push it throug
Then bang away.

Let no feeling of dismay
Overpower your single aim,
Lest the world may truly say
To success you have no claim;
So bang away.

Fate disdains a coward heart,
So do you, I dare to say;
Let that never be your part;
Whether work or whether play;
Bang away.

—John D. Hemstreet, in Chicago Herald.

THE MERMAN.

Last summer I passed some weeks in Malangen, Norway, laid up with a sprained ankle. One evening my farmer host, Bernt Olaffsen, told me the following story. I believed it; so would you if you had heard him tell it.

I was left an orphan when about eight years old, and went to live with my cousin Karen, who had been a servant in the family of the minister at Alstadt, but who then lived at Kralholm, in Welgeland, having some months before married Elias, a fisherman of that place. Kralholm, for some reason, has ever been the haunt of ghosts, mermen and all wicked spirits of the sea. It took Karen and me a long to become accustomed to the strange sights and sounds of the lonely beach where her cottage stood.

Her husband, a cheery, hearty man, laughed at our fears, assuring us that the sea spirits had no power over those who led godly lives and who avoided all dealings with them; so when six years had passed away, bringing with them children and all other blessings, Karen's fears had long since been forgotten. Then suddenly Elias seemed to change. He became gloomy and silent. He was, as ever, kind and good, but his jokes and laughter were no longer heard. This was very strange, and, stranger still, he suddenly stopped all talk about the new ten-oared boat he had meant to buy, to take the place of of the old "six-oar," almost worn out with long service. That new "ten-oar" had been the theme of many a fireside talk, for it was to be the finest on Kralholm beach, but now for two years we heard nothing about it. Karen was, of course, very anxious, and at last I, having grown to be a stout lad of sixteen ventured to question him plainly, Karen joined me, and at last he spoke out.

One day, two years before, he was walking on an unfrequented part of the beach, armed with his fish spear, and came suddenly upon a huge seal, lying asleep upon a rock. It was the largest he had ever seen, but, strange to say, he felt afraid of it, and wished to run away. I say strange, for no one ever fears a seal, and the larger it is the better the prize.

Elias mustered up his courage, crept close to the sleeping monster, and drove the spear deep into its back. With a frightful yell of rage and pain, such as no true seal ever uttered, the brute raised itself, wrenching the staff out of the fisherman's hands. It stood erect, seeming to grow as tall as a boat's mast. Screaming and gnashing its teeth, it glared at Elias with fierce, bloodshot eyes, while he, half-dead with fear, could not murmur a prayer. With one final bellow it plunged into the sea, carrying with it the harpoon, and discoloring the water with blood. Elias did not speak of this incident to any one. He was, in truth, ashamed. He had been frightened by a seal; had missed his blow, and lost not only his prize, but his harpoon as well. He would be laughed at. Afterward he found floating the staff of his spear, the iron having been broken off.

One night, shortly after this, he heard a great noise in the boat house. He immediately rose and went to see if any mischief were on foot. It was midnight, stormy and very dark. Entering the boat house he heard no sound, and at first could see nothing. Suddenly the light of his lantern fell upon a huge black mass, from which rose grinning and snarling the fierce head of a monster seal. He remembered it well, and while he stood, terror-stricken, the head grew human, the seal disappeared, and in its place was a large man, entirely naked, who rushed past Elias, striking the lantern from his hand, but not so quickly that the poor fellow could not see sticking fast between his shoulders the spear of his lost harpoon. He realized then what he had done, what vengeance he had provoked, with whom he had dealt and had still to deal. Karen found him lying in a swoon, the broken lantern by his side. He told her nothing, and from that day was silent and gloomy, for he knew that he had incurred the deadly hate of a merman, than which no greater evil can befall a seafaring man.

But he kept on with his fishing, and one dark morning, as he was sailing out, he heard a deep voice that seemed to call from the sea itself:

Your boat sails well, for the wind is free;
Wait till you've sailed a race with me!
When the sky is black and the dead afloat,
I'll show you the match of your ten-oared boat.

His men thought it was some neighbor wishing to play them a track. Elias knew what it was.

From that day he lived in terror. He gave up all idea of buying a ten-oared boat, partly because he did not think it worth while for the short time he believed he had to live, partly because the merman's words seemed to warn him against sailing in such a craft.

We said all we could to cheer him, at first with little effect; but as months and seasons passed and nothing evil happened his gloom wore away, he became his old self, and again all his talk was of a new ten-oared boat.

Spring came and a day was fixed when we were to sail around to Ranen, sell the old boat for what it would fetch and buy the new one. Great were the preparations, for we intended to make a pleasure party of it, and take Karen and all the children. My wife insisted that she should stay at home so that the industrious house mother should have at least one day's diversion—that is, she was not my wife then; she was an orphan, like me, who had been adopted by the kind fisherman. Oh, if Elsa had only gone with us we would have come back safe and happy, for Elsa is a Finn, and the Finns know all sea magic and can bring to nought all the enchantments of the mermen. But it was fated.

The day fixed for our trip was perfect. The sky was bright and clear; a light breeze, fair for Ranen, just ruffled the sea. We were a merry party; we sailed away laughing and singing, while Elsa waved us good luck from the shore.

We soon reached Ranen, and while Karen and the children went to the house of a friend, Elias and I sought the boat-builder.

We managed to sell our old boat, though we got but little for it. Then began a long and careful examination of ten-oared boats. We were hard to please, but at last found one that seemed to be just what we wanted. Her model below the water-line was so perfect, so superior to any that we had ever seen, that we determined to buy her, although she seemed overmasted and rather clumsily rigged.

The boatbuilder acknowledged this himself, saying that he had finished her hurriedly, being overrun with work. "But," said he, "you will find that there is no boat in these waters that can sail with her. She is a perfect model. Look at her lines. The faults you mention are, after all, but trifles. You can alter her rigging to suit yourselves when you get her to Kralholm; besides, I am a just man, and will allow you something off the price, so that you will really have a bargain."

So, after some haggling, a price was agreed upon, which Elias paid down, and the boat was his. The boatbuilder, however, made us promise faithfully not to alter her in the least particular, not even to touch her with a tar brush, until we were at Kralholm. "For," said he, "I have boasted greatly of this boat, and I do not wish to be shamed before the whole town by having you begin to alter her rig the moment you own her."

We gave the promise readily, and the builder talked so much while she was being launched that neither of us noticed that no cross was tarred on her stern.

My wife will have it that the boatbuilder was in league with the merman, who had doubtless taught him how to build so well below the water line that he might lure us into sailing thus unprotected by the holy sign, which all fiends fear, and which would have saved us from his vengeance. She may be right; such things have been, and that man I have heard ended miserably.

Early in the afternoon we all sailed for home. We had about eight miles to go, and soon found that the sea-going qualities of our new purchase were likely to be thoroughly tested. It blew very hard and the waves ran high. She behaved splendidly, skimming over the billows like a water-fowl, shipping scarcely a spray. We were delighted with her.

Suddenly Karen gave a cry of alarm, and pointed over the stern. We looked and saw a great black cloud, which seemed to cover the whole horizon, rolling down upon us with a streak of boiling white foam before it. I sprang to reef the sail, and in an instant the squall was upon us. At once all was dark as night. We could not see each others' faces. The wind howled, and as the boat bent to it, rushing on her course, it seemed that she must capsize. The children screamed with fright. Then at a short distance to windward the blackness opened, as if a curtain had been drawn up, and in a broad space of living greenish light we saw another ten-oared boat. She stood out black and distinct against the half-circle of light which seemed to travel with her. She was an exact copy of our own boat; she was sailing the same course, but, while we heeled terribly to the wind and plunged madly to the raging sea, she with full sail set, glided along on an even keel, as steady as though the sea were a mill-pond. The wind and sea seemed to have no effect on her.

I could but see one aboard her, a dark figure at the helm. She frightened me. But I could not think of her long, for the wind was now a hurricane, and every wave dashed over her bows, half filling the boat with water. I heard Elias shout: "Look out! Hold fast, all of you!" and saw an enormous wave, as high as our mast it seemed, toppling over us. Tons of water dashed down upon us, and I thought we were sinking; but our boat quickly righted and seemed to shake the water from her. I looked first for Elias. I could just make out his figure at the helm. Then I heard a half-stifled shriek. "O, Elias, husband! Martha and Nils! Save them!" It was Karen's voice. The two little ones were gone. I heard Elias groan. We could do nothing. Then I looked for the other boat. The greenish light was brighter, the strange craft more distinct. Two had been added to her crew. They stood motionless by her mast; their faces were the faces of the dead, the faces of the drowned children. It was a fearful sight, but before we could speak a word another mountain of water was hurled upon us, and when it had passed Karen was gone, and Anton's life line dangled loose and empty. I could hear Elias praying, while the four older boys clung half drowned to the mast and neither moved nor spoke.

We heard a loud laugh, and a deep voice called: "Ha! ha! Elias, I will have a full crew soon." There was the strange boat scarce fifty feet from us. In her were Karen and Anton, Nils and Martha, dead and white, and there, huge, naked and terrible, stood the steersman, with sea-green hair and beard blowing wildly about his frightful head.

With a menacing gesture he pointed to the spike of a fish spear sticking between his shoulders. I nearly fainted. Elias ceased praying. By the ghastly light now so near us I could see his face. It was that of a wild beast at bay, despairing but ferocious.

Drawing his long knife, he muttered: "I know you, I know you! If a spear can pierce your back, this may reach your heart."

"Elias!" I shrieked, "that was on land. What would you do?"

"End this, one way or other," he shouted. "To the sheet, fool!" and he put up the helm. I trimmed the sail close, as by instinct, and we flew to run down our pursuer. I was now desperate, too, and grasping the boathook, stood ready to strike.

Just as we seemed aboard of the merman another wave swept over us; I felt our boat sink from under me. Even through the rush of the water I heard wild shrieks and shouts of fiendish laughter, and knew no more until I found myself clinging with a death grip to the unsubmerged rail of our wrecked boat, whose heavy mast and spread sail alone prevented her from capsizing completely.

The black cloud was gone, the merman was gone, the four boys were gone, but I saw Elias caught between the boom and the toppenlift. It was snowing; the wind and the sea were as fierce as ever, but it was no longer so dark. I managed to reach Elias and drag him up beside me, holding him with one arm, while with the other I clung to the rail, resting my feet on the combing of the hatch. I thought him dead, but soon he moved and sighed.

"Courage," I said; "the merman is gone. You will live."

"No, Bernt," he answered, weakly. "God is too good to let the fiend carry his revenge so far as that: I am dying; you will be saved. You are not of my blood. I shall soon be with Karen and the children."

He was silent for awhile. Then he whispered, brokenly: "Bernt, remember—all four you and Elsa—all."

I held him as strongly as I could. Suddenly a look of joy lit up his white face. Stretching out his arms, he cried: "Yes, Karen, I am coming." He wrenched himself free from my weakened hold, and fell backward into the sea.

I suppose I fainted then, for when I was again conscious, two days after, I was in my bed at Kralholm, with Elsa bending over me. She had found me on that fatal evening, lying drowned, as she then thought, on the beach, whither she had gone to meet us all. As the weather had been perfect all day, every one supposed that Elias and his family had for some reason remained over at Ranen, and that I, returning alone in some small boat in order to be with Elsa—for our courtship was secret—had through some accident, fallen overboard.

When I told the dreadful truth they did not believe me. When on inquiry they learned that we had sailed from Ranen, as I had said, when nothing more was heard of Elias, when the wreck of the new ten oared boast was cast ashore on the rocks of Landspoint Island and all could see that she had no cross tarred upon her stern, they were convinced, and proper funeral services were held for the drowned.

Elsa and I were married. Elias's savings made us rich. We bought this farm, and neither of us has ever been in a boat since, nor ever will be.—From "Mrs. Hephaestus."

Beautiful Work in Ivory.

With improved methods of carving came a more general demand for small ivory figures which could be used as ornaments, and as a result the subjects became more varied and less conventional. We now have beautiful toilet articles with carvings of flowers and arabesque caskets of ivory worthy to inclose gems; little statues of genre designs: birds and grayhounds and miniature figures of humanity. Striking groups and scenes from life are carved out of the white substance, and the whole inlaid with differently colored ivory, which gives the picture a realistic and beautiful appearance.

The more delicate of the carvings have to be executed by a trained hand and an artistic eye. Many women are employed in this work, especially in the ivory manufactories of Europe, where they are paid good wages for their labor. The rougher work, such as making billiard balls, rings for harness and ivory handles, is done entirely by machinery, but since the demand for fine household ornaments has grown so steadily, a large number of gifted women have been given employment in the manufactories to do the fine polishing and designing. The ivory used is taken, not only from Africa and Asia and the fossil mammoth of Siberia, but also from the horns of the hippopotamus, the tusks of the walrus and the sword of the narwhale.

The grain of the several kinds differs very materially, and in proportion to the delicateness of the lines is the price paid for it. The elephant tusk represents the finest specimens of ivory. When the tusks are brought into the workshop they are cut into shapes necessary for carving by machinery. The objects are designed beforehand and a suitable piece is cut out from the sheet at one turn of the wheel. These pieces are then taken by the artists, who design and polish them until fashioned ready for the store. The carvers sit at long desks facing windows of light, and they use salt and water beneath the touch of their fine tools. The polishing is accomplished upon wheels or "buffs" covered with Canton flannel, and there are vats of colored liquid for staining tints. When the carving is finished it represents exquisite work.—Mail and Express.

The Army of Hayti.

The Haytian army must present to European beholders a spectacle of grotesqueness, the equal of which it would be difficult to find anywhere either in fact or fiction. Imagine a battalion on parade consisting of thirteen privates, ten officers, and six drummers! The rest of the men—as the author quaintly puts it—thinking it unnecessary to present themselves except on pay day. The staff officers are clad in the most gorgeous uniforms procurable; while the men are habited in a motley array of tatters. Some have coats wanting one arm, the collar or the tail; the headgear may consist of a dilapidated shako, a straw hat, wide-awake, or in many instances merely a handkerchief tied around the head. The officers hold their swords in either hand as suits them; and the men march past in admirable confusion, each one carrying his musket in the position he finds most convenient. The populace look on with admiring looks, and gravely ask if finer troops can anywhere be found. The Haytian, however, thoroughly detests military service, and consequently the sentries, lest they should be over-fatigued, are considerately provided with chairs.—Chambers's Journal.

Turkish Coin Bracelets.

The handsome bracelets and necklaces which Turkish ladies wear, composed of ancient coins of gold, form one of the richest and most characteristic ornaments. As these coins are scarce, and as the taste for this style of ornament is ever increasing, certain adventurers have had coins made in Europe of baser metal, which, in Turkey, they sell as genuine. In Anatolia and elsewhere they have driven a prosperous trade in this way. But the government has now prohibited the sale of these sham coins and ordered the seizure of such as may be now offered for purchase.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 23, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Alabama's State motto is: "Here we rest." The South has got past that stage now. Alabama ought to let Philadelphia have her motto.—Burlington Free Press.

To the Montgomery Advertiser and the Birmingham Age: Neither of you can do much to affect the tariff; let the Democratic party live a little longer in the State.—Tuskegee Gazette.

Six widows live on six adjoining farms in the town of Venango, Pa., and, what is more remarkable, they are all Hendersons, being the widows of the last Hendersons, brothers, Thomas, Samuel, Andrew, Stewart, William and Alexander.

The novelty of reading of Alabama public officials' embezzlements has about passed away, and the report of a new discovery has less interest in it than a well written account of a dog-fight on the corner.—Tuskegee Gazette.

The Chattanooga Evening Herald says a few days ago a lessee of the Tennessee convicts said that there are 535 convicts at Nashville, and on a vote on the prohibition question recently only one of them voted for whiskey. Nine-tenths of them no doubt are there from having drunk the stuff.

The Age is in receipt of a letter from the great western humorist, Bill Nye, who is now on the editorial staff of the New York World, acknowledging an invitation to the meeting of the Alabama Press Association. Owing to the unrapid transit of the Birmingham mail, Mr. Nye did not get his invitation until June 2. and thus the United States mails have deprived us the pleasure of a visit from this great celebrity. But anyhow, Mr. Nye writes "I thank you all the same, and prophecy for your city continued prosperity. Birmingham is more talked of, and more favorably talked of, than the president of the United States."—Age.

A traveller in Kansas, while crossing a prairie, came upon a party of friends who seemed to be preparing the land for agricultural purposes. My friend, said the traveller, addressing one of the men, you are laying off your corn rows quite a distance apart. Corn rows? the man gasped. Yes, those rows over there. My stars stranger! exclaimed the Kansas man; Is it possible you ain't hear'n of it. Heard of what? Of the boom; man alive, them ain't corn rows, over thar; they ar' streets, and this hear is a city. You a'r now on the corner of Commercial and Euporium streets, and not in the checks of a row as you mout suppose.—Arkansaw Traveller.

What A Veteran in the Ranks Thinks and Does.

The veteran editor, Hon. Alexander Snodgrass, of the Scottsboro Herald, announces in the last issue of that paper that he has for the present determined to suspend its publication. He assigns as a reason that there should be but one Democratic paper in Jackson county, and as the efforts to consolidate the two have failed, he withdraws and leaves the field to one with the hope that it will result in good to the party and the State. Col. Snodgrass has fought the good fight in Jackson, and the Advertiser extends to him its cordial good wishes.—Mont. Adv.

Jackson county with a population of more than 25,000 cannot sustain two Democratic papers, simply because this is an era of business not of politics. That is the lesson in the action of Col. Snodgrass. Col. S. is a veteran of the old regime when the glory of the South was in politics and politicians. The times have changed. Even the Montgomery Advertiser, which a few years back was very little more than a party organ, caught the signs of the times and is now a pretty fair newspaper for Montgomery. In this era of business push and development the average citizen does not care so much who fills the offices, if they be filled by good respectable men who will take pains to discharge their duties faithfully, honestly and efficiently. Consequently the demand for partisan papers is not so great as it once was in this part of the vineyard. The success of the Montgomery Dispatch is another evidence of the demand for an independent and unbiased press

Prospective and Retrospective.

The announcements of several candidates for office in different counties in the State is a reminder of the fact that next year we are to have another election. It is yet more than a year before such election will take place, and those candidates who are taking such an early start will probably run themselves to death before the election. Their early candidacy, however, is strikingly illustrative of the uncontrollable thirst for office which seems to possess some men's souls. In making a note of this it is gratifying to note further that though it might add a few shekels to our always depleted till, yet we are glad that no such insane desire for office seems to permeate this region, and we have no official announcements yet in the VIEW. There is ample time and to spare, and it is well enough to give "the dear people" an occassional breathing spell.

This press desires to see every office in the county and State filled with good, honest Democrats. It favors the Democracy because of the good that party has done, and which it can never forget. The changes for the better brought about by the accession of the party to power in Alabama and other Southern States is a part of history that can never be blotted out. The writer recalls to mind the vividly interesting period of reconstruction, when in his native town in West Alabama a handful of carpetbaggers and scallawags would come in on each election day with a horde of negroes and wagon loads of arms and ammunition and surround the polls for the entire day taking care to place a cordon of Federal troops upon the outskirts of the conglomeration. And if a drunken negro, by making himself offensive, should meet with quick and summary vengeance at the hands of a Democratic voter, there would proceed a yell of murder and a wave of the "bloody shirt" from Maine to California. This was endured until endurance became more a disgrace than a virtue. Then it was that a strong pull brought the Democracy into power and there was a change. Then came peace between white and black, better men filled the offices, taxes were reduced, the credit of the State made good, and the work of progress and rebuilding began.

Because the Democracy has found that there were some faithless and inefficient officials in its own service is no reason why the party as a whole should meet with curses now or hereafter. The people of the State, white and black, owe that party a debt of gratitude that time will hardly repay.

Considering this it is to be hoped that when the next campaign opens in this county it may find the Democracy well organized and prepared for success. With proper management it will be sure to meet with success here as elsewhere. When the time arrives it is well to have a goodly number of candidates to select from, and it is all important to select from these—the best and strongest man for each position.

It is needless to dilate further upon this subject at this time. In conclusion we shall endeavor in the future as in the past to discuss all public questions in a plain, fair and liberal manner and with no acridity of epithet for those who may differ with us. Without any throwing together of words susceptible of a miserable misconstruction, the platform of this press is again set forth under two heads in language so plain that he who runs may read and understand:

1. Morally, it is opposed to the devil in whatever shape, form, color or circumstance it finds him.

2. Politically, it favors the supremacy of the Democracy so long as the Democracy favors honesty and reform.

Another Case.

In Butler county the county commissioners have neglected to publish in the local paper semi-annual reports of county finances in compliance with section 750 of the code. The Greenville Advocate has occasionally called attention to the matter without effect. The probate judge of that county who went out of office last fall went out with a large amount of money in his pocket belonging to the State, about $4,000. Though the State was the looser in this case, it was merely chance fortune that the county was not also a loser as in many other instances which have occurred over the State. It seems that there are a number of counties where the important matter of publishing reports of the financial condition of the county is neglected by the commissioners, and it seems also that as an ecomomic doctorine it does not "pan out" very well for the individual, the counties, or the State. Verbum sap.

A Man Who Differs With Secretary Lamar.

ANNISTON, June 6.—Mr. Edmonds of the Manufacturers' Record returned yesterday from a visit to the Magic City and left last night for his home in Baltimore.

While he has done much towards developing the resources of this section it is his first visit to the State, and since he has seen for himself finds that it goes far beyond the prophecies that he made several years ago that he was laughed at, at the time, for making.

He claims that the sentiments expressed by Mr. L. Q. C. Lamar, to a New York newspaper reporter and published there has done the South more harm than he, Mr. Lamar, as a statesman, has done good for his country in a life time.

It seems that many of our public men of this day live more in the past and seem to be ignorant of the change in affairs in the South during the past decade, which is indeed a sad commentary on those who stand at the head of affairs on this continent.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Stanton Puffs.

A number of our young folks attended an ice cream and strawberry supper at Plantersville last Friday night and had a good time.

A large number of our citizens in and around Stanton have made up, and offer a reward of one hundred and ten dollars for the arrest of W. J. Lindsay who killed John Marcus on the 10th inst. This sum will very likely be increased in the next day or two.

Rev. J. M. Kailin, a recent graduate of Howard College, preached at Ebenezer church last Saturday and Sunday night.

Rev. Geo. W. Mills, pastor of Ebenezer church, will represent that body at the Baptist State Convention in July.

This scribe saw plenty of cotton blooms on a recent trip to one of our country churches.

The crops in this section are all looking well but needing rain. The refreshing showers decended this p. m. (Monday) and everybody is happy.

We hope you will often hear from Dixie's "Rats." 89.

Verbena.

Miss Wate, of Montgomery, Ala., is spending a few weeks in this place to escape the heat of the magnet city.

Mr. S. T. Brittle wife and family and Miss Jennie DeBardeleben, all of Birmingham, are visiting Mr. E. H. Wingate, at Pratt Mills.

Mr. Sam Strock, a son of our thriving farmer Mr. W. B. Strock, is at home on a vacation from College. He will remain the summer months.

Mr. Josiah Morris and family, of Montgomery, arrived here last week to spend the summer.

A fishing party, consisting of S. T. Brittle and wife, Wallis Glover and wife, E. H. Wingate and wife, O. T. Grimes, Ben Williams and L. B. Brooks of Birmingham, went ten miles out on the P. S. M. R. R. Friday. They reported a fine time.

The Baptist Sunday School celebrated children's day Sunday. The church was very tastefully decorated by the persistent efforts of the good ladies here. Quite a pleasant day it was. Contributions amounted to $9.00. Go on little workers that's the way to gain the victory.

We are sorry to report the death of a child at Bozeman, Ala. William Childress' little daughter, 10 or 12 years of age. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved parents.

Mr. Editor, we regret to say this will be our last local. It has come to our ears some two weeks passed that "Watchman" is doing this place injustice by reporting the deaths at Bozeman and other places as he would hear As we don't wish to injure any place we decline writing any more. We truly hope what we have written will not injure any one as we desired to advertise and lift up our little town. We will close by wishing the VIEW grand success, as we also wish those who think "Watchman" is trying to injure Verbena.

WATCHMAN.

[An unreasonable complaint. The deaths at Bozeman, being always mentioned as occurring at Bozeman, might look bad for that place but could not possibly hurt Verbena or any other place. Tell those parties who complain to give you something sensible.—VIEW.]

Jemison Locals.

On Thursday night last the beauty and chivalry of our little city gathered by special invitation at the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Skaggs. Every fellow was with his best girl and the time was passed most pleasantly listening to delightful strains of music, eating ice cream and cake, promenading, courting, &c. The Misses Givhan and Mrs. Wilson, of Strasburg, honored the occassion with their presence.

Mr. Sid Luckett is on a visit to friends from Birmingham, and we hear he intends coming back to live.

Mr. "Hat" McKinney paid us a flying visit last week.

Mr. John Honeycutt and wife have returned from the Magic City to make their home with us. We welcome them back.

Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Butler and Mr. A. H. Hunt are rusticating in the hills of Autauga.

Miss Lillie Gibbons, one of Jemison's fairest and loveliest girls is absent from town this week visiting friends, and all the sunlight seems to have gone out of somebody's existence.

Miss Kate Sherrill's school closed last week week, and she has returned to her home in Autauga Co. We regret to lose this most estimable young lady from our midst, as she had won the respect, esteem and affections of our people by her amiability and exalted christian character.

Messrs. F. M. Hunt & Bro., are putting up another saw mill about two miles west of Jemison. We will then have in operation five saw mills in close proximity to town.

Mr. P. C. Bean expects to move in town this week and occupy his new residence.

Mr. J. C. Purifoy leaves Jemison this week for Birmingham to take a position in the office of the Southern Express Company. Success to him.

The Rev. Mr. Cross occupied Dr. Armstrong's pulpit yesterday, and preached two excellent sermons.

Mrs. Luckett is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Smith, who has been quite sick for some days.

Mr. E. H. Chapman and daughter, Miss Minnie, have been sick for several days. We trust they will soon be convalescent. Several children have the whooping cough. With these exceptions the health of our community is excellent.

The crops and gardens are suffering from dry weather. X. Y. Z.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.

WILSON HOUSE.

COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

$20 Reward!

Strayed or stolen from my stable about four weeks since one small black or dark brown mare pony, natural saddler. No marks, except branded on one hip. $20 reward for her return to I. A. Slaughter, Birmingham, Ala.

Tidings for the Afflicted!

This is to inform all persons that I will be in Montgomery, Ala., about June 25, 1887, and will remain there until September 1st, 1887.

I will be prepared to treat all cases of Cancer, Ulcer, or Sore Breast, without the use of the knife. I have endorsements of the most prominent physicians in the country, also many from parties whom I have treated. Read these:

TO THE PUBLIC:—I have had a very bad case of Ulcer in the neck in my family; have had treatment of several physicians from New York and Washington, but was not relieved until I was recommended to Dr. Daniel, who made a successful cure, and I can heartily recommend him.

MRS. MARIE MOORE,
323 Missouri Ave., Washington, D. C.

ALTOONA, PENN., Oct. 16, 1886.
This is to certify that I was treated by Dr. Daniel for Cancer on the face and I am now entirely well. I had been to Philadelphia and was treated by the best doctors there. They gave me up and told me I might as well go home to die, as my cancer was incurable. The doctors in Altoona all gave me up. I can recommend Dr. Daniel to any one who is afflicted with that dreadful disease—cancer.

Respectfully,
HENRY MASSACER.

I have many more certificates, but have not the space to give them. All who may not be able to come to me at Montgomery, can send me full particulars of their case with $10, and I will send them medicine and directions to cure any case of Cancer, Ulcer or Sore Breast. Persons can consult or write me at Mrs. Clark's boarding house, Monroe Street, Montgomery, Ala.

j16-4t LITTLETON DANIEL.

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

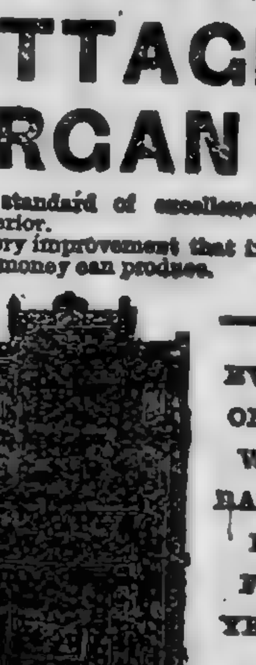
THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

Notice!

Notice is hereby given that J. L. Williams is not connected with this company in any capacity.

ALA. MINERAL LAND CO.
By JNO. M. MCKLEROY,
Att'y and General Agent.

May 28, 1887. [jun2-4t]

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 60 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis. Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

WINTER! SPRING!

During the Season of Winter MALARIA Lurks in the System!

COLLINS AGUE CURE

One Dose a day, taken three days in succession, each month, or when you feel badly in any way, will fully Cleanse your Blood, Remove all Bilious Secretions & Malarial Poison from your System, and Insure GOOD HEALTH IN THE SPRING. PRICE, FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.

If you are troubled with a COUGH, COLD, SORENESS in CHEST, or any Affection of Throat or Lungs, use DR. JACKSON'S Syrup LUNGWORT & WILD CHERRY Sold at 25 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 a Bottle.

If your EYES are affected in any way, use DR. JACKSON'S CELEBRATED INDIAN EYE SALVE. Sold Everywhere at 25 cents per Box.

Send for Collins Bros. 'Present Century Almanac' for 1887. Mailed to any address or at any Drug Store. COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun24-y

L&N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chikago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

Southern Business College.

NO. 407½ WEST JEFFERSON STREET, NEXT DOOR BELOW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

NO TEXT BOOKS USED.

BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC, SHORT-HAND, TYPE-WRITING, &c., &c.

We guarantee to teach more real, practical Book-keeping, Commercial or Business Calculations, more practical ideas about business in general, in 2 to 4 months, than any other Business College in this section can in twelve months.

We teach forms of Book-keeping (actual forms used in business) not taught in any other Business College in this section.

No Scholar Has Ever Completed Our Entire Course and left us Dissatisfied.

For circulars call at college or address

Ben. C. Weaver, Principal.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

T. T. ASHFORD, Pres. J. E. MALAHY, Vice Pres. T. L. MCGOWAN, Sec. & Treas.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Successors to

MAYBERRY & ASHFORD.

Jobbers and Retailers of

Paints, Oils, Window Glass, Plate, Sky-Light and Colored Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds and Moulding,

Painters' and Artists' Supplies.

WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, and CURTAIN FIXTURES.

1912 Second Avenue, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

☞ Write for Samples of Wall Paper and Estimates on Glass. jun10

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,

—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—

DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,

Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.

OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,

Birmingham, Ala.

Your Orders Solicited.

[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,

mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 23, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

The stars looked down on the slumbering town
As softly to bed last night we crept;
He had yelled his fill, the house was still,
And we knew that the little tyrant slept.
So glad!

But we stubbed our toe 'gainst the crib and lo
A yell of twenty-lung power
The stillness broke, for the tyrant woke
And we walked the floor another hour.
So mad!

Mr. W. M. Wilson is quite sick.

Last Tuesday was the longest day of the year.

Hot well patients and visitors are still more numerous.

Sunday the thermometer registered 98 in the shade in Clanton.

Mrs. B. H. Chesnutt visited her husband in Birmingham this week.

A fence around the courthouse well is the latest much needed improvement.

Mrs. O. A. Duke has returned from Shelby Springs much improved in health.

Mr. Howard Lamar stopped off in Clanton Tuesday night to see his sister, Mrs. Tom Phillips.

Mr. J. W. Gullahorn is having his residence in this place beautified with a fresh coat of paint.

A game of base ball between the Clanton and Jemison boys will be played at Jemison on the 4th of July.

J. H. Parker, Esq., of Rockford, visited Clanton this week, and took in the hot well, at least some of the water.

Tip Mullins will begin a school near Jumbo. He is competent and efficient and will have a good school.

Mr. Martin, of Birmingham, visited his friend, Dr. Massey, in Clanton this week. He was down prospecting.

Miss Jennie Wilson, who has been attending school at this place, has returned to her home in Maplesville.

Mr. Chas. Phillips, of Opelika, is in Clanton prospecting with a view to locating here and engaging in the mercantile business.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Rev. H. H. McNeil, of Deatsville, preached two sermon in this place last Sabbath very much to the edification and delight of his hearers.

The town council had a meeting last night and adopted a code of by-laws to be governed by in their management of the municipal affairs of Clanton.

We understand that Mr. W. M. Wilson intends building a couple of nice residences on the vacant lots he recently purchased west of the railroad. The work will be done next fall.

Sampey's Corner.

I have just received a lot of new goods suitable for summer wear. Also a fresh lot of canned goods, tea, chocolate, &c. Those table peaches and pears are as nice as the fresh fruit from the trees. Flour still sells at reasonable prices and coffee is coming down to more reasonable figures. A good stock of shirts just received.

Water-melons will soon be in the market. Remember that the person who brings the VIEW the largest melon will get a year's subscription free.

Col. Oliver, of Dadeville, who has been in Clanton for several weeks bathing in the hot well water for paralysis, is improving wonderfully. The Col. is thinking of buying a place here and making this his home in the future.

A match game of ball was played near town last Saturday between the colored clubs of Verbena and Clanton which resulted in a score of 9 to 9—a tie. The Verbena club not being willing to play off the tie the game was given to Clanton under the rules.

George Oliver, the negro charged with the killing of Charlie Harris at this place week before last, was given a final hearing before Judge Callen on Monday and was discharged for a lack of evidence to convict. The next grand jury will probably find an indictment in this case.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

The fulsome compliments upon the VIEW and its management from the intelligent and wide awake local correspondent of the Montgomery Dispatch are all the more appreciated by us because of the evident indisposition to damn the VIEW with faint praise.

The negro Dan DeJarnette, well known in this place, was arrested last week on a charge of cruelty to animals having beaten an ox so severely as to cause its death. He was tried in the county court last Monday and was fined $25 and costs. Mr. S. A. Blasingame paid his fine and Dan will work it out at Mr. B's saw mill.

Clanton is a splendid location for a college for the education of boys or girls, or both. A mixed school like the one at Oxford would be an institution of great benefit to our town causing an influx of an intelligent class of people who would do more toward improving the morals of our burg than all the manufacturing enterprises of a century.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

We are in receipt of a beautifully printed invitation card which reads: "Your presence is respectfully requested at the commencement exercises of Miss Mary Bagby's school, Temperance Hall, Mobile, Tuesday, June 21st 1887." The graduating class is composed of the following young ladies: Misses Willie Knott, Anna M. Bird, Flora Murphy and May Murphy.

A Successful Fishing Party.

Last week a party of Clantonians, accompanied by Messrs. Geo. W. Bains, S. T. Brittle, L. R. Brooks, L. W. Herting and Frank Smith, of Birmingham, went on a fishing expedition to some of the many streams near here which abound in a super-abundance of the finny tribe and upon their return reported a jolly time and about 100 fish caught.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

Barbecue.

The M. E. Ladies Aid Society will have a barbecue on the 2d of July in the grove near the M. E. Church. Proceeds to be used for the completion of the church now being erected. Expected addresses from several prominent gentlemen. The ladies thank their many friends for their liberal patronage heretofore and earnestly solicit a continuance of the same.

Committee of Managers: H. J. Callen, Dr. A. E. Bivings, H. W. Herbert, J. F. Maull, L. B. Wells, A. J. Hall, O. A. Duke.

A Pretty Waltz.

The Winnie Davis Waltz, composed by Mr. Jno. Baseler, of Richmond, Va., and dedicated to Miss Winnie Davis, the "Daughter of the Confederacy," has just been published by Messrs. Walter D. Moses & Co., of Richmond. The composition possesses the excellencies of originality, simplicity and beauty, and is undoubtedly destined to become exceedingly popular. It has four numbers, besides the introduction and coda. Price 75 cents postpaid to any address.

Our marshal is busy collecting street tax this month. It is only a small sum of two dollars, and we hope all will pay promptly, so we may soon get the Artesian well.—Columbia Enterprise.

This is just what we need in Clanton and just what we must have before our municipal government can be a success—a per capita tax of $2.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-headache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

The Clifton House at Verbena.

Mrs. E. S. Ready has taken the Clifton House at Verbena for the summer and will open it for the reception of guests on July 1st. Every body in this section of Alabama knows about the delicious night at Verbena, and everybody who knows Mrs. Ready knows she will make the Clifton House a pleasant home with a good table. —Advertiser.

Dr. A. J. Massey will return from Rockford Wednesday. He is going to be one among us. He is building at the Hot Well. During the months of July and August he will visit the several steam saw mills in Chilton and Elmore counties along North and South Railway. He extracts teeth with comparatively no pain. Those wishing can address him at Clanton he will take them in on his round.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

It is very common for "small great" men to speak with contempt of a local paper, but country papers make more men out of less material, than any other factor in politics, and it is the ladder on which men climb to distinction as the beginning of wider fame. The advent of the local paper has always dated the increased thrift of the community. The local paper is the life of the locality, it measures the advancement of its people. Not only subscribe, but pay for your local paper. It is the friend and helpmeet of all law-abiding people.—Prattville Signal.

Of all glad words of tongue or pen, the gladdest are these, to the sufferer with piles. A pleasant, speedy and permanent cure for piles is found in Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment, a preparation that has never been equaled as a remedy for that disease, and the sufferer does not need to be told this the second time.

A great many Northern farmers will doubtless move into Alabama this year. They are inquiring about the State through the Detroit Free Press, which paper recently sent a correspondent here to get the information wanted. This correspondent gave such excellent reports of the State and its resources that the truth of his statements are doubted by some of the farmers of the wintry hills of Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, &c. Several who desired information wish to know if they would have trouble with the negroes. Of course no trouble need be apprehended from such source, and if there are any who don't like the looks of Sambo they can select a locality where he is a rarity. For instance the lands in northeast Chilton are good clay soil, the country is well watered, good churches and school facilities can be had; at Jumbo there is a post-office and steam mill, and there is only one darkey in Jumbo beat; he is a recent importation, and would probably emigrate at the sight of the first Yankee settler.

White's Cream Vermifuge is good for the chaps certain, when the chaps are troubled with worms. When their presence is indicated in the stomach by the usual unmistakable symptoms, only give the boys and girls a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge and worms will follow as surely as night does the day. Remember that White's Cream Vermifuge will expel worms.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Fashion may change in some things but an old well-tried remedy is grappled with hooks of steel. Such is White's Cream Vermifuge, which has a larger sale than any so-called remedy because it never fails to expel worms from a child who is their victim. Therefore, do not defer its use, but relieve your child speedily by a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

MOTHER'S FRIEND
MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!
SHORTENS LABOR. LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT! DIMINISHES THE DANGER TO LIFE OF MOTHER and CHILD.
Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "TO MOTHERS," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.
A WELL TRIED TREATMENT
For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.
"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.
Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:
Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Siddalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scottland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales.
And thousands of others in every part of the United States.
"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.
DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.

Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Dixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING GENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala
SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE
CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, [illegible]
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. [illegible]
MAKE HENS LAY
[illegible]

GORDON DUBOSE,
Attorney at Law,
CENTREVILLE, ALA.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK.
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

Clanton Barber Shop
—BY—
MEREDITH CANN,
Who is prepared to do all work in the tonsorial line. Hair dressing and shaving in the best style. Prices low.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen; Photographs on watch dials; Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞Correspondence solicited. [jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞MONTGOMERY STABLES, Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O., Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5ly Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE. BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE [illegible] extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free the remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

THE ENGLISH DETECTIVE.

How the Finest-in-the-World Are Trained to Run Down Rascals.

The men who show special aptitude for the works, says Blackwood's Magazine, speaking of English detectives, are first sent out and tested as patrols in plain clothes; afterward they are detached as divisional detectives. Each of the divisions has its own detective constables, the sergeants being always on duty at the central station. The Superintendent or Inspector is in attendance from 9 to 5 to receive applications for assistance and to issue orders. The duties of the city detectives are especially difficult and delicate. Now and again, of course, they have to trace out the perpetrators of a commonplace murderer or ordinary burglary. But as a rule they are chiefly concerned with commercial frauds, where the criminal is presumably as quick-witted as themselves, and has probably taken his precautions against discovery. Generally he has already made tracks and sought refuge in foreign countries. He may have gone where there is no extradition treaty; but as there are many disagreeables to be met with among foreigners, whose manners he dislikes, and of whose language he is ignorant, he more frequently takes a passage for America or Australia. It seems so easy to change your name, to cast your skin, and lose yourself in a new existence among a great English-speaking population.

Even in the former case, and beyond the range of extradition treaties, the refugee from justice is not altogether safe. Should the detective follow him up and find out, existence may be made unpleasant or even intolerable. The agent of the English law can stick to the fugitive like his shadow, and by communicating with foreign confreres, who eagerly lend assistance, can make any continental retreat uncommonly hot. As a matter of fact, successful pursuit and ultimate capture are for the most part mere questions of money. If a notorious absconder is not tracked and brought back, it is generally because those who have been robbed and wronged have personal reasons for hushing up the affair. At this moment there are city gentlemen, once sufficiently notorious, left to themselves and to their consciences in Spain and in Sweden, whose present addresses are as well known as that of any respectable merchant in the Post Office Directory. But in such cases the police are powerless, unless private enterprise sets them in motion.

The Latest Cat Story.

Here is a cat story which certainly is not outdone in the evidence of intelligence it affords by any dog story that has been told of late, and can be vouched for. Mistress Puss lives in a family as its best beloved pet and has much careful attention. Each year when the family goes into the country of course Mistress Puss goes too, and thus she has become used to traveling and its discomforts. She has become used also to the various signs of approaching migration and knows what it means when the carpets come up and trunks are packed. This particular season Mistress Puss, being the happy mother of a promising kitten, was very anxious and nervous as the time for flitting drew near, and at last became so troubled that she attracted the attention of the family by her peculiar behavior. On the following day they found the cause. She had packed her little one into a partially filled trunk lest it should be [illegible] in the moving.—Boston Post.

A QUEEN'S ROMANCE.

How a Fall Down Stairs Brought a Throne and Crown.

Among the presents which Emperor William received on his birthday one of the most remarkable was a poem of the Queen of Roumania. In a hundred short verses Carman Sylva had described the chief incidents of the old soldier's lifetime. She had, moreover, copied it out herself in her own hand on white parchment, beautifully ornamented with cornflowers.

The career of this lady, who is as perfect a scholar as she is true a queen and tender a woman, is deeply interesting as sketched by an authority. By birth Elizabeth of Roumania is a princess of the house of Wied, and her father, a man of high ability and careful culture, gave her an education at once deeper and freer than that which is usually the portion of the children of royalty. The death of a young brother clouded her childhood, and, to dissipate the gloom, she was sent to her aunt, the Grand Duchess Helena, of Russia. From the quiet studies of the castle of Neuwied, she was thus suddenly transported to one of the first salons of the brilliant court of Russia. The summons home came with her father's illness, and the "Wild Rosebud of Wied," restored to her native heath, watched in his sick room and long mourned his death.

When there was no kingdom of Roumania in existence she had laughingly said: "I do not want to marry unless I can be the Queen of Roumania," and as so often happens the careless thoughts of youth found their accomplishment. Running down the palace stairs at Berlin one day her foot slipped and she would probably have been killed but for Prince Charles of Hohenzollern, who saw her danger and caught her in his outstretched arms. When Roumania chose him for ruler he claimed the princess as his bride. During the Russia-Turkish war she wore the uniform of the Red Cross, and as a nurse helped to soften and assuage the sufferings which war inevitably brings in its train. At the close of the struggle Plevna had given a royal throne to the Prince and Princess, and their crowns were made out of cannon captured from the enemy. The love and admiration of her subjects she has always had, and their sympathy also when the loss of an only daughter brought desolation to her new home. She has sought consolation in duty, in earnest endeavor for the good of Roumania and in those studies which inheritance and education alike have made dear to her.

Struck a Bomb.

Martin Bont, son of a farmer living near Michigan City, Ind., was fatally injured in a singular manner. He was ploughing a field, when suddenly a loud report was heard and Martin was seen to fall to the ground. The plough-point had struck a dynamite bomb buried in the ground and had exploded it. The young man's right hand was blown off, his right foot fractured, several large pieces of flesh were torn from his left leg, a number of severe wounds were made on his chest, his eyesight partially destroyed and his hearing was ruined by the concussion. When examined by the physicians a large piece of the shell was found imbedded in the boy's throat, making two ugly cuts. The bomb, or cartridge, was probably left there several years ago by workmen who were blasting out stumps.

THOMAS SEXTON, M. P., the "Irish Demosthenes" is seriously ill at Dublin.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Noticeable Effects of Phosphate.

Where some strips through a grain field are left unfertilized with phosphate or other concentrated manure, they often appear as if actually stunted by the larger growth on either side. This is often probably the fact. The fertilizer in close contact with the seed gives it such a vigorous start that its roots encroach on the unmanured soil from which they drain part of the too scanty supply. The small amounts of these concentrated fertilizers used show that it does not need a great quantity of manure to give a crop a good send-off when it is applied in contact with the seed. The same amount of fertilizers spread over the entire surface would make much less show, though before the season was over the roots might and probably would reach most of it.—American Cultivator.

Keeping the Flower Garden.

A small garden with few well-chosen, well-grown flowering plants, if kept in scrupulous order and neatness, will be far more gratifying to its owner, and to his friends, than a large collection of plants without order, arrangement or neatness. Of course, there is a choice in plants, and a garden of the common flowers, well kept, is far more creditable than a jungle of expensive novelties, left to care for themselves. "Good keeping" in the garden is equivalent to "good keeping" in the house. Both depend upon hundreds of small things, easily done if attended to at the right time. In a large garden a special tool house will be found most useful, but in a small one a place for the tools must be found in some other building. The wall of a woodshed or of a barn, or a suitable, large, cupboard-like structure, built against a board fence or a building, may be made—indeed, any place that will hold the tools. It is far more important that the tools are brought back to their places after using, than that their places should be showy. In every garden, even a very small one, there occur various materials, collectively known as "rubbish," which must be disposed of. It is a mistake to have a rubbish heap in some corner, and throw all the refuse matter from the garden upon it. There should be at least three places of deposit for the different kinds of rubbish, if the premises are large enough, otherwise it must be removed altogether.—American Agriculturist.

Rearing Calves.

Excellent calves may be reared upon skimmed milk, notwithstanding the belief that calves need cream. Fat is not required for a growing animal, but bone and muscle and a large, well developed frame. This is especially the case with cows, and the bony, thin Jersey cows reared upon skimmed milk have surpassed immeasurably the Short-horns, fed and pampered upon the whole milk of two foster dams besides their own. To rear a good calf one may follow this method, viz.: Remove it from the dam as soon as it is on its legs and before it has sucked to some place where it is out of sight and hearing of the cow. Teach it to drink from the pail the freshly drawn milk until the fifth morning, after which time it gets a mess of skimmed milk warmed to eighty degrees. If the kind-hearted mistress thinks this is "hard lines" for the poor young thing, add some new milk to it and gradually reduce this until in a few days the whole meal is skimmed milk. Do not be misled into giving oilmeal or anything else in the milk, for this mistaken kindness will most probably cause a severe fit of spasmodic colic and painful diarrhea. Give nothing but milk warmed to eighty degrees until the calf is a month old, and then teach it to lick a little fine oatmeal and wheat bran; gradually increase this additional food until in two months four ounces a day is given with eight quarts of milk. Carefully avoid over-feeding, which induces diarrhea and stunts the calf. A cow thus reared has given eight and one-half pounds of butter the first week of milking at twenty months old, and has increased up to fourteen pounds weekly at five years.—New York Times.

Best Soil For Fruits.

The apple thrives in many soils, but best in wet, moist, well-drained loam. The pear, plum and quince require a heavier soil, but it should be free from standing water. The cherry delights in a light sandy loam. The peach can only be successfully grown in New England upon high, hill-drained lands. Grape-vines give the best fruit when planted upon high gravelly soil, especially when some nitrogenous manure is applied early in the season.

The raspberry and blackberry mature their wood better upon light land than upon heavy, moist soil, but, like the grape, require the addition of nitrogenous manure to secure growth of cones sufficient to mature a large crop of fruit. The currant and gooseberry require a moist, heavy soil for the best results, but are liable to be thrown out by the frosts if the soil is not well underdrained. The best soil for the strawberry is a moist sandy loam. Upon light sandy soil there is a tendency to the production of a large number of berries, but there not being moisture enough in the soil very few will mature.

For small fruits it is generally best to apply the manure or fertilizers broadcast and harrow in, as may also be done for the large fruits if the land is to be cultivated with some other crop for a few years.

If trees are to be planted in land not cultivated for other crops, the manure or fertilizer would be more economically applied only about trees, increasing the area covered as they increase in size. Unfermented manure should never be placed in contact with the roots of any tree or plant, but if decomposed and well mixed with soil no injury will result from the use of a limited quantity. The best way to use course manure is to apply it to the surface about the trees, slightly covered with soil. The quantity to be used must be varied with the condition of the soil, but should be used sparingly upon the peach until it begins bearing.

Perhaps the best material to use where the soil is not sufficiently rich for the production of fruit is fine-ground bone and potash, four parts of the former to one part of muriate of potash. This is at the rate of one pound to the tree, mixed in the fine soil used around the roots, and one pound applied near the surface will insure a good growth unless the soil is unusually poor. The holes should be dug a little larger than the roots will extend and loosened a little deeper than they are to be planted.—New York World.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Pekin ducks are decided to be the most profitable bird of the duck tribe that can be raised.

The manure heap is called the farmer's best savings bank, into which all small amounts of material may be converted into valuable deposits.

Fruit trees should not be pruned, says Ben: Perely Poor, when the sap will keep the saw wet, unless the wounds are covered with a solution of green shellac dissolved in alcohol.

Experiments show that the native thick-skinned grapes are better winter keepers than our improved varieties.

Do not use fertilizers too lavishly on potted plants. A small quantity applied frequently is better than a full allowance at one time.

Most kinds of trees raised from seed need some protection from the sun and wind during the first and second years of their growth.

Team help is too valuable at seeding time to stop the team and take a man's time for a day to draw a load of phosphate which might just as well be drawn before the busy season opens. Farmers who use phosphate should make an estimate of the amount they need or can afford, and draw it early, so as to have ready when needed. If kept dry it will not deteriorate, but rather improve, by keeping over one year.

It is a pleasure to some to train certain kinds of bushes into standards, so they may form miniature trees. The currant or gooseberry so trained or grafted is a curiosity. In this case it is a very easy thing to graft both kinds of fruit on the same stock. The wistaria is a curiosity trained into a standard, so is the bitter-sweet. Fortune's Forsythia is natually a shrub that suckers a great deal. It is, nevertheless, one of the few shrubs that is improved by being trained as a standard.

Variations in the composition of milk are dependent also upon age and bodily health. Professor Willard calls attention to the fact that, other things being equal, young cows yield a milk more rich in solids than do old cows, a view not adopted by all American dairymen, some of whom believe that an old cow's milk is as good if not better than a young one's. English dairymen agree with Professor Willard and generally observe the rule of turning off their milch cows at from seven to eight years of age.

Sow lawn grass seed as soon as possible. If one has only small patches to cover, rake the soil to a perfect level and sow the seed as evenly as may be. Then rake again, sow again and rake again. The object is to secure a full even stand. We regard blue grass and red top as the best varieties to sow. Many advise that a small proportion of timothy seed be added for the reason that it sprouts before the others and therefore covers the bare spots earlier. Three bushels of seed to the acre of either blue grass or red top are little enough.

E. W. Stewart estimates that one hundred pounds of meal are about equal in feeding value to four hundred pounds of potatoes. Thus at one cent a pound for the meal the four hundred pounds of potatoes would be worth one dollar, or fifteen cents per bushel. Potatoes should not be fed raw in large quantities to stock. They contain a large proportion of starch which must be acted upon by heat to insure complete digestion. Three or four quarts of raw potatoes may be fed daily to stock with good results, but when large quantities are to be fed they should be steamed or cooked.

All kinds of stock need salt, but it is especially necessary for milch cows, and it is important that it be given regularly. If left where they can get it under shelter, they will only eat what they need, a little almost daily to supply the small percentage of salt found in milk. As long as a calf gets milk as even part of its diet, it has no craving for salt, and probably does not need any. Regularity in salting cows increases the flow of milk, but if obliged to eat more than they need by having salt mixed with food, there will be at first an increase in milk production followed quickly by a decrease and often serious injury to the cow.

By most Northern people the sweet potato is eaten only sparingly, and, as it has to be bought often at a high price, it is regarded as a rather expensive luxury. But it is very easily grown, and with equal care and culture will outyield the common potato, especially on poor ground. Its rampant vines choke down weeds, making little culture necessary. In some of the Southern States the sweet potato is planted for stock feed for pigs, which, when the crop is ripe, are turned in and do their own harvesting. The sweet they contain is very fattening, but it does not make very solid pork. The vines of potatoes are greedily eaten by cows, and have none of the poisonous qualities of our common potato, which is of a family containing many poisonous plants.

Wrinkles.

Wrinkles are as natural to old age as is a full, smooth face to childhood. They are due mainly to a certain shrinkage of the muscles—a shrinkage which characterizes, more or less, the entire system in the latter period of life. Now the human face, writes a doctor in the Youth's Companion, was meant to be the "mirror of the mind," the visible expression of every passion, emotion, and inmost feeling. Herein is its chief beauty. Hence its numerous muscles and nerves, whereby it is so wonderfully adjusted to this end. But muscles in constant or frequent exercise increase in volume, strength, and readiness of action. Hence habits of thought and feeling become stamped on the face, and we read so easily the character of the proud, the vain, the deceitful, and the sensual man, or of the kind, the calm, the energetic, the frank, the candid, the honest man. But there is nothing like care and worriment to plow furrows in the forehead, and these are badly marring the faces of our American women. We pass in the streets women of thirty-five whose foreheads are more wrinkled than the brow should be at seventy. Some of these may not have more cares than others, but they unnecessarily yield to the tendency to express them in the face.

His First Money.

Mayor Hewitt was asked the other day how he earned his first money. He said that he got it by reading to a rich man some three or four hours a day for a year. He did not get the appointment by influence, but by competitive examination. The man came to the school and heard the boys read and made his selection of Hewitt as the best reader. He was then but sixteen years of age. For his year's reading he received the munificent compensation of $15. Ten dollars of this sum was used to buy his student's gown, and the other five was kept by his mother for incidental expenses.

During his college years Mr. Hewitt worked about seventeen hours a day, engaged in teaching or coaching other students. At the close of his collegiate career he had saved about $1,000. With this he went on an European tour, and on his return he had $8 of it remaining.—New York Sun.

The Gamut of Theft.

Taking $1,000,000 is called Genius.
" 100,000 " Shortage.
" 50,000 " Litigation.
" 25,000 " Insolvency.
" 10,000 " Irregularity.
" 5,000 " Defalcation.
" 1,000 " Corruption.
" 500 " Embezzlement.
" 100 " Dishonesty.
" 50 " Stealing.
" 25 " Total depravity.
one ham " War on society.

—Washington Post.

MILLIONS FOUND IN INDIA.

The Treasure of the Maharajah, of Gwalior, Unearthed and "Borrowed."

The Financial Secretary of India has advised the government of the discovery of an immense amount of treasure, estimated at over $25,000,000, which had been secreted in the palace of Gwalior by the late Maharajah. The treasure had been sunk in pits under the vaults beneath the Zanana, and the secret was intrusted to a few confidential servants.

The Secretary was present when the treasure was unearthed. After removing the earth to a depth of six feet the workmen uncovered great flag stones. Beneath these stones were several pits filled to the brim with silver, chiefly freshly coined rupees. In each pit was a plate recording the amount of the treasure and the names of the officials who had assisted in secreting it.

The Indian government has taken the hoard as a loan from the young Moharajah. The native papers protest against this action of the government. They say that had the Maharajah been an adult, instead of being under a regency controlled by the government, he would never have invested his whole wealth in Indian securities. A question will be raised in Parliament as to whether the "investment" be not another name for seizure.

THE editor of the London Vanity Fair says an American now in London has bought a music-room piano, designed by Alma Tadema and painted by Pointer, for $35,000. The chairs cost $5,000 each, and the entire outlay on his room reaches the enormous amount of $500,000.

An Indolent Organ.

When the liver is indolent, as it must necessarily be when it fails to secrete the bile in sufficient quantities to meet the requirements of digestion and evacuation, it should be set at work with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The healthful stimulus to activity imparted by this incomparable alterative, speedily evinces itself in a departure of the uncomfortable sensations in the right side; the nausea, fur upon the tongue; indigestion, and sick headache consequent upon inactivity of the liver and the diversion of the bile from its proper channel. Irregularity of the bowels is always and painlessly reformed by the corrective indicated, which is infinitely to be preferred, both because it is safe and more efficacious to blue pill, calomel and drenching purgatives of every class. It cures and prevents fever and ague, and rheumatism.

Prof. Hermann, the prestidigitateur, died at Carlsbad, recently, aged 66

A Prize in the Lottery

Of life which is usually unappreciated until it is lost, perhaps never to return, is health. What a priceless boon it is, and how we ought to cherish it, that life may not be a worthless blank to us. Many of the diseases that flesh is heir to, and which make life burdensome, such as consumption (scrofula of the lungs), and other scrofulous and blood diseases, are completely cured by Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" after all other remedies have failed. Dr. Pierce's treatise on consumption mailed for 10 cents in stamps. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Western Union has declared a dividend of 1 per cent, payable July 15.

Gold Fields,

That pan out richly, are not so abundant as in the early California days, but those who write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, will, by return mail, receive free, full information about work which they can do and live at home, wherever they are located, that will pay them from $5 to $25 per day and upwards. Either sex, young or old. Capital not required; you are started in business free. Those who start at once are absolutely sure of snug little fortunes.

Neal Dow the temperance reformer who is 83 years old, is lecturing in Canada.

WHATEVER name or designation is given to Fever and Ague or other intermittent diseases, it is safe to say that Malaria or a disordered state of the liver is at fault. Eliminate the impurities from the system and a sure and prompt cure is the result. Prickly Ash Bitters is the safest and most effective remedy for all biliary troubles, kidney diseases, and like complaints that has ever been brought before the public. A trial is its best recommendation.

The Butcher's National Convention discharged all their "walking" delegates.

For Rickets, Marasmus, and Wasting Disorders of Children,

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is unequaled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. Read the following: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing, and have been more than pleased with the results, as in every case the improvement was marked."—J. M. MAIN, M. D., New York.

The Chicago, Ill., municipal thieves kept duplicate set of books.

"All Men Are Liars."

Said David of old. He was probably prompted to make the above remark after trying some unreliable catarrh remedy. Had he been permitted to live until the present day, and tried Dr. Sage's Remedy, he might have had a better opinion of mankind. We claim that no case of catarrh can withstand the magic effects of this wonderful medicine. One trial of it will convince you of its efficacy. By druggists; fifty cents.

The Vatican authorities have received $8,000 with which to celebrate the Pope's jubilee.

I Use It Myself.

Jno. E. Jones, Fort Valley, Ga., one of the leading druggists there, states that he commends Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial because he uses it himself, and knows of what value it is for bowel troubles.

A Wonderful Machine and Offer.

To introduce them we give away 1,000 Self-operating Washing Machines. No labor or washboard. Best in the world. If you want one, write The National Co., 27 Dey St., N. Y.

Health Marks.

A bright eye, clear skin, glowing features, animated expression, and a quick, firm step; all secured by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

5 month's treatment for 50c. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.

All Run Down

From the weakening effects of warm weather, by hard work, or from a long illness, you need a good tonic and purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you have never tried this peculiar medicine, do so now. It will give you strength and appetite.

"I was completely run down and was for nearly four years under medical treatment, being given up to die by physicians. My mother urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. At last I consented, and I have never taken anything which helped me so much as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which restored me to health and vigor. I have been taking it about four months and am now a different being."—NELLIE NOBLE, Peoria, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

* * * * Delicate diseases of either sex, however induced, speedily and permanently cured. Book 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

The liquor bill of Great Britain the past year foots up $614,528,925.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE.

FOR GENTLEMEN

The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world.

Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms.

(Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.)

Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

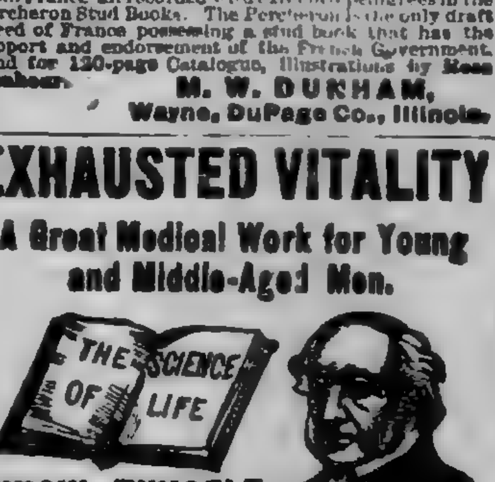
OAKLAWN

The Great Nursery of

PERCHERON HORSES.

200 Imported Brood Mares Of Choicest Families.

LARGE NUMBERS, All Ages, both Sexes, IN STOCK.

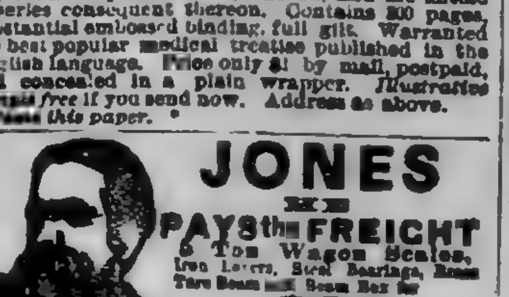


300 to 400 IMPORTED ANNUALLY from France all recorded with extended pedigrees in the Percheron Stud Books. The Percheron is the only draft breed of France possessing a stud book that has the support and endorsement of the French Government. Send for 120-page Catalogue, illustrations by Rosa Bonheur.

M. W. DUNHAM, Wayne, DuPage Co., Illinois.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.

Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! DR. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. H. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn. Superior natural Mineral Waters, Mountain and Cave Scenery. Convenient, healthy location. Select. Cheap board. Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

Blair's Pills, Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address BREWSTER'S SAFETY REIN HOLDER, Holly, Mich.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache. Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

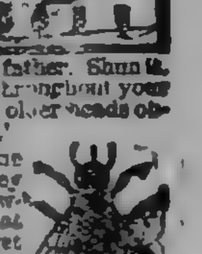
Lecture on "ROUGH ON RATS."
ROUGH

This is what killed [illegible] father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'Rough'ness.'

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of Roaches, Water-bugs, Beetles. For 2 or 3 nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" dry powder, [illegible] about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES



Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS," is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

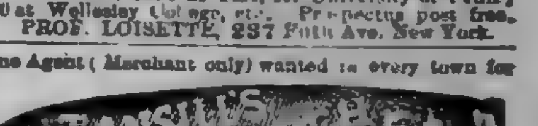
"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES. Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading.

Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hon. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 300 University of Penn., 300 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



Your "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigar is giving good satisfaction; the boys are "catching on." ALVORD & FORKER, Druggists, Eldora, Ia.

"Tansill's Punch" is the best cigar we have ever sold for the money. C. E. RITTER & Co., Neosho, Mo.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address J. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 406, Atlanta, Ga.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 35½ S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 46 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

This represents a healthy life. Throughout its various scenes,

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

PAINT YOUR BUGGY for ONE DOLLAR

By using COIT'S ONE-COAT BUGGY PAINT. Paint Friday, run it to Church Sunday. Six Fashionable Shades: Black, Maroon, Vermilion, Olive Lake, [illegible] and Wagon Green. No Varnishing necessary. Dries hard with a High Gloss. Tip top for Chairs, Furniture, Baby Carriages, Front Doors, [illegible] enough to paint your Buggy upon receipt of One Dollar, and warrant it to [illegible]. Discount to the Trade. COIT & CO., [illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 75	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 00	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	32 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1887. NUMBER 34.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

"The Heavens Opened.

TEXT: "Behold I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God. Then they cried out with a loud voice and stopped their ears, and ran upon Him with one accord, and cast him out of the city, and stoned Him; and the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul. And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit. And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep."—Acts vii., 56-60.

Stephen had been preaching a rousing sermon, and the people could not stand it. They resolved to do as men sometimes would like to do in this day, if they dared, with some plain preacher of righteousness—kill him. The only way to silence this man was to knock the breath out of him. So they rushed Stephen out of the gates of the city, and with curse, and whoop, and bellow they brought him to the cliff, as was the custom when they wanted to take away life by stoning. Having brought him to the edge of the cliff they pushed him off. After he had fallen they came and looked down, and seeing that he was not yet dead, they began to drop stones upon him, stone after stone, stone after stone. Amid this rain of missiles Stephen clambers up on his knees and folds his hands, while the blood drips from his temples to his cheeks, from his cheeks to his garments, from his garments to the ground; and then, looking up, he makes two prayers—one for himself and one for his murderers. "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit;" that was for himself. "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge;" that was for his assailants. Then, from pain and loss of blood, he swooned away and fell asleep.

I want to show you to-day five pictures. Stephen gazing into heaven. Stephen looking at Christ. Stephen stoned. Stephen in his dying prayer. Stephen asleep.

First, look at Stephen gazing into heaven. Before you take a leap you want to know where you are going to land. Before you climb a ladder you want to know to what point the ladder reaches. And it was right that Stephen within a few moments of heaven, should be gazing into it. We would all do well to be found in the same posture. There is enough in heaven to keep us gazing. A man of large wealth may have statuary in the hall, and paintings in the sitting-room, and works of art in all parts of the house, but he has the chief pictures in the art gallery, and there, hour after hour, you walk with catalogue and glass and ever increasing admiration. Well, heaven is the gallery where God has gathered the chief treasures of His realm. The whole universe is His palace. In this lower room where we stop there are many adornments; tessellated floor of amethyst and blossom, and on the winding cloud-stairs are stretched out canvas on which commingle azure, and purple, and saffron, and gold. But heaven is the gallery in which the chief glories are gathered. There are the brightest robes. There are the richest crowns. There are the highest exhilarations. John says of it: "The kings of the earth shall bring their honor and glory into it." And I see the procession forming, and in the line come all empires, and the stars spring up into an arch for the hosts to march under. They keepstep to the sound of earthquake and the pitch of avalanche from the mountains, and the flag they bear is the flame of a consuming world, and all heaven turns out with harps and trumpets and myriad voiced acclamation of angelic dominion to welcome them in, and so the kings of the earth bring their honor and glory into it. Do you wonder that good people often stand like Stephen, looking into heaven? We have a great many friends there. There is not a man in this house to-day so isolated in life, but there is some one in heaven with whom he once shook hands. As a man gets older, the number of his celestial acquaintance very rapidly multiplies. We have not had one glimpse of them since the night we kissed them good-bye and they went away; but still we stand gazing at heaven. As when some of our friends go across the sea, we stand on the dock, or on the steamtug, and watch them, and after awhile the hulk of the vessel disappears, and then there is only a patch of sail on the sky, and soon that is gone, and they are all out of sight, and yet we stand looking in the same direction; so when our friends go away from us into the future world we keep looking down through the Narrows, and gazing and gazing as though we expected that they would come out and stand on some evening cloud, and give us one glimpse of their blissful and transfigured faces. While you long to join their companionship, and the years and the days go with such tedium that they break your heart, and the viper of pain, and sorrow and bereavement keeps gnawing at your vitals, you still stand, like Stephen, gazing into heaven. You wonder if they have changed since you saw them last. You wonder if they would recognize your face now, so changed has it been with trouble. You wonder if, amid the myriad delights they have, they care as much for you as they used to when they gave you a helping hand and put their shoulder under your burdens. You wonder if they look any older; and sometime, in the evening tide, when the house is all quiet, you wonder if you should call them by their first name if they would not answer; and perhaps sometimes you do make the experiment, and when no one but God and yourself are there you distinctly call their name, and listen, and wait, and sit gazing into heaven.

Pass on now, and see Stephen looking upon Christ. My text says he saw the Son of Man at the right hand of God. Just how Christ looked in this world, just how he looks in heaven, we cannot say. A writer in the time of Christ says, describing the Saviour's personal apperance, that He had blue eyes and light complexion, and a very graceful structure; but I suppose it was all guess-work. The painters of different ages have tried to imagine the features of Christ, and put them upon canvas; but we will have to wait until with our own eyes we see him and with our own ears we can hear Him. And yet there is a way of seeing and hearing Him now. I have to tell you that unless you see and hear Christ on earth, you will never see and hear Him in heaven! Look! There he is. Behold the Lamb of God. Can you not see Him? Then pray to God to take the scales off your eyes. Look that way—try to look that way. His voice comes down to you this day—comes down to the blindest, to the deafest soul, saying: "Look unto Me, all ye ends of the earth, and be ye saved, for I am God, and there is none else." Proclamation of universal emancipation for all slaves. Proclamation of universal amnesty for all rebels. Ahasuerus gathered the Babylonish nobles to his table; George I. entertained the lords of England at a banquet; Napoleon III. welcomed the Czar of Russia and the Sultan of Turkey to his feast; the Emperor of Germany was glad to have our minister, George Bancroft, sit down with him at his table; but tell me, ye who know most of the world's history, what other king ever asked the abandoned, and the forlorn, and the wretched, and the outcast, to come and sit down beside him? O, wonderful invitation! You can take it to-day, and stand at the head of the darkest alley in all this city, and say: "Come! Clothes for your rags, salve for your sores, a throne for your eternal reigning." A Christ that talks like that, and acts like that, and pardons like that—do you wonder that Stephen stood looking at Him? I hope to spend eternity doing the same thing. I must see Him, I must look upon that face once clouded with my sin, but now radiant with my pardon. I want to touch that hand that knocked off my shackles. I want to hear that voice which pronounced my deliverance. Behold Him, little children, for if you live to three score years and ten you will see none so fair. Behold Him, ye aged ones, for He only can shine through the dimness of your failing eyesight. Behold Him, earth. Behold Him, heaven. What a moment when all the nations of the saved shall gather around Christ! All faces that way. All thrones that way, gazing, gazing on Jesus.

> "His worth if all the nations knew,
> Sure the whole earth would love Him, too."

I pass on now, and look at Stephen stoned. The world has always wanted to get rid of good men. Their very life is an assault upon wickedness. Out with Stephen through the gates of the city. Down with him over the precipice. Let every man come up and drop a stone upon his head. But these men did not so much kill Stephen as they killed themselves. Every stone rebounded upon them. While these murderers are transfixed by the scorn of all good men, Stephen lives in the admiration of all Christendom. Stephen stoned; but Stephen alive. So all good men must be pelted. All who will live godly in Christ Jesus must suffer persecution. It is no eulogy of a man to say that everybody likes him. Show me any one who is doing all his duty to State or Church, and I will show you scores of men who utterly abhor him.

If all men speak well of you, it is because you are either a laggard or a dolt. If a steamer makes rapid progress through the waves, the water will boil and foam all around it. Brave soldiers of Jesus Christ will hear the carbines click. When I see a man with voice, and money, and influence all on the right side, and some caricature him, and some sneer at him, and some denounce him, and men who pretend to be actuated by right motives conspire to cripple him, to cast him out, to destroy him, I say: "Stephen stoned." When I see a man in some great moral or religious reform battling against grog-shops, exposing wickedness in high places, by active means trying to purify the Church and better the world's estate, and I find that the newspapers anathematize him, and men, even good men, oppose him and denounce him, because, though he does good, he does not do it in their way, I say: "Stephen stoned." The world, with infinite spite, took after John Frederick Oberlin, and Robert Moffat, and Paul, and Stephen of the text. But you notice, my friends, that while they assaulted him they did not succeed really in killing him. You may assault a good man, but you cannot kill him. On the day of his death, Stephen spoke before a few people in the Sanhedrim; this Sabbath morning he addresses all Christendom. Paul the Apostle stood on Mars Hill addressing a handful of philosophers who knew not so much about science as a modern school girl. To-day he talks to all the millions of Christendom about the wonders of justification and the glories of resurrection. John Wesley was howled down by the mob to whom he preached and they threw bricks at him, and they denounced him, and they jostled him and they spat upon him, and yet to-day, in all lands, he is admitted to be the great father of Methodism. Booth's bullet vacated the Presidential chair; but from that spot of coagulated blood on the floor in the box of Ford's Theatre, there sprang up the new life of a nation. Stephen stoned; but Stephen alive.

Pass on now, and see Stephen in his dying prayer. His first thought was not how the stones hurt his head, nor what would become of his body. His first thought was about his spirit. "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." The murderer standing on the trap-door, the black cap being drawn over his head before the execution, may grimace about the future; but you and I have no shame in confessing some anxiety about where we are going to come out. You are not all body. There is within you a soul. I see it gleam from your eyes to-day, an I see it irradiating your countenance. Sometimes I am abashed before an audience, not because I come under your physical eyesight, but because I realize the truth that I stand before so many immortal spirits. The probability is that your body will at last find a sepulture in some of the cemeteries that surround this city. There is no doubt but that your obsequies will be decent and respectful, and you will be able to pillow your head under the maple, or the Norway spruce, or the cypress, or the blossoming fir; but this spirit about which Stephen prayed, what direction will that take? What guide will escort it? What gate will open to receive it? What cloud will be cleft for its pathway? After it has got beyond the light of our sun, will there be torches lighted for the rest of the way? Will the soul have to travel through long deserts before it reaches the good land? If we should lose our pathway, will there be a castle at whose gate we may ask the way to the city? O, this mysterious spirit within us! It has two wings, but it is in a cage now. It is locked fast to keep it; but let the door of this cage open the least, and that soul is off. Eagle's wing could not catch it. When the soul leaves the body it takes fifty worlds at a bound. And have I no anxiety about it? Have you no anxiety about it? I do not care what you do with my body when my soul is gone, or whether you believe in cremation or inhumation. I shall sleep just as well in wrapping of sackcloth as in satin lined with eagle's down. But my soul—before I leave this house this morning I will find out where it is going to land. Thank God for the intimation of my text, that when we die Jesus takes us. That answers all questions for me. What though there were massive bars between here and the city of light, Jesus could remove them. What though there were great Saharas of darkness, Jesus could illume them. What though I get weary on the way, Christ could lift me on His omnipotent shoulder. What though there were chasms to cross. His hand could transport me. Then let Stephen's prayer be my dying litany: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." It may be in that hour we shall be too feeble to say a long prayer. It may be in that hour we will not be able to say the "Lord's Prayer," for it has seven petitions. Perhaps we may be too feeble even to say the infant prayer our mothers taught us, which John Quincy Adams, seventy years of age, said every night when he put his head upon his pillow:

> "Now I lay me down to sleep,
> I pray the Lord my soul to keep."

We may be too feeble to employ either of these familiar forms; but this prayer of Stephen is so short, is so concise, is so earnest, is so comprehensive, we surely will be able to say that: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." O, if that prayer is answered, how sweet it will be to die! This world is clever enough to us. Perhaps it has treated us a great deal better than we deserved to be treated; but if on the dying pillow there shall break the light of that better world, we shall have no more regret about leaving a small, dark, damp house for one large, beautiful, and capacious. That dying minister in Philadelphia, some years ago, beautifully depicted it when, in the last moment, he threw up his hands and cried out: "I move into the light!"

Pass on now and I will show one more picture, and that is Stephen asleep. With a pathos and simplicity peculiar to the Scriptures the text says of Stephen: "He fell asleep." "O," you say, "what a place that was to sleep! A hard rock under him, stones falling down upon him, the blood streaming, the mob howling. What a place it was to sleep!" And yet my text takes that symbol of slumber to describe his departure, so sweet was it, so contented was it, so peaceful was it. Stephen had lived a very laborious life. His chief work had been to care for the poor. How many loaves of bread he distributed, how many bare feet he had sandaled, how many cots of sickness and distress he blessed with ministries of kindness and love, I do not know; but from the way he lived, and the way he preached, and the way he died, I know he was a laborious Christian. But that is all over now. He has pressed the cup to the last fainting lip. He has taken the last insult from his enemies. The last stone to whose crushing weight he is susceptible has been hurled. Stephen is dead! The disciples come. They take him up. They wash away the blood from the wounds. They straighten out the bruised limbs. They brush back the tangled hair from the brow, and then they pass around to look upon the calm countenance of him who had lived for the poor and died for the truth. Stephen asleep! I have seen the sea driven with the hurricane until the tangled foam caught in the rigging, and wave rising above wave seemed as if about to storm the heavens, and then I have seen the tempest drop, and the waves crouch, and everything become smooth and burnished as though a camping place for the glories of heaven. So I have seen a man, whose life has been tossed and driven, coming down at last to an infinite calm, in which there was the hush of heaven's lullaby. Stephen asleep! I saw such an one. He fought all his days against poverty and against abuse. They traduced his name. They rattled at the door knob while he was dying, with duns for debts he could not pay; yet the peace of God brooded over his pillow, and while the world faded, heaven dawned, and the deepening twilight of earth's night was only the opening twilight of heaven's morn. Not a sigh. Not a tear. Not a struggle. Hush! Stephen asleep!

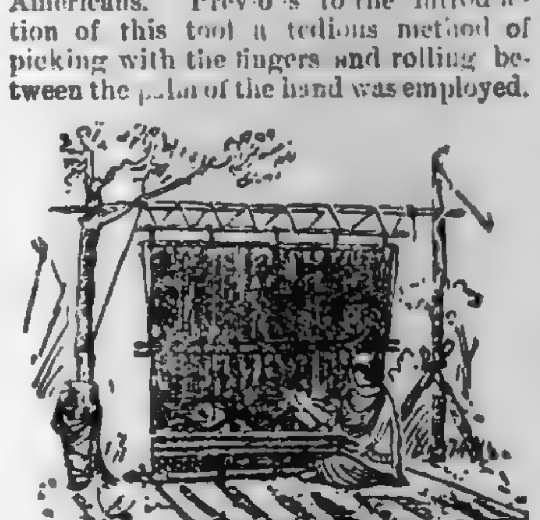
I have not the faculty to tell the weather. I can never tell by the setting sun whether there will be a drought or not. I cannot tell by the blowing of the wind whether it will be fair weather or foul weather on the morrow. But I can prophesy, and I will prophesy what weather it will be when you, the Christian, come to die. You may have it very rough now. It may be this week one annoyance, the next another annoyance. It may be this year one bereavement, the next another bereavement. Before this year has passed you may have to beg for bread, or ask for a scuttle of coal, or a pair of shoes; but spread your death couch amid the leaves of the forest, or make it out of the straw of a pauper's hut, the wolf in the jungle howling close by, or inexorable creditors jerking the pillow from under your dying head—Christ will come in and darkness will go out. And though there may be no hand to close your eyes, and no breast on which to rest your dying head, and no candle to lift the night, the odors of God's hanging garden will regale your soul, and at your bedside will halt the chariots of the king. No more rents to pay; no more agony because flour has gone up; no more struggle with the world, the flesh, and the devil;" but peace—long, deep, everlasting peace. Stephen asleep!

> "Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
> From which none ever wake to weep;
> A calm and undisturbed repose,
> Uninjured by the last of foes.
>
> "Asleep in Jesus, far from thee
> Thy kindred and their graves may be;
> But there is still a blessed sleep,
> From which none ever wake to weep."

You have seen enough for one morning. No one can successfully examine more than five pictures in a day. Therefore we stop, having seen this cluster of Divine Raphaels—Stephen gazing into heaven; Stephen looking at Christ; Stephen stoned; Stephen in his dying prayer; Stephen asleep.

Navajo Indian Weavers.

The art of weaving is of high antiquity among the American aborigines, and was brought to great perfection long before the advent of the white man. Probably in no tribe on our continent at the present time are better results in weaving obtained or ruder means employed than among the Navajo Indians of New Mexico and Arizona, and among none, perhaps, has the craft of the weaver been less affected by European influences. In preparing their wool the Navajos now use the hand-card purchased from the Americans. Previous to the introduction of this tool a tedious method of picking with the fingers and rolling between the palm of the hand was employed.



NAVAJO INDIAN WOMAN WEAVING.

They still spin their wool with the old distaff, consisting of a simple rod of wood thrust through a hole in the center of a round disk, although their Mexican neighbors on the Rio Grande, with whom they have had constant intercourse for the past 300 years, use the spinning-wheel.

Their most important native dyes are a dull brownish red, a deep black and a brilliant yellow. Besides these they have wool in three natural colors, viz., the white of the ordinary sheep, the rusty brown of the so-called black sheep, and the gray wool of the gray sheep. The Mexicans made them acquainted with the use of indigo, and with this, by varying the strength of the solution, they color their wool of different shades of green. In addition they have another material, which has added even more than indigo to the beauty of their fabrics. This is the bright scarlet cloth known as obazeta. The face of this cloth has a long nap; the Indians ravel it and use the weft. This cloth was originally made in Mexico, but it is probable that it is now made in England, if not in the United States. Of late years much American yarn has been brought into the country, and the finer serapes are now largely made of Germantown wool.

To make an ordinary blanket, the weaver usually proceeds in this way: She selects two slender, straight trees, about six or eight feet apart, or erects two post about the same distance from one another. To these she lashes two horizontal poles, one close to the ground, the other at a height of six or eight feet, according to the size of the blanket to be made. This arrangement serves as the frame to which the loom is secured. With her papoose propped against a near by tree the Indian woman works from sunrise till sunset, while her lord and master is idling in the sunshine, supported by her toil.—Chicago Herald.

URIAH RINKER, a farmer near Tannersville, Pa., was cleaning his saddle horse on Friday when the barn was struck by lightning and the horse instantly killed. Rinker was knocked senseless to the floor, and when he became conscious was surrounded by flames and all means of escape nearly cut off. By a desperate effort he managed to catch hold of the door sill and drag himself from the burning building. Just as he crossed the sill his wife rushed to his assistance, and dragged him to a place of safety. His clothing was then ablaze, and the heat from the fire was so intense that Mrs. Rinker's arms and hands were blistered. The watch in his pocket was destroyed by the lightning, and three long gashes were made in a new boot on his foot.

WILLIAM HARDING, of New Haven who died last week on the day set for his marriage, had previously said that he should die on that day, but as the hour for the ceremony approached he seemed much better and his friends hoped for a favorable turn of the disease. He was propped up in bed and made the requisite responses with a voice so firm that those who were present felt all the more encouraged. As soon as it was over, however, all strength seemed to leave him, he sank back on his pillow, became unconscious, and within two hours was dead.

A MODERN RALLYING CRY.

Wake the world to new conditions,
Free from moss-grown superstitions
Free from old, decayed traditions.
Sound the reveille!

Hail the morn foretold in story!
Souls awake to deeds of glory!
Leave old fancies, dim and hoary.
Sound the reveille!

These the days for noble doing,
High ideals and thoughts pursuing
Noblest inspirations wooing.
Sound the reveille!

Wake, to meet the calls of duty;
Wake to progress and its beauty;
Harvests wait you, full and fruity.
Sound the reveille!

This the age when thought is growing,
Fires of noble purpose glowing,
Streams of knowledge strongly flowing.
Sound the reveille!

Dally not with fools and factions,
Soft allurements, vain distractions;
March close linked in thoughts to actions.
Sound the reveille!

Shun poor baubles, gilt or varnished,
Let your heads and hearts be garnished
Rich with honor, pure, untarnished.
Sound the reveille!

Ours the world's pathfinding nation
Ours all people's inspiration;
Stong in faith and consecration.
Sound the revielle!

Scorn mere words and idle tattle,
Demagogues with empty rattle;
Deeds, not words, win every battle.
Sound the reveille!

On! Fulfill the dreams of ages,
Genius wrote on wisdom's pages,
Prophecies of bards and sages.
Sound the reveille!

Liberty has crowned our nation;
Ours the van, the honored station;
Sound aloud God's proclamation.
Sound the reveille!

Wrong breaks ranks, and right is leading;
God commands, and progress pleading;
Sleep not—on, unstirred, unheeding.
Sound the reveille!

Up! Awake! The hours are fleeting!
Friends advancing, foes retreating.
Forward, march! The drums are beating!
Sound the reveille!

—I. Edgar Jones, in Chicago Times.

Markleham's Mistake.

For ten years Hugh Markleham had been a wanderer upon the face of the earth. Financially speaking he had been successful, but for all that period of time he had been literally homeless. Now he was proceeding to a home of his own.

"The first road to the left beyond the bridge," mused Mr. Markleham to himself, "and the first house you come to is the one. The directions are plain enough, I am sure."

And he repocketed his memorandum-book, wherein Mr. Moses Gibbs, the house agent, had jotted down sundry items regarding his new purchase, and once more resumed his plodding way.

Hugh Markleham had clear hazel eyes, a profusion of dark hair and a set of dazzling white teeth, while his figure was straight and stalwart as that of a backwoodsman.

He paused half hesitatingly in front of a low wicket gate, hanging by one hinge, from which a shrub-grown path wound up through untrimmed woods to a one-story dwelling.

"Nonsense!" he muttered to himself; "it can't be that shed of a place. 'A desirable cottage' was what Gibbs said, 'situated in the midst of charming grounds.' And, by Jupiter, this is the very spot!"

He swung open the gilded iron gate of a pretty little inclosure, where the graveled paths shone whitely in the twilight, and evergreens skirted the path like tall old monks wrapped in green serge cloaks. Here and there a rustic seat of twisted cedar boughs stood beneath the leafless branches of elms or maples, and the cottage beyond—a low-eaved, picturesque affair, with verandas on every side—exactly met our hero's preconceived ideas of the "desirable country residence" painted in such glowing terms by "Moses Gibbs, Esq., real estate and insurance agent."

"Yes, yes," soliloquized Mr. Markleham, as he strode up the path, "I shall be as comfortable as possible here. I always did fancy sylvan solitudes, and—But what's this? A fire burning, as I live! Well, this is thoughtful of Gibbs."

His countenance expanded into broad smiles as he pushed open the door and entered a pretty room on the left of the main entrance hall, carpeted in green Brussels and curtained to correspond, while a glowing fire of anthracite coal cast ruddy reflections through the whole room, and a cushioned arm-chair stood close to the velvet rug.

"Gibbs told me there was some furniture in the house, and an old woman left in charge," thought Markleham, sitting down in the easy chair, and expanding his chilled fingers to the cheery blaze; "but I hadn't any idea of such snug quarters as this. Well, well, there is something in a home of one's own, after all. Tinted walls—plants on a stand with a tea-rose in bloom." And he paused an instant to snuff up the subtle fragrance exhaled by the one royal blossom, as it nodded on its slender stem. "And I declare, newspapers and books on the table! Gibbs is a jewel among men! He told me I should like the place, and I believe he's determined to make me fall in love with it at first sight."

Mr. Markleham leaned luxuriously back among the cushions, and, strangely enough, his thoughts went back to ten years ago, to the days when he was a preux chevalier among the pretty girls in Carristown.

"Pshaw!" he ejaculated aloud. "What a true saying it is that there is no fool like an old fool! I do believe there's something suggestive of matrimony in this comfortable little room, with the rose, and the pink walls, and the firelight! Why, I'm over forty, if I'm a day!"

As Mr. Markleham sat there, basking in the warmth and coziness of the scene, the door of an adjoining room opened and two ladies came in, their dimpled faces glowing with the frosty wind, and their eyes sparkling like four stars that that had somehow wandered from their sidereal spheres, and taken refuge beneath nut-brown lashes.

"Why, Lizzie! cried the shorter one, stopping suddenly in the very act of laying her fur-bordered hood on the table, "there is somebone in the parlor!"

"Nonsense!" said Lizzie, who, although she was eight or nine and twenty, was exceedingly rosy and fair to look upon, with a ripe red berry of a mouth, and a little saucy nose slightly turned up at the extreme point. "The cat and the crickets may be there, but who on earth beside? Sue, you're a goose!"

"But I tell you I saw him," said Sue, gripping her cousin's arm with a sort of nervous terror. "A great big tall man in your easy chair, sitting staring at the fire."

"Fiddlesticks!" cried Lizzie. "There, let go of my arm. I'll go and see for myself. It's some mistake, I dare say."

And she marched courageously into the room where sat our hero.

Lizzie Wyman had expected to behold nothing more than a shadow, or at best a stray dog, who had crept in out of the wintry cold of the twilight air. Seeing a veritable specimen of the genus homo, she paused a little abruptly, and stared at the new comer. Mr. Markleham stared equally hard at her. Moses Gibbs, Esq., real estate and insurance agent, had mentioned an old woman. His ideas of old age must have been singular in the extreme.

"I suppose you're Mary Ann," said he, affably.

"No, sir," said Miss Wyman, still sorely puzzled. "I'm Lizzie."

"Oh, Lizzie, eh! Well, it's just the same. I dare say you didn't expect me just yet?"

"No, sir, I certainly did not," said Lizzie, beginning to wonder whether or not she was dreaming.

"It's all right, no doubt," said Mr. Markleham. "Things look very nice and comfortable here, Lizzie my girl, and now the best thing that you can do will be to toss me a little bit of supper, and be quick about it, for I'm half famished. And, Lizzie, you might send the other girl out for any little trifle you want in the culinary department. Of course, though," he added, as he drew out a bill and extended it, grand seigneur fashion, toward the astonished damsel, "I shan't expect to keep two girls as a regular thing, although I must hunt up a man to take care of the horses. Now run along and make haste."

Lizzie Wyman retreated back upon Sue Baring, with the money in her hand, scarlet with suppressed mirth.

"Sue," she cried, the instant the door was safely closed, "I see it all!"

"The man is an escaped lunatic, isn't he? Dear, dear, we shall all be murdered!" cried Sue, growing hysterical.

"Nothing of the sort!" said Lizzie, energetically. "He has only made a dreadful blunder. Can't you see, Sue, it's the old bachelor who has taken the place next door!"

"Oh-h-h!" aspirated Sue, with the sparkle of amusement beginning to come into her eyes. "But, Lizzie, what are you going to do?"

"To cook him the nicest supper I can, and afterward explain to him his mistake, in the politest manner possible. Poor fellow, he is rather handsome, I think."

"What fun!" cried Sue gleefully, clapping her hands together. "And, Lizzie, I'll make the coffee after Monsieur Duval's French fashion; and I'll prepare an omelette while you are broiling the steak; and those dear little vol-au-vents we made this morning—they'll come in just right, won't they?"

And the two girls bustled about; while Mr. Markleham sat viewing the fire, and wondering what Gibbs could possibly have meant by talking about "an old woman!"

"Why she has got cheeks like peaches, and hair as thick and brown and glossy as my own!" he told himself. "Old, indeed! It won't be such bad fun to have a servant girl like that flitting about the house. She ought to have extra wages on account of her good looks."

Ten minutes afterward he found himself seated before a table, whereupon was spread a rich repast.

"This is very nice indeed, Lizzie!" said Mr. Markleham patronizingly. "I am glad to see that you are such a good cook."

And he straightway proceeded to do the best of practical justice to her efforts; for the long walk had given additional zest to an appetite which was not poor at any time. Lizzie Wyman, from her corner, composedly watched him the while.

"A very nice supper, Lizzie!" said Mr. Markleham, refolding his napkin, and placing it on the table ere he drew out a cigar from his pocket-case.

"I'm glad you like it, sir," said Lizzie, smiling, "and I hope that when you become my neighbor at Laurel Cottage, you will often drop in to such another."

"Eh!" cried Mr. Markleham, starting back. "Ain't this Laurel Cottage? Am I not in my own house?"

"No, sir," Miss Wyman answered, demurely. "You are in my house, and I am Elizabeth Wyman, your future neighbor, very happy to make your acquaintance, even after this rather unusual fashion."

"I—I beg your pardon, Miss Wyman," gasped our hero, turning scarlet and pale in a breath. "I don't see how I ever came to make such a ridiculous mistake! What an egregious donkey you must have taken me for!"

And a cold perspiration broke out round the roots of his hair as he recalled the off-hand manner in which he had addressed his supposed domestic.

"I'll go," he uttered, making a dive toward his hat, and dropping the unsmoked cigar on the floor, with a countenance of such misery that Lizzie Wyman's womanly pity came to the rescue.

"You will do no such a thing, Mr. Markleham," she said. "My brother will be here presently, and you shall stay and spend the evening with us, and learn to laugh at your own mistake."

So Mr. Markleham stayed until Tom Wyman came home from the city on the evening train; and as he afterward said, when Lizzie Wyman became Mrs. Markleham, "he never spent a pleasanter evening in his life!"—New York News.

A flourishing mill in Oregon pays an adjacent saw mill $50 a day for its sawdust, which it uses for fuel in its big furnaces. Their fuel costs them $100 a day before they found that they could burn what most Western saw mills throw

BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SKETCHES FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

Doing Well For His Size—Making His Son Work—A Medical Phenomenon—Bill Nye and the Train Boy, Etc., Etc.

Visitor (to Flossie)—"And how is the beby to-day, Flossie?"

Flossie—"Mamma thinks he is a little better."

Visitor—"Then he is not much better?"

Flossie—"No, ma'am. He couldn't be very much better, you know, because he is such a little bit of a baby."—New York Sun.

Making His Son Work.

Jay Gould—"Want a yacht, eh? Well, you've got to make the money to buy it. I'll take a walk down street."

Son George—"Yes, father."

"I'll slip on the pavement."

"Yes, father."

"And have myself brought back in an ambulance."

"Yes, father."

"Then stocks will drop and you buy."

"Yes, father."

"Then I'll go out on the front pavement and dance a jig."

"Yes, father."

"Then stocks will go up and you sell."—Omaha World.

A Medical Phenomenon.

"Hello, Wigglesworth!" exclaimed an Austin man, meeting an acquaintance on the avenue; "you are as gray as a rat. What's the matter with you?"

"It's terrible, isn't it? Last night I experienced a severe fright, and my hair turned to its present silvery hue immediately."

A few days after this the Austin man again encountered Wigglesworth wearing beautiful, resplendent, coal-black locks.

"Why, Wigglesworth, what's the meaning of this? The last time we met your hair was snow white; now it is dark as the raven's wing."

"Yes; you see, my hair turned gray from sudden fright. Yesterday a man paid me ten dollars he had been owning me for a long time, and the pleasurable emotions were so violent that they turned it back again to its original color.—Siftings.

Bill Nye and the Train Boy.

I conversed with the train-boy, sometimes coarsely and incorrectly called "the peanutter." He came in my special car to afford me an opportunity to speculate in a box of choice figs and an armful of paper-covered pronouns, including "I," "Thou," "He," "Me," "She" and "It." He heaved a sigh when I spoke of the new law, and sitting down beside me, he looked sadly into my open, ingenuous face, while he rested nine or ten dollars' worth of books on my knee.

"Yes," he said, inserting a soiled thumb in the corner of his eye in search of a cinder, "it is an Erie of financial depression. People that pay their fare bring their dinner, ride in the day coach, and sleep with their mouths open. They buy nuthin'. In fact, nobody travels now unless it is a case of life and death. Then they take a hard boiled egg and a blanket and borrow the papers. And now I see some sardine from Snaggsville says that under the Interstice Commerce Law a peanutter really has no right to ride free any more than anybody else, not being a railroad employe! I am tired of it. I can sit here and see my figs grow old on my hands. Just look at the lines of care on that box of figs! Two weeks ago I had to take all the prizes out of my candy-packages, and sell 'em for what I could get. You noticed I didn't go through the cars to-day putting a fresh pecan meat in everybody's lap! That's because I can't afford it. The injustice and clean-cut cussedness of this new law is invading every home and desolating every hearthstone in the land. Lemme sell you 'The Girl Detective; or Hunted to Halifax and Back Again Without Feed or Water,' by the author of 'Only a Dark Blue Pill.'"—New York World.

They Conflicted.

A man named Charles H. Constance went out from New York to Butte City, recently, and started a hotel. He tacked up a long list of "Rules of This House" which hinted at the bottom that "the above would be rigidly enforced" and he was only just putting the hammer away when a prominent citizen came in and shoved his hat on the back of his head and began reading them. He studied them attentively for about a minute and turned around and said:

"Rules of this house, hey, stranger?"

"Yes, sir; yes, sir; rules of this house. Can I do anything for you today?"

"'Bove will be rigidly enforced,' hey? Hev I got it all right?"

"Er—yes, sir, I suppose they'll be enforced, in a measure at least, sir."

"Will, hey, will they! When ye goin' ter begin enforcin' of 'em?"

"Why, my dear sir, you see perhaps I won't enforce those rules at all—not if they conflict with anything."

"Well, they conflict, every one of 'em."

"Of course, of course, but what with?"

"They conflict with me, you bleached-out, white-livered New Yorker; every one of 'em conflicts with me personally! Rules spiked up around always conflict with me."

"I—I—just hold on a minute, sir, and I'll take those rules right down."

"No you won't, stranger, I'll tend to them air rules myself. I'm goin' to exercise my six-shooter a little in this 'ere office—shall I p'int it at you or them rules?"

"Oh, aim at the rules, of course; point it right at the rules! That's what I put them up for—for guests to shoot at—shoot all you want to, don't mind me," and he put his hands over his ears and crawled behind the safe.

Then it sounded as if a large iron-clad had sailed into the office and was practicing on the clock with a fourteen-inch gun. After which the prominent citizen walked away and his spurs had a harsh, metallic ring as he went out the door and Mr. Constance crawled from behind the safe and went and picked what was left of the card-board out of the wall.—Dakota Bell.

A Hog as a Life Preserver.

Christopher Crosby, then a young man, was running a small schooner between Boston and St. John, N. B. An uncle of young Capt. Crosby was running at the same time one of the large side-wheel passenger-boats plying between Portland and St. John.

Most of our readers are no doubt aware that it is customary during a fog to blow a tin horn on board of sailing-vessels, in order to prevent collisions; and the sailors, as they say, take turns in "playing on the mouth-organ."

One morning, in the early part of spring, the season of the greatest amount of fog along our North Atlantic coast, Capt. Crosby's vessel was running on the southward course from St. John, about in the track of his uncle's steamer, which had left Portland that morning, and was liable to come along at any moment. During the night one of the sailors laid the "mouth-organ" down on the rail of the schooner and it rolled overboard. When the captain came on deck in the morning he found his vessel in a dense fog, and no horn on board. For a moment he was puzzled, not knowing what to do. Recovering himself, he set one of the men to pounding on the anchor with a piece of iron; for under the circumstances it was choosing between a positive noise and a possible death.

Pounding on the anchor made a noise much better than none, but it could be heard only a short distance and was not at all satisfactory.

It so happened that among the vessel's stores the cabtain had a live pig, which he allowed to run around on deck.

Presently the men on the schooner heard in the distance, beating against the water, the wheels of a steamer, which seemed to be running directly for their little vessel. They all screamed at the tops of their voices, for in five minutes they expected to be struggling in the water.

Suddenly it occurred to the captain that the shrill squeal of a pig could be heard a long distance, and quick as thought he set one of the men pinching the pig's tail with a pair of nippers. The pig in response to each pinch belched forth a most blood-curdling shriek, which traveled far out into the fog.

The steamboat came nearer and nearer very slowly. It's captain, faintly discerning the outlines of the schooner through the fog, and thinking it was his nephew's vessel, shouted in a deep guttural voice: "Chris, is that you?" "Yes," replied Captain Crosby. "Well, I am glad of that," growled the uncle, "for I thought I was running ashore and right into a hog-yard.—American Magazine.

Snakes as Food.

o the average person a snake would not be an attractive article of diet except in the last stages of starvation. Snakes have been eaten by Asiatics and Europeans, however, who had not reached this extremity. Buckland tells of a young English woman who ate several snakes' eggs which she found on a shelf in a greenhouse where he had placed them in order to see if the heat of the sun would bring forth the young snakes. She thought they were sugar plums which the cook had put in the greenhouse. No bad effects resulted, although the young woman became slightly ill soon after eating them.

To the bushmen of Australia the flesh of snakes is something of a delicacy. It is eaten also by the natives of India. The Digger Indians of the southwestern portion of the United States like snakes, it is said, as a diet, and stories are told of white hunters in the Western wilderness often sustaining life for days by feeding on snakes which they killed, the ordinary varieties of game not being obtainable at the time.

Buckland, who more than once ate both boa constrictor and crocodile, thought the taste of each was very far from being unpleasant. His father (William, the geologist, and high dignitary of the Church of England), with a physician of the anatomy school at Christ Church, Oxford, also made part of a meal off the latter species of reptile. The flesh was pronounced to be excellent. The crocodile, however, had bad effects on the stomach of one person who ate of it, but this was because that person devoured, according to Buckland's testimony, about as much of it as five men ought to eat of any kind of meat. The meat was so sweet that he could not restrain himself until he was gorged, although he knew all the time that it was crocodile.—Globe-Democrat.

A Mill Built by Washington.

The mill that Washington built stands in a ravine about half a mile east of Perryopolis, Fayette county. It is still in operation and propelled, as he designed, by a stream flowing down a rugged run called after the founder of the mill. The latter is, as might be expected, a rude structure. Originally it consisted of but one story, and the lines where Washington left off and the improvements, such as they were, begun are plainly discernable. The name of the present proprietor is Samuel Smith, who takes pride out of the fact that it has been kept in the Smith family since it passed from the possession of the illustrious founder. To the east of this is to be seen two of the block houses in which Washington's slaves were housed—the only ones remaining through the years since their occupancy. Still further east on the elevation stands the house of Mr. Hersey, one of the original owners of that portion of the grant to Washington upon which Perryopolis was built.—Pittsburg Leader.

A High Old Celebration.

Perhaps the most unique celebration of the German Emperor William's birthday was that which took place 7,000 feet high on the southern summit of the Bavarian Alps. Two mountaineers—Stanzl and Walch by name—ascended to this elevation, and then kindled a bonfire, the materials for which they had laboriously dragged with them. They had intended climbing to the very summit of the Watzmann, but deep snow prevented this, and the bonfire of wood and petroleum was lit on the Falzkopf. The ascent of the mountain often brought the climbers up to the shoulders in snow, but they were determined to perform the feat, and they did it.

How indestructibly the good grows and propagates itself, even among the weedy entanglements of evil.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 30, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Fifty-seven young men graduated at the University of Alabama last week.

The Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama has abolished all tuition fees at that institution.

Editor Tom Baine, of the Hayneville Examiner, has been appointed Postoffice Inspector for Alabama. We congratulate Mr. Baine and feel sure that he will make a good officer.

The State Agricultural and Mechanical College located at Auburn was burned Friday last. Loss about $125,000. It was insured and will be rebuilt at the same place in time for opening the next session September 15th.

Miss Lula Scarborough, of Greenville, has been appointed as Notary Public by Gov. Seay under the recent act of the legislature granting women the right to hold office in Alabama. Miss Scarborough is the third lady who has been given an office under this statute.

The unmarried editor of the Bibb Blade proposes to "set down on" all young ladies who use slang. This is impertinent, and the editor who uses such low slang as "set down on" deserves to be "kicked higher than Jimminy's kite" by every young lady whom he attempts "to set down on."

There is a growing sentiment among the newspaper men of Alabama, against the use of intoxicating drinks. During the recent session of the press association one of the members became intoxicated and made himself offensive to the members, and forthwith the badge was taken from him, and that ended his privileges—free rides and other courtesies extended to the members.

A man by the name of Hoover has been in South Carolina organizing negro lodges of Knights of Labor. The negroes, it is reported, are under a pledge to do no farm work at less than $1 per day and threaten to kill those farmers who refuse to pay that and any laborers who are willing to work for less. The demonstrations of the darkies were so great at one point that a cavalry company has been organized for protection. If these reports are true, and if the Knights of Labor really propose to carry out their purposes even at the risk of a race conflict in the South it will result in great injury to the order and to the welfare of the country.

It seems that the Knights of Labor at Birmingham are badly tangled on the negro question. The recent parade there of 8,500 knights was made up principally of negro lodges, some of the white lodges refusing to take part in line with the colored brother. Mr. Powderly writes them that the lodges there must settle the question for themselves, but holds that "a knight is a knight no matter what his color or previous condition of servitude and that he is entitled to all the privileges of the order." This don't settle it worth a cent for the white brother, and the damage to the order in the South may be very material.

Over in Walker.

Some men enthusiastically grasp everything they see or hear, others see only the dark side of every picture, while others look at everything from a good, ridiculous standpoint. A civil engineer who has just reached town from the Kansas City railroad, belongs to the latter class. He tells the following anecdote with a great deal of pleasure to his enthusiastic Birmingham friends who think that this is the center around which the Universe revolves:

"While at work in Piney Woods near Jasper I met a native of whom I made some inquiry as to the county, the quality of the soil, etc. The native took his long rifle from his shoulder and setting it down on the ground, folded his arms across the muzzle, looked me square in the face and said:

"'Say, mister, this country's got more land and less labor, more streams and less water, more cows and less butter, more bees and less honey, more trees and less lumber, more men and less money, more women and less mothers, more gals as chaws terbacker, more folks as don't use water, more preachers and less christians 'n any G—d—d country you ever seen, an don't you forget it. Here? Tig, come on an' tree another varmint. Good-bye, sir.'"—Birmingham Chronicle.

Practical Benefits From a Protective Tariff.

Only recently have we noticed that our neighbor, the Bibb Blade, is a "protection" Democrat; possibly a recent convert after witnessing the practical effects of protection upon home industries in its midst. It presents some good points in the following:

"In Bibb county alone the protection given to iron industries by the tariff has given our farmers markets for their produce. Two farmers from our immediate vicinity have made more clear money from selling garden produce to the laborers of Brierfield since the industries at that place have been started than they ever realized before off of unprotected cotton. We know one old gentleman across the river who says he makes an easy living for himself and family off of two acres of ground, the produce sold to laborers protected by the tariff, and the remainder of his farm is rented out. These are only a sample of many in this section, and before long all our farmers will fall into this way.

Besides this everybody knows that farming implements, flour and meat, sugar and molasses, and all other articles of food bought by our farmers, are cheaper now than they were under the free trade system. Iron is cheaper, clothes, everything is cheap. This has never yet been denied by the advocates of free-trade. Even Henry Watterson's star-eyed goddess turns red in the face when these facts are presented to him."

Fort Worth, Texas which is one of the Birminghams, of the southwest, has been celebrating her growth, and her orators have set running the fountains of their eloquence. Mr. Throp Andrews, one of them said: "You come from every portion of this great state—from the pineries of the east, to the cactus fields of the west; from where the gorgeous sunshine tints the draperies of the mountain fastnesses of the great northwest, to where the maid's morning blush is first kissed by the breeze from the salted seas. And I will here repeat what I have said on a former occasion, as illustrative of the hopes, ambitions and expectations of the city. We expect in the near future, to rival New York in the ubiquity of commerce; Paris in the arts and sciences; Lowell in the number and variety of our manufacturing enterprises; Athens in our institutions of learning; Rome in splendor and pageantry, and London in wealth and lordly palaces."

Lo! the Poor Nigger.

The correspondent of the New York Herald tells an incident of the recent graduation exercises at the West Point Academy which we have not seen previously mentioned. The incident is described in the following paragraph in reference to the presentation of diplomas by Gen Sheridan:

Francis R. Shunk, of Pennsylvania, was the first to step forward, but the applause that greeted him, as the highest man in the class, was as nothing compared with the enthusiastic hand-clapping awarded colored Cadet Alexander for winning thirty-second place in the class.

This demonstration over a negro was a direct slight to the talented young Pennsylvanian who had achieved the highest honors in his class, and indicates the sentimental silliness of the hand-clappers. Many of these were women, and such action was decidedly not to their credit. Why this negro cadet should have been honored above a white cadet and that cadet the best man in his class, is something that cannot be explained save on the ground that there is an element in fashionable Northern society which looks with great favor upon an increase of negro officers in the army, in order that the romantic, sentimental and fanatical females may have a new field from which to select their subjects for elopements. Heretofore they have had to be content with negro coachmen, but an elopement with a negro lieutenant of the regular army will cast that sensation in the shade. Any attempt to magnify the negro over the white man, will result in his injury and to the disgrace and degradation of those who applaud it, and is disgusting.

It may here be added that Cadet Shunk is the grandson of a former Governor of Pennsylvania (Shunk) and the great grandson of another—Gov. Findlay—and yet this young man, of good birth, graduating at the head of his class, is rated, in the estimation of that assemblage, below a negro.—Mont. Star.

Howard College.

MARION, ALA., June 14, 1887.

To-day closes another session of this institution. President Murfee regards it as the happiest period of the sixteen years he has spent here. The graduating class was the largest since the war. The commencement exercises were heightened in interest by the presence of two distinguished sons of our Alma Mater, Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, of Atlanta, who delivered the Baccalaureate Address, and Capt. J. M. McKleroy, of Anniston, who delivered the Alumni Oration. Rev. G. A. Nunnally, of Eufaula, preached the commencement sermon, and Hon. H. C. Tompkins, of Montgomery, made an address to the literary societies. Mr. Tompkins spoke in defense of the old civilization of the South, and called attention to the need of agricultural development in Alabama. He produced statistics to show the great possibilities of our State in this field of labor.

The most noticeable feature at the Alumni banquet was the decided opposition to a removal of the college. All the old students want it to remain where it is. It is expected that a final decision about the removal will be made at the convention which meets next month at Union Springs. The sooner the question of removal is settled, the better it will be for the college. The work of endowment will then go on more rapidly.

BIJOU.

God bless our Grandmothers! We all love the young folks of course, but for good solid comfort give us the steady unwavering love of the old grandmother as she watches over the health of the household, administering when needed to the little ones a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge because experience has taught her it is the best worm medicine ever made.

Bivings, Duke & Co's Mill.

We are glad to see Mrs. J. L. Harrell and daughter Miss Lucy at the Mills. They are visiting the family of Dr. A. E. Bivings.

On Sunday morning the 19th at 10 o'clock we had quite a surprise in the matrimonial line at the home of Mr. Brad Gray. Mr. Tom Mitchell and Miss Cathie Wilson were united in the "holy bonds of wedlock." May their future life be one of unalloyed happiness.

Mr. W. R. Holder was up to see his daughter Miss Rebecca last Sunday.

Dr. A. E. Bivings and wife spent two days last week in Birmingham. They found it very dusty but all life and bustle.

We are expecting Mr. Briggs to fill his appointment here Sunday afternoon and would be glad to see our Clanton friends out.

Mr. Buist Bivings, who has been spending a few days at Dixie, returned Sunday afternoon.

The Protestant Methodists held quarterly conference at Mt. Pizgah on Saturday and Sunday the 18th and 19th. Quite a large crowd was in attendance.

No sickness at our Mills and people are in good spirits since the rain Sunday afternoon as our gardens and crops were greatly in need of it.

OLD MAID.

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," and if you know a sufferer from piles, recommend to him Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment a preparation composed of safe and simple ingredients, and which is regarded as the best remedy known for Piles. Do not forget that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment cures Piles when used according to directions.

Wadsworth Chat.

We are sorry to report the death of a little 8 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ivey. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved parents.

A young lady visiting friends in our town from Florida, has completely captivated one or more of our young men. She may expect to see some of their fair faces from Ala. down in the land of flowers and oranges.

Miss Hellen Wadsworth is spending her vacation at home. She will return to school at Tuskegee in September.

The picnics are full ripe now, and the young people certainly enjoy them; singing the sweet sentiments of the forest birds, into the the ears of their lovers.

The crops in the grand old county of Autauga, promise an abundant yield.

Mr. Charlie McDougall and sister are visiting relatives in this place.

Col. W. W. Wadsworth was the only one of our townsmen to attend the commencement exercises at Tuskegee.

We are sorry to learn that cadet W. M. Wadsworth, who is attending the commercial school at Poughkeepsie N. Y., will not be home before September.

The VIEW is sure to hold its own in spite of opposition. It uniformly takes a stand for the right. May it live and prosper.

OLD RIP.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from blood poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

The Weakest Part.

It is a general principle that local disease attacks the weakest part of the unfortunate victim at the time he may be exposed to the attack. This may be more satisfactory to the theorist than to the sufferer. The latter has often asked, "But why should that part be weaker than any other?" That is a wise remedy that tends to strengthen all the weaker parts, and thus enable them not only to cast off the disease, but guard them from the encroachments of other diseases.

For this purpose the Oxygen has no equal. If you wish to know more of this treatment, you can easily be gratified by addressing Drs. Starkey & Palen 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, for their Brochure, an interesting book of 200 pages, and it will be sent to you free.

Send us your job work.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

No woman can have her patience more severely taxed than by a fretful child, whom nothing can please, and a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge will relieve the child if it be troubled with worms. Therefore do not allow your child to be tortured further when such a remedy is at hand.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5ly Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the working of the streets of the town of Clanton.

1. Be it ordained by the Intendant and Council of the town of Clanton, That all male inhabitants living within the incorporation of the town of Clanton between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years of age, who are not permanently disabled or exempt under the laws of the State of Alabama are hereby declared liable to work on the streets of the town of Clanton.

2. Be it further ordained, That no person shall be required to work longer than ten days in any one year on the streets of said town. That any person liable, to work on the streets of said town may be excused from the performance of such service by paying the sum of $10 (Ten Dollars) for each year that they are liable to perform service upon said streets, provided further that such persons may within their election pay the sum of one dollar per day for each day they shall be liable to work upon said streets.

3. Be it further ordained, That it shall be the duty of the Intendant and Town Council of said Town of Clanton immediately upon the passage of this ordinance to cause an enumeration of all the male inhabitants of the town of Clanton who are liable to perform service upon the streets of said town as specified in section one of this ordinance and shall cause the same to be alphabetically arranged in a book to be kept for that purpose and filed with the secretary of said Town Council subject to the inspection of any person or persons living in the incorporate limits of said Town.

4. Be it further ordained, So soon as said lists shall be prepared as specified in the preceeding section it shall be the duty of the Intendant and Town Council of said Town of Clanton, to appoint and commission one or more overseers on the streets of the said Town of Clanton and annually thereafter, and shall furnish or proportion the persons liable to perform service on the streets to said overseer or overseers and shall furnish said overseer or overseers a list duly attested of the persons so proportioned.

5. Be it further ordained, That it shall be the duty of said overseer so appointed as soon and as often as it may be necessary to give each person so proportioned two days notice of the time and place of working the streets of said Town prescribing what kind of tool each person shall bring.

6. Be it further ordained that the hours of work on said streets shall not extend longer than from seven o'clock a. m to six o'clock p. m. of any day.

7. Be it further ordained, That any person who shall be liable to perform service upon the streets of said town who shall wilfully refuse to perform said service or pay the amounts specified in section two of this ordinance after having been duly warned as provided in section five of this ordinance shall on conviction be fined not less than one nor more than three dollars for each day such person shall default.

8. Be it further ordained that it shall be the duty of the overseers appointed under this ordinance to notify all persons failing to work upon said streets when duly warned and may in their judgment if such person shall render a good excuse, may excuse such person or persons. But if any person who shall make any such default shall fail within five days after such default to render such excuse to said overseer, it shall be the duty of such overseer to report the same to the Intendant who shall cause such overseer to make affidavit against such person or persons, stating the names of such persons who have defaulted, the number of days such persons defaulted. The Intendant shall thereupon issue a warrant for the arrest of such person and place the same in the hands of such overseer whose duty it shall be to forthwith arrest such defaulter and bring him before said Intendant, and if it shall appear to said Intendant that such person has wilfully failed, and refused to perform service upon the streets, it shall be the duty of said Intendant to impose a fine as provided for in section seven of this ordinance.

9. Be it further ordained, That any person found guilty of a violation of this ordinance that they shall have the right of an appeal to a jury or to the next term of the circuit court of said county by giving bond and security in such an amount as shall be prescribed by the Intendant trying the same.

10. Be it further ordained, That the Intendant shall be allowed for each case arising under this ordinance the following fees and no other: for each warrant and affidavit 50 cents; for each trial $1.00; for each witness summoned and sworn 25 cents.

11. Be it further ordained, That the overseer for his services shall be allowed the following fees and no other: For each arrest $1.00; for summoning each witness 25 cents; for feeding prisoners for each day while under arrest 40 cents.

12. Be it further ordained that any person found guilty of a violation of this ordinance who shall not immediately pay the fine and costs assessed against them or secure the same, shall be sentenced to hard labor on the streets of said town for not less than one or more than five days in the discretion of the Intendant trying the same.

13. Be it further ordained, That all monies arising from fines or otherwise under this ordinance shall be set apart as a fund for the purpose of improving the streets of said town of Clanton.

14. Be it further ordained, That the streets shall remain under the supervision of the Intendant and Councillors of said town that all improvements made upon the same shall be done under the order of said Intendant and board of Councillors.

15. Be it further ordained, That this ordinance shall go into effect twenty days after its passage.

Approved this 22d day of June, 1887.

J. M. PONDER,
Intendant,
J. C. LAWRENCE,
Clerk.

$20 Reward!

Strayed or stolen from my stable about four weeks since one small black or dark brown mare pony, natural saddler. No marks, except branded on one hip. $20 reward for her return to I. A. Slaughter, Birmingham, Ala.

Tidings for the Afflicted!

This is to inform all persons that I will be in Montgomery, Ala., about June 25, 1887, and will remain there until September 1st, 1887.

I will be prepared to treat all cases of Cancer, Ulcer, or Sore Breast, without the use of the knife. I have endorsements of the most prominent physicians in the country, also many from parties whom I have treated. Read these:

TO THE PUBLIC:—I have had a very bad case of Ulcer in the neck in my family; have had treatment of several physicians from New York and Washington, but was not relieved until I was recommended to Dr. Daniel, who made a successful cure, and I can heartily recommend him.

MRS. MARIE MOORE,
323 Missouri Ave., Washington, D. C.

ALTOONA, PENN., Oct. 16, 1886.

This is to certify that I was treated by Dr. Daniel for Cancer on the face and I am now entirely well. I had been to Philadelphia and was treated by the best doctors there. They gave me up and told me I might as well go home to die, as my cancer was incurable. The doctors in Altoona all gave me up. I can recommend Dr. Daniel to any one who is afflicted with that dreadful disease—cancer.

Respectfully,
HENRY MASSACER.

I have many more certificates, but have not the space to give them. All who may not be able to come to me at Montgomery, can send me full particulars of their case with $10, and I will send them medicine and directions to cure any case of Cancer, Ulcer or Sore Breast. Persons can consult or write me at Mrs. Clark's boarding house, Monroe Street, Montgomery, Ala.

j16-4t LITTLETON DANIEL.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

L&N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

THE CHICAGO
COTTAGE
ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.
These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN.
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices.
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.
WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.
I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.
Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JUNE 30, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Mr. Tom Evans spent Sunday in Clanton.

A Miss Barnes is visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mr. S. J. Strock, of Verbena, was in to see us last week.

Dr. J. S. Pitts, of Verbena, spent last Thursday in Clanton.

Read the ordinance of the town council in another column.

Mrs. F. L. Ashley, of this place, is visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sartor visited relatives in Anniston this week.

Miss Mattie Thornton, of Birmingham, is visiting relatives in Clanton.

Mrs. W. A. Collier is on a visit to friends and relatives in Montgomery this week.

The Methodist Protestants of Clanton are speaking of erecting a church building.

Mrs. Handley and children, of Birmingham, are spending the summer in Clanton.

Mr. John W. Bateman, of this county, graduated at the State University last week.

Mr. W. H. Foshee is having an addition of two rooms built to his residence on Court Avenue.

Jemison is making preparations to celebrate the glorious fourth with a grand hurrah and picnic.

The trees in front of the Methodist church need trimming up so as not to entirely obstruct the view.

Rev. A. E. Burns filled his regular appointments in the Baptist church at this place last Sunday.

We are glad to state that Mr. Chas. Phillips will locate in Clanton and go into business here in the fall.

We are glad to learn that Miss Augusta Evans, who has been suffering with neuralgia in her eyes, is now improving.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Stewart, of this place, are on a visit to their sister, Mrs. Chas. J. Duncan, at South Pittsburg, Tenn.

Mrs. Pinckard, of Tuskegee, accompanied by a little daughter, is on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Sampey, in this place.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

The rain came down Sunday, and was refreshing and it has lasted long enough for a good season to the farmers hereabouts.

The old ragged and torn up fence around the court house should be removed and the grounds cleaned off. As it is, it is truly an eye sore to the place.

Sampey's Corner.

I have just received a lot of new goods suitable for summer wear. Also a fresh lot of canned goods, tea, chocolate, &c. Those table peaches and pears are as nice as the fresh fruit from the trees. Flour still sells at reasonable prices and coffee is coming down to more reasonable figures. A good stock of shirts just received.

The town council are going right to work. They mean business and with the co-operation of the citizens will do much for the town.

Mr. Willis Lowe is preparing to erect a business house adjoining the store of W. H. Sartor. It will be occupied by Mr. Chas. Phillips.

We have received a handsomely printed catalogue of the Huntsville Female College. It shows an attendance during the past session of 235 pupils at that excellent institution.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

We give considerable space this week to the publication of an ordinance of the town council and consequently were compelled to leave out several interesting communications which arrived rather late.

Floyd Kinneybrew, a negro prisoner, escaped from the jail at this place yesterday morning but was re-captured. He made his escape by getting possession of some keys with which he unlocked the doors.

A protracted meeting will be commenced at the Baptist church in this place next Sabbath, and will be conducted by Rev. H. H. McNeil and others of the Methodist Protestant church.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

The Clanton shooting club have located their shooting grounds South of town and near the railroad in front of Mr. W. M. Burton's. They have received their traps and will be ready for business soon.

Miss M. S. Butler, who will be pleasantly remembered by Clantonians as the young lady who delighted them with her powers of elocution last summer, is on a visit to Mrs. T. G. Holt at this place.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks, county Superintendent of Education, attended the Teacher's Association meeting at Shelby Springs last week. He reports a pleasant and instructive meeting. During the summer Prof. H. will make an active canvass of the county in behalf Clanton Academy.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

A communication signed "Verbena" has been received. It begins by asking, "Is everybody who writes for the VIEW obliged to sign their name? If so I'll get left this time." Certainly, you will get left this time." Though you write nicely and we would like to publish your contribution, we cannot do so because we will not know who is responsible for what it records unless you give your name. This rule is invariable. Try again.

The Result of Neglect.

Hon. Wm. D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, and a member of Congress from that State, is writing a series of letters to the Baltimore Manufacturer's Record on the Southern towns which he has recently visited. His last letter was on South Pittsburg, Tenn. He speaks of things as he sees them. Referring to the bad condition of the streets, the lack of homes for working people, absence of any local government and other unfavorable conditions, he says:

"In my judgment this inexplicable mismanagement justifies the complaints to which I was compelled to listen during a stay of about ten days from almost every man who had recently settled in South Pittsburg."

South Pittsburg is a small place of 1,500 people. Mr. Kelley says that with proper management from the start the place would now have had a population of 12,000 or more. There is no doubt that every small town suffers much from like causes, and now that we have a local government for Clanton we hope that such neglect may not long be our lot. With such a man as Mayor Ponder at the helm we may confidently expect a change for the better and that very soon.

Baptist District Meeting.

The following programme has been prepared for the 5th Sunday meeting of the 4th District Unity Association to be held with the Baptist Church at Mulberry commencing Friday before the fifth Sunday in July, 1887:

11 A. M. Introductory sermon by J. M. Kailin.

2 P. M. Individual responsibility—A. S. Coburn, John Scoot and others.

Saturday 9 A. M. Devotional exercises—T. J. Elam. 9:30 A. M. A Sunday school is a necessity in a church—D. A. White, H. W. Watson and others.

2 P. M. The object of church organization—W. M. Wood, T. M. Henley and others.

Sunday, 9:30 a. m. Sunday School. 11 a. m. preaching.

We want to see every church in the district represented.

An invitation is extended to brethren generally and especially to ministers to attend.

D. A. WHITE,
JAS. RASBERRY,
W. J. FLEMING,
Committee.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-headache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

The Farmer's Alliance.

Following is a list of the local Farmer's Alliances in Chilton county with the name of the Secretary of each. We find it published in the Tariff and Labor Advocate, of Calera. It will give an idea of the material of which the order is composed in our county. If some member of the order will furnish us with a brief outline of the aims and purposes of the organization we will be glad to publish that for the information of the readers of the VIEW:

1st—Clanton; M.C. McRee, Clanton.
2d—Cedar Grove; G. W. Vines, Jumbo.
3d—Mineral Springs; W. H. Smith, Jemison.
4th—Collin's Chapel; W. Gore, Strasburg.
5th—Rocky Mount; E. W. Honeycutt, Jemison.
6th—Providence; S. B. Martin, Clear Creek.
7th—Mars Hill; G. W. Gothard. Jemison.
8th—New Prospect; J. G. Oakley, Ashby, Bibb county.
9th—Pleasant Grove; J. L. Thomas, Jemison.
10th—Rehoboth; A. F. Childers, Strasburg.
11th—Cane Creek; Alex. G. Dake, Clanton.
12th—Poplar Springs, Moses Popwell, Coopers.
13th—Friendship; C. C. Mims, Kincheon.
14th—Coosa River; Riley Robertson, Coopers.
15th—Rocky Ridge; Madison Popwell, Kincheon.

O. M. Mastin,
W. H. Conway, } Trade Com.
J. A. Culp,

ALEX. G. DAKE,
Secretary County Alliance.
Apr. 18, 1887. Clanton, Ala.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a fieri facias issued out of the office of the circuit court of Chilton county, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment, recently obtained against D. H. Davenport, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said D. H. Davenport, I have levied on the following property, to-wit: Southwest fourth of Southeast fourth of section twenty (20) township twenty-two (22), range thirteen (13) less two acres off the east side of said s w ¼ of s e ¼, and lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction all the right, title and interest of the above named D. H. Davenport, in and to the above described property, on Monday, the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated at Clanton, this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against Elijah Headley out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said Elijah Headley, heretofore levied upon under an execution issued by A. C. Mims, a justice of the peace and levied upon the following described lands, viz: S e ¼ of s e ¼ of n w ¼ and s e ¼ of s e ¼, e ½ of s w ¼ of s e ¼ and n ½ of n e ¼ and s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14, township 21, range 13, lying in Chilton county, Ala.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named Elijah Headley in and to the above described property, on the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

MONTGOMERY
FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES
—SUCH AS—
Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular
MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.
If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.
A WELL TRIED TREATMENT
For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.
"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.
Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:
Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales
And thousands of others in every part of the United States.
"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.
DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.
Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Dixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞ WATCH IT. ☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala.
SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 693. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN. FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
[illegible]
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
[illegible]
MAKE HENS LAY
[illegible]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX [illegible].
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed; Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Driver.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, on Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT,
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor,
1909½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods,
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [illegible]

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips.

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE, BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods; Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 21-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation. FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c. TIME AND COST. It requires from 1 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course. PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation. Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Story of a Chinaman.

A New York paper tells this story of the misfortunes of a Chinaman: Chin Look was in a street car on his way home. Beside him in the car was a tipsy man with a pocket flask of whiskey. Opposite him was a young American on his way home from a hospitable front parlor. The tipsy man offered the young man a drink. The young man saw that the best thing to do was to take one. The liquor was vile, and flashed through the young man's system like lightning. He thanked the tipsy man, said the liquor was good, and handed the flask back. The tipsy man proffered it to Ching Look. The Chinaman declined it. The tipsy man urged him to drink again and again, and each time Ching Look smiled and shook his head.

"Begorra," said the tipsy man, "I'd give tin dollars to see a Chaneyman dhrrrunk. It'd be worth twinty dollars. Here, John, or what the divil d'ye call yoursilf, take a dhrink. Aye, but you will now; I'll make you."

With that the tipsy man seized the Chinaman by the hair and with brutal force pressed the neck of the flask against the Chinaman's mouth. "I'll make you dhrink, blast you," said the tipsy man. The whiskey ran down Ching Look's coat, and, getting into his mouth, half strangled him. He writhed and struggled to get away. The flask ran empty, and the tipsy man, enraged, dropped it and began to choke the Chinaman. The Chinaman scratched and clawed, and he and his assailant rolled from the seat to the bottom of the car. The tipsy man punched him until blood hid his face, and the Chinaman screamed. The car stopped, the tipsy man rolled out of it, and a policeman leaped aboard and dragged the Chinaman out and through the streets to the station house, where he spent the night. In court next morning he was accused of having been drunk and disorderly. He did not understand a word of what was said until the justice remarked "ten dollars." At that he opened his coat, ripped some stitches in his undergarment, and handed the Court a $10 gold piece.

An Indiana farmer, who told his boys to burn every bumble bees' nest they found on the farm, and who was complaining at the failure of his clover seed crop, was surprised when Maurice Thompson the naturalist, said: "That is why your clover seed fails you. Bumble bees make your clover seed." It is a fact that a strong nest of bumble bees in a big clover field is worth $20 to the owner; for these insects are the chief agents in fertilizing the blossoms, thereby insuring a heavy crop of seed. In Australia there are no bumble bees of our kind, and they could not raise clover seed until they imported some.

An Albany barber says that there's not half the danger in being shaved from the public cups in a barber shop as in being brushed with the public hairbrush. He says: "Half of the baldness in the world is caused by the indiscriminate use of brushes in barber shops. Baldness is usually preceded by a scaling of the head. This is sort of disease. When a barber brushes a man's hair whose scalp is diseased and uses the same brush on a healthy scalp, what can you expect? That is why so few women are bald. They never go to barber shops."

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Jefferson Davis passed the seventy-ninth milestone a few days ago.

Bishop Harris, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has gone to Europe for the summer.

Secretary Lamar is a Jersey-cattle fancier, and has a small herd at his home in Oxford, Miss.

Charles Crocker, second Vice-President of the Southern Pacific Railways, says he considers he is worth about $80,000,000.

General Sheridan will review the Pennsylvania National Guard at its State encampment, at Mount Gretna, from August 6 to 13.

Ex-Vice-President Hannibal Hamlin, who will be seventy-eight in August, assures his friends that he feels like a healthy man of fifty.

Justice Miller, of the United States Supreme Court, has nearly finished the oration he will deliver in Philadelphia on September 17—the anniversary of the completion of the Constitution.

Wilson Waddingham, of New Haven, Connecticut, is said to be the largest landholder in the world. He owns in fee 1,500,000 acres, which is 500,000 more than the Duke of Westminster.

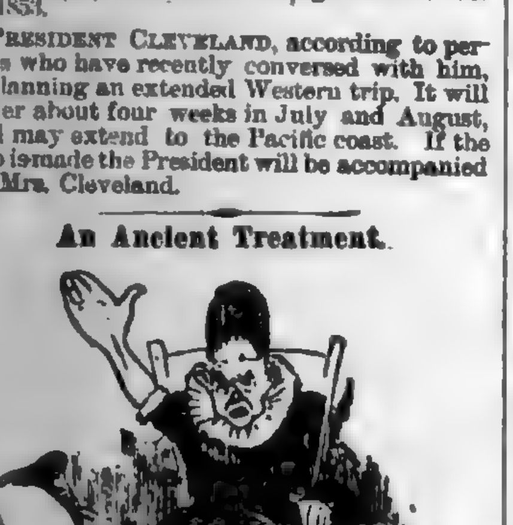
The aged King of Holland still perseveres in his hobby of collecting harness, reins, bridles, saddles, whips and spurs that have a famous history, especially those used in the fields of war in the dark ages.

Lieutenant-General Sheridan will spend nearly all July in Chicago. He is the President of the Jockey Club there, and seldom fails to attend the races, officiating nearly every day on the judges' stand.

Ex-Senator James W. Bradbury, of Maine, was eighty-five years old recently. In honor of the event he was tendered a banquet at the Falmouth Hotel in Portland by the Maine Historical Society. The ex-Senator represented his State in Congress from 1847 to 1853.

President Cleveland, according to persons who have recently conversed with him, is planning an extended Western trip. It will cover about four weeks in July and August, and may extend to the Pacific coast. If the trip is made the President will be accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland.

An Ancient Treatment.



It is stated that the massage treatment, or "laying on of hands," was much in vogue during the early Elizabethan period.—Life.

In obtaining the vast rich domain of Burmah the English Government has come into possession, among other natural treasures, of immense forests of teak, which, never very plentiful in India, was becoming commercially quite rare, and consequently of increased cost for industrial purposes. Of all the woods grown in the East this has been pronounced as, in some respects, the most valuable. This superiority consists in its being neither too heavy nor too hard; it does not warp nor split under exposure, no matter how prolonged to heat or dampness; it contains an essential oil which possesses the rare property of preventing the wood from rotting under wet conditions, and, at the same time, act as a preservative of iron, and repels insects; it is, in addition, a handsome wood, of several varieties of color and grain, and takes a good polish.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PLEASANT LITERATURE FOR FEMININE READERS.

Becoming Famous Late in Life.

Very few women distinguished in literature have attained fame before reaching the prime of life. George Eliot was 38 when her first story was published. Elizabeth Browning—37 when she married—produced her best work after her marriage. Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom" was not published till the author was 39, and Miss Alcott's first noteworthy story was published when she was 37. H. H. was hardly known in literature until after she was 40. These facts should be consoling to ambitious young writers, whose manuscripts are "returned with thanks."

The Maid of the Valley.

Miss Ellen Callahan, of Sierra County, female stock-raiser, is known as the "Maid of the Valley." Her possessions are valued at $10,000. Her age we do not know, and should not mention it if we did. She weighs about 180 pounds, wears neither false teeth nor hair; she has a good healthy complexion and blue eyes. She would make a good match in marriage for a middle-aged man with muscle cultivated to work, and it is our opinion that none others need apply. Dudes would not, we believe, be noticed as candidates for the matrimonial hand of Miss Callahan. She can harness a team, break wild horses, run a mower, feed the stock, or do any kind of work on a ranch.—Sierra Valley (Nev.) Leader.

A Novel Wedding Trip.

Two weeks ago, writes the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, a bicycle was seen leaning against a little stone church up-town. A tricycle stood by its side, and fifteen more bicycles were stacked on the church green. The owner of the vehicles were attending the marriage of a wheelman and wheelwoman inside. Presently out came the bride and groom, both in fresh club colors, and wheeled away on their marriage trip for a 200-miles spin. It would have looked more sociable to the ordinary eye if they had ridden a tandem, but the time may come in the course of their partnership when their steeds will suit each other's paces better than now. The tricycle will be ridden this summer much more extensively by women than has been the case in any year before. For one thing, the machine is an expensive foible and it has taken it some time to make its way. It is heavier than the bicycle, too, and a little unfair to the weaker sex in handicapping it at the start in point of speed. In spite of these disadvantages, however—and they are not nearly so noticeable as in the lumbering things that went by the same name a half-dozen years ago—the tricycle, and especially the improved tandem that allows husband and wife or lover and lass to ride together, is gaining ground rapidly, and Mr. and Mrs. Pennell will find many imitators in their vacation trips on the wheel.

Tricycling is an exercise that calls for a special dress. Nobody who has been through the dusty and oily experiences of wheel life will think of disputing that fact. The gown worn by the experienced is always of a medium-weight woolen material, and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred is quiet and unconspicuous in color. English women choose almost without exception a flannel or merino combination of ordinary walking length, with overdress made as simple as possible, loose trousers to match the dress in color, black woolen stockings, Norfolk jacket, straw hat, a club ribbon, and a free and substantial walking boot. American women, as a rule, have not yet adopted the trousers, but wear a skirt of slightly different cut. The dress used by the women riders in Central Park this spring shows a skirt without back drappery, but ornamented as the wearer's fancy chooses in front. For length it is like the usual promenade dress, but has a slope of about three inches behind to prevent lifting by the saddle at the back. For headgear one should choose a small light-weight cap of the same color as the dress, or on a long trip or a parade a ventilated helmet. Kid gloves are out of order. Silk and linen or lisle thread are the only things allowed on the wheel. For underwear the same rules that govern the boating dress hold, flannel next the skin, no corset or crinoline, and as few skirts as may be.

Fashion Notes.

Rubies are decidedly in fashion.

Horsehair bonnets are a novelty.

Wraps for summer wear are rich in jets.

Necklaces are very little worn nowadays.

Lace insertion and ribbon dresses are now very fashionable.

The fashionable waist is extravagantly long and idiotically tight.

Blouse waists meets with much favor from both ladies and misses.

The perennial Scotch tartan braids have again made their appearance.

Turbans remain in favor for city streets and for traveling hats.

Audacity is the most marked characteristic of the season's millinery.

Crownless bonnets, worn like the old-fashioned head dress, are favorites.

Artificial flowers never look well in the hair unless that and the complexion are artificial as well.

Veils are usually chosen to match the bonnet. A black veil, however, may be worn with any color.

Gold and jeweled buckles are worn with handsome high-necked dresses, either at the throat or on the belt.

Gay striped and plaid India silk and surah blouses are combined with various skirts for morning wear at home.

Leather buttons, morocco, kid, seal, alligator and dog skin, hand-painted, are a new fad for street wear in New York.

French milliners, it is said, often provide mere burlesques of their best designs, to meet English and American tastes.

White jerseys, thickly covered with white ivory beads, are a novelty, and look prettier than one would think from the description.

Silk-finished corduroy suits are quite fashionable this season, especially in pale terra cotta, golden brown, and the many shades of gray.

Balayeuses for the protection of the inside of the dress skirt are once more worn. They are for use, not ornament, and should not show below the edge of the skirt.

Simple small mantles for various dresses are made of plain Bengaline for the basque back and manilla fronts, while the sides are of French lace, with many ends and loops of black watered ribbon.

The high hat worn by Abraham Lincoln on inaugural day is preserved by Mr. George Gibson, of New York City, a gatherer of odd articles.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Tannin for Ingrowing Toe-Nail.

A concentrated solution (an ounce of perfectly fresh tannic acid dissolved in six drachms of pure water, with a gentle heat) must be painted on the soft parts twice a day. Two cases recently had no pain nor lameness after the first application, and went about their work immediately, which they could not do before. After about three weeks of this treatment, the nail had grown to its proper length and breadth, and the cure was complete. No other treatment of any other kind was used, though formerly I introduced lint under the ingrowing edge in such cases.—British Medical Journal.

Tea Leaves for Burns.

A subscriber says: "I would like all readers of the Household to prove the usefulness of tea lives applied to burns, not only on account of their soothing properties, but on account of their being so readily obtained." She states that it has been tried repeatedly in her family, and most successfully. A poultice is made of tea leaves by softening them with warm water and applying while yet warm upon cotton wool over the entire burned surface. The suffering of the patient is relieved almost like magic, and he falls into a quiet sleep. The application is made again in the course of a few hours if necessary. The leaves discolor the skin somewhat, but relieve the acute sensitiveness.—Detroit Tribune.

Treatment For Dandruff.

A correspondent inquires about the treatment for dandruff. There are two principal forms of the affection, and they require quite different treatment. From the description given we should judge the disease to be what the doctors call pityriasis, as the face is also dry and scaly. The treatment in this case is to wash the head well two or three times a week with a solution of borax and ammonia water in water. When the skin seems dry, tense and glistening, it is best to discontinue the wash. Then an ointment consisting of equal parts of zinc ointment may be applied, a very little at a time, once a day, to the scalp and skin. This will usually effect a cure, though it may be necessary to continue the use of some simple lubricant for a time after the disease has ceased—mutton tallow is better for this purpose than the vaseline. Three drops of Fowler's solution after each meal, in a little water, will hasten the result, but care must be taken in using this drug, as it is a poison containing arsenic, and we hesitate to recommend its use for this reason. With the other form of dandruff a different course must be pursued.—Albany Press.

A Cure for Colic.

A doctor says in the Albany Press: It isn't every household which holds a baby that knows how to treat it when it has the colic. Don't resort to an opiate, paregoric, soothing syrup, or anything containing opium, which, though temporarily relieving the pain, binds the bowels. Make the feet warm by hot cloths, by bags or bottles of hot water, or holding them near the fire. Apply warmth to the abdomen by gentle rubbing with the essence (i. e. the tincture) of ginger, by hot spice-bags, by a small, light plate or tin heated in the oven and wrapped in flannel. Sometimes a sitz-bath in water as hot as can be borne is of value. Internally may be given every fifteen or thirty minutes, if necessary (all medicines are to be discontinued in every ailment as soon as can be), 1-4 to 1-2 teaspoonful of one of the following mixtures, in as hot water as can be borne:

No. 1.—Strong catnip tea, 3 tablespoonfuls;
Tincture of asafœtida, 10 drops;
Sugar-syrup, 2 tablespoonfuls;
Tincture of ginger, 10 drops.

No. 2.—Aromatic spirits of ammonia, 15 drops;
Essence of peppermint, 10 drops;
Glycerine, 1 dessertspoonful;
Aniseed-water, 3 tablespoonfuls.

The Drought of 1813.

From the unpublished letters of Jefferson, appearing in the Southern Bivouac, the following description of the drought of 1813 is taken:

"From the fork of James River and the falls of other rivers upward and westwardly, we have had the most calamitous year ever seen since 1755. It began with the blockade, so that the fine crops of the last year made in these upper parts, which could not be at market till after Christmas, were shut up by that and lost their sale. After keeping my flour till the approach of the new harvest, I was obliged to sell it, lest it it would spoil on my hands, at a price which netted me only forty-seven cents a bushel for my wheat, of course a total sacrifice. In the year 1755 it never rained from April to November. There was not bread enough to eat, and many died of famine. This year in these upper regions we have had not a single rain from April 14th to September 20th, five months, except a slight shower in May. The wheat was killed by the drought as dead as the leaves of the trees now are. The stems fell before the scythe without being cut, and the little grain in the head shattered on the ground. From 500 acres sowed here I have not got in 1,500 bushels, not three times the seed. Our corn has suffered equally. From 370 acres planted, and which in common years would have yielded from 800 to 1,000 barrels, I shall not get a barrel an acre, and a great portion of that will be what are called nubbins, being half-formed ears with little grain on them. Corn consequently starts with us at three and a third dollars, and being the principal food of our laborers, its purchase will be a heavy tax. I am told the drought has been equally fatal as far as Kentucky. There have been a few local exceptions here from small bits of clouds accidentally passing over some farm. Should the little wheat we have made be shut up by a continuance of the blockade through the winter, we shall be absolutely brankrupt by the loss of two successive crops.

The Future of Cremation.

The Cremationists held their yearly meeting the other night at the mayoralty of the eighth arondissement. In his report on the progress of their work during the past year the secretary referred in special terms of satisfaction to the act which the Chamber of Deputies, on March 30, passed by a majority of 371 votes against 174 to render cremation optional in France, according to the will left by a person. The Holy See has prohibited, that is to say, anathematized, this funeral ceremony in Italy, but its decree will probably remain a dead letter, as cremating is very popular in that country, where no less than sixty cremating societies exist. Furnaces have also been built at Geneva, Zurich, New York, San Francisco, Buffalo, etc. In Germany, a petition the Reichstag for its toleration has obtained 26,000 signatures.

In the Mauritius several determined cremationists have ordered their bodies, in the absence of ovens ad hoc, to be burned on common pyres, the operation lasting four hours.—London News.

In regard to the affairs of mortals, there is nothing happy throughout.

FRIGHTENED ABOUT LEPROSY.

The Louisiana State Board of Health Subdues a Panic in a Little French Town.

At the request of the Mayor of St. Martinsville, La., a committee of the Louisiana State Board of Health visited that town last week to investigate a rumor of the prevalence there of Asiatic leprosy. The rumor had caused a panic through all the neighboring country. It was said that there were 200, 300, even 600 cases, and that the disease was rapidly spreading. The farmers of the neighborhood feared to go to St. Martinsville to buy and sell, and the little town, which called itself of old the "Paris of Acadia," believed that its very existence was threatened. Within the town itself there was the same panicky feeling in regard to the disease. People refused to shake hands with one another for fear of catching the leprosy, and men would not go to the barbers, fearing that the razor might communicate the loathsome malady. Every one suspected his neighbor. One family in particular were subjected to complete isolation, even their relatives deserting them and pointing them out as lepers.

St. Martinsville is a sleepy town of some 3,000 people, thoroughly French, that language being almost universally spoken, and the population consisting mainly of the descendants of those Acadians, immortalized by Longfellow in "Evangeline," who wandered here from Nova Scotia something over a century ago. It has lived a quiet, uneventful life, until from this quiet of years the leprosy panic and the visit of the Board of Health aroused it. Under the supervision of President Holt a council of fifteen doctors thoroughly inspected each of the cases brought before it. Every one with a pimple hastened forward to make sure of himself. One of the worst cases, which was supposed to be a very aggravated form of leprosy, proved to be nothing but incipient boils. The result of the examination showed only three cases of positive leprosy, the sufferers being two married sisters and a child of one of them. There were three cases supposed to be incipient, and two others were reported as having been moved to a hospital in New Orleans. In the whole town, therefore, but eight cases could be found or heard of that bore any resemblance whatever to leprosy. An examination showed that all the persons afflicted or suspected were the descendants of a leper who came to the parish from St. Domingo many years ago. The fact that they had lived in close communication with their neighbors, and that the husbands of the women, who had been married for years, were free from the disease, went to show that it was not contagious, but hereditary. The family, concerning whose leprosy nobody entertained a doubt, proved to be absolutely free of the disease.

A MINE GUARDED BY SNAKES.

A Modern Munchausen's Story of a Pursuit for Game.

A hunter, who has hunted and mined from Arizona to the Yellowstone, and, who is highly esteemed for truth and veracity, was telling me that he had the other day made a most wonderful discovery, says a Ronti (Col.) correspondent of the Denver Tribune, and that he had seen gold that would put the United States at a discount.

He said that when he was on top of one of the mountains he saw that at the bottom of a cliff he was peering over the ground was smooth and clean, as if deer or bear had been in the habit of resting and sunning themselves there through the heat of the early spring days.

Being anxious to get a deer or have a fight with a bear, he descended to the foot of the cliff. Peering cautiously around for game, he was somewhat startled at hearing the rattle of a snake. Looking about he saw large numbers of them lying around, while there was a constant stream of them going into a round hole in the rock near the bottom of the cliff.

Being anxious to destroy as many of the reptiles as he possibly could, he procured a forked stick, and placing the fork over the neck of the largest, he pinioned him to the ground; then tying a half-dozen sticks of giant powder to his tail, set a slow match to it and let the snake go. After seeing his snakeship go into his hole the hunter retreated to a safe distance to watch developments. He did not have long to wait. First there was a slight trembling of the ground, then a burst that shook the mountain like an earthquake, and with that burst the whole side of the cliff toppled off and fell to the ground, and up went more snakes than was ever thought of by either Gulliver or Baron Munchausen.

The face of the rock was honeycombed with round holes, out of which snakes were pouring like water through a knot-hole as long as the hunter stayed, and he stayed long enough to see many thousand seething and hissing in their rage and agony, when he became weary and left; but not until he had seen that the whole face of the cliff was covered with solid gold.

Forty "wealthy and cultured" Cincinnatians have organized "The American Co-operative Dramatic Association," for the purpose of purging the stage of all its impurities. The projectors say "it is not a financial speculation," and an exchange suggests that "the theatre-going public will see that they are not disappointed in that respect."

Though Shakes Like a Leaf

By the most trivial causes, weak nerves are easily susceptible of invigoration, a term which also imports, in this instance, quietude. The nervous have but to use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters systematically to overcome that supersensitiveness of the human sensorium, which is subversive of all bodily comfort and mental tranquility, and which reacts most hurtfully upon the system. The difficulty underlying this, as well as many other ailments, is imperfect assimilation, no less than incomplete digestion of the food. In the discharge of both the digestive and assimilative functions, the Bitters are the most potent, the most reliable auxiliary. As the body regains vigor and regularity by its aid, the brain and nervous system are also benefited. Persons subject to the influence of malaria, dyspeptic and rheumatic invalids, and persons whose kidneys are inactive, should, also, use the Bitters.

Shakspeare was born at Statford-on-Avon in 1563, and died there April 23, 1616.

A Strong Endowment

Is conferred upon that magnificent institution, the human system, by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" that fortifies it against the encroachments of disease. It is the great blood purifier and alterative, and as a remedy for consumption, bronchitis, and all diseases of a wasting nature, its influence is rapid, efficacious and permanent. Sold everywhere.

Thibet heretofore closed to foreign traders, but some Russians have succeeded there.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c. a bottle.

German conscriptions in 188[illegible] reached [illegible] in number.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is agreeable to use. It is not a liquid or a snuff. [illegible]

For Rickets, Marasmus, and Wasting Disorders of Children,

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is unequaled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. Read the following: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing, and have been more than pleased with the results, as in every case the improvement was marked."—J. M. Main, M. D., New York.

Motto for the policeman—Be sure he's tight, then club his head.

Every Woman Knows Them.

The human body is much like a good clock or watch in its movements; if one goes too slow or too fast, so follow all the others, and bad time results; if one organ or set of organs works imperfectly, perversion of functional effort of all the organs is sure to follow. Hence it is that the numerous ailments which make woman's life miserable are the direct issue of the abnormal action of the uterine system. For all that numerous class of symptoms—and every woman knows them—there is one unfailing remedy, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," the favorite of the sex.

The path of genius is not less obstructed with disappointment than that of ambition.

* * * * Premature decline of power in either sex, however induced, speedily and permanently cured. Book for 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Drinking of healths originated during the Danish occupation of Britain.

Prickly Ash Bitters warms up and invigorates the stomach, improves and strengthens the digestive organs, opens the pores, promotes perspiration, and equalizes the circulation. As a corrector of a disordered system there is nothing to equal it.

Peculiar.

It is very peculiar that when you try Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial you will never suffer yourself to be without it again? It never fails to relieve all bowel affections and children teething.

Piles Cured for 25 Cents.

Dr. Walton's Cure for Piles is guaranteed to cure the worst case of piles. Price 25 cents. At druggists, or mailed (stamps taken) by the Walton Remedy Co., Cleveland, O.

Vitality of Great Men

Is not always innate or born with them, but many instances are known where it has been acquired by the persistent and judicious use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Vigor and Vitality

Are quickly given to every part of the body by Hood's Sarsaparilla. That tired feeling is entirely overcome. The blood is purified, enriched and vitalized and carries health instead of disease to every organ. The stomach is toned and strengthened, the appetite restored. The kidneys and liver are roused and invigorated. The brain is refreshed, the mind made clear and ready for work. The whole system is built up and rejuvenated by this peculiar medicine. Be sure to get Hood's.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me new life and restored me to my wonted health and strength."—William J. Clough, Tilton, N. H.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading.

Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hon. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 300 University of Penn., 300 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. H. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

$100 TO $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. Agents preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their whole time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

Milo B. Stevens & Co. GLOVER BUILDING, PENSIONS Washington, D. C.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists, mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. The National Co., [illegible] St., N.Y.

$5 to $10 A DAY can be made easily by soliciting orders for Magnetic Appliances. 5,000 testimonials of wonderful cures. Write at once for particulars. Address CHAS. B. BARBER, Atlanta, Ga.

PENSIONS, Officers' pay, bounty procured; deserters relieved. 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Write for circulars and new laws. A. W. McCormick & Sons, Washington, D.C.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

WANTED Confederate Money for Advertising purposes for which we will pay [illegible] T. S. CRAYTON, Jr., Anderson, S. C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bing[illegible], Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. [illegible]

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

LECTURE ON Rough on Rats.

This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'ROUGH'NESS.'

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of Roaches, Water-bugs, BEETLES. For two or three nights sprinkle "Rough on Rats" dry powder, in, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES. Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "Rough on Rats" is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised, and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS. For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES. Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

HERBRAND FIFTH WHEEL. Without increasing the cost we have made the FIFTH WHEEL the strongest and most satisfactory part of a Buggy or Carriage. Illustrated pamphlet free. THE HERBRAND CO. FREMONT, O.

WHETHER YOU WANT A PIANO OR ORGAN It will pay you to write to PHILLIPS & CREW, ATLANTA, GA., For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address S. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 38½ Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $10.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 48 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BING-HAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50 FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Address Brewster's Safety Rein Holder, Holly, Mich.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

PATENTS Obtained by [illegible] & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for book of instructions.

[illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	14 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 00
4 Inches	12 00	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1887. NUMBER 35.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.
Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.
Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.
Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.
Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.
The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

BRILLIANT SERMON

BY REV. T. DeWITT TALMAGE, D. D., OF BROOKLYN, N. Y.

The Moral Influence of Newspapers—Educational Power—The Rescuing Grace of Christ—Inanimate Religion.

TEXT: "And the men of the city said unto Elisha: Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my Lord seeth; but the water is naught, and the ground barren. And he said: Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him. And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in there, and said: Thus, saith the Lord, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land. So the waters were healed unto this day."—2 Kings ii, 19-22.

It is difficult to estimate how much of the prosperity and health of a city are dependent upon good water. The time when, through well-laid pipes and from safe reservoir, an abundance of water from Croton, or Ridgewood, or Schuylkill is brought into the city is appropriately celebrated with oration and pyrotechnic display. Thank God every day for clear, bright, beautiful, sparkling water as it drops in the shower, or tosses up in the fountain, or rushes out at the hydrant.

The City of Jericho, notwithstanding all its physical and commercial advantages, was lacking in this important element. There was enough water, but it was diseased, and the people were crying out by reason thereof. Elisha the prophet, comes to the rescue. He says: "Get me a new cruse; fill it with salt and bring it to me." So the cruse of salt was brought to the prophet, and I see him walking out to the general reservoir, and lo! all the impurities depart, through a supernatural and divine influence, and the waters are good and fresh and clear, and all the people clap their hands and lift up their faces in the gladness. Water for Jericho—clear, bright, beautiful, God given water!

At different times I have pointed out to you the fountains of municipal corruption, and this morning I propose to show you what are the means for the rectification of those fountains. There are four or five kinds of salt that have a cleansing tendency. So far as God may help me, I shall bring a cruse of salt to the work, and empty it into the great reservoir of municipal crime, sin, and shame, ignorance and abomination.

In this work of cleansing our cities, I have first to remark, that there is a work for the broom and shovel that nothing else can do. There always has been an intimate connection between iniquity and dirt. The filthy parts of the great cities are always the most iniquitous parts. The gutters and the pavements of the Fourth Ward, New York, illustrate and symbolize the character of the people in the Fourth Ward.

The first thing that a bad man does when he is converted is thoroughly to wash himself. There were, this morning, on the way to the different churches, thousands of men in proper apparel who, before their conversion, were unfit in their Sabbath dress. When on the Sabbath I see a man uncleanly in his dress, my suspicions in regard to his moral character are aroused, and they are always well founded. So as to allow no excuse for lack of ablution, God has cleft the continents with rivers and lakes, and has sunk five great oceans, and all the world ought to be clean. Away, then, with the dirt from our cities, not only because the physical health needs an ablution, but because all the great moral and religious interests of the cities demand it as a positive necessity. A filthy city always has been and always will be a wicked city.

Through the upturning of the earth for great improvement our city could not be expected to be as clean as usual, but for the illimitable dirt of Brooklyn for the last six months there is no excuse. It is not merely a matter of dust in the eyes, and mud for the shoes, and of stench for the nostrils, but of morals for the soul.

Another corrective influence that we would bring to bear upon the evils of a great cities is a Christian printing press. The newspapers of any place are the test of its morality. The newsboy who runs along the street with a roll of papers under his arm is a tremendous force that cannot be turned aside nor resisted, and at his every step the city is elevated or degraded. This hungry, all-devouring American mind must have something to read, and upon editors and authors and book publishers and parents and teachers rests the responsibility of what they shall read. Almost every man you meet has a book in his hand or a newspaper in his pocket. What book is it you have in your hand? What newspaper is it you have in your pocket? Ministers may preach, reformers may plan, philanthropists may toil for the elevation of the suffering and the criminal, but until all the newspapers of the land and all the booksellers of the land set themselves against an iniquitous literature—until then we shall be fighting against fearful odds. Every time the cylinders of our great publishing houses turn they make the earth quake. From them goes forth a thought like an angel of light to feed and bless the world, or like an angel of darkness to smite it with corruption and sin and shame and death. May God by His omnipotent Spirit purify and elevate the American printing-press!

I go on further and say that we must depend upon the school for a great deal of correcting influence. A community can no more afford to have ignorant men in its midst than it can afford to have muzzled hyenas. Ignorance is the mother of hydra-headed crime. Thirty-one per cent. of all the criminals of New York State can neither read nor write. Intellectual darkness is generally the precursor of moral darkness. I know there are educated outlaws—men who, through their sharpness of intellect, are made more dangerous. They use their fine penmanship in signing other people's names, and their science in ingenious burglaries, and their fine manners in adroit libertinism. They go their round of sin with well cut apparel, and dangling jewelry, and watches of eighteen karats, and kid gloves. They are refined, educated, magnificent villains. But that is the exception. It is generally the case that the criminal classes are as ignorant as they are wicked. For the proof of what I say, go into the prisons and penitentiaries, and look upon the men and women incarcerated. The dishonesty in the eye, the low passion in the lip, are not more conspicuous than the ignorance in the forehead. The ignorant classes are always the dangerous classes. Demagogues marshal them. They are helpless, and are driven before the gale.

It is high time that all city and State authority, as well as the Federal Government, appreciate the awful statistics that while years ago in this country there was set apart forty-eight millions of acres for school purposes, there are now in New England one hundred and ninety-one thousand people who can neither read nor write, and in the State of Pennsylvania two hundred and twenty-two thousand who can neither read nor write, and in the State of New York two hundred and forty-one thousand who can neither read nor write, while in the United States there are nearly six millions who can neither read nor write. Statistics enough to stagger and confound any man who loves his God and his country. Now, in view of this fact, I am in favor of compulsory education. When parents are so bestial as to neglect this duty to the child, I say the law, with a strong hand, at the same time with a gentle hand, ought to lead these little ones into the light of intelligence and good morals. It was a beautiful tableau when in our city a swarthy policeman, having picked up a lost child in the street, was found appeasing its cries with a stick of candy he had bought at the apple-stand. That was well done, and beautifully done. But, oh! these thousands of little ones through our streets who are crying for the bread of knowledge and intelligence. Shall we not give it to them? The officers of the law ought to go down into the cellars and up in the garrets and bring out these benighted little ones, and put them under educational influences; after they have passed through the bath and under the comb, putting before them the spelling book, and teaching them to read the Lord's Prayer and the Sermon on the Mount: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Our city ought to be father and mother both to these outcast little ones. As a recipe for the cure of much of the woe, and want, and crime of our city, I give the words which Thorwaldsen had chiseled on the open scroll in the hand of John Gutenberg, the inventor of the art of printing: "Let there be light!"

Still further: Reformatory societies are an important element in the rectification of the public fountains. Without calling any of them by name, I refer more especially to those which recognize the physical as well as the moral woes of the world. There was pathos and a great deal of common sense in what the poor women said to Dr. Guthrie when he was telling her what a very good woman she ought to be. "Oh," she said, "if you were as hungry and cold as I am, you could think of nothing else." I believe the great want of our city is the Gospel and something to eat! Faith and repentance are of infinite importance; but they cannot satisfy an empty stomach! You have to go forth in this work with the bread of eternal life in your right hand, and the bread of this life in your left hand, and then you can touch them, imitating the Lord Jesus Christ, who first broke the bread and fed the multitude in the wilderness, and then began to preach, recognizing the fact that while people are hungry they will not listen, and they will not repent. We want more common sense in the distribution of our charities; fewer magnificent theories, and more hard work.

Still further: The great remedial influence is the Gospel of Christ. Take that down through the lanes of suffering. Take that down amid the hovels of sin. Take that up amid the mansions and palaces of your city. That is the salt that can cure all the poisoned fountains of public iniquity. Do you know that in this cluster of three cities, New York, Jersey City and Brooklyn, there are a great multitude of homeless children. You see I speak more in regard to the youth and the children of the country, because old villains are seldom reformed, and therefore I talk more about the little ones. They sleep under the stoops, in the burned-out safe, in the wagons in the streets, on the barges, wherever they can get a board to cover them. And in the summer they sleep all night long in the parks. Their destitution is well set forth by an incident. A city missionary asked one of them: "Where is your home?" Said he: "I don't have no home, sir." "Well, where are your father and mother?" "They are dead, sir." "Did you ever hear of Jesus Christ?" "No, I don't think I ever heard of Him." "Did you ever hear of God?" "Yes, I've heard of God. Some of the poor people think it kind of lucky at night to say something over about that before they go to sleep. Yes, sir, I've heard of Him." Think of a conversation like that in a Christian city.

How many are waiting for you to come out in the spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ and rescue them from the wretchedness here! Oh, that the Church of God had arms long enough and hearts warm enough to take them up! How many of them there are! As I was thinking of the subject this morning, it seemed to me as though there was a great brink, and that these little ones with cut and torn feet were coming on toward it. And here is a group of orphans. O fathers and mothers, what do you think of these fatherless and motherless little ones? No hand at home to take care of their apparel, no heart to pity them. Said one little one, when the mother died: "Who will take care of my clothes now?" The little ones are thrown out in this great cold world. They are shivering on the brink like lambs on the verge of a precipice. Does not your blood run cold as they go over it!

And here is another group that come on toward the precipice. They are the children of besotted parents. They are worse off than orphans. Look at that pale cheek; woe bleached it. Look at that gash across the forehead; the father struck it. Hear that heart-piercing cry; a drunken mother's blasphemy compelled it. And we come out and we say: "O ye suffering, peeled and blistered ones, we come to help you." "Too late!" cry thousands of voices. "The path we travel is steep down, and we can't stop. Too late!" And we catch our breath and we make a terrific outcry. "Too late!" is echoed from the garret to cellar, from the gin-shop and from brothel. "Too late!" It is too late, and they go over.

Here is another group, an army of neglected children. They come on toward the brink, and every time they step ten thousand hearts break. The ground is red with the blood of their feet. The air is heavy with their groans. Their ranks are being filled up from all the houses of iniquity and shame. Skeleton Despair pushes them on toward the brink. The death-knell has already begun to toll, and the angels of God hover like birds over the plunge of a cataract. While these children are on the brink they halt, and throw out their hands, and cry: "Help! help!" O Church of God, will you help! Men and women bought by the blood of the Son of God, will you help? while Christ cries from the heavens: "Save them from going down; I am the ransom."

I stopped on the street and just looked at the face of one of those little ones. Have you ever examined the faces of the neglected children of the poor? Other children have gladness in their faces. When a group of them rush across the road, it seems as though a spring gust had unloosened an orchard of apple blossoms. But these children of the poor. There is but little ring in their laughter, and it stops quick, as though some bitter memory tripped it. They have an old walk. They do not skip or run up on the lumber just for the pleasure of leaping down. They never bathed in the mountain stream. They never waded in the brook for pebbles. They never chased the butterfly across the lawn, putting their hat right down where it was just before. Childhood has been dashed out of them. Want waved its wizard wand above the manger of their birth, and withered leaves are lying where God intended a budding giant of battle. Once in a while one of these children gets out. Here is one, for instance. At ten years of age he is sent out by his parents, who say to him: "Here is a basket—now go off and beg and steal." The boy says: "I can't steal." They kick him into a corner. That night he puts his swollen head into the straw; but a voice comes from heaven, saying: "Courage, poor boy, courage!" Covering up his head from the beastiality, and stopping his ears from the cursing, he gets on, better and better. He washes his face clean at the public hydrant. With a few pennies got at running errands, he gets a better coat. Rough men, knowing that he comes from a low street, say: "Back with you, you little villain, to the place where you came from." But that night the boy says: "God help me, I can't go back;" and quicker than ever mother flew at the cry of a child's pain, the Lord responds from the heavens: "Courage, poor boy, courage!" His bright face gets him a position. After a while he is second clerk. Years pass on and he is first clerk. Years pass on. The glory of young manhood is on him. He comes into the firm. He goes on from one business success to another. He has achieved great fortune. He is the friend of the church of God, the friend of all good institutions, and one day he stands talking to the Board of Trade, or to the Chamber of Commerce. People say: "Do you know who that is? Why, that is a merchant prince, and he was born on Elm street. But God says in regard to him something better than that: "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the Lamb." O, for some one to write the history of boy heroes and girl heroines who have triumphed over want and starvation, and filth and rags. Yes, the record has already been made—made by the hand of God; and when these shall come at last with songs and rejoicing, it will take a very broad banner to hold the names of all the battle-fields on which they got the victory.

Some years ago a roughly-clad ragged boy came into my brother's office in New York, and said: "Mr. Talmage, lend me five dollars." My brother said: "Who are you?" The boy replied: "I am nobody. Lend me five dollars." "What do you want to do with five dollars?" "Well," the boy replied, "my mother is sick and poor, and I want to go into the newspaper business, and I shall get a home for her, and I will pay you back." My brother gave him the five dollars, of course, never expecting to see it again; but he said: "When will you pay it?" The boy said: "I will pay it in six months, sir." Time went by, and one day a lad came into my brother's office, and said: "There's your five dollars." "What do you mean? What five dollars?" inquired my brother. "Don't you remember that a boy came in here six months ago and wanted to borrow five dollars to go into the newspaper business?" "O, yes, I remember; are you the lad?" "Yes," he replied, "I have got along nicely. I have got a nice home for my mother (she is sick yet), and I am as well clothed as you are, and there's your five dollars." O, was he not worth saving? Why that lad is worth fifty such boys as I have sometimes seen moving in elegant circles, never put to any use for God or man. Worth saving! I go farther than that, and tell you they are not only worth saving, but they are being saved. One of these lads picked up from our streets, and sent West by a benevolent society, wrote East, saying: "I am getting along first rate. I am on probation in the Methodist Church. I shall be entered as a member the first of next month. I now teach a Sunday-school class of eleven boys. I get along first rate with it. This is a splendid country to make a living in. If the boys running around the street with a blacking box on their shoulder, or a bundle of papers under their arms, only knew what high old times we boys have out here, they wouldn't hesitate about coming West, but come the first chance they get." So some by one humane and Christian visitation, and some by another, are being rescued. In one reform school through which two thousand of the little ones passed, one thousand nine hundred and ninety-five turned out well. In other words, only five of the two thousand turned out badly. There are thousands of them who, through Christian societies, have been transplanted to beautiful homes all over this land, and there are many who, through the rich grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, have already won the crown. A little girl was found in the streets of Baltimore and taken into one of the reform societies, and they said to her: "What is your name?" She said: "My name is Mary?" "What is your other name?" She said: "I don't know." So they took her into the reform society, and as they did not know her last name they always called her "Mary Lost," since she had been picked up out of the street. But she grew on, and after awhile the Holy Spirit came to her heart, and she became a Christian child, and she changed her name; and when anybody asked her what her name was, she said: "It used to be Mary Lost; but now since I have become a Christian, it is Mary Found."

For this vast multitude, are we willing to go forth from this morning's service and see what we can do, employing all the agencies I have spoken of for the rectification of the poisoned fountains? We live in a beautiful city. The lines have fallen to us in pleasant places, and we have a goodly heritage; and any man who does not like a residence in Brooklyn, must be a most uncomfortable and unreasonable man. But, my friends, the material prosperity of a city is not its chief glory. There may be fine houses and beautiful streets, and that all be the garniture of a sepulchre. Some of the most prosperous cities of the world have gone down, not one stone left upon another. But a city may be in ruins long before a tower has fallen, or a column has crumbled, or a tomb has been defaced. When in a city the churches of God are full of cold formalities and inanimate religion; when the houses of commerce are the abode of fraud and unholy traffic; when the streets are filled with crime unarrested and sin unenlightened and helplessness unpitied—that city is in ruins, though every church were a St. Peter's, and every moneyed institution were a Bank of England, and every library were a British Museum, and every house had a porch like that of Rheims, and a roof like that of Amiens, and a tower like that of Antwerp, and traceried windows like those of Freiburg.

My brethren, our pulses beat rapidly the time away, and soon we shall be gone; and what we have to do for the city in which we live we must do right speedily, or never do it at all. In that day when those who have wrapped themselves in luxuries and despised the poor, shall come to shame and everlasting contempt, I hope it may be said of you and me that we gave bread to the hungry, and wiped away the tear of the orphan, and upon the wanderer of the street we opened the brightness and benediction of a Christian home; and then, through our instrumentality, it shall be known on earth and in heaven, that Mary lost became Mary found!

In the Wrong Place.

CUSTOMER FROM TEXAS—"I've busted my head-gear, young feller, what's th' tax on that one up there?"

CLERK—"That ain't a hat. That's a bath-tub."

CUSTOMER—"You don't say so! Now I look at it, though, I see the brim is a little narrer fer the size of the head-hole."
—Tid-Bits.

Joys of Pisciculture.

A farmer in the western part of this county built a dam across a creek flowing through his land, and made a lake of a piece of low ground. One day last fall, while skirting this lake, he came across a man who was seated on a log, with three fish lines out, and he hailed him with:

"Hello, stranger, what are you doing?"

"Fishing," was the brusque reply.

"What for?"

"For fish."

"Get any bites?"

"Not a one."

"Do you know that this lake belongs to me?"

"Yes."

"And did anybody tell you that I went to Detroit and bought twenty-four bullheads, and that all but one died on the way up here?"

"Yes."

"Then you know that there is only one solitary fish in this pond?"

"I do, mister, and I'm going to have him before night if the pond does'nt freeze over and cyclones keep away.—Detroit Free Press.

Lost His Life.

Sessums, who owns the grocery at Sessums Station, near Starkville, Miss., has lost a good deal of his stock during the spring by the depredations of burglars. Last Monday night he set a trap for the rascals by charging his gun heavily with buckshot, cocking it, and setting it in such a position that the first man who attempted to open the door was bound to be shot. Tuesday morning he came down to the store as usual and forgetting all about the gun, unlocked the door and opened it. Both barrels were discharged as if by clock work, and the entire load entered his body. At last accounts he was lingering between life and death.

THE THREE RULERS.

I saw a Ruler take his stand,
And trample on a mighty land.
The People crouched before his beck
His iron heel was on their neck;
His name shone bright through blood and pain,
His sword flashed back their praise again.

I saw another Ruler rise,
His words were noble, good, and wise;
With the calm sceptre of his pen
He ruled the minds and thoughts of men.
Some scoffed, some praised; while many heard,
Only a few obeyed his word.

Another Ruler then I saw;
Love and sweet Pity were his law;
The greatest and the least had part
(Yet most the unhappy) in his heart.
The People, in a mighty band,
Rose up, and drove him from the land.
—Adelaide Proctor.

THE NEW SCHOLAR.

"A cow-boy, Mr. Dean!"

"A genuine cow-boy, Miss Allen."

The teacher frowned, and the superintendent smiled; then she broke into a suppressed laugh, and he looked perplexed.

"Why did you bring him to me? What in the world shall I do with him?"

"What shall I do with him?" asked the tall gentleman, helplessly. "He is within the school age—nineteen, he says."

"He looks older."

"Yes; you must allow for sun and wind and rough living. He intends to live a year in this town, and he wants to go to school. I must put him somewhere. I can't buy a cage for him, and label him 'Specimen from the Wild West.'"

"I should almost think you might. What is the native locality of the 'specimen'?"

"He says," replied Mr. Dean, deliberately, "that his last range was between Crazy-Woman Creek and Bad-Water Slough."

"Oh dear! But how and why and when did he get into civilization?"

"I have no idea."

"He is so large and so old for a primary school?"

"He is very ignorant. He cannot possibly do the work of a higher grade. I brought him to you because he needs a very good teacher.

Miss Allen was really troubled. The Superintendent's little compliment failed to clear away the clouds. They had been talking in low tones, as they paced the hall, and now they paused at the open school-room door.

It was a very pretty school-room. There were pictures on the walls, flowers in the windows, vases and an embroidered table-spread on the teacher's desk. The children were neat and clean. There was an atmosphere of order and of dainty tidiness about the place, and the place suited well with the young and pretty teacher.

But this morning, looming up behind the rows of little girls in trim black stockings and short frocks; behind the little boys in scarlet hose and knicker-bocker—hopelessly big, untrained and out of place, sat the new scholar.

In his way, he was neither ugly nor awkward. He wore a flannel shirt with a red silk neck handkerchief, and he held in his hand his huge light sombrero, ornamented with a wide band of red leather, and with a gilt cord; but the rest of his dress was subdued to the standard of Eastern civilization. His complexion showed that clear, bright red which marks the pure sunshine of the great plains. This, and his light hair and keen blue eyes, broad shoulders, and lean, muscular frame, would have made him an exceedingly picturesque "subject" for an artist; but—in a primary school!

"I am positively afraid of him!" said Miss Allen. "What if he should take it into his head to scalp us all!"

"Send for me at the first flourish of the tomahawk," said Mr. Dean, with a laugh.

"But, honestly, I have no doubt that he carries pistols. Cowboys always do, they say."

"I believe so. I will look into that matter. Now, seriously," and his face became grave, "I know what a hard thing I have given you to do, but it is in the line of plain duty to do it well. This young man may be here to make trouble. In that case we shall very soon know it, and I promise you that his career shall be short. But it is possible that he comes to study and because he would like to make something of himself. If he wants a chance, it is our business, as public school teachers, to see that he has it."

"He shall have his chance, if I can help him," said the teacher, earnestly.

"I am sure of that. And now for the pistol. James! James Ferguson! Come here, please. Have you firearms about you?" he asked, abruptly, thinking to take the boy by surprise, and so get at the truth.

Jim, who had a tolerably keen sense of the fitness of things, had no more idea of taking his pistol to school than he had of presenting himself with spurs, "cuirt and shapps."

But every cow-boy feels himself in duty bound to make an impression on a "tenderfoot" whenever the "tenderfoot" shows himself ready to be impressed. Jim's blue eyes twinkled, but he gravely felt in his pockets.

"Thunder!" said he. "Taint here. I must have been rattled this mornin'. I can rustle around and get it fer you, and be back before general round up."

"No! no!" cried the good gentleman, and explained what Jim knew perfectly well before, that the pistol must not and could not come back to school. He felt that he had in some way blundered with the boy, but he did not know how.

"What do you think of the school?" he asked, kindly laying one hand on the boy's shoulders.

"Pretty slick little outfit!" replied Jim.

"Hem! Well, James, I hope you will do well. I shall advance you as soon as you can do the work of a higher grade."

As Mr. Dean and Jim stood together, it was evident that the cow-boy was not very tall. But there was a breeziness, an out-of-door roominess, that would have made him too large for any space inside of four walls.

It was not long before Miss Allen knew from Jim himself why he was there. She was told how Jim's father had left the State when Jim was only a yearling, and how he was a white kind of a man, but couldn't seem to gather on to anything. And first, Jim's mother had died, and then his father, and left him to rustle for himself. And he had done it, too, until now. But an uncle down East had just looked him up, and had offered to do something for him. This uncle had promised Jim a good team and a little bunch of cattle if he would come here and go to school a whole year.

"The very day school is out," Jim went on, "I shall start for the West. When I'm of age I mean to get a claim, and put my stock on it. Then I'll be apt to quit cow-punching, and turn sod-pelter."

All this was not very encouraging to his teacher. It was plain that Jim intended to stay the whole long year, and it was only too plain that he did not care for an education, and thought of the schooling only as a disagreeable stepping-stone to the team and bunch of cattle.

On the other hand, I am afraid that Miss Allen knew and cared as little about stock-raising in the West as Jim did about spelling and grammar. Beside, she had no idea that a "sod-pelter" meant a farmer, and she had a shadowy notion that Jim meant to devote the remainder of his existence to throwing clods of grass, like the old man in the spelling-book.

The days of that week passed rather slowly for Miss Allen. She tried hard to accept Jim's presence in a missionary spirit, but, in truth, he was a perpetual trial to her order-loving, sympathetic soul. He was not bad, but he was so big! He seemed to try to do right, but he was so utterly untrained in the ways of the school room that every motion was a blunder.

And yet, in his own sphere, Jim had a skill they never dreamed of. His grace and accuracy with horse and gun and lariat would have been a marvel to any man in that city. Perhaps he felt his present inferiority even more than his teacher did. Perhaps the days were wearily long to him, and the year seemed endless in prospect.

Miss Allen had planned a school picnic for Saturday, and on Friday the children were full of excitement about it. One of them told her that Jim wasn't going. At first she was rather relieved to hear it, but when she entered the school-room she was touched by the homesick look on the boy's face.

"James," said she, kindly, "I am afraid our life here does not seem quite natural to you."

"I'm afraid not," answered James, dryly; and then added, with a burst of confidence: "Why, Miss Allen, in all this week I haint seen nor heard but just one thing that seemed natural to me, and that was the story you' was a-readin' us about that old ranchman that pastured on the Government land."

"What!" cried his teacher, in blank astonishment.

"That had such a big bunch of sons, you know; and they was his cowboys."

"But I haven't read any such story," said Miss Allen.

"Why, yes, don't you remember?" said Jim. "And one day, when they was off on the range, the old man sent the little kid out from the home ranch to look 'em up, and find out how they was."

"No," said the young lady; "I never read you a story like that."

"Perhaps you don't remember," said Jim, "but I do, because it seemed natural. And the kid went on, and got where he thought they was; and he found they had moved the whole bunch on to another range. And when he did find them, they chucked the little kid into a big wash-out, and then pulled him out and sold him to the Indians."

"James!"

"That's what you said," continued Jim, respectful but positive. "I don't remember what the book called 'em, but you said they was the same as the Araps in the geography. That's what we call the Arapahoes."

"The Arabs!" exclaimed Miss Allen. "It is possible that you mean the story of Joseph and his brethren?"

"That's it!" answered Jim. "I couldn't think of the name. Poor little kid! We wouldn't treat no little kid that way. That part wasn't natural."

Miss Allen did not know how exactly the present life on the great plains is represented by some passages of the Old Testament. She concluded to postpone the matter of Biblical exegesis, and said, cheerfully: "You will get used to us in time, I hope, James."

"I don't know," said Jim, rather dolefully. "When a fellow's been a maverick long as I have, it comes rather rough to be rounded-up and roped and branded, even if they do put him into a nice little corral like this. And then, an old ranger like me hates to trot along with the calves."

Miss Allen did not understand this speech very well, but she felt that her new pupil was homesick and lonely, and, like the good little woman that she was, she spoke so kindly that her simple words went straight to the boy's heart. He replied only "thank you," but she was astonished to see that the tears flashed into his eyes as he spoke.

With a new interest in him, she said, sincerely and cordially: "I hope you will go to the picnic to-morow, James. You will like to see something of the country, I think."

"I'll come if you want me," said Jim.

Gray's Park could hardly be called "the country." To be sure, it was a wild and picturesque little spot, but after all there were only a few acres of land, set off by the city for public recreation. The river runs by Gray's Park, playing with pebbles and trailing willow-branches like a peaceful country river; but a little farther down the stream it plunges with a mighty bustle and roar of business down a great dam. Here are clustered the city mills, and in the quietest part of Gray's Park you can hear the whir-r-r of machinery mingled with the noises of the streets.

The picnic was like other school-picnics. The children ran and shouted, brought Miss Allen a wonderful collection of flowers and leaves and pebbles, ate too much dinner, got their feet wet, and found a mud-turtle.

It was almost time to go home. Miss Allen had repacked the lunch baskets, and Jim had taken down the swing, though he climbed rather awkwardly, and declared that he "felt like a tenderfoot in a tree."

He lay by the water's edge, coiling the rope upon his left arm, and handling it rather wistfully. Jim could do wonderful things with a rope. If he had been alone he would have tried a few of his old throws, although he might have found it rather tame practice, on foot, instead of on horseback, and with an old stump for a target, instead of a galloping steer.

Miss Allen sat near him, on a rustic seat made of a twisted hemlock tree.

Jim had come to like his teacher, and to want to please her, and he knew that his cowboy accomplishments made her rather uneasy. In fact, the young lady thought of the plainsman's life as an acted sensation novel.

"This is a pretty place, isn't it?" she said.

"Yes," answered Jim, rather doubtfully; "but it seems shut in, sort of. There ain't no stirring in these parts, and the trees is in the way a good deal. You can't see much."

"But the rocks and the river, you like them, do you not?"

"I don't like the river much, either; I'm afraid of the water."

"But I thought you were afraid of nothing!" "I don't like the water, though," said Jim. "I never could see the use of as much as you Eastern folks have lyin' about. You could't hire me to get into a boat."

"I should not try, just here," replied the lady, smiling. "It looks quiet, but the current is very dangerous. Just a little further down, they say that no man could manage a boat."

"Would he go over the dam?" he asked.

"Yes, and be dashed to pieces on the rocks beneath. This is not a good boating river. There is a stretch of a mile or so, above this, where small craft can go, and a few of the gentlemen who own these houses keep little pleasure-boats. But above that the channel is too shallow, and below it is dangerous."

"It don't seem a very good place for the kids," mused Jim.

"For the children, James."

"For the children. If you had 'em out on the prairie, they'd be safer."

"Why," exclaimed Miss Allen, "I wouldn't trust myself on the prairie, to say nothing of the children! They say there are rattlesnakes there."

"Yes," admitted Jim, "there is some rattlesnakes. But it's safer than this, I think."

While these two had been working and talking, something had happened that, beyond all question, never should have happened at all. The children knew better than to get into any boat without permission, and in this case they knew, too, that they were meddling with private property.

Nevertheless, when a party of little boys and girls, wandering up the bank, came upon a beautiful green-and-white boat snugly hidden in a tiny cove where no boat had ever been before, then all the trouble began.

First they stopped to examine and admire; and then two little boys jumped in, and began to rock from side to side, and to tell how they dared ride away down to the mill-dam in her; and next two little girls thought they would get in, too, if the boys wouldn't rock; and the boys promised, with a sarcastic side-speech about girls and 'fraid-cats; and soon all four were seated on the pretty green-and-white benches.

Then, in some way, the boat got adrift. Perhaps the boat was only drawn upon the sand, and the rocking pushed it off. Perhaps some mischievous boy untied the rope. At all events, it was caught by the current, and began to glide down the treacherous stream.

When Miss Allen heard the screams, and looked from the frantic group on the shore to the tiny boat out on the river, her very heart seemed to stand still. To stay so near, and safe and well, yet utterly powerless, while those children in her care sped on to death! Her senses swam.

The sunny sparkles on the river shone in her eyes like electric flashes. She seemed to see, already, the little faces, cold and dead, and the limbs all crushed and mangled, and she heard the reproachful cries of their parents.

And Jim—who might, at least, have run swiftly and given the alarm—what was Jim doing?

Nothing.

Or next to nothing; so it seemed.

He did not even rise at first. One glance up the river with his keen blue eyes, and he went on working at his rope. He was making a loop of on end. He did not seem to hurry, but he wasted no motion.

Holding the loop in his right hand, while the coils still hung upon his left arm, he waded through the shallow shore water to the edge of the deeper channel. His quick glance seemed to take in everything, the current, the river-bottom, and the banks. Even the light wind from the west was tested an instant with his upheld hand. There was no hurry, no flutter, but every nerve was awake, and every muscle true to call.

The boat was moving faster now. She quivered and thrilled with the strong and dangerous current. She has floated past.

No! Look! With one supple motion, Jim has thrown his loop. It speeds through the air like a live thing, and falls, true to aim, just where the frightened children can grasp it best. Quick as thought, Jim moves with the boat, managing the rope so that it shall not tighten to soon. Above the medley of sounds rises his clear, ringing voice, and they hear and obey his rapid directions.

"Pass the rope the long way of the boat! Every one take hold! Now—hold fast."

They do hold fast. Eight little hands, with the strength of desperation, clutch the rope. With a long, steady, even pull, Jim heads the boat for the shore, and grounds it on the shallows.

Here my story might end, if Jim had known how to wade in a pebbly-bottom river. But as he laid hold of the prow, and pulled with all his strength to draw it further up, his foot slipped among the smooth, water-worn stones, and he fell heavily, and struck his head upon a sharp rock. And when, at last, some men came running to help, they found the children safe on shore, but Jim lay senseless in the shallow, while Miss Allen, with her pretty dress all soaked and clinging, held his head out of the water.

Of course, Jim was the hero of the day. He professed great chagrin because he was "fool enough to hurt himself," but he was no less a hero because he spent a few days in a sick-room.

Then the fathers of the rescued children met in solemn conclave to decide what they should do for Jim. There was talk of a subscription and a presentation, but good sense and good taste prevailed, and they decided to offer him nothing except their heartfelt thanks; but to keep the boy in sight, and when the time came, to do him substantial service.

I think that when Jim gets ready to settle on his claim, he will have as liberal a personal outfit as any young "sod-pelter" need desire.

But the mothers could not wait so long before they testified their gratitude, and Jim declares that before he left his room he had dressing-gowns and slippers enough to fit out all the Boston dudes east of the Mississippi. Long before the doctor had thought it possible, Jim was back in the school-room, very pale and thin, though, and with a long red scar down one cheek.

"I guess I got branded for keeps, that time," says Jim.—Youth's Companion.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Doing Up Lace.

Laces rubbed, starched and ironed are rarely fit to wear again; but good lace may be done up so as to be kept looking fresh long after it is really old and worn.

Laces that require doing up should be basted carefully between folds of thin muslin and put into cold, soft water, to every pint of which must be previously administered a teaspoonful of aqua ammonia and sufficient white soap to make good suds. Let the water boil a few minutes, and, if the laces are not then clean, pour off the liquid and put in cold water as before; continue to do so until the articles are thoroughly cleansed.

Never wring out lace—always squeeze it between folds of muslin. If clear lace is required, put a little bluing in the rinse water; if the old-time yellowish tinge is wished, a few teaspoonfuls of strong coffee in the rinse water will give the requisite hue. Lace must never be stiff, but a little of the limpness may be taken off, if desirable, by putting a little dissolved gum arabic in the rinse water. Now press the clean, rinsed laces between folds of white muslin, till they are as dry as they can be made in this way; then pin each article out smoothly and in its shape on a pillow, and with a fine needle pick out and raise up every stem and leaf and thread to its proper place.

Ventilating Kitchens.

Some writer says: "Our grandmothers got their bowed shoulders by cooking at the hearth before stoves were known." The women of this age will not be better off unless stoves are raised, so that a woman can work at them without curving her spine. There is too little attention given to making kitchen work easy, even in these days of improved methods. Stoves, tables and sinks should all be made high enough for one to stand at and work comfortably without stooping. Another thing that needs looking after is the imperfect ventilation of kitchens. Physicians say that more cases of neuralgia come from overheated air than from being exposed to draughts. The foul air of the sink and the odors of cooking bring on many cases of blood poisoning. The girls who live constantly in kitchens do not notice the bad air, but housekeepers should see that there is a way to insure ventilation. Not long ago a servant was taken ill, and the ladies of the house who took up her work were unable to stand even for a day the impure drainage, but the "girl" could work week in and week out, without any care given to the sanitary condition of the kitchen. Our grandmothers had a simple method of disinfecting which has gone out of fashion, and which was to sprinkle brimstone on a shovel of hot coals and carry the burning result through the house.—Detroit Tribune.

Recipes.

MILK SOUP.—Four potatoes, two onions, two ounces of butter, quarter of an ounce of salt, pepper to taste, one pint of milk, three tablespoonfuls tapioca. Boil slowly all the vegetables with two quarts of water. Strain through the colander. Add milk and tapioca. Boil slowly and stir constantly for twenty minutes.

CHOCOLATE CARAMELS.—One pint of sugar dissolved in a wineglass of vinegar, half a cup of butter, one cupful of grated chocolate, boil until quite thick, put in buttered tins, and cut in squares when partly cooled. Instead of vinegar you can use water flavored with essence of vanilla, and they will be finer, but a little vinegar keeps them from sugaring.

SCOLLOPED CABBAGE.—Boil a firm cabbage in two waters. Drain and press, and let it get perfectly cold. Then mince fine, add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two eggs well beaten, three tablespoonfuls of cream or milk, pepper and salt to your fancy. Put into a buttered cake dish, sift fine crumbs on top, and bake, covered, half an hour, then brown delicately.

COFFEE CAKE.—Pour one cup of boiling hot strong coffee on one cup of lard or pork fat, add one cup of molasses, one cup of brown sugar, three well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon, allspice, one-half of nutmeg, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little warm water, flour enough to make a stiff batter. Bake in sheet-iron pan one hour and a half in a slow oven.

EGG SALAD.—Boil eight eggs for twenty minutes, then plunge them into cold water for a minute or two; take them out, remove their shells and mince the yolks and the whites separately. Spread the bottom of a dish with a layer of crisp lettuce, over this a layer of water-cress, then a layer of the minced whites of the egg, topping it with the minced yolks. Make a hole in the middle of all and pour in a good Mayonnaise dressing.

RAGOUT OF LIVER.—Heat three or four spoonfuls of nice dripping in a frying-pan, add an onion, sliced, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and thrice as much minced breakfast bacon; when all are hissing hot lay in the liver cut in pieces as long and wide as your middle finger, and fry brown, turning often; take out the liver and keep warm in a covered hot-water dish; strain the gravy, rinse out the frying-pan, and return to the fire with the gravy and an even tablespoonful of butter worked up well in two of browned flour. Stir until you have a smooth, browned roux, thin gradually with half a cupful of boiling water and the juice of half a lemon, add a teaspoonful of minced pickle, a small half teaspoonful of curry powder, put over the liver, put fresh boiling water in the pan under the dish, and let all stand closely covered for ten minutes before serving.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 7, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - - 75
One copy four " - - - - 50

A dispatch from Lansing, Michigan, says "the legislators are packing up. Each has had a big pine box made at the expense of the state, and into these they have put paper, pencils, inkstands, quart bottles of ink and mucilage, reports, waste-baskets, dictionaries, and everything that is portable, and some cute fellow has gone around and written 'boodle' in big letters on about half the boxes."

"People who want to send silver coins through the mails are very much puzzled how to do it in safety," said a letter carrier. "The best way to go about it is this: Take a strip of card board the size of the envelopes and the thickness of the silver piece. With the small blade of a penknife cut out a circle into which the silver will just fit. Then on each side paste paper to keep the money in place."

The VIEW never takes a position or discusses a subject without thought and investigation; it is therefore never found in a position which cannot be substantially defended, though there be some who think otherwise as a matter of course. This squib is not written just to make some of the know-it-alls prance around "on their ears." There is a ripple from our risibilities as we witness the capers they sometimes cut.

The editor of a paper at Storm Lake, Iowa, is now hiding in a swamp near that place in consequence of the way in which he mixed up the reports of a cattle show and a concert. His paper said: "The concert given last night by sixteen of Storm Lake's most beautiful and interesting young ladies was highly appreciated. They were elegantly dressed and sang in a most charming manner, winning the plaudits of the entire audience, who pronounced them the finest breed of shorthorns in the country. A few of them are of a rich brown color, but the majority are spotted brown and white. Several of the heifers are fine bodied, tight limbed animals, and promise to prove good property."

There is one remarkable thing about men who become defaulters while in office. They are always popular with the people. In some instances in this state men who were candidates for re-election, and who were known to be defaulters at the time, have been re-elected over good men. Judge Powell, of Butler, who is exposed through the press for the first time this morning, was an independent candidate for re-election to the probate judgeship in his county, and he was openly charged in the canvass with being a defaulter, but he was said to have been re-elected; but by an improved system of counting ballots he was left out in the cold. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good, and in this instance the counting out process resulted in good to the party and to the people.—Montgomery Dispatch.

A northwestern journalist has recently taken the trouble to address a circular letter to prominent editors and politicians in that section, asking them to indicate their preference for Presidential candidates to be nominated next year. He received answers from several hundred of them, and the classification which he was thus enabled to make is a very significant and interesting one. The returns from Democratic editors show that 297 are for Cleveland, 23 for Hill and 19 scattering. Those on hand from Republican editors show 238 for Blaine, 78 for Sherman 63 for Allison, 19 for Lincoln and 20 scattering. Postmaster General Vilas led the Democratic candidates for Vice President and ex-Governor Harrison, of Indiana, the Republican candidates. The great Northwest seems to solidify easily.

In speaking of the young men of Alabama, M. Quad in the Detroit Free Press says: "I like to speak of them. By them we are to judge the South five, ten, twenty years hence. Let no one come down here expecting to find the young men taking things easy. It is hard work to find one who is idle. It is easy to find hundreds who pulled their coats off years ago and went to work to help build up the South, and their efforts have been ten-strikes. You find them in shops, factories, stores, banks, mills offices—everywhere that muscle and brain is needed to direct—and you never find one who is ashamed of his position. There is no repining among them over what might have been—there is an enthusiasm among them to bring the New South to the front. The bane of the young men of the South twenty years ago was whiskey. That bane has been transferred north of the Ohio river. Sobriety and industry have become watchwords here. Selma, Montgomery or Tuskaloosa with their populations of 12,000, 6,000 and 30,000 respectively, contain all counted, fewer drinking places than the average northern town of 5,000 people. There is less drunkenness and less idleness. There is more respect for law and order. We may cringe, but we must take the dose. Indeed there is a New South and a new revolution of the wheel of Time."

The Flags.

There has been so much said about the captured confederate battle flags, in the republican papers, that we are constrained to suggest a plan of disposing of them, which, we hope, will meet approval on all sides.

It is, that there be prepared in the dome of the capitol at Washington fifty-seven niches, in fifty-six of which let the fifty-six of those flags in Washington be hung, just as they are, torn with shot and shell and stained and stiffened with mud and blood. Above these flags let there be painted an inscription as follows: "These flags were captured by the federal armies of Lee, Johnson, Beauregard, &c., and are held in the national capitol as the most glorious and precious of its treasures—glorious because it took four years of time and two millions and eight hundred thousand men, precious because it took four thousand millions of treasure and half a million of lives, to capture them and place them in this sacred temple."

"Above the empty niche let there be inscribed the following legend: "This place is reserved for the flag of the pirate 'Alabama,' if it is ever found. That one will be more precious than all the others, because with it that fierce 'pirate of the seas' drove from the ocean the commercial fleet of the greatest of nations, destroyed almost utterly its foreign trade, caused a loss of not less than one thousand millions of treasure and baffled the skill, bravery and efforts of the entire naval power of the nation for three years. This flag only is needed to complete the coronet of glory."—Eutaw Mirror.

The Plodding Boy.

Now that commencement season is at hand the "plodding schoolboy" will advance more prominently to the footlights than ever, because of the conspicuous place he holds with his class and teachers as a dull student. But do not judge him too harshly or too quickly. A learned professor in a Georgia college gave a student a note not long ago, and said to him: "Deliver this to your father." This student obeyed and was rewarded by hearing the note read. It was as follows:

"It will be money in your pocket to keep your son at home. He will never learn anything except by observation."

The student in question was not a fool. He was a plodder, however, and his professor was unfortunately unable to sympathize with him. The student was kept at home, and his classmates will miss him at the approaching commencement.

It has passed into a proverb, says the Savannah News, that the brightest men in college are not often the most successful in after life. The plodder may be the butt of his profession and college mates, but he often lives to redeem himself and to take high rank among those who direct the world's affairs. In a Georgia college, a good many years ago, there was a student who seemed unable to learn anything. During his first term he was derided by his professors and his fellow students, and when he failed to rise into a higher class he was advised by his friends to hire himself to a farmer as plowboy. He refused to take the advice, saying that he had entered college with the intention of obtaining a diploma, and that nothing less would satisfy him. He was five years working for what he wanted, and when success finally rewarded his efforts he ranked lowest of his class. To-day no other Georgian holds a higher position as an educator and thinker. He is besides one of the most highly honored members of the faculty of one of the leading universities of the country.

Those who laugh at the plodders should remember the fable of the hare and the tortoise. College professors ought to know that very much that is worth knowing is learned by observation. What is obtained from the text is the smallest part of a man's education.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

WITH A SHOT GUN.

A Sunday Morning Tragedy at Coalburg—The Murderer Arrested.

Birmingham Age.

The little mining town of Coalburg, was the scene of a bloody tragedy Sunday morning, about 11 o'clock. James Christian, a coal miner, with a double-barreled shot gun, shot and instantly killed Hugh Boyd, also a miner. The two men were drinking together and Boyd said, "I am a better man than you are."

Christian disputed this assertion and Boyd slapped him in the face. Christian did not resent the blow, but went to his house near by and carefully loaded his double-barrel shot-gun with buckshot. He then walked back and without a word of warning shot Boyd dead. He fired both barrels, and forty-two buckshot entered Boyd's body.

After the shooting the murderer reloaded his gun and defied the crowd which had gathered around him. A message was sent for the sheriff but for several hours Christian held two hundred men at bay. Finally he went to the house of Dr. Crow and surrenderd to that gentleman. Deputy Sheriff Price arrived soon afterwards and started to the city with the prisoner. A large party of Boyd's friends followed them some distance and made threats of lynching Christian. Price left the road and by going some distance through the woods with his prisoner, escaped the pursuing party and landed Christian in jail.

Powderly on Rum.

From his Recent Boston Speech.

Now, a word about the great curse of the laboring man—strong drink. Had I 10,000,000 tongues and a throat for each tongue, I would say to each man, woman and child here to-night: "Throw strong drink aside as you would an ounce of liquid hell." [Tremendous applause.] It sears the conscience, it destroys everything it touches, it reaches into the family circle and it takes the wife you have sworn to protect and drags her down from her pinnacle of purity into that house from which no decent woman ever goes alive. [Applause.] It induces the father to take the furniture from his house, exchange it for money at the pawn shop, and spend the proceeds for rum. I have seen it in every city east of the Mississippi, and I know that the most damning curse to the laborer is that which gurgles from the neck of the bottle. [Cheers.] I had rather be at the head of the organization having 100,000 temperate, honest, earnest men than at the head of an organization of 12,000,000 drinkers, whether moderate or any other kind.

A Good Anti-Poverty Plan.

Any man can organize himself into an anti-poverty society on this basis:

Resolved, that industry and economy mean prosperity.

Resolved, That a loaf of bread is better than a loaf about the streets, waiting for something to turn up.

Resolved, That two dollars deposited each week in a safe place pays better as an investment than any sums risked in gambling schemes.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

Crops are looking finely.

Miss Katie Brand, of Randolph, spent a few days with friends in this place recently. We hope to see her again soon.

Rev. J. M. Kallin, has returned from college and if we are correct brought his "sheep skin" with him this time.

Mr. John McCary, of Birmingham, has been visiting friends and relatives in Maplesville.

Mr. Willie Kelley, of Selma, has been visiting friends and relatives at this place but has returned. We found Willie a very interesting boy.

Mr. John Coleman, of Washington, is visiting his father near Maplesville.

We had a very interesting quarterly meeting last Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Mr. Urquhart, our presiding elder, preached a splendid sermon on Sunday.

The young people had a picnic recently which was much enjoyed by all who went. D.

Stanton Puffs.

Mr. Dave Cowden, of Cross Plains, Ala., has recently visited Stanton to see his old friends.

Dr. Little gave our young folks a sociable Friday night in honor of Mr. Cowden.

Rev. Mr. Urquhart, presiding elder, preached in Stanton Sunday night. Those present pronounced it an excellent sermon.

Mr. W. M. Broadhead, who lives across Mulberry creek, had the misfortune to lose his house by fire Sunday morning. Cause unknown.

Prof. E. D. Acker has been re-elected as principal of Stanton Academy for the next year. We hope the professor will stay with us.

Lodge & Bro., are going to increase their coaling work. Hands are in demand, as there is plenty of work. They continue to ship their charcoal to Shelby Iron Works.

W. J. Lindsay is still at large.

Mr. I. G. White is building a large addition to his house in Stanton. Let the improvements go on.

Mr. R. Coe and Mr. Prichard have recently laid lines of iron piping from large springs, near Stanton, to their respective residences. And so we can say Stanton has water works. 89.

June 27th, 1887.

Jemison Locals.

Mr. I. N. Langston and lady entertained the young people of Jemison right royally one night recently. Ice cream, lemonade, cake, courting, &c., were abundant. We might mention that the boys and girls furnished the courting.

The Misses Liles closed their school with public examinations which were eminently satisfactory to the patrons. The school entertained a large audience in Langston Hall Friday night with music, recitations, charades, &c. Taken altogether, it was quite creditable.

The masons celebrated their anniversary with a big dinner on the 24th ult. Rev. A. E. Burns delivered an address on Masonry, and in a very impressive manner told the many benefits to be derived therefrom, some of the objects of this ancient and honorable order, &c., after which the officers elected for the ensuing year were installed by Dr. Robinson, of Robinson Springs. Lemonade, ice cream, and an abundance of dinner was provided by the Masons. We are sorry you were not here, Mr. Editor, as you could have done the subject justice.

The trustees of Jemison Academy have engaged the services of Prof. G. L. Speer, who will take charge of the school September 1st. He comes highly recommended.

Miss Anstis M. Magee, of Cooper's Station, is visiting Prof. Corderie's family.

Misses Edna and Helen Leonard and Miss Alma Lee, of Helena, have been lending their charming presence to our village. X. Y. Z.

What is home without the children? Sad indeed without their merry voices and endearing ways. To endeavor to keep them in health is a pleasant duty, and a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge administered when needed never fails to produce the desired effect, and a lot of ugly Worms is expelled; which if allowed to remain would cause the child untold suffering.

Verbena.

Mrs. E. A. Ready, of Montgomery has leased the Clifton House and put everything in first class order. Under her excellent management and reputation will no doubt have a full house.

In addition to Mr. Josiah Morris and family, Mr. F. M. Billing and family, Dr. B. J. Baldwin and family have moved up for the summer. Also Mr. Milo Barrett and family, Mrs. Nellie Bunckley and family, Mr. Mortimer Williams and family.

Rev. Dr. Lovett, of Huntsville, spent Sunday in the our village recently.

Dr. Caffey's daughter and niece are home from the Judson Institute. Also his twin sons who graduated from the Howard College. Some of the girls around here are giving their bangs an extra touch.

The Misses Clisby, of Montgomery, are sojourning here awhile.

Mrs. A. J. Brooks and daughter have gone to the mountains of North Alabama and Blount Springs. Mr. A. J. Brooks is building a large steam ginning establishment with corn mill, cotton seed linter and cotton seed crusher combined.

Rev. Mr. Skipper is off for Sewanee and Mont Eagle, Tenn., for a couple of months.

Mrs. Holt the aged christian woman who came to Alabama fifty years ago as a consumptive, and who was partially paralyzed some time ago, can be seen on her front porch occasionally.

Miss Hulit Thompson, from the Tuskegee College, is at home for the summer.

Mr. William Wells and family, of Vicksburg, Miss., are visiting his old home.

Mr. Wm. B. Strock, had a regular old fashioned family re-union recently.

Mr. K. Wells and Mr. F. M. Billing have planted largely of apple, peach and LeConte pear trees on their Floyd Springs property. They have also purchased a small lot of Jersey and Devon heifers, expecting to combine a fruit and dairy farm and have a beautiful lake from their spring.

We were surprised one morning recently when we heard that the "Bad Man" was in town. He proved to be our old genial friend, Joel Barnett.

Proud of the Montgomery boys at Louisville. Don't care anything about the flags. Think the good people of New Orleans would like to have their spoons returned.

⁂

Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment is so well known that only a word as a reminder is necessary. No one who has suffered with Piles needs to be told more than once that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment is positively a permanent cure for that harrassing disease. The incredulous are asked to give it one trial and be convinced that this incomparable remedy is all that is claimed.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

An escaped lunatic who made threats of assassinating President Cleveland last week was arrested and placed in the government insane asylum at Washington. He was from Illinois.

A house full of healthy, hearty children presided over by christian parents is a heaven on earth, but home is anything but pleasant when full of sick, fretful children. Provide them with White's Cream Vermifuge which never fails when used according to directions for the expulsion of worms. This remedy is the best ever offered the public. It moves the worms sure as death.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 1st, 1887.

Complaint having been entered at this office by J. F. Welch, against Wm. B. Flanagan for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 13434, dated September 9th, 1882, upon the n w ¼ of s w ¼ section 10, township 20, range 11 east, in Chilton county, Ala., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
jul7-4 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

$20 Reward!

Strayed or stolen from my stable about four weeks since one small black or dark brown mare pony, natural saddler. No marks, except branded on one hip. $20 reward for her return to I. A. Slaughter, Birmingham, Ala.

Tidings for the Afflicted!

This is to inform all persons that I will be in Montgomery, Ala., about June 25, 1887, and will remain there until September 1st, 1887.

I will be prepared to treat all cases of Cancer, Ulcer, or Sore Breast, without the use of the knife. I have endorsements of the most prominent physicians in the country, also many from parties whom I have treated. Read these:

TO THE PUBLIC:—I have had a very bad case of Ulcer in the neck in my family; have had treatment of several physicians from New York and Washington, but was not relieved until I was recommended to Dr. Daniel, who made a successful cure, and I can heartily recommend him.

MRS. MARIE MOORE,
323 Missouri Ave., Washington, D. C.

ALTOONA, PENN., Oct. 16, 1886.

This is to certify that I was treated by Dr. Daniel for Cancer on the face and I am now entirely well. I had been to Philadelphia and was treated by the best doctors there. They gave me up and told me I might as well go home to die, as my cancer was incurable. The doctors in Altoona all gave me up. I can recommend Dr. Daniel to any one who is afflicted with that dreadful disease—cancer.

Respectfully,
HENRY MASSACER.

I have many more certificates, but have not the space to give them. All who may not be able to come to me at Montgomery, can send me full particulars of their case with $10, and I will send them medicine and directions to cure any case of Cancer, Ulcer or Sore Breast. Persons can consult or write me at Mrs. Clark's boarding house, Monroe Street, Montgomery, Ala.

j16-4t LITTLETON DANIEL.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.

☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

L&N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,

And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE.

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
(3) Louisville, Ky.

THE CHICAGO
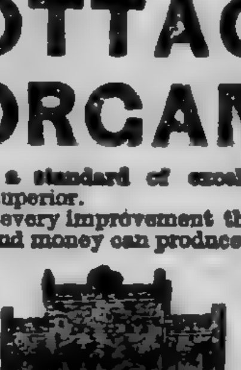
COTTAGE
ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.



OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.

WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 7, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Miss Sallie Dawson died at Jemison on the 29th ult., of dropsy.

Water-melons are now being brought in daily in great numbers.

Miss Maggie Scheussler, of Montgomery, visited friends here this week.

Miss Lillie Caldwell, of Tuskaloosa, is visiting relatives in this place.

Fifty head of sheep were driven through Clanton Saturday en route to Selma.

On many streets in Clanton the unmolested "dog fennel" doth flourish.

Mrs. Prescott, of Montgomery, visited her sister, Mrs. Dr. Johnson, of this place, last week.

Mr. W. L. Sampey has purchased the residence which he now occupies from Mr. "Jabe" Wooley. Consideration $1,150.

Mr. Henry Lowe sends the editors the first lot of the new crop of of sweet potatoes that we have seen. Thanks—they were good.

The contract has been let for the erection of a sixteen room hotel at the hot well. The building to be completed within three months time.

Messrs. B. H. Chesnutt and F. J. Davis, of Birmingham, spent Saturday, Sunday and the glorious Fourth with their families in Clanton.

Capt. W. A. Smith, of Dixie, was in Clanton Friday. He reports good rains and the farmers in consequent good spirits in his part of the county.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

On last Sunday Rev. A. J. Briggs preached one of the finest sermons ever heard in Clanton. His portrayal of the rise and fall of the Babylonian dynasty was particularly interesting and forcible.

The junior of the VIEW returns thanks for an invitation from a friend to eat a 4th of July turkey with him and regrets that he was unable to take advantage of this opportunity to satisfy his inner man.

The barbecue Saturday was quite a success, and barring the rain, which came down just about noon, everything was very pleasant. We are gratified to state that a considerable amount (nearly $50) was realized to assist in building the new Methodist church. A large number attended from neighboring towns.

Among the visitors in Clanton last Saturday were: Mrs. J. D. Lamar and her sister Miss Reed Hide, of Deatsville; Mr. and Mrs. Watersworth, of Maplesville; K. Carter, Jr., of Dixie; Miss Thornton, of Eufaula; Miss Bell Smith, of Elmore; C. M. Williamson, of Verbena; Gordon DuBose, of Centreville and many strangers whose names we failed to get.

Sampey's Corner.

I have just received a lot of new goods suitable for summer wear. Also a fresh lot of canned goods, tea, chocolate, &c. Those table peaches and pears are as nice as the fresh fruit from the trees. Flour still sells at reasonable prices and coffee is coming down to more reasonable figures. A good stock of shirts just received.

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

The Knights of Labor and Farmers' Alliance Unite in Celebrating the Fourth at Jemison.

The Fourth of July celebration at Jemison was largely attended by citizens from all over the county. There were probably two thousand people upon the grounds, and everything was as pleasant as one could wish. Speeches were made and a good dinner served. A representative of the VIEW who attended, is indebted to several members of the Knights of Labor for courtesies extended and kind attentions received. We put in our appearance to gather information for the many readers of the VIEW. We learned that the local lodges claim to have no sympathy with and do not sanction any such proceedings as were reported through the press of the country last week in regard to bloody threats from negro lodges in South Carolina. We are disposed to believe that the reports were exaggerated. We found that the order in this section, at least, is made up almost entirely of working people and poor people who seek to better their condition. This, taken all in all, is a praise-worthy ambition, when it is proposed to accomplish it by fair and honorable means only, as we were told is the object of the order.

The question is can such organizations accomplish the purposes in view? If they can do so, without injury to other classes, it is to be hoped that they may succeed.

A wreck up the L. & N. road last Monday caused a delay of trains about ten hours and the crowd that went from here to Jemison to the K. of L. picnic (about 300 strong) was laid out all night. The boys give graphic accounts of how they painted the little town of Jemison red while trying to wear the weary hours away. A dance was also had in Langston's hall and enjoyed while it lasted, but the most novel and picturesque sight to be seen was as the "wee small" hours approached; the long piles of new cross ties along the side of the railroad were literally covered with people who were lying stretched out in every direction, waiting for the long and anxiously looked for train to roll up. It finally came about 4 o'clock in the morning and brought them home a sleepier if not wiser people.

Uncle Abe's Etchings.

The following lines of good sense were found in charcoal marks upon the walls of "Uncle Abe's" white-washed cabin, by Lum D.:

Itt ma-bee saphe inn sum kacis tew bett on yore oan trix, butte nevver on thee uther phellow's.

Beefour yew kaul a mann a lyre, doo nott fale tew phind owt his phiten wait. Sum min air sow unserten.

I have ubserved that a mann kan stary inn enny bissiness, butte iph hee waunts itt dun up inn stile, he bise a newspaper ann runs itt.

Doo not turn luce a rabbit tew kach a dier. Yew ma loose boath.

Mi sun, yore influence will be phelt laung after yew air inn thee graiv. A stoane throne from thee topp ov a hil is foliode bi thee littel pebbels whitch itt displaised inn its faul.

Thee harm thare is inn kissing depense on whose cister is kist—whether mine or sum uther phellow's.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Many thanks to the gentlemen who so energetically assisted us at the barbecue last Saturday, and also to the VIEW who made known to our friends abroad our plans. Notwithstanding the unwelcome shower, which came just at noon, our labors were crowned with success. The gross proceeds were $75.40; our expenses were $26.85, leaving $48.55 which we have safely stored in our church treasury. Mr. O. A. Duke has an itemized statement of our expenses.

Respectfully,
M. E. L. Aid Society.

Card of Thanks.

The Methodist people of Clanton wish to return thanks to Mr. Tom Evans for so kindly passing his hat "bottom side upwards" to that liberal gentleman, Mr. Aldrich, of Montevallo, and to the noble hearted E. T. V. R. R. men, who so liberally contributed to aid us in building our church. May God bless each and every one of you gentlemen. "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the lord." X.

Little Bell DeJarnette, the 3 year old daughter of Mrs. M. DeJarnette of this place, has had a very handsome present made her in the shape of a fine piano. Her aunt Mrs. W. H. McNeil, is the donor.

Mr. McCranie, of this place, leaves for a trip through Florida next week.

Club Rates.

The CHILTON VIEW and the Montgomery Weekly Dispatch will be sent to any address one year for $2.25. The VIEW and the Daily Dispatch one year for $6.50.

The Savannah Times thinks that the President doesn't exactly fit the Democratic party. This is sad. The party will have to grow up to him then.—Ex.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Interstate Commerce Commission to Common Carrier—"Go ahead and form your own opinion, and if you are wrong we'll jerk you baldheaded."—Ex.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

If a law were passed requiring all good citizens to wear white plug hats on the occasion of every mass meeting or gathering at which people were liable to become excited there would b no need of police. Men with plug hats never begin a row.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

A medical journal says "going to bed on an empty stomach is a good way to invite sleeplessness." Another medical authority says that "eating just before retiring prevents sleep. The only alternative seems to be, if a man wishes to get a night's sleep, is to go to bed without his stomach.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a fieri facias issued out of the office of the circuit court of Chilton county, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment, recently obtained against D. H. Davenport, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said D. H. Davenport, I have levied on the following property, to-wit: Southwest fourth of Southeast fourth of section twenty (20) township twenty-two (22), range thirteen (13) less two acres off the east side of said s w ¼ of s e ¼, and lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction all the right, title and interest of the above named D. H. Davenport, in and to the above described property, on Monday, the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated at Clanton, this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against Elijah Headley out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said Elijah Headley, heretofore levied upon under an execution issued by A. C. Mims, a justice of the peace and levied upon the following described lands, viz: S e ¼ of s e ¼ of n w ¼ and s e ¼ of s e ¼, e ½ of s w ¼ of s e ¼ and n ½ of n e ¼ and s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14, township 21, range 13, lying in Chilton county, Ala.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named Elijah Headley in and to the above described property, on the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN.
Sheriff Chilton Co.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,

sep2 y — 210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR, LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT, DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

COMPOUND OXYGEN

NOT A DRUG

1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A WELL TRIED TREATMENT

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South, Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales.

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.
Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Dixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

WATCH IT.

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots,

HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala

SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

☞ CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Bleeding at the Lungs, Hoarseness, Influenza, Hacking Cough, Whooping Cough, Catarrh, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhœa, Kidney Troubles, and Spinal Diseases. Pamphlet free. Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.

PARSONS' PILLS MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.

These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. Will positively cure or relieve all manner of disease. The information around each box is worth ten times the cost of a box of pills. Find out about them and you will always be thankful. One pill a dose. Illustrated pamphlet free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25c. in stamps. Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., 22 C. H. St., Boston.

MAKE HENS LAY

Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food. Nothing on earth will make hens lay like it. It cures chicken cholera and all diseases of hens. Is worth its weight in gold. Illustrated book by mail free. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cents in stamps. [illegible] Dr. I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials, Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Ches Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug20-y

BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

NORTH SIDE OF SECOND AVE, BET. 19th AND 20th STREETS.

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation. FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c. TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course. PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialities and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation. Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

THE CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

Carl Dunder Tells Some Fairy Tales for the Little Ones.

Vhell, shildren, once upon a time, you know, dere vhas a man who lifed close peside a big woods. He vhas werry poor. His clothes vhas in rags. He doan' haf so mooch money in one year ash would puy him a quart of peanuts. He vhas always complaining of his hardt lot, und he vhas always madt pecause somepody else vhas rich. Vhell, one day vhen he vhas cryin' oudt dot he vhas sick, and dot he doan' haf some luck, und dot eaferypody else vhas all right but him, a leedle oldt man comes oudt of der forest und says to him:

"Vhas your name Hardt Luck?"

"Yes, dot vhas my name, und I vhas so discouraged dot I shoot myself. If you vhas a fairy I like you to help me along."

"Certainly. Shust you come oudt mit der woods."

Vhen Hardt Luck goes out mit him he finds himself tied oop mit a tree pooty queek, und some more oldt mans come around mit switches und gif him sooch a licking as nefer vhas. Den der first leedle oldt man unties him und says:

"Your poverty comes from your laziness; your hardt lot vhas your own fault; your sickness vhas pecause you doan' shweat. I like you to remember dot one week of hardt labor beats fife years of luck. You must learn der plain lesson dot vhen a man doan' help himself nopody else was responsible for his troubles."

Und, shildren, dot was shust der vhay of it. If you see some mans who vhas always kicking und complaining und telling of his hardt luck, you may pet he vhas all to plame for it, und der sooner somepody boots some ambition into him der petter he vhas off.

Vell, once upon anoder time a man who lifs py a farm mit his wife, und haf some cows und sheep und pigs, und vhas all right, vhas going home from his day's work vhen he meets an old woman in a black cloak. He vhas going past her, but she shtops him und says:

"Poor mans, I feel sadt for you dot you haf to work so awful hardt. On der sea shore vhas a big treasure. Vhy doan' you go und find him and be a rich man."

Vhell, dot man skips home to tell his wife, und all night long nopody shleeps a wink. He goes oudt in der morning und looks und looks, und eafery week he looks und digs und vhalks aroundt to find dot treasure. His fields grow oop mit weeds, his cows und pigs und sheep vhas soldt off, und vhen he comes home he quarrels mit his wife pecause he doan't find dot money. One day vhen der sheriff sells him oudt und his wife runs off, dot oldt womans meets him again, and he vhas so awful madt dot he like to kill her.

"My frendt," said der oldt womans, "it vhas through you dot I like to teach der worldt a lesson. He who vhas content mit vhat he has vhas rich. He who has plenty for all his wants vhas a fool to run after dot vhich is buried oudt of sight. Vhat you got by honest toil brought happiness: vhat you hoped to acquire through luck has brought you to poverty and wretchedness."

Und, shildren, dot vhas all aboudt it.

It is growing fashionable for superintendents of almshouses, in Michigan, to insure the lives of paupers under their charge, and there is a marked increase in the death rate at such institutions.

Sam Jones Answers Questions.

A gentleman who recently met Sam Jones on a railway train repeats part of the conversation as follows:—

Said I—"Adam and Eve were the first two people on earth. According to the Bible they had two sons—Cain and Abel. Cain slew Abel and then fled into the land of Nod and took unto himself a wife. Adam and Eve, the first Cain and Able, next Cain fled. We understand from 'fled' that he ran and got away from his awful crime as quickly as his legs would carry him. Then," I continued, excitedly, "right in the same sentence the Bible says he took unto himself a wife. Where did she come from?" I sunk back thinking I had given him a poser.

His eyes twinkled, his lips parted in a smile.

"An' nary one of them preachers could tell you?" he asked.

"No, sir, not one."

"Well," he continued, "that's funny, for that's a mighty easy question." He smiled again and said:—"Why Cain got his wife from his father-in-law."

I was done up.

"Where is hell that you preachers talk so much about," I asked.

"I dunno," he said. "I don't want to know. I aint headin' that way. I'm going to let them fellers as are goin' thar find out."

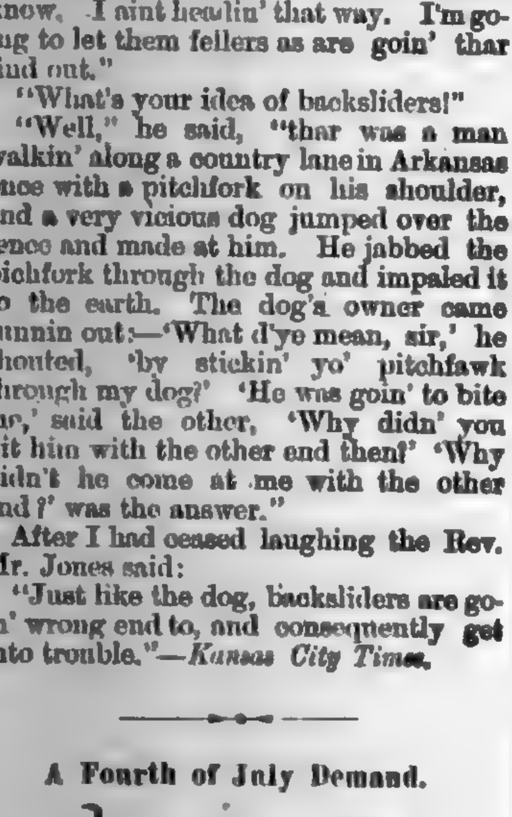
"What's your idea of backsliders?"

"Well," he said, "thar was a man walkin' along a country lane in Arkansas once with a pitchfork on his shoulder, and a very vicious dog jumped over the fence and made at him. He jabbed the pitchfork through the dog and impaled it to the earth. The dog's owner came runnin out:—'What d'ye mean, sir,' he shouted, 'by stickin' yo' pitchfawk through my dog?' 'He was goin' to bite me,' said the other, 'Why didn' you hit him with the other end then?' 'Why didn't he come at me with the other end?' was the answer."

After I had ceased laughing the Rev. Mr. Jones said:

"Just like the dog, backsliders are goin' wrong end to, and consequently get into trouble."—Kansas City Times.

A Fourth of July Demand.



SMART BOY (whose father is a printer) —"Say, paw, if you want to make a fortune, get up a boy's calendar, with seventeen Fourth of Julys every year. And make one this week while you're about it, please."—Chicago Herald.

Judge Orr, of Kankakee, Ill., has a goat which runs his lawn mower.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Moral courage is the rarest of qualities, and often maligned.

Life is too short to be spent in minding other people's business.

The seeds of our puishment are sown at the time we commit the sin.

Faith steps in to our aid when our boasted reason and knowledge fail.

The sympathy of sorrow is stronger than the sympathy of prosperity.

Life is a quarry out of which we are to mold and chisel and complete a character.

Lift thyself up, look around, and see something higher and brighter than earth, earth worms, and earthly darkness.

There cannot be a more worthy improvement of friendship than in the fervent opposition to the sins of those who we profess to love.

All mankind are happier for having been happy, so that, if you make them happy now, you make them happy twenty years hence by the memory of it.

The living get credit for what they might be quite as much as for what they are. Posterity judges a man by the best rather than the average of his attainment.

Home is given for the sake of its inmates. They have the ability to render it a benediction. Its character depends on each one striving to help the other and be developed.

No more wholesome advice than this can be given those upon whom fortune has smiled: However rich you may be, do not make pleasure the aim and object of life; it will wear you out faster than work, or even worry.

Learn from the earliest days to inure your principles against the perils of ridicule; you can no more exercise your reason if you live in the constant dread of laughter, than you can enjoy your life if you are in the constant terror of death.

Power of Sunshine.

In a recent number of the Chautauquan there is an interesting article by Charles Barnard, in which he shows that the great star which we call the sun is literally the stove that keeps the whole world warm. In conclusion he gives the following curious facts: Heat expands and cold contracts, and everything warmed by the sun expands under its gentle heat. Every rail on all our railroads expands and grows perceptibly longer in bright sunshine, and contracts and grows shorter whenever a cloud cuts off the heat, or the earth in turning moves away from the sun. So it is found necessary to leave a little space between every rail wherein it can stretch itself in hot summer days. Were all the rails pushed close together in laying the track, the first day of hot sunshine would pull the track to pieces, or render it so uneven that it could not be used. Every iron bridge stretches in the sunlight, and would tear itself to pieces were it not carefully adjusted for this expansion in the sun and given a chance to freely move on its foundations whenever the warm fingers of the sunshine are laid upon it. The Brooklyn bridge is in four distinct pieces, with plenty of room between to move, and it does move every day. In warm sunshine it is longer by several inches than on a cold night. The cables of the bridge are continuous, but the expansion caused by heat lengthens the cables and they let the bridge sink two or three feet in the middle. Even a passing cloud, hiding the sun for a few moments, will cause the entire bridge to rise in the middle by cooling and contracting the cables. I have personally measured the movement of the Brooklyn bridge on a hot summer's day between bright sunshine and the shade caused by clouds, and have seen that it moved over one inch in less than two hours. In building the great bronze Liberty in New York harbor the same thing had to be guarded against, and provision is made to allow the whole vast figure to move under the expansion caused by the heat of the sun. The movement, owing to the irregular surface of the statue, is not visible, as in the Brooklyn bridge, yet it is there. Even Bunker Hill monument, which is built wholly of stone, is distorted out of shape every day by the sun, though the movement cannot be proved except by certain experiments made for that purpose.

A Coffee Plantation in Mexico

While at Jalapa, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Times, I met Senor Pablo de Lascurrain, and accepted an invitation to visit his farm, situated a few miles distant, and embracing all that immense chain of mountains which extends to the gulf. We left on horseback in the morning, and after a pleasant ride of two hours arrived at the hacienda, a small but very comfortable house. After a good dinner the senor ordered the horses and we started out to see a portion of the farm. Of course only a small fraction of the land is under cultivation, the remainder being pasture lands, woods and mountains. About two miles from the hacienda we came to an immense coffee plantation containing between thirty and forty thousand trees, which are shaded by eighty thousand banana trees. The coffee tree, although requiring a moist, tropical climate, cannot bear the sun, and hence each tree has to be shaded by two or more banana trees.

The region around Jalapa is far better for raising coffee than is the famous district near Orizaba, where the average is about one-third of a pound per tree. The senor without any difficulty managed to bring the average up to nearly a pound. Before ripening the berry is of a bright red color and shortly after it turns brown, when it is ready to pick. After being gathered the berries are thrown into large wooden mortars, where they are pounded and the grains of coffee are separated from the covering. The next process is to dry them thoroughly, after which they are packed in bags and are ready for the market. As for the banana, each tree produces one large bunch and then dies. The fruit is so abundant that it is not picked, but allowed to dry on the stem.

A Remarkable Veil.

The church of Meixotl, Mexico, contains a remarkable veil of great value. For nearly three centuries Spaniards were in the habit of vowing a jewel to the veil of Our Lady of Meixotl if they returned safely from a voyage to Spain, until in Maximilian's time the veil was bejeweled to the value of about $200,000. The German adventurers, after Maximilian's failure, determined to carry away this veil as booty. They made their plans with great care and caution and secured the veil, but in some way they were discovered and a party of pursuers overtook them in a narrow pass, where two of them were killed, the third escaping under cover of darkness, leaving behind him, however, the precious veil, which was regained and restored to the altar, where it is more vigilantly guarded than ever.

A workman in a vineyard in Napa valley, Cal., committed suicide by jumping into a cask of wine and drowning.

Educating Brave Boys.

From Scharf's Illustrated History of the Confederate Navy, published by W. H. Shepard & Co., of Atlanta, Ga., we find a very interesting history of the Confederate Naval Academy. The school started July 23, 1863, under the supervision of Commander John M. Brooke, C. S. N., one of the most accomplished sailors of his day, and he had an able staff.

The staff remained almost intact until the school perished with the Confederacy. In the summer of 1864, Lieut. O. F. Johnson relieved Lieut. Hall as commandant of midshipmen in order that the latter might devote more attention to the instruction of the classes, and in November, Lieut. B. P. Loyall relieved Lieut. Johnson. The only other change of importance was that later Com. James Henry Rochelle was ordered to the school as commandant of midshipmen and executive officer. As far as the exigencies of war would permit, the organization, studies and discipline of the school were modeled upon the curriculum of the U. S. Naval Academy. Cadets were appointed by members of Congress from their respective districts and by the President from the Confederacy at large, and the school began work with fifty acting midshipmen. They were required to be not under fourteen nor over eighteen years of age, and on the roll were represented many of the most distinguished families of the South. After passing a physical examination and an examination on such elementary studies as reading, writing, spelling and the four principles of arithmetic, they became acting midshipmen and entered upon their studies, which comprised six departments and twenty-two branches. There were four annual courses and the midshipmen were arranged into four classes, each class pursuing one of these courses. The studies of the fourth class embraced practical seamanship, naval gunnery and artillery and infantry tactics, algebra to equations of the first degree, English grammar and descriptive geography; those of the third class, practical seamanship, gunnery and artillery and military tactics, algebra, geometry, plane and spherical trigonometry, physical geography, history and the French language; those those of the second class, seamanship and steam, gunnery and field artillery, astronomy, navigation, application of algebra and trigonometry to mensuration of planes and solids, political science and French; those of the first class, seamanship and naval tactics, gunnery, infantry tactics, navigation, surveying, French and Spanish.

The Academic Board held examinations in each June and December, and the December examination was attended by a board of visitors, commanders, who ascertained and decided upon the qualifications of the midshipmen for promotion; and as rapidly as the latter were deemed proficient they were ordered to ships, batteries, or other duty. The Patrick Henry was usually stationed near Drewry's Bluff, the scene of desperate fighting, and by the time they were sent to distant service they were versed in the practice as well as the theory of war. If the routine of a day was not broken by a summons to man the guns on shore, or do scouting, or take part in boat expeditions, it was full of hard work on board. The morning gun was fired at seven o'clock, and at eight a breakfast of hardtack and a decoction of sweet potatoes or beans that masqueraded as coffee was served. Sick call, studies and recitations occupied the hours until two o'clock, and then came a dinner of salt junk, perhaps a mess of vegetables, and the inevitable corn-meal that became a staple article of diet when wheat-flour climbed toward $1,200 per barrel in Confederate currency. School exercises and dress parade took up the remainder of the day ended with tattoo at 9:30, and taps at 10 o'clock. Near the close of the war, when it became necessary to have the boys on shore pretty much all the time to stand to the guns, they occupied huts in the Drewry's Bluff batteries. Such a training nourished and strengthened their finest qualities, and it is not remarkable that so many of them have since risen to positions of great honor and trust, and exemplified the virtues and worthy ambitions of civil life.

A Multitude of Ailments.

The ailments which afflict the kidneys and bladder are so numerous, that merely to name them would fill a space far outrunning the limits of this article. Suffice it to say, that they are both obstinate and dangerous. To their prevention Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is well adapted. The stimulus which it lends to the action of the kidneys when they are lethargic, serve to counteract a tendency in them to lapse, first, into a state of pernicious inactivity, and afterwards into one of positive organic disease, which soon destroys their delicate integuments, poisons the blood and causes death. A double purpose is served by this depurent. It promotes activity of the kidneys, and expels impurities from the blood which have no natural channel of outlet, except those organs. Constipation, biliousness, fever and ague, rheumatism and dyspepsia, are also remedied by this medicine of thorough action and wide scope.

The warship Chicago has finished her "dock trials" and has gone to New York.

"The leprous distilment, whose effect
Holds such an enmity with blood of man,
That, swift as quicksilver, it courses through
The natural gates and alleys of the body," and causes the skin to become "barked about, most lazar-like, with vile and loathsome crust." Such are the effects of diseased and morbid bile, the only antidote for which is to cleanse and regulate the liver—an office admirably performed by Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The damage by forest fires in Northern Michigan in May, amounted to $7,000,000.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" perfectly and permanently cures those diseases peculiar to females. It is tonic and nervine, effectually allaying and curing those sickening sensations that affect the stomach and heart, through reflex action. The backache and "dragging-down" sensations all disappear under the strengthening effects of this great restorative. By druggists.

Over $6,000,000 of Southern railway bonds have been subscribed for in New York.

America's Pride.

True American men and women, by reason of their strong constitutions, beautiful forms, rich complexions and characteristic energy, are envied by all nations. It is the general use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic which brings about these results.

Advice to Mothers.

Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for the bowels. Try it.

The world's visible supply of cotton is 1,9[illegible],970 bales.

Young men or middle-aged ones, suffering from nervous debility and kindred weaknesses, should send 10 cents in stamps for illustrated book suggesting sure means of cure. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many wish us good-morning that were the cause of our having a bad night.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS warms up and invigorates the stomach, improves and strengthens the digestive organs, opens the pores, promotes perspiration, and equalizes the circulation. As a corrector of a disordered system there is nothing to equal it.

The New York banks now hold $4,[illegible] in excess of legal requirements.

If a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption and rest well.

For Rickets, Marasmus, and Wasting Disorders of Children.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, is unequaled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. Read the following: "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing, and have been more than pleased with the results, as in every case the improvement was marked." —J. M. MAIN, M. D., New York.

Gray hairs are honorable. They do not stay in a bald head.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y

Salt Rheum

Is the most common of all skin diseases, and is often exceedingly disagreeable. The skin becomes dry and hot, grows red and rough, and often breaks into painful cracks, while small watery pimples appear in great numbers, discharging a thin, sticky fluid, causing intense itching. Hood's Sarsaparilla has wonderful power over this disease. It purifies the blood and expels the humor, and the skin heals without a scar.

"I had salt rheum over nearly my entire body. It is impossible to describe my sufferings. When I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla the disease began to subside, the watery pimples, with their agonizing itch and pain, disappeared, and now I am cured."—LYMAN ALLEN, No. Chicago, Ill.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICK HEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS PRICE 1 DOLLAR

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO
Sole Proprietors,
ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bing[illegible], Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

MARVELOUS

MEMORY

DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading.

Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hon. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 300 University of Penn., 300 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN

The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world. Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $2 Shoes advertised by other firms.

NO SEAM BEST KID W. L. DOUGLAS' $3 SHOE, SEAMLESS SEWED

[Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]

Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT 5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for TANSILL'S PUNCH 5c.

Your "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigars are getting lots of friends. Traveling men say to us every day: "Why they are better than most 10c. cigars." Our trade has more than doubled since we commenced to sell them. P. & A. L. MILLARD, Ellisburgh, N. Y. Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

LEA'S Springs, Granger Co., E. Tenn. Superior natural Mineral Waters, Mountain and Cave Scenery. Convenient, healthy location. Select. Cheap board. Address M. J. HUGHES, Proprietor.

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. The National Co., 2[illegible] Dey St., N.Y.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D.C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

LECTURE ON Rough on Rats.

This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'ROUGH'NESS.'

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of BEETLES Roaches, Water-bugs. For two or three nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" dry powder, in, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS" is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised, and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES.

Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY,
St. Louis, Mo.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, $1.00; round, 14 Pills.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 33½ Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. ROOK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

$15.00 Flat top No. 7 Cook Stove for $15.00 with fixtures. Send for catalogue. A. P. Stewart & Co., 69 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

This represents a healthy life. Throughout its various scenes, Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

A. N. U. [illegible] 87

LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG DISEASES.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE.

MRS. MARY A. MCCLURE, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery,' and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."

LIVER DISEASE.

MRS. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I wish to say a few words in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' For five years previous to taking them I was a great sufferer; I had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am happy to say I am now well and strong, thanks to your medicines."

Chronic Diarrhea Cured.—D. LAZARRE, Esq., 275 and 277 Decatur Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I used three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it has cured me of chronic diarrhea. My bowels are now regular."

GENERAL DEBILITY.

MRS. PARMELIA BRUNDAGE, of 161 Lock Street, Lockport, N. Y. writes: "I was troubled with chills, nervous and general debility, with frequent sore throat, and my mouth was badly cankered. My liver was inactive, and I suffered much from dyspepsia. I am pleased to say that your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' have cured me of all these ailments and I cannot say enough in their praise. I must also say a word in reference to your 'Favorite Prescription,' as it has proven itself a most excellent medicine for weak females. It has been used in my family with excellent results."

Dyspepsia.—JAMES L. COLBY, Esq., of Yucatan, Houston Co., Minn., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion, and would eat heartily and grow poor at the same time. I experienced heartburn, sour stomach, and many other disagreeable symptoms common to that disorder. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'"

INVIGORATES THE SYSTEM.

Dyspepsia.—THERESA A. CASS, of Springfield, Mo., writes: "I was troubled one year with liver complaint, dyspepsia, and sleeplessness, but your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Chills and Fever.—Rev. H. E. MOSLEY, Montmorenci, S. C., writes: "Last August I thought I would die with chills and fever. I took your 'Discovery' and it stopped them in a very short time."

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

INDIGESTION BOILS, BLOTCHES.

REV. F. ASBURY HOWELL, Pastor of the M. E. Church, of Silverton, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blotches began to arise on the surface of the skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and dullness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him for such complaints, and in one week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now sound and well. The 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are the best remedy for bilious or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. My wife could not walk across the floor when she began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now she can walk quite a little ways, and do some light work."

HIP-JOINT DISEASE.

MRS. IDA M. STRONG, of Ainsworth, Ind., writes: "My little boy had been troubled with hip-joint disease for two years. When he commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' he was confined to his bed, and could not be moved without suffering great pain. But now, thanks to your 'Discovery,' he is able to be up all the time, and can walk with the help of crutches. He does not suffer any pain, and can eat and sleep as well as any one. It has only been about three months since he commenced using your medicine. I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude for the benefit he has received through you."

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION.

Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News" of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "MRS. ELIZA ANN POOLE, wife of Leonard Poole, of Williamsburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days."

Mr. T. A. AYRES, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

It rapidly builds up the system, and increases the flesh and weight of those reduced below the usual standard of health by "wasting diseases."

Consumption.—MRS. EDWARD NEWTON, of Harrowsmith, Ont., writes: "You will ever be praised by me for the remarkable cure in my case. I was so reduced that my friends had all given me up, and I had also been given up by two doctors. I then went to the best doctor in those parts. He told me that medicine was only a punishment in my case, and would not undertake to treat me. He said I might try Cod liver oil if I liked, as that was the only thing that could possibly have any curative power over consumption so far advanced. I tried the Cod liver oil as a last treatment, but I was so weak I could not keep it on my stomach. My husband, not feeling satisfied to give me up yet, though he had bought for me everything he saw advertised for my complaint, procured a quantity of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took only four bottles, and, to the surprise of everybody, am to-day doing my own work, and am entirely free from that terrible cough which harrassed me night and day. I have been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years, and now feel so much better that I believe, with a continuation of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I will be restored to perfect health. I would say to those who are falling a prey to that terrible disease consumption, do not do as I did, take everything else first; but take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in the [illegible]"

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Ulcer Cured.—ISAAC E. DOWNS, Esq., of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y. [illegible] writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh. After trying almost everything without success, we procured three bottles of your 'Discovery,' which healed it up perfectly." Mr. Downs continues:

Consumption and Heart Disease.—"I also wish to thank you for the remarkable cure you have effected in my case. For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Before consulting you I had wasted away to a skeleton: could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. I then consulted you, and you told me you had hopes of curing me, but it would take time. I took five months' treatment in all. The first two months I was almost discouraged; could not perceive any favorable symptoms, but the third month I began to pick up in flesh and strength. I cannot now recite how, step by step, the signs and realities of returning health gradually but surely developed themselves. To-day I tip the scales at one hundred and sixty, and am well and strong."

WASTED TO A SKELETON.

Our principal reliance in curing Mr. Downs' terrible disease was the "Golden Medical Discovery."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS.

JOSEPH F. MCFARLAND, Esq., Athens, La., writes: [illegible] "Golden Medical Discovery." [illegible] discontinued it."

Golden Medical Discovery is Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	[illegible]
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1887. NUMBER 36.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

GOLDEN WORDS

FROM REV. T. DeWITT TALMAGE, D. D., OF BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Paul in a Basket—Sailor Evangelizing Cannibals—God Will Take Us Through—Hope Our Compass.

TEXT: "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."—II Cor. xi., 33.

Sermons on Paul in jail, Paul on Mars Hill, Paul in shipwreck, Paul before the Sanhedrim, Paul before Felix are plentiful, but in my text we have Paul in a basket. Damascus is a city of white and glistening architecture, sometimes called "the eye of the East," sometimes called "pearl surrounded by emeralds," at one time distinguished for swords of the best material, called Damascus blades, and upholstery of richest fabric called damasks. A horseman by the name of Saul, riding toward this city, had been thrown from the saddle. The horse had dropped under a flash from the sky, which at the same time was so bright it blinded the rider for many days, and, I think, so permanently injured his eyesight that this defect of vision became the thorn in the flesh he afterward speaks of. He started for Damascus to butcher Christians, but after that hard fall from his horse he was a changed man and preached Christ in Damascus till the city was shaken to its foundation.

The Mayor gives authority for his arrest, and the popular cry is "Kill him! kill him!" The city is surrounded by a high wall and the gates are watched by the police lest the Cicilian preacher escape. Many of the houses were built on the wall, and their balconies projected clear over and hovered above the gardens outside. It was customary to lower baskets out of these balconies and pull up fruits and flowers from the gardens. To this day visitors at the monastery at Mount Sinai are lifted and let down in baskets. Detectives prowled around from house to house looking for Paul, but his friends hid him, now in one place, now in another. He is no coward, as fifty incidents in his life demonstrate. But he feels his work is not done yet, and so he evades assassination. "Is that preacher here?" the foaming mob shout at one house door. "Is that fanatic here?" the police shout at another house door. Sometimes on the street incognito he passes through a crowd of clenched fists and sometimes he secretes himself on the housetops. At last the infuriated populace get on sure track of him. They have positive evidence that he is in the house of one of the Christians, the balcony of whose home reaches over the wall. "Here he is! Here he is!" The vociferation and blasphemy and howling of the pursuers are at the front door. They break in. "Fetch out that gospelizer, and let us hang his head on the city gate. Where is he?" The emergency was terrible. Providentially there was a good stout basket in the house. Paul's friends fasten a rope to the basket. Paul steps into it. The basket is lifted to the edge of the balcony on the wall, and then while Paul holds on to the rope with both hands, his friends lower away, carefully and cautiously, slowly but surely, further down and further down, until the basket strikes the earth and the apostle steps out, and afoot and alone starts on that famous missionary tour, the story of which has astonished earth and heaven. Appropriate entry in Paul's diary of travels: "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."

Observe, first, on what a slender tenure great results hang. The ropemaker who twisted that cord fastened to that lowering basket never knew how much would depend upon the strength of it. How if it had been broken and the apostle's life had been dashed out? What would have become of the Christian church? All that magnificent missionary work in Pamphilia, Cappadocia, Galatia, Macedonia would never have been accomplished. All his writings that make up so indispensable an enchanting a part of the New Testament would never have been written. The story of resurrection would never have been so gloriously told as he told it. That example of heroic and triumphant endurance at Philippi, in the Mediterranean Euroclydon, under flagellation and at his beheading, would not have kindled the courage of ten thousand martyrdoms. But that rope holding that basket, how much depended on it! So, again and again, great results have hung on what seemed slender circumstances.

Did ever ship of many thousand tons crossing the sea have such important passenger as had once a boat of leaves from taffrail to stern, only three or four feet, the vessel made waterproof by a coat of bitumen, and floating on the Nile with the infant lawgiver of the Jews on board? What if some crocodile should crunch it? What if some of the cattle wading in for a drink should sink it? Vessels of war sometimes carry forty guns looking through the port-holes, ready to open battle. But that tiny craft on the Nile seems to be armed with all the guns of thunder that bombarded Sinai at the lawgiving. On how fragile craft sailed how much historical importance!

The parsonage at Epworth, England, is on fire in the night, and the father rushed through the hallway for the rescue of his children. Seven children are out and safe on the ground, but one remains in the consuming building. That one wakes, and finding his bed on fire and the building crumbling, comes to the window, and two peasants make a ladder of their bodies, one peasant standing on the shoulder of the other, and down the human ladder the boy descends—John Wesley. If you would know how much depended on that ladder of peasants, ask the millions of Methodists on both sides of the sea. Ask their mission stations all around the world. Ask their hundreds of thousands already ascended to join their founder, who would have perished but for the living stairs of peasants' shoulders.

An English ship stopped at Pitcairn Island and right in the midst of surrounding cannibalism and squalor the passengers discovered a Christian colony of churches and schools and beautiful homes and highest style of religion and civilization. For fifty years no missionary and no Christian influence had landed there. Why this oasis of light amid a desert of heathendom? Sixty years before a ship had met disaster and one of the sailors, unable to save anything else went to his trunk and took out a Bible which his mother had placed there and swam ashore, the Bible held in his teeth. The book was read on all sides until the rough and vicious population were evangelized, and a church was started and an enlightened commonwealth established, and the world's history has no more brilliant page than that which tells of the transformation of a nation by one book. It did not seem of much importance whether the sailor continued to hold the book in his teeth or let it fall in the breakers, but upon what small circumstance depended what mighty results!

Practical inference: There are no insignificances in our lives. The minutest thing is part of a magnitude. Infinity is made up of infinitesimals. Great things an aggregation of small things. Bethlehem manger pulling on a star in the eastern sky. One book in a drenched sailor's mouth the evangelization of a multitude. One boat of papyrus on the Nile freighted with events for all ages. The fate of Christendom in a basket let down from a window on the wall. What you do, do well. If you make a rope make it strong and true, for you know not how much may depend on your workmanship. If you fashion a boat let it be waterproof, for you know not who may sail in it. If you put a Bible in the trunk of your boy as he goes from home, let it be heard in your prayers, for it may have a mission as far reaching as the book which the sailor carried in his teeth to the Pitcairn beach. The plainest man's life is an island between two eternities—eternity past rippling against his shoulders, eternity to come touching his brow. The casual, the accidental, that which merely happened so, are parts of a great plan, and the rope that lets the fugitive apostle from the Damascus wall is the cable that holds to its mooring the ship of the church in the northeast storm of the centuries.

Again, notice unrecognized and unrecorded services. Who spun that rope? Who tied it to the basket? Who steadied the illustrious preacher as he stepped into it? Who relaxed not a muscle of the arm or dismissed an anxious look from his face until the basket touched the ground and discharged its magnificent cargo? Not one of their names has come to us, but there was no work done that day in Damascus or in all the earth compared with the importance of their work. What if they had in the agitation tied a knot that could slip? What if the sound of the mob at the door had led them to say: "Paul must take care of himself, and we will take care of ourselves?" No, no! They held the rope, and in doing so did more for the Christian church than any thousand of us will ever accomplish. But God knows and has made eternal record of their undertaking. And they know. How exultant they must have felt when they read his letters to the Romans, to the Corinthians, to the Galatians, to the Ephesians, to the Philippians, to the Collossians, to the Thessalonians, to Timothy, to Titus, to Philemon, to the Hebrews, and when they heard how he walked out of prison with the earthquake unlocking the door for him, and took command of the Alexandrian corn ship when the sailors were nearly scared to death, and preached a sermon that nearly shook Felix off his judgment seat. I hear the men and women who helped him down through the window and over the wall talking in private over the matter, and saying: "How glad I am that we effected that rescue! In coming times others may get the glory of Paul's work, but no one shall rob us of the satisfaction of knowing that we held the rope."

Once for thirty-six hours we expected every moment to go to the bottom of the ocean. The waves struck through the skylights and rushed down into the hold of the ship and hissed against the boilers. It was an awful time; but, by the blessing of God and the faithfulness of the men in charge, we came out of the cyclone and we arrived at home. Each one before leaving the ship thanked Captain Andrews. I do not think there was a man or woman that went off that ship without thanking Captain Andrews, and when years after I heard of his death I was impelled to write a letter of condolence to his family in Liverpool. Everybody recognized the goodness, the courage, the kindness of Captain Andrews; but it occurs to me now that we never thanked the engineer. He stood away down in the darkness amid the hissing furnaces doing his whole duty. Nobody thanked the engineer, but God recognized his heroism and his continuance and his fidelity, and there will be just as high reward for the engineer who worked out of sight as for the captain who stood on the bridge of the ship in the midst of the howling tempest.

There are said to be about 60,000 ministers of religion in this country. About 50,000 I warrant came from early homes which had to struggle for the necessaries of life. The sons of rich bankers and merchants generally become bankers and merchants. The most of those who become ministers are the sons of those who had terrific struggle to get their everyday bread. The collegiate and theological education of that son took every luxury from the parental table for eight years. The other children were more scantily appareled. The son at college every little while got a bundle from home. In it were the socks that mother had knit, sitting up late at night, her sight not as good as once it was. And there also were some delicacies from the sister's hand for the voracious appetite of a hungry student. The father swung the heavy cradle through the wheat, the sweat rolling from his chin bedewing every step of the way, and then sitting down under the cherry tree at noon thinking to himself: "I am fearfully tired, but it will pay if I can once see that boy through college, and if I can know that he will be preaching the Gospel after I am dead." The younger children want to know why they can't have this and that as others do, and the mother says: "Be patient, my children, until your brother graduates, and then you shall have more luxuries; but we must see that boy through."

The years go by, and the son has been ordained and is preaching the glorious Gospel, and a great revival comes, and souls by scores and hundreds accept the Gospel from the lips of that young preacher, and father and mother, quite old now, are visiting the son at that village parsonage, and at the close of a Sabbath of mighty blessing father and mother retire to their room, the son lighting the way and asking them if he can do anything to make them more comfortable, saying if they want anything in the night just to knock on the wall. And then, all alone, father and mother talk over the gracious influences of the day and say: "Well, it was worth all we went through to educate that boy. It was a hard pull, but we held on till the work was done. The world may not know it, but, mother, we held the rope, didn't we?" And the voice, tremulous with joyful emotion, responds: "Yes, father, we held the rope. I feel my work is done. Now, Lord, lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation." "Pshaw!" says the father. "I never felt so much like living in my life as now. I want to see what that fellow is going on to do, he has begun so well."

Something occurs to me quite personal. I was the youngest of a large family of children. My parents were neither rich nor poor; four of the sons wanted collegiate education, and four obtained it, but not without great home struggle. We never heard the old people say once that they were denying themselves to effect this, but I remember now that my parents always looked tired. I don't think they ever got rested until they lay down in the Somerville cemetery. Mother would sit down in the evening and say: "Well, I don't know what makes me feel so tired!" Father would fall immediately to sleep, seated by the evening stand overcome with the day's fatigues. One of the four brothers, after preaching the gospel for about fifty years, entered upon his heavenly rest. Another of the four is on the other side of the earth, a missionary of the cross. Two of us are in this land in the home ministry, and I think all of us are willing to acknowledge our obligations to the old folks at home. About twenty-one years ago the one, and about twenty-three years ago the other, put down the burdens of this life, but they still hold the rope.

O, men and women here assembled, you brag sometimes how you have fought your way in the world, but I think there have been helpful influences that you have never fully acknowledged. Has there not been some influence in your early or present home that the world cannot see? Does there not reach to you from among the New England hills, or from western prairie, or from southern plantation, or from English or Scottish or Irish home a cord of influence that has kept you right when you would have gone astray, and which, after you had made a crooked track, recalled you? The rope may be as long as thirty years, or five hundred miles long, or three thousand miles long, but hands that went out of mortal sight long ago will hold the rope. You want a very swift horse, and you need to rowel him with sharpest spurs, and to let the reins lie loose upon the neck, and to give a shout to the racer, if you are going to ride out of reach of your mother's prayers. Why, a ship crossing the Atlantic in six days can't sail away from that. A sailor finds them on the lookout as he takes his place, and finds them on the mast as he climbs the ratlines to disentangle a rope in the tempest, and finds them swinging on the hammock when he turns in. Why not be frank and acknowledge it—the most of us would long ago have been dashed to pieces had not gracious and loving hands steadily, lovingly and mightily held the rope.

But there must come a time when we shall find out who these Damascenes were who lowered Paul in the basket, and greet them and all those who have rendered to God and the world unrecognized and unrecorded services. That is going to be one of the glad excitements of heaven, the hunting up and picking out of those who did great good on earth and got no credit for it. Here the church has been going on for nineteen centuries, and yet the world has not recognized the services of the people in that Damascus balcony. Charles G. Finney said to a dying Christian: "Give my love to St. Paul when you meet him." When you and I meet him, as we will, I shall ask him to introduce me to those people who got him out of the Damascus peril.

We go into long sermons to prove that we will be able to recognise people in heaven, when there is one reason we fail to present, and that is better than all—God will introduce us. We shall have them all pointed out. You would not be guilty of the impoliteness of having friends in your parlor not introduced, and celestial politeness will demand that we be made acquainted with all the heavenly household. What rehearsal of old times and recital of stirring reminiscences! If others fail to give introduction, God will take us through, and before our first twenty-four hours in heaven—if it were calculated by earthly timepieces—have passed, we shall meet and talk with more heavenly celebrities than in our entire mortal state we met with earthly celebrities. Many who made great noise of usefulness will sit on the last seat by the front door of the heavenly temple, while right up within arm's reach of the heavenly throne will be many who, though they could not preach themselves or do great exploits for God, nevertheless held the rope.

Come, let us go right up and accost those on this circle of heavenly thrones. Surely they must have killed in battle a million men. Surely they must have been buried with all the cathedrals sounding a dirge and all the towers of all the cities tolling the national grief. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I lived by choice the unmarried daughter in an humble home that I might take care of my parents in their old age, and I endured without complaint all their querulousness and administered to all their wants for twenty years."

Let us pass on round the circle of thrones. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was for thirty years a Christian invalid, and suffered all the while, occasionally writing a note of sympathy for those worse off than I, and was general confident of all those who had trouble, and once in a while I was strong enough to make a garment for that poor family in the back lane." Pass on to another throne. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was the mother who raised a whole family of children for God, and they are out in the world Christian merchants, Christian mechanics, Christian wives, and I have had full reward of all my toil." Let us pass on in the circles of thrones. "I had a Sabbath-school class, and they were always on my heart, and they all entered the kingdom of God, and I am waiting for their arrival."

But who art thou, the mighty one of heaven on this other throne. "In time of bitter persecution I owned a house in Damascus, a house on the wall. A man who preached Christ was hounded from street to street and I hid him from the assassins, and when I found them breaking in my house and I could no longer keep him safely, I advised him to flee for his life, and a basket was let down over the wall with the maltreated man in it and I was one who helped hold the rope." And I said: "Is that all?" And he answered: "That is all." And while I was lost in amazement I heard a strong voice that sounded as though it might once have been hoarse from many exposures and triumphant as though it might have belonged to one of the martyrs, and it said: "Not many mighty, not many noble are called, but God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and base things of the world and things which are despised hath God chosen, yea and things which are not to bring to naught things which are, that no flesh should glory in His presence." And I looked to see from whence the voice come, and lo! it was the very one who had said: "Through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall."

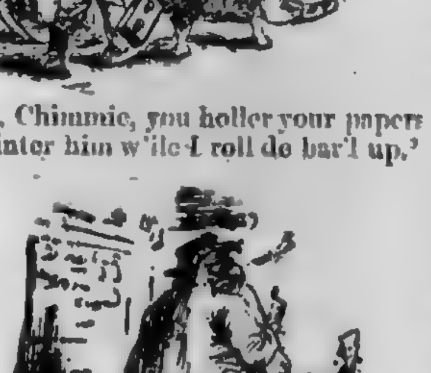
Henceforth think of nothing as insignificant. A little thing may decide your all. A Cunarder put out from England for New York. It was well equipped, but in putting up a stove in the pilot box a nail was driven too near the compass. You know how that nail would affect the compass. The ship's officer, deceived by that distracted compass, put the ship 200 miles off her course, and suddenly the man on the lookout cried: "Land ho!" and the ship was halted within a few yards of her demolition on Nantucket shoals. A sixpenny nail came near wrecking a Cunarder. Small ropes hold mighty destinies.

A minister seated in Boston at his table, lacking a word puts his hand behind his head and tilts back his chair to think, and the ceiling falls and crushes the table and would have crushed him. A minister in Jamaica, at night by the light of an insect, called the candle fly, is kept from stepping over a precipice a hundred feet. F. W. Robertson, the celebrated English clergyman, said that he entered the ministry from a train of circumstances started by the barking of a dog. Had the wind blown one way on a certain day, the Spanish Inquisition would have been established in England; but it blew the other way, and that dropped the accursed institution with 75,000 tons of shipping to the bottom of the sea, or flung the splintered logs on the rocks.

Nothing unimportant in your life or mine. Three noughts placed on the right side of the figure one make a thousand, and six noughts on the right side of the figure one million, and our nothingness placed on the right side may be augmentation illimitable. All the ages of time and eternity affected by the basket let down from a Damascus balcony.

A Conspiracy.

"Hey, Chimmie, you holler your papers an' run inter him w'ile I roll de bar'l up."



"Yere's yer evenin' paper! Full account of der——"

"Och, Himmel! I bet you I fell on sometings soft, ain't it?"—Life.

THE French are joining the cattle brigade. Eighteen thousand head of cattle were recently bought by a French syndicate from the Hunter & Evans herd in Montana for $400,000.

HOW AND WHERE?

How are we living?
Like herbs in the garden that stand in a row,
And have nothing to do but to stand there and grow!
Our powers of perceiving
So dull and so dead,
They simply extend to the objects about us—
The moth, having all his dark pleasure without us—
The worm in his bed!

If this we are living,
And fading, and falling, and rotting, alas!
Like the grass, or the flowers that grow in the grass—
Is life worth our having?
The insect a humming—
The wild bird is better, that sings as it flies—
The ox that turns up his great face to the skies
When the thunder is coming.

Where are we living?
In passion, and pain, and remorse do we dwell,
Creating, yet terribly hating, our hell!
No triumph achieving!
No grossness refining!
The wild tree does more; for his coat of rough bark
He trims with green mosses, and checks with with the mark
Of the long Summer shining.

We're dying, not living:
Our senses shut up, and our hearts faint and cold;
Upholding old things just because they are old
Our good spirits grieving,
We suffer our springs
Of promise to pass without sowing the land,
And hungry and sad in the harvest-time stand,
Expecting good things!

—Alice Cary.

A TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

Dora Carmichael was an extremely pretty girl, whom to see was to admire and perhaps to love, in most men's opinion. Women did not take precisely this view of her merits; but then, as we all know, women are notoriously jealous. Still, even a very pretty girl may be considered as abusing her privileges if she she engages herself to more than two men at once. Now, this was precisely what Miss Carmichael had done, and was not a little perplexed by the consequences of her rashness. Not only had she, unknown to and in disobedience of her people, kept on her engagement with Bertie Haselrig, of the artillery, but to please her parents and also her own ambition, she had consented a month or two since to accept Mr. Lorimer, son and heir to old Sir James Lorimer. And now, to crown all, a fortnight ago, at the Marsdens' ball, Lord Liscarrol had proposed, and she had not been able to refuse him.

Concerning Captain Haselrig she had little anxiety, as he had gone to India on being forbidden the house by Mr. Carmichael, who considered the handsome, impecunious soldier by no means an eligible match for his only daughter and heiress. But it had taxed even her ingenuity to keep Mr. Lorimer and Lord Liscarrol ignorant of each other's claims on her. Lorimer certainly did not suspect the existance of a rival; but Liscarrol had more than once resented the airs of proprietorship assumed by the former, and had pressed Miss Carmicheal to allow him at once to apply to her father. This was horribly perplexing. Mr. Carmichael was a wealthy, self-made man, whose fortune had sprung, as he was only too fond of boasting, from the traditional fourpenny-bit. He possessed ultra-radical opinions; but in his heart was as fond of a lord as most people, and Dora well knew would have been as delighted at her latest conquest as she herself could have been. Still, she felt convinced that his word once pledged, he would not let her throw over Charles Lorimer, even for such a party as Lord Liscarrol. So she told her lover a doleful story of stern parents, an unsympathetic suitor, and an oppressed daughter divided between duty and dislike to the match proposed.

"But are you engaged to that cub Lorimer?" asked Liscarrol impatiently.

"No! O no! certainly not engaged; but it is very possible I might have become so to please dear papa, had I not met you." This, said with the sweetest timidity and a bashful look, had the full effect intended.

"But now, Dora?"

"Well, now I must make the poor fellow understand it is impossible—give him his conge, in fact, so decidedly that even self-satisfied that he is, he can make no mistake, and then coax papa as best I can."

Still Liscarrol insisted.

"But, don't you see, Lord Liscarrol—well, Arthur, then—that if you go to papa directly I have sent off Mr. Lorimer, he will suspect what has occurred, and would not hesitate to treat you in the same way? For do what I will, I cannot help his considering me engaged to that horrid man."

"Well, when will you give Lorimer his conge?"

"To-morrow morning. He is coming about some botanical tickets, and I will speak to him then."

"Very well, dearest; and I may look in to hear the result, may I not?"

And so it was settled. Still, it must be confessed, the situation was a troublesome one, and sitting in the library the next day, Dora thought over her plans rather anxiously.

Mrs. Carmichael was, or fancied herself, an invalid, and rarely showed before lunch (and not always then, though ready enough for her "social duties" later in the day), so her daughter was at full liberty to arrange matters as she pleased. Accordingly she told the butler that if Mr. Lorimer called, he was at once to be shown into her in the library, and if Lord Liscarrol should call in the meantime, he was to be told that she would soon be disengaged, and be requested to await her in the drawing room. So far so good.

But a ring at the door-bell startled her from her reverie, and she waited expecting to see Lorimer ushered in. Instead of that the visitor was ushered up stairs, and the butler announced "Captain Haselrig." The blow almost staggered her, but pulling herself together, she went into the drawing-room, and the next moment was clasped in Haselrig's arms. A few words sufficed to explain his presence. The death of an old uncle, his godfather, had made him master of a rather valuable property, and on the strength of this improvement in his position the young man had at once rushed back from India, and, as he fondly hoped, successfully to plead his suit. Whatever heart she possessed—it was little enough—belonged to Haselrig, and she had felt genuine sorrow when her father so entirely declined his proposals, for a moment she wondered if after all Haselrig's love might not be worth a sacrifice. Of Lorimer she did not think for one second, but she did remember Liscarrol, and this dampened her ardor. Haselrig was handsome and fairly rich now, but so was Lord Liscarrol, and if her love for him was not so great as for Haselrig, she adored his coronet. So the old story was once more related, and by its means she induced Captain Haselrig to forego his purpose of seeing her father until she herself should give him leave to speak; and at last, to her great relief, she sent him off, if not satisfied, yet certainly more in love than ever.

During her conversation with Captain Haselrig, Dora's sharp ears had caught the sound of the door bell, so she was fully prepared to hear that Mr. Lorimer was in the library, and went to him at once. But what she did not know, and in her hurry would not give the butler time to tell her, was that Lord Liscarrol had also arrived, and was at the moment in the morning room. Now Lord Liscarrol was not a particularly impatient man, but he had ample time to get extremely tired of waiting, and having exhausted the paper, was beguiling his leisure by staring out of the window, when he caught sight of Haselrig leaving the house.

"By Jove! there's Haselrig!" he ejaculated. "Why, I thought he was in India! I must hunt the dear old fellow up. How well he's looking, too! Hullo! what's up now, I wonder? Voices loud, not to say angry, could be heard in the next room. "Hump! Lorimer getting his conge, I suppose. Seems to be catching it hot, too, poor beggar. After all, serves him right. Why should he try to force the girl to marry him, when any one else could see with half an eye she doesn't care a rap for him? O! But I say," he muttered, "I can't stop here; I shall be hearing what they say next minute."

Leaving a message that an appointment unfortunately prevented his waiting any longer just then, but he hoped for the pleasure of seeing Miss Carmichael later in the day, Lord Liscarrol left the house.

Ten minutes later, stopping to look at a jeweler's window, a gentleman on leaving the shop brushed past him. It was Haselrig.

"Hullo! Haselrig," old fellow, how came you to be in town?"

"Why, Liscarrol, is that you?"

The two young men shook hands vigorously.

"Which way are you going? To the club? That's right, so am I; come along," and the unconscious rivals walked slowly side by side down Pall Mall. Haselrig told of his accession of fortune; then added, with a conscious laugh:

"Fact is, I'm tired of single blessedness, and am going to try matrimony for a change."

"Congratulate you most heartily, my dear fellow." Lord Liscarrol's own happiness rendered him very sympathetic. "Do I know the lady?"

"I dare say you do; for she goes out a lot, and though her people are not exactly all one could wish, Dora herself is a darling!"

"O, called Dora, is she?" quoth his friend, amused at the coincidence. "Pretty name, Dora, my favorite, I think. Have you known her long, or is it a recent affair?"

"I've known her two or three years, but money stood in the way at the time, so I went to India to wait for better days. But when my uncle left me Cleveleigh, I came back sharp. Her people don't know yet, for her father wants her to marry a man called Lorimer."

"Called what?" exclaimed Lord Liscarrol.

"Lorimer. Do you know him?"

"Know him!" echoed the other! "To be sure I do; a west countryman."

"Yes, that's the fellow. An awful cub, I believe; but lots of money, and no end of a place in the west; so old Carmichael—"

"Here I say, hold on a bit, I'm getting mixed! What's the young lady's name? Surely not Dora Carmichael?"

"To be sure it is. Do you know her, then?"

"I should think so! But look here, are you sure there's no mistake?"

"I say Liscarrol, it's rather early in the day to be like this!" remarked Haselrig, astonished at his companion's excitement. "Hang it man, a joke's a joke, but to be like this at this time of day is rather—"

"No I'm not drunk, Haselrig, nor mad either, though you are enough to drive me so! What do you mean about Miss Carmichael?"

"Why, she's the girl I'm engaged to, to be sure! See, here's her likeness;" and so saying he rapidly unfastened a locket from his watch, and held it out, open, to his companion.

There was no mistake, it decidedly was Dora Carmichael's likeness. By this time, luckily for both, they had reached their club, and they turned into the waiting-room, which at that time of the day was vacant.

"Yes, it is Dora, certainly," said Lord Liscarrol, slowly. "Confound her!"

"Lord Liscarrol!"

"Oh, don't go into heroics, man! Look here;" and in a moment he produced a dainty embroidered letter-case from his breast pocket, and taking out a photograph and several letters, flung them down before the astonished soldier.

"Look at that! Read those!"

Haselrig picked them up gingerly. One look was enough. The photograph he knew only too well, he had the duplicate of it; and if the letters at this moment lying on his breast were not exactly the same, the signature: "Your own loving Dora," was indentical in both.

"But what does it mean?" he asked, stupefied.

"Mean!" laughed Liscarrol, bitterly; "lies, to be sure! How long have you been engaged, Haselrig?"

"Since before I went to India."

"And I since Easter;" and the two men stood looking blankly at each other.

That afternoon, having received the message Lord Liscarrol left with the butler, Miss Carmichael waited impatiently for the young man. About five o'clock a small parcel, brought by a commissionaire, was given to her, and on opening it there dropped out a locket, two packets of letters and several photographs, together with a slip of paper, on which was written:

"Returned with thanks.—Liscarrol, Bertie Haselrig."

There was no mistaking the signatures.

She had had a stormy scene with Lorimer, who had entirely refused to take his conge quietly, and had forced her to listen to some uncommonly plain speaking before leaving, and she was thoroughly tired out. When her maid, hearing a heavy fall, rushed into the room she found her mistress on the floor insensible. Luckily for Miss Carmichael, it was sufficiently near the end of the season to make her sudden departure from town less of a nine days' wonder than might otherwise have been the case.

Long before she resumed her place in London society, Captain Haselrig had returned to India, and Lord Liscarrol had found a wife both richer and prettier than Cora Carmichael.—London World.

A Sugar Estate, Island of Jamaica.

The estates to-day says a correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser, are conducted by a manager, who "out of crop" looks after the cultivation of the cane, and makes preparation for the coming crop. He has under him from one to six bookkeepers, according to the size of the estate. The name "bookkeeper" is virtually a misnomer. He certainly has to keep a few lists, and to enter them up in the estate's books weekly, but his principal work is to be out constantly, looking after the laborers, checking all the hands, and seeing that the work is done. In crop time the "field bookkeepers" for the crop continue the same duties; but one bookkeeper is made "distiller," and placed in charge of the "still-house," while another takes charge of the "boiling-house," and his duty is to prevent theft as much as possible. The sugar-cane juice is brought here by gutters from the mill, boiled to sugar in shallow copper pans, and run into "coolers" to solidify and crystalize. Thence the sugar is carried into hogsheads, and is sent to the wharf for shipment or island consumption, as the case may be. The bookkeeper has to be very "smart" who can prevent stealing; in fact, it is an impossibility. A manager had missed a large quantity of sugar from some open hogsheads in the "curing house." He said nothing, but set several rat-traps, and placing them on the tops of the hogsheads, covered them carefully with loose sugar. Towards evening a loud wail was heard in the curing house, and those who hastened there beheld the "headman"—the major domo of the estate—in a grievous state. Inside his hand was as much sugar as it could grasp, and outside his hand was a rat-trap. Amidst yells and laughter they formed a procession, and lead him up with dancing, whistling and beating of tambourines to the "busha-house," where the next half hour was not a jubilant one for himself. The following day he vanished, and he was never seen again in that part of the country.

How to Modify the Climate.

The Popular Science Monthly says: "Mr. John C. Goodridge, Jr., has suggested a project for modifying the climate of the Atlantic coast by closing the Strait of Belle Isle, and advances the theory that this scheme is feasible as a problem in physical geography capable of an engineering solution. He argues that it is shown by charts that the great body of the 'cold wall' comes to us through the strait. Newfoundland deflects the remainder of the Arctic current to the southeast. Here, pressing against the Gulf Stream, it veers southward in the form of a loop, and finally, running under it, goes on toward the equator. That part of the Gulf Stream that passes our shores has a course directly north and a little west, is deflected slightly toward the east by the coasts of South and North Carolina, and thence turns more to the north again, when it is deflected by the cold current returning from the pole. When this cold current is of least strength, as in August and September, the Gulf Stream comes within ten miles of Barnegat; at other times it is distant one hundred and twenty miles, changing with the amount of the cold current and the wind. If we had not the cold wall between our shores and the Gulf Stream, it is fair to presume that we should have a less stormy coast, as the juxtaposition of these two currents with their difference in temperature must from that circumstance tend to an unstable condition of atmospheric equilibrium. Our cold northwinds would then sweep to the north of us and become westerly and southwesterly winds."

The Gems of the Twelve Months.

In Poland the people have a singular superstition that each month has a particular gem associated with it, which governs and influences the destiny of the person born in that month.

Thus, January has a jacinth, or garnet, which denotes constancy and fidelity in every engagement. February—Amethyst, insuring peace of mind. March—A bloodstone, denoting courage and secrecy in dangerous enterprises. April—Sapphire or diamond, signifying repentance and innocence. May—The green emerald, typical of love. June—An agate, meaning long life and health. July—Ruby or cornelian, which insures the forgetfulness or cure of evils springing from friendship or love. August—Sardonyx, a happy married life. September—Chrysolite, which preserves from folly. October—Aquamarine or opal, which denotes both misfortune and hope. November—The Topaz, bringing the owner fidelity and friendship. December—Turquoise or malachite, signifying the most brilliant success and happiness.—American Agriculturist.

A Few Queries.

Tell us what kept Ben. Perley Poore!
For we have asked in vain.
Did tight shoes make the Indian corn!
Why did Robert Treat Paine!
—Lynn Bee.

And in what hand does Carroll Wright!
And where does Cabot Lodge!
What Lion did Alanson Beard!
What foe did Abigail Dodge!
—Cape Ann Breeze.

Who scrubs and irons all Carl Schurz!
With whom does now George Francis Train!
Can any one approach Bill Nye!
What "copy" man would dare Mark Twain!
—Charlestown Enterprise.

NIGHT.

I stand where the moon's pale silver
Lies dreaming on the sea,
Across the waves in trembling lines
Of glittering filigree,
And where from heaven's far-off heights
The stars look down on me.

The dense black folds of sleeping waves,
With slumberous, lengthened swells,
The crescent curve of murmuring sands
Dotted with gleaming shells,
And floating past in hollow tones
A ghostly sound of bells.

Far out a dusky vessel swings,
At anchor safe she rides,
And swaying chains clank mournfully
Against her shadowy sides.
Secure in Ocean's arms she rests,
Rocked by the pulsing tides.

The moon goes slowly up the height
Above the milky way—
Pale Dian of the silver bow,
Who searches for the day;
Up, up through dusky midnight leagues,
Past flying cloud-shapes gray.

And overhead Orion waits
To usher in the dawn,
When sheer a-down the sable steep
The lingering stars have gone;
And still, like silent soldiery,
The waves march on and on.

Oh, night, as thou art beautiful,
Oh, night, as thou art grand,
Speak to my soul in whispers here
Beside this quiet strand;
What means thy solemn mystery
That broods o'er sea and land!

—Ernest McGaffey.

PITH AND POINT.

Out of season—an empty pepper box.

To make a Roman punch, call him a liar.—Winnipeg Siftings.

All men try to get the earth, but the earth gets them. This is not a joke; it is the grave truth.—Washington Critic.

Old lady—"How often does this elevator come down?" Elevator boy—"Between the up-trips, ma'am.—Tid-Bits.

A man who hunts rats may be called a ratter, but a woman who hunts moths is not necessarily a mother.—Springfield Union.

In the matter of speed there is a great similarity between a flash of lightning and a bit of unfounded gossip.—St. Albans Messenger.

A lawyer may not be at all fastidious in dressing, but no one likes to come out in a new suit any better than he does.—Merchant Traveler.

Tired Reporter—"Mr. Shears, the man you sent me to interview got mad." Able Editor—"He did?" "And choked me." "Ye powers!" "And kicked me down stairs." "The low-living scoundrel! Spell his name wrong."—Omaha World.

Sick Husband—"Did the doctor say that I am to take all that medicine?" Wife—"Yes, dear." Sick Husband—"Why, there is enough in that bottle to kill a mule." Wife (anxiously)—"You had better be careful, John."—Boston Herald.

"What makes Mr. Pottleton so unpopular, I wonder? He's a good looking young man and quite inteligent." "Yes but he writes poetry." "Well that isn't a crime against society, is it?" "No. But he insists on reading it to you, too."—Town Topics.

There is a man in our town, and he is wondrous wise,
Whenever he writes the printer-man he dotteth all his i's;
And when he's dotted all of them with great sang froid and ease,
He punctuates each paragraph, and crosses all his t's.
Upon one side alone he writes, and never rolls his leaves;
And from the man of ink a smile, and mark "insert" receives.
And when a question he doth ask (taught wisely he has been,)
He doth the goodly two-cent stamp, for postage back, put in.
St. Joseph Herald.

The Universal Language.

Volapuk is the invention of the Rev. Father Johann Martin Schleyer, of Constance, Baden, Germany. He is an accomplished linguist, having for forty-six years been interested in the study of language. He can speak and write twenty-eight tongues, including the Chinese and three African languages, and is also eminent as a priest, hymnologist and religious editor. He invented his universal language in 1878, announced it in 1879, and had so far perfected it in 1881 as to publish in that year a small book, entitled: "Entwurf einer Weltsprache fur alle gebildte Erdbewohner" ("Plan of a Universal Language for all the Civilized Inhabitants of the Earth"). Thus the name, Volapuk, vola, meaning of the world, and puk, language. The Volapuk grammar can be learned in an hour, and, as the variations of the nouns and verbs are indicated by the vowels taken in their regular order, they are not easily forgotten. The principal labor necessary to acquire the language consists, therefore, in memorizing the vocabulary. On the continent it has gained in popularity very rapidly during the last two or three years, so that there are now at least 10,000 persons who are familiar with and use it. There are eight monthly periodicals printed wholly in Volapuk or partly in Volapuk and partly in other languages.—American Magazine.

Murderous Millinery.

A lady told me the other day a painful little incident relating to wearing birds on your bonnets and hats. I will try to give her own words. She said:

"One day our pastor said (during service) that when he was in Florence a lady came to him and said: 'Do come with me and hear those birds sing, oh! such mournful notes!' There was a room full of birds in very small cages, and these birds were all blind; they had their eyes put out. In the night the owners take them outside the city and hang the cages in trees. The trees are then all smeared with tar. These birds keep up their pitiful singing, and other birds are attracted to the cages and are stuck on the tar, and then they are caught and their eyes put out. And these birds are killed and sent to America for ladies to wear on their bonnets.

"And I looked around the congregation to see what ladies had birds on their bonnets, and I was glad there was none on mine, and I don't think I can ever wear a bird again."—Wide Awake.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 14, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - -	$1.50
One copy six months - - -	75
One copy four " - - -	50

The surviving members of the Jeff. Davis Artillery will have their annual meeting at the St. James Hotel, Selma, Ala., on the 27th inst.

Gov. Seay has appointed Capt. R. F. Kolb, of Barbour, Commissioner of Agriculture to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Hon. E. C. Betts.

The young man who knows how to lay off corn and potato rows, and to regulate the distance of the same so as to get the crops, is worth a cowpen full of nice, kid gloved, fancy overcoated fellows who know how to lead a fashion waltz. Setting the plow just right and adjusting the gears so that backs and shoulders of horses will never hurt, are a thousand fold more useful to the country than knowing how to pose in a parlor. Yes, and the girl that can bake a loaf of bread and make a sweet roll of butter, is worth a whole seminary of those soft hand angels who sit in the "pahlah" and let her "ma" do the house work.—[Ex.

The Tariff and Labor Advocate, published at Calera, claims to be the organ of the laboring classes generally if not of the Knights of Labor particularly. As its name implies, it advocates a protective tariff. The Alabama Sentinel, published in Birmingham, is published as the State organ of the Knights of Labor in particular and the laboring masses in general. It opposes a protective tariff and applauds the impracticable theories of Senator Morgan on this subject. So it seems that our working masses with two journals laboring in diametrically opposite directions on such an important question as the tariff, are prepared to be as accommodating as a national Democratic platform generally is on this question.

A Pathetic Story.

There have been many newspaper failures in the country. A mammoth failure in this line was that of the Cincinnati News-Journal, which was avowedly established for the purpose of breaking into the Enquirer monopoly. But there is even a sadder story.

Towards the end of 1871 sundry citizens of New Orleans came to the conclusion that the newspapers then existing in that city were not being run to suit them, and that the way to have one to suit them was to get possession of one and run it themselves. Accordingly two hundred and forty of them organized themselves into a corporation styled "The New Orleans Printing and Publishing Company," and on January 30th 1872, purchased from A. M. Holbrook the New Orleans Picayune newspaper together with its presses, machinery, good will, and every thing appertaining thereto. The sum paid was $100,000, and in addition to this they raised a great deal more than they thought would be required to "run" the paper for several years.

The new company comprised many of the principal bankers, merchants, and professional men of New Orleans. Among its directors were Albert Baldwin, President of the New Orleans National Bank; J. C. Morris, President of the Cana Bank; John Phelps and W. C. Black, leading cotton factors; R. B. Forman, C. B. Singleton and J. D. Hill, leading lawyers; Dr. E. Warren Brickell, a leading physician and the stockholders included over two hundred other citizens of good standing. Their view was that they combined so much mercantile patronage and social influence that they could not possibly fail to succeed in crushing out opposition.

Just as in Cincinnati the end was soon reached. The stockholders who had started off in high spirits on what they supposed to be a triumphal career, soon fell into innocuous desuetude in the matter of paying assessments, and the attempt to run a newspaper by town meeting collapsed. On January 30th, 1872, as we have said, the Picayune property was purchased by the stock company for the round sum of $100,000. On December 16th, 1873, less than two years afterwards, the sheriff sold the same property at public auction for $20,000 on twelve months' credit.

As a matter of fact, the only cash outlay made by the purchasers was less than $500 to cover sheriff's fees, cost and advertising, etc. They never paid the $20,000, and the whole original investment with costs of running, etc., vanished into thin air. Yet the stockholders were happy at unloading upon some one, ever though they didn't get back a cent of their enormous losses. They were confident and jubilant when they went in, but they were a good deal happier when they got safely out.

For several years after the event recorded in this pathetic tale, the stockholds of "The New Orleans Printing and Publishing Company" kept good-sized clubs within easy reach. Their answer to further proposals to go into the newspaper business were made with those clubs.

Capt. John M. Martin, a very able and conscientious gentleman and a member of the 49th Congress from the 6th Alabama district, was selected as Fourth of July orator by the Knights of Labor at Birmingham. Mr. Martin is not a knight. He takes some advanced views of the order as will be noted by perusing the following extract from his speech:

Let us inquire: "What do you seek to accomplish? You declare that all measures which advance the interests of wage-worker morally, socially or financially, come within the scope of your order. That industrial and moral worth, not wealth, should be the true standard of individual and national greatness. Time for the cultivation of the higher faculties you claim, that you may share in the gains and honors of advancing civilization. You demand greater facilities from the Government for a knowledge of the educational, moral and financial condition of the laboring classes. The reservation of public lands you ask for actual settlers, and the abrogation of laws discriminating in favor of capital and against labor. You call for the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining and manufacturing; and the enactment of laws providing for arbitration between employers and employes. Besides many other things with which you are familiar, and which need not now be repeated.

It may be confidently declared, that no institution with higher aim has yet been conceived; and the principles, which I have referred to are well suited to reach it. In union there is strength, and you have it; and in the multitude of counsel there is wisdom; and it remains to be seen in the near future if this organization shall realize your hopes. For my own part, I have never predicted that evil would come out of your order. I do not believe that you propose to cut yourselves off from other men, in the sense of becoming a foreign, disturbing element in society. I have expected you to become, as it were, a gulf stream in society—distinct it is true, wherever found; yet always bearing a genial warmth of good and not of evil, in its bosom. Men who are banded together for a noble purpose, may possibly become instruments of evil; and even the mistakes of the best intentioned men oftimes bring great sorrows upon others. But, in your case, I believe the results will more than compensate for every evil inflicted or endured; and although your order has proposed to itself the gravest and most delicate of duties—going so far as to undertake to educate its members in the right use of the ballot—there can be no long continued evil arising from the abuse of such an opportunity for good—for neither sectional party, nor class legislation, can exist and triumph for any great time. I look to your organization for the happiest results.

Extracts From Rev. Sam Jones.

Rev. Sam Jones spoke in Chattanooga a few days ago. We give below some extracts from his speech:

A man can beat his wife just as well on high license as on low license liquor.

There are not enough men on earth nor devils in hell to hush me when I feel I am right.

I want somebody to tell me how I'm to make the fur fly if there ain't someboby furnishing the fur.

I am a prohibitionist, concentrated, consolidated, stand up to be knocked down for time and eternity.

Prohibition is a plea for purer lands, for our heart broken women and destitute orphans; it is a plea of God and our native land.

A man that will preach one way and vote the other, is either a hypocrite or a fool. I'd rather be hypocrite than a fool, because you can straighten out a hypocrite and you can't a fool.

I want to tell you folks that if you don't pass this prohibition amendment, and quit pouring your damnable whiskey into Atlanta, Atlanta is going to pour its damnable whiskey business into Chattanooga.

